How to Use This Bible

Thank you for purchasing the HarperCollins Christian Publishing eBook version from Thomas Nelson and Zondervan's excellent line of Bible translations that exist to serve Christians who not only recognize the Bible's importance, but who also want a Bible to treasure in their lifelong pursuit of the knowledge of God's revelation of Himself.

There are a multitude of Bibles available to engage children, youth, men, and women with the Word of God, including text only, daily, devotional, reference, and comprehensive study.

What is the difference between an eBook and a print book?

eBook versions of various Bibles contain all of the content and supplementary materials found in the original print versions and are optimized for navigation in the various apps and devices used for display. eReaders recognize text as one fluid string and are formatted in a single column. eReaders currently do not support the more complex layout seen in print version books. Therefore, some content may not appear in the same place as in the original print version, but it is structured consistently and uses hyperlinks to navigate between related content.

How do I use the eBook Table of Contents?

Important Note: Be sure to consult your device manufacturer's User's Guide for device-specific navigation instructions.

The Table of Contents is the primary navigation anchor to quickly access various parts of the Bible and is generally formatted in the same order as the original print version and hyperlinked as follows:

- Front matter—Introductory articles
- Old Testament
- New Testament
- Bible books
- Bible chapters
- Back matter—Supplementary materials

Old Testament and New Testament hyperlinks quickly access individual Bible books and chapters in each testament.

- Book links go directly to the Introduction.
- Chapter links go directly to the beginning of the chapter associated with a book.
- Every Bible book and chapter hyperlink returns or goes back to the Table of Contents.
- Every entry is hyperlinked directly to the content-specific location in the main text.
- Use the device's "back" button or function to go back to the last selection.

How do I navigate to Bible Books, Chapters, and Verses?

Use the Table of Contents to navigate to specific Bible verses using one of the 2 methods below: Method 1

- Navigate to and select a specific book of the Bible from the Table of Contents.
- Select a chapter number hyperlink.
- Use the device's "Next Page/Previous Page" buttons or functions to scroll through the verses.
- Use the device's "back" button or function to go back to the last selection.

Method 2

- Select either the Old Testament or New Testament hyperlink in the Table of Contents.
- Use the device's "Next Page/Previous Page" buttons or functions to scroll through the Bible books.
- Select a chapter number hyperlink.
- Use the device's "Next Page/Previous Page" buttons or functions to scroll through the verses.
- Use the device's "back" button or function to go back to the last selection.

How do I navigate Supplementary Materials?

The eBook version of the NKJV Study Bible includes introductory articles, the complete Old and New Testament text, study notes (commentary), cross references, translator's notes, Articles, Bible Times and Culture Notes, Word Studies, Charts and Diagrams, In-Text Maps, supplementary materials, A-Z

Concordance, and a Color Map Set. Hyperlinks to the materials appear in the Table of Contents as well as the main Bible text.

Introductory articles (lists) are hyperlinked directly to the content-specific location in the main text.

- Select the hyperlinked entry in the article or list to go to its location in the main text.
- Select the hyperlinked entry in the main text to go back to the article or list in the Table of Contents or use the device's "back" button or function to go back to the last selection.

Study Notes (commentary) are hyperlinked to Bible verse numbers where study notes are available in the main Bible text. Some notes cover a range of verses while others are verse specific. All verses do not have notes associated with them.

- Select a hyperlinked Bible verse number to the corresponding study note (commentary).
- Select a hyperlinked verse number to the left of the study note (commentary) and you are returned to the main Bible text, or use the device's "back" button or function to go back to the last selection.

Cross References are marked with small, hyperlinked letters "a" to point out verses that will explain the referenced verse, word or phrase.

- Select the hyperlinked letter in the main Bible text to the corresponding cross reference(s).
- Select the hyperlinked letter to the left of the cross reference(s) and you are returned to the main Bible text, or use the device's "back" button or function to go back to the last selection.

Footnotes (Translators' Notes) are marked with small, hyperlinked numbers "1" to point out verses that will explain the referenced verse, word or phrase.

- Select the hyperlinked number in the main Bible text to the corresponding footnote(s).
- Select the hyperlinked number to the left of the footnote(s) and you are returned to the main Bible text or use the device's "back" button or function to go back to the last selection.

Articles provide extensive coverage of key doctrinal topics.

- Select the hyperlinked entry that begins with the word “Article” at the end of a verse to go to its location following the last chapter of each Bible book.
- Select the hyperlinked article title entry to go back to the Bible verse location, or use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.
- Articles can also be accessed from the “List of Articles.”

Bible Times and Culture Notes focus on various features of life in Biblical times.

- Select the hyperlinked entry that begins with the phrase “Bible Times and Culture Note” at the end of a verse to go to its location following the last chapter of each Bible book.
- Select the hyperlinked title entry in the article to go back to the Bible verse location, or use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.
- These can also be accessed from the “List of Bible Times and Culture Notes.”

Word Studies discuss the meaning of key Hebrew and Greek words with regard to the context in which they are used.

- Select the hyperlinked entry that begins with the phrase “Word Study” at the end of a verse to go to its location following the last chapter of each Bible book.
- Select the hyperlinked title entry in the article to go back to the Bible verse location, or use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.
- Word Studies can also be accessed from the “List of Word Studies.”

Charts and Diagrams present information about the Bible in visual form.

- Select the hyperlinked entry that begins with the phrase “Charts and Diagram” at the end of a verse to go to its location following the last chapter of each Bible book.
- Select the hyperlinked title entry in the article to go back to the Bible verse location, or use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.

- Note: Some charts have been converted into text format for clearer display in ebook format.

In-text Maps

- In-text maps are included as images.
- Select the hyperlinked entry marked “In-Text Maps” at the end of a verse to go to its location following the last chapter of each Bible book.
- Select the hyperlinked map title to go back to the Bible verse location or use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.

Appendices with Supplementary Articles, Lists, and Indexes are features that supplement the Bible text and are hyperlinked directly to the content-specific location following the main Bible text.

- Select the hyperlinked entry in the Table of Contents to the specific article, list, or index.
- Select the Bible reference or article hyperlink to the corresponding main Bible text or article.
- Use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.

Concordance includes an alphabetic list of important words.

- Select the hyperlinked letter of the alphabet to the corresponding list of entries from the Table of Contents.
- Use the device’s “Next Page/Previous Page” buttons or functions to scroll through the entries.
- Select the Bible reference hyperlink to the corresponding main Bible text or use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.

Color Maps are included as images and optimized for eReader device display.

- Select the hyperlinked entry in the Table of Contents to a specific map.
- The first image displays the entire map with 4 equal sections defined.
- Use the device’s “Next Page/Previous Page” buttons or functions to scroll through larger versions of each individual section.
- Use the device’s “back” button or function to go back to the last selection.

Foreword

Welcome to the second edition of The NKJV Study Bible, now in a full-color edition with photos and revised maps and diagrams. Years in the making, this publication combines a thorough exposition of the Bible with an accessible and spiritually sensitive style that makes it the best available all-purpose Bible study resource between two covers. To get the greatest benefit from your The NKJV Study Bible, please take a moment to acquaint yourself with the many helpful features contained in its pages.

New King James Version. This study Bible is based on an outstanding translation for study purposes, the NKJV. The paragraph-style text, now in an attractive new typesetting, includes in-text subheadings with parallel passage references. The complete NKJV translators' footnotes are included.

Cross-References. In addition to the references under many of the text subheadings, an extensive set of cross-references is included in this Bible. These references are greatly expanded from those contained in the first edition and include helpful translation notes. Cross-references that are enclosed in square brackets identify passages similar in concept to the referenced passage in the text. The references and notes are indicated in the text by raised letters and numbers.

Prophetic Stars. Many cross-references include stars that designate messianic prophecies. An open star refers to a prediction, while a solid star points out a fulfillment of a prophecy related to the coming of the Messiah, the Lord Jesus Christ.

Annotations. The basic feature of this study Bible is its annotations. There are over 15,000 of them, providing a warm yet scholarly exposition of the biblical text. The annotations offer helpful explanations, theological insights, and suggestions for other places to direct your study. The style of the annotations is meant to heighten clarity through effective communication, using direct, natural language.

Book Introductions and Outlines. Each book of the Bible begins with an introduction that offers helpful information concerning the background of the book, including authorship and other circumstances surrounding the book's composition, and information concerning the teaching about Christ in each book. A detailed outline lists the key features and shows the structure of the book.

Time Lines. Most book introductions are accompanied by a time line showing the estimated dates of key occurrences before, during, and after the period of the book. The time line helps you to establish the book's historical context and its place in the unfolding of biblical events.

Articles. Over 100 long-format articles provide even more extensive coverage of key doctrinal topics than would be possible in an annotation. The articles enable closer study of important Christian doctrines and are useful as discussion starters. (A contents list in the front section gives hyperlinks for all articles. These articles have been expanded from the first edition.)

Bible Times and Culture Notes. Included in the text are 150 notes focusing on various features of Bible times and culture, including such topics as Tents, Farming, Rainfall Patterns, Correspondence in Bible Times, and more. (A contents list in the front section gives hyperlinks for all Bible Times and Culture Notes.)

Charts and Diagrams. Sometimes the best way to present information is in the form of a chart or diagram. More than 80 charts are distributed throughout the Bible, making such information available quickly and attractively. (See contents list.)

Word Studies. To provide access to important terms from the original biblical languages, we have included 350 word studies (and their corresponding Strong's numbers). Key Hebrew and Greek words are discussed with regard to the context in which they are used, and their meaning and biblical usage are explained. These studies have been revised from the first edition to make them even more useful and pertinent. (See contents list.)

In-Text Maps. Geographical understanding is aided by 69 strategically placed full-color maps. Journeys and regional activities are shown with clarity and cartographical accuracy, in proximity to the passages that mention them. (See contents list.)

General Maps. For general use we have also included full-color Bible maps and a map index in the back of the Bible. When used in conjunction with the in-text maps, the general maps maximize your familiarity with the locations of the places named in Scripture.

How to Understand What the Bible Means by What It Says. A helpful how-to article in the front section furnishes a methodology for Bible study. This article will prove useful to you time and again as you explore the word of God.

Teachings and Illustrations of Christ. This topical chart of Jesus' teachings and illustrations supplies references for easy location in the Gospels.

Prophecies of the Messiah Fulfilled in Jesus Christ. This easy-to-use chart quotes the Old Testament prophecy and the New Testament fulfillment. A center column offers a key reference point.

The Parables of Jesus Christ. This chart provides a complete list of Jesus' parables and their Bible references in the Synoptic Gospels.

The Miracles of Jesus Christ. This chart presents a list of Jesus' miracles and their Bible references in all four Gospels.

Prayers of the Bible. This chart is organized alphabetically by the name of the person or group praying, the focus of the prayer, and the location of that prayer in Scripture.

Subject Index to Annotations and Features. This is a thorough alphabetical subject index that details the contents of the features that supplement the biblical text.

Concordance. The subject index is followed by an extensive concordance, the biggest one Nelson has ever published in the back of an NKJV Bible. It lists all of the important words, phrases, and proper names in the text of the NKJV.

The features described above combine to provide an unparalleled opportunity for Bible study. Our prayer is that you will be blessed and encouraged as you grow in your knowledge of God's Word through your use of The NKJV Study Bible.

Preface to the New King James Version

Purpose

In the preface to the 1611 edition, the translators of the Authorized Version, known popularly as the King James Bible, state that it was not their purpose “to make a new translation . . . but to make a good one better.” Indebted to the earlier work of William Tyndale and others, they saw their best contribution to consist in revising and enhancing the excellence of the English versions which had sprung from the Reformation of the sixteenth century. In harmony with the purpose of the King James scholars, the translators and editors of the present work have not pursued a goal of innovation. They have perceived the Holy Bible, New King James Version, as a continuation of the labors of the earlier translators, thus unlocking for today’s readers the spiritual treasures found especially in the Authorized Version of the Holy Scriptures.

A Living Legacy

For nearly four hundred years, and throughout several revisions of its English form, the King James Bible has been deeply revered among the English-speaking peoples of the world. The precision of translation for which it is historically renowned, and its majesty of style, have enabled that monumental version of the word of God to become the mainspring of the religion, language, and legal foundations of our civilization.

Although the Elizabethan period and our own era share in zeal for technical advance, the former period was more aggressively devoted to classical learning. Along with this awakened concern for the classics came a flourishing companion interest in the Scriptures, an interest that was enlivened by the conviction that the manuscripts were providentially handed down and were a trustworthy record of the inspired Word of God. The King James translators were committed to producing an English Bible that would be a precise translation, and by no means a paraphrase or a broadly approximate rendering. On the one hand, the scholars were almost as familiar with the original languages of the Bible as with their native English. On the other hand, their reverence for the divine Author and His Word assured a translation of the Scriptures in which only a principle of utmost accuracy could be accepted.

In 1786 Catholic scholar Alexander Geddes said of the King James Bible, "If accuracy and strictest attention to the letter of the text be supposed to constitute an excellent version, this is of all versions the most excellent." George Bernard Shaw became a literary legend in the twentieth century because of his severe and often humorous criticisms of our most cherished values. Surprisingly, however, Shaw pays the following tribute to the scholars commissioned by King James: "The translation was extraordinarily well done because to the translators what they were translating was not merely a curious collection of ancient books written by different authors in different stages of culture, but the Word of God divinely revealed through His chosen and expressly inspired scribes. In this conviction they carried out their work with boundless reverence and care and achieved a beautifully artistic result." History agrees with these estimates. Therefore, while seeking to unveil the excellent form of the traditional English Bible, special care has also been taken in the present edition to preserve the work of precision which is the legacy of the 1611 translators.

Complete Equivalence in Translation

Where new translation has been necessary in the New King James Version, the most complete representation of the original has been rendered by considering the history of usage and etymology of words in their contexts. This principle of complete equivalence seeks to preserve all of the information in the text, while presenting it in good literary form. Dynamic equivalence, a recent procedure in Bible translation, commonly results in paraphrasing where a more literal rendering is needed to reflect a specific and vital sense. For example, complete equivalence truly renders the original text in expressions such as “lifted her voice and wept” (Gen. 21:16); “I gave you cleanness of teeth” (Amos 4:6); “Jesus met them, saying, ‘Rejoice!’” (Matt. 28:9); and “Woman, what does your concern have to do with Me?” (John 2:4). Complete equivalence translates fully, in order to provide an English text that is both accurate and readable.

In keeping with the principle of complete equivalence, it is the policy to translate interjections which are commonly omitted in modern language renderings of the Bible. As an example, the interjection behold, in the older King James editions, continues to have a place in English usage, especially in dramatically calling attention to a spectacular scene, or an event of profound importance such as the Immanuel prophecy of Isaiah 7:14. Consequently, behold is retained for these occasions in the present edition. However, the Hebrew and Greek originals for this word can be translated variously, depending on the circumstances in the passage. Therefore, in addition to behold, words such as indeed, look, see, and surely are also rendered to convey the appropriate sense suggested by the context in each case.

In faithfulness to God and to our readers, it was deemed appropriate that all participating scholars sign a statement affirming their belief in the verbal and plenary inspiration of Scripture, and in the inerrancy of the original autographs.

Devotional Quality

The King James scholars readily appreciated the intrinsic beauty of divine revelation. They accordingly disciplined their talents to render well-chosen English words of their time, as well as a graceful, often musical arrangement of language, which has stirred the hearts of Bible readers through the years. The translators, the committees, and the editors of the present edition, while sensitive to the late-twentieth-century English idiom, and while adhering faithfully to the Hebrew, Aramaic, and Greek texts, have sought to maintain those lyrical and devotional qualities that are so highly regarded in the Authorized Version. This devotional quality is especially apparent in the poetic and prophetic books, although even the relatively plain style of the Gospels and Epistles cannot strictly be likened, as sometimes suggested, to modern newspaper style. The Koine Greek of the New Testament is influenced by the Hebrew background of the writers, for whom even the gospel narratives were not merely flat utterance, but often song in various degrees of rhythm.

The Style

Students of the Bible applaud the timeless devotional character of our historic Bible. Yet it is also universally understood that our language, like all living languages, has undergone profound change since 1611. Subsequent revisions of the King James Bible have sought to keep abreast of changes in English speech. The present work is a further step toward this objective. Where obsolescence and other reading difficulties exist, present-day vocabulary, punctuation, and grammar have been carefully integrated. Words representing ancient objects, such as chariot and phylactery, have no modern substitutes and are therefore retained.

A special feature of the New King James Version is its conformity to the thought flow of the 1611 Bible. The reader discovers that the sequence and selection of words, phrases, and clauses of the new edition, while much clearer, are so close to the traditional that there is remarkable ease in listening to the reading of either edition while following with the other.

In the discipline of translating biblical and other ancient languages, a standard method of transliteration, that is, the English spelling of untranslated words, such as names of persons and places, has never been commonly adopted. In keeping with the design of the present work, the King James spelling of untranslated words is retained, although made uniform throughout. For example, instead of the spellings Isaiah and Elijah in the Old Testament, and Esaias and Elias in the New Testament, Isaiah and Elijah now appear in both Testaments.

King James doctrinal and theological terms, for example, propitiation, justification, and sanctification, are generally familiar to English-speaking peoples. Such terms have been retained except where the original language indicates need for a more precise translation.

Readers of the Authorized Version will immediately be struck by the absence of several pronouns: thee, thou, and ye are replaced by the simple you, while your and yours are substituted for thy and thine as applicable. Thee, thou, thy, and thine were once forms of address to express a special relationship to human as well as divine persons. These pronouns are no longer part of our language. However, reverence for God in the present work is preserved by capitalizing pronouns, including You, Your, and Yours, which refer to Him. Additionally, capitalization of these pronouns benefits the reader by clearly distinguishing divine and human persons referred to in a passage. Without such capitalization the distinction is often obscure, because the antecedent of a pronoun is not always clear in the English translation.

In addition to the pronoun usages of the seventeenth century, the -eth and -est verb endings, so familiar in the earlier King James editions, are now obsolete. Unless a speaker is schooled in these verb endings, there is common difficulty in selecting the correct form to be used with a given subject of the verb in vocal prayer. That is, should we use love, loveth, or lovest? do, doeth, doest, or dost? have, hath, or hast? Because these forms are obsolete, contemporary English usage has been substituted for the previous verb endings.

In older editions of the King James Version, the frequency of the connective and far exceeded the limits of present English usage. Also, biblical linguists agree that the Hebrew and Greek original words for this conjunction may commonly be translated otherwise, depending on the immediate context. Therefore, instead of and, alternatives such as also, but, however, now, so, then, and thus are accordingly rendered in the present edition, when the original language permits.

The real character of the Authorized Version does not reside in its archaic pronouns or verbs or other grammatical forms of the seventeenth century, but rather in the care taken by its scholars to impart the letter and spirit of the original text in a majestic and reverent style.

The Format

The format of the New King James Version is designed to enhance the vividness and devotional quality of the Holy Scriptures:

- Subject headings assist the reader to identify topics and transitions in the biblical content.
- Words or phrases in italics indicate expressions in the original language which require clarification by additional English words, as also done throughout the history of the King James Bible.
- Oblique type in the New Testament indicates a quotation from the Old Testament.
- Prose is divided into paragraphs to indicate the structure of thought.
- Poetry is structured as contemporary verse to reflect the poetic form and beauty of the passage in the original language.
- The covenant name of God was usually translated from the Hebrew as LORD or GOD (using capital letters as shown) in the King James Old Testament. This tradition is maintained. In the present edition the name is so capitalized whenever the covenant name is quoted in the New Testament from a passage in the Old Testament.

The Old Testament Text

The Hebrew Bible has come down to us through the scrupulous care of ancient scribes who copied the original text in successive generations. By the sixth century A.D. the scribes were succeeded by a group known as the Masoretes, who continued to preserve the sacred Scriptures for another five hundred years in a form known as the Masoretic Text. Babylonia, Palestine, and Tiberias were the main centers of Masoretic activity; but by the tenth century A.D. the Masoretes of Tiberias, led by the family of ben Asher, gained the ascendancy. Through subsequent editions, the ben Asher text became in the twelfth century the only recognized form of the Hebrew Scriptures.

Daniel Bomberg printed the first Rabbinic Bible in 1516–17; that work was followed in 1524–25 by a second edition prepared by Jacob ben Chayyim and also published by Bomberg. The text of ben Chayyim was adopted in most subsequent Hebrew Bibles, including those used by the King James translators. The ben Chayyim text was also used for the first two editions of Rudolph Kittel's Biblia Hebraica of 1906 and 1912. In 1937 Paul Kahle published a third edition of Biblia Hebraica. This edition was based on the oldest dated manuscript of the ben Asher text, the Leningrad Manuscript B19a (A.D. 1008), which Kahle regarded as superior to that used by ben Chayyim.

For the New King James Version the text used was the 1967/1977 Stuttgart edition of the Biblia Hebraica, with frequent comparisons being made with the Bomberg edition of 1524–25. The Septuagint (Greek) Version of the Old Testament and the Latin Vulgate also were consulted. In addition to referring to a variety of ancient versions of the Hebrew Scriptures, the New King James Version draws on the resources of relevant manuscripts from the Dead Sea caves. In the few places where the Hebrew was so obscure that the 1611 King James was compelled to follow one of the versions, but where information is now available to resolve the problems, the New King James Version follows the Hebrew text. Significant variations are recorded in the center reference column.

The New Testament Text

There is more manuscript support for the New Testament than for any other body of ancient literature. Over five thousand Greek, eight thousand Latin, and many more manuscripts in other languages attest the integrity of the New Testament. There is only one basic New Testament used by Protestants, Roman Catholics, and Orthodox, by conservatives and liberals. Minor variations in hand copying have appeared through the centuries, before mechanical printing began about A.D. 1450.

Some variations exist in the spelling of Greek words, in word order, and in similar details. These ordinarily do not show up in translation and do not affect the sense of the text in any way.

Other manuscript differences such as omission or inclusion of a word or a clause, and two paragraphs in the Gospels, should not overshadow the overwhelming degree of agreement which exists among the ancient records. Bible readers may be assured that the most important differences in English New Testaments of today are due, not to manuscript divergence, but to the way in which translators view the task of translation: How literally should the text be rendered? How does the translator view the matter of biblical inspiration? Does the translator adopt a paraphrase when a literal rendering would be quite clear and more to the point? The New King James Version follows the historic precedent of the Authorized Version in maintaining a literal approach to translation, except where the idiom of the original language cannot be translated directly into our tongue.

The King James New Testament was based on the traditional text of the Greek-speaking churches, first published in 1516, and later called the Textus Receptus or Received Text. Although based on the relatively few available manuscripts, these were representative of many more which existed at the time but only became known later. In the late nineteenth century, B. Westcott and F. Hort taught that this text had been officially edited by the fourth-century church, but a total lack of historical evidence for this event has forced a revision of the theory. It is now widely held that the Byzantine Text that largely supports the Textus Receptus has as much right as the Alexandrian or any other tradition to be weighed in determining the text of the New Testament.

Since the 1880s most contemporary translations of the New Testament have relied upon a relatively few manuscripts discovered chiefly in the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries. Such translations depend primarily on two manuscripts, Codex Vaticanus and Codex Sinaiticus, because of their greater age. The Greek text obtained by using these sources and the related papyri (our most ancient manuscripts) is known as the Alexandrian Text. However, some scholars have grounds for doubting the faithfulness of Vaticanus and Sinaiticus, since they often disagree with one another, and Sinaiticus exhibits excessive omission.

A third viewpoint of New Testament scholarship holds that the best text is based on the consensus of the majority of existing Greek manuscripts. This text is called the Majority Text. Most of these manuscripts are in substantial agreement. Even though many are late, and none is earlier than the fifth century, usually their readings are verified by papyri, ancient versions, quotations from the early church fathers, or a combination of these. The Majority Text is similar to the Textus Receptus, but it corrects those readings which have little or no support in the Greek manuscript tradition.

Today, scholars agree that the science of New Testament textual criticism is in a state of flux. Very few scholars still favor the Textus Receptus as such, and then often for its historical prestige as the text of Luther, Calvin, Tyndale, and the King James Version. For about a century most have followed a Critical Text (so called because it is edited according to specific principles of textual criticism) which depends heavily upon the Alexandrian type of text. More recently many have abandoned this Critical Text (which is quite similar to the one edited by Westcott and Hort) for one that is more eclectic. Finally, a small but growing number of scholars prefer the Majority Text, which is close to the traditional text except in the Revelation.

In light of these facts, and also because the New King James Version is the fifth revision of a historic document translated from specific Greek texts, the editors decided to retain the traditional text in the body of the New Testament and to indicate major Critical and Majority Text variant readings in the reference notes. Although these variations are duly indicated in the notes of the present edition, it is most important to emphasize that fully eighty-five percent of the New Testament text is the same in the Textus Receptus, the Alexandrian Text, and the Majority Text.

Notes

Significant explanatory notes, alternate translations, and cross-references, as well as New Testament citations of Old Testament passages, are supplied in this Bible.

Important textual variants in the Old Testament are identified in a standard form.

The textual notes in the present edition of the New Testament make no evaluation of readings, but do clearly indicate the manuscript sources of readings. They objectively present the facts without such tendentious remarks as “the best manuscripts omit” or “the most reliable manuscripts read.” Such notes are value judgments that differ according to varying viewpoints on the text. By giving a clearly defined set of variants the New King James Version benefits readers of all textual persuasions.

Where significant variations occur in the New Testament Greek manuscripts, textual notes are classified as follows:

NU-Text

These variations from the traditional text generally represent the Alexandrian or Egyptian type of text described previously in “The New Testament Text.” They are found in the Critical Text published in the twenty-seventh edition of the Nestle-Aland Greek New Testament (N) and in the United Bible Societies’ fourth edition (U), hence the acronym, “NU-Text.”

M-Text

This symbol indicates points of variation in the Majority Text from the traditional text, as also previously discussed in “The New Testament Text.” It should be noted that M stands for whatever reading is printed in the published Greek New Testament According to the Majority Text, whether supported by overwhelming, strong, or only a divided majority textual tradition.

The textual notes reflect the scholarship of the past 150 years and will assist the reader to observe the variations between the different manuscript traditions of the New Testament. Such information is generally not available in English translations of the New Testament.

How to Understand What the Bible Means by What It Says

by Earl D. Radmacher

After the apostle Paul had given some significant teaching to his younger son in the faith, Timothy, he gave him the key to understanding (2 Tim. 2:15):

“Be diligent to present yourself approved to God, a worker who does not need to be ashamed, rightly dividing the word of truth.”

If the reader is going to understand what he or she is reading, then the rules of communication must be diligently followed. These are the same rules that are followed in everyday conversation when understanding takes place. In other words, there is not a special or secret set of rules for understanding God’s Word.

The Basic Principle

Central to everything else in this process is the recognition that meaning is singular, not plural. For example, the popular response often heard, “there are many different interpretations of that,” is clearly false. There may be ten suggested interpretations, but at least nine of them are false. The interpretation is what the writer intended with the vocabulary he used. But this does not limit application, because although the interpretation is single, application may be multiple. It is the work of the Holy Spirit to illumine hearts to see a variety of applications to life. But the applications, to be valid, must be true to the author’s intended interpretation as expressed in the written text.

A Four-Step Process

If there is only one valid interpretation of a biblical passage, how then is it to be understood? Paul’s challenge to “rightly divide the word of truth” may be fulfilled by using the following four-step process:

First step: Word Focus

Second step: Word Relations

Third step: Context

Fourth step: Culture

Now let’s put the process to work on an often-quoted verse of Scripture (Matt. 18:20) where Jesus is speaking to His disciples:

“For where two or three are gathered together in My name, I am there in the midst of them.”

Word Focus

A key word is “gathered.” A complete concordance lists various forms of gather in the New Testament about 75 times. These occurrences translate some ten different Greek words, but over half of them translate just one Greek verb (the one used in our passage) made up of two parts meaning “with, together with,” and “to lead, bring”; thus the expression means “to lead or bring together.” This discovery of the etymology of a word is a good starting point for study. One could go on to look at the word comparatively by studying its synonyms and antonyms. Most important in word study, however, is to note the usage of the word historically in Scripture.

The use of “gathered” in this verse may be puzzling to the reader because the group is so small. Just “two or three.” Yet it is a very important gathering because Jesus Christ is “in the midst of them” when the condition is fulfilled that the gathering be in His name. Such a significant gathering with Christ drives us to look very carefully at this verse, so we need to move to the second step in the process of finding the meaning, namely word relations.

Before we do that, however, it may be worthwhile to suggest two tools that will be helpful to the student of Scripture in the first step: (1) The Majority Text Greek New Testament Interlinear. This work interweaves the English translation and the Greek text so that the student can see what Greek words translate into the English rendering. (2) An Expository Dictionary of New Testament Words. This handy tool for the English reader by W. E. Vine gives precise meanings of Greek words. It serves as somewhat of a combination dictionary and concordance.

Word Relations

Word studies are enlightening and fun, but words do not stand alone. Rather, they are related to the words around them. We call these relationships grammar or syntax (“to place together”) and studying them is crucial to learning the meaning of Matthew 18:20. For example, the very first word (“for”) expresses a relationship. It is small and usually ignored, but it is an important conjunction. It lets you know that this verse does not stand alone but is directly related to what has just been stated. It establishes the reason or cause for the preceding instructions.

Two other words that show grammatical relations are the adverbs “where” and “there.” The “where” pertains to the dependent clause and the “there” to the independent clause. The independent clause contains the main idea of the sentence (“I am”) which identifies the actions. Thus the personal, powerful presence and ministry of Jesus Christ will be experienced (main clause) where the gathering is functioning according to His directives, in His name. This being the case, we are motivated in our search for meaning to take the third step in the process.

Context

It has sometimes been said (with tongue in cheek, perhaps) that there are three rules for understanding the meaning of the text. The first is context. The second is context. The third is context. This overstatement makes the point—so let's do it!

There are basically three areas of context to study.

1. The immediate context.
2. The book context.
3. The Bible context.

Taking your cue from the causal conjunction (“for”) of verse 20, begin moving back in the immediately preceding context. Notice the reference to the “two” in verse 19 and the “again” which precedes it. Keep moving back and find the original reference to “two or three” in verse 16. At this point, the words of Jesus take you back to the Old Testament context (Deut. 19:15) for a principle of settling disputes. Now you are gaining awareness of what the “gathered” is referring to in verse 20. But note the contrastive conjunction (“But”) that begins verse 16. This sends you back to verse 15 and the topic sentence which begins the paragraph and starts the immediately preceding context of verse 20. Now you have the subject matter of this whole section, namely a breach of relationship between brothers in Christ: “. . . if your brother sins against you.” Thus this passage is telling how members of Christ's family settle disputes.

Now let's look at the context following our text of verse 20. Peter's question in response to Jesus shows that he understood exactly what Jesus was talking about and he applied it to himself:

“Lord, how often shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Up to seven times?”

Thus in the context of verse 20, Jesus is presenting the process for dealing with sin and maintaining unity in the church (verse 17), which was yet to be established. It starts with private confronting in verse 15 (one on one), moves to group adjudication in verse 16 (two or three), and is finalized by the church in verse 17, the highest court of appeal on earth for spiritual accountability. In verses 18 and 19, Jesus strongly reinforces the legitimacy of this process of discipline in the family of believers by stating that, when it is done properly, they will be accomplishing on earth that which has already been determined as the will of God in heaven.

Thus in verse 20, Jesus summarizes this whole process of discipline by affirming that when it is carried out according to His directives, it has the power and authority of His almighty presence.

If you now move from the immediate context to the context of the whole book of Matthew, you will find that Christ spoke of the future church (Matt. 18:17) only one other time in the Gospels, namely in Matthew 16:18. In that passage, He spoke of its nature:

“. . . I will build My church, and the gates of Hades shall not prevail against it.”

The church was to be a future (“will”), personal (“My”), permanent (“Hades . . . not prevail”) project of Jesus Christ Himself (“I”). By way of comparison, in Matthew 18:15–20, Jesus presents the procedure of governing and maintaining the unity of that church, His body, which was yet to be established at Pentecost.

There is yet a further area of context, namely, the remainder of the Bible. In pursuing that, one might continue this study by comparing the parallel passage in Luke 17:3, 4. One could also move on to the letters to the churches for further instruction and development of a total doctrine of church discipline (see 1 Cor. 5:1—6:20; 1 Tim. 5:19–22; Titus 3:1–11; Heb. 13:17).

Culture

The final step in our four-step process is the cultural study. This seeks to recreate the setting. Actually this may be done at the beginning as well as throughout the study process. There are three major areas of culture, which may be designated as follows:

1. Social—the customs of the times.
2. Temporal—the period in history.
3. Geographical—the place on earth.

Many helpful books are available for this area of study, especially Bible dictionaries and encyclopedias.

Two words in the immediate context that have social and cultural implications are “heathen” and “tax collector.” Why are those words chosen as picturing the status of the brother who refuses the discipline of the church?

With respect to timing in history, this passage of the teaching of Jesus occurred early in His fourth year of public ministry. It follows His prediction of His coming death and resurrection (Matt. 16:21; 17:22, 23). Although He lived under the Mosaic law and kept it perfectly (Matt. 5:17), He predicted this current dispensation of grace (John 1:17) and the birth of the church (Matt. 16:18; cf. Eph. 3:1–21). Thus Jesus was preparing His disciples who were going to be the foundation stones in the church (Eph. 2:19–22) that would be established at Pentecost (Acts 1:4, 5; cf. 1 Cor. 12:13).

Concerning geographical setting, Jesus was teaching at Capernaum on the northwestern shore of the Sea of Galilee. He had recently been at Caesarea Philippi (today known as Banias) at the foot of Mount Hermon, one of three sources of the Jordan River. In that beautiful setting, after He was transfigured in their midst, the voice of God from heaven declared, “This is My beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. Hear Him!”

Perhaps this is the appropriate word for all of us as we now approach God’s Word. “Hear Him!”

The Old Testament

Introduction

The words, “In the beginning, God created the heavens and the earth,” have evoked considerable debate; but without apology, that is how this book begins. In the words of one of the historic creeds: “I believe in God the Father almighty, Maker of heaven and earth.” These words are only the beginning of this book of beginnings—a prologue to a prologue. Genesis gives more than an account of creation. It also describes other beginnings—humanity’s Fall into sin and the start of God’s elaborate rescue mission for all peoples. It tells what happened first in many important respects (creation, sin, judgment, languages, races, marriage); but at the center of Genesis lies God’s sovereign call to Abram and Sarai, a couple of idol worshipers in the Middle East.

Author and Background The Book of Genesis was written and compiled by Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai. Biblical and extrabiblical evidence points to this fact. Jesus clearly assumes Mosaic authorship of Genesis in the statement, “Moses therefore gave you circumcision” (compare also Acts 15:1). Since the reason for circumcision is mentioned only in Genesis 17, Jesus had to be referring to Moses’ compilation of the story. Second, both Jewish and Christian tradition unanimously agree with this biblical testimony: Moses compiled and wrote the Pentateuch, the first five books of the Bible, in the Wilderness of Sinai. This would place his authorship of Genesis around the fifteenth century B.C.

Many scholars since the nineteenth century have denied Moses’ authorship of Genesis. Instead, some of these scholars have suggested that the Pentateuch, including Genesis, was compiled at a later date, perhaps in the sixth century B.C. According to this analysis, anonymous editors used at least four documents to piece together the Pentateuch. These four documents were identified by tracing the divine names, such as Elohim and Yahweh, through the Pentateuch, and by tracing certain variations in phraseology and word choice. The four documents are called: the J document, which uses Yahweh for God; the E document, which uses Elohim for God; the P or Priestly document; and the D or Deuteronomic document. More recently, this dissection of the Pentateuch has been challenged, and no real consensus has emerged from the ensuing scholarly debate.

By appreciating the unified structure of Genesis, Moses' guiding hand in the compilation and authorship of Genesis can be discerned. Certainly, Moses used other literary sources to piece together his narrative. Sometimes these sources are identified (see Gen. 5:1). Moses presumably edited these older documents to make them understandable to his readers—the second Israelite generation after the Exodus. And later prophets updated the language for the ensuing generations of Israelite readers.

But after all the analysis, it is clear that Moses wrote and compiled Genesis to encourage the early Israelites while they were preparing to enter the land of Canaan, the Promised Land. The content of Genesis would have been especially significant to them. It explains why their ancestors went to Egypt in the first place, why their nation was destined for another Promised Land, and why God had revealed Himself so dramatically to them in the wilderness.

Principal Message Genesis, the book of beginnings, has two parts. The first part (chs. 1–11) serves as a prologue to the second part (chs. 12–50), the book's main event—God's sovereign work in Abraham's family to accomplish His good will for all nations. This prologue (chs. 1–11) provides keys that unlock the rest of the book and the rest of the Bible as well.

Four key concepts presented in Genesis 1–11 are crucial for comprehending the rest of the Bible. First, the God who entered the lives of Abram and Sarai is the same God who created the entire universe. He is the only true and living God—Yahweh, the Creator and the Savior of the world. Second, all people have rebelled against God, their benevolent Creator, and His good will for them. Humanity has inherited a state of sinfulness from Adam and Eve's rebellion in the Garden of Eden. Third, God judges and will judge the actions of all people. God, by sending the Flood, made it clear to Noah and to everyone that human wickedness is entirely unacceptable. God cannot let evil reign free in His creation. Fourth, sin continues to plague all of humanity—even after the Flood. Although the Flood did not wash away sin, God, as the second half of Genesis (chs. 12–50) reveals, has a plan to save humanity from its own evil deeds.

The first part of Genesis provides the setting for the story of Abram and Sarai (chs. 12–50). Their world is populated by a broad spectrum of people groups, each with its own language, customs, values, and beliefs, and all have adopted their own imaginary gods.

The main story of Genesis—God’s plan to bless all nations through Abraham’s descendants—starts in chapter 12. It begins with God’s call to Abram and Sarai (Abraham and Sarah) to become the parents of a new people—a new nation. This new nation would become God’s tool for blessing all peoples. Even though Abram and Sarai were merely an elderly couple with the means to travel, God chose to begin His plan of redemption for the entire world with them. The description of their experiences demonstrates the irruption (the breaking into from without) of God’s blessing into their lives. Central to God’s blessing was His covenant with Abraham—the Abrahamic covenant (see 12:1–3; 15:1–21). God, the awesome Creator of the entire universe, freely chose to make everlasting promises to Abraham and his descendants. These promises in the Abrahamic covenant were the foundation for all of God’s subsequent promises and covenants in the Bible. Genesis is not merely a beginning; it provides the foundation for the rest of the biblical narrative.

Christ in the Scriptures

According to the New Testament, Adam is “a type of Him who was to come” (Rom. 5:14). In other words, Adam’s life in some ways points vividly to Jesus. Consider that both individuals entered the world through a special act of God, as sinless men. But while Adam is the head of the old creation, Christ is the head of a new creation.

Melchizedek (whose name literally means “king of righteousness”) is a strange and shadowy figure who suddenly appears in Genesis 14. He is the king of Salem (which means “peace”); the Bible calls him “the priest of God Most High.” Some scholars believe that this one who was, in the words of Hebrews 7:3, “made like the Son of God,” was in fact Christ Himself. Christ, after all, is known as the Prince of Peace (Is. 9:6).

Joseph’s character and experiences (chs. 39–50) foreshadow the coming of the Messiah in that both Joseph and Christ are objects of special love by their fathers, hated by their brothers, rejected as rulers over their brothers, conspired against and sold for silver, condemned though innocent, and raised from humiliation to glory by the power of God.

Genesis 1

The History of Creation (Gen. 2:4–9; Job 38:4–11; John 1:1–5) ¹In the ^abeginning ^bGod created the heavens and the earth. Word Studies: God

²The earth was ^cwithout form, and void; and darkness ¹was on the face of the deep. ^dAnd the Spirit of God was hovering over the face of the waters.

^{3e}Then God said, ^f“Let there be ^glight”; and there was light.

⁴And God saw the light, that it was good; and God divided the light from the darkness.

⁵God called the light Day, and the ^hdarkness He called Night. ²So the evening and the morning were the first day.

⁶Then God said, ⁱ“Let there be a ³firmament in the midst of the waters, and let it divide the waters from the waters.”

⁷Thus God made the firmament, ^jand divided the waters which were under the firmament from the waters which were ^kabove the firmament; and it was so.

⁸And God called the firmament Heaven. So the evening and the morning were the second day.

⁹Then God said, ^l“Let the waters under the heavens be gathered together into one place, and ^mlet the dry land appear”; and it was so.

¹¹Then God said, “Let the earth ⁿbring forth grass, the herb that yields seed, and the ^ofruit tree that yields fruit according to its kind, whose seed is in itself, on the earth”; and it was so.

¹²And the earth brought forth grass, the herb that yields seed according to its kind, and the tree that yields fruit, whose seed is in itself according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

¹³So the evening and the morning were the third day.

¹⁴Then God said, “Let there be ^plights in the firmament of the heavens to divide the day from the night; and let them be for signs and ^qseasons, and for days and years; ¹⁵“and let them be for lights in the firmament of the heavens to give light on the earth”; and it was so.

¹⁶Then God made two great ⁴lights: the ^rgreater light to rule the day, and the ^slesser light to rule the night. He made ^tthe stars also.

¹⁷God set them in the firmament of the ^uheavens to give light on the earth, ¹⁸and to ^vrule over the day and over the night, and to divide the light from the darkness. And God saw that it was good.

¹⁹So the evening and the morning were the fourth day.

²⁰Then God said, “Let the waters abound with an abundance of living ⁵creatures, and let birds fly above the earth across the face of the ⁶firmament of the heavens.”

²¹So ^wGod created great sea creatures and every living thing that moves, with which the waters abounded, according to their kind, and every winged bird according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

²²And God blessed them, saying, ^x“Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the waters in the seas, and let birds multiply on the earth.”

²³So the evening and the morning were the fifth day.

²⁴Then God said, “Let the earth bring forth the living creature according to its kind: cattle and creeping thing and beast of the earth, each according to its kind”; and it was so.

²⁵And God made the beast of the earth according to its kind, cattle according to its kind, and everything that creeps on the earth according to its kind. And God saw that it was good.

²⁶Then God said, ^y“Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; ^zlet them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over the cattle, over ⁷all the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth.”

²⁷So God created man ^ain His own image; in the image of God He created him; ^bmale and female He created them.

²⁸Then God blessed them, and God said to them, ^c“Be fruitful and multiply; fill the earth and ^dsubdue it; have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over every living thing that ⁸moves on the earth.”

²⁹And God said, “See, I have given you every herb that yields seed which is on the face of all the earth, and every tree whose fruit yields seed; ^eto you it shall be for food.

³⁰“Also, to ^fevery beast of the earth, to every ^gbird of the air, and to everything that creeps on the earth, in which there is ⁹life, I have given every green herb for food”; and it was so.

³¹Then ^hGod saw everything that He had made, and indeed it was very good. So the evening and the morning were the sixth day.

Genesis 2

¹Thus the heavens and the earth, and ^aall the host of them, were finished. Word Studies: heavens

^{2b}And on the seventh day God ended His work which He had done, and He rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had done.

³Then God ^cblessed the seventh day and sanctified it, because in it He rested from all His work which God had created and made.

^{4d}This is the ¹history of the heavens and the earth when they were created, in the day that the LORD God made the earth and the heavens, Article: God as Creator

⁵before any ^eplant of the field was in the earth and before any herb of the field had grown. For the LORD God had not ^fcaused it to rain on the earth, and there was no man ^gto till the ground; ⁶but a mist went up from the earth and watered the whole face of the ground.

⁷And the LORD God formed man of the ^hdust of the ground, and ⁱbreathed into his ^jnostrils the breath of life; and ^kman became a living being.

Life in God's Garden ⁸The LORD God planted ^la garden ^meastward in ⁿEden, and there He put the man whom He had formed.

⁹And out of the ground the LORD God made ^oevery tree grow that is pleasant to the sight and good for food. ^pThe tree of life was also in the midst of the garden, and the tree of the knowledge of good and ^qevil.

¹⁰Now a river went out of Eden to water the garden, and from there it parted and became four riverheads.

¹¹The name of the first is Pishon; it is the one which skirts ^rthe whole land of Havilah, where there is gold.

¹²And the gold of that land is good. ^sBdellium and the onyx stone are there.

¹³The name of the second river is Gihon; it is the one which goes around the whole land of Cush.

¹⁴The name of the third river is ^tHiddekel;² it is the one which goes toward the east of ³Assyria. The fourth river is the Euphrates.

¹⁵Then the LORD God took ⁴the man and put him in the garden of Eden to ⁵tend and keep it.

¹⁶And the LORD God commanded the man, saying, “Of every tree of the garden you may freely eat; ¹⁷“but of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil ^uyou shall not eat, for in the day that you eat of it ^vyou⁶ shall surely ^wdie.”

¹⁸And the LORD God said, “It is not good that man should be alone; ^xI will make him a helper comparable to him.”

^{19y}Out of the ground the LORD God formed every beast of the field and every bird of the air, and ^zbrought them to ⁷Adam to see what he would call them. And whatever Adam called each living creature, that was its name.

²⁰So Adam gave names to all cattle, to the birds of the air, and to every beast of the field. But for Adam there was not found a helper comparable to him.

²¹And the LORD God caused a ^adeep sleep to fall on Adam, and he slept; and He took one of his ribs, and closed up the flesh in its place.

²²Then the rib which the LORD God had taken from man He ⁸made into a woman, ^band He ^cbrought her to the man.

²³And Adam said:

This is now ^dbone of my bones And flesh of my flesh; She shall be called ⁹Woman, Because she was ^etaken out of ¹⁰Man.”

^{24f}Therefore a man shall leave his father and mother and ^gbe¹¹ joined to his wife, and they shall become one flesh.

Genesis 3

The Temptation and Fall of Man (Rom. 5:12–21) ¹Now ^athe serpent was ^bmore cunning than any beast of the field which the LORD God had made. And he said to the woman, “Has God indeed said, ‘You shall not eat of every tree of the garden’?”

²And the woman said to the serpent, “We may eat the ^cfruit of the trees of the garden; ³“but of the fruit of the tree which is in the midst of the garden, God has said, ‘You shall not eat it, nor shall you ^dtouch it, lest you die.’”

^{4e}Then the serpent said to the woman, “You will not surely die.

⁵“For God knows that in the day you eat of it your eyes will be opened, and you will be like God, knowing good and evil.”

⁶So when the woman ^fsaw that the tree was good for food, that it was ¹pleasant to the eyes, and a tree desirable to make one wise, she took of its fruit ^gand ate. She also gave to her husband with her, and he ate.

⁷Then the eyes of both of them were opened, ^hand they knew that they were naked; and they sewed fig leaves together and made themselves ²coverings.

⁸And they heard ⁱthe ³sound of the LORD God walking in the garden in the ⁴cool of the day, and Adam and his wife ^jhid themselves from the presence of the LORD God among the trees of the garden.

⁹Then the LORD God called to Adam and said to him, “Where are you?”

¹⁰So he said, “I heard Your voice in the garden, ^kand I was afraid because I was naked; and I hid myself.”

¹¹And He said, “Who told you that you were naked? Have you eaten from the tree of which I commanded you that you should not eat?”

¹²Then the man said, ^l“The woman whom You gave to be with me, she gave me of the tree, and I ate.”

¹³And the LORD God said to the woman, “What is this you have done?” The woman said, ^m“The serpent deceived me, and I ate.”

¹⁴So the LORD God said to the serpent:

Because you have done this, You are cursed more than all cattle, And more than every beast of the field; On your belly you shall go, And ⁿyou shall eat dust All the days of your life.

¹⁵And I will put enmity Between you and the woman, And between ^oyour seed and ^pher Seed; ^qHe shall bruise your head, And you shall bruise His heel.”

¹⁶To the woman He said:

I will greatly multiply your sorrow and your conception; ^rIn pain you shall bring forth children; ^sYour desire shall be ⁵for your husband, And he shall ^trule over you.”

¹⁷Then to Adam He said, ^u“Because you have heeded the voice of your wife, and have eaten from the tree ^vof which I commanded you, saying, ‘You shall not eat of it’:

^wCursed is the ground for your sake; ^xIn toil you shall eat of it All the days of your life.

¹⁸Both thorns and thistles it shall ⁶bring forth for you, And ^yyou shall eat the herb of the field.

^{19z}In the sweat of your face you shall eat bread Till you return to the ground, For out of it you were taken; ^aFor dust you are,
And ^bto dust you shall return.”

²⁰And Adam called his wife’s name ^cEve,⁷ because she was the mother of all living.

²¹Also for Adam and his wife the LORD God made tunics of skin, and clothed them.

²²Then the LORD God said, “Behold, the man has become like one of Us, to know good and evil. And now, lest he put out his hand and take also of the tree of life, and eat, and live forever”— ²³therefore the LORD God sent him out of the garden of Eden ^dto till the ground from which he was taken.

²⁴So ^eHe drove out the man; and He placed ^fcherubim ^gat the east of the garden of Eden, and a flaming sword which turned every way, to guard the way to the tree of ^hlife.

Genesis 4

Cain and Abel (Luke 11:51; Heb. 11:4; 12:24) ¹Now Adam knew Eve his wife, and she conceived and bore ¹Cain, and said, “I have acquired a man from the LORD.”

²Then she bore again, this time his brother ²Abel. Now ^aAbel was a keeper of sheep, but Cain was a tiller of the ground.

³And ³in the process of time it came to pass that Cain brought an offering of the fruit ^bof the ground to the LORD.

⁴Abel also brought of ^cthe firstborn of his flock and of ^dtheir fat. And the LORD ^erespected Abel and his offering, ⁵but He did not respect Cain and his offering. And Cain was very angry, and his countenance fell.

⁶So the LORD said to Cain, “Why are you angry? And why has your countenance fallen?

⁷“If you do well, will you not be accepted? And if you do not do well, sin lies at the door. And its desire is ⁴for you, but you should rule over it.”

⁸Now Cain ⁵talked with Abel his ⁶brother; and it came to pass, when they were in the field, that Cain rose up against Abel his brother and ^fkilled him.

⁹Then the LORD said to Cain, “Where is Abel your brother?” He said, ⁸“I do not know. Am I ^hmy brother’s keeper?”

¹⁰And He said, “What have you done? The voice of your brother’s blood ⁱcries out to Me from the ground.

¹¹“So now ^jyou are cursed from the earth, which has opened its mouth to receive your brother’s blood from your hand.

¹²“When you till the ground, it shall no longer yield its strength to you. A fugitive and a vagabond you shall be on the earth.”

¹³And Cain said to the LORD, “My ⁷punishment is greater than I can bear!

¹⁴“Surely You have driven me out this day from the face of the ground; ^kI shall be ^lhidden from Your face; I shall be a fugitive and a vagabond on the earth, and it will happen that ^manyone who finds me will kill me.”

¹⁵And the LORD said to him, ⁸“Therefore, whoever kills Cain, vengeance shall be taken on him ⁿsevenfold.” And the LORD set a ^omark on Cain, lest anyone finding him should kill him.

The Family of Cain ¹⁶Then Cain ^pwent out from the ^qpresence of the LORD and dwelt in the land of ⁹Nod on the east of Eden.

¹⁷And Cain knew his wife, and she conceived and bore Enoch. And he built a city, ^rand called the name of the city after the name of his son—Enoch.

¹⁸To Enoch was born Irad; and Irad begot Mehujael, and Mehujael begot Methushael, and Methushael begot Lamech.

¹⁹Then Lamech took for himself ^stwo wives: the name of one was Adah, and the name of the second was Zillah.

²⁰And Adah bore Jabal. He was the father of those who dwell in tents and have livestock.

²¹His brother's name was Jubal. He was the father of all those who play the harp and ¹⁰flute.

²²And as for Zillah, she also bore Tubal-Cain, an instructor of every craftsman in bronze and iron. And the sister of Tubal-Cain was Naamah.

²³Then Lamech said to his wives:

Adah and Zillah, hear my voice; Wives of Lamech, listen to my speech!
For I have ¹¹killed a man for wounding me, Even a young man ¹²for hurting me.

²⁴^tIf Cain shall be avenged sevenfold, Then Lamech seventy-sevenfold.”

A New Son ²⁵And Adam knew his wife again, and she bore a son and "named him ¹³Seth, "For God has appointed another seed for me instead of Abel, whom Cain killed."

²⁶And as for Seth, ^vto him also a son was born; and he named him ¹⁴Enosh. Then men began ^wto call on the name of the LORD.

Genesis 5

The Family of Adam (1 Chr. 1:1–4; Luke 3:36–38) ¹This is the book of the ^agenealogy of Adam. In the day that God created man, He made him in ^bthe likeness of God.

²He created them ^cmale and female, and ^dblessed them and called them Mankind in the day they were created.

³And Adam lived one hundred and thirty years, and begot a son ^ein his own likeness, after his image, and ^fnamed him Seth.

⁴After he begot Seth, ^gthe days of Adam were eight hundred years; ^hand he had sons and daughters.

⁵So all the days that Adam lived were nine hundred and thirty years; ⁱand he died.

⁶Seth lived one hundred and five years, and begot ^jEnosh.

⁷After he begot Enosh, Seth lived eight hundred and seven years, and had sons and daughters.

⁸So all the days of Seth were nine hundred and twelve years; and he died.

⁹Enosh lived ninety years, and begot ¹Cainan.

¹⁰After he begot Cainan, Enosh lived eight hundred and fifteen years, and had sons and daughters.

¹¹So all the days of Enosh were nine hundred and five years; and he died.

¹²Cainan lived seventy years, and begot Mahalalel.

¹³After he begot Mahalalel, Cainan lived eight hundred and forty years, and had sons and daughters.

¹⁴So all the days of Cainan were nine hundred and ten years; and he died.

¹⁵Mahalalel lived sixty-five years, and begot Jared.

¹⁶After he begot Jared, Mahalalel lived eight hundred and thirty years, and had sons and daughters.

¹⁷So all the days of Mahalalel were eight hundred and ninety-five years; and he died.

¹⁸Jared lived one hundred and sixty-two years, and begot ^kEnoch.

¹⁹After he begot Enoch, Jared lived eight hundred years, and had sons and daughters.

²⁰So all the days of Jared were nine hundred and sixty-two years; and he died.

²¹Enoch lived sixty-five years, and begot Methuselah.

²²After he begot Methuselah, Enoch ^lwalked with God three hundred years, and had sons and daughters.

²³So all the days of Enoch were three hundred and sixty-five years.

²⁴And ^mEnoch walked with God; and he was not, for God ⁿtook him. Word Studies: walked

²⁵Methuselah lived one hundred and eighty-seven years, and begot Lamech.

²⁶After he begot Lamech, Methuselah lived seven hundred and eighty-two years, and had sons and daughters.

²⁷So all the days of Methuselah were nine hundred and sixty-nine years; and he died. Charts and Diagrams: Ages of the Patriarchs

²⁸Lamech lived one hundred and eighty-two years, and had a son.

²⁹And he called his name ^oNoah,² saying, “This one will comfort us concerning our work and the toil of our hands, because of the ground ^pwhich the LORD has cursed.”

³⁰After he begot Noah, Lamech lived five hundred and ninety-five years, and had sons and daughters.

³¹So all the days of Lamech were seven hundred and seventy-seven years; and he died.

³²And Noah was five hundred years old, and Noah begot ^qShem, Ham, ^rand Japheth.

Genesis 6

The Wickedness and Judgment of Man ¹Now it came to pass, ^awhen men began to multiply on the face of the earth, and daughters were born to them, ²that the sons of God saw the daughters of men, that they were beautiful; and they ^btook wives for themselves of all whom they chose.

³And the LORD said, ^c“My Spirit shall not ^dstrive¹ with man forever, ^efor he is indeed flesh; yet his days shall be one hundred and twenty years.”

⁴There were ²giants on the earth in those ^fdays, and also afterward, when the sons of God came in to the daughters of men and they bore children to them. Those were the mighty men who were of old, men of renown.

⁵Then ³the LORD saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every ^gintent⁴ of the thoughts of his heart was only evil ⁵continually.

⁶And ^hthe LORD was sorry that He had made man on the earth, and ⁱHe was grieved in His ^jheart.

⁷So the LORD said, “I will ^kdestroy man whom I have created from the face of the earth, both man and beast, creeping thing and birds of the air, for I am sorry that I have made them.”

⁸But Noah ^lfound grace in the eyes of the LORD.

Noah Pleases God ⁹*This is the genealogy of Noah.* ^mNoah was a just man, ⁶perfect in his generations. Noah ⁿwalked with God.

¹⁰And Noah begot three sons: ^oShem, Ham, and Japheth.

¹¹The earth also was corrupt ^pbefore God, and the earth was ^qfilled with violence.

¹²So God ^rlooked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for ^sall flesh had corrupted their way on the earth.

The Ark Prepared (Heb. 11:7; 1 Pet. 3:20) ¹³And God said to Noah, ^t“The end of all flesh has come before Me, for the earth is filled with violence through them; ^uand behold, ^vI will destroy them with the earth.

¹⁴“Make yourself an ark of gopherwood; make ⁷rooms in the ark, and cover it inside and outside with pitch.

¹⁵“And this is how you shall make it: The length of the ark shall be three hundred ⁸cubits, its width fifty cubits, and its height thirty cubits.

¹⁸“But I will establish My ^zcovenant with you; and ^ayou shall go into the ark—you, your sons, your wife, and your sons’ wives with you.

¹⁹“And of every living thing of all flesh you shall bring ^btwo of every sort into the ark, to keep them alive with you; they shall be male and female.

²¹“And you shall take for yourself of all food that is eaten, and you shall gather it to yourself; and it shall be food for you and for them.”

^{22d}Thus Noah did; ^eaccording to all that ^fGod commanded him, so he did.

Genesis 7

The Great Flood (Luke 17:26, 27) ¹Then the ^aLORD said to Noah, ^b“Come into the ark, you and all your household, because I have seen that ^cyou are righteous before Me in this generation.

²“You shall take with you seven each of every ^dclean animal, a male and his female; ^etwo each of animals that are unclean, a male and his female; ³“also seven each of birds of the air, male and female, to keep ¹the species alive on the face of all the earth.

⁴“For after ^fseven more days I will cause it to rain on the earth ^gforty days and forty nights, and I will ²destroy from the face of the earth all living things that I have made.”

^{5h}And Noah did according to all that the LORD commanded him.

⁶Noah was ⁱsix hundred years old when the floodwaters were on the earth.

^{7j}So Noah, with his sons, his wife, and his sons’ wives, went into the ark because of the waters of the flood.

⁸Of clean animals, of animals that are unclean, of birds, and of everything that creeps on the earth, ⁹two by two they went into the ark to Noah, male and female, as God had commanded Noah.

¹⁰And it came to pass after seven days that the waters of the flood were on the earth.

¹¹In the six hundredth year of Noah’s life, in the second month, the seventeenth day of the month, on ^kthat day all ^lthe fountains of the great deep were broken up, and the ^mwindows of heaven were opened.

¹²ⁿAnd the rain was on the earth forty days and forty nights.

¹³On the very same day Noah and Noah’s sons, Shem, Ham, and Japheth, and Noah’s wife and the three wives of his sons with them, entered the ark—^{14o}they and every beast after its kind, all cattle after their kind, every creeping thing that creeps on the earth after its kind, and every bird after its kind, every bird of every ^psort.

¹⁵And they ^qwent into the ark to Noah, two by two, of all flesh in which is the breath of life.

¹⁶So those that entered, male and female of all flesh, went in ^ras God had commanded him; and the LORD shut him in.

^{17s}Now the flood was on the earth forty days. The waters increased and lifted up the ark, and it rose high above the earth.

¹⁸The waters prevailed and greatly increased on the earth, ^tand the ark moved about on the surface of the waters.

¹⁹And the waters prevailed exceedingly on the earth, and all the high hills under the whole heaven were covered.

²⁰The waters prevailed fifteen cubits upward, and the mountains were covered.

^{21u}And all flesh died that moved on ³the earth: birds and cattle and beasts and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth, and every man.

²²All in ^vwhose nostrils was the breath ⁴of the spirit of life, all that was on the dry land, died.

²³So He destroyed all living things which were on the face of the ground: both man and cattle, creeping thing and bird of the air. They were destroyed from the earth. Only ^wNoah and those who were with him in the ark remained alive. Charts and Diagrams: A New Beginning

^{24x}And the waters prevailed on the earth one hundred and fifty days.

Genesis 8

Noah's Deliverance ¹Then God ^aremembered Noah, and every living thing, and all the animals that were with him in the ark. ^bAnd God made a wind to pass over the earth, and the waters subsided.

^{2c}The fountains of the deep and the windows of heaven were also ^dstopped, and ^ethe rain from heaven was restrained.

³And the waters receded continually from the earth. At the end ^fof the hundred and fifty days the waters decreased.

⁴Then the ark rested in the seventh month, the seventeenth day of the month, on the mountains of Ararat.

⁵And the waters decreased continually until the tenth month. In the tenth month, on the first day of the month, the tops of the mountains were seen.

⁶So it came to pass, at the end of forty days, that Noah opened ^gthe window of the ark which he had made.

⁷Then he sent out a raven, which kept going to and fro until the waters had dried up from the earth.

⁸He also sent out from himself a dove, to see if the waters had receded from the face of the ground.

⁹But the dove found no resting place for the sole of her foot, and she returned into the ark to him, for the waters were on the face of the whole earth. So he put out his hand and took her, and drew her into the ark to himself.

¹⁰And he waited yet another seven days, and again he sent the dove out from the ark.

¹¹Then the dove came to him in the evening, and behold, a freshly plucked olive leaf was in her mouth; and Noah knew that the waters had receded from the earth.

¹²So he waited yet another seven days and sent out the dove, which did not return again to him anymore.

¹³And it came to pass in the six hundred and first year, in the first month, the first day of the month, that the waters were dried up from the earth; and Noah removed the covering of the ark and looked, and indeed the surface of the ground was dry.

¹⁴And in the second month, on the twenty-seventh day of the month, the earth was dried.

¹⁵Then God spoke to Noah, saying, ¹⁶“Go out of the ark, ^hyou and your wife, and your sons and your sons’ wives with you.

¹⁷“Bring out with you every living thing of all flesh that is with you: birds and cattle and every creeping thing that creeps on the earth, so that they may abound on the earth, and ⁱbe fruitful and multiply on the earth.”

¹⁸So Noah went out, and his sons and his wife and his sons’ wives with him.

¹⁹Every animal, every creeping thing, every bird, and whatever creeps on the earth, according to their families, went out of the ark.

God’s Covenant with Creation ²⁰Then Noah built an ^jaltar to the LORD, and took of ^kevery clean animal and of every clean bird, and offered ^lburnt offerings on the altar.

²¹And the LORD smelled ^ma soothing aroma. Then the LORD said in His heart, “I will never again ⁿcurse the ground for man’s sake, although the ^oimagination¹ of man’s heart is evil from his youth; ^pnor will I again destroy every living thing as I have done.

²²While the earth ^qremains, Seedtime and harvest, Cold and heat, Winter and summer, And ^rday and night Shall not cease.”

Genesis 9

God's Promise to Noah ¹*So God blessed Noah and his sons, and said to them: ^a"Be fruitful and multiply, and fill the earth.*

^{2b}"And the fear of you and the dread of you shall be on every beast of the earth, on every bird of the air, on all that move on the earth, and on all the fish of the sea. They are given into your hand.

^{3c}"Every moving thing that lives shall be food for you. I have given you ^dall things, even as the ^egreen herbs.

^{4f}"But you shall not eat flesh with its life, that is, its blood.

⁵"Surely for your lifeblood I will demand a reckoning; ^gfrom the hand of every beast I will require it, and ^hfrom the hand of man. From the hand of every ⁱman's brother I will require the life of man.

⁶Whoever ^jsheds man's blood, By man his blood shall be shed; ^kFor in the image of God He made man.

⁷And as for you, ^lbe fruitful and multiply; Bring forth abundantly in the earth And multiply in it."

⁸Then God spoke to Noah and to his sons with him, saying: ⁹"And as for Me, ^mbehold, I establish ⁿMy covenant with you and with your ¹descendants after you, Article: The Noahic Covenant ^{10o}"and with every living creature that is with you: the birds, the cattle, and every beast of the earth with you, of all that go out of the ark, every beast of the earth.

¹¹"Thus ^pI establish My covenant with you: Never again shall all flesh be cut off by the waters of the flood; never again shall there be a flood to destroy the earth."

¹²And God said: ^q"This is the sign of the covenant which I make between Me and you, and every living creature that is with you, for perpetual generations: ¹³"I set ^rMy rainbow in the cloud, and it shall be for the sign of the covenant between Me and the earth.

¹⁴"It shall be, when I bring a cloud over the earth, that the rainbow shall be seen in the cloud; ¹⁵"and ^sI will remember My covenant which is between Me and you and every living creature of all flesh; the waters shall never again become a flood to destroy all flesh.

¹⁶“The rainbow shall be in the cloud, and I will look on it to remember ^tthe everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is on the earth.”

¹⁷And God said to Noah, “This is the sign of the covenant which I have established between Me and all flesh that is on the earth.”

Noah and His Sons ¹⁸*Now the sons of Noah who went out of the ark were Shem, Ham, and Japheth. ^uAnd Ham was the father of Canaan.*

^{19v}These three were the sons of Noah, ^wand from these the whole earth was populated.

²⁰And Noah began to be ^xa farmer, and he planted a vineyard.

²¹Then he drank of the wine ^yand was drunk, and became uncovered in his tent.

²²And Ham, the father of Canaan, saw the nakedness of his father, and told his two brothers outside.

^{23z}But Shem and Japheth took a garment, laid it on both their shoulders, and went backward and covered the nakedness of their father. Their faces were ²turned away, and they did not see their father’s nakedness.

²⁴So Noah awoke from his wine, and knew what his younger son had done to him.

²⁵Then he said:

²⁶And he said:

^cBlessed be the LORD, The God of Shem,
And may Canaan be his servant.

²⁷May God ^denlarge Japheth, ^eAnd may he dwell in the tents of Shem;
And may Canaan be his servant.”

²⁸And Noah lived after the flood three hundred and fifty years.

²⁹So all the days of Noah were nine hundred and fifty years; and he died.

Genesis 10

Nations Descended from Noah (1 Chr. 1:5–27) ¹Now this is the genealogy of the sons of Noah: Shem, Ham, and Japheth. ^aAnd sons were born to them after the flood.

^{2b}The sons of Japheth were Gomer, Magog, Madai, Javan, Tubal, Meshech, and Tiras.

³The sons of Gomer were Ashkenaz, ¹Riphath, and Togarmah.

⁴The sons of Javan were Elishah, Tarshish, Kittim, and ²Dodanim.

⁵From these ^cthe coastland peoples of the Gentiles were separated into their lands, everyone according to his language, according to their families, into their nations.

^{6d}The sons of Ham were Cush, Mizraim, ³Put, and Canaan.

⁷The sons of Cush were Seba, Havilah, Sabtah, Raamah, and Sabtechah; and the sons of Raamah were Sheba and Dedan.

⁸Cush begot ^eNimrod; he began to be a mighty one on the earth.

⁹He was a mighty ^fhunter ^gbefore the LORD; therefore it is said, “Like Nimrod the mighty hunter before the LORD.”

¹¹From that land he went ^jto Assyria and built Nineveh, Rehoboth Ir, Calah, ¹²and Resen between Nineveh and Calah (that is the principal city).

¹³Mizraim begot Ludim, Anamim, Lehabim, Naphtuhim, ¹⁴Pathrusim, and Casluhim ^k(from whom came the Philistines and Caphtorim).

¹⁵Canaan begot Sidon his firstborn, and ¹Heth; ^{16m}the Jebusite, the Amorite, and the Girgashite; ¹⁷the Hivite, the Arkite, and the Sinite; ¹⁸the Arvadite, the Zemarite, and the Hamathite. Afterward the families of the Canaanites were dispersed.

¹⁹ⁿAnd the border of the Canaanites was from Sidon as you go toward Gerar, as far as Gaza; then as you go toward Sodom, Gomorrah, Admah, and Zeboiim, as far as Lasha.

²⁰These were the sons of Ham, according to their families, according to their languages, in their lands and in their nations.

²¹And children were born also to Shem, the father of all the children of Eber, ⁴the brother of Japheth the elder.

²³The sons of Aram were Uz, Hul, Gether, and ⁵Mash.

²⁴⁶Arphaxad begot ^qSalah, and Salah begot Eber.

²⁵^rTo Eber were born two sons: the name of one was ⁷Peleg, for in his days the earth was divided; and his brother's name was Joktan.

²⁶Joktan begot Almodad, Sheleph, Hazarmaveth, Jerah, ²⁷Hadoram, Uzal, Diklah, ²⁸⁸Obal, Abimael, Sheba, ²⁹Ophir, Havilah, and Jobab. All these were the sons of Joktan.

³⁰And their dwelling place was from Mesha as you go toward Sephar, the mountain of the east.

³¹These were the sons of Shem, according to their families, according to their languages, in their lands, according to their nations.

Genesis 11

The Tower of Babel ¹*Now the whole earth had one language and one ¹speech.*

²And it came to pass, as they journeyed from the east, that they found a plain in the land ^aof Shinar, and they dwelt there.

³Then they said to one another, “Come, let us make bricks and ²bake them thoroughly.” They had brick for stone, and they had asphalt for mortar.

⁴And they said, “Come, let us build ourselves a city, and a tower ^bwhose top is in the heavens; let us make a ^cname for ourselves, lest we ^dbe scattered abroad over the face of the whole earth.”

^{5e}But the LORD came down to see the city and the tower which the sons of men had built.

⁶And the LORD said, “Indeed ^fthe people are one and they all have ^gone language, and this is what they begin to do; now nothing that they ^hpropose to do will be withheld from them.

⁷“Come, ⁱlet Us go down and there ^jconfuse their language, that they may not understand one another’s speech.”

⁸So ^kthe LORD scattered them abroad from there ^lover the face of all the earth, and they ceased building the city.

⁹Therefore its name is called ³Babel, ^mbecause there the LORD confused the language of all the earth; and from there the LORD scattered them abroad over the face of all the earth.

Shem’s Descendants (1 Chr. 1:17–27; Luke 3:34–36) ¹⁰ⁿ*This is the genealogy of Shem: Shem was one hundred years old, and begot Arphaxad two years after the flood.*

¹¹After he begot Arphaxad, Shem lived five hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

¹²Arphaxad lived thirty-five years, ^oand begot Salah.

¹³After he begot Salah, Arphaxad lived four hundred and three years, and begot sons and daughters.

¹⁴Salah lived thirty years, and begot Eber.

¹⁵After he begot Eber, Salah lived four hundred and three years, and begot sons and daughters.

^{16p}Eber lived thirty-four years, and begot ^qPeleg.

¹⁷After he begot Peleg, Eber lived four hundred and thirty years, and begot sons and daughters.

¹⁸Peleg lived thirty years, and begot Reu.

¹⁹After he begot Reu, Peleg lived two hundred and nine years, and begot sons and daughters.

²⁰Reu lived thirty-two years, and begot ^rSerug.

²¹After he begot Serug, Reu lived two hundred and seven years, and begot sons and daughters.

²²Serug lived thirty years, and begot Nahor.

²³After he begot Nahor, Serug lived two hundred years, and begot sons and daughters.

²⁴Nahor lived twenty-nine years, and begot ^sTerah.

²⁵After he begot Terah, Nahor lived one hundred and nineteen years, and begot sons and daughters.

²⁶Now Terah lived seventy years, and ^tbegot ⁴Abram, Nahor, and Haran.

Terah's Descendants ²⁷This is the genealogy of Terah: Terah begot
"Abram, Nahor, and Haran. Haran begot Lot.

²⁸And Haran died before his father Terah in his native land, in Ur of the Chaldeans.

²⁹Then Abram and Nahor took wives: the name of Abram's wife was ^vSarai,⁵ and the name of Nahor's wife, ^wMilcah, the daughter of Haran the father of Milcah and the father of Iscah.

³⁰But ^xSarai was barren; she had no child.

³¹And Terah ^ytook his son Abram and his grandson Lot, the son of Haran, and his daughter-in-law Sarai, his son Abram's wife, and they went out with them from ^zUr of the Chaldeans to go to ^athe land of Canaan; and they came to Haran and dwelt there. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Ur

³²So the days of Terah were two hundred and five years, and Terah died in Haran.

Genesis 12

Promises to Abram (Acts 7:2–5) ¹Now the ^aLORD had said to Abram:

Get ^bout of your country, From your family
And from your father's house, To a land that I will show you. [Word Studies:
land](#)

^{2c}I will make you a great nation; ^dI will bless you And make your name great; ^eAnd you shall be a blessing. Charts and Diagrams: God's Promise to Abram Fulfilled

^{3f}I will bless those who bless you, And I will curse him who curses you;
And in ^gyou all the families of the earth shall be ^hblessed.”

⁴So Abram departed as the LORD had spoken to him, and Lot went with him. And Abram was seventy-five years old when he departed from Haran.

⁵Then Abram took Sarai his wife and Lot his brother's son, and all their possessions that they had gathered, and ⁱthe ¹people whom they had acquired ^jin Haran, and they ^kdeparted to go to the land of Canaan. So they came to the land of Canaan.

⁶Abram ^lpassed through the land to the place of Shechem, ^mas far as ²the terebinth tree of Moreh. ⁿAnd the Canaanites were then in the land.

^{7o}Then the LORD appeared to Abram and said, ^p“To your ³descendants I will give this land.” And there he built an ^qaltar to the LORD, who had appeared to him.

⁸And he moved from there to the mountain east of Bethel, and he pitched his tent with Bethel on the west and Ai on the east; there he built an altar to the LORD and ^rcalled on the name of the LORD.

⁹So Abram journeyed, ^sgoing on still toward the ⁴South. In-Text Map: Abram's Travels

Abram in Egypt ¹⁰Now there was ^ta famine in the land, and Abram ^uwent down to Egypt to dwell there, for the famine was ^vsevere in the land.

¹¹And it came to pass, when he was close to entering Egypt, that he said to Sarai his wife, “Indeed I know that you are ^wa woman of beautiful countenance.

¹²“Therefore it will happen, when the Egyptians see you, that they will say, ‘This is his wife’; and they ^xwill kill me, but they will let you live.

^{13y}“Please say you are my ^zsister, that it may be well with me for your sake, and that ⁵I may live because of you.”

¹⁴So it was, when Abram came into Egypt, that the Egyptians saw the woman, that she was very beautiful.

¹⁵The princes of Pharaoh also saw her and commended her to Pharaoh. And the woman was taken to Pharaoh’s house.

¹⁶He ^atreated Abram well for her sake. He ^bhad sheep, oxen, male donkeys, male and female servants, female donkeys, and camels.

¹⁷But the LORD ^cplagued Pharaoh and his house with great plagues because of Sarai, Abram’s wife.

¹⁸And Pharaoh called Abram and said, ^d“What is this you have done to me? Why did you not tell me that she was your wife?

¹⁹“Why did you say, ‘She is my sister’? I might have taken her as my wife. Now therefore, here is your wife; take her and go your way.”

^{20e}So Pharaoh commanded his men concerning him; and they sent him away, with his wife and all that he had.

Genesis 13

Abram Inherits Canaan ¹*Then Abram went up from Egypt, he and his wife and all that he had, and ^aLot with him, ^bto the ¹South.*

^{2c}Abram was very rich in livestock, in silver, and in gold.

³And he went on his journey ^dfrom the South as far as Bethel, to the place where his tent had been at the beginning, between Bethel and Ai, ⁴to the ^eplace of the altar which he had made there at first. And there Abram ^fcalled on the name of the LORD. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Cuneiform

⁵Lot also, who went with Abram, had flocks and herds and tents.

⁶Now ^gthe land was not able to ²support them, that they might dwell together, for their possessions were so great that they could not dwell together.

⁷And there was ^hstrife between the herdsmen of Abram's livestock and the herdsmen of Lot's livestock. ⁱThe Canaanites and the Perizzites then dwelt in the land.

⁸So Abram said to Lot, ^j“Please let there be no strife between you and me, and between my herdsmen and your herdsmen; for we are brethren.

^{9k}“Is not the whole land before you? Please ^lseparate from me. ^mIf you take the left, then I will go to the right; or, if you go to the right, then I will go to the left.”

¹⁰And Lot lifted his eyes and saw all ⁿthe plain of Jordan, that it was well watered everywhere (before the LORD ^odestroyed Sodom and Gomorrah) ^plike the garden of the LORD, like the land of Egypt as you go toward ^qZoar.

¹¹Then Lot chose for himself all the plain of Jordan, and Lot journeyed east. And they separated from each other.

¹²Abram dwelt in the land of Canaan, and Lot ^rdwelt in the cities of the plain and ^spitched his tent even as far as Sodom.

¹³But the men of Sodom ^twere exceedingly wicked and ^usinful against the LORD.

¹⁴And the LORD said to Abram, after Lot ^vhad separated from him: “Lift your eyes now and look from the place where you are—^wnorthward, southward, eastward, and westward; ¹⁵“for all the land which you see ^xI give to you and ^yyour ³descendants forever.

¹⁶“And ^zI will make your descendants as the dust of the earth; so that if a man could number the dust of the earth, then your descendants also could be numbered.

¹⁷“Arise, walk in the land through its length and its width, for I give it to you.”

^{18a}Then Abram moved his tent, and went and ^bdwelt by ⁴the terebinth trees of Mamre, ^cwhich are in Hebron, and built an ^daltar there to the LORD.

Genesis 14

Lot's Captivity and Rescue ¹*And it came to pass in the days of Amraphel king ^aof Shinar, Arioch king of Ellasar, Chedorlaomer king of ^bElam, and Tidal king of ¹nations, ²that they made war with Bera king of Sodom, Birsha king of Gomorrah, Shinab king of ^cAdmah, Shemeber king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, ^dZoar).*

³All these joined together in the Valley of Siddim ^e(that is, the Salt Sea).

⁴Twelve years ^fthey served Chedorlaomer, and in the thirteenth year they rebelled.

⁵In the fourteenth year Chedorlaomer and the kings that were with him came and attacked ^gthe Rephaim in Ashteroth Karnaim, ^hthe Zuzim in Ham, ⁱthe Emim in Shaveh Kiriathaim, ^{6j}and the Horites in their mountain of Seir, as far as El Paran, which is by the wilderness.

⁷Then they turned back and came to En Mishpat (that is, Kadesh), and attacked all the country of the Amalekites, and also the Amorites who dwelt ^kin Hazezon Tamar.

⁸And the king of Sodom, the king of Gomorrah, the king of Admah, the king of Zeboiim, and the king of Bela (that is, Zoar) went out and joined together in battle in the Valley of Siddim ⁹against Chedorlaomer king of Elam, Tidal king of ²nations, Amraphel king of Shinar, and Arioch king of Ellasar—four kings against five.

¹⁰Now the Valley of Siddim was full of ¹asphalt pits; and the kings of Sodom and Gomorrah fled; some fell there, and the remainder fled ^mto the mountains.

¹¹Then they took ⁿall the goods of Sodom and Gomorrah, and all their provisions, and went their way.

¹²They also took Lot, Abram's ^obrother's son ^pwho dwelt in Sodom, and his goods, and departed.

¹³Then one who had escaped came and told Abram the ^qHebrew, for ^rhe dwelt by ³the terebinth trees of Mamre the Amorite, brother of Eshcol and brother of Aner; ^sand they were allies with Abram.

¹⁴Now ^twhen Abram heard that ^uhis brother was taken captive, he armed his three hundred and eighteen trained servants who were ^vborn in his own house, and went in pursuit ^was far as Dan.

¹⁵He divided his forces against them by night, and he and his servants ^xattacked them and pursued them as far as Hobah, which is ⁴north of Damascus.

¹⁶So he ^ybrought back all the goods, and also brought back his brother Lot and his goods, as well as the women and the people.

¹⁷And the king of Sodom ^zwent out to meet him at the Valley of Shaveh (that is, the ^aKing's Valley), ^bafter his return from ⁵the defeat of Chedorlaomer and the kings who were with him.

Abram and Melchizedek (Heb. 7:1, 2) ¹⁸Then ^cMelchizedek king of Salem brought out ^dbread and wine; he was ^ethe priest of ^fGod Most High.

¹⁹And he blessed him and said:

^gBlessed be Abram of God Most High, ^hPossessor of heaven and earth;

²⁰And ⁱblessed be God Most High, Who has delivered your enemies into your hand.”

And he ^jgave him ⁶a tithe of all.

²¹Now the king of Sodom said to Abram, “Give me the ⁷persons, and take the goods for yourself.”

²²But Abram ^ksaid to the king of Sodom, “I ^lhave raised my hand to the LORD, God Most High, ^mthe Possessor of heaven and earth, ²³“that ⁿI will take nothing, from a thread to a sandal strap, and that I will not take anything that is yours, lest you should say, ‘I have made Abram rich’— ²⁴“except only what the young men have eaten, and the portion of the men who went with me: Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre; let them take their portion.”

Genesis 15

God's Covenant with Abram (Heb. 11:8–10) ¹After these things the word of the LORD came to Abram ^ain a vision, saying, ^b“Do not be afraid, Abram. I am your ^cshield, ¹your exceedingly ^dgreat reward.”

^{2e}But Abram said, “Lord GOD, what will You give me, ^fseeing I ²go childless, and the heir of my house is Eliezer of Damascus?”

³Then Abram said, “Look, You have given me no offspring; indeed ^gone³ born in my house is my heir!”

⁴And behold, the word of the LORD came to him, saying, “This one shall not be your heir, but one who ^hwill come from your own body shall be your heir.”

⁵Then He brought him outside and said, “Look now toward heaven, and ⁱcount the ^jstars if you are able to number them.” And He said to him, ^k“So shall your ¹descendants be.”

⁶And he ^mbelieved in the LORD, and He ⁿaccounted it to him for righteousness. Word Studies: believe Word Studies: accounted

⁷Then He said to him, “I am the LORD, who ^obrought you out of ^pUr of the Chaldeans, ^qto give you this land to inherit it.”

⁸And he said, “Lord GOD, ^rhow shall I know that I will inherit it?”

⁹So He said to him, “Bring Me a three-year-old heifer, a three-year-old female goat, a three-year-old ram, a turtledove, and a young pigeon.”

¹⁰Then he brought all these to Him and ^scut them in two, down the middle, and placed each piece opposite the other; but he did not cut ^tthe birds in two.

¹¹And when the vultures came down on the carcasses, Abram drove them away.

¹²Now when the sun was going down, ^ua deep sleep fell upon Abram; and behold, horror and great darkness fell upon him.

¹³Then He said to Abram: “Know certainly ^vthat your descendants will be strangers in a land that is not theirs, and will serve them, and ^wthey will afflict them four hundred years.

¹⁴“And also the nation whom they serve ^xI will judge; afterward ^ythey shall come out with great possessions.

¹⁵“Now as for you, ^zyou shall ⁴go ^ato your fathers in peace; ^byou shall be buried at a good old age.

¹⁶“But ^cin the fourth generation they shall return here, for the iniquity ^dof the Amorites ^eis not yet complete.”

¹⁷And it came to pass, when the sun went down and it was dark, that behold, there appeared a smoking oven and a burning torch that ^fpassed between those pieces.

¹⁸On the same day the LORD ^gmade a covenant with Abram, saying: ^h“To your descendants I have given this land, from the river of Egypt to the great river, the River Euphrates— ¹⁹“the Kenites, the Kenezites, the Kadmonites, ²⁰“the Hittites, the Perizzites, the Rephaim, ²¹“the Amorites, the Canaanites, the Girgashites, and the Jebusites.”

Hagar and Ishmael ¹Now Sarai, Abram's wife, ^ahad borne him no children. And she had ^ban Egyptian maidservant whose name was ^cHagar.

^{2d}So Sarai said to Abram, "See now, the LORD ^ehas restrained me from bearing children. Please, ^fgo in to my maid; perhaps I shall ¹obtain children by her." And Abram ^gheeded the voice of Sarai.

³Then Sarai, Abram's wife, took Hagar her maid, the Egyptian, and gave her to her husband Abram to be his wife, after Abram ^hhad dwelt ten years in the land of Canaan.

⁴So he went in to Hagar, and she conceived. And when she saw that she had conceived, her mistress became ⁱdespised in her ²eyes.

⁵Then Sarai said to Abram, ³"My wrong be upon you! I gave my maid into your embrace; and when she saw that she had conceived, I became despised in her eyes. ^jThe LORD judge between you and me."

^{6k}So Abram said to Sarai, "Indeed your maid is in your hand; do to her as you please." And when Sarai dealt harshly with her, ^lshe fled from her presence.

⁷Now the ^mAngel of the LORD found her by a spring of water in the wilderness, ⁿby the spring on the way to ^oShur.

⁸And He said, "Hagar, Sarai's maid, where have you come from, and where are you going?" She said, "I am fleeing from the presence of my mistress Sarai."

⁹The Angel of the LORD said to her, "Return to your mistress, and ^psubmit yourself under her hand."

¹⁰Then the Angel of the LORD said to her, ^q"I will multiply your descendants exceedingly, so that they shall not be counted for multitude."

¹¹And the Angel of the LORD said to her:

Behold, you are with child, ^rAnd you shall bear a son.

You shall call his name ⁴Ishmael, Because the LORD has heard your affliction.

^{12s}He shall be a wild man; His hand shall be against every man, And every man's hand against him.

^tAnd he shall dwell in the presence of all his brethren."

¹³Then she called the name of the LORD who spoke to her, You-Are-⁵the-God-WhoSees; for she said, “Have I also here ⁶seen Him ^uwho sees me?”

¹⁴Therefore the well was called ^vBeer Lahai Roi;⁷ observe, it is ^wbetween Kadesh and Bered.

¹⁵So ^xHagar bore Abram a son; and Abram named his son, whom Hagar bore, Ishmael.

¹⁶Abram was eighty-six years old when Hagar bore Ishmael to Abram.

Genesis 17

The Sign of the Covenant (Ex. 12:43—13:2) ¹When Abram was ninety-nine years old, the LORD ^aappeared to Abram and said to him, ^b“I am ¹Almighty God; ^cwalk before Me and be ^dblameless.

²“And I will make My ^ecovenant between Me and you, and ^fwill multiply you exceedingly.” Charts and Diagrams: The Abrahamic Covenant

³Then Abram fell on his face, and God talked with him, saying: ⁴“As for Me, behold, My covenant is with you, and you shall be ^ga father of ²many nations.

⁵“No longer shall ^hyour name be called ³Abram, but your name shall be ⁴Abraham; ⁱfor I have made you a father of ⁵many nations.

⁶“I will make you exceedingly fruitful; and I will make ^jnations of you, and ^kkings shall come from you.

⁷“And I will ^lestablish My covenant between Me and you and your descendants after you in their generations, for an everlasting covenant, ^mto be God to you and ⁿyour descendants after you.

⁸“Also ^oI give to you and your descendants after you the land ^pin⁶ which you are a stranger, all the land of Canaan, as an everlasting possession; and ^qI will be their God.”

⁹And God said to Abraham: “As for you, ^ryou shall keep My covenant, you and your descendants after you throughout their generations.

¹¹“and you shall be circumcised in the flesh of your foreskins, and it shall be ^ta sign of the covenant between Me and you.

¹³“He who is born in your house and he who is bought with your money must be circumcised, and My covenant shall be in your flesh for an everlasting covenant.

¹⁴“And the uncircumcised male child, who is not circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin, that person ^vshall be cut off from his people; he has broken

My covenant.”

¹⁵Then God said to Abraham, “As for Sarai your wife, you shall not call her name Sarai, but ⁷Sarah shall be her name.

¹⁶“And I will bless her ^wand also give you a son by her; then I will bless her, and she shall be a mother ^xof nations; ^ykings of peoples shall be from her.”

¹⁷Then Abraham fell on his face ^zand laughed, and said in his heart, “Shall a child be born to a man who is one hundred years old? And shall Sarah, who is ninety years old, bear a child?”

¹⁸And Abraham ^asaid to God, “Oh, that Ishmael might live before You!”

¹⁹Then God said: “No, ^bSarah your wife shall bear you a son, and you shall call his name Isaac; I will establish My ^ccovenant with him for an everlasting covenant, and with his descendants after him.

²⁰“And as for Ishmael, I have heard you. Behold, I have blessed him, and will make him fruitful, and ^dwill multiply him exceedingly. He shall beget ^etwelve princes, ^fand I will make him a great nation.

²¹“But My ^gcovenant I will establish with Isaac, ^hwhom Sarah shall bear to you at this ⁱset time next year.”

²²Then He finished talking with him, and God went up from Abraham.

²³So Abraham took Ishmael his son, all who were born in his house and all who were bought with his money, every male among the men of Abraham’s house, and circumcised the flesh of their foreskins that very same day, as God had said to him.

²⁴Abraham was ninety-nine years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.

²⁵And Ishmael his son was thirteen years old when he was circumcised in the flesh of his foreskin.

²⁶That very same day Abraham was circumcised, and his son Ishmael;
²⁷and ^jall the men of his house, born in the house or bought with money from a foreigner, were circumcised with him.

Genesis 18

The Son of Promise (Heb. 13:2) ¹Then the LORD appeared to him by ¹the ^aterebinth trees of Mamre, as he was sitting in the tent door in the heat of the day. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Tents

^{2b}So he lifted his eyes and looked, and behold, three men were standing by him; ^cand when he saw them, he ran from the tent door to meet them, and bowed himself to the ground, ³and said, “My Lord, if I have now found favor in Your sight, do not pass on by Your servant.

⁴“Please let ^da little water be brought, and wash your feet, and rest yourselves under the tree.

⁵“And ^eI will bring a morsel of bread, that ^fyou may refresh your hearts. After that you may pass by, ^ginasmuch as you have come to your servant.” They said, “Do as you have said.”

⁶So Abraham hurried into the tent to Sarah and said, “Quickly, make ready three measures of fine meal; knead it and make cakes.”

⁷And Abraham ran to the herd, took a tender and good calf, gave it to a young man, and he hastened to prepare it.

⁸So ^hhe took butter and milk and the calf which he had prepared, and set it before them; and he stood by them under the tree as they ate.

⁹Then they said to him, “Where is Sarah your wife?” So he said, “Here, ⁱin the tent.”

¹⁰And He said, “I will certainly return to you ^jaccording to the time of life, and behold, ^kSarah your wife shall have a son.” (Sarah was listening in the tent door which was behind him.) ¹¹Now ^lAbraham and Sarah were old, well advanced in age; and ²Sarah ^mhad passed the age of childbearing.

¹²Therefore Sarah ⁿlaughed within herself, saying, ^o“After I have grown old, shall I have pleasure, my ^plord being old also?”

¹³And the LORD said to Abraham, “Why did Sarah laugh, saying, ‘Shall I surely bear a child, since I am old?’

^{14q}“Is anything too hard for the LORD? ^rAt the appointed time I will return to you, according to the time of life, and Sarah shall have a son.”

¹⁵But Sarah denied it, saying, “I did not laugh,” for she was afraid. And He said, “No, but you did laugh!”

Abraham Intercedes for Sodom ¹⁶*Then the men rose from there and looked toward Sodom, and Abraham went with them ^sto send them on the way.*

¹⁷And the LORD said, ^t“Shall I hide from Abraham what I am doing,
¹⁸“since Abraham shall surely become a great and mighty nation, and all the nations of the earth shall be ^ublessed in him?”

¹⁹“For I have known him, in order ^vthat he may command his children and his household after him, that they keep the way of the LORD, to do righteousness and justice, that the LORD may bring to Abraham what He has spoken to him.”

²⁰And the LORD said, “Because ^wthe outcry against Sodom and Gomorrah is great, and because their ^xsin is very grave, ^{21y}“I will go down now and see whether they have done altogether according to the outcry against it that has come to Me; and if not, ^zI will know.”

²²Then the men turned away from there ^aand went toward Sodom, but Abraham still stood before the LORD.

²³And Abraham ^bcame near and said, ^c“Would You also ^ddestroy the ^erighteous with the wicked?”

²⁴“Suppose there were fifty righteous within the city; would You also destroy the place and not spare it for the fifty righteous that were in it?”

²⁵“Far be it from You to do such a thing as this, to slay the righteous with the wicked, so ^fthat the righteous should be as the wicked; far be it from You! ^gShall not the Judge of all the earth do right?”

²⁶So the LORD said, ^h“If I find in Sodom fifty righteous within the city, then I will spare all the place for their sakes.”

²⁷Then Abraham answered and said, “Indeed now, I who am ⁱbut dust and ashes have taken it upon myself to speak to the Lord: ²⁸“Suppose there were five less than the fifty righteous; would You destroy all of the city for lack of five?” So He said, “If I find there forty-five, I will not destroy it.”

²⁹And he spoke to Him yet again and said, “Suppose there should be forty found there?” So He said, “I will not do it for the sake of forty.”

³⁰Then he said, “Let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak: Suppose thirty should be found there?” So He said, “I will not do it if I find thirty there.”

³¹And he said, “Indeed now, I have taken it upon myself to speak to the Lord: Suppose twenty should be found there?” So He said, “I will not destroy it for the sake of twenty.”

³²Then he said, ^j“Let not the Lord be angry, and I will speak but once more: Suppose ten should be found there?” ^kAnd He said, “I will not destroy it for the sake of ten.”

³³So the LORD went His way as soon as He had finished speaking with Abraham; and Abraham returned to his place.

Genesis 19

Sodom's Depravity ¹Now ^athe two angels came to Sodom in the evening, and ^bLot was sitting in the gate of Sodom. When Lot saw them, he rose to meet them, and he bowed himself with his face toward the ground.

²And he said, "Here now, my lords, please ^cturn in to your servant's house and spend the night, and ^dwash your feet; then you may rise early and go on your way." And they said, ^e"No, but we will spend the night in the open square."

³But he insisted strongly; so they turned in to him and entered his house. ^fThen he made them a feast, and baked ^gunleavened bread, and they ate.

⁴Now before they lay down, the men of the city, the men of Sodom, both old and young, all the people from every quarter, surrounded the house.

^{5h}And they called to Lot and said to him, "Where are the men who came to you tonight? ⁱBring them out to us that we ^jmay know them carnally."

⁶So ^kLot went out to them through the doorway, shut the door behind him, ⁷and said, "Please, my brethren, do not do so wickedly!

^{8l}"See now, I have two daughters who have not known a man; please, let me bring them out to you, and you may do to them as you wish; only do nothing to these men, ^msince this is the reason they have come under the shadow of my roof."

⁹And they said, "Stand back!" Then they said, "This one ⁿcame in to ¹stay here, ^oand he keeps acting as a judge; now we will deal worse with you than with them." So they pressed hard against the man Lot, and came near to break down the door.

¹⁰But the men reached out their hands and pulled Lot into the house with them, and shut the door.

¹¹And they ^pstruck the men who were at the doorway of the house with blindness, both small and great, so that they became weary trying to find the door.

Sodom and Gomorrah Destroyed (Matt. 11:23, 24; Luke 17:28–32) ¹²Then the men said to Lot, "Have you anyone else here? Son-in-law, your sons, your daughters, and whomever you have in the city—^qtake them out of this place!"

¹³“For we will destroy this place, because the ^routcry against them has grown great before the face of the LORD, and ^sthe LORD has sent us to destroy it.”

¹⁴So Lot went out and spoke to his sons-in-law, ^twho had married his daughters, and said, ^u“Get up, get out of this place; for the LORD will destroy this city!” ^vBut to his sons-in-law he seemed to be joking.

¹⁵When the morning dawned, the angels urged Lot to hurry, saying, ^w“Arise, take your wife and your two daughters who are here, lest you be consumed in the punishment of the city.”

¹⁶And while he lingered, the men ^xtook hold of his hand, his wife’s hand, and the hands of his two daughters, the ^yLORD being merciful to him, ^zand they brought him out and set him outside the city.

¹⁷So it came to pass, when they had brought them outside, that ²he said, ^a“Escape for your life! ^bDo not look behind you nor stay anywhere in the plain. Escape ^cto the mountains, lest you be ³destroyed.”

¹⁸Then Lot said to them, “Please, ^dno, my lords!

¹⁹“Indeed now, your servant has found favor in your sight, and you have increased your mercy which you have shown me by saving my life; but I cannot escape to the mountains, lest some evil overtake me and I die.

²⁰“See now, this city is near enough to flee to, and it is a little one; please let me escape there (is it not a little one?) and my soul shall live.”

²¹And he said to him, “See, ^eI have favored you concerning this thing also, in that I will not overthrow this city for which you have spoken.

²²“Hurry, escape there. For ^fI cannot do anything until you arrive there.” Therefore ^gthe name of the city was called ⁴Zoar.

²³The sun had risen upon the earth when Lot entered Zoar.

²⁴Then the LORD rained ^hbrimstone and ⁱfire on Sodom and Gomorrah, from the LORD out of the heavens.

²⁵So He ⁵overthrew those cities, all the plain, all the inhabitants of the cities, and ^jwhat grew on the ground.

²⁶But his wife looked back behind him, and she became ^ka pillar of salt.

²⁷And Abraham went early in the morning to the place where ^lhe had stood before the LORD.

²⁸Then he looked toward Sodom and Gomorrah, and toward all the land of the plain; and he saw, and behold, ^mthe smoke of the land which went up like the smoke of a furnace.

²⁹And it came to pass, when God destroyed the cities of the plain, that God ⁿremembered Abraham, and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow, when He overthrew the cities in which Lot had dwelt.

The Descendants of Lot ³⁰Then Lot went up out of Zoar and ^odwelt in the mountains, and his two daughters were with him; for he was afraid to dwell in Zoar. And he and his two daughters dwelt in a cave.

³¹Now the firstborn said to the younger, “Our father is old, and there is no man on the earth ^pto come in to us as is the custom of all the earth.

³²“Come, let us make our father drink wine, and we will lie with him, that we ^qmay preserve the ⁶lineage of our father.”

³³So they made their father drink wine that night. And the firstborn went in and lay with her father, and he did not know when she lay down or when she arose.

³⁴It happened on the next day that the firstborn said to the younger, “Indeed I lay with my father last night; let us make him drink wine tonight also, and you go in and lie with him, that we may preserve the ⁷lineage of our father.”

³⁵Then they made their father drink wine that night also. And the younger arose and lay with him, and he did not know when she lay down or when she arose.

³⁶Thus both the daughters of Lot were with child by their father.

³⁷The firstborn bore a son and called his name Moab; ^rhe is the father of the Moabites to this day.

³⁸And the younger, she also bore a son and called his name Ben-Ammi; ^she is the father of the people of Ammon to this day.

Genesis 20

Abraham and Abimelech ¹*And Abraham journeyed from ^athere to the South, and dwelt between ^bKadesh and Shur, and ^cstayed in Gerar.*

²Now Abraham said of Sarah his wife, ^d“She is my sister.” And Abimelech king of Gerar sent and ^etook Sarah.

³But ^fGod came to Abimelech ^gin a dream by night, and said to him, ^h“Indeed you are a dead man because of the woman whom you have taken, for she is ¹a man’s wife.”

⁴But Abimelech had not come near her; and he said, “Lord, ⁱwill You slay a righteous nation also?

⁵“Did he not say to me, ‘She is my sister’? And she, even she herself said, ‘He is my brother.’ ^jIn the ²integrity of my heart and innocence of my hands I have done this.”

⁶And God said to him in a dream, “Yes, I know that you did this in the integrity of your heart. For ^kI also withheld you from sinning ¹against Me; therefore I did not let you touch her.

⁷“Now therefore, restore the man’s wife; ^mfor he is a prophet, and he will pray for you and you shall live. But if you do not restore her, ⁿknow that you shall surely die, you ^oand all who are yours.”

⁸So Abimelech rose early in the morning, called all his servants, and told all these things in their hearing; and the men were very much afraid.

⁹And Abimelech called Abraham and said to him, “What have you done to us? How have I ³offended you, ^pthat you have brought on me and on my kingdom a great sin? You have done deeds to me ^qthat ought not to be done.”

¹⁰Then Abimelech said to Abraham, “What did you have in view, that you have done this thing?”

¹¹And Abraham said, “Because I thought, surely ^rthe fear of God is not in this place; and ^sthey will kill me on account of my wife.

¹²“But indeed ^t*she* is truly my sister. She is the daughter of my father, but not the daughter of my mother; and she became my wife.

¹³“And it came to pass, when ^uGod caused me to wander from my father’s house, that I said to her, ‘This is your kindness that you should do for me: in every place, wherever we go, ^vsay of me, “He is my brother.” ’

¹⁴Then Abimelech ^wtook sheep, oxen, and male and female servants, and gave them to Abraham; and he restored Sarah his wife to him.

¹⁵And Abimelech said, “See, ^xmy land is before you; dwell where it pleases you.”

¹⁶Then to Sarah he said, “Behold, I have given your brother a thousand pieces of silver; ^yindeed this ⁴vindicates you ^zbefore all who are with you and before everybody.” Thus she was ⁵rebuked.

¹⁷So Abraham ^aprayed to God; and God ^bhealed Abimelech, his wife, and his female servants. Then they bore children; ¹⁸for the LORD ^chad closed up all the wombs of the house of Abimelech because of Sarah, Abraham’s wife.

Genesis 21

Isaac Is Born (Heb. 11:11) ¹And the LORD ^avisited Sarah as He had said, and the LORD did for Sarah ^bas He had spoken.

²For Sarah ^cconceived and bore Abraham a son in his old age, ^dat the set time of which God had spoken to him.

³And Abraham called the name of his son who was born to him—whom Sarah bore to him—^eIsaac.¹

⁴Then Abraham ^fcircumcised his son Isaac when he was eight days old, ^gas God had commanded him.

⁵Now ^hAbraham was one hundred years old when his son Isaac was born to him.

⁶And Sarah said, ⁱ“God has ²made me laugh, and all who hear ^jwill laugh with me.”

⁷She also said, “Who would have said to Abraham that Sarah would nurse children? ^kFor I have borne him a son in his old age.”

Hagar and Ishmael Depart (Gal. 4:21–30) ⁸So the child grew and was weaned. And Abraham made a great feast on the same day that Isaac was weaned.

⁹And Sarah saw the son of Hagar ^lthe Egyptian, whom she had borne to Abraham, ^mscoffing.³

¹⁰Therefore she said to Abraham, ⁿ“Cast out this bondwoman and her son; for the son of this bondwoman shall not be heir with my son, namely with Isaac.”

¹¹And the matter was very ⁴displeasing in Abraham’s sight ^obecause of his son.

¹²But God said to Abraham, “Do not let it be displeasing in your sight because of the lad or because of your bondwoman. Whatever Sarah has said to you, listen to her voice; for ^pin Isaac your seed shall be called.

¹³“Yet I will also make ^qa nation of the son of the bondwoman, because he is your ⁵seed.”

¹⁴So Abraham rose early in the morning, and took bread and ⁶a skin of water; and putting it on her shoulder, he gave it and the boy to Hagar, and ^rsent her away. Then she departed and wandered in the Wilderness of Beersheba.

¹⁵And the water in the skin was used up, and she placed the boy under one of the shrubs.

¹⁶Then she went and sat down across from him at a distance of about a bowshot; for she said to herself, “Let me not see the death of the boy.” So she sat opposite him, and lifted her voice and wept.

¹⁷And ^sGod heard the voice of the lad. Then the ^tangel of God called to Hagar out of heaven, and said to her, “What ails you, Hagar? Fear not, for God has heard the voice of the lad where he is.

¹⁸“Arise, lift up the lad and hold him with your hand, for ^uI will make him a great nation.”

¹⁹Then ^vGod opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water. And she went and filled the skin with water, and gave the lad a drink. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Wells

²⁰So God ^wwas with the lad; and he grew and dwelt in the wilderness, ^xand became an archer.

²¹He dwelt in the Wilderness of Paran; and his mother ^ytook a wife for him from the land of Egypt.

A Covenant with Abimelech ²²And it came to pass at that time that ^zAbimelech and Phichol, the commander of his army, spoke to Abraham, saying, ^a“God is with you in all that you do.

²³“Now therefore, ^bswear⁷ to me by God that you will not deal falsely with me, with my offspring, or with my posterity; but that according to the kindness that I have done to you, you will do to me and to the land in which you have dwelt.”

²⁴And Abraham said, “I will swear.”

²⁵Then Abraham rebuked Abimelech because of a well of water which Abimelech’s servants ^chad seized.

²⁶And Abimelech said, “I do not know who has done this thing; you did not tell me, nor had I heard of it until today.”

²⁷So Abraham took sheep and oxen and gave them to Abimelech, and the two of them ^dmade a ⁸covenant.

²⁸And Abraham set seven ewe lambs of the flock by themselves.

²⁹Then Abimelech asked Abraham, ^e“What is the meaning of these seven ewe lambs which you have set by themselves?”

³⁰And he said, “You will take these seven ewe lambs from my hand, that ^fthey may be my witness that I have dug this well.”

³¹Therefore he ^gcalled that place ⁹Beersheba, because the two of them swore an oath there.

³²Thus they made a covenant at Beersheba. So Abimelech rose with Phichol, the commander of his army, and they returned to the land of the Philistines.

³³Then Abraham planted a tamarisk tree in Beersheba, and ^hthere called on the name of the LORD, ⁱthe Everlasting God.

³⁴And Abraham stayed in the land of the Philistines many days.

Genesis 22

Abraham's Faith Confirmed (Heb. 11:17–19) ¹Now it came to pass after these things that ^aGod tested Abraham, and said to him, “Abraham!” And he said, “Here I am.”

²Then He said, “Take now your son, ^byour only son Isaac, whom you ^clove, and go ^dto the land of Moriah, and offer him there as a ^eburnt offering on one of the mountains of which I shall tell you.”

³So Abraham rose early in the morning and saddled his donkey, and took two of his young men with him, and Isaac his son; and he split the wood for the burnt offering, and arose and went to the place of which God had told him.

⁴Then on the third day Abraham lifted his eyes and saw the place afar off.

⁵And Abraham said to his young men, “Stay here with the donkey; the ¹lad and I will go yonder and worship, and we will ^fcome back to you.”

⁶So Abraham took the wood of the burnt offering and ^glaid it on Isaac his son; and he took the fire in his hand, and a knife, and the two of them went together.

⁷But Isaac spoke to Abraham his father and said, “My father!” And he said, “Here I am, my son.” Then he said, “Look, the fire and the wood, but where is the ²lamb for a burnt offering?”

⁸And Abraham said, “My son, God will provide for Himself the ^hlamb for a ⁱburnt offering.” So the two of them went together.

⁹Then they came to the place of which God had told him. And Abraham built an altar there and placed the wood in order; and he bound Isaac his son and ^jlaid him on the altar, upon the wood.

¹⁰And Abraham stretched out his hand and took the knife to slay his son.

¹¹But the ^kAngel of the LORD called to him from heaven and said, “Abraham, Abraham!” So he said, “Here I am.”

¹²And He said, ^l“Do not lay your hand on the lad, or do anything to him; for ^mnow I know that you fear God, since you have not ⁿwithheld your son, your only son, from Me.”

¹³Then Abraham lifted his eyes and looked, and there behind him was a ram caught in a thicket by its horns. So Abraham went and took the ram, and offered it up for a burnt offering instead of his son.

¹⁴And Abraham called the name of the place, ³The-LORD-Will-Provide; as it is said to this day, “In the Mount of the LORD it shall be provided.”

¹⁵Then the Angel of the LORD called to Abraham a second time out of heaven, ¹⁶and said: ^o“By Myself I have sworn, says the LORD, because you have done this thing, and have not withheld your son, your only son—

¹⁸“In your seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed, ^ubecause you have obeyed My voice.” Word Studies: seed

¹⁹So Abraham returned to his young men, and they rose and went together to ^vBeersheba; and Abraham dwelt at Beersheba.

The Family of Nahor ²⁰Now it came to pass after these things that it was told Abraham, saying, “Indeed ^wMilcah also has borne children to your brother Nahor: ^{21x}“Huz his firstborn, Buz his brother, Kemuel the father ^yof Aram, ²²“Chesed, Hazo, Pildash, Jidlaph, and Bethuel.”

²³And ^zBethuel begot ⁴Rebekah. These eight Milcah bore to Nahor, Abraham’s brother.

²⁴His concubine, whose name was Reumah, also bore Tebah, Gaham, Thahash, and Maachah.

Genesis 23

Sarah's Death and Burial ¹*Sarah lived one hundred and twenty-seven years; these were the years of the life of Sarah.*

²So Sarah died in ^aKirjath Arba (that is, ^bHebron) in the land of Canaan, and Abraham came to mourn for Sarah and to weep for her.

³Then Abraham stood up from before his dead, and spoke to the sons of ^cHeth, saying, ^{4d}"I am a foreigner and a visitor among you. ^eGive me property for a burial place among you, that I may bury my dead out of my sight."

⁵And the sons of Heth answered Abraham, saying to him, ⁶*"Hear us, my lord: You are ^fa ¹mighty prince among us; bury your dead in the choicest of our burial places. None of us will withhold from you his burial place, that you may bury your dead."*

⁷Then Abraham stood up and bowed himself to the people of the land, the sons of Heth.

⁸And he spoke with them, saying, "If it is your wish that I bury my dead out of my sight, hear me, and ²meet with Ephron the son of Zohar for me, ⁹*"that he may give me the cave of ⁸Machpelah which he has, which is at the end of his field. Let him give it to me at the full price, as property for a burial place among you."*

¹⁰Now Ephron dwelt among the sons of Heth; and Ephron the Hittite answered Abraham in the presence of the sons of Heth, all who ^hentered at the gate of his city, saying, ¹¹ⁱ*"No, my lord, hear me: I give you the field and the cave that is in it; I give it to you in the presence of the sons of my people. I give it to you. Bury your dead!"*

¹²Then Abraham bowed himself down before the people of the land; ¹³and he spoke to Ephron in the hearing of the people of the land, saying, "If you will give it, please hear me. I will give you money for the field; take it from me and I will bury my dead there."

¹⁴And Ephron answered Abraham, saying to him, ¹⁵*"My lord, listen to me; the land is worth four hundred ^jshekels of silver. What is that between you and me? So bury your dead."*

¹⁶And Abraham listened to Ephron; and Abraham ^kweighed out the silver for Ephron which he had named in the hearing of the sons of Heth, four hundred shekels of silver, currency of the merchants.

¹⁷So ^lthe field of Ephron which was in Machpelah, which was before Mamre, the field and the cave which was in it, and all the trees that were in the field, which were within all the surrounding borders, were deeded ¹⁸to Abraham as a possession in the presence of the sons of Heth, before all who went in at the gate of his city.

¹⁹And after this, Abraham buried Sarah his wife in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre (that is, Hebron) in the land of Canaan.

²⁰So the field and the cave that is in it ^mwere deeded to Abraham by the sons of Heth as property for a burial place.

Genesis 24

A Bride for Isaac ¹Now Abraham ^awas old, well advanced in age; and the LORD ^bhad blessed Abraham in all things.

²So Abraham said ^cto the oldest servant of his house, who ^druled over all that he had, “Please, ^eput your hand under my thigh, ³“and I will make you ^fswear¹ by the LORD, the God of heaven and the God of the earth, that ^gyou will not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, among whom I dwell; ^{4h}“but you shall go ⁱto my country and to my family, and take a wife for my son Isaac.”

⁵And the servant said to him, “Perhaps the woman will not be willing to follow me to this land. Must I take your son back to the land from which you came?”

⁶But Abraham said to him, “Beware that you do not take my son back there.

⁷“The LORD God of heaven, who ^jtook me from my father’s house and from the land of my family, and who spoke to me and swore to me, saying, ^k“To your ²descendants I give this land,’ ^lHe will send His angel before you, and you shall take a wife for my son from there.

⁸“And if the woman is not willing to follow you, then ^myou will be released from this oath; only do not take my son back there.”

⁹So the servant put his hand under the thigh of Abraham his master, and swore to him concerning this matter.

¹⁰Then the servant took ten of his master’s camels and departed, ⁿfor all his master’s goods were in his hand. And he arose and went to Mesopotamia, to ^othe city of Nahor. In-Text Map: Mesopotamia

¹¹And he made his camels kneel down outside the city by a well of water at evening time, the time ^pwhen women go out to draw water.

¹²Then he ^qsaid, “O LORD God of my master Abraham, please ^rgive me success this day, and show kindness to my master Abraham.

¹³“Behold, here ^sI stand by the well of water, and ^tthe daughters of the men of the city are coming out to draw water.

¹⁴“Now let it be that the young woman to whom I say, ‘Please let down your pitcher that I may drink,’ and she says, ‘Drink, and I will also give your camels a drink’—let her be the one You have appointed for Your servant

Isaac. And ^uby this I will know that You have shown kindness to my master.”

¹⁵And it happened, ^vbefore he had finished speaking, that behold, ^wRebekah,³ who was born to Bethuel, son of ^xMilcah, the wife of Nahor, Abraham’s brother, came out with her pitcher on her shoulder.

¹⁶Now the young woman ^ywas very beautiful to behold, a virgin; no man had known her. And she went down to the well, filled her pitcher, and came up.

¹⁷And the servant ran to meet her and said, “Please let me drink a little water from your pitcher.”

^{18z}So she said, “Drink, my lord.” Then she quickly let her pitcher down to her hand, and gave him a drink.

¹⁹And when she had finished giving him a drink, she said, “I will draw water for your camels also, until they have finished drinking.”

²⁰Then she quickly emptied her pitcher into the trough, ran back to the well to draw water, and drew for all his camels.

²¹And the man, wondering at her, remained silent so as to know whether ^athe LORD had made his journey prosperous or not.

²²So it was, when the camels had finished drinking, that the man took a golden ^bnose ring weighing half a shekel, and two bracelets for her wrists weighing ten shekels of gold, ²³and said, “Whose daughter are you? Tell me, please, is there room in your father’s house for us ⁴to lodge?”

²⁴So she said to him, ^c“I am the daughter of Bethuel, Milcah’s son, whom she bore to Nahor.”

²⁵Moreover she said to him, “We have both straw and feed enough, and room to lodge.”

²⁶Then the man ^dbowed down his head and worshiped the LORD.

²⁷And he said, ^e“Blessed be the LORD God of my master Abraham, who has not forsaken ^fHis mercy and His truth toward my master. As for me, being on the way, the LORD ^gled me to the house of my master’s brethren.”

²⁸So the young woman ran and told her mother’s household these things.

²⁹Now Rebekah had a brother whose name was ^hLaban, and Laban ran out to the man by the well.

³⁰So it came to pass, when he saw the nose ring, and the bracelets on his sister’s wrists, and when he heard the words of his sister Rebekah, saying, “Thus the man spoke to me,” that he went to the man. And there he stood by the camels at the well.

³¹And he said, “Come in, ⁱO blessed of the LORD! Why do you stand outside? For I have prepared the house, and a place for the camels.”

³²Then the man came to the house. And he unloaded the camels, and ^jprovided straw and feed for the camels, and water to ^kwash his feet and the feet of the men who were with him.

³³*Food* was set before him to eat, but he said, ^l“I will not eat until I have told about my errand.” And he said, “Speak on.”

³⁴So he said, “I am Abraham’s servant.

³⁵“The LORD ^mhas blessed my master greatly, and he has become great; and He has given him flocks and herds, silver and gold, male and female servants, and camels and donkeys.

³⁶“And Sarah my master’s wife ⁿbore a son to my master when she was old; and ^oto him he has given all that he has.

³⁷“Now my master ^pmade me swear, saying, ‘You shall not take a wife for my son from the daughters of the Canaanites, in whose land I dwell; ^{38q}‘but you shall go to my father’s house and to my family, and take a wife for my son.’

^{39r}“And I said to my master, ‘Perhaps the woman will not follow me.’

^{40s}“But he said to me, ‘The LORD, ^tbefore whom I walk, will send His angel with you and ⁵prosper your way; and you shall take a wife for my son from my family and from my father’s house.

^{41u}‘You will be clear from this oath when you arrive among my family; for if they will not give her to you, then you will be released from my oath.’

⁴²“And this day I came to the well and said, ^v‘O LORD God of my master Abraham, if You will now prosper the way in which I go, ^{43w}‘behold, I stand by the well of water; and it shall come to pass that when the virgin comes out to draw water, and I say to her, “Please give me a little water from your pitcher to drink,”

⁴⁴‘and she says to me, “Drink, and I will draw for your camels also,”—let her be the woman whom the LORD has appointed for my master’s son.’

^{45x}“But before I had finished ^yspeaking in my heart, there was Rebekah, coming out with her pitcher on her shoulder; and she went down to the well and drew water. And I said to her, ‘Please let me drink.’

⁴⁶“And she made haste and let her pitcher down from her shoulder, and said, ‘Drink, and I will give your camels a drink also.’ So I drank, and she gave the camels a drink also.

⁴⁷“Then I asked her, and said, ‘Whose daughter are you?’ And she said, ‘The daughter of Bethuel, Nahor’s son, whom Milcah bore to him.’ So I put the nose ring on her nose and the bracelets on her wrists.

^{48z}“And I bowed my head and worshiped the LORD, and blessed the LORD God of my master Abraham, who had led me in the way of truth to ^atake the daughter of my master’s brother for his son.

⁴⁹“Now if you will ^bdeal kindly and truly with my master, tell me. And if not, tell me, that I may turn to the right hand or to the left.”

⁵⁰Then Laban and Bethuel answered and said, ^c“The thing comes from the LORD; we cannot ^dspeak to you either bad or good.

^{51e}“Here is Rebekah before you; take her and go, and let her be your master’s son’s wife, as the LORD has spoken.”

⁵²And it came to pass, when Abraham’s servant heard their words, that ^fhe worshiped the LORD, bowing himself to the earth.

⁵³Then the servant brought out ^gjewelry of silver, jewelry of gold, and clothing, and gave them to Rebekah. He also gave ^hprecious things to her brother and to her mother.

⁵⁴And he and the men who were with him ate and drank and stayed all night. Then they arose in the morning, and he said, ⁱ“Send me away to my master.”

⁵⁵But her brother and her mother said, “Let the young woman stay with us a few days, at least ten; after that she may go.”

⁵⁶And he said to them, “Do not ⁶hinder me, since the LORD has prospered my way; send me away so that I may go to my master.”

⁵⁷So they said, “We will call the young woman and ask her personally.”

⁵⁸Then they called Rebekah and said to her, “Will you go with this man?” And she said, “I will go.”

⁵⁹So they sent away Rebekah their sister ^jand her nurse, and Abraham’s servant and his men.

⁶⁰And they blessed Rebekah and said to her:

Our sister, may you become

^k*The mother of thousands of ten thousands; ^lAnd may your descendants possess The gates of those who hate them.*”

⁶¹Then Rebekah and her maids arose, and they rode on the camels and followed the man. So the servant took Rebekah and departed.

⁶²Now Isaac came from the way of ^mBeer Lahai Roi, for he dwelt in the South.

⁶³And Isaac went out ⁿto meditate in the field in the evening; and he lifted his eyes and looked, and there, the camels were coming.

⁶⁴Then Rebekah lifted her eyes, and when she saw Isaac ^oshe dismounted from her camel; ⁶⁵for she had said to the servant, “Who is this man walking in the field to meet us?” The servant said, “It is my master.” So she took a veil and covered herself.

⁶⁶And the servant told Isaac all the things that he had done.

⁶⁷Then Isaac brought her into his mother Sarah’s tent; and he ^ptook Rebekah and she became his wife, and he loved her. So Isaac ^qwas comforted after his mother’s death.

Abraham and Keturah (1 Chr. 1:32, 33) ¹Abraham again took a wife, and her name was ^aKeturah.

²And ^bshe bore him Zimran, Jokshan, Medan, Midian, Ishbak, and Shuah.

³Jokshan begot Sheba and Dedan. And the sons of Dedan were Asshurim, Letushim, and Leummim.

⁴And the sons of Midian were Ephah, Ephher, Hanoah, Abidah, and Eldaah. All these were the children of Keturah.

⁵And ^cAbraham gave all that he had to Isaac.

⁶But Abraham gave gifts to the sons of the concubines which Abraham had; and while he was still living he ^dsent them eastward, away from Isaac his son, to ^ethe country of the east.

Abraham's Death and Burial ⁷This is the sum of the years of Abraham's life which he lived: one hundred and seventy-five years.

⁸Then Abraham breathed his last and ^fdied in a good old age, an old man and full of years, and ^gwas gathered to his people.

⁹And ^hhis sons Isaac and Ishmael buried him in the cave of ⁱMachpelah, which is before Mamre, in the field of Ephron the son of Zohar the Hittite, ^{10j}the field which Abraham purchased from the sons of Heth. ^kThere Abraham was buried, and Sarah his wife.

¹¹And it came to pass, after the death of Abraham, that God blessed his son Isaac. And Isaac dwelt at ^lBeer Lahai Roi.

The Families of Ishmael and Isaac (1 Chr. 1:29–31) ¹²Now this is the ^mgenealogy of Ishmael, Abraham's son, whom Hagar the Egyptian, Sarah's maidservant, bore to Abraham.

¹³And ⁿthese were the names of the sons of Ishmael, by their names, according to their generations: The firstborn of Ishmael, Nebajoth; then Kedar, Adbeel, Mibsam, ¹⁴Mishma, Dumah, Massa, ^{15l}Hadar, Tema, Jetur, Naphish, and Kedemah.

¹⁶These were the sons of Ishmael and these were their names, by their towns and their ²settlements, ^otwelve princes according to their nations.

¹⁷These were the years of the life of Ishmael: one hundred and thirty-seven years; and ^phe breathed his last and died, and was gathered to his people.

¹⁹This is the ^sgenealogy of Isaac, Abraham's son. ^tAbraham begot Isaac.

²⁰Isaac was forty years old when he took Rebekah as wife, ^uthe daughter of Bethuel the Syrian of Padan Aram, ^vthe sister of Laban the Syrian.

²¹Now Isaac pleaded with the LORD for his wife, because she was barren; ^wand the LORD granted his plea, ^xand Rebekah his wife conceived.

²²But the children struggled together within her; and she said, "If all is well, why am I like this?" ^ySo she went to inquire of the LORD.

²³And the LORD said to her:

^z"Two nations are in your womb, Two peoples shall be separated from your body; One people shall be stronger than ^athe other, ^bAnd the older shall serve the younger."

²⁴So when her days were fulfilled for her to give birth, indeed there were twins in her womb.

²⁵And the first came out red. He was ^clike a hairy garment all over; so they called his name ⁴Esau.

²⁶Afterward his brother came out, and ^dhis hand took hold of Esau's heel; so ^ehis name was called ⁵Jacob. Isaac was sixty years old when she bore them.

²⁷So the boys grew. And Esau was ^fa skillful hunter, a man of the field; but Jacob was ^ga ⁶mild man, ^hdwelling in tents.

²⁸And Isaac loved Esau because he ⁱate of his game, ^jbut Rebekah loved Jacob.

Esau Sells His Birthright (Heb. 12:16) ²⁹Now Jacob cooked a stew; and Esau came in from the field, and he was weary.

³⁰And Esau said to Jacob, "Please feed me with that same red stew, for I am weary." Therefore his name was called ⁷Edom.

³¹But Jacob said, "Sell me your birthright as of this day."

³²And Esau said, "Look, I am about to die; so ^kwhat is this birthright to me?"

³³Then Jacob said, ⁸"Swear to me as of this day." So he swore to him, and ^lsold his birthright to Jacob.

³⁴And Jacob gave Esau bread and stew of lentils; then ^mhe ate and drank, arose, and went his way. Thus Esau ⁿdespised his birthright.

Genesis 26

Isaac and Abimelech ¹*There was a famine in the land, besides ^athe first famine that was in the days of Abraham. And Isaac went to ^bAbimelech king of the Philistines, in Gerar.*

²Then the LORD appeared to him and said: ^c“Do not go down to Egypt; live in ^dthe land of which I shall tell you.

^{3e}“Dwell in this land, and ^fI will be with you and ^gbless you; for to you and your descendants ^hI give all these lands, and I will perform ⁱthe oath which I swore to Abraham your father.

⁴“And ^jI will make your descendants multiply as the stars of heaven; I will give to your descendants all these lands; ^kand in your seed all the nations of the earth shall be blessed; ^{5l}“because Abraham obeyed My voice and kept My charge, My commandments, My statutes, and My laws.”

⁷And the men of the place asked about his wife. And ^mhe said, “She is my sister”; for ⁿhe was afraid to say, “She is my wife,” because he thought, “lest the men of the place kill me for Rebekah, because she is ^obeautiful to behold.”

⁸Now it came to pass, when he had been there a long time, that Abimelech king of the Philistines looked through a window, and saw, and there was Isaac, ¹showing endearment to Rebekah his wife.

⁹Then Abimelech called Isaac and said, “Quite obviously she is your wife; so how could you say, ‘She is my sister’?” Isaac said to him, “Because I said, ‘Lest I die on account of her.’”

¹⁰And Abimelech said, “What is this you have done to us? One of the people might soon have lain with your wife, and ^pyou would have brought guilt on us.”

¹¹So Abimelech charged all his people, saying, “He who ^qtouches this man or his wife shall surely be put to death.”

¹²Then Isaac sowed in that land, and reaped in the same year ^ra hundredfold; and the LORD ^sblessed him.

¹³The man ^tbegan to prosper, and continued prospering until he became very prosperous; ^{14f}for he had possessions of flocks and possessions of herds and a great number of servants. So the Philistines ^uenvied him.

¹⁵Now the Philistines had stopped up all the wells ^vwhich his father's servants had dug in the days of Abraham his father, and they had filled them with earth.

¹⁶And Abimelech said to Isaac, "Go away from us, for ^wyou are much mightier than we."

¹⁷Then Isaac departed from there and ²pitched his tent in the Valley of Gerar, and dwelt there.

¹⁸And Isaac dug again the wells of water which they had dug in the days of Abraham his father, for the Philistines had stopped them up after the death of Abraham. ^xHe called them by the names which his father had called them.

¹⁹Also Isaac's servants dug in the valley, and found a well of running water there.

²⁰But the herdsmen of Gerar ^yquarreled with Isaac's herdsmen, saying, "The water is ours." So he called the name of the well ³Esek, because they quarreled with him.

²¹Then they dug another well, and they quarreled over that one also. So he called its name ⁴Sitnah.

²²And he moved from there and dug another well, and they did not quarrel over it. So he called its name ⁵Rehoboth, because he said, "For now the LORD has made room for us, and we shall ^zbe fruitful in the land."

²³Then he went up from there to Beersheba.

²⁴And the LORD ^aappeared to him the same night and said, ^b"I am the God of your father Abraham; ^cdo not fear, for ^dI am with you. I will bless you and multiply your descendants for My servant Abraham's sake."

²⁵So he ^ebuilt an altar there and ^fcalled on the name of the LORD, and he pitched his tent there; and there Isaac's servants dug a well.

²⁶Then Abimelech came to him from Gerar with Ahuzzath, one of his friends, ^gand Phichol the commander of his army.

²⁷And Isaac said to them, "Why have you come to me, ^hsince you hate me and have ⁱsent me away from you?"

²⁸But they said, "We have certainly seen that the LORD ^jis with you. So we said, 'Let there now be an oath between us, between you and us; and let us make a ⁶covenant with you, ²⁹'that you will do us no harm, since we have not touched you, and since we have done nothing to you but good and have sent you away in peace. ^kYou are now the blessed of the LORD.'" '

³⁰So he made them a feast, and they ate and drank.

³¹Then they arose early in the morning and ^mswore an oath with one another; and Isaac sent them away, and they departed from him in peace.

³²It came to pass the same day that Isaac's servants came and told him about the well which they had dug, and said to him, "We have found water."

³³So he called it ⁷Shebah. ⁿTherefore the name of the city is ⁸Beersheba to this day.

³⁴^oWhen Esau was forty years old, he took as wives Judith the daughter of Beeri the Hittite, and Basemath the daughter of Elon the Hittite.

³⁵And ^pthey were a grief of mind to Isaac and Rebekah.

Genesis 27

Isaac Blesses Jacob ¹Now it came to pass, when Isaac was ^aold and ^bhis eyes were so dim that he could not see, that he called Esau his older son and said to him, “My son.” And he answered him, “Here I am.”

²Then he said, “Behold now, I am old. I ^cdo not know the day of my death.

^{3d}“Now therefore, please take your weapons, your quiver and your bow, and go out to the field and hunt game for me.

⁴“And make me ¹savory food, such as I love, and bring it to me that I may eat, that my soul ^emay bless you before I die.”

⁵Now Rebekah was listening when Isaac spoke to Esau his son. And Esau went to the field to hunt game and to bring it.

⁶So Rebekah spoke to Jacob her son, saying, “Indeed I heard your father speak to Esau your brother, saying, ⁷‘Bring me game and make ²savory food for me, that I may eat it and bless you in the presence of the LORD before my death.’

⁸“Now therefore, my son, ^fobey my voice according to what I command you.

⁹“Go now to the flock and bring me from there two choice kids of the goats, and I will make ^gsavory food from them for your father, such as he loves.

¹⁰“Then you shall take it to your father, that he may eat it, and that he ^hmay bless you before his death.”

¹¹And Jacob said to Rebekah his mother, “Look, ⁱEsau my brother is a hairy man, and I am a smooth-skinned man.

¹²“Perhaps my father will ^jfeel me, and I shall seem to be a deceiver to him; and I shall bring ^ka curse on myself and not a blessing.”

¹³But his mother said to him, ¹“Let your curse be on me, my son; only obey my voice, and go, get them for me.”

¹⁴And he went and got them and brought them to his mother, and his mother ^mmade ³savory food, such as his father loved.

¹⁵Then Rebekah took ⁿthe choice clothes of her elder son Esau, which were with her in the house, and put them on Jacob her younger son. Bible Times & Culture

Notes: Clothing

¹⁶And she put the skins of the kids of the goats on his hands and on the smooth part of his neck.

¹⁷Then she gave the savory food and the bread, which she had prepared, into the hand of her son Jacob.

¹⁸So he went to his father and said, “My father.” And he said, “Here I am. Who are you, my son?”

¹⁹Jacob said to his father, “I am Esau your firstborn; I have done just as you told me; please arise, sit and eat of my game, ^othat your soul may bless me.”

²⁰But Isaac said to his son, “How is it that you have found it so quickly, my son?” And he said, “Because the LORD your God brought it to me.”

²¹Then Isaac said to Jacob, “Please come near, that I ^pmay feel you, my son, whether you are really my son Esau or not.”

²²So Jacob went near to Isaac his father, and he felt him and said, “The voice is Jacob’s voice, but the hands are the hands of Esau.”

²³And he did not recognize him, because ^qhis hands were hairy like his brother Esau’s hands; so he blessed him.

²⁴Then he said, “Are you really my son Esau?” He said, “I am.”

²⁵He said, “Bring it near to me, and I will eat of my son’s game, so ^rthat my soul may bless you.” So he brought it near to him, and he ate; and he brought him wine, and he drank.

²⁶Then his father Isaac said to him, “Come near now and kiss me, my son.”

²⁷And he came near and ^skissed him; and he smelled the smell of his clothing, and blessed him and said:

“Surely, ^tthe smell of my son Is like the smell of a field Which the LORD has blessed.

²⁸Therefore may ^uGod give you Of ^vthe dew of heaven, Of ^wthe fatness of the earth, And ^xplenty of grain and wine.

^{29y}Let peoples serve you, And nations bow down to you.

Be master over your brethren, And ^zlet your mother’s sons bow down to you.

^aCursed be everyone who curses you, And blessed be those who bless you!”

Esau’s Lost Hope (Heb. 12:17) ³⁰Now it happened, as soon as Isaac had finished blessing Jacob, and Jacob had scarcely gone out from the presence of Isaac his father, that Esau his brother came in from his hunting.

³¹He also had made ⁴savory food, and brought it to his father, and said to his father, “Let my father arise and ^beat of his son’s game, that your soul may bless me.”

³²And his father Isaac said to him, “Who are you?” So he said, “I am your son, your firstborn, Esau.”

³³Then Isaac trembled exceedingly, and said, “Who? Where is the one who hunted game and brought it to me? I ate all of it before you came, and I have blessed him—^c*and* indeed he shall be blessed.”

³⁴When Esau heard the words of his father, ^dhe cried with an exceedingly great and bitter cry, and said to his father, “Bless me—me also, O my father!”

³⁵But he said, “Your brother came with deceit and has taken away your blessing.”

³⁶And Esau said, ^e“Is he not rightly named ⁵Jacob? For he has supplanted me these two times. He took away my birthright, and now look, he has taken away my blessing!” And he said, “Have you not reserved a blessing for me?”

³⁷Then Isaac answered and said to Esau, ^f“Indeed I have made him your master, and all his brethren I have given to him as servants; with ⁸grain and wine I have ⁶sustained him. What shall I do now for you, my son?”

³⁸And Esau said to his father, “Have you only one blessing, my father? Bless me—me also, O my father!” And Esau lifted up his voice ^hand wept.

³⁹Then Isaac his father answered and said to him:

⁴⁰By your sword you shall live, And ^jyou shall serve your brother; And ^kit shall come to pass, when you become restless, That you shall break his yoke from your neck.”

Jacob Escapes from Esau ⁴¹So Esau ^l*hated Jacob because of the blessing with which his father blessed him, and Esau said in his heart, ^m“The days of mourning for my father ⁸are at hand; ⁿthen I will kill my brother Jacob.”*

⁴²And the words of Esau her older son were told to Rebekah. So she sent and called Jacob her younger son, and said to him, “Surely your brother Esau ^ocomforts himself concerning you by intending to kill you.

⁴³“Now therefore, my son, obey my voice: arise, flee to my brother Laban ^pin Haran.

⁴⁴“And stay with him a ^qfew days, until your brother’s fury turns away,
⁴⁵“until your brother’s anger turns away from you, and he forgets what you have done to him; then I will send and bring you from there. Why should I be bereaved also of you both in one day?”

⁴⁶And Rebekah said to Isaac, ^r“I am weary of my life because of the daughters of Heth; ^sif Jacob takes a wife of the daughters of Heth, like these who are the daughters of the land, what good will my life be to me?”

Genesis 28

¹Then Isaac called Jacob and ^ablessed him, and ¹charged him, and said to him: ^b“You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Canaan.

^{2c}“Arise, go to ^dPadan Aram, to the house of ^eBethuel your mother’s father; and take yourself a wife from there of the daughters of ^fLaban your mother’s brother.

³“May ^gGod Almighty bless you, And make you ^hfruitful and multiply you, That you may be an assembly of peoples; ⁴And give you ⁱthe blessing of Abraham, To you and your descendants with you, That you may inherit the land ^jIn² which you are a stranger, Which God gave to Abraham.”

⁵So Isaac sent Jacob away, and he went to Padan Aram, to Laban the son of Bethuel the Syrian, the brother of Rebekah, the mother of Jacob and Esau.

Esau Marries Mahalath ⁶Esau saw that Isaac had blessed Jacob and sent him away to Padan Aram to take himself a wife from there, and that as he blessed him he gave him a charge, saying, “You shall not take a wife from the daughters of Canaan,” ⁷and that Jacob had obeyed his father and his mother and had gone to Padan Aram.

⁸Also Esau saw ^kthat the daughters of Canaan did not please his father Isaac.

⁹So Esau went to Ishmael and ^ltook ^mMahalath the daughter of Ishmael, Abraham’s son, ⁿthe sister of Nebajoth, to be his wife in addition to the wives he had.

Jacob’s Vow at Bethel ¹⁰Now Jacob ^owent out from Beersheba and went toward ^pHaran.

¹¹So he came to a certain place and stayed there all night, because the sun had set. And he took one of the stones of that place and put it at his head, and he lay down in that place to sleep.

¹²Then he ^qdreamed, and behold, a ladder was set up on the earth, and its top reached to heaven; and there ^rthe angels of God were ascending and descending on it.

^{13s}And behold, the LORD stood above it and said: ^t“I am the LORD God of Abraham your father and the God of Isaac; ^uthe land on which you lie I will give to you and your descendants.

¹⁴“Also your ^vdescendants shall be as the dust of the earth; you shall spread abroad ^wto the west and the east, to the north and the south; and in you and ^xin your seed all the families of the earth shall be blessed.

¹⁵“Behold, ^y*I am* with you and will ^zkeep³ you wherever you go, and will ^abring you back to this land; for ^bI will not leave you ^cuntil I have done what I have spoken to you.”

¹⁶Then Jacob awoke from his sleep and said, “Surely the LORD is in ^dthis place, and I did not know it.”

¹⁷And he was afraid and said, “How awesome is this place! This is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate of heaven!”

¹⁸Then Jacob rose early in the morning, and took the stone that he had put at his head, ^eset it up as a pillar, ^fand poured oil on top of it.

¹⁹And he called the name of ^gthat place ⁴Bethel; but the name of that city had been Luz previously.

^{20h}Then Jacob made a vow, saying, “If ⁱGod will be with me, and keep me in this way that I am going, and give me ^jbread to eat and clothing to put on,
²¹“so that ^kI come back to my father’s house in peace, ^lthen the LORD shall be my God.

²²“And this stone which I have set as a pillar ^mshall be God’s house, ⁿand of all that You give me I will surely give a ⁵tenth to You.”

Genesis 29

Jacob Meets Rachel ¹*So Jacob went on his journey ^aand came to the land of the people of the East.*

²And he looked, and saw a ^bwell in the field; and behold, there were three flocks of sheep lying by it; for out of that well they watered the flocks. A large stone was on the well's mouth.

³Now all the flocks would be gathered there; and they would roll the stone from the well's mouth, water the sheep, and put the stone back in its place on the well's mouth.

⁴And Jacob said to them, "My brethren, where are you from?" And they said, "We are from ^cHaran."

⁵Then he said to them, "Do you know ^dLaban the son of Nahor?" And they said, "We know him."

⁶So he said to them, ^e"Is he well?" And they said, "He is well. And look, his daughter Rachel ^fis coming with the sheep."

⁷Then he said, "Look, it is still ¹high day; it is not time for the cattle to be gathered together. Water the sheep, and go and feed them."

⁸But they said, "We cannot until all the flocks are gathered together, and they have rolled the stone from the well's mouth; then we water the sheep."

⁹Now while he was still speaking with them, ^gRachel came with her father's sheep, for she was a shepherdess.

¹⁰And it came to pass, when Jacob saw Rachel the daughter of Laban his mother's brother, and the sheep of Laban his mother's brother, that Jacob went near and ^hrolled the stone from the well's mouth, and watered the flock of Laban his mother's brother.

¹¹Then Jacob ⁱkissed Rachel, and lifted up his voice and wept.

¹²And Jacob told Rachel that he was ^jher father's relative and that he was Rebekah's son. ^kSo she ran and told her father.

¹³Then it came to pass, when Laban heard the report about Jacob his sister's son, that ^lhe ran to meet him, and embraced him and kissed him, and brought him to his house. So he told Laban all these things.

¹⁴And Laban said to him, ^m"Surely you are my bone and my flesh." And he stayed with him for a month.

Jacob Marries Leah and Rachel ¹⁵*Then Laban said to Jacob, “Because you are my relative, should you therefore serve me for nothing? Tell me, ⁿwhat should your wages be?”*

¹⁶Now Laban had two daughters: the name of the elder was Leah, and the name of the younger was Rachel.

¹⁷Leah’s eyes were ²delicate, but Rachel was ^obeautiful of form and appearance.

¹⁸Now Jacob loved Rachel; so he said, ^p“I will serve you seven years for Rachel your younger daughter.”

¹⁹And Laban said, “It is better that I give her to you than that I should give her to another man. Stay with me.”

²⁰So Jacob ^qserved seven years for Rachel, and they seemed only a few days to him because of the love he had for her.

²¹Then Jacob said to Laban, “Give me my wife, for my days are fulfilled, that I may ^rgo in to her.”

²²And Laban gathered together all the men of the place and ^smade a feast.

²³Now it came to pass in the evening, that he took Leah his daughter and brought her to Jacob; and he went in to her.

²⁴And Laban gave his maid ^tZilpah to his daughter Leah as a maid.

²⁵So it came to pass in the morning, that behold, it was Leah. And he said to Laban, “What is this you have done to me? Was it not for Rachel that I served you? Why then have you ^udeceived me?”

²⁶And Laban said, “It must not be done so in our ³country, to give the younger before the firstborn.

^{27v}“Fulfill her week, and we will give you this one also for the service which you will serve with me still another seven years.”

²⁸Then Jacob did so and fulfilled her week. So he gave him his daughter Rachel as wife also.

²⁹And Laban gave his maid ^wBilhah to his daughter Rachel as a maid.

³⁰Then Jacob also went in to Rachel, and he also ^xloved Rachel more than Leah. And he served with Laban ^ystill another seven years.

The Children of Jacob ³¹*When the LORD ^zsaw that Leah was ⁴unloved, He ^aopened her womb; but Rachel was barren.*

³²So Leah conceived and bore a son, and she called his name ⁵Reuben; for she said, “The LORD has surely ^blooked on my affliction. Now therefore, my husband will love me.”

³³Then she conceived again and bore a son, and said, “Because the LORD has heard that I am ⁶unloved, He has therefore given me this son also.” And she called his name ⁷Simeon.

³⁴She conceived again and bore a son, and said, “Now this time my husband will become attached to me, because I have borne him three sons.” Therefore his name was called ⁸Levi.

³⁵And she conceived again and bore a son, and said, “Now I will praise the LORD.” Therefore she called his name ^cJudah.⁹ Then she stopped bearing.

Genesis 30

¹Now when Rachel saw that ^ashe bore Jacob no children, Rachel ^benvied her sister, and said to Jacob, “Give me children, ^cor else I die!”

²And Jacob’s anger was aroused against Rachel, and he said, ^d“Am I in the place of God, who has withheld from you the fruit of the womb?”

³So she said, “Here is ^emy maid Bilhah; go in to her, ^fand she will bear a child on my knees, ^gthat I also may ¹have children by her.”

⁴Then she gave him Bilhah her maid ^has wife, and Jacob went in to her.

⁵And Bilhah conceived and bore Jacob a son.

⁶Then Rachel said, “God has ⁱjudged my case; and He has also heard my voice and given me a son.” Therefore she called his name ²Dan.

⁷And Rachel’s maid Bilhah conceived again and bore Jacob a second son.

⁸Then Rachel said, “With ³great wrestlings I have wrestled with my sister, and indeed I have prevailed.” So she called his name ⁴Naphtali.

⁹When Leah saw that she had stopped bearing, she took Zilpah her maid and ^jgave her to Jacob as wife.

¹⁰And Leah’s maid Zilpah bore Jacob a son.

¹¹Then Leah said, ⁵“A troop comes!” So she called his name ⁶Gad.

¹²And Leah’s maid Zilpah bore Jacob a second son.

¹³Then Leah said, “I am happy, for the daughters ^kwill call me blessed.” So she called his name ⁷Asher.

¹⁴Now Reuben went in the days of wheat harvest and found mandrakes in the field, and brought them to his mother Leah. Then Rachel said to Leah, ¹“Please give me some of your son’s mandrakes.”

¹⁵But she said to her, ^m“Is it a small matter that you have taken away my husband? Would you take away my son’s mandrakes also?” And Rachel said, “Therefore he will lie with you tonight for your son’s mandrakes.”

¹⁶When Jacob came out of the field in the evening, Leah went out to meet him and said, “You must come in to me, for I have surely hired you with my son’s mandrakes.” And he lay with her that night.

¹⁷And God listened to Leah, and she conceived and bore Jacob a fifth son.

¹⁸Leah said, “God has given me my wages, because I have given my maid to my husband.” So she called his name ⁸Issachar.

¹⁹Then Leah conceived again and bore Jacob a sixth son.

²⁰And Leah said, “God has endowed me with a good endowment; now my husband will dwell with me, because I have borne him six sons.” So she called his name ⁹Zebulun.

²¹Afterward she bore a ⁿdaughter, and called her name ¹⁰Dinah.

²²Then God ^oremembered Rachel, and God listened to her and ^popened her womb.

²³And she conceived and bore a son, and said, “God has taken away ^qmy reproach.”

²⁴So she called his name ¹¹Joseph, and said, ^r“The LORD shall add to me another son.”

Jacob’s Agreement with Laban ²⁵*And it came to pass, when Rachel had borne Joseph, that Jacob said to Laban, ^s“Send me away, that I may go to ^tmy own place and to my country.*

²⁶“Give me my wives and my children ^ufor whom I have served you, and let me go; for you know my service which I have done for you.”

²⁷And Laban said to him, “Please stay, if I have found favor in your eyes, for ^vI have learned by experience that the LORD has blessed me for your sake.”

²⁸Then he said, ^w“Name me your wages, and I will give it.”

²⁹So Jacob said to him, ^x“You know how I have served you and how your livestock has been with me.

³⁰“For what you had before I came was little, and it has increased to a great amount; the LORD has blessed you ¹²since my coming. And now, when shall I also ^yprovide for my own house?”

³¹So he said, “What shall I give you?” And Jacob said, “You shall not give me anything. If you will do this thing for me, I will again feed and keep your flocks: ³²“Let me pass through all your flock today, removing from there all the speckled and spotted sheep, and all the brown ones among the lambs, and the spotted and speckled among the goats; and ^z*these* shall be my wages.

³³“So my ^arighteousness will answer for me in time to come, when the subject of my wages comes before you: every one that is not speckled and spotted among the goats, and brown among the lambs, will be considered stolen, if it is with me.”

³⁴And Laban said, “Oh, that it were according to your word!”

³⁵So he removed that day the male goats that were ^bspeckled and spotted, all the female goats that were speckled and spotted, every one that had some white in it, and all the brown ones among the lambs, and gave them into the hand of his sons.

³⁶Then he put three days' journey between himself and Jacob, and Jacob fed the rest of Laban's flocks.

³⁷Now ^cJacob took for himself rods of green poplar and of the almond and chestnut trees, peeled white strips in them, and exposed the white which was in the rods.

³⁸And the rods which he had peeled, he set before the flocks in the gutters, in the watering troughs where the flocks came to drink, so that they should conceive when they came to drink.

³⁹So the flocks conceived before the rods, and the flocks brought forth streaked, speckled, and spotted.

⁴⁰Then Jacob separated the lambs, and made the flocks face toward the streaked and all the brown in the flock of Laban; but he put his own flocks by themselves and did not put them with Laban's flock.

⁴¹And it came to pass, whenever the stronger livestock conceived, that Jacob placed the rods before the eyes of the livestock in the gutters, that they might conceive among the rods.

⁴²But when the flocks were feeble, he did not put them in; so the feebler were Laban's and the stronger Jacob's.

⁴³Thus the man ^dbecame exceedingly prosperous, and ^ehad large flocks, female and male servants, and camels and donkeys.

Genesis 31

Jacob Flees from Laban ¹Now Jacob heard the words of Laban's sons, saying, "Jacob has taken away all that was our father's, and from what was our father's he has acquired all this ^awealth."

²And Jacob saw the ^bcountenance of Laban, and indeed it was not ^cfavorable toward him as before.

³Then the LORD said to Jacob, ^d"Return to the land of your fathers and to your family, and I will ^ebe with you." In-Text Map: Jacob's Journeys

⁴So Jacob sent and called Rachel and Leah to the field, to his flock, ⁵and said to them, ^f"I see your father's ¹countenance, that it is not favorable toward me as before; but the God of my father ^ghas been with me.

⁶"And ^hyou know that with all my might I have served your father.

⁷"Yet your father has deceived me and ⁱchanged my wages ^jten times, but God ^kdid not allow him to hurt me.

⁸"If he said thus: ¹'The speckled shall be your wages,' then all the flocks bore speckled. And if he said thus: 'The streaked shall be your wages,' then all the flocks bore streaked.

⁹"So God has ^mtaken away the livestock of your father and given them to me.

¹⁰"And it happened, at the time when the flocks conceived, that I lifted my eyes and saw in a dream, and behold, the rams which leaped upon the flocks were streaked, speckled, and gray-spotted.

¹¹"Then ⁿthe Angel of God spoke to me in a dream, saying, 'Jacob.' And I said, 'Here I am.'

¹²"And He said, 'Lift your eyes now and see, all the rams which leap on the flocks are streaked, speckled, and gray-spotted; for ^oI have seen all that Laban is doing to you.

¹³'I am the God of Bethel, ^pwhere you anointed the pillar and where you made a vow to Me. Now ^qarise, get out of this land, and return to the land of your family.' '

¹⁴Then Rachel and Leah answered and said to him, ^r"Is there still any portion or inheritance for us in our father's house?

¹⁵"Are we not considered strangers by him? For ^she has sold us, and also completely consumed our money.

¹⁶“For all these riches which God has taken from our father are really ours and our children’s; now then, whatever God has said to you, do it.”

¹⁷Then Jacob rose and set his sons and his wives on camels.

¹⁸And he carried away all his livestock and all his possessions which he had gained, his acquired livestock which he had gained in Padan Aram, to go to his father Isaac in the land of ^tCanaan.

¹⁹Now Laban had gone to shear his sheep, and Rachel had stolen the ^uhousehold² idols that were her father’s.

²⁰And Jacob stole away, unknown to Laban the Syrian, in that he did not tell him that he intended to flee.

²¹So he fled with all that he had. He arose and crossed the river, and ^vheaded³ toward the mountains of Gilead.

Laban Pursues Jacob ²²And Laban was told on the third day that Jacob had fled.

²³Then he took ^whis brethren with him and pursued him for seven days’ journey, and he overtook him in the mountains of Gilead.

²⁴But God ^xhad come to Laban the Syrian in a dream by night, and said to him, “Be careful that you ^yspeak to Jacob neither good nor bad.”

²⁵So Laban overtook Jacob. Now Jacob had pitched his tent in the mountains, and Laban with his brethren pitched in the mountains of Gilead.

²⁶And Laban said to Jacob: “What have you done, that you have stolen away unknown to me, and ^zcarried away my daughters like captives taken with the sword?

²⁷“Why did you flee away secretly, and steal away from me, and not tell me; for I might have sent you away with joy and songs, with timbrel and harp?

²⁸“And you did not allow me ^ato kiss my sons and my daughters. Now ^byou have done foolishly in so doing.

²⁹“It is in my power to do you harm, but the ^cGod of your father spoke to me ^dlast night, saying, ‘Be careful that you speak to Jacob neither good nor bad.’

³⁰“And now you have surely gone because you greatly long for your father’s house, but why did you ^esteal my gods?”

³¹Then Jacob answered and said to Laban, “Because I was ^fafraid, for I said, ‘Perhaps you would take your daughters from me by force.’

³²“With whomever you find your gods, ^gdo not let him live. In the presence of our brethren, identify what I have of yours and take it with you.” For Jacob did not know that Rachel had stolen them.

³³And Laban went into Jacob’s tent, into Leah’s tent, and into the two maids’ tents, but he did not find them. Then he went out of Leah’s tent and entered Rachel’s tent.

³⁴Now Rachel had taken the ⁴household idols, put them in the camel’s saddle, and sat on them. And Laban ⁵searched all about the tent but did not find them.

³⁵And she said to her father, “Let it not displease my lord that I cannot ^hrise before you, for the manner of women is with me.” And he searched but did not find the ⁶household idols.

³⁶Then Jacob was angry and rebuked Laban, and Jacob answered and said to Laban: “What is my ⁷trespass? What is my sin, that you have so hotly pursued me?

³⁷“Although you have searched all my things, what part of your household things have you found? Set it here before my brethren and your brethren, that they may judge between us both!

³⁸“These twenty years I have been with you; your ewes and your female goats have not miscarried their young, and I have not eaten the rams of your flock.

³⁹“That which was torn by beasts I did not bring to you; I bore the loss of it. ^jYou required it from my hand, whether stolen by day or stolen by night.

⁴⁰“There I was! In the day the drought consumed me, and the frost by night, and my sleep departed from my eyes.

⁴¹“Thus I have been in your house twenty years; I ^kserved you fourteen years for your two daughters, and six years for your flock, and ^lyou have changed my wages ten times.

⁴²“Unless the God of my father, the God of Abraham and ⁿthe Fear of Isaac, had been with me, surely now you would have sent me away empty-handed. ^oGod has seen my affliction and the labor of my hands, and ^prebuked you last night.”

Laban’s Covenant with Jacob ⁴³And Laban answered and said to Jacob, “These daughters are my daughters, and these children are my children, and this flock is my flock; all that you see is mine. But what can I do this day to these my daughters or to their children whom they have borne?”

⁴⁴“Now therefore, come, ^qlet us make a ⁸covenant, ^ryou and I, and let it be a witness between you and me.”

⁴⁵So Jacob ^stook a stone and set it up as a pillar.

⁴⁶Then Jacob said to his brethren, “Gather stones.” And they took stones and made a heap, and they ate there on the heap.

⁴⁷Laban called it ⁹Jegar Sahadutha, but Jacob called it ¹⁰Galeed.

⁴⁸And Laban said, ^t“This heap is a witness between you and me this day.” Therefore its name was called Galeed, ⁴⁹also ^uMizpah,¹¹ because he said, “May the LORD watch between you and me when we are absent one from another.

⁵⁰“If you afflict my daughters, or if you take other wives besides my daughters, although no man is with us—see, God is witness between you and me!”

⁵¹Then Laban said to Jacob, “Here is this heap and here is this pillar, which I have placed between you and me.

⁵²“This heap is a witness, and this pillar is a witness, that I will not pass beyond this heap to you, and you will not pass beyond this heap and this pillar to me, for harm.

⁵³“The God of Abraham, the God of Nahor, and the God of their father ^vjudge between us.” And Jacob ^wswore by ^xthe ¹²Fear of his father Isaac.

⁵⁴Then Jacob offered a sacrifice on the mountain, and called his brethren to eat bread. And they ate bread and stayed all night on the mountain.

⁵⁵And early in the morning Laban arose, and ^ykissed his sons and daughters and ^zblessed them. Then Laban departed and ^areturned to his place.

Genesis 32

Esau Comes to Meet Jacob ¹*So Jacob went on his way, and ^athe angels of God met him.*

²When Jacob saw them, he said, “This is God’s ^bcamp.” And he called the name of that place ¹Mahanaim.

³Then Jacob sent messengers before him to Esau his brother ^cin the land of Seir, ^dthe ²country of Edom.

⁴And he commanded them, saying, ^e“Speak thus to my lord Esau, ‘Thus your servant Jacob says: “I have dwelt with Laban and stayed there until now.

^{5f}“I have oxen, donkeys, flocks, and male and female servants; and I have sent to tell my lord, that ^gI may find favor in your sight.” ’ ”

⁶Then the messengers returned to Jacob, saying, “We came to your brother Esau, and ^hhe also is coming to meet you, and four hundred men are with him.” Article: Payback

⁷So Jacob was greatly afraid and ⁱdistressed; and he divided the people that were with him, and the flocks and herds and camels, into two companies.

⁸And he said, “If Esau comes to the one company and ³attacks it, then the other company which is left will escape.”

^{9j}Then Jacob said, ^k“O God of my father Abraham and God of my father Isaac, the LORD ^lwho said to me, ‘Return to your country and to your family, and I will deal well with you’: ¹⁰“I am not worthy of the least of all the ^mmercies and of all the truth which You have shown Your servant; for I crossed over this Jordan with ⁿmy staff, and now I have become two companies.

^{11o}“Deliver me, I pray, from the hand of my brother, from the hand of Esau; for I fear him, lest he come and ⁴attack me and ^pthe mother with the children.

¹²“For ^qYou said, ‘I will surely treat you well, and make your descendants as the ^rsand of the sea, which cannot be numbered for multitude.” ’

¹⁶Then he delivered them to the hand of his servants, every drove by itself, and said to his servants, “Pass over before me, and put some distance between successive droves.”

¹⁷And he commanded the first one, saying, “When Esau my brother meets you and asks you, saying, ‘To whom do you belong, and where are you going? Whose are these in front of you?’

¹⁸“then you shall say, ‘They are your servant Jacob’s. It is a present sent to my lord Esau; and behold, he also is behind us.’”

¹⁹So he commanded the second, the third, and all who followed the droves, saying, “In this manner you shall speak to Esau when you find him; ²⁰“and also say, ‘Behold, your servant Jacob is behind us.’” For he said, “I will ^tappease him with the present that goes before me, and afterward I will see his face; perhaps he will accept me.”

²¹So the present went on over before him, but he himself lodged that night in the camp.

Wrestling with God ²²And he arose that night and took his two wives, his two female servants, and his eleven sons, ^uand crossed over the ford of Jabbok.

²³He took them, sent them ⁶over the brook, and sent over what he had.

²⁴Then Jacob was left alone; and ^va Man wrestled with him until the ⁷breaking of day.

²⁵Now when He saw that He did not prevail against him, He ⁸touch^{ed} the socket of his hip; and ^wthe socket of Jacob’s hip was out of joint as He wrestled with him.

²⁶And ^xHe said, “Let Me go, for the day breaks.” But he said, ^y“I will not let You go unless You bless me!”

²⁷So He said to him, “What is your name?” He said, “Jacob.”

²⁸And He said, ^z“Your name shall no longer be called Jacob, but ⁹Israel; for you have ^astruggled with God and ^bwith men, and have prevailed.”

²⁹Then Jacob asked, saying, “Tell me Your name, I pray.” And He said, ^c“Why is it that you ask about My name?” And He ^dblessed him there.

³⁰So Jacob called the name of the place ¹⁰Peniel: “For ^eI have seen God face to face, and my life is preserved.”

³¹Just as he crossed over ¹¹Penuel the sun rose on him, and he limped on his hip.

³²Therefore to this day the children of Israel do not eat the muscle that shrank, which is on the hip socket, because He ¹²touched the socket of Jacob's hip in the muscle that shrank.

Genesis 33

Jacob and Esau Meet ¹Now Jacob lifted his eyes and looked, and there, ^aEsau was coming, and with him were four hundred men. So he divided the children among Leah, Rachel, and the two maidservants.

²And he put the maidservants and their children in front, Leah and her children behind, and Rachel and Joseph last.

³Then he crossed over before them and ^bbowed himself to the ground seven times, until he came near to his brother.

^{4c}But Esau ran to meet him, and embraced him, ^dand fell on his neck and kissed him, and they wept.

⁵And he lifted his eyes and saw the women and children, and said, “Who are these with you?” So he said, “The children ^ewhom God has graciously given your servant.”

⁶Then the maidservants came near, they and their children, and bowed down.

⁷And Leah also came near with her children, and they bowed down. Afterward Joseph and Rachel came near, and they bowed down.

⁸Then Esau said, “What do you mean by ^fall this company which I met?” And he said, “These are ^gto find favor in the sight of my lord.”

⁹But Esau said, “I have enough, my brother; keep what you have for yourself.”

¹⁰And Jacob said, “No, please, if I have now found favor in your sight, then receive my present from my hand, inasmuch as I ^hhave seen your face as though I had seen the face of God, and you were pleased with me.

¹¹“Please, take ⁱmy blessing that is brought to you, because God has dealt ^jgraciously with me, and because I have ¹enough.” ^kSo he urged him, and he took it.

¹²Then Esau said, “Let us take our journey; let us go, and I will go before you.”

¹³But Jacob said to him, “My lord knows that the children are weak, and the flocks and herds which are nursing are with me. And if the men should drive them hard one day, all the flock will die.

¹⁴“Please let my lord go on ahead before his servant. I will lead on slowly at a pace which the livestock that go before me, and the children, ²are able to endure, until I come to my lord ^lin Seir.”

¹⁵And Esau said, “Now let me leave with you some of the people who are with me.” But he said, “What need is there? ^mLet me find favor in the sight of my lord.”

¹⁶So Esau returned that day on his way to Seir.

¹⁷And Jacob journeyed to ⁿSuccoth, built himself a house, and made ³booths for his livestock. Therefore the name of the place is called ⁴Succoth.

Jacob Comes to Canaan ¹⁸Then Jacob came ⁵safely to ^othe city of ^pShechem, which is in the land of Canaan, when he came from Padan Aram; and he pitched his tent before the city.

¹⁹And ^qhe bought the parcel of ⁶land, where he had pitched his tent, from the children of Hamor, Shechem’s father, for one hundred pieces of money.

²⁰Then he erected an altar there and called it ^rEl⁷ Elohe Israel.

Genesis 34

The Dinah Incident ¹Now ^aDinah the daughter of Leah, whom she had borne to Jacob, went out to see the daughters of the land.

²And when Shechem the son of Hamor the Hivite, prince of the country, saw her, he ^btook her and lay with her, and violated her.

³His soul ¹was strongly attracted to Dinah the daughter of Jacob, and he loved the young woman and spoke ²kindly to the young woman.

⁴So Shechem ^cspoke to his father Hamor, saying, "Get me this young woman as a wife."

⁵And Jacob heard that he had defiled Dinah his daughter. Now his sons were with his livestock in the field; so Jacob ^dheld³ his peace until they came.

⁶Then Hamor the father of Shechem went out to Jacob to speak with him.

⁷And the sons of Jacob came in from the field when they heard it; and the men were grieved and very angry, because he ^ehad done a disgraceful thing in Israel by lying with Jacob's daughter, ^fa thing which ought not to be done.

⁸But Hamor spoke with them, saying, "The soul of my son Shechem longs for your daughter. Please give her to him as a wife.

⁹"And make marriages with us; give your daughters to us, and take our daughters to yourselves.

¹⁰"So you shall dwell with us, and the land shall be before you. Dwell and trade in it, and acquire possessions for yourselves in it."

¹¹Then Shechem said to her father and her brothers, "Let me find favor in your eyes, and whatever you say to me I will give.

¹²"Ask me ever so much ^gdowry⁴ and gift, and I will give according to what you say to me; but give me the young woman as a wife."

¹³But the sons of Jacob answered Shechem and Hamor his father, and spoke ^hdeceitfully, because he had defiled Dinah their sister.

¹⁴And they said to them, "We cannot do this thing, to give our sister to one who is ⁱuncircumcised, for ^jthat would be a reproach to us.

¹⁵"But on this condition we will consent to you: If you will become as we are, if every male of you is circumcised, ¹⁶"then we will give our daughters to you, and we will take your daughters to us; and we will dwell with you, and we will become one people.

¹⁷“But if you will not heed us and be circumcised, then we will take our daughter and be gone.”

¹⁸And their words pleased Hamor and Shechem, Hamor’s son.

¹⁹So the young man did not delay to do the thing, because he delighted in Jacob’s daughter. He was ^kmore honorable than all the household of his father.

²⁰And Hamor and Shechem his son came to the ^lgate of their city, and spoke with the men of their city, saying: ²¹“These men are at peace with us. Therefore let them dwell in the land and trade in it. For indeed the land is large enough for them. Let us take their daughters to us as wives, and let us give them our daughters.

²²“Only on this condition will the men consent to dwell with us, to be one people: if every male among us is circumcised as they are circumcised.

²³“Will not their livestock, their property, and every animal of theirs be ours? Only let us consent to them, and they will dwell with us.”

²⁴And all who went out of the gate of his city heeded Hamor and Shechem his son; every male was circumcised, all who ^mwent out of the gate of his city.

²⁵Now it came to pass on the third day, when they were in pain, that two of the sons of Jacob, ⁿSimeon and Levi, Dinah’s brothers, each took his sword and came boldly upon the city and killed all the males.

²⁶And they ^okilled Hamor and Shechem his son with the edge of the sword, and took Dinah from Shechem’s house, and went out.

²⁷The sons of Jacob came upon the slain, and plundered the city, because their sister had been defiled.

²⁸They took their sheep, their oxen, and their donkeys, what was in the city and what was in the field, ²⁹and all their wealth. All their little ones and their wives they took captive; and they plundered even all that was in the houses.

³⁰Then Jacob said to Simeon and Levi, ^p“You have ^qtroubled me ^rby making me obnoxious among the inhabitants of the land, among the Canaanites and the Perizzites; ^sand since I am few in number, they will gather themselves together against me and kill me. I shall be destroyed, my household and I.”

³¹But they said, “Should he treat our sister like a harlot?”

Genesis 35

Jacob's Return to Bethel ¹Then God said to Jacob, "Arise, go up to ^aBethel and dwell there; and make an altar there to God, ^bwho appeared to you ^cwhen you fled from the face of Esau your brother."

²And Jacob said to his ^dhousehold and to all who were with him, "Put away ^ethe foreign gods that are among you, ^fpurify yourselves, and change your garments.

³"Then let us arise and go up to Bethel; and I will make an altar there to God, ^gwho answered me in the day of my distress ^hand has been with me in the way which I have gone."

⁴So they gave Jacob all the foreign ¹gods which were in their hands, and the ⁱearrings which were in their ears; and Jacob hid them under ^jthe terebinth tree which was by Shechem.

⁵And they journeyed, and ^kthe terror of God was upon the cities that were all around them, and they did not pursue the sons of Jacob.

⁶So Jacob came to ¹Luz (that is, Bethel), which is in the land of Canaan, he and all the people who were with him.

⁷And he ^mbuilt an altar there and called the place ²El Bethel, because ⁿthere God appeared to him when he fled from the face of his brother.

⁸Now ^oDeborah, Rebekah's nurse, died, and she was buried below Bethel under the terebinth tree. So the name of it was called ³Allon Bachuth.

⁹Then ^pGod appeared to Jacob again, when he came from Padan Aram, and ^qblessed him.

¹⁰And God said to him, "Your name is Jacob; ^ryour name shall not be called Jacob anymore, ^sbut Israel shall be your name." So He called his name Israel.

¹¹Also God said to him: ^t"I am God Almighty. ^uBe fruitful and multiply; ^va nation and a company of nations shall proceed from you, and kings shall come from your body.

¹²"The ^wland which I gave Abraham and Isaac I give to you; and to your descendants after you I give this land."

¹³Then God ^xwent⁴ up from him in the place where He talked with him.

¹⁴So Jacob ^yset up a pillar in the place where He talked with him, a pillar of stone; and he poured a drink offering on it, and he poured oil on it.

¹⁵And Jacob called the name of the place where God spoke with him, ^zBethel.

Death of Rachel ¹⁶Then they journeyed from Bethel. And when there was but a little distance to go to Ephrath, Rachel labored in childbirth, and she had hard labor.

¹⁷Now it came to pass, when she was in hard labor, that the midwife said to her, “Do not fear; ^ayou will have this son also.”

¹⁸And so it was, as her soul was departing (for she died), that she called his name ⁵Ben-Oni; but his father called him ⁶Benjamin.

¹⁹So ^bRachel died and was buried on the way to ^cEphrath (that is, Bethlehem).

²⁰And Jacob set a pillar on her grave, which is the pillar of Rachel’s grave ^dto this day.

²¹Then Israel journeyed and pitched his tent beyond ^ethe tower of Eder.

²²And it happened, when Israel dwelt in that land, that Reuben went and ^flay with Bilhah his father’s concubine; and Israel heard about it.

Jacob’s Twelve Sons Now the sons of Jacob were twelve: ²³the sons of Leah were ⁹Reuben, Jacob’s firstborn, and Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun; ²⁴the sons of Rachel were Joseph and Benjamin; ²⁵the sons of Bilhah, Rachel’s maidservant, were Dan and Naphtali; ²⁶and the sons of Zilpah, Leah’s maidservant, were Gad and Asher. These were the sons of Jacob who were born to him in Padan Aram.

Death of Isaac ²⁷Then Jacob came to his father Isaac at ^hMamre, or ⁱKirjath Arba⁷ (that is, Hebron), where Abraham and Isaac had dwelt.

²⁸Now the days of Isaac were one hundred and eighty years.

²⁹So Isaac breathed his last and died, and ^jwas ⁸gathered to his people, being old and full of days. And ^khis sons Esau and Jacob buried him.

Genesis 36

The Family of Esau (1 Chr. 1:35–42) ¹Now this is the genealogy of Esau, ^awho is Edom.

⁴Now ^fAdah bore Eliphaz to Esau, and Basemath bore Reuel.

⁵And ²Aholibamah bore Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah. These were the sons of Esau who were born to him in the land of Canaan.

⁶Then Esau took his wives, his sons, his daughters, and all the persons of his household, his cattle and all his animals, and all his goods which he had gained in the land of Canaan, and went to a country away from the presence of his brother Jacob.

^{7g}For their possessions were too great for them to dwell together, and ^hthe land where they were strangers could not support them because of their livestock.

⁸So Esau dwelt in ⁱMount Seir. ^jEsau is Edom.

⁹And this is the genealogy of Esau the father of the Edomites in Mount Seir.

¹⁰These were the names of Esau's sons: ^kEliphaz the son of Adah the wife of Esau, and Reuel the son of Basemath the wife of Esau.

¹¹And the sons of Eliphaz were Teman, Omar, ³Zepho, Gatam, and Kenaz.

¹²Now Timna was the concubine of Eliphaz, Esau's son, and she bore ¹Amalek to Eliphaz. These were the sons of Adah, Esau's wife.

¹³These were the sons of Reuel: Nahath, Zerah, Shammah, and Mizzah. These were the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.

¹⁴These were the sons of ⁴Aholibamah, Esau's wife, the daughter of Anah, the daughter of Zibeon. And she bore to Esau: Jeush, Jaalam, and Korah.

The Chiefs of Edom ¹⁵These were the chiefs of the sons of Esau. The sons of Eliphaz, the firstborn son of Esau, were Chief Teman, Chief Omar, Chief Zepho, Chief Kenaz, ¹⁶⁵Chief Korah, Chief Gatam, and Chief Amalek. These were the chiefs of Eliphaz in the land of Edom. They were the sons of Adah.

¹⁷These were the sons of Reuel, Esau's son: Chief Nahath, Chief Zerah, Chief Shammah, and Chief Mizzah. These were the chiefs of Reuel in the land of Edom. These were the sons of Basemath, Esau's wife.

¹⁸And these were the sons of ⁶Aholibamah, Esau's wife: Chief Jeush, Chief Jaalam, and Chief Korah. These were the chiefs who descended from Aholibamah, Esau's wife, the daughter of Anah.

¹⁹These were the sons of Esau, who is Edom, and these were their chiefs.

The Sons of Seir ^{20m}These were the sons of Seir ⁿthe Horite who inhabited the land: Lotan, Shobal, Zibeon, Anah, ²¹Dishon, Ezer, and Dishan. These were the chiefs of the Horites, the sons of Seir, in the land of Edom.

²²And the sons of Lotan were Hori and ⁷Hemam. Lotan's sister was Timna.

²³These were the sons of Shobal: ⁸Alvan, Manahath, Ebal, ⁹Shepho, and Onam.

²⁵These were the children of Anah: Dishon and ¹¹Aholibamah the daughter of Anah.

²⁶These were the sons of ¹²Dishon: ¹³Hemdan, Eshban, Ithran, and Cheran.

²⁷These were the sons of Ezer: Bilhan, Zaavan, and ¹⁴Akan.

²⁸These were the sons of Dishan: ^pUz and Aran.

²⁹These were the chiefs of the Horites: Chief Lotan, Chief Shobal, Chief Zibeon, Chief Anah, ³⁰Chief Dishon, Chief Ezer, and Chief Dishan. These were the chiefs of the Horites, according to their chiefs in the land of Seir.

The Kings of Edom ^{31q}Now these were the kings who reigned in the land of Edom before any king reigned over the children of Israel: ³²Bela the son of Beor reigned in Edom, and the name of his city was Dinhabah.

³³And when Bela died, Jobab the son of Zerah of Bozrah reigned in his place.

³⁴When Jobab died, Husham of the land of the Temanites reigned in his place.

³⁵And when Husham died, Hadad the son of Bedad, who attacked Midian in the field of Moab, reigned in his place. And the name of his city was Avith.

³⁶When Hadad died, Samlah of Masrekah reigned in his place.

³⁷And when Samlah died, Saul of ^rRehoboth-by-the-River reigned in his place.

³⁸When Saul died, Baal-Hanan the son of Achbor reigned in his place.

³⁹And when Baal-Hanan the son of Achbor died, ¹⁵Hadar reigned in his place; and the name of his city was ¹⁶Pau. His wife's name was Mehetabel, the daughter of Matred, the daughter of Mezahab.

The Chiefs of Esau ⁴⁰And these were the names of the chiefs of Esau, according to their families and their places, by their names: Chief Timnah, Chief ¹⁷Alvah, Chief Jetheth, ⁴¹Chief ¹⁸Aholibamah, Chief Elah, Chief Pinon, ⁴²Chief Kenaz, Chief Teman, Chief Mibzar, ⁴³Chief Magdiel, and Chief Iram. These were the chiefs of Edom, according to their dwelling places in the land of their possession. Esau was the father of ¹⁹the Edomites.

Genesis 37

Joseph Dreams of Greatness ¹Now Jacob dwelt in the land ^awhere his father was a ¹stranger, in the land of Canaan.

²This is the history of Jacob. Joseph, being seventeen years old, was feeding the flock with his brothers. And the lad was with the sons of Bilhah and the sons of Zilpah, his father's wives; and Joseph brought ^ba bad report of them to his father.

³Now Israel loved Joseph more than all his children, because he was ^cthe son of his old age. Also he ^dmade him a tunic of many colors.

⁴But when his brothers saw that their father loved him more than all his brothers, they ^ehated him and could not speak peaceably to him.

⁵Now Joseph had a dream, and he told it to his brothers; and they hated him even more.

⁶So he said to them, "Please hear this dream which I have dreamed:
^{7f}"There we were, binding sheaves in the field. Then behold, my sheaf arose and also stood upright; and indeed your sheaves stood all around and bowed down to my sheaf."

⁸And his brothers said to him, "Shall you indeed reign over us? Or shall you indeed have dominion over us?" So they hated him even more for his dreams and for his words.

⁹Then he dreamed still another dream and told it to his brothers, and said, "Look, I have dreamed another dream. And this time, ⁸the sun, the moon, and the eleven stars bowed down to me."

¹⁰So he told it to his father and his brothers; and his father rebuked him and said to him, "What is this dream that you have dreamed? Shall your mother and I and ^hyour brothers indeed come to bow down to the earth before you?"

¹¹And ⁱhis brothers envied him, but his father ^jkept the matter in mind.

Joseph Sold by His Brothers ¹²Then his brothers went to feed their father's flock in ^kShechem.

¹³And Israel said to Joseph, "Are not your brothers feeding the flock in Shechem? Come, I will send you to them." So he said to him, "Here I am."

¹⁴Then he said to him, "Please go and see if it is well with your brothers and well with the flocks, and bring back word to me.” So he sent him out of the Valley of ¹Hebron, and he went to Shechem.

¹⁵Now a certain man found him, and there he was, wandering in the field. And the man asked him, saying, “What are you seeking?”

¹⁶So he said, “I am seeking my brothers. ^mPlease tell me where they are feeding their flocks.”

¹⁷And the man said, “They have departed from here, for I heard them say, ‘Let us go to Dothan.’” [’] So Joseph went after his brothers and found them in ⁿDothan.

¹⁸Now when they saw him afar off, even before he came near them, ^othey conspired against him to kill him.

¹⁹Then they said to one another, “Look, this ²dreamer is coming!

^{20p}“Come therefore, let us now kill him and cast him into some pit; and we shall say, ‘Some wild beast has devoured him.’ We shall see what will become of his dreams!”

²¹But ^qReuben heard it, and he delivered him out of their hands, and said, “Let us not kill him.”

²²And Reuben said to them, “Shed no blood, but cast him into this pit which is in the wilderness, and do not lay a hand on him”—that he might deliver him out of their hands, and bring him back to his father.

²³So it came to pass, when Joseph had come to his brothers, that they ^rstripped Joseph of his tunic, the tunic of many colors that was on him.

²⁴Then they took him and cast him into a pit. And the pit was empty; there was no water in it.

^{25s}And they sat down to eat a meal. Then they lifted their eyes and looked, and there was a company of ^tIshmaelites, coming from Gilead with their camels, bearing spices, ^ubalm, and myrrh, on their way to carry them down to Egypt.

²⁶So Judah said to his brothers, “What profit is there if we kill our brother and ^vconceal his blood?

²⁷“Come and let us sell him to the Ishmaelites, and ^wlet not our hand be upon him, for he is ^xour brother and ^your flesh.” And his brothers listened.

²⁸Then ^zMidianite traders passed by; so the brothers pulled Joseph up and lifted him out of the pit, ^aand sold him to the Ishmaelites for ^btwenty shekels of silver. And they took Joseph to Egypt.

²⁹Then Reuben returned to the pit, and indeed Joseph was not in the pit; and he ^ctore his clothes.

³⁰And he returned to his brothers and said, “The lad ^dis no more; and I, where shall I go?”

³¹So they took ^eJoseph’s tunic, killed a kid of the goats, and dipped the tunic in the blood.

³²Then they sent the tunic of many colors, and they brought it to their father and said, “We have found this. Do you know whether it is your son’s tunic or not?”

³³And he recognized it and said, “It is my son’s tunic. A ^fwild beast has devoured him. Without doubt Joseph is torn to pieces.”

³⁴Then Jacob ^gtore his clothes, put sackcloth on his waist, and ^hmourned for his son many days.

³⁵And all his sons and all his daughters ⁱarose to comfort him; but he refused to be comforted, and he said, “For ^jI shall go down into the grave to my son in mourning.” Thus his father wept for him.

³⁶Now ^kthe ³Midianites had sold him in Egypt to Potiphar, an officer of Pharaoh and captain of the guard.

Genesis 38

Judah and Tamar ¹*It came to pass at that time that Judah departed from his brothers, and* ^a*visited a certain Adullamite whose name was Hirah.*

²And Judah ^bsaw there a daughter of a certain Canaanite whose name was ^cShua, and he married her and went in to her.

³So she conceived and bore a son, and he called his name ^dEr.

⁴She conceived again and bore a son, and she called his name ^eOnan.

⁵And she conceived yet again and bore a son, and called his name ^fShelah. He was at Chezib when she bore him.

⁶Then Judah ^gtook a wife for Er his firstborn, and her name was ^hTamar.

⁷But ⁱEr, Judah's firstborn, was wicked in the sight of the LORD, ^jand the LORD killed him.

⁸And Judah said to Onan, "Go in to ^kyour brother's wife and marry her, and raise up an heir to your brother."

⁹But Onan knew that the heir would not be ^lhis; and it came to pass, when he went in to his brother's wife, that he emitted on the ground, lest he should give an heir to his brother.

¹⁰And the thing which he did ¹displeased the LORD; therefore He killed ^mhim also.

¹¹Then Judah said to Tamar his daughter-in-law, ⁿ"Remain a widow in your father's house till my son Shelah is grown." For he said, "Lest he also die like his brothers." And Tamar went and dwelt ^oin her father's house.

¹²Now in the process of time the daughter of Shua, Judah's wife, died; and Judah ^pwas comforted, and went up to his sheepshearers at Timnah, he and his friend Hirah the Adullamite.

¹³And it was told Tamar, saying, "Look, your father-in-law is going up ^qto Timnah to shear his sheep."

¹⁴So she took off her widow's garments, covered herself with a veil and wrapped herself, and ^rsat in an open place which was on the way to Timnah; for she saw ^sthat Shelah was grown, and she was not given to him as a wife.

¹⁵When Judah saw her, he thought she was a harlot, because she had covered her face.

¹⁶Then he turned to her by the way, and said, "Please let me come in to you"; for he did not know that she was his daughter-in-law. So she said,

“What will you give me, that you may come in to me?”

¹⁷And he said, ^t“I will send a young goat from the flock.” So she said, ^u“Will you give me a pledge till you send it?”

¹⁸Then he said, “What pledge shall I give you?” So she said, ^v“Your signet and cord, and your staff that is in your hand.” Then he gave them to her, and went in to her, and she conceived by him.

¹⁹So she arose and went away, and ^wlaid aside her veil and put on the garments of her widowhood.

²⁰And Judah sent the young goat by the hand of his friend the Adullamite, to receive his pledge from the woman’s hand, but he did not find her.

²¹Then he asked the men of that place, saying, “Where is the harlot who was ²openly by the roadside?” And they said, “There was no harlot in this place.”

²²So he returned to Judah and said, “I cannot find her. Also, the men of the place said there was no harlot in this place.”

²³Then Judah said, “Let her take them for herself, lest we be shamed; for I sent this young goat and you have not found her.”

²⁴And it came to pass, about three months after, that Judah was told, saying, “Tamar your daughter-in-law has ^xplayed the harlot; furthermore she is ³with child by harlotry.” So Judah said, “Bring her out ^yand let her be burned!”

²⁵When she was brought out, she sent to her father-in-law, saying, “By the man to whom these belong, I am with child.” And she said, ^z“Please determine whose these are—the signet and cord, and staff.”

²⁶So Judah ^aacknowledged them and said, ^b“She has been more righteous than I, because ^cI did not give her to Shelah my son.” And he ^dnever knew her again.

²⁷Now it came to pass, at the time for giving birth, that behold, twins were in her womb.

²⁸And so it was, when she was giving birth, that the one put out his hand; and the midwife took a scarlet thread and bound it on his hand, saying, “This one came out first.”

²⁹Then it happened, as he drew back his hand, that his brother came out unexpectedly; and she said, “How did you break through? This breach be upon you!” Therefore his name was called ^ePerez.⁴

³⁰Afterward his brother came out who had the scarlet thread on his hand. And his name was called ^fZerah.

Genesis 39

Joseph a Slave in Egypt ¹Now Joseph had been taken ^adown to Egypt. And ^bPotiphar, an officer of Pharaoh, captain of the guard, an Egyptian, ^cbought him from the Ishmaelites who had taken him down there. In-Text Map:

Egypt

^{2d}The LORD was with Joseph, and he was a successful man; and he was in the house of his master the Egyptian.

³And his master saw that the LORD was with him and that the LORD ^emade all he did ¹to prosper in his hand.

⁴So Joseph ^ffound favor in his sight, and served him. Then he made him ^goverseer of his house, and all that he had he put ²under his authority.

⁵So it was, from the time that he had made him overseer of his house and all that he had, that ^hthe LORD blessed the Egyptian's house for Joseph's sake; and the blessing of the LORD was on all that he had in the house and in the field.

⁶Thus he left all that he had in Joseph's ³hand, and he did not know what he had except for the ⁴bread which he ate. Now Joseph ⁱwas handsome in form and appearance.

⁷And it came to pass after these things that his master's wife ⁵cast longing eyes on Joseph, and she said, ^j"Lie with me."

⁸But he refused and said to his master's wife, "Look, my master does not know what is with me in the house, and he has committed all that he has to my hand.

⁹"There is no one greater in this house than I, nor has he kept back anything from me but you, because you are his wife. ^kHow then can I do this great wickedness, and ^lsin against God?"

¹⁰So it was, as she spoke to Joseph day by day, that he ^mdid not heed her, to lie with her or to be with her.

¹¹But it happened about this time, when Joseph went into the house to do his work, and none of the men of the house was inside, ¹²that she ⁿcaught him by his garment, saying, "Lie with me." But he left his garment in her hand, and fled and ran outside.

¹³And so it was, when she saw that he had left his garment in her hand and fled outside, ¹⁴that she called to the men of her house and spoke to them, saying, “See, he has brought in to us a ^oHebrew to ⁶mock us. He came in to me to lie with me, and I cried out with a loud voice.

¹⁵“And it happened, when he heard that I lifted my voice and cried out, that he left his garment with me, and fled and went outside.”

¹⁶So she kept his garment with her until his master came home.

¹⁷Then she ^pspoke to him with words like these, saying, “The Hebrew servant whom you brought to us came in to me to mock me; ¹⁸“so it happened, as I lifted my voice and cried out, that he left his garment with me and fled outside.”

¹⁹So it was, when his master heard the words which his wife spoke to him, saying, “Your servant did to me after this manner,” that his ^qanger was aroused.

²⁰Then Joseph’s master took him and ^rput him into the ^sprison, a place where the king’s prisoners were confined. And he was there in the prison.

²¹But the LORD was with Joseph and showed him mercy, and He ^tgave⁷ him favor in the sight of the keeper of the prison.

²²And the keeper of the prison ^ucommitted to Joseph’s hand all the prisoners who were in the prison; whatever they did there, it was his doing.

²³The keeper of the prison did not look into anything that was under ⁸Joseph’s authority, because ^vthe LORD was with him; and whatever he did, the LORD made it prosper.

Genesis 40

The Prisoners' Dreams ¹*It came to pass after these things that the ^abutler and the baker of the king of Egypt offended their lord, the king of Egypt.*

²And Pharaoh was ^bangry with his two officers, the chief butler and the chief baker.

^{3c}So he put them in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, in the prison, the place where Joseph was confined.

⁴And the captain of the guard charged Joseph with them, and he served them; so they were in custody for a while.

⁵Then the butler and the baker of the king of Egypt, who were confined in the prison, ^dhad a dream, both of them, each man's dream in one night and each man's dream with its own interpretation. Word Studies: dream

⁶And Joseph came in to them in the morning and looked at them, and saw that they were ¹sad.

⁷So he asked Pharaoh's officers who were with him in the custody of his lord's house, saying, ^e"Why do you look so sad today?"

⁸And they said to him, ^f"We each have had a dream, and there is no interpreter of it." So Joseph said to them, ^g"Do not interpretations belong to God? Tell them to me, please."

⁹Then the chief butler told his dream to Joseph, and said to him, "Behold, in my dream a vine was before me, ¹⁰"and in the vine were three branches; it was as though it budded, its blossoms shot forth, and its clusters brought forth ripe grapes.

¹¹"Then Pharaoh's cup was in my hand; and I took the grapes and pressed them into Pharaoh's cup, and placed the cup in Pharaoh's hand."

¹²And Joseph said to him, ^h"This is the interpretation of it: The three branches ⁱare three days.

¹³"Now within three days Pharaoh will ^jlift up your head and restore you to your ²place, and you will put Pharaoh's cup in his hand according to the former manner, when you were his butler.

¹⁴"But ^kremember me when it is well with you, and ^lplease show kindness to me; make mention of me to Pharaoh, and get me out of this house.

¹⁵"For indeed I was ^mstolen away from the land of the Hebrews; ⁿand also I have done nothing here that they should put me into the dungeon."

¹⁶When the chief baker saw that the interpretation was good, he said to Joseph, “I also was in my dream, and there were three ³white baskets on my head.

¹⁷“In the uppermost basket were all kinds of baked goods for Pharaoh, and the birds ate them out of the basket on my head.”

¹⁸So Joseph answered and said, ^o“This is the interpretation of it: The three baskets are three days.

^{19p}“Within three days Pharaoh will lift ⁴off your head from you and ^qhang you on a tree; and the birds will eat your flesh from you.”

²⁰Now it came to pass on the third day, which was Pharaoh’s ^rbirthday, that he ^smade a feast for all his servants; and he ^tlifted up the head of the chief butler and of the chief baker among his servants.

²¹Then he ^urestored the chief butler to his butlership again, and ^vhe placed the cup in Pharaoh’s hand.

²²But he ^whanged the chief baker, as Joseph had interpreted to them.

²³Yet the chief butler did not remember Joseph, but ^xforgot him.

Genesis 41

Pharaoh's Dreams ¹*Then it came to pass, at the end of two full years, that* ^a*Pharaoh had a dream; and behold, he stood by the river.* Bible Times & Culture Notes:

Pharaoh Word Studies: Pharaoh

²Suddenly there came up out of the river seven cows, fine looking and fat; and they fed in the meadow.

³Then behold, seven other cows came up after them out of the river, ugly and gaunt, and stood by the other cows on the bank of the river.

⁴And the ugly and gaunt cows ate up the seven fine looking and fat cows. So Pharaoh awoke.

⁵He slept and dreamed a second time; and suddenly seven heads of grain came up on one stalk, plump and good.

⁶Then behold, seven thin heads, blighted by the ^beast wind, sprang up after them.

⁷And the seven thin heads devoured the seven plump and full heads. So Pharaoh awoke, and indeed, it was a dream.

⁸Now it came to pass in the morning ^cthat his spirit was troubled, and he sent and called for all ^dthe magicians of Egypt and all its ^ewise men. And Pharaoh told them his dreams, but there was no one who could interpret them for Pharaoh.

⁹Then the ^fchief butler spoke to Pharaoh, saying: "I remember my faults this day.

¹⁰"When Pharaoh was ^gangry with his servants, ^hand put me in custody in the house of the captain of the guard, both me and the chief baker, ¹¹ⁱ"we each had a dream in one night, he and I. Each of us dreamed according to the interpretation of his own dream.

¹²"Now there was a young ^jHebrew man with us there, a ^kservant of the captain of the guard. And we told him, and he ^linterpreted our dreams for us; to each man he interpreted according to his own dream.

¹³"And it came to pass, just ^mas he interpreted for us, so it happened. He restored me to my office, and he hanged him."

¹⁴ⁿThen Pharaoh sent and called Joseph, and they ^obrought him quickly ^pout of the dungeon; and he shaved, ^qchanged his clothing, and came to Pharaoh.

¹⁵And Pharaoh said to Joseph, “I have had a dream, and there is no one who can interpret it. ^rBut I have heard it said of you that you can understand a dream, to interpret it.”

¹⁶So Joseph answered Pharaoh, saying, ^s“It is not in me; ^tGod will give Pharaoh an answer of peace.”

¹⁷Then Pharaoh said to Joseph: “Behold, ^uin my dream I stood on the bank of the river.

¹⁸“Suddenly seven cows came up out of the river, fine looking and fat; and they fed in the meadow.

¹⁹“Then behold, seven other cows came up after them, poor and very ugly and gaunt, such ugliness as I have never seen in all the land of Egypt.

²⁰“And the gaunt and ugly cows ate up the first seven, the fat cows.

²¹“When they had eaten them up, no one would have known that they had eaten them, for they were just as ugly as at the beginning. So I awoke.

²²“Also I saw in my dream, and suddenly seven ¹heads came up on one stalk, full and good.

²³“Then behold, seven heads, withered, thin, and blighted by the east wind, sprang up after them.

²⁴“And the thin heads devoured the seven good heads. So ^vI told this to the magicians, but there was no one who could explain it to me.”

²⁵Then Joseph said to Pharaoh, “The dreams of Pharaoh are one; ^wGod has shown Pharaoh what He is about to do: ²⁶“The seven good cows are seven years, and the seven good ²heads are seven years; the dreams are one.

^{28y}“This is the thing which I have spoken to Pharaoh. God has shown Pharaoh what He is about to do.

²⁹“Indeed ^zseven years of great plenty will come throughout all the land of Egypt; ³⁰“but after them seven years of famine will ^aarise, and all the plenty will be forgotten in the land of Egypt; and the famine ^bwill deplete the land.

³¹“So the plenty will not be known in the land because of the famine following, for it will be very severe.

³²“And the dream was repeated to Pharaoh twice because the ^cthing is established by God, and God will shortly bring it to pass.

³³“Now therefore, let Pharaoh select a discerning and wise man, and set him over the land of Egypt.

³⁴“Let Pharaoh do this, and let him appoint ³officers over the land, ^dto collect one-fifth of the produce of the land of Egypt in the seven plentiful years.

³⁵“And ^elet them gather all the food of those good years that are coming, and store up grain under the ⁴authority of Pharaoh, and let them keep food in the cities.

³⁶“Then that food shall be as a ⁵reserve for the land for the seven years of famine which shall be in the land of Egypt, that the land ^fmay not ⁶perish during the famine.”

Joseph’s Rise to Power ³⁷So ⁹*the advice was good in the eyes of Pharaoh and in the eyes of all his servants.*

³⁸And Pharaoh said to his servants, “Can we find such a one as this, a man ^hin whom is the Spirit of God?”

³⁹Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, “Inasmuch as God has shown you all this, there is no one as discerning and wise as you.

⁴⁰“You shall be ⁷over my house, and all my people shall be ruled according to your word; only in regard to the throne will I be greater than you.”

⁴¹And Pharaoh said to Joseph, “See, I have ^jset you over all the land of Egypt.”

⁴²Then Pharaoh ^ktook his signet ring off his hand and put it on Joseph’s hand; and he ^lclothed him in garments of fine linen ^mand put a gold chain around his neck.

⁴³And he had him ride in the second ⁿchariot which he had; ^oand they cried out before him, “Bow the knee!” So he set him ^pover all the land of Egypt.

⁴⁴Pharaoh also said to Joseph, “I am Pharaoh, and without your consent no man may lift his hand or foot in all the land of Egypt.”

⁴⁵And Pharaoh called Joseph’s name ⁸Zaphnath-Paaneah. And he gave him as a wife ^qAsenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On. So Joseph went out over all the land of Egypt.

⁴⁶Joseph was thirty years old when he ^rstood before Pharaoh king of Egypt. And Joseph went out from the presence of Pharaoh, and went throughout all the land of Egypt.

⁴⁷Now in the seven plentiful years the ground brought forth ⁹abundantly.

⁴⁸So he gathered up all the food of the seven years which were in the land of Egypt, and laid up the food in the cities; he laid up in every city the food of the fields which surrounded them.

⁴⁹Joseph gathered very much grain, ^sas the sand of the sea, until he stopped counting, for it was immeasurable.

⁵⁰^tAnd to Joseph were born two sons before the years of famine came, whom Asenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On, bore to him.

⁵¹Joseph called the name of the firstborn ¹⁰Manasseh: "For God has made me forget all my toil and all my ^ufather's house."

⁵²And the name of the second he called ¹¹Ephraim: "For God has caused me to be ^vfruitful in the land of my affliction."

⁵³Then the seven years of plenty which were in the land of Egypt ended, ⁵⁴^wand the seven years of famine began to come, ^xas Joseph had said. The famine was in all lands, but in all the land of Egypt there was bread.

⁵⁵So when all the land of Egypt was famished, the people cried to Pharaoh for bread. Then Pharaoh said to all the Egyptians, "Go to Joseph; ^ywhatever he says to you, do."

⁵⁶The famine was over all the face of the earth, and Joseph opened ¹²all the storehouses and ^zsold to the Egyptians. And the famine became severe in the land of Egypt.

⁵⁷^aSo all countries came to Joseph in Egypt to ^bbuy grain, because the famine was severe in all lands.

Genesis 42

Joseph's Brothers Go to Egypt ¹When ^aJacob saw that there was grain in Egypt, Jacob said to his sons, "Why do you look at one another?"

²And he said, "Indeed I have heard that there is grain in Egypt; go down to that place and buy for us there, that we may ^blive and not die."

³So Joseph's ten brothers went down to buy grain in Egypt.

⁴But Jacob did not send Joseph's brother Benjamin with his brothers, for he said, ^c"Lest some calamity befall him."

⁵And the sons of Israel went to buy grain among those who journeyed, for the famine was ^din the land of Canaan.

⁶Now Joseph was governor ^eover the land; and it was he who sold to all the people of the land. And Joseph's brothers came and ^fbowed down before him with their faces to the earth.

⁷Joseph saw his brothers and recognized them, but he acted as ^ga stranger to them and spoke ¹roughly to them. Then he said to them, "Where do you come from?" And they said, "From the land of Canaan to buy food."

⁸So Joseph recognized his brothers, but they did not recognize him.

⁹Then Joseph ^hremembered the dreams which he had dreamed about them, and said to them, "You are spies! You have come to see the ²nakedness of the land!"

¹⁰And they said to him, "No, my lord, but your servants have come to buy food.

¹¹"We are all one man's sons; we are honest men; your servants are not spies."

¹²But he said to them, "No, but you have come to see the nakedness of the land."

¹³And they said, "Your servants are twelve brothers, the sons of one man in the land of Canaan; and in fact, the youngest is with our father today, and one ⁱ*is* no more."

¹⁴But Joseph said to them, "It is as I spoke to you, saying, 'You are spies!'

¹⁵"In this manner you shall be tested: ^jBy the life of Pharaoh, you shall not leave this place unless your youngest brother comes here.

¹⁶"Send one of you, and let him bring your brother; and you shall be ³kept in prison, that your words may be tested to see whether there is any truth in you; or else, by the life of Pharaoh, surely you are spies!”

¹⁷So he ⁴put them all together in prison ^kthree days.

¹⁸Then Joseph said to them the third day, “Do this and live, ^lfor I fear God:
¹⁹“If you are honest men, let one of your brothers be confined to your prison house; but you, go and carry grain for the famine of your houses.

²⁰“And ^mbring your youngest brother to me; so your words will be verified, and you shall not die.” And they did so.

²¹Then they said to one another, ⁿ“We are truly guilty concerning our brother, for we saw the anguish of his soul when he pleaded with us, and we would not hear; ^otherefore this distress has come upon us.”

²²And Reuben answered them, saying, ^p“Did I not speak to you, saying, ‘Do not sin against the boy’; and you would not listen? Therefore behold, his blood is now ^qrequired of us.”

²³But they did not know that Joseph understood them, for he spoke to them through an interpreter.

²⁴And he turned himself away from them and ^rwept. Then he returned to them again, and talked with them. And he took ^sSimeon from them and bound him before their eyes.

The Brothers Return to Canaan ²⁵Then Joseph ^tgave a command to fill their sacks with grain, to ^urestore every man’s money to his sack, and to give them provisions for the journey. ^vThus he did for them.

²⁶So they loaded their donkeys with the grain and departed from there.

²⁷But as ^wone of them opened his sack to give his donkey feed at the encampment, he saw his money; and there it was, in the mouth of his sack.

²⁸So he said to his brothers, “My money has been restored, and there it is, in my sack!” Then their hearts ⁵failed them and they were afraid, saying to one another, “What is this that God has done to us?”

²⁹Then they went to Jacob their father in the land of Canaan and told him all that had happened to them, saying: ³⁰“The man who is lord of the land ^xspoke ⁶roughly to us, and took us for spies of the country.

³¹“But we said to him, ‘We are honest men; we are not spies.

³²‘We are twelve brothers, sons of our father; one is no more, and the youngest is with our father this day in the land of Canaan.’

³³“Then the man, the lord of the country, said to us, ^y‘By this I will know that you are honest men: Leave one of your brothers here with me, take food for the famine of your households, and be gone.

³⁴‘And bring your ^zyoungest brother to me; so I shall know that you are not spies, but that you are honest men. I will grant your brother to you, and you may ^atrade in the land.’

³⁶And Jacob their father said to them, “You have ^cbereaved me: Joseph is no more, Simeon is no more, and you want to take ^dBenjamin. All these things are against me.”

³⁷Then Reuben spoke to his father, saying, “Kill my two sons if I do not bring him back to you; put him in my hands, and I will bring him back to you.”

³⁸But he said, “My son shall not go down with you, for ^ehis brother is dead, and he is left alone. ^fIf any calamity should befall him along the way in which you go, then you would ^gbring down my gray hair with sorrow to the grave.”

Genesis 43

Joseph's Brothers Return with Benjamin ¹Now the famine was ^asevere in the land.

²And it came to pass, when they had eaten up the grain which they had brought from Egypt, that their father said to them, "Go ^bback, buy us a little food."

³But Judah spoke to him, saying, "The man solemnly warned us, saying, 'You shall not see my face unless your ^cbrother is with you.'

⁴"If you send our brother with us, we will go down and buy you food.

⁵"But if you will not send him, we will not go down; for the man said to us, 'You shall not see my face unless your brother is with you.' "

⁶And Israel said, "Why did you deal so ¹wrongfully with me as to tell the man whether you had still another brother?"

⁷But they said, "The man asked us pointedly about ourselves and our family, saying, 'Is your father still alive? Have you another brother?' And we told him according to these words. Could we possibly have known that he would say, 'Bring your brother down'?"

⁸Then Judah said to Israel his father, "Send the lad with me, and we will arise and go, that we may ^dlive and not die, both we and you and also our little ones.

⁹"I myself will be surety for him; from my hand you shall require him. ^eIf I do not bring him back to you and set him before you, then let me bear the blame forever.

¹¹And their father Israel said to them, "If it must be so, then do this: Take some of the best fruits of the land in your vessels and ^fcarry down a present for the man—a little ^gbalm and a little honey, spices and myrrh, pistachio nuts and almonds.

¹²"Take double money in your hand, and take back in your hand the money ^hthat was returned in the mouth of your sacks; perhaps it was an oversight.

¹³"Take your brother also, and arise, go back to the man.

¹⁴"And may God ⁱAlmighty ^jgive you mercy before the man, that he may release your other brother and Benjamin. ^kIf I am bereaved, I am bereaved!"

¹⁵So the men took that present and Benjamin, and they took double money in their hand, and arose and went ¹down to Egypt; and they stood before Joseph.

¹⁶When Joseph saw Benjamin with them, he said to the ^msteward of his house, "Take these men to my home, and slaughter ²an animal and make ready; for these men will dine with me at noon."

¹⁷Then the man did as Joseph ordered, and the man brought the men into Joseph's house.

¹⁸Now the men were ⁿafraid because they were brought into Joseph's house; and they said, "It is because of the money, which was returned in our sacks the first time, that we are brought in, so that he may ³make a case against us and seize us, to take us as slaves with our donkeys."

¹⁹When they drew near to the steward of Joseph's house, they talked with him at the door of the house, ²⁰and said, "O sir, ^owe indeed came down the first time to buy food; ²¹"but ^pit happened, when we came to the encampment, that we opened our sacks, and there, each man's money was in the mouth of his sack, our money in full weight; so we have brought it back in our hand.

²²"And we have brought down other money in our hands to buy food. We do not know who put our money in our sacks."

²³But he said, "Peace be with you, do not be afraid. Your God and the God of your father has given you treasure in your sacks; I had your money." Then he brought ^qSimeon out to them.

²⁴So the man brought the men into Joseph's house and ^rgave them water, and they washed their feet; and he gave their donkeys feed.

²⁵Then they made the present ready for Joseph's coming at noon, for they heard that they would eat bread there.

²⁶And when Joseph came home, they brought him the present which was in their hand into the house, and ^sbowed down before him to the earth.

²⁷Then he asked them about their well-being, and said, "Is your father well, the old man ^tof whom you spoke? Is he still alive?"

²⁸And they answered, "Your servant our father is in good health; he is still alive." ^uAnd they bowed their heads down and prostrated themselves.

²⁹Then he lifted his eyes and saw his brother Benjamin, ^vhis mother's son, and said, "Is this your younger brother ^wof whom you spoke to me?" And he said, "God be gracious to you, my son."

³⁰Now ^xhis heart yearned for his brother; so Joseph made haste and sought somewhere to weep. And he went into his chamber and ^ywept there.

³¹Then he washed his face and came out; and he restrained himself, and said, “Serve the ^zbread.”

³²So they set him a place by himself, and them by themselves, and the Egyptians who ate with him by themselves; because the Egyptians could not eat food with the ^aHebrews, for that is ^ban abomination to the Egyptians.

³³And they sat before him, the firstborn according to his ^cbirthright and the youngest according to his youth; and the men looked in astonishment at one another.

³⁴Then he took servings to them from before him, but Benjamin’s serving was ^dfive times as much as any of theirs. So they drank and were merry with him.

Genesis 44

Joseph's Cup ¹*And he commanded ¹the ^asteward of his house, saying, ^b"Fill the men's sacks with food, as much as they can carry, and put each man's money in the mouth of his sack.*

²"Also put my cup, the silver cup, in the mouth of the sack of the youngest, and his grain money." So he did according to the word that Joseph had spoken.

³As soon as the morning dawned, the men were sent away, they and their donkeys.

⁴When they had gone out of the city, and were not yet far off, Joseph said to his steward, "Get up, follow the men; and when you overtake them, say to them, 'Why have you ^crepaid evil for good?

⁵'Is not this the one from which my lord drinks, and with which he indeed practices divination? You have done evil in so doing.' "

⁶So he overtook them, and he spoke to them these same words.

⁷And they said to him, "Why does my lord say these words? Far be it from us that your servants should do such a thing.

⁸"Look, we brought back to you from the land of Canaan ^dthe money which we found in the mouth of our sacks. How then could we steal silver or gold from your lord's house?

⁹"With whomever of your servants it is found, ^elet him die, and we also will be my lord's slaves."

¹⁰And he said, "Now also let it be according to your words; he with whom it is found shall be my slave, and you shall be blameless."

¹¹Then each man speedily let down his sack to the ground, and each opened his sack.

¹²So he searched. He began with the oldest and ²left off with the youngest; and the cup was found in Benjamin's sack.

¹³Then they ^ftore their clothes, and each man loaded his donkey and returned to the city.

¹⁴So Judah and his brothers came to Joseph's house, and he was still there; and they ^gfell before him on the ground.

¹⁵And Joseph said to them, "What deed is this you have done? Did you not know that such a man as I can certainly practice divination?"

¹⁶Then Judah said, “What shall we say to my lord? What shall we speak? Or how shall we clear ourselves? God has ^bfound out the iniquity of your servants; here ⁱwe are, my lord’s slaves, both we and he also with whom the cup was found.”

¹⁷But he said, ^j“Far be it from me that I should do so; the man in whose hand the cup was found, he shall be my slave. And as for you, go up in peace to your father.”

Judah Intercedes for Benjamin ¹⁸Then Judah came near to him and said: “O my lord, please let your servant speak a word in my lord’s hearing, and ^kdo not let your anger burn against your servant; for you are even like Pharaoh.

¹⁹“My lord asked his servants, saying, ‘Have you a father or a brother?’

²⁰“And we said to my lord, ‘We have a father, an old man, and ^la child of his old age, who is young; his brother is ^mdead, and he ⁿalone is left of his mother’s children, and his ^ofather loves him.’

²¹“Then you said to your servants, ^p‘Bring him down to me, that I may set my eyes on him.’

²²“And we said to my lord, ‘The lad cannot leave his father, for if he should leave his father, his father would die.’

²³“But you said to your servants, ^q‘Unless your youngest brother comes down with you, you shall see my face no more.’

²⁴“So it was, when we went up to your servant my father, that we told him the words of my lord.

²⁵“And ^rour father said, ‘Go back and buy us a little food.’

²⁶“But we said, ‘We cannot go down; if our youngest brother is with us, then we will go down; for we may not see the man’s face unless our youngest brother is with us.’

²⁷“Then your servant my father said to us, ‘You know that ^smy wife bore me two sons; ²⁸‘and the one went out from me, and I said, ^t“Surely he is torn to pieces”; and I have not seen him since.

³⁰“Now therefore, when I come to your servant my father, and the lad is not with us, since ^vhis life is bound up in the lad’s life, ³¹“it will happen, when he sees that the lad is not with us, that he will die. So your servants will bring down the gray hair of your servant our father with sorrow to the grave.

³²“For your servant became surety for the lad to my father, saying, ^w‘If I do not bring him back to you, then I shall bear the blame before my father forever.’

³³“Now therefore, please ^xlet your servant remain instead of the lad as a slave to my lord, and let the lad go up with his brothers.

³⁴“For how shall I go up to my father if the lad is not with me, lest perhaps I see the evil that would ³come upon my father?”

Genesis 45

Joseph Revealed to His Brothers

¹Then Joseph could not restrain himself before all those who stood by him, and he cried out, “Make everyone go out from me!” So no one stood with him ^awhile Joseph made himself known to his brothers.

²And he ^bwept aloud, and the Egyptians and the house of Pharaoh heard it.

³Then Joseph said to his brothers, ^c“I am Joseph; does my father still live?” But his brothers could not answer him, for they were dismayed in his presence. Article: Joseph's Story

⁴And Joseph said to his brothers, “Please come near to me.” So they came near. Then he said: “I am Joseph your brother, ^dwhom you sold into Egypt.

⁵“But now, do not therefore be grieved or angry with yourselves because you sold me here; ^efor God sent me before you to preserve life.

⁶“For these two years the ^ffamine has been in the land, and there are still five years in which there will be neither plowing nor harvesting.

⁷“And God ^gsent me before you to preserve a ¹posterity for you in the earth, and to save your lives by a great deliverance.

⁸“So now it was not you who sent me here, but ^hGod; and He has made me ⁱa father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house, and a ^jruler throughout all the land of Egypt.

⁹“Hurry and go up to my father, and say to him, ‘Thus says your son Joseph: “God has made me lord of all Egypt; come down to me, do not ²tarry.

^{10k}“You shall dwell in the land of Goshen, and you shall be near to me, you and your children, your children’s children, your flocks and your herds, and all that you have.

¹¹“There I will ^lprovide for you, lest you and your household, and all that you have, come to poverty; for there are still five years of famine.” ’

¹²“And behold, your eyes and the eyes of my brother Benjamin see that it is ^mmy mouth that speaks to you.

¹³“So you shall tell my father of all my glory in Egypt, and of all that you have seen; and you shall hurry and ⁿbring my father down here.”

¹⁴Then he fell on his brother Benjamin’s neck and wept, and Benjamin wept on his neck.

¹⁵Moreover he ^okissed all his brothers and wept over them, and after that his brothers talked with him.

¹⁶Now the report of it was heard in Pharaoh’s house, saying, “Joseph’s brothers have come.” So it pleased Pharaoh and his servants well.

¹⁷And Pharaoh said to Joseph, “Say to your brothers, ‘Do this: Load your animals and depart; go to the land of Canaan.

¹⁸‘Bring your father and your households and come to me; I will give you the best of the land of Egypt, and you will eat ^pthe ³fat of the land.

¹⁹‘Now you are commanded—do this: Take carts out of the land of Egypt for your little ones and your wives; bring your father and come.

²⁰‘Also do not be concerned about your goods, for the best of all the land of Egypt is yours.’ ”

²¹Then the sons of Israel did so; and Joseph gave them ^qcarts,⁴ according to the command of Pharaoh, and he gave them provisions for the journey.

²²He gave to all of them, to each man, ^rchanges of garments; but to Benjamin he gave three hundred pieces of silver and ^sfive changes of garments.

²³And he sent to his father these things: ten donkeys loaded with the good things of Egypt, and ten female donkeys loaded with grain, bread, and food for his father for the journey.

²⁴So he sent his brothers away, and they departed; and he said to them, “See that you do not become troubled along the way.”

²⁵Then they went up out of Egypt, and came to the land of Canaan to Jacob their father.

²⁶And they told him, saying, “Joseph is still alive, and he is governor over all the land of Egypt.” ^tAnd Jacob’s heart stood still, because he did not believe them.

²⁷But when they told him all the words which Joseph had said to them, and when he saw the carts which Joseph had sent to carry him, the spirit ^uof Jacob their father revived.

²⁸Then Israel said, “It is enough. Joseph my son is still alive. I will go and see him before I die.”

Genesis 46

Jacob's Journey to Egypt

(Ex. 6:14–25)

¹So Israel took his journey with all that he had, and came to ^aBeersheba, and offered sacrifices ^bto the God of his father Isaac.

²Then God spoke to Israel ^cin the visions of the night, and said, “Jacob, Jacob!” And he said, “Here I am.”

³So He said, “I am God, ^dthe God of your father; do not fear to go down to Egypt, for I will ^emake of you a great nation there.

^{4f}“I will go down with you to Egypt, and I will also surely ^gbring you up again; and ^hJoseph ¹will put his hand on your eyes.”

⁵Then ⁱJacob arose from Beersheba; and the sons of Israel carried their father Jacob, their little ones, and their wives, in the ²carts ^jwhich Pharaoh had sent to carry him.

⁶So they took their livestock and their goods, which they had acquired in the land of Canaan, and went to Egypt, ^kJacob and all his descendants with him.

⁷His sons and his sons' sons, his daughters and his sons' daughters, and all his descendants he brought with him to Egypt.

⁸Now ¹these were the names of the children of Israel, Jacob and his sons, who went to Egypt: ^mReuben was Jacob's firstborn.

⁹The ⁿsons of Reuben were Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi.

^{10o}The sons of Simeon were ³Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, ⁴Jachin, ⁵Zohar, and Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman.

¹¹The sons of ^pLevi were Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

¹²The sons of ^qJudah were ^rEr, Onan, Shelah, Perez, and Zerah (but Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan). ^sThe sons of Perez were Hezron and Hamul.

¹³The sons of Issachar were Tola, ⁶Puvah, ⁷Job, and Shimron.

¹⁴The ^tsons of Zebulun were Sered, Elon, and Jahleel.

¹⁵These were the ^usons of Leah, whom she bore to Jacob in Padan Aram, with his daughter Dinah. All the persons, his sons and his daughters, were thirty-three.

¹⁶The sons of Gad were ⁸Ziphion, Haggi, Shuni, ⁹Ezbon, Eri, ¹⁰Arodi, and Areli.

¹⁷^vThe sons of Asher were Jimnah, Ishuah, Isui, Beriah, and Serah, their sister. And the sons of Beriah were Heber and Malchiel.

¹⁸^wThese were the sons of Zilpah, ^xwhom Laban gave to Leah his daughter; and these she bore to Jacob: sixteen persons.

¹⁹The ^ysons of Rachel, ^zJacob's wife, were Joseph and Benjamin.

²⁰^aAnd to Joseph in the land of Egypt were born Manasseh and Ephraim, whom Asenath, the daughter of Poti-Pherah priest of On, bore to him.

²¹^bThe sons of Benjamin were Belah, Becher, Ashbel, Gera, Naaman, ^cEhi, Rosh, ^dMuppm, ¹¹Huppm, and Ard.

²²These were the sons of Rachel, who were born to Jacob: fourteen persons in all.

²³The son of Dan was ¹²Hushim.

²⁴^eThe sons of Naphtali were ¹³Jahzeel, Guni, Jezer, and ¹⁴Shillem.

²⁵^fThese were the sons of Bilhah, ^gwhom Laban gave to Rachel his daughter, and she bore these to Jacob: seven persons in all.

²⁶^hAll the persons who went with Jacob to Egypt, who came from his body, ⁱbesides Jacob's sons' wives, were sixty-six persons in all.

²⁷And the sons of Joseph who were born to him in Egypt were two persons. ^jAll the persons of the house of Jacob who went to Egypt were seventy.

Jacob Settles in Goshen

²⁸Then he sent Judah before him to Joseph, ^kto point out before him the way to Goshen. And they came ^lto the land of Goshen.

²⁹So Joseph made ready his ^mchariot and went up to Goshen to meet his father Israel; and he presented himself to him, and ⁿfell on his neck and wept on his neck a good while.

³⁰And Israel said to Joseph, ^o“Now let me die, since I have seen your face, because you are still alive.”

³¹Then Joseph said to his brothers and to his father’s household, ^p“I will go up and tell Pharaoh, and say to him, ‘My brothers and those of my father’s house, who were in the land of Canaan, have come to me.

³²‘And the men are ^qshepherds, for their occupation has been to feed livestock; and they have brought their flocks, their herds, and all that they have.’

³³“So it shall be, when Pharaoh calls you and says, ^r“What is your occupation?”

³⁴“that you shall say, ‘Your servants’ ^soccupation has been with livestock ^tfrom our youth even till now, both we and also our fathers,’ that you may dwell in the land of Goshen; for every shepherd is ^uan¹⁵ abomination to the Egyptians.”

Genesis 47

¹Then Joseph ^awent and told Pharaoh, and said, “My father and my brothers, their flocks and their herds and all that they possess, have come from the land of Canaan; and indeed they are in ^bthe land of Goshen.”

²And he took five men from among his brothers and ^cpresented them to Pharaoh.

³Then Pharaoh said to his brothers, ^d“What is your occupation?” And they said to Pharaoh, ^e“Your servants are shepherds, both we and also our fathers.”

⁴And they said to Pharaoh, ^f“We have come to dwell in the land, because your servants have no pasture for their flocks, ^gfor the famine is severe in the land of Canaan. Now therefore, please let your servants ^hdwell in the land of Goshen.”

⁵Then Pharaoh spoke to Joseph, saying, “Your father and your brothers have come to you.

⁶ⁱ“The land of Egypt is before you. Have your father and brothers dwell in the best of the land; let them dwell ^jin the land of Goshen. And if you know any competent men among them, then make them chief herdsmen over my livestock.”

⁷Then Joseph brought in his father Jacob and set him before Pharaoh; and Jacob ^kblessed Pharaoh.

⁸Pharaoh said to Jacob, “How old are you?”

⁹And Jacob said to Pharaoh, ^l“The days of the years of my ¹pilgrimage are ^mone hundred and thirty years; ⁿfew and evil have been the days of the years of my life, and ^othey have not attained to the days of the years of the life of my fathers in the days of their pilgrimage.”

¹⁰So Jacob ^pblessed Pharaoh, and went out from before Pharaoh.

¹¹And Joseph situated his father and his brothers, and gave them a possession in the land of Egypt, in the best of the land, in the land of ^qRameses, ^ras Pharaoh had commanded.

¹²Then Joseph provided ^shis father, his brothers, and all his father’s household with bread, according to the number in their families.

Joseph Deals with the Famine

¹³Now there was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very severe, ^tso that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan languished because of the famine.

^{14u}And Joseph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, for the grain which they bought; and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh's house.

¹⁵So when the money failed in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came to Joseph and said, "Give us bread, for ^vwhy should we die in your presence? For the money has failed."

¹⁶Then Joseph said, "Give your livestock, and I will give you bread for your livestock, if the money is gone."

¹⁷So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for the horses, the flocks, the cattle of the herds, and for the donkeys. Thus he ²fed them with bread in exchange for all their livestock that year.

¹⁸When that year had ended, they came to him the next year and said to him, "We will not hide from my lord that our money is gone; my lord also has our herds of livestock. There is nothing left in the sight of my lord but our bodies and our lands.

¹⁹"Why should we die before your eyes, both we and our land? Buy us and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants of Pharaoh; give us seed, that we may ^wlive and not die, that the land may not be desolate."

²⁰Then Joseph ^xbought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for every man of the Egyptians sold his field, because the famine was severe upon them. So the land became Pharaoh's.

²¹And as for the people, he ³moved them into the cities, from one end of the borders of Egypt to the other end.

^{22y}Only the land of the ^zpriests he did not buy; for the priests had rations allotted to them by Pharaoh, and they ate their rations which Pharaoh gave them; therefore they did not sell their lands.

²³Then Joseph said to the people, "Indeed I have bought you and your land this day for Pharaoh. Look, here is seed for you, and you shall sow the land.

²⁴"And it shall come to pass in the harvest that you shall give one-fifth to Pharaoh. Four-fifths shall be your own, as seed for the field and for your food, for those of your households and as food for your little ones."

²⁵So they said, “You have saved ^aour lives; let us find favor in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh’s servants.”

²⁶And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt to this day, that Pharaoh should have one-fifth, ^bexcept for the land of the priests only, which did not become Pharaoh’s.

Joseph’s Vow to Jacob

²⁷So Israel ^cdwelt in the land of Egypt, in the country of Goshen; and they had possessions there and ^dgrew and multiplied exceedingly.

²⁸And Jacob lived in the land of Egypt seventeen years. So the length of Jacob’s life was one hundred and forty-seven years.

²⁹When the time ^edrew near that Israel must die, he called his son Joseph and said to him, “Now if I have found favor in your sight, please ^fput your hand under my thigh, and ^gdeal kindly and truly with me. ^hPlease do not bury me in Egypt,

³⁰“but ⁱlet me lie with my fathers; you shall carry me out of Egypt and ^jbury me in their burial place.” And he said, “I will do as you have said.”

³¹Then he said, “Swear to me.” And he swore to him. So ^kIsrael bowed himself on the head of the bed.

Genesis 48

Jacob Blesses Joseph's Sons

(Heb. 11:21)

¹Now it came to pass after these things that Joseph was told, “Indeed your father is sick”; and he took with him his two sons, ^aManasseh and Ephraim.

²And Jacob was told, “Look, your son Joseph is coming to you”; and Israel ¹strengthened himself and sat up on the bed.

³Then Jacob said to Joseph: “God ^bAlmighty appeared to me at ^cLuz in the land of Canaan and blessed me,

⁴“and said to me, ‘Behold, I will ^dmake you fruitful and multiply you, and I will make of you a multitude of people, and ^egive this land to your descendants after you ^fas an everlasting possession.’

⁵“And now your ^gtwo sons, Ephraim and Manasseh, who were born to you in the land of Egypt before I came to you in Egypt, are mine; as Reuben and Simeon, they shall be mine.

⁶“Your ²offspring ³whom you beget after them shall be yours; they will be called by the name of their brothers in their inheritance.

⁷“But as for me, when I came from Padan, ^hRachel died beside me in the land of Canaan on the way, when there was but a little distance to go to Ephrath; and I buried her there on the way to Ephrath (that is, Bethlehem).”

⁸Then Israel saw Joseph's sons, and said, “Who are these?”

⁹And Joseph said to his father, “They are my sons, whom God has given me in this place.” And he said, “Please bring them to me, and ⁱI will bless them.”

¹⁰Now ^jthe eyes of Israel were dim with age, so that he could not see. Then Joseph brought them near him, and he ^kkissed them and embraced them.

¹¹And Israel said to Joseph, ^l“I had not thought to see your face; but in fact, God has also shown me your offspring!”

¹²So Joseph brought them from beside his knees, and he bowed down with his face to the earth.

¹⁴Then Israel stretched out his right hand and ^mlaid it on Ephraim's head, who was the younger, and his left hand on Manasseh's head, ⁿguiding his hands knowingly, for Manasseh was the ^ofirstborn.

¹⁵And ^phe blessed Joseph, and said:

“God, ^qbefore whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked,
The God who has fed me all my life long to this day,
¹⁶The Angel ^rwho has redeemed me from all evil,
Bless the lads;
Let ^smy name be named upon them,
And the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac;
And let them ^tgrow into a multitude in the midst of the earth.”

¹⁷Now when Joseph saw that his father ^ulaid his right hand on the head of Ephraim, it displeased him; so he took hold of his father's hand to remove it from Ephraim's head to Manasseh's head.

¹⁸And Joseph said to his father, “Not so, my father, for this one is the firstborn; put your right hand on his head.”

¹⁹But his father refused and said, ^v“I know, my son, I know. He also shall become a people, and he also shall be great; but truly ^whis younger brother shall be greater than he, and his descendants shall become a multitude of nations.”

²⁰So he blessed them that day, saying, ^x“By you Israel will bless, saying, ‘May God make you as Ephraim and as Manasseh!’ ” And thus he set Ephraim before Manasseh.

²¹Then Israel said to Joseph, “Behold, I am dying, but ^yGod will be with you and bring you back to the land of your fathers.

²²“Moreover ^zI have given to you one ⁴portion above your brothers, which I took from the hand ^aof the Amorite with my sword and my bow.”

Genesis 49

Jacob's Last Words to His Sons

¹And Jacob called his sons and said, “Gather together, that I may ^atell you what shall befall you ^bin the last days:

²“Gather together and hear, you sons of Jacob,
And listen to Israel your father.

³“Reuben, you are ^cmy firstborn,
My might and the beginning of my strength,
The excellency of dignity and the excellency of power.
⁴Unstable as water, you shall not excel,
Because you ^dwent up to your father's bed;
Then you defiled it—
He went up to my couch.

⁵“Simeon and Levi are brothers;
Instruments of ¹cruelty are in their dwelling place.
^{6e}Let not my soul enter their council;
Let not my honor be united ^fto their assembly;
⁸For in their anger they slew a man,
And in their self-will they ²hamstrung an ox.
⁷Cursed be their anger, for it is fierce;
And their wrath, for it is cruel!
^hI will divide them in Jacob
And scatter them in Israel.

⁸“Judah, ⁱyou are he whom your brothers shall praise;
^jYour hand shall be on the neck of your enemies;
^kYour father's children shall bow down before you.
⁹Judah is ¹a lion's whelp;
From the prey, my son, you have gone up.
^mHe ³bows down, he lies down as a lion;
And as a lion, who shall rouse him?

¹⁰ⁿThe ⁴scepter shall not depart from Judah,
Nor ^oa lawgiver from between his feet,
^pUntil Shiloh comes;
^qAnd to Him shall be the obedience of the people.
¹¹Binding his donkey to the vine,
And his donkey's colt to the choice vine,
He washed his garments in wine,
And his clothes in the blood of grapes.
¹²His eyes are darker than wine,
And his teeth whiter than milk.

¹³“Zebulun^r shall dwell by the haven of the sea;
He shall become a haven for ships,
And his border shall ^sadjoin Sidon.

¹⁴“Issachar^t is a strong donkey,
Lying down between two burdens;
¹⁵He saw that rest was good,
And that the land was pleasant;
He bowed ^uhis shoulder to bear a burden,
And became a band of slaves.

¹⁶“Dan^v shall judge his people
As one of the tribes of Israel.
^{17w}Dan shall be a serpent by the way,
A viper by the path,
That bites the horse's heels
So that its rider shall fall backward.
^{18x}I have waited for your salvation, O LORD!

¹⁹“Gad, ^{y5}a troop shall ⁶tramp upon him,
But he shall triumph at last.

²⁰“Bread from ^zAsher shall be rich,
And he shall yield royal dainties.

²¹“Naphtali^a is a deer let loose;
He uses beautiful words.

²²“Joseph is a fruitful bough,
A fruitful bough by a well;
His branches run over the wall.

²³The archers have ^bbitterly grieved him,
Shot at him and hated him.

²⁴But his ^cbow remained in strength,
And the arms of his hands were ⁷made strong
By the hands of ^dthe Mighty God of Jacob
^e(From there ^f*is* the Shepherd, ^gthe Stone of Israel),

^{25h}By the God of your father who will help you, ⁱAnd by the Almighty ^jwho will bless you
With blessings of heaven above,
Blessings of the deep that lies beneath,
Blessings of the breasts and of the womb. Word Studies: Almighty

²⁶The blessings of your father
Have excelled the blessings of my ancestors,
^kUp to the utmost bound of the everlasting hills.
^lThey shall be on the head of Joseph,
And on the crown of the head of him who was separate from his brothers.

²⁷“Benjamin is a ^mravenous wolf;
In the morning he shall devour the prey, ⁿAnd at night he shall divide the spoil.”

²⁸All these are the twelve tribes of Israel, and this is what their father spoke to them. And he blessed them; he blessed each one according to his own blessing.

Jacob's Death and Burial

²⁹Then he charged them and said to them: “I ^oam to be gathered to my people; ^pbury me with my fathers ^qin the cave that is in the field of Ephron the Hittite, ³⁰“in the cave that is in the field of Machpelah, which is before Mamre in the land of Canaan, ^rwhich Abraham bought with the field of Ephron the Hittite as a possession for a burial place.

^{31s}“There they buried Abraham and Sarah his wife, ^tthere they buried Isaac and Rebekah his wife, and there I buried Leah.

³²“The field and the cave that is there were purchased from the sons of Heth.”

³³And when Jacob had finished commanding his sons, he drew his feet up into the bed and breathed his last, and was gathered to his people.

Genesis 50

¹Then Joseph ^afell on his father's face, and ^bwept over him, and kissed him.

²And Joseph commanded his servants the physicians to ^cembalm his father. So the physicians embalmed Israel.

³Forty days were required for him, for such are the days required for those who are embalmed; and the Egyptians ^dmourned¹ for him seventy days.

⁴Now when the days of his mourning were past, Joseph spoke to ^ethe household of Pharaoh, saying, "If now I have found favor in your eyes, please speak in the hearing of Pharaoh, saying,

^{5f}"My father made me swear, saying, "Behold, I am dying; in my grave ^gwhich I dug for myself in the land of Canaan, there you shall bury me." Now therefore, please let me go up and bury my father, and I will come back.' "

⁶And Pharaoh said, "Go up and bury your father, as he made you swear."

⁷So Joseph went up to bury his father; and with him went up all the servants of Pharaoh, the elders of his house, and all the elders of the land of Egypt, ⁸as well as all the house of Joseph, his brothers, and his father's house. Only their little ones, their flocks, and their herds they left in the land of Goshen.

⁹And there went up with him both chariots and horsemen, and it was a very great gathering.

¹⁰Then they came to the threshing floor of Atad, which is beyond the Jordan, and they ^hmourned there with a great and very solemn lamentation. ⁱHe observed seven days of mourning for his father.

¹¹And when the inhabitants of the land, the Canaanites, saw the mourning at the threshing floor of Atad, they said, "This is a deep mourning of the Egyptians." Therefore its name was called ²Abel Mizraim, which is beyond the Jordan.

¹²So his sons did for him just as he had commanded them.

¹³For ^jhis sons carried him to the land of Canaan, and buried him in the cave of the field of Machpelah, before Mamre, which Abraham ^kbought with the field from Ephron the Hittite as property for a burial place.

¹⁴And after he had buried his father, Joseph returned to Egypt, he and his brothers and all who went up with him to bury his father.

Joseph Reassures His Brothers

¹⁵When Joseph's brothers saw that their father was dead, ¹they said, "Perhaps Joseph will hate us, and may ³actually repay us for all the evil which we did to him."

¹⁶So they sent messengers to Joseph, saying, "Before your father died he commanded, saying,

¹⁸Then his brothers also went and ^ofell down before his face, and they said, "Behold, we are your servants."

¹⁹Joseph said to them, ^p"Do not be afraid, ^qfor am I in the place of God?

^{20r}"But as for you, you meant evil against me; but ^sGod meant it for good, in order to bring it about as it is this day, to save many people alive.

²¹"Now therefore, do not be afraid; ^tI will provide for you and your little ones." And he comforted them and spoke ⁴kindly to them.

Death of Joseph

(Heb. 11:22)

²²So Joseph dwelt in Egypt, he and his father's household. And Joseph lived one hundred and ten years.

²³Joseph saw Ephraim's children ^uto the third generation. ^vThe children of Machir, the son of Manasseh, ^wwere also brought up on Joseph's knees.

²⁴And Joseph said to his brethren, "I am dying; but ^xGod will surely visit you, and bring you out of this land to the land ^yof which He swore to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob."

²⁵Then ^zJoseph took an oath from the children of Israel, saying, "God will surely ⁵visit you, and ^ayou shall carry up my ^bbones from here."

²⁶So Joseph died, being one hundred and ten years old; and they embalmed him, and he was put in a coffin in Egypt.

Annotations for Genesis

1:1 In the beginning is a thesis statement, which can be paraphrased, “Here is the story of God’s creation of the heavens and the earth.” The focus is on the creation of the material world—the heavens and the earth. God: This standard Hebrew term for deity, Elohim, is in the form called the plural of majesty or the plural of intensity. In contrast to the ordinary plural (gods), this plural means “the fullness of deity” or “God—very God.” Even though the word for God is plural, the verb for created is singular. It means “to fashion anew.” This oft-used word in the Bible always has God as its subject. Here, it means that God renewed what was in a chaotic state. God changed chaos into cosmos, disorder into order, emptiness into fullness. The heavens and the earth mean “all of creation” or “the cosmos.”

God

(Heb. pl. 'elohim) (1:1, 26; Deut. 7:9; Is. 45:18) Strong's #430

The standard Hebrew term for God. This word is related to similar words for deity found throughout almost all Semitic languages. The basic meaning is probably “Mighty” or “the Almighty.” In Hebrew, this word often occurs in a form called “the plural of majesty” or “the plural of intensity.” In contrast to a normal plural (that is, “gods,” such as the false gods of 1 Kin. 19:2), the Hebrew uses this plural to mean “The Fullness of Deity” or “God—Very God!” Many Christians point to the plural form of this word as revealing the plural nature of God. God is one, but He is also three distinct persons: the Father, the Son, and the Holy Spirit.

- 1:2 The two words without form . . . void express one concept—chaos. The earth had been reduced to this state (Jer. 4:23); it was not the way God had first created it (Is. 45:18). Darkness is a potent biblical symbol of evil and wrong (Job 3:5; Ps. 143:3; Is. 8:22; John 3:19). The deep is a term for the secret places of the waters (see also 7:11); this term sounds enough like the name of the Babylonian goddess Tiamat to remind the ancient reader of the Babylonian story of creation to which this story stands in dramatic contrast. All these images together portray chaos, disaster, and devastation. From this portrait of utter ruin, God brought an orderly creation. The Spirit of God was hovering like a mother stork might hover over her nest—a portent of life to come from the dark, murky depths of the chaos below (the Spirit is described as a dove in Matt. 3:16).
- 1:3 Let there be light: These words express a principal theme of the Bible: God bringing light into the darkness (see Is. 9:1, 2). Here, God produced physical light. The NT records God sending His Son to be the light of the world (John 8:12). In the end, there will no longer be any darkness at all (Rev. 21:23). God said it, and it was done: there was light. His command caused reality.
- 1:4 Having examined the light, God declared it to be good—a powerful term of God's blessing.
- 1:5 Day . . . Night: The naming of these elements of creation is a mark of God's sovereignty. In the thinking of the peoples of the ancient Middle East, naming something was a mark of power or lordship. For them, names were not merely labels, but descriptions with some force to them. Since the sun was not yet created (vv. 14–19), the first day (lit., a day, one) is ambiguous. Some say that the “seven days” is a literary frame on which the story of creation is draped. Others argue for a strict pattern of seven 24-hour days.
- 1:6 In biblical usage, the term firmament means “heavens.” Literally, it means “something stretched out, like hammered metal.”
- 1:7 divided the waters: The notion of upper and lower waters is somewhat mysterious. The language may simply refer to waters gathered in a liquid state and to moisture in the atmosphere. The division of the waters is another of God's acts in bringing order out of disorder.
- 1:9 The gathering of the waters and the separation of the dry land are further actions of God in establishing control over the chaos described in v. 2. Each act of separation and distinction brings order out of disorder, form out of formlessness, cosmos out of chaos. Each act also demonstrates the Lord's power and wisdom (Prov. 8:22–31).

- 1:10 Again, naming the creation marks God's lordship (see v. 5). The naming of the earth in this verse suggests that the term was used in anticipation in v. 2.
- 1:11, 12 The broad words grass, tree, and fruit tree encompass all plants, shrubs, and trees. The reference to seed and kind speaks of the fact that the plant kingdom will continue to reproduce. God not only created plant life; He also set in motion the processes that make plant life reproduce.
- 1:14, 15 The creation of the sun, moon, and stars is described in general terms in these verses; vv. 16–18 spell out the details. Lights in the firmament are luminaries (objects that shine). They produce the division between the day and night. signs and seasons: Some have mistakenly viewed these words as a biblical basis for astrology. The signs in this case relate to phases of the moon and the relative positions of stars that mark the passage of time from the vantage point of earth. The two words form a pair that may be translated seasonal signs.
- 1:16 As in vv. 14, 15, the term for lights can mean “luminaries.” The word can either designate the sun, which emits light, or the moon, which reflects light. He made the stars also: This is a remarkable statement. In the ancient Middle East, other religions worshiped, deified, and mystified the stars. Israel's neighbors revered the stars and looked to them for guidance. In contrast, the biblical creation story gives the stars only the barest mention, as though the writer shrugged and said, “And, oh, yes. He also made the stars.” Such a statement showed great contempt for ancient Babylonian astrology (see Ps. 29; 93).
- 1:17 God set them: Interestingly, the sun and moon are not named here, though they are clearly intended. The principal issue throughout these verses is that God alone is in control.
- 1:21 The verb for created is the same one used in v. 1 (see v. 27, the creation of man). According to its kind suggests the capability to reproduce themselves (see v. 12). God not only made the living creatures, but He gave them the power to propagate and to proliferate, to fill the air and the seas in great numbers and in wonderful variety.
- 1:22 God blessed them: The first use of this important phrasing in the Bible (see 1:28; 2:3; 12:2, 3), and it is used of fish and birds!
- 1:24 The expression living creature contains the word sometimes used for the soul, but the word can also mean “life,” “being,” “living thing,” or “person,” depending on the context. The same phrase is used for man in 2:7. cattle and creeping thing and beast of the earth: Three sweeping categories, like those of vv. 11, 20, make the point that God created all living things.
- 1:25 God saw that it was good: The sixth time that this phrasing is used (see 1:4, 10, 12, 18, 21). Everything that God had made so far was good.
- 1:26 Let Us make emphasizes the majesty of the speaker and allows for the later revelation of the Trinity (see 11:7; Matt. 28:19). The Us cannot refer to the angels that are present with God because man is made in the image of God, not of the angels. in Our image: What is the image of God in man? The traditional view is that God's image includes certain moral, ethical, and intellectual abilities. A more recent view, based on Hebrew grammar and the knowledge of the ancient Middle East, interprets the phrase as meaning “Let Us make man as our image” (the Hebrew preposition in this phrase can be translated as). God placed humankind as living symbols of Himself on earth to represent His reign. This interpretation fits well with the command that follows—to reign over all that God has made. according to Our likeness: This phrase draws attention to the preceding figure of speech. Since God is Spirit (John 4:24), there can be no “image” or “likeness” of Him in the normal sense of these words. Indeed, image-making was later strongly prohibited because of the clear ties it had with idolatry (see Ex. 20:4–6). We may not make images of God for He has already done so! We are His images; it is we who are in His likeness. This is the reason God values people so much: We are made to reflect His majesty on earth. have dominion: Rule as God's regent. That is, people are to rule as God would—wisely and prudently.
- 1:27 So God created man: The third time the verb for create is used in ch. 1 (see vv. 1, 21); here it is used three times. The language of vv. 26, 28 is elevated prose; this verse is pure poetry. The 12 words of the original Hebrew are arranged in three lines that have their own poetic repetition and cadence. The term for man is likely associated with the term for the red earth. Here the word is generic, including male and female. These words are sexual. Some have thought that the “discovery” of human sexuality was the forbidden fruit of ch. 3. However, these words indicate that human sexuality was a part of the original creation (5:2). Although the misuse of human sexuality is soundly condemned in Scripture (Lev. 18), its proper use is celebrated (2:24, 25; Song). Verses 26–28 include the woman no less than the man in the story of creation.

1:28 God blessed them: God’s smile; the warmth of His pleasure (1:22; 2:3; 9:1; 12:2, 3). God delighted in what He had made (Prov. 8:30, 31). The word translated subdue means “bring into bondage.” This harsh term is used elsewhere of military conquest (Zech. 9:15) and of God subduing our iniquities (Mic. 7:19). As a king sets off to war to conquer a territory, so humans are told by the Great King to subdue the earth and rule it. Why this need to subjugate the earth? There are at least four possibilities: (1) Sin would ruin the earth, and people would have to expend great effort to live there (see 3:17–19). (2) Satan would defy the will of God and make all good efforts difficult. (3) The earth left to itself would not remain good. Instead, God planned that people would need to manage and control it. (4) The beauty of the earth was only in the garden that God planted (see 2:8); the rest of the earth would be hostile. Whatever the case, subdue does not mean “destroy” or “ruin.” It does mean to “act as managers who have the authority to run everything as God planned.” This command applies equally to male and female.

1:29 Many suggest that Adam and Eve were vegetarians because God gave them every herb and every tree.

1:31 This is the seventh use of the term good in the creation story (1:4, 10, 12, 18, 21, 25). It is only one of several key terms that are used in multiples of seven in this text.

2:1 While mention is made of the heavens, the focus in the first chapter has been on the earth. Although the earth is not the physical center of the universe, it is the center of God’s great creative work.

Word Studies

heavens

(Heb. shamayim) (1:1, 8, 9; 2:1; Ps. 2:4) Strong's #8064

The Hebrew word for heavens may refer to either the physical heavens, the sky or the atmosphere of earth (2:1, 4, 19), or to the dwelling place of God (Ps. 14:2), the spiritual heaven. The expression is probably derived from a word meaning “to be high, lofty.” To describe God as living in the heavens is to describe His exalted position over all people. The physical heavens testify to God’s glorious position and also to His creative genius (Ps. 19:1, 6).

Go to the List of Word Studies

2:2 God did not rest because of fatigue, but because of His accomplishment. God is never weary (Is. 40:28, 29). The verb translated as rested is related to the word for Sabbath, which means “rest.” Many assume that the basic meaning of the Sabbath is worship, but this is not the case (Ex. 20:9–11; Deut. 5:12–14). By God’s blessed inactivity on this seventh day, He showed that He was satisfied with the work He had done.

2:3 God blessed the birds and fish (1:22), humans (1:28), and now the seventh day (Saturday). He sanctified it; He made it holy. Thus, from the beginning of time, God placed special value on a certain day of the week.

2:4 The term translated as history is found in ten significant passages in Genesis (here and 5:1; 6:9; 10:1; 11:10, 27; 25:12, 19; 36:1, 9; 37:2). The term may be translated family histories and is a major marker of the different sections of the Book of Genesis. In the day means “when.” The LORD God is a significant new term for God. The word translated as God is the same word as in 1:1. The word translated as “LORD” is the proper name for God, Yahweh (or Jehovah; see Ex. 3:14, 15). The God of ch. 1 and the LORD God of ch. 2 are the same.

God as Creator

“God created the heavens and the earth” (1:1). These words form one of the Bible’s principal assertions about the material world—that God created it all.

The first two chapters of Genesis present two complementary accounts of creation (Ps. 104 and Prov. 8 present two additional accounts). Genesis 1 pictures God in sublime terms—grand and awesome. The Hebrew term used for deity in this section (Elohim) speaks of God’s majesty, sovereignty, and awesome power. With a mere word, God spoke the entire universe into existence. When He finished, He called every part of His creation “very good” (1:31).

Genesis 2, on the other hand, presents a more personal picture of creation. It focuses on the creation of man and woman—the only beings in creation who reflect the very image of God. In this section, God's personal name (Yahweh, or LORD) is used rather than His title, "God." This is because God personally shaped Adam from the dust of the earth, breathing life into him, and forming Eve from Adam's flesh and bone. Moreover, the section depicts God placing Adam and Eve in a beautiful garden and interacting with them.

Of course, these two chapters are not written in terms of modern science. But neither are they written in what would have passed for science in ancient times. If the Bible had been written in the "scientific" language of its day, it would be little more than a relic today. Had it been written in the scientific language of the Middle Ages, it would have been a mystery to its first readers and nonsense to us. Had it been written in the scientific language of our own day, it would have been unintelligible to prior generations—and to be sure, a relic in future years.

These first chapters of Genesis reveal God's identity as Creator in language that makes sense to every sort of audience. The chapters spoke first to a people on the move, at the dawn of Hebrew history. Over the ages, they have spoken to ancient and medieval peoples. And today, they speak to people from all backgrounds. The modern person sometimes wonders why the language is not more precise. Yet these chapters do not aim at precision—their aim is clarity concerning one certain truth: God created the heavens and the earth.

These first chapters of Genesis reveal God's identity as Creator of the material world.

2:5 The order of events in the second creation story is somewhat different from the first account (1:1-2:3). Conditions were radically different from those we now know and understand. The phrase not caused it to rain anticipates the story of the Flood (see chs. 6-9). Here was an element of creation that was still in process. man to till the ground: The Hebrew term for man sounds similar to the term for ground (1:26; 2:7).

2:6 The precise meaning of the term translated as mist is unknown. Obviously it refers to some manner of irrigation before the Lord brought the cycles of rain into being.

2:7 The word formed is the term for a potter's shaping of pots. Since man is made from the dust of the ground, that is where he returns when he dies (see 3:19). Although God created light with a mere word (1:3), He created man by fashioning a body out of mud and clay, transforming the clay into something new, and then breathing life into it. This breath may be the narrator's way of describing the infusion of the human spirit, with its moral, intellectual, relational, and spiritual capacities. God showed tender care and intimate concern in the way He shaped man. living being: This is the same term that was used of animal life in 1:24. In this phrase we see how humans and animal life are similar, but the breath of life makes humans distinct from all other creatures.

2:8 The term Eden is not explained except that it is eastward. The exact location is not known. The planting of a garden is a touch of God's meticulous, personal care. This picture of a caring and loving God complements the picture of the strong and transcendent Creator in ch. 1.

2:9 As created, man was able to enjoy pleasant sights—something that would later become corrupted by sin and give rise to lust (1 John 2:16). Eden was an extraordinarily appointed garden, with choice specimens of the finest trees and plants. Two trees of very special importance were also there, the tree of life and the tree of the knowledge of good and evil (2:17; 3:24).

2:10–14 God provided a grand river in order to water the garden. With great care, He prepared the habitation of His people. The names Pishon, Gihon, Hiddekel, and Euphrates relate to later rivers that were known to the first readers of the text. But these later rivers likely would only approximate the location of the original ones. The Flood obliterated earlier river courses. The New Jerusalem, the habitation of God's people in the future, will have a river as well as a new tree of life (see Rev. 22:1, 2).

2:15 The garden was perfectly prepared. It was man's home and he had to tend and keep it. Even the biblical paradise required work (1:26–28)!

2:16 In His great grace, God gave permission before He gave restriction. And the permission was broad (of every tree), while the restriction was narrow (v. 17). Man could do almost anything he wanted. It appears that man limited his diet to vegetation at first; only after the Flood is there mention of God's gift of meat as well (see 9:3).

2:17 the tree of the knowledge of good and evil: The phrase suggests “full knowledge” by tying together two contrasting words (as in 1:1, “heavens and earth”). We know little about this tree. Presumably, God wanted man to learn wisdom, but wisdom tied to his relationship with his Creator. shall surely die: These emphatic words are made of two forms of the verb meaning “to die.” The point is not that the guilty person would drop dead right then, but that it would certainly happen—there is no escape (Heb. 9:27).

2:18 It is not good: The first time a negative assessment appears in Genesis (see 1:31). God did not want Adam to be lonely, so He fashioned a helper comparable to him. This phrase indicates that this helper (or partner) would be truly fitting and fully adequate—just right. Some have thought that the term is demeaning, but it simply means “one who helps,” and in fact is used to describe God when He comes to our aid (see Ps. 33:20; 115:9, 10, 11). It does not refer to someone who is secondary or inferior.

2:19 The same verb for formed used here for God's creation of animals is also used for His creation of man (in v. 7). Again, the verb suggests a potter at work casting his pots. But now, the pots are a lion and a raccoon, a raven and a stork. It appears that God created each animal (or group of animals) for the man to observe, study, and classify, to see what he would call them. In giving each animal its name, Adam demonstrated his right as God's regent (see 1:26–28). He was lord over all created order. Furthermore, Adam's names “stuck.” That is, he demonstrated perfect insight in the names he used for the animals. They were more than titles; they were terms that described the animals accurately.

2:20 In his close study of the living things that God paraded before him, Adam did not find a helper comparable to him. He needed a companion just like him, not a servant or an aide (see v. 18); but another life like himself—with intelligence, personality, ethical and moral sensitivity, and spirituality. Yet the only living things that Adam found were some fascinating animals!

2:21 This is the first surgery, and God was the Surgeon. In His kindness, God used an unusually deep sleep as an anesthetic for the task. God's use of a rib was fitting. He might have started over with dust and clay. But by using a part of Adam himself, the identification of Adam with his partner would be ensured. As Luther observed, God might have taken a bone from a toe and thus signified that Adam was to rule over her; or He might have taken a bone from his head to indicate her rule over him. But by taking a bone from his side, God implied equality and mutual respect.

2:22 The verb made means “to build.” The expansion of one small part into a complete body makes sense in today’s understanding of molecular structure and DNA.

2:23 This is now means “At last!” bone of my bones: Adam’s wording is poetic and exalted—seeing Eve was a shocking and exhilarating experience because the match was perfect. Here was a mirror of himself, someone just like him, and yet different! She shall be called Woman: In giving the woman her name, Adam was functioning as he had in naming the animals (v. 19). Yet the name that he gave her matched his own. She was woman, and he was man—perfectly suited for each other.

2:24 In marriage, a man is to leave his family, join his wife, and unite with her. Though this process establishes a new home distinct from the parents’, it does not sever all ties with the extended family (the clan). In the biblical period, extended families were quite close and interdependent. The words be joined speak of both a physical embrace and more general aspects of marital bonding. In marriage, man and woman are a “we,” not just a “me and you.” One flesh suggests both a physical, sexual bonding and a lifelong relationship. There are still two persons, but together they are as one (see Eph. 5:31). In the NT, Jesus refers to this text as the foundation of the biblical view of marriage (Matt. 19:5; 1 Cor. 6:16).

2:25 Because the man and the woman knew only good, they were not ashamed even though they were both naked. They were comfortable in their physical bodies, in their sexuality, in their relationship, and in their work—with no wrongdoing. The wording of vv. 24, 25 suggests the couple experienced sexual relations in the garden as a part of their God-intended experience. At 4:1 we first read of procreation, not necessarily the couple’s first sexual experience together.

3:1 With no introduction, the serpent appeared in Paradise. This is the first clue in Scripture of creation outside the one Adam and Eve experienced. The serpent symbolizes something both fascinating and loathsome. Yet neither Adam nor Eve saw the danger embodied in the serpent. The Hebrew word for cunning sounds like the Hebrew word for naked in 2:25. Adam and Eve were naked in innocence; the serpent was crafty and sneaky. In Eve’s innocence and naiveté, she showed no surprise on hearing a strange voice from the snake. Has God indeed said: Note that the serpent did not use the divine name Yahweh.

3:2 We may eat: Eve repeated the positive words of God (see 2:16).

3:3 There was one tree Eve knew to be off limits. This tree was in the middle of the garden. nor shall you touch it: Some interpreters suggest that the woman was already sinning by adding to the word of God, for these words were not part of God’s instructions in 2:17. Yet the first sin was not lying, it was eating the fruit that God had forbidden. Her words reflected the original command well enough and indeed they would have ensured that the command would be kept.

3:4 For the first time (here), Satan lied: You will not surely die. Lying was Satan’s craft right from the beginning (John 8:44). The serpent boldly denied the truth of what God had said. In essence, the serpent called God a liar.

3:5 By arguing that God had an ulterior motive, the serpent appealed to Eve’s sense of fair play. you will be like God: God’s fullness of knowledge was only one of the superiorities that set Him apart from the woman. But the serpent combined all of God’s superiority over the woman into this one audacious appeal to her pride.

3:6 Notice the parallel to 2:9; this tree was like the other trees. It was good for food. These words imply that this was the first time Eve considered disobeying God’s command. After all, there was nothing in the tree that was poisonous or harmful, and it was desirable. The issue was one of obedience and disobedience to the Word of God. She took: The first step. She ate: The final step. Once she disobeyed God, all the world changed. (Note, however, that Rom. 5:12 speaks of the sin of Adam rather than the sin of Eve.) Because she did not die, she gave it to her husband. And he ate: Adam sinned with his eyes wide open. He did not even ask a question. He knew as well as she that the fruit was forbidden. Adam and Eve had now broken faith with the Lord, and the world was forever changed.

3:7 The serpent was right—they knew good and evil (v. 5). This is the awful truth about a skilled liar—the deception comes mixed with truth. Their eyes were opened. They discovered that they were naked. All of a sudden with no one around but the two of them, they were ashamed (see 2:25). Their lovely naiveté was now replaced by evil thoughts, and they covered themselves with fig leaves.

3:8 The scene is pathetic and sad. Here comes the Lord for an evening walk and a cozy chat. But Adam and Eve, who have “become wise,” cower in the trees to avoid being seen by the Creator of the universe. What had been a perfect, shameless fellowship has turned into dreadful fear of God—not fear in the sense of true piety, as with Abraham, Moses, David, and Solomon—but the raw terror of being discovered in the wrong.

3:9 God, in His mercy, did not destroy both of them immediately. He even called out to them and interacted with them (see vv. 10–12). God’s mercy reaches further than we usually believe—or else we would all be destroyed.

3:11 The Lord carried the interrogation to its sad ending by posing one question after another.

3:12 A guilty man’s first line of defense is blame. Adam blamed the woman, and then he blamed God for having given her to him (for David’s contrasting response to Nathan, see 2 Sam. 12:13).

3:13 the serpent deceived me, and I ate: A simple statement of fact.

3:14 to the serpent: The Lord turned first to the serpent and brought His judgment upon him. God did not excuse the woman because she was deceived, but He did bring the harsher judgment on the one who deceived her. The language in these verses is poetry, something that adds solemnity to them. The word translated as cursed in this verse is used only of the curse on the serpent and on the ground (v. 17). The woman and the man faced harsh new realities, but they were not cursed (God had already blessed them; 1:28). The text suggests that the serpent became a creature that slithers on the ground and appears to eat dust. This implies that before this the serpent had some other bodily form.

3:15 enmity between you and the woman: This is not just about snakes; it is about the enemy of our souls, Satan. your seed and her Seed: The language is ambiguous, but still contains the promise of a child. The term seed may be translated offspring (as in 15:3) or descendants (as in 15:5, 13, 18). The term may refer to an individual (Gal. 3:16) or a group of people. This means, among other things, that Eve would live—at least for a while. The Seed of the woman is the Promised One, the coming Messiah of Israel. Seed continues to be used throughout the Bible as a messianic term (see Num. 24:7; Is. 6:13). The meaning of the phrase your seed as it applies to the serpent is uncertain (but see John 8:37–47). The reference is ultimately to Satan. your head: This is sometimes called the “first gospel” because these words, as indirect as they are, promise the Coming One whom we know to be the Lord Jesus, the Messiah. The Lord was showing mercy even as He judged (see also 4:15). Bruise His heel speaks of a serious injury, but it is contrasted with the bruising of the head—the defeat—of the serpent’s seed. When Jesus went to the cross, He was bruised in His heel. That is, He suffered a terrible but temporary injury (John 12:31; Col. 2:15). In His resurrection, He defeated His enemy.

3:16 your sorrow and your conception: These two words mean “your sorrowful conception” (see 1:2; 4:12; 9:2; Ps. 9:2). That is, the woman’s joy in conceiving and bearing children will be saddened by the pain of it. The word desire can also mean “an attempt to usurp or control” as in 4:7. We can paraphrase the last two lines of this verse this way: “You will now have a tendency to dominate your husband, and he will have the tendency to act as a tyrant over you.” The battle of the sexes has begun. Each strives for control and neither lives in the best interest of the other (see Phil. 2:3, 4). The antidote is in the restoration of mutual respect and dignity through Jesus Christ (see Eph. 5:21–33).

3:17–19 Adam got his share of blame, even though he tried to escape it (v. 12). Cursed is the ground: Though the curse was not directed at the man, it is trouble for the man. Now his life will be marked by toil, thorns and thistles, sweat, and finally death. These words imply that before the Fall the ground was not filled with noxious weeds and work would have been more pleasant (2:15). to dust you shall return: Death will now come to humankind, whereas there had been the possibility of living forever (see Rom. 5:12–14). The word of God was sure: God had stated that they would certainly die (2:17). Now they were served notice concerning the process of aging and decay that was already at work (see 5:5; 6:3).

3:20 The name Eve is related to the verb meaning “to live.” Eve is our common mother, just as Adam is our common father. This is Adam’s second name for her. The first was woman, the feminine complement to his own masculinity (2:23).

3:21 This is the first place the Bible mentions the killing of animals for human use—this time for tunics.

3:22 become like one of Us: By means of their rebellious act, the man and woman now shared something with God. But they were also at enmity with Him because of their sin. Adam and Eve’s knowledge of good and evil had made them not wise but foolish. The fruit of the tree of life stopped aging. To eat of this tree was to live forever. One day this tree will be planted anew and its fruit will be for the healing of the nations (Rev. 22:2).

3:23 The man had been formed by God outside the garden (2:5–8, 15) and had been given the task of tending and keeping it. Now he was removed from the garden and sent back to till the soil from which he was taken (see 2:5; 3:17–19).

3:24 Even though Eve sinned first, this section (vv. 22–24) focuses on the man, Adam. This is the first reference to holy angels or the cherubim in the Book of Genesis. The creation of the angels (including those who rebelled against God; see 6:1–4) preceded the creation activities described in chs. 1; 2. A cherub (pl., cherubim) is an angel who takes on a particular form (see Ex. 25:18–22; cf. Ezek. 1:5–28). Cherubim, like all angels, are spirit beings, but they can take on physical bodies. Adam and Eve were barred from the garden that God had planted for their enjoyment with a flaming sword. There was no way back in. The fact that the tree of life remained, even though guarded by angels and a sword, was a ray of hope. Is it not possible that the very fact He guarded it, but did not uproot it, signifies that one day its fruit may be eaten again? Indeed, one day we will see it again (Rev. 22:2). Adam and Eve were no longer welcome in God’s presence, but they had the hope that one day Paradise would be regained.

4:1 The verb knew is a splendid euphemism for sexual intercourse. It describes an intimate relationship that includes ardor and passion, but also mutuality and oneness. This was an act of procreation, but most likely not the first sexual union between Adam and Eve. The name Cain is related to a word meaning “craftsman” or “metalworker,” but it also sounds like the Hebrew word translated I have acquired. At times in Genesis, the meaning for a name is taken directly from it (for example, Ishmael in 16:11); at other times the meaning is based on a pun—a word that sounds similar to the name itself.

4:2 We have no explanation of the name Abel as we have with Cain (v. 1). Perhaps after Abel was murdered (v. 8), the parents looked back with sadness on the brevity of his life and called him Abel (meaning “vapor”) because his life was over so quickly. Keeping sheep and tilling the ground were equally valid occupations. They reflected merely different interests of the two brothers, not their character. The story of Cain and Abel begins a motif in Genesis of competing sons (like Esau and Jacob, 25:26).

4:3 Genesis does not explain how the practice of sacrificial worship began. The first readers of the book understood it well, because they had been instructed in full by God through Moses (see Leviticus). Some people assume that Cain’s sacrifice of fruit was deficient because it did not involve the shedding of blood, which God required for forgiveness of sins (see Heb. 9:22). But nothing in ch. 4 indicates that Cain and Abel came to God for forgiveness; their sacrifices were acts of worship. In the later sacrificial system of Israel, God blessed the presentation of grain offerings alongside the sacrifices of animals (see Lev. 6:14–23). A farmer presented a portion of his produce just as a herdsman presented a sample of his flock. Cain's sacrifice was deficient because Cain did not "do well" (v. 7), not because the sacrifice was the "fruit of the ground."

- 4:4 Abel's sacrifice was the best that he had to offer—the firstborn and their fat. There are no similar descriptive words for Cain's sacrifice. That is, Cain brought a token gift of his produce to the Lord, but Abel brought the very best. God respected or looked with favor first upon the person, then on his sacrifice (see Ps. 40:6–8). Abel's offering was "more excellent" than Cain's because of Abel's faith in the Lord (Heb. 11:4).
- 4:5 Something deficient in Cain's attitude was reflected in his offering. Instead of repenting of his wrongdoing, Cain became angry and, we discover, filled with jealousy (v. 8).
- 4:7 The gracious words of the Lord were that Cain could get it right! He did not have to go on being angry and morose, he could do well. Sin was lying at the door, about to pounce on him as a lion.
- 4:8 The murder was stunning in its lack of precedent, its suddenness, and its finality. Jesus spoke of this ghastly event as a historical fact (Matt. 23:35).
- 4:10 That blood of Abel cries out until the blood of One even more innocent than Abel is shed as well (Heb. 12:24). In the manner of his death, Abel depicts the Savior Jesus.
- 4:11 Cain was the third to be cursed of God; first was the serpent (3:14) and second was the ground (3:17).
- 4:13 My punishment: Usually rendered "iniquity" (as in Ex. 20:5), here the term speaks of the result of iniquity.
- 4:14 Sadly, Cain expressed his distress only at the punishment he received, not at the crime he had done. Nor was there any note of repentance concerning his dreadful action. anyone who finds me: Most have assumed that the others whom Cain feared were sisters and brothers already born but not mentioned or those yet to be born. This idea is based on the wording of 5:4, "and he [Adam] had sons and daughters." Some have proposed that God created others outside the Garden of Eden, but the Scriptures give no indication of this. It makes sense to conclude that Cain was afraid of his siblings.
- 4:16 The land of Nod is a wordplay on the term for vagabond (vv. 12, 14). The point is more theological than geographical; to be apart from the presence of the Lord is to be a vagabond in a "vagabond-land."
- 4:17 Cain most likely acquired a wife from among his other siblings (see v. 14). The name Enoch means "Dedicated One"—the same name as the godly descendant of Seth who "walked with God" (5:21–24). The fact that Cain built a city named after his son speaks of a dramatic, rapid increase in population.
- 4:18 In quick succession, six generations from Cain to Lamech are mentioned. The verse indicates a rapidly expanding population, for the listing of each of these sons includes corresponding wives.
- 4:19–21 Here, the story of Lamech's most celebrated descendants is given. Lamech represents skill and strength, as well as arrogance and vengeance. This Lamech is not the same as Lamech, the son of Methuselah (5:28–31). two wives: This notable act suggests a deliberate attempt by Lamech to subvert the original pattern of God of one man and one woman (2:24; see also the words of Jesus on the subject, Matt. 19:4–6). Adah . . . Zillah: Only rarely in these accounts are the names of women mentioned.
- 4:22 Some suggest that iron was not known during the time of Tubal-Cain, and this verse means that later metal workers who did work with iron could look back to Tubal-Cain as the "father" of metallurgy in general. Naamah: Even more rare than the names of mothers in these accounts (v. 19) is the listing of the names of daughters and sisters.
- 4:23, 24 What follows is a boastful taunt song that captures the violent spirit of Lamech. The words of Lamech are poetic, making the passage memorable and powerful (see 12:1). I have killed a man: In this boast, Lamech indicates that he has followed in the worst pattern of his ancestor Cain. In his wicked braggadocio, he taunted God by his words seventy-sevenfold. Whereas the Lord would bring vengeance on the slayer of Cain "sevenfold" (v. 15), Lamech boasted that by himself he would greatly magnify the vengeance on anyone who attacked him. This is another example (although in wickedness) of the inflation of numbers for effect (see Num. 1:46).

4:25 and Adam knew his wife again: These words recall the opening words of the section (v. 1) and bring the section to its conclusion. After the long, sad digression about Cain and his descendants, we return to Adam and Eve and their new progeny. With the death of Abel (v. 8) and the expulsion of Cain (vv. 11, 12), Adam and Eve had no son to carry on their line for good and for the promise of the Messiah. Hence the importance of the birth of Seth. His name is related to a Hebrew verb meaning “to place” or “to set” for he was appointed to take the place of the murdered son in the plan of God.

4:26 The birth of Enosh meant that the line of Seth would continue; the promise of the Lord (see 3:15) would not be forgotten. began to call on the name of the LORD: These words can hardly mean that only now did people begin to pray to God. Rather, the verb call means “to make proclamation.” That is, this is the beginning of preaching, of witnessing, and testifying in the name of the Lord (12:8).

5:1–32 This chapter abbreviates the family history that connects Adam to Noah. We do not know how much time the chapter represents; its purpose is connection rather than chronology.

5:1 The word genealogy (or “family histories”) is found in ten significant passages in the Book of Genesis and is a major building block of the book (see the list at 2:4). In the day means “when.” likeness of God: What God made humankind to be (1:26–28) continues after the Fall (ch. 3; cf. 9:6, after the Flood).

5:2 The original creation of humanity is in two complementary genders, male and female, as 1:26–28 clearly states (see 1:27).

5:3 one hundred and thirty years: The long lives of the people of the early chapters of Genesis have led to considerable speculation. One suggestion is that these ages were possible because of tremendously different climate and environmental conditions that were in effect before the Flood (chs. 6–9). A second suggestion is that these ages are ways of expressing the relative importance of the figures; that is, that these are hyperbolic figures that use exaggeration to indicate significance in the ancient world. likeness . . . image: These are the same terms (but in reverse order) that are used of humankind in God’s creation (1:26).

5:4 sons and daughters: There may have been a very large number of children born from our first parents. We may presume intermarriage among them, of course. The problems associated with incest, addressed in Lev. 18, would not have occurred when the genetic pool was pure and unpolluted.

5:5 When God made Adam and Eve, the expectation was that they would live forever. There is a profound sadness in Adam’s death, for it reminds us of Adam’s mortality—and hence our own. and he died: This refrain is given at the conclusion of each of the ten names in this chapter except one (Enoch; v. 24). The judgment of God on fallen man was fulfilled in the death of Adam and each of his successors (3:19; 6:3). Death entered the world through this one man, and through him passed to all people (see Rom. 5:12; 1 Cor. 15:22).

5:6–20 The pattern of the genealogies is as follows: (1) name “A” lived “x” years; (2) name “A” begot name “B”; (3) name “A” then lived “y” years; (4) name “A” lived “z” (“x”+ “y”) years in all; (5) and he died. See also the pattern in the line of Shem (11:10–26). These lists are incomplete (cf. Matt. 1:1–17); they serve merely to indicate major figures over an extended period of time. As in many such genealogical listings, which were originally oral, these were designed to be recited by memory to mark certain key figures through time for purposes of connection, for tying two great periods or names together. In this case, the point is to tie the line of continuity between Adam and Noah through the line of Seth. Thus when the text says that name “A” begot name “B” at a certain age, the name given for “B” may not be the immediate child but a remote descendant. This conforms to biblical patterns elsewhere as well as to patterns in the ancient Middle East and in many tribal societies even in our own day.

5:21–24 The most fascinating name in this listing is that of Enoch (not the son of Cain of the same name, 4:17). The phrase, Enoch walked with God (vv. 22, 24), expresses a life of fellowship with and obedience to the Lord (as was true of Noah, 6:8). It also recalls the experience of Adam and Eve, who had lived in even closer proximity to the Lord before the Fall (3:8). he was not: This phrase does not mean that Enoch ceased to exist, instead it means that he was taken into God’s presence, for God took him. Only Enoch and Elijah (see 2 Kin. 2:11) ever had this experience. Enoch’s remarkable experience was both a testimony of his deep faith in God (see Heb. 11:5, 6) and a strong reminder at the beginning of biblical history that there is life in God’s presence after death for the people of God. What Enoch experienced in a remarkable, dramatic fashion is what each person who “walks with God” will experience—everlasting life with the Savior.

(Heb. halak) (5:24; 6:9; Deut. 13:4; Ps. 128:1; Mic. 6:8) Strong's #1980

The basic meaning of the Hebrew verb translated here as walk is “to go” or “to travel.” The word is used often in the OT to signify merely a simple act of motion (13:17; 2 Sam. 11:2). In 6:9 and other passages, the word possesses connotations of a habitual manner of life or a constant relationship with God. Thus the word describes Noah, Enoch, and other people of faith as living in a close relationship with their God and in obedience to His commands. Throughout Scripture, believers are called to walk with God daily, abiding in Him completely (Gal. 5:16; 1 John 2:6).

Go to the List of Word Studies

5:25 Methuselah is said to have lived longer than any other figure mentioned in Genesis—969 years.

Ages of the Patriarchs

In the genealogy of Gen. 5, the patriarchs who lived before the Flood had an average life span of about 900 years. This contrasts with the genealogy of Gen. 11:10–26 where the ages of the post-Flood patriarchs dropped rapidly and gradually leveled off.

Go to the List of Charts and Diagrams

- 5:28, 29 The most important thing Lamech is remembered for is his descendant Noah. The name Noah is the only one that is commented upon by the narrator in this chapter. It is a form of the word meaning “to rest” and is associated with comfort. Noah’s name refers to a reversal of the curse.
- 5:32 These sons of Noah, Shem, Ham, and Japheth, figure in the ensuing story of the Flood (chs. 6–9).
- 6:1–4 This passage is one of the most debated in the OT. Three principal interpretations are: (1) The sons of God represent the godly line of Seth, and the daughters of men represent the ungodly line of Cain; their intermarriage led to apostasy, compromise, and sin. (2) The sons of God are powerful kings who practiced an enforced polygamy by taking wives of all whom they chose leading to other wicked practices. (3) The sons of God are fallen angels who cohabited with human women (the daughters of men), producing offspring that were tyrants. The most likely interpretation is that the sons of God were fallen angels. This is the view of Jewish scholars and best explains the text. The principal objections to the fallen angel view are two. (1) Angels do not marry (Matt. 22:30), so the whole notion is impossible. (2) This idea is so abhorrent to biblical thought that it breaks all analogy. Yet it is possible that these were angels who left “their proper domain” (Jude 6) and whose sin led to a special divine judgment (2 Pet. 2:4). It may be that in this isolated case, fallen angels did assume human form and marry human women; this was a breach of God’s order of such monumental proportion that it indeed provoked God’s judgment on the world through the Flood.
- 6:1 The term daughters clearly means female children of human parents. The daughters were simply women.
- 6:2 The sons of God refer to a different group from either the men or their daughters. The phrase occurs elsewhere in the Bible and clearly means “angels.” Job 1:6 presents Satan and his angels coming into the presence of the Lord for an audience with His Majesty. Satan's angels are there called "the sons of God," with the suggestion that these angelic beings were once holy ones who served the Lord, but were now allied with the evil one. Genesis assumes the existence of the good angels of the Lord (see 3:24) and of Satan and his angels. It also assumes that the latter are already fallen and under God's judgment (see 1:2). In 3:1, the serpent (Satan) was already at work as the father of lies (John 8:44). Here it appears that some of Satan's angels, spirit beings, took on human form (see 3:24) and, out of a perverted lust, seduced women. In response, God reserved these angels for special judgment (2 Pet. 2:4; Jude 6) and cleansed the earth itself (with the Flood).

6:3 My Spirit: This is the second reference to the Holy Spirit in Genesis. The first is in anticipation of order and wonder (1:2); this second is in anticipation of destruction. Scholars are not sure what the Hebrew term strive means; it is found only here. Flesh speaks of the mortality of humankind (see 3:19; 5:5). his days: Some interpret this phrase as suggesting that the human life span will be reduced to 120 years. However, the reduction of the human life span to modern levels does not occur until well into the stories of the Patriarchs. More likely, this phrase means that God will extend a "grace period" of 120 years before expending His wrath (in the Flood).

6:4 The Hebrew word for giants means "fallen ones" (from the verb meaning "to fall"). Many ancient cultures have legends of titans and demigods. This verse appears to be explaining this common memory of humankind.

6:6 was sorry: This language is what theologians call anthropopathic (see 1:31); that is, the Lord is described as having human emotions (see Num. 23:19). In these words we sense the passion of the Lord. He had desired so much from humanity—and was overwhelmingly disappointed.

6:7 I will destroy: Humanity's ruin extends to all living things that God had made on the earth.

6:8 But Noah: In this contrast lies the hope of all of subsequent human history! Were there not a man and a family who by God's grace stood out from the wickedness of their day, there would have been a new beginning on the part of God that would have omitted all of us!

6:9 Genealogy (or family histories) is found in ten significant passages in Genesis (see the list at 2:4). just . . . perfect: These words together mean "genuine righteousness" (in contrast to the others of Noah's time). The phrase walked with God is also used of Enoch in 5:22, 24. It indicates a continual pattern of life—a marked contrast with the pattern of life of the rest of the peoples of the world at the time!

6:10 These three sons, first mentioned in 5:32, will form the family tree of the nations following the Flood.

6:11 The verb translated corrupt has the idea of being ruined, spoiled, or destroyed. Sinful people were bringing ruin to the world that belonged to the living God (Ps. 24:1).

6:12 all flesh: The language is similar to that of Ps. 14:2, 3.

6:13 God's message to Noah was graphic and severe. But the faithful reader of the Bible is also impressed with God's grace. The Creator of the universe, who owes man nothing, took one man into His confidence! end of all flesh: It would appear that God's "grace period" of 120 years (v. 3) was now complete.

6:14 The word ark means "a box." An Egyptian word from which this term may be drawn means "chest" or "coffin"; the same term is used of the box in which the baby Moses was placed in the Nile (Ex. 2:3). We usually picture a boat or a ship with bow and stern. But a ship is designed to move through the water as a conveyance; the ark was built merely to float on the water. The Hebrew word for gopherwood is merely transliterated because that type of wood is not known today. Noah made rooms in the ark and used pitch to seal the ark against leaks. It is not certain what this sealing agent was. What a comical thing this must have been! We do not know where Noah lived in the pre-Flood earth, but there is nothing that indicates he was near an ocean. Yet he was building the largest floating box that had ever been seen.

6:15 The cubit is about 18 inches. Hence, the ark was about 450 feet long, 75 feet wide, and 45 feet high.

- 6:16 The window was an “opening.” The need for circulation of air, yet protection from the torrents of water, demanded a good deal of engineering and crafting. This opening could be covered (8:6).
- 6:17 I Myself: The Hebrew text places significant emphasis on the personal role of God in the ensuing storm.
- 6:18, 19 In strongest contrast to God’s punishment in the preceding verse, God in His mercy established His covenant with Noah. This is the first time the word covenant is used in the Bible; some believe the concept of covenant is found in 3:15, but the word doesn’t occur until here. The details of this covenant were given after the Flood (9:9). Here, in the midst of judgment, the Lord stooped down to meet the needs of His servant (Ps. 40:1; 113:6) and to enter into a binding oath with him. In order to perpetuate the human family, God promised to preserve Noah’s family and two of every sort of animal.
- 6:22 Noah’s complete obedience is similar to Abram’s (12:4; 22:3).
- 7:1 The initiative is the LORD’s (8:15), just as in the call of Abram (12:1).
- 7:2 The command to take seven each of every clean animal is a new detail (6:19). The additional clean animals could be used for food and for sacrifice once the waters subsided (8:20–22).
- 7:4 The number forty is a significant number, representing a special fullness of time (see v. 12; Num. 32:13; 1 Kin. 19:8; Matt. 4:2).
- 7:5 Again, Noah obeyed the Lord fully.
- 7:6 six hundred years old: This is the second notice of the age of Noah; he was 500 years old when he became a father (5:32).
- 7:7 The time had now come for the family and the animals to enter the ark. The events of these few verses summarize an immense labor; yet the gathering of the animals must have been largely the work of the Lord and their management the work of Noah and his sons.
- 7:10 The number seven follows the pattern of symbolic numbers begun in 2:3 (see also 4:24).
- 7:11, 12 seventeenth day: The detail is remarkable; but then, so was the day! fountains of the great deep . . . windows of heaven: The waters of the ocean were raised, and the waters of the heavens fell, both converging in a super-inundation of rain for the 40 days (v. 4).
- 7:15 The animals seem to have been drawn to the ark and to Noah by the compelling force of the Lord.
- 7:16 shut him in: The Lord who had drawn them now closed the door on them. That shut door was a symbol of closure, safety, and God’s deliverance.
- 7:18 Four times in this passage the phrase the waters prevailed is used (vv. 18–20, 24). The verb means “to be strong” or “to be mighty.” From this word, numerous words are derived for strength, might, and powerful people.
- 7:19 the high hills under the whole heaven were covered: The question of hyperbolic language is naturally raised here; yet these words do suggest a flood that covers the whole of the earth.
- 7:21 Without exception, death extended to every creature—all flesh—whose home was on the land.
- 7:23 man: People died—old people and young; beautiful and brave along with the grisly and gray. Only Noah and those with him escaped the terrible, universal death of the wicked. Jesus affirmed the historicity of the “days of Noah” when he compared them to the end days (Matt. 24:37, 38; Luke 17:26, 27). Peter similarly used the story of Noah and the Flood as a pattern for the final judgment (1 Pet. 3:20; 2 Pet. 2:5; 3:5, 6).

A New Beginning

By saving Noah and his family, God gave humanity a second chance—a fresh start. Note the similarities between the Creation story and Noah’s story.

God’s Action

The First Beginning: Adam and Eve

God created Adam and Eve from the dust (2:7).

The Second Beginning: Noah and His Family

God saved Noah and his family from destruction (7:23).

God’s Provision

The First Beginning: Adam and Eve

God planted the Garden and gave Adam and Eve plants to eat (1:29–31; 2:8).

The Second Beginning: Noah and His Family

God saved animal species along with Noah and gave Noah and his family animals for food (6:17–22).

God’s Blessing

The First Beginning: Adam and Eve

Be fruitful and multiply; have dominion over all living things (1:28).

The Second Beginning: Noah and His Family

Be fruitful and multiply; all living things will be filled with fear and dread of you (9:1, 2).

God’s Covenant

The Second Beginning: Noah and His Family

Never again will God destroy the earth with a flood; He will always provide the annual seasons (8:21, 22; 9:11).

God’s Prohibition

The First Beginning: Adam and Eve

Do not eat of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil (2:16).

The Second Beginning: Noah and His Family

Do not shed the blood of any person (9:5, 6).

God’s Warning

The First Beginning: Adam and Eve

Those who eat of it will die (2:17).

The Second Beginning: Noah and His Family

Of those who shed blood God will demand a reckoning (9:5).

God’s Evaluation

The First Beginning: Adam and Eve

It is very good (1:31).

The Second Beginning: Noah and His Family

Humanity’s heart is evil (8:21).

- 8:1 God, in His great mercy, remembered Noah. God faithfully loved the people with whom He had covenanted.
- 8:3 hundred and fifty days: Note the symmetry of time: it took the same amount of time for the waters to recede as it took for them to rage over the earth (7:24).
- 8:5 tops of the mountains: The surging of the waters had been so great that the mountains had been submerged (see 7:19, 20).
- 8:6 Again, observe the symmetry of the numbers in this account. The rains had come for 40 days (7:12); now the ark was subsiding for forty days.
- 8:7 The flight of the raven was observed from the ark; this hardy bird kept flying until it was able to locate land.
- 8:8, 9 The more gentle bird, the dove, sought land; finding none this bird returned to the ark.
- 8:11 The olive leaf is a potent symbol of peace and restoration.
- 8:14 After over a full year, the waters had returned to their place (7:11). As in the beginning (1:9–13), God had again brought the waters of the earth into their place, and He had dried the earth. The Flood began in Noah's year 600, month 2, day 17 (7:11) and ended in Noah's year 601, month 2, day 27 (8:14).
- 8:15 The fact that God spoke to Noah is another mark of God's great grace to Noah and of how much He valued him (7:1; for God's words to Abram, see 12:1).
- 8:16 As God called Noah and his family to enter the ark (7:1), so now with all danger past He graciously invited them to go out of the ark.
- 8:20 an altar: This is the first mention of sacrificial worship since the days of Cain and Abel (4:3–5); yet we may assume that the principle of sacrificial worship was perpetuated through the line of faithful people (ch. 5). In joyful and magnificent devotion to the Lord, Noah sacrificed animals and birds from all the clean animals and birds he had preserved on the ark (7:2).
- 8:21 a soothing aroma: By these words we understand that the sacrifices were acceptable and pleasing to God (4:3; Lev. 1:9). The Lord received Noah's offering as an act of devotion to Him (see Num. 15:3). I will never again curse the ground: The awful devastation of the earth and its fullness that the Flood caused will never be repeated. It is also possible that this is a reference back to 3:17. This is the good news. The bad news is that God knew that the conditions of humankind had not changed. the imagination of man's heart is evil from his youth: This is the same charge against man with which the Flood story began (6:5). Nonetheless, the promise of God is that overwhelming judgment will not be repeated—not until the final judgment (2 Pet. 2:5).
- 8:22 while the earth remains: The words of this verse are in a poem of powerful effect (12:1–3). These words might easily have become a song of faith, the response of the people of God to the promise He made (v. 21). Later in Israel's history, the prophets recalled God's great promise to Noah (Is. 54:9, 10).
- 9:1 The blessing of God on the family of Noah provided a new beginning for humankind. The word blessed expresses the idea of God's smile, the warmth of His pleasure (see 1:22, 28; 2:3; 12:2, 3). In a way, the promises that God had given to the first people were now restated for Noah, a "new Adam" (1:26–28). Among other things, the new populating of the earth by Noah's family means that human society began again with a shared understanding of earliest human history, including the creation and Flood stories. Be fruitful and multiply was God's command in the beginning (1:28).
- 9:2 the fear of you and the dread of you: The two phrases express the same idea. The language of God's blessing here is far stronger than the language of the first (see 1:28, 29); now the animals and birds will have an innate fear of humans, and they are placed under human control.
- 9:3–5 you: Three new realities mark the post-Flood world: (1) meat may be eaten along with plants;

(2) blood is not to be eaten with meat; and (3) the taking of a person's life is now punishable by death.

9:3 From this verse it may be argued that up to this point men and women ate only vegetation (see 2:16).

9:4 blood: This restriction gets more attention in Leviticus (see Lev. 17:11, 12). Blood represents the animal's life. It may be used in sacrifice, for all life belongs to the Lord.

9:5 lifeblood: More sacred than the life of an animal is the life of a person. Animals may be slain for food, but no wanton slaying of humans is allowed.

9:6 These verses are poetry for impact and memorability. The image of God (see 1:26, 27; 5:1) is still in man (or is man); sin did not destroy it. God values humans more highly than animal life because only humankind possesses God's image.

9:9 This is the second occurrence of this enormously important concept, the covenant, in Genesis (6:18). God promised that He would establish His covenant with Noah and here He accomplished this great work (see 15:18; contrast 3:15). This covenant extends to animals of every sort (v. 10).

The Noahic Covenant

The faint rainbow that appears after a summer thunderstorm symbolizes God's mercy, His compassion on all. Moreover, it is a sign of God's covenant, His binding agreement with all humanity to never destroy the earth with a flood.

God initiated this covenant under the worst circumstances: "The earth was filled with violence" (6:11, 13). Even though humanity's decline into evil greatly troubled God, He favored one man, Noah. He determined to save Noah and his family from His coming judgment and establish His covenant with them.

Although Noah was surrounded by violence and all kinds of evil, Noah walked with God (6:9) by seeking to obey Him. Noah's simple obedience is recorded five times in this story (6:22; 7:5, 9, 16; 8:17, 18). God called this obedient man to build an ark. With this large boat, God saved Noah from the cleansing waters of the Flood. With the past evils and sins washed away from the earth, Noah and his family could start anew (see 1 Pet. 3:21 for Peter's analogy comparing baptism with the Flood). God not only gave them a fresh start; He also gave them an unconditional promise or covenant. He promised not to destroy the earth with a flood no matter how evil Noah's descendants got. Indeed, He promised that until the end of the earth, there would be the seasons of planting and harvest and day and night. God unilaterally promised to uphold the rhythms of the earth in order to sustain human life—even though humans had rebelled against Him, their Creator.

Today all of us—Noah's children—should remember God's mercy to us when we see the beauty of the rainbow.

9:11 There will never again be another Flood like that described in chs. 6-8.

9:12, 13 The rainbow is a memorial to God's promise never to flood the earth again and a constant reminder of His oath.

- 9:18 The sons of Noah have been mentioned earlier (5:32; 6:10; 7:13); their mention here assures us of their survival through the Flood and sets the stage for what happens next. the father of Canaan: This identification was particularly important to the first readers of Genesis, the people of Israel, who were about to enter the land of Canaan (see Deut. 1:1). But this notice also prepares the reader for the shameful story that is about to be recalled (vv. 20–23).
- 9:20 The vineyard was a standard feature in the agricultural setting of ancient Israel. Here it is noted because of Noah's drunkenness (v. 21).
- 9:22 It is not clear whether seeing his father's nakedness was Ham's chief offense. The following verses (especially v. 23) imply that Ham made fun of his father, and that this news reached Noah after he awoke.
- 9:23 Shem and Japheth took great pains to honor their father, not wanting even to glance at his nakedness.
- 9:25 The three sons had been blessed with their father (see v. 1). Thus Noah cursed Ham indirectly by cursing his son Canaan (see 10:6). Some once believed that this verse justified the slavery of African peoples (who, it was alleged, were descended from Canaan), but those people misinterpreted the verse. Canaan was under the curse of his father. As the Hebrews stood on the banks of the Jordan River about to enter the land of Canaan (see Deut. 1:1), they would have been encouraged by this verse because it promised victory over the Canaanites.
- 9:26, 27 Shem is given precedence over his brothers. Eber and Abram were descended from Shem (11:10–30) so Shem's blessing is ultimately a blessing on Israel. Again, the poetic cast of these words (vv. 25–27) adds power and memorability to them (see 12:1–3). Just as Noah blessed (and cursed) his sons before his death, so Jacob was later to bless his sons before his death (ch. 49).
- 9:29 Noah's death was the end of an era. Only he and his family spanned two worlds, that of the earth before and after the Flood. His long life (950 years) gave him opportunity to transmit to his many descendants the dramatic story that he had lived out with his family. Peoples in places and cultures the world over have memories and stories of a great Flood in antiquity. The details differ, but the stories remain.
- 10:1—11:32 From these chapters, we learn that the peoples of the earth are all descended from the family of Noah, but there remain a few mysteries. For one thing, the mention of names moves from individuals to peoples to cities. Second, the point of view is from a later date, when the people of Israel had as their geographical center the land of Canaan. While the words imply universal humanity, they omit a global perspective. Finally, the chapters give no clear sense of time: they span many thousands of years.
- 10:1 Genealogy (or family histories) is found in ten significant passages in Genesis (see the list at 2:4). The names of the sons of Noah were first given in 5:32 (see 6:10; 7:13; 9:18).
- 10:2 The listing of the sons of Japheth is more brief than the others. Among the persons and peoples mentioned is Javan (vv. 2, 4), an ancient name for the Greek people. It may be that many of Japheth's descendants migrated to Europe.
- 10:5 The migrations of the peoples to different lands would have come after the events of 11:1–9 (the Tower of Babel).
- 10:6 Ham's family included more than just his son Canaan (see 9:25). Cush, Mizraim, Put, and Canaan are Ham's four sons. Cush is the ancient name for Ethiopia; Mizraim is a name for Egypt. The sons of Cush are given in vv. 7–12, the sons of Mizraim in vv. 13, 14, and the sons of Canaan in vv. 15–19. This section does not list the sons of Put.
- 10:7–11 The sons of Cush include the infamous Nimrod (vv. 9–12). The description of him as a mighty hunter before the LORD suggests great arrogance. Like Lamech the descendant of Cain (4:19–24), his infamy was proverbial. His territory was in the lands of the east, the fabled ancient cities of Mesopotamia; these include Babel, Erech, Accad, and Calneh (v. 10). The term Accad (or Akkad) supplies the name of the language of ancient Babylon and Assyria, Akkadian. The prophet Micah would later use the name Nimrod to describe the region of Assyria, which would come under God's judgment (see Mic. 5:5, 6).

10:15 The names associated with Canaan (see 9:22) are peoples who settled in the region of greater Canaan. Some of these names were still associated with the land at the time of Abraham. The sites of Sodom and its allied cities were later destroyed in the firestorm of ch. 19.

10:20 This summary verse speaks of families . . . languages . . . lands . . . nations as in v. 5. This reference shows that the story of the Tower of Babel (11:1–9) overlaps the listing of the nations in ch. 10.

10:21–24 Eber is the name that gives rise to the term Hebrew, which is first used of Abraham in 14:13. Such a name is patronymic (a father name). Eber is mentioned at the head of the list because of his importance to the Hebrew people. He is directly the son of Salah (v. 24). His placement at the head of the list is from the vantage of the Hebrew people. Abraham is the father of the Hebrew nation specifically (12:1–3); but Abraham descends from Eber, and Eber from Shem. The other names associated with Shem include Elam, Asshur, and Aram, major people groups in the OT. These and other peoples, including Israel, have become known as Semitic, a word derived from the name Shem.

10:32 the families of the sons of Noah: Although not every ancient people group is listed in this “Table of the Nations,” its clear teaching is that all the varied peoples of the earth, no matter of what land or language, are descended from Noah. The divisions among them are merely the results of the later incidents.

Table of Nations

11:1–9 The confusion of languages at Babel marks the beginnings of racial, ethnic, cultural, and familial diversity. Yet in the Promised One, of whom 12:3 (see also 22:15–18) speaks, there will one day be an end to all divisiveness. The peoples of the earth will become the people of God. All the languages will speak together in praise of the Lamb (Rev. 5:8–14).

11:1 one language: This account speaks of a time soon after the Flood, a time before the family had begun to disperse (contrast 10:5, 20, 31, 32).

11:2 The land of Shinar is the region of ancient Babylon in Mesopotamia (see 10:10), part of modern Iraq. This is one region traditionally suggested as the location of the Garden of Eden. The peoples of the earth came there from the east.

11:3 The use of bricks for building a large structure was common in this early period. Use of huge quarried stones weighing many tons came later. The immense building blocks of later times were dressed so well that they could be fitted together without mortar.

11:4 These people wanted to become famous as the Nephilim (giants) were before the Flood. Motivated by pride and arrogance, they wanted to make a name for themselves. lest we be scattered: They feared that they might be dispersed—by implication, by the Lord—and not achieve the greatness they sought.

- 11:5 the LORD came down to see: A figurative way of speaking that indicates the omniscience (the all-embracing knowledge) of the Lord (see 18:21).
- 11:6 nothing that they propose: The potential is that humankind will become as willfully sinful as they were before the Flood. God will not allow this to happen.
- 11:7 The Us in this passage is similar to the language of 1:26–28. The plural pronoun emphasizes the majesty of the speaker. Variation in language, culture, values, and clans all started at this point. Were it not for human arrogance, this division would not have been necessary. One day peoples of all languages and cultures will unite to celebrate the grace of God’s risen Son, lifting their voices together in praise of the Lamb (Rev. 5:8–14).
- 11:8 the LORD scattered them: There are three great judgments on sinful humanity in the first section of Genesis (chs. 1–11). The first is the expulsion from Eden (ch. 3); the second is the Flood (chs. 6–9), and the third is the scattering of the people from Babel (see Luke 1:51).
- 11:9 There is a pun in the name Babel that no Hebrew reader would miss. The verb for confuse sounds similar to the name of the city. The principal city of ancient paganism (Babylon) is merely a site of confusion because there the LORD confused the language. Babel (and Babylon) serves as a name and symbol in the Bible for activities directed against God by the nations of the earth (see Rev. 17).
- 11:10 Genealogy (or family histories) is found in ten significant passages in the Book of Genesis (see the list at 2:4). The Jewish nation came from Shem. Hence, the accounts that follow make much of him and his family.
- 11:10–25 The pattern in this genealogy is similar to that in ch. 5; but here only the first three elements are given: (1) name “A” lived “x” years; (2) name “A” begot name “B”; (3) name “A” then lived “y” years. As does ch. 5, the list leaves out some names, focusing on major figures in the line from Noah to Abraham. “B” may be a remote descendant rather than the immediate child of “A” (5:20). Thus the genealogy shows that Abraham was a descendant of Noah through Shem, just as Noah was a descendant of Adam through Seth. Note also that while the people listed in ch. 11 lived very long lives, they lived progressively shorter lives, from the 600 years of Shem (vv. 10, 11) to the 148 years of Nahor (vv. 24, 25). Note also the absence of a total for the time from Shem to Abram (vv. 26–30); it must have been at least several thousand years, but we do not know exactly how long.
- 11:26 Terah: At long last we come to the family of Terah and the births of Abram, Nahor, and Haran. Years later, Abram would be renamed Abraham (see 17:5), and would become the father of Isaac (21:1–5). He was the progenitor of the Hebrew people from which the Promised Deliverer, Jesus, comes.
- 11:27 The term genealogy (or family histories) is found in ten significant passages in Genesis (see the list at 2:4). Abram, Nahor, and Haran: These three sons of Terah would be expected to carry on his name (but see 11:31). Haran begot Lot: Lot is a nephew of Abram; he figures prominently in the upcoming account (see 12:4, 5; 13:1–13).
- 11:28 The untimely death of Haran leaves his son Lot to carry on his name and to establish his destiny. For generations, scholars have believed Ur of the Chaldeans to be the famous Ur located near the ancient delta in the Persian Gulf where the Tigris and Euphrates Rivers flow together. More recently, some scholars have noted the tablets at Ebla that speak of an Ur in the region of north Syria and suggest that this is the city of Haran’s death.
- 11:29 Sarai means “Princess,” implying a person of noble birth. Sarah (as she is later called; see 17:15) has the same meaning. The name Milcah is related to the verb that would be translated “to reign” and means “Queen.” daughter of Haran: Evidently, Nahor married his niece. We learn later that Sarai was Abram’s half sister.
- 11:30 The sad fact that Sarai was barren marred her life and yet led to an opportunity for God to accomplish a miracle on her behalf (see 21:1–5).
- 11:31, 32 Abram’s epic move to Canaan begins in ch. 12 with Abram receiving a command from the Lord to leave his land to go to a new land. Did the journey begin with Terah or with Abram? It appears that Terah, for his own reasons, decided to move from Ur to Canaan. He began the journey with several members of his family. However, they went to Haran, where Terah died. This was the first step of the journey of Abram and Sarai to the land of promise.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Ur

Abraham's native city in southern Mesopotamia; an important metropolis of the ancient world situated on the Euphrates River. The city came to be known as "Ur of the Chaldeans" after the Chaldeans entered southern Babylonia after 1000 B.C.

Abraham lived in the city (11:28, 31) at the height of its splendor. The city was a prosperous center of religion and industry. The Babylonians worshiped many gods, but the moon god Sin was supreme. Accordingly, the city of Ur was a kind of theocracy centered in the moon deity. It is a miracle of God's providence that Abraham resisted Ur's polluted atmosphere and set out on a journey of faith to Canaan that would bless all mankind.

Ur's glory was suddenly destroyed about 1900 B.C. So complete was the destruction that the city was buried in oblivion until it was excavated centuries later by archaeologists.

12:1-15:21 This section of the Bible begins with God's call of Abram and Sarai (later named Abraham and Sarah) to become the parents of a new people through whom God would reach all the families of the earth.

12:1 The name Yahweh, translated as LORD, is not explained until Ex. 3:14, 15. But the readers of Genesis needed to know that the one who spoke to Abram is the same Yahweh who later would form the nation of Israel and who had created all things (2:4). To a world that believed in many gods, the name of the true and living God was significant. had said: God had spoken the promise to Abram in Ur (see 11:31). Now that Abram's father had died and been buried in Haran, Abram recalled Yahweh's words and acted upon them. Abram means "Exalted Father." Later it will be changed to Abraham, meaning "Father of Many." Get out: Verses 1-3 are poetry, aiding memorability and a sense of solemnity and gravity (see 14:19, 20; 16:11, 12; 25:23). country . . . family . . . father's house: Here are three levels of ever-increasing demands on the life of Abram and Sarai. The country was the region of his dwelling, the family was his clan, and his father's house was where he had responsibility and leadership. Upon the death of Terah, Abram would have become the leader of the family group. God's commands to Abram were intensely demanding because they caused him to leave his place, his clan, and his family in a world where such actions were simply not done. Only the landless and the fugitive would move about and leave their ancestral homes. But Abram was to leave everything.

(Heb. 'erets) (1:1, 10; 4:16; 12:1; 13:10; Deut. 34:2; Ps. 98:3) Strong's #776

The common OT word land possesses several nuances of meaning, including: earth in contrast to the heavens (1:1); land in contrast to the sea (1:10); ground as a plot of real estate or a geographical location (4:16); the land of a sovereign nation (13:10, 12); or even the people who live upon the earth (Ps. 98:3; 100:1). In essence, all land belongs to God as its Creator (Ps. 24:1). Thus when God promised the Israelites the “land” of Canaan, it was His to give. Because the land of Canaan was an important element in God’s covenant with the Israelites (12:1), it became one of their identifying characteristics—the “people of the land” (13:15; 15:7).

Go to the List of Word Studies

12:2, 3 There are seven elements in God’s promise to Abram in these two verses. The number seven suggests fullness and completeness, as in 2:2, 3. This celebrated passage is a prologue to the set of passages that together form the Abrahamic covenant (see the list at 15:1–21), the irrevocable promise of God. (1) God commanded Abram to leave his home and family, promising to create a great nation through him—the people of God (18:18). This people would be the Hebrew nation. This first element and the seventh element are the most significant in the set. (2) God promised to bless Abram. The blessing of God is His smile, the warmth of His pleasure (see 1:22, 28; 2:3; 9:1). The Lord’s promise of His personal blessing to Abram and Sarai included the benefits of a long and healthy life (see 15:15; especially 24:1), plus wealth and importance (see 13:2). (3) That one’s name would live on long after one’s lifetime was a supreme honor (6:4). Those who brought shame on themselves would be forgotten (11:4). The name Abraham, by which we remember Abram (17:5), is one of the most honored of all names in history. (4) be a blessing: The phrase is a command. That is, Abram was under divine orders to be a blessing to others. This he did whenever he told about the living God before other nations and peoples (see v. 8). (5) those who bless: Elements five and six form a poetic couplet. (6) him who curses: Whereas God would bless the peoples who blessed Abram or his descendants, His curse came upon the individual who cursed Abram or his descendants. (7) all the families of the earth would be blessed through them, the Jewish people who are descended from Abram.

God’s Promise to Abram Fulfilled

God promised to make Abram’s (Abraham’s) descendants into a great nation (12:2). God fulfilled this promise in the birth of Isaac and then later Jacob, through whom the twelve tribes of Israel were born (Joseph’s sons Ephraim and Manasseh became two of the tribes). Abraham’s descendants did indeed become great nations.

More importantly, however, God promised Abraham that “in you all the families of the earth shall be blessed” (12:3). Through the birth of Christ—direct descendant of Abraham through Isaac, Jacob and Judah—God fulfilled this promise as well. In this way Abraham’s “seed” has indeed blessed all the nations of the earth.

12:4 With the magnificent promise of the Lord as his sole motivation, Abram obeyed (see 17:23; 22:3). Lot went with him: Some have imagined that Abram disobeyed God by taking Lot with him. However, the verse suggests that Lot made the decision. seventy-five years old: The Bible rarely indicates a person’s age when events occur, but it does so several times for Abram. As we will see, this testifies to God’s mighty works in Abram’s life at his advanced age.

12:5 This is the first mention in the Bible of Canaan, the geographical stage for God’s acts of salvation. Canaan was populated with peoples involved in gross idolatry (15:16). God promised this land to Abram and Sarai.

12:6 passed through: This verb resembles the name Hebrew (14:13). Here the Hebrew Abram was “passing through” the land, crossing over to his destination. Shechem: This ancient site was in the center of the land; later under Joshua’s leadership the people would commemorate the Lord’s covenant there (Josh. 24:1). tree of Moreh: A terebinth or ancient oak tree would serve as a lasting marker for future generations to observe (see also 13:18; 18:1; 23:17). The term Moreh means “The Teacher.” It is related to the term Torah, which means “Instruction.” Here Abram began symbolically taking possession of the land that would one day be the territory of the Great Teacher and His instruction. The land was already occupied by the Canaanites (see 13:7), but by God’s promise it would belong to Abraham’s descendants.

12:7 the LORD appeared: This was the first time God appeared to Abram in the land of Canaan, but certainly not the last (see 13:14–17). To your descendants: The land of Canaan was a gift to the descendants of Abram. God owned the land (Ps. 24:1); it was His to do with as He pleased. The people of Canaan had lost their right to occupy the land due to their awful depravity (see 15:16). Thus God declared that this land would become the land of Israel (see also 15:18–21; 17:6–8). This verse forms a part of the Abrahamic covenant (see the references at 15:1–21), and Abraham quoted it many years later to his servant (24:7).

12:8 Later, in the time of Jacob, the site of Bethel would play an important role (see 28:10–22). Ai means “Ruin.” The name suggests that the site was a ruin of an ancient city. Abram responded to God's appearance by building an altar and worshiping the Lord. called on the name of the LORD: Not a private prayer, but a public proclamation. Abram was evangelizing—telling others about the Lord. God had commanded him to be a blessing to the nations (v. 2) and he was doing it. The meaning “to proclaim” or “to preach” for this Hebrew verb is found also in 4:26; 21:33; 26:25.

12:9 South: This Hebrew word is often transliterated as the Negev (see 13:1; 24:62). The population of Canaan, along with their flocks and herds, kept Abram from finding a location for his own herds and flocks. He kept wandering further south, into the Negev, until he had room for them.

Abram's Travels

Go to the List of In-Text Maps

12:10 Sometime after Abram's arrival in Canaan, famine forced him to leave. Famine can arise either from forces of nature or from war and its disruption of farming (see 26:1; Ruth 1:1). to Egypt: The Scripture does not say whether Abram wanted to go.

12:11 beautiful countenance: Only rarely does the Bible refer to a person's appearance (other examples are Joseph at 39:6 and David at 1 Sam. 16:12). The comment on Sarai's beauty compares to ones on Rebekah (24:16) and Rachel (29:17). Sarai's physical beauty was remarkable given her advanced age—she was ten years younger than Abram, or about 65 (12:4; 17:17).

12:12 The point is that Abram and his entourage would not be able to slip into Egypt secretly. They were many, with plenty of possessions, herds, and flocks. The Egyptians would see them, and Abram knew that Sarai's beauty would be noticed too.

12:13 my sister: Sarai was Abram's half sister, the daughter of his father but not of his mother (20:12).

12:15 commended her: A form of praise (much like that in Ps. 113:1). to Pharaoh's house: Abram's ploy backfired!

12:16 treated Abram well: Abram was enriched by Pharaoh's actions, but at the possible loss of his wife. Some critical scholars used to think that camels were not domesticated nearly so early as this; they viewed the term camels as an error. It is now known that camels had been domesticated, although rarely. They represented great wealth; to have a camel in this period was like having an expensive limousine.

12:17 the LORD plagued Pharaoh: The first example of the cursing and blessing element of God's promise (see vv. 2, 3).

12:18 Despite his indignation, Pharaoh dismissed the couple. The Lord protected Abram and Sarai for their role in salvation history.

13:1, 2 Abram and Sarai returned from Egypt to the South or to the Negev (see 12:9; 24:62), a region where they could live with their considerable wealth in livestock, silver, and gold. From there they journeyed back to Bethel, the site where God had appeared to him. Again Abram called on the name of the LORD (see 12:8).

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Cuneiform

A system of writing developed before 3000 B.C. in Mesopotamia (the lower Tigris and Euphrates Valley) probably by the Sumerians and then adopted and modified by the Accadians, Hurrians, Hittites, Elamites, Persians, and Canaanites from Ugarit. The wedge-shaped signs of cuneiform writing were carved on stone and metal or inscribed with a stylus on clay tablets. These clay tablets received the wedge marks while soft and moist, but they became as hard as stone after they were dried in the sun or baked in a kiln. Thousands of such tablets were discovered by archaeologists at the site of Ras Shamra (ancient Ugarit, a Canaanite settlement). Cuneiform was originally a pictographic form of writing, but it soon was used to signify syllables and consonants. Variations of cuneiform scripts were developed for Ugaritic and Old Persian writing.

Mesopotamian cuneiform tablet, c. 2052 B.C.

- 13:7 Lot shared in his uncle Abram's prosperity to some degree. The crowding of range lands led to disputes and strife between their herdsmen. The Canaanites and the Perizzites: As in 12:6, the point of this phrase is that the land was already populated; Abram and Lot did not come into a region that was empty. They had to compete for available land for their rapidly growing herds and flocks.
- 13:8, 9 we are brethren: Abram acted with kindness, not wanting to fight his nephew's family and herdsmen. Abram gave Lot his choice. In doing this, Abram not only showed a lack of self-interest, but also confidence in God's continuing provision for him.
- 13:10 Lot was greedier than Abram; he wanted the well-watered region in the plain of Jordan, near the Dead Sea. Sodom and Gomorrah: In light of the fate of these infamous cities (chs. 18; 19); the first readers would be amazed to learn of the abundant water the region had once enjoyed. like the garden of the LORD: This exuberant comparison recalls the conditions of Eden (2:10). In an arid region, abundance of water would evoke images of Paradise. The "little" town of Zoar later figured in Lot's life (19:22).
- 13:13 Lot's choice of the more favorable land led him into territory that was populated by the worst of the Canaanites, the infamous evil people of Sodom (see chs. 18; 19). The rest of the peoples of Canaan were given 400 years before their idolatry and wickedness demanded judgment (15:16).
- 13:14–17 This section forms part of the set of texts that set the stage for the Abrahamic covenant (see the list at 15:1–21). This section builds on 12:1–3, 7, the passage in which God first gave His great promise to Abram.
- 13:14 The LORD reaffirmed the promise to Abram after his lack of faith in Egypt (12:10–20) and his separation from Lot.
- 13:15–17 all the land: None of the land was outside the promise. Your descendants translates the Hebrew word for seed. At times this term refers to many descendants and at other times to a unique individual, the Coming One (22:18; see also Gal. 3:16). as the dust of the earth: A hyperbole or overstatement (15:5; 22:17). Abram's walk in the land is a symbolic act of taking possession. Abraham himself would not take possession of the land (see Heb. 11:13–16); his descendants would (see 12:7; 15:17–21).
- 13:18 Hebron became one of the principal centers for Abram's stay in the land (23:2). Abram was still living in a tent, not in the cities. Abram continued to build altars to worship the living God (see 12:7, 8; 13:4).
- 14:1 Most scholars no longer think it is likely that Amraphel king of Shinar was the famous Hammurabi of Babylon.
- 14:3 The Valley of Siddim is most likely submerged under the waters of the Dead Sea.
- 14:4 they served: That is, the kings from Mesopotamia forced the kings of the cities in the Valley of Siddim to pay tribute.
- 14:5 The punitive raid of the foreign alliance took at least a year to organize. The raid must have been formidable, given the list of cities they attacked as they made their way to the encounter with the rebellious kings.
- 14:10 asphalt pits: The Hebrew term for pits is written twice ("pits pits"), meaning that bitumen pits were everywhere.

14:11, 12 all the goods . . . Lot: Lot was not only captured, but he was also now living in the city of Sodom, an “exceedingly wicked and sinful” city (see 13:11–13). This sets the stage for the events of chs. 18; 19.

14:13 Here is this first use of the word Hebrew in the Bible. It comes from the name Eber, first mentioned in the table of the nations in ch. 10. The word is related to a verb meaning “cross over” or “pass through,” perhaps reminding us that Abram “passed through” or “crossed over” from another place in order to obey the Lord’s command. Abram had moved to Hebron at the terebinth trees of Mamre (13:18; see also v. 24).

14:14 The fact that Abram could field 318 fighting men from among his own servants is an indication of the great wealth and honor that the Lord had given him (see 12:2, 3).

14:16 Abram’s raid was a complete success. He regained all the goods stolen by the raiding party from Mesopotamia and rescued his nephew Lot.

14:17 When Abram returned from his successful attack on the raiding party from Mesopotamia, he was met by two kings, one from Sodom and one from Salem. Abram turns at first to the king of Salem.

14:18 Melchizedek means “My King Is Righteous.” Melchizedek was a contemporary of Abram who worshiped the living God. king of Salem: Salem is an older, shorter name for Jerusalem. The word is based on the root from which we get the word shalom, “peace.” bread and wine: While these were staples of everyday life in ancient times, their use here had a different purpose—to celebrate God’s deliverance of Abram and his troops. the priest of God Most High: The term for God used here expresses God’s power over the nations. The great surprise about Melchizedek is that he appears from nowhere, without mention of parents or background, without any introduction of ties to the Lord. This mysterious quality of Melchizedek allows the writer of Hebrews to compare him with another priest, the Lord Jesus Christ (see Heb. 5-9; see also Ps. 110:4).

14:19 And he blessed him: Melchizedek is the first to bless Abram; thus he comes under the special provision of God’s promise of blessing (see 12:3). Blessed be Abram: The words of the blessing are in two lines of poetry, making them more memorable as well as adding a sense of power and effectiveness. The phrase God Most High is used in both lines of the blessing, for special emphasis. Possessor may also mean “Creator” (see Prov. 8:22).

14:20 blessed be God Most High: When we bless God, we acknowledge Him as the source of all our blessings (see Ps. 103:1, 2). Melchizedek declared the true nature of Abram’s victory—God delivered him. Here is the first mention of the tithe in the Bible (see Deut. 14:22). Abram’s gift indicates that he considered Melchizedek a true priest of the living God; in giving this gift Abram was giving to the Lord.

14:21 Abram seems to have ignored the king of Sodom (see v. 17) until he had worshiped with the king of Salem. Now he hears the demands of this king, who asked for his people but not for his goods.

14:22 Abram raised his hand as a symbol of a strong oath. In other passages it is a sign of defiance. Abram identified Yahweh, translated here as the LORD, with the God Most High. This is a clear statement that he and Melchizedek both worshiped the true, living God.

14:23 I will take nothing: In these words, Abram strongly rebuked Sodom and its king (see 13:12, 13). Abram stood in strong contrast to his nephew Lot who had moved into the wicked city (see 14:12).

14:24 Aner, Eshcol, and Mamre: Abram’s allies (v. 13) were not bound by his own resolution. The term Mamre is also a place name associated with Hebron (see 18:1; 23:17).

15:1–21 This section is one of the texts that present the Abrahamic covenant (see 17:1–22; 18:1–15; 22:15–18; 26:23, 24; 35:9–15; cf. 12:1–3, 7; 13:14–17).

15:1 After these things is a transition phrase—what follows is a new incident in Abram’s life (22:1). the word of the LORD . . . in a vision: The writer of Hebrews reminds us that God spoke “at various times and in various ways.” The use of a vision is only one of the means by which God interacts with His servants. This was the third appearance of the Lord to Abram since his arrival in the land of Canaan (the first at 12:7; the second at 13:14–17; see also ch. 17). your exceedingly great reward: The greatest thing in all of life is relationship to God.

15:2 Lord GOD translates the Hebrew word for Lord (Adonai) and the name Yahweh. Abram and Sarai were childless (see 11:29, 30). Later we learn that Abram had six sons by a concubine named Keturah (see 25:1–6). That relationship with Keturah must have occurred after the events of this chapter. heir of my house: According to long-standing custom, a man who was childless would adopt someone, perhaps a slave, to be his principal heir. If the man later had a child, then the natural child would replace the adopted son as the principal heir. Similar laws were part of the legal codes of the Middle East, including the famed Code of Hammurabi of Babylon. We read of Eliezer of Damascus only here, but he had the honor of being Abram’s heir because Abram and Sarai had no child of their own. Some have wondered if Eliezer is also the unnamed servant of Abraham who went on the quest for a wife for Isaac (see 22:5; 24:2).

15:3 Offspring represents a word that is also translated seed and descendants (see 3:15; 15:5, 13, 18).

15:4 from your own body: Eliezer was not a physical son of Abram; God promised that Abram himself would father a child, even in his advanced age.

15:5 Only God can count the stars (see Ps. 147:4; Is. 40:26). The saying means that the descendants of Abram would be innumerable (see 22:17; cf. 13:16). Your descendants translates the Hebrew word for seed. This word is used to refer to the coming Messiah (Num. 24:7; Is. 6:13).

15:6 When God made a promise, Abram believed in the LORD. When God commanded Abram, he obeyed (see 12:4; 22:3). Nothing so marks the lives of Abram and Sarai as their belief in God (see Heb. 11:8–19). It is this belief, faith in the only living God, that saves the sinner from sin (see John 12:11). He accounted it to him for righteousness: Some have thought that in OT times people were saved by their good deeds rather than by faith, but this idea is mistaken. Abram was not saved because of righteous living or obedience, but by believing in God and so being declared righteous by Him. The only valid work is the work of faith (John 6:28, 29).

(Heb. 'aman) (15:6; Ex. 4:31; 2 Chr. 20:20; Ps. 116:10) Strong's #539

The Hebrew word translated believe is from a root meaning “establish” or “confirm.” The English word amen, which is used to express approval, comes from the same root (Neh. 5:13; Ps. 41:13). Belief is one of the most important ideas in all the Bible, because a person must believe God in order to be saved from sin. For this very reason, the NT makes much of the fact that Abraham believed God (Heb. 11:8–12). Whenever the Scriptures, whether the OT or NT, state that a person “believed in the LORD,” it signals that the person has made a decision to treat God’s word as certain and has made a commitment to do what God wants (15:6; John 1:12).

Word Studies

(Heb. chashab) (15:6; Ex. 26:1; Is. 33:8) Strong's #2803

This complex verb has two distinct ranges of meaning. The first is associated with calculations of some sort: “count” (Lev. 25:27; Prov. 17:28), “esteem” (Is. 53:3), “impute” (2 Sam. 19:19), “reckon” (Lev. 27:18, 23). The second includes the element of planning. Thus the word has the meaning of “think” (1 Sam. 1:13), “devise” (Esth. 8:3), “artistic design” (Ex. 26:1; 35:35), or “regard” (Is. 33:8). As used in 15:6, the word has commercial connotations. Abram’s faith was “accounted” to him for righteousness—that is, computed or tallied as a credit or deposit in Abram’s favor. Paul also appeals to this credit and debit language of the accounting ledger in his explanation of justification by faith (see Rom. 4:3).

15:7 I am the LORD, who brought you out: This is the self-authenticating declaration of the Lord. His grace enables a person to believe. Ur: See 11:28, 31.

15:8 how shall I know: The text suggests that Abram was asking the Lord for a commemorative sign of His promise, not that he was troubled by unbelief.

15:9 Abram had only to prepare the sacrifice and bring it to God; the Lord would enact the sign (see v. 17). This emphasizes the unilateral, unconditional nature of the covenant.

15:11 Abram had come not to feed the vultures, but to see a great sign from the Lord. For the rest of the day he kept the vultures away from the animals while waiting for God’s sign.

15:12 Abram fell into the same sort of deep sleep that God placed on Adam (see 2:21). Abram was still aware of events around him. His trance-like state allowed him to remember these events for the rest of his life. horror . . . darkness: These two words give great emphasis to the meaning: “an overwhelmingly dark horror.” This kind of reaction to the indescribable holiness of the Lord (see Ps. 113:4–6; Is. 6:3; 40:25) is natural—Abram was about to experience the presence of the Almighty. This was a moment of profound dread and holy awe.

15:13 Your descendants translates the Hebrew word for seed (vv. 3, 5, 18). Strangers are those who dwell temporarily in a foreign place. Abram was a stranger in the land of Canaan; his descendants would become strangers in another land (Egypt). four hundred years: No doubt this would impress Abram, but consider how it would impress the first readers of the book. They were the generation who came to fulfill God’s promise! (See Ex. 12:40–42.)

15:14 I will judge: God fulfilled this prophecy in the ten plagues (Ex. 7–11). The Israelites of the Exodus acquired great possessions when they plundered the Egyptians (see Ex. 12:31–36).

15:15 to your fathers: A way of speaking about death; the phrase may include the promise of life after death as well (see 25:8; 35:29; 49:33; see also 1 Sam. 12:23).

15:16 in the fourth generation: This expression reflects the longer life spans of people in Abram’s day (cf. 400 years in v. 13). iniquity of the Amorites: In a sense, the Lord was granting a stay of execution for the peoples of Canaan (see 12:5). He would allow their sin to reach a critical level. The command of God to take the land from the Canaanite peoples (see Deut. 20) would come only when their iniquity was complete.

- 15:17 The deep sleep came on Abram when the sun was setting (v. 12). Now in heavy darkness, he saw supernatural light. a smoking oven and a burning torch: These symbols represented the glory of the Lord to Abram. Smoke and fire, with clouds and darkness, often precede God's acts of judgment (see Ex. 19:16–20; Ps. 97:2–6; Is. 6:1–5; Joel 2:2, 3; Zeph. 1:14–16). This oven and torch imagery may indicate the impending judgment on Canaan—the promise that God's word to Abram will be kept. between those pieces: This last element has profound implications. In solemn agreements between equals (parity treaties), both parties would pass between the bloody pieces of slain animals and birds. The symbol would be evident to all: “May I become like this if I do not keep my part of the deal.” But Abram was not to walk this grisly pathway. Only God made that journey in the symbols of smoke and fire. The fulfillment of the promise of God to Abram, the Abrahamic covenant, is as sure as is the ongoing life of the Lord! (See also 22:15–18.)
- 15:18 The same day that Abram believed in the Lord (v. 6) and God counted it to him for righteousness, God made a covenant with him. covenant: The first time this very significant word is used of God's promise to Abram. In this case the agreement is between a superior and an inferior. Compare 21:27, where the word is used in a parity treaty between Abraham and Abimelech. See also 26:28 for a parity treaty between Isaac and Abimelech. Descendants translates the Hebrew word for seed, which may refer to a populace or to an individual. The Jews who would descend from Abram would fulfill this promise as the seed (collectively); so also the Christ who is the Seed (singular) would ultimately fulfill this promise (see Gal. 3:16). One day, both the Savior and His people will fulfill this promise to the uttermost (Mic. 5:2–5). This land is the key term for this section. As already noted, God's promise to Abram included his descendants and the Promised One, the Seed of Gen. 3:15 (see Is. 6:13). But the promise also included the land of Canaan (which was to become the land of Israel). We first see this in 12:7. The river of Egypt may be the Nile, or it may be what is called today the Wadi el'Arish, a smaller watercourse at the natural boundary of Egypt and the land of Israel. the River Euphrates: The northern arm of the Euphrates in Syria.
- 15:19–21 the Kenites . . . Jebusites: This list of nations served two purposes: (1) It defined the borders of the land. (2) It impressed—no fewer than ten nations would be supplanted by the nation of Israel. The Israelites who heard these words must have been greatly encouraged.
- 15:20 Most Hittites lived in Asia Minor (modern Turkey), but there were some Hittites in Canaan (see ch. 23). the Rephaim: A people of unusually tall stature; they are called giants in 2 Sam. 21:15–22 (see Num. 13:33; Deut. 2:11; 3:11, 13).
- 15:21 The term Canaanite could be used broadly to include all the people groups in Canaan (see 12:6), or more narrowly, as here, to indicate a particular people group (see 10:15–20).
- 16:1 had borne him no children: One of the principal themes in Genesis is the quest for children, especially sons. This appears in 4:1 with the birth of Cain. In Abram and Sarai's lives the theme gets a lot of attention (11:29, 30; 12:1–3; 15:1–4; also chs. 17; 18; 21). In the world of the OT, infertility caused great distress (see 25:21). At that time, the woman was always blamed. When a woman was not able to conceive a child, her husband might divorce her. Sarai's desperate ploy to have a child through Hagar was fully in accord with the practices of those days.
- 16:2 Sarai knew that conception was from the Lord (see 4:1); her words, the LORD has restrained me, expressed her grief. Earlier her husband had complained to the Lord that he was childless (see 15:2). go in to my maid: In the culture of the ancient Middle East this would have been expected. Abram's peers would not have regarded it as immoral. obtain children by her: Hagar would become a surrogate mother for Sarai. At the time of birth, the mother would undress herself and stay near the birth mother. As the child was born it might be placed on the wife's body, a ritual indicating that it was born on behalf of the woman who was unable to have children herself.
- 16:3 Sarai and Abram enlisted Hagar's aid only after ten years of waiting for God's promise to be fulfilled. At this point, Abram would have been 85 years old and Sarai 75 (12:4; 17:17).
- 16:4 despised: Sarai paid an emotional price for doing what the culture accepted. Using a surrogate mother may have been expedient and acceptable to the culture, but the hatred and belittling by the arrogant young servant woman was excruciating for Sarai. Now that she saw the pride of her servant, Sarai was humiliated.

16:5 The LORD judge: This is as close as we come to the use of cursing among God's people in the Bible; such words arose out of Sarai's utter desperation.

16:6 Sarai's frustration led her to treat Hagar harshly. Neither she nor Abram behaved well during this stressful time. The Bible often shows its best characters at their worst moments.

16:7 the Angel of the LORD: This wonderful phrase is used to speak of God as He relates Himself directly to His people. Angel means "messenger." by a spring of water in the wilderness: The detail is appropriate for Hagar's experience. There she was, alive with a child within her, and yet she had no place to go and no future. Hagar was like that spring in the wilderness.

16:8 and He said: On several occasions this passage states that the Angel of the Lord spoke directly to Hagar (vv. 9, 10, 11).

16:10 God's promise to Hagar to multiply her descendants is similar to the one given to Abram and Sarai (see 15:5; 17:20; 22:15–18). Descendants translates the Hebrew word for seed (for its use elsewhere, see 3:15; 15:3, 5, 13, 18).

16:11 The name Ishmael uses the divine name El and means "God hears."

16:12 This is something of a mixed blessing as is Isaac's to Esau (see 27:39, 40). Wild man suggests that Ishmael and his descendants would be unsettled, ever on the move. His hand . . . against suggests that his descendants would often be at war. Still this people would endure. They would dwell in the presence of all his brethren. This has indeed been the case, for Ishmael's descendants are the Arab peoples who populate most of the Middle East today. Very few of the peoples of the OT world have survived to our own day. For example, all ten nations of 15:19–21 have ceased to exist. But two peoples survive: Israel, the Jewish people, descended from Isaac; and the Arabs, descended from Ishmael (see 17:19–22).

16:13 Though Hagar was Egyptian, she had evidently come to faith in the LORD of Abram and Sarai. As a recipient of God's blessing, she gave Him a commemorative name, You-Are-the-God-WhoSees. Her words, Have I also here seen Him, suggest amazement at God's grace and humility in His presence. After the death of Abraham, his son Isaac lived at Beer Lahai Roi (25:11).

17:1–22 This text is a part of the complex of passages that form the Abrahamic covenant (see the list at 15:1–21), the irrevocable promise of God.

17:1 ninety-nine years old: From Abram's perspective, God waited a long time to fulfill his promise. Abram was 75 years old when he came to the land of Canaan (12:4). At 86 he became the father of Ishmael (see 16:16). Then 13 more years passed without a son being born to Sarah (12:1–3; 15:3, 5, 13, 18). For the fourth time, the LORD appeared to Abram after he came to the land of Canaan (the first is in 12:7; the second in 13:14–17; the third in ch. 15; the next in ch. 18). I am Almighty God: God used the name El Shaddai for Himself for the first time (28:3; Ex. 3:14, 15; 6:2, 3). This word is similar to a word for mountain, to which God's strength and endurance can be compared. walk before Me: As Enoch had walked with God (5:21–24), so now Abram was commanded to walk before God. He was to conduct his life as an open display of faithfulness to the Lord. Be blameless means to have integrity.

The Abrahamic Covenant

Gen. 12:1–3

God's Promise: God promises to make Abram into a great nation and bless all others through him.

God's Command: Leave your country. Be a blessing.

Reaction: Abram leaves Ur and goes to Canaan.

Gen. 13:14–18

God's Promise: God promises to multiply Abram's descendants and give Canaan to them forever.

Reaction: Abram worships God by building an altar.

Gen. 15:1–21

God's Covenant: God makes a formal covenant by passing through sacrificial animals. He promises to multiply Abram's descendants and give them the land.

God's Command: Do not be afraid.

Reaction: Abram believes.

Gen. 17:1–27

God's Covenant: God promises to establish an everlasting covenant with Abram's descendants and promises to give the land as an everlasting possession.

God's Command: Walk before Me and be blameless. Keep the covenant and circumcise all males as a sign of the covenant.

Reaction: Abraham circumcises all males in his household.

Gen. 18:1–18

God's Covenant: God promises to give Sarah a son.

Reaction: Sarah laughs.

Gen. 22:1–19

God's Covenant: God promises to make Abraham's descendants numerous and to bless all nations through them.

God's Command: Sacrifice your son, Isaac. (Then God provided a ram to sacrifice instead.)

Reaction: Abraham obeys.

Gen. 26:23–25

God's Covenant: God promises to increase Isaac's descendants.

God's Command: Do not be afraid, for I am with you.

Reaction: Isaac builds an altar and calls on God.

Gen. 35:9–15

God's Covenant: God promises to multiply Jacob's descendants and give them the land.

Reaction: Jacob sets up a stone pillar and pours oil on it.

17:4 a father of many nations: Abram's principal descendants are the Israelites, who are the centerpiece of biblical history and are the line from which the Savior Jesus comes. But Abram is also the father of other nations. He is the father of Ishmael and the Arab peoples (see ch. 16), as well as a number of other people groups descended from Keturah, a concubine (see 25:1–6).

17:5 Abram . . . Abraham: This name change is significant. Abram means "Exalted Father." Abraham means "Father of Many"—a direct reflection of his new role.

- 17:7 The Abrahamic covenant (see 12:1–3) is the foundation upon which all later divine covenants with God’s people are based. Everlasting means the covenant would last through all time. to be God to you: With these remarkable words, God pledged His ongoing relationship with the people of Abraham (see 2 Sam. 7:14; Is. 52:11; Ezek. 37:26, 27; 2 Cor. 6:14-7:1). This was later celebrated in the creed of Israel, the great Shema (see Deut. 6:4; Ps. 100:3). Descendants is from the Hebrew word for seed; it may mean an individual person as well as a people (see 3:15; 15:3, 5, 13, 18).
- 17:8 The promise clearly included the Israelite people and the land (Canaan). The two are linked in the language of the covenant in ch. 15. Even though God removed Israel more than once from the land, He promised them ultimate possession of Canaan. It is an everlasting possession. The same word used of God’s covenant (v. 7) is used of the land.
- 17:10 Circumcision means “cutting around,” a minor operation that removes the foreskin from the male organ.

The Abrahamic Covenant

God burst into the lives of an older, childless couple, Abram and Sarai, with words of strong determination: “I will make you a great nation; I will bless you” (12:2). This gracious promise was unconditional. God would multiply Abram’s descendants and give them the land of Canaan (13:14–17). He formalized His promise to Abram as a formal agreement between a superior king and an inferior servant (15:1–21). Finally, He swore by Himself that He would do it (22:15–18). His word was irrevocable.

Yet within His unconditional promises, God made demands. He commanded Abram and Sarai to leave their home and their extended family to go to a new land (12:1). He commanded them to be a blessing to others (12:2), to walk before Him and be blameless (17:1), and to circumcise the males in their household as a sign of the covenant (17:10). Although God’s promises were unconditional, Abram’s temporal participation in God’s blessing was conditioned on his faithfulness and his obedience to God’s commands. Abram withstood the test—he believed and obeyed (15:6; 22:1–18).

- 17:12 An eight-day-old boy and his immune system would be strong enough for the operation, but he would be too young to remember the pain.
- 17:14 There is something of a pun in the expression, cut off. Any man who did not accept circumcision would be cut off from the community. Some have thought that this section of Scripture concerns only the external act of circumcision, but we know God’s concern to be greater (Deut. 10:12–20). Circumcision—an outward sign—stood for a thorough commitment to God—an inward reality. Hence the apostle Paul demands that the heart be circumcised to God (Rom. 2:25–29).
- 17:15 Sarai . . . Sarah: Both names mean “Princess.” Like the name change from Abram to Abraham (vv. 4, 5), the new name accompanied a new relationship with God.
- 17:16 bless her: The Lord’s blessing was for Sarah as well as Abraham (see 12:1–3). A summary of the language used for Abraham in vv. 6–8 is used of her in these verses. The writer to the Hebrews also celebrated Sarah's faithfulness to the Lord (see Heb. 11:11).

17:17 Fell on his face recalls the words of v. 3. Abraham's laugh is unexpected and shocking—but completely understandable! For 24 years Abraham had heard—and believed—the same promise: One day he would become the father of a son who would found the nation of promise. He had tried to force the birth of a legitimate heir (see chs. 15–16), but God had assured him that the true heir would not be an adopted slave (15:4) nor the child of a surrogate mother (16:11, 12). But now, after nearly a quarter of a century and at the age of 99 (17:1), Abraham had reached his limit. Even if Sarah were to conceive now, she would be 90 when the baby was born and he would be 100! At this point it seemed as though the whole thing might be a joke. And so at last he laughed.

17:18 Abraham's plea shows his love for his son Ishmael and his desire that in some tangible way the covenant promise of God would finally come to pass.

17:19 Isaac means "Laughter" (see 21:1–6).

17:20 God had blessed Ishmael before he was born (see 16:11, 12) and here He renewed and amplified the blessing. As the Hebrew people would have twelve tribes, so Ishmael's people would also have twelve families (25:12–18).

17:21 Isaac whom Sarah shall bear: The promise was plain. The father and mother were named, the child was named, and the time was named.

17:22 God went up: We sometimes read of the Lord coming down from heaven; here we read of Him returning there. Such language is expressive of God's holiness, transcendence, and wonder (see Ps. 113:4–6).

17:23–25 Abraham took Ishmael: Again we see Abraham completely obey the command of the Lord (see 12:4; 22:3). On the very day he received the command from God, he did just as the Lord commanded. All the males in his household from little boys to aged men were treated alike.

18:1–15 God reaffirmed His covenant with Abraham, reconfirming His promise to Sarah. This section is also a part of the complex of texts that make up the Abrahamic covenant (see the list at 15:1–21).

18:1 This is the fifth time the LORD appeared to Abraham since he had come into the land of Canaan. (1) The first was the appearance at the altar Abram built in Shechem when he first entered the land (12:7). (2) The second was after Lot had separated from Abram when they came back to Canaan from Egypt (13:14–17). (3) The third followed Abram's heroic rescue of Lot from the league of invading kings and the subsequent encounter with Melchizedek (15:1–21). (4) The fourth came 13 years after the birth of Ishmael, when the Lord renewed His covenant with Abraham and instituted the rite of circumcision (17:1–22). Mamre was one of Abram's allies in his battle against the invading kings from Mesopotamia (see 14:13). The place name Mamre was probably associated with a personal name. This region came to be known as Hebron (see 13:18; 23:17). in the heat of the day: The southern desert or the Negev (see 12:9) can become very hot in the summer, reaching above 110° F. People usually did hard, physical work early in the morning or late in the afternoon.

Tents

Temporary shelters made of cloth, supported usually by poles and ropes. In biblical times tents were frequently made of a cloth woven out of black goat's hair. The cloth was woven on a loom in long strips, which were then sewn together until the desired length was reached. While tents came in a variety of sizes and shapes, the traditional shape has been a rectangle. The side and end walls were made of reed mats, which were removable to catch the breeze. The interior of a tent was quite plain. The floor was covered with mats or a rug upon which the people sat. A chest or two and a low table might be the only furniture. Since a family's belongings had to be packed and moved frequently, even the wealthy did not accumulate numerous pieces of furniture.

A modern bedouin tent. The tents bedouins use today are still very similar to the ones used during the biblical era.

18:2, 3 Verse 1 states that it was the Lord who appeared to Abraham; v. 2 speaks of three men; v. 13 suggests that one of these men was the Lord. Who were the other two? Probably attending angels; each of the three visitors looked like men, but one was even greater than angels (see 19:1). The writer of Hebrews used this account to encourage hospitality to strangers, “for by so doing some have unwittingly entertained angels” (Heb. 13:2). Abraham’s words My Lord suggests that he suspected the identity of the visitors, but perhaps he was not sure until later of the full significance of the event.

18:9 Where is Sarah: Although the focus of God’s promise in ch. 17 was on Abraham, the focus here is on Sarah.

18:10 Sarah your wife shall have: The wording was important because the couple had tried in the past to achieve the fulfillment of God’s promise (see chs. 15; 16).

18:11 had passed the age of childbearing: The text uses three phrases to describe the advanced age of Abraham and Sarah, with a special focus on the fact that Sarah had ceased to menstruate.

18:12 therefore Sarah laughed: She acted like Abraham had on an earlier occasion (17:17). She knew the facts of life, but she would soon be greatly surprised by the One who determined them.

18:13 the LORD said: Here the text makes it plain that the Lord Himself was one of the three guests. Why did Sarah laugh: This is one of the most wonderfully human passages in the Bible. The woman of faith, like her husband, had believed for years in God’s promise. But now she found her faith stretched to the limit. God knew she had laughed.

18:14 Is anything too hard for the LORD: That is, there is no wonder that God cannot do. One of the names for the Coming One is “Wonder-Working Counselor” (Is. 9:6). At the appointed time: This section makes much of the fact that God chose the timing (17:21; Eccl. 3:9–11). time of life: A reference to the length of pregnancy.

- 18:15 Afraid of being found out, Sarah denied that she had laughed. In His mercy God did not punish her, as He had not punished Abraham who also laughed. (17:17). But neither did He allow her embarrassed denial to stand. She had laughed. Sarah would laugh again, but that time it would be in joy rather than disbelief (21:1–7).
- 18:16 In 19:1 we find that two of these men are called angels. looked toward Sodom: This verse begins the account of God’s judgment on the sinful cities of Sodom and Gomorrah. and Abraham went with them: Abraham’s hospitality enabled him to talk further with the living God.
- 18:17 the LORD said: When this phrase is compared with vv. 1, 2, 13, 16 and 19:1, we come to the conclusion that two of the guests of Abraham and Sarah were angels and the third was none other than the living God! Shall I hide: The language of God in this section lets us “hear his thoughts,” as if He were a man reflecting on the fact that Abraham had a vested interest in the city of Sodom because Lot lived there (see 14:12; 19:1).
- 18:19 for I have known him: The language here speaks of the intimate relationship, which motivates the Lord to accomplish His purpose in Abraham (see 22:12). to do righteousness and justice: One idea in two words—“genuine righteousness” (see Mic. 3:1; 4:8).
- 18:20 The outcry against Sodom and Gomorrah suggests a moral center in the universe; the outrageous sins of these cities are an affront to the righteousness of God (19:4–8).
- 18:21 I will go down now: This picturesque way of speaking of the omniscience of the Lord (His all-embracing knowledge) heightens the sense of wonder (11:5). There is nothing that God does not know, although we may say that He “comes down” to see “what is going on” in His earth (see also Ps. 113:4–6).
- 18:23 The exchange between Abraham and God serves as a dramatic theodicy, a justification of the Lord’s ways. Abraham’s great concern, of course, was for his nephew Lot and his family (see 14:12; 19:1).
- 18:27–32 Abraham was determined to go on bargaining, but he knew that he was arguing with God. So he went one step at a time, pleading the case for the righteous in smaller and smaller numbers: from forty-five down to ten. Perhaps Abraham thought there were at least ten righteous persons in the city; but alas, there were not (as the report of ch. 19 shows).
- 19:1 Lot’s fortunes had gone very well. The gate of a city was the place where the town elders met (Ruth 4:1). Lot had become so enmeshed in the life of the city that he had become a ruling elder. bowed himself: A term commonly used for the worship of God (22:5; 24:26); here it describes Lot’s act of reverence to special guests. The angels appeared as men (cf. 18:2), and Lot greeted them as such.
- 19:2 My lords is a greeting of respect for special visitors. your servant’s house: Lot’s generous offer of hospitality may have been motivated out of kindness toward them as well as his sense of the dangers his city might hold for them.
- 19:4 The men of Sodom were aggressive homosexuals, bent on raping innocent travelers. Under the circumstances, Lot showed great courage by inviting his guests to stay at his house under his protection.
- 19:5 The Hebrew verb for know is ordinarily used of normal sexual relations between a male and female (4:1). Here it is used to describe the perversion of homosexual sex between men. See Rom. 1:18–32, especially vv. 26, 27. The term sodomite comes from this passage.
- 19:6–8 Lot’s plight was severe; he had invited guests into his home for protection and was now in danger of seeing them abused by an unruly mob. Lot’s desperation led him to risk the lives of his own two daughters to protect the lives of strangers from the mob. We can see why an outcry from the city had gone up to the Lord (18:20, 21).
- 19:9 Stand back: The crazed crowd was now about to attack Lot, whom they resented as an outsider even though he had risen to a position of prominence in the city.
- 19:11 Those who were morally blind were now stricken with physical blindness by the angelic guests (see a similar angelic blight in 2 Kin. 6:18). Only the confusion and panic of these wicked men spared Lot and his family from vicious assault.

19:12 The angelic guests had completed their search and were about to bring down the judgment of God on the city. In mercy, they offered an escape to Lot's immediate family. There simply were not sufficient righteous persons in the city for it to be spared (v. 13; 18:24–33).

19:15 Arise can mean “make haste.”

19:16 he lingered: Lot had mixed feelings about the destruction that was to come. Lot and his family needed to be propelled from their home by physical force. The verb for took hold means “to seize.” the LORD being merciful: This is the whole point of the story. God could have destroyed the city of Sodom with no word to Lot or Abraham (18:17). But because of God's mercy, His angels grabbed Lot and his family and brought them forcefully to safety.

19:22 Zoar: “Insignificant in Size.”

19:23–26 The rain of brimstone and fire may be explained in a couple of ways. It is possible that God used a volcanic eruption or some similar kind of natural disaster. Then, the miracle would be in the Lord's timing and in the narrow escape of Lot and his family. See Ex. 14 for a similar possibility. It is also possible that the destruction of these cities was an act of judgment outside the normal range of natural occurrences.

19:26 The command was clear, not to look back or linger (v. 17). Lot's wife disobeyed and looked back. By implication, she was reluctant to leave. pillar of salt: Her destruction was sudden. Nothing was left of her but a mineral heap. Jesus referred to her in His teaching on the sudden destruction that will come in the last days. “Remember Lot's wife,” Jesus warned (Luke 17:32).

19:27, 28 On the very morning that the cities were destroyed, Abraham looked on from a distance and saw the destruction. When he saw the smoke, he must have known the truth: There were not even ten righteous in the city (18:32).

19:29 Part of the reason for God's grace to Lot was that God remembered Abraham. Lot could barely tolerate the wickedness in the city (see 2 Pet. 2:7, 8), but only he felt that way. If it were not for Abraham, Lot would have died with the other inhabitants.

19:30 Lot had begged the angels to give him a safe haven in the little city of Zoar (vv. 18–22), a request they granted. But following the devastation of the cities of the plain, Lot did not even feel safe in this city. So he lived in a cave.

19:32 Lot's daughters now conspired together to make their father drunk so that he would have sexual relations with them. the lineage of our father: We can hardly approve of their action, yet their desperation was real. Their husbands had died and they were not likely to remarry. Their mother was also dead and they judged their father unlikely to remarry and have more children. Should they die childless, there would be no one to carry on their family name. For the peoples of biblical cultures, this was an overwhelming loss (see ch. 38).

19:33 and he did not know: The narrator inserts this phrase twice (also in v. 35) to protect Lot. This was not deliberate incest on his part; the daughters alone were responsible for what happened.

19:36–38 The shameful act of incest led to the births of two sons who would later greatly trouble Israel, Moab and Ben-Ammi.

20:1 Abraham's deception about Sarah in the city of Gerar was later to be repeated by his son Isaac (see ch. 26). This is an example of a son taking after his father. The present story is also a replay of Abraham's earlier mistakes in Egypt (12:10–20).

20:2 Sarah was the half sister of Abraham (v. 12). Abimelech . . . took Sarah: This action put Sarah in the king's harem, but not in his bed. Because of her advanced age, it is probable that Sarah was more desirable to Abimelech for her wealth than for her physical appearance.

20:3 Presumably, Abimelech was a pagan king. Yet God warned him of the wrong that he was about to commit. This is another instance of the protective care that the Lord gives His people (see also 31:24; cf. Num. 22:12, 20). a man's wife: The Hebrew words speak of Sarah and Abraham on a level of equality and dignity. Both are spoken of as lords or nobles, literally “a noble wife of a noble man.”

- 20:4, 5 Lord, will You slay a righteous nation also: Abimelech had not even touched Sarah; he did not want to die for a sin he had not committed. He argued that his actions so far were innocent. They were based on what Abraham and Sarah had told him.
- 20:6 This passage emphasizes the dream state Abimelech was in. The Lord's response to him was one of grace; God had kept the king from touching Sarah.
- 20:7 This is the first use of the term prophet in the Bible. The term indicates more a relationship to God than an ability to speak for Him. Abraham's relationship to God was the basis for God's command that Sarah be restored to her husband.
- 20:8–10 The gravity of the situation must have touched the king so strongly that his fear quickly spread to his family and servants. Abimelech's questions of Abraham are especially touching: What have you done to us? is followed by the reverse How have I offended you?
- 20:11–13 Abraham gave two reasons for his actions. The first was based on his assumption that he was in hostile territory. That is, with no fear of God, there would be no justice among the people. A king set on doing whatever he wanted might seize Sarah as a first step toward subjugating Abraham and taking over his property. Second, Sarah was truly my sister. The marriages of the family of Terah were very close. In this patrician society, the marriages of close relatives was regarded as a sign of rank. Abraham and Sarah apparently agreed that she would invoke the plea that she was his sister wherever they might happen to be. Later, the Law would prohibit the marriage of people so closely related.
- 20:16 Abimelech made a significant payment to Abraham in silver in order to compensate Sarah's hardship. His words your brother may have been sarcastic. The Hebrew verb translated as rebuked can merely mean "vindicated." This verb is used in legal terminology to describe the settlement of a dispute.
- 20:17 So Abraham prayed to God: However the situation began, it ended in mercy with Abraham acting as a priest for Abimelech before the true and living God. In this way, the people of Gerar learned about the Lord, as had happened in Egypt years earlier (12:10–20).
- 20:18 the LORD had closed up all the wombs: Three things are indicated by these words. First, the stay of Abraham and Sarah had been prolonged in Gerar before Sarah's identity became known. Some months would have had to pass before the people realized that they were no longer conceiving at normal rates. This means that Sarah had lived in the harem of the king for several months. Second, the Lord reached out to these people in a way they would find difficult to resist; the wish to procreate was relentless in the ancient world, as these accounts consistently emphasize. Third, God graciously protected Sarah—and Abraham. The chapter ends with irony. Because of God's desire to protect Sarah, He had closed the wombs of the women of Abimelech's house. Soon the Lord would open Sarah's womb to give her a child, long after she was too old to conceive naturally (21:1, 2).
- 21:1 And the LORD visited Sarah: The Bible stresses that the Lord causes conception; that children are a gift of the Lord (Ps. 127:3). The verb visit is an extraordinary choice here, because it means that the Lord entered directly into the affairs of His people. This was what He did for Sarah as He had said . . . as He had spoken: These two phrases speak of the exact fulfillment of His promise to Abraham (17:21) and Sarah (18:14).
- 21:2 It appears that Sarah conceived while she and Abraham were living in Gerar (20:1; 21:22). The contrast is wonderful—God had closed the wombs of the family of Abimelech (20:18), and now He opened Sarah's womb. bore Abraham a son: A great fact that the Bible elsewhere celebrates (see 25:19; Heb. 11:11). in his old age: The writer of Hebrews says Abraham was "as good as dead" (Heb. 11:12). What a miracle this was! To both Abraham (17:21) and Sarah (18:14), God had emphasized the concept of His set time.
- 21:3 Isaac means "He (God) Is Laughing (Now)." At one time Abraham had laughed at the improbability of having a son in his old age (17:17); Sarah had laughed too (see 18:12). But now, with the birth of the child, laughter took on its happier meaning. Sarah got the joke (vv. 5, 6)!

- 21:4 circumcised his son: Abraham's pattern of obedience to the Lord continued unchanged (12:4; 17:23; 22:3). The sign of the covenant was most important for the son of promise (17:9–14).
- 21:5 one hundred years old: Compare 12:4; 16:16; 17:1. Amusingly, Abraham was precisely the age that caused him to laugh aloud (17:17).
- 21:6 Among the many name jokes in the Bible, few are as wonderful as this one; the words for laugh in this verse are related to the name Isaac (see v. 3).
- 21:7 nurse children: Wondrously, this woman of 90 (17:17) now had breasts filled with milk and her arms full with a child!
- 21:8 weaned: In biblical times children were nursed through the toddler period. The life of Isaac was to be marked by celebration, a great feast. As glad parents, Abraham and Sarah rejoiced in each major step of his life. This makes the story of Isaac's near death (ch. 22) all the more suspenseful.
- 21:9 The Hebrew verb for scoffing is related to the name for Isaac (vv. 3, 5). Here is a bad turn on a wonderful joke. Young Ishmael, now perhaps 17, was mocking the joy of Sarah and Abraham in their young son.
- 21:10 Sarah's greatest moment came at the birth of her child; this moment was one of her worst. It is understandable, of course, that she would find Ishmael's derision hurtful even as she had Hagar's (16:5). But even in that culture it was reprehensible to send Ishmael away. When a surrogate wife had borne a son to one's husband, that mother and child could not be dismissed even if the first wife subsequently gave birth to a son. This partly explains Abraham's reluctance to do what Sarah demanded (v. 11). What is more, he still loved his son Ishmael (16:15; 17:18).
- 21:12 but God said: This is the sixth time Abraham received a direct word from the Lord since coming to the land of Canaan. listen to her voice: Abraham needed to hear God give him permission to send Hagar and Ishmael from his home. In Isaac alone would the principal covenant be fulfilled. Ishmael had his own promise (v. 13; cf. 16:10–12), but nothing God promised to Ishmael would replace His promise to Isaac.
- 21:14 This scene must have been exceedingly difficult for Abraham. He had no idea that another morning in his life would be even worse (see 22:3). Bread and a skin of water are meager provisions. The skin refers to a water bag made of animal skin. sent her away: Years before, Hagar had had to leave the same household while pregnant with Ishmael (16:6). Wilderness of Beersheba (see also v. 31): Later there would be a city built in this place; in this early period it was merely a region for herding sheep and goats. Isaac was later to rediscover water in this region (26:33).
- 21:15 water . . . used up: It would not take long for the two refugees to use up their meager provisions.
- 21:16 Let me not see: Despite her sometimes mean spirit against Sarah, Hagar loved her son. The thought that she was about to lose her son to the desert heat was unbearable for her.
- 21:17 God heard: What wonderful words these are! There is no pain of His people that He does not see or hear about (see Is. 40:27, 28; Heb. 2:10, 18; 4:15). God was near to deliver; the child would not die.
- 21:18 God renewed his promise to Hagar and Ishmael; Ishmael would become a great nation (see 16:10–12).
- 21:19 Hagar was so overcome with grief that she was unaware of the provision of water right before her. God showed a well of water. How fitting that the promise of God would again be beside a provision of water (see 16:7, 14). Often in the pages of the OT, a spring or well of water is a symbol of spiritual salvation as well as physical deliverance (see Is. 12:3; Jer. 2:13).

Wells

References in English versions of the Bible sometimes confuse wells, natural springs, and cisterns. The Bible mentions different types of wells including a cistern dug in the ground (Gen. 16:14; 2 Sam. 17:18); a spring (Ps. 84:6); a fountain (Neh. 2:13); and a pit (John 4:11, 12). Wells in Palestine were dug from solid limestone rock, sometimes with descending steps (Gen. 24:16). The brims of still other wells had a curb or low wall of stone. There is no information on how biblical wells were dug, but the process must have been very difficult because only crude tools were available. Many ancient wells descended to a great depth. Jacob's Well is still 75 feet deep and at one time it may have been twice as deep. These deep wells were necessary because of the problem of shallow wells running dry in the summer.

A very large cistern at the southwest corner of Masada (note the steps). A cistern is one of the types of wells mentioned in the Bible.

21:20 God's promise was realized in Ishmael's life. He became an archer; that is, he learned to hunt.

21:21 wife: Hagar made sure that Ishmael married an Egyptian, one of her own people, much as Abraham's servant searched for a wife for Isaac from among his parents' people (24:4).

- 21:22 Abimelech: It appears from this verse that Abraham and Sarah were still living in the region of Gerar (20:15). Phichol: This commander of the army is also mentioned in the later encounter with Isaac (see 26:26), unless the name is a hereditary term, as perhaps was that of Abimelech (see 26:8). God is with you: With these words, Abimelech and Phichol introduced their desire to form a treaty with Abraham.
- 21:23 swear to me by God: This kind of oath was a complete, binding obligation (see 22:16). God would be witness to the act and a witness against anyone who might break it. kindness: This exceedingly important term sometimes translated loyal love is often used in the Psalms to describe God's character (for example, Ps. 100:5). Here we see its proper context in a binding relationship. The term basically describes covenant loyalty (see 24:12).
- 21:25 It turned out that there was a dispute between the two concerning a well. For those who tended sheep and goats, water rights and wells mattered a great deal. Abimelech agreed to settle the issue promptly.
- 21:27 This is the first use of the word covenant for a parity treaty (15:18). A parity treaty is a binding agreement between two equals, similar to today's business contract. At 26:28 there is a parity treaty between Abimelech and Isaac, and at 31:43–55 there is a covenant between Jacob and Laban.
- 21:28–31 Abraham made the occasion all the more memorable by his presentation of seven ewe lambs to Abimelech. The Hebrew number seven is similar in sound to the verb meaning "to swear" (see v. 24). Thus Beersheba would be the well where they swore and the well of the seven ewe lambs. In the next generation the ritual would be repeated with a similar meaning given to the site (see 26:33).
- 21:33 The hope was that the tamarisk tree would long mark the spot of this major treaty. called on the name: As in 12:8, Abraham did more than just pray to the Lord; he made proclamation in the Lord's name, telling everyone about the LORD, the Everlasting God, the Master of eternity. Not only does He live forever, but He meets the needs of His people for all eternity.
- 21:34 Although Abraham had been promised the whole of the land for his posterity (see 12:7; 15:18–21), in his own life he lived under agreements with others in their land (Heb. 11:13–16). The name Palestine comes from the word for Philistine.
- 22:1–19 Without question, this narrative is one of the most shocking and memorable in the whole Bible. And yet in its outcome it is one of the finest texts describing the loyalty of the Lord to His covenant and to His servant Abraham. It also reveals remarkable faith on the part of Abraham, Sarah, and Isaac and points to the future sacrifice of God's only Son, Jesus.
- 22:1 after these things: A new story is about to begin (15:1). The term God includes the definite article ("the God"; see 6:2; 27:28; 31:11; 46:3; 48:15). This is a way of indicating that the "Genuine Deity" or the "True God" is making these demands, not a false god or a demon. Note that the same use of the definite article occurs in 41:32 twice. This is the seventh time that God revealed Himself to Abraham since Abraham came to the land of Canaan. God tested Abraham in order to give Abraham an opportunity to show his true character.
- 22:2 only son: Abraham had one son by Hagar (ch. 16), and as we learn later he had six sons by Keturah (ch. 25). But only Isaac was uniquely born (the same idea is in the description of Jesus as the "only begotten," John 1:18). Indeed, the Greek term for "only begotten" is used to describe Isaac in Heb. 11:17. The point is not that Abraham had no other children, but that this was the unique child in whom all the promises of God resided. But that wasn't the only reason God's command would test Abraham's faith—this was Isaac, the son who had brought God's "laughter" to Abraham and Sarah (21:12). Moriah: "Where the Lord Provides" or "Where the Lord Appears." burnt offering: Abraham was not simply to strike his son and wound him, and then nurse him back to health. He was commanded to go through the steps of offering a sacrifice that burned an animal or person entirely. The toll of this command on Abraham and Sarah must have been enormous. What a poignant picture of what our God did to His unique Son for us!
- 22:3 Nothing is said of Abraham's thoughts, or the thoughts of the boy's mother. All we read is the account of the father's complete obedience to God (see 12:4; 17:23; cf. Noah's complete obedience, 6:22; 7:5). Difficult, heavy tasks were usually done in the early morning because of the heat of the midday in this part of the world (18:1).

22:5 If the servants had accompanied Abraham and his son to the sacrificial site, they might have tried to restrain him from his awful deed. He told them to stay with the donkey, he and his son were on their way to worship the Lord. we will come back: In the Hebrew text, these words are even more arresting than in a translation. The three verbs all show a strong determination on the part of the speaker (see also 12:2): "We are determined to go, we are determined to worship, we are determined to return." There are three possibilities for Abraham's speech: (1) he was lying to the servants to buy time; (2) he was suffering from delusion, and no longer speaking rationally; or (3) he believed that he and the boy would return. He had heard, many times, God's promise to create a nation through Isaac (12:1–3, 7; 13:14–17; 15:1–21; 17:1–22; 18:1–15). He still believed it. He had concluded that even if he had to destroy his son, God would bring him back from death (see Heb. 11:17–19). Only in this way could Abraham have gone ahead with the task before him.

22:6 The fire would be live coals in a clay pot of some kind. A special knife was used in sacrificial worship.

22:7 My father . . . where is the lamb: Isaac still did not know what Abraham planned to do.

22:8 for Himself: The wording is stronger in this order: "God Himself will provide." went together: These words appear again in v. 19.

22:9 the place: The site of Moriah is significant (see vv. 2–4, 14). bound Isaac: Jewish scholars call this text "the binding of Isaac." At this point, Isaac knew that he was the sacrificial victim. Surely he could have run away from his aged father! Yet, like the Savior on an even darker day (John 10:17, 18), he was willing to do his father's will (Mark 14:36).

22:11, 12 the Angel of the LORD: An appearance of God (16:7; cf. 24:7; 48:16). At the last moment, God spoke to Abraham from heaven; twice He called out his name. Do not lay your hand: The words used demanded an instant response. Abraham was just about to strike his son, then God stopped his hand (see 15:1). now I know: Certainly God knew ahead of time how this event would end. But in these words, God stood beside his servant Abraham, experiencing each moment with him and applauding his complete trust (18:19). The term for fear means to hold God in awe; this is the central idea of piety in the Bible (Ex. 20:20; Prov. 1:7).

22:13 With his attention solely on the awful task at hand, Abraham had not seen the ram until he looked for it. In an amazing manner, his earlier words of God's provision came to pass (v. 8).

22:14 The wonderful name The-LORD-Will-Provide is developed from the faith statement of Abraham to Isaac in v. 8. Compare the name of faith that Hagar gave to the Lord, "The-God-Who-Sees" (16:13). As God provided a ram instead of Abraham's son, so one day He would provide His own Son! Moriah is where Jerusalem and later the temple were built. And it was at Jerusalem that the Savior would die.

22:15–18 This is one of the texts that contain the Abrahamic covenant (see the list at 15:1–21)—God's unbreakable promise to create a nation through Isaac.

22:16 By Myself I have sworn means "By Myself I swear" or "I bring Myself under complete obligation." When a man took an oath, it was considered unchangeable (see 25:33). When God took an oath, His eternity guaranteed the fulfillment of His word.

22:17 blessing I will bless you: The doubling of these verbs and the ones that follow (multiplying I will multiply) is a Hebrew idiom that powerfully emphasizes the certainty of the action. as the stars . . . as the sand: This use of hyperbole or exaggeration on God's part (15:5; also 13:16) must have overwhelmed Abraham. In ancient walled cities, the structure protecting the gate was the most important; to control the gate was to control the city. Later, the blessing of her family on Rebekah would contain the same prayer for her (24:60).

22:18 At times the term seed refers to a large number of descendants (as in 13:16); at other times it refers to one unique descendant, the Coming One (as here, also Gal. 3:16). Here it is a grand play on words: The seed was Isaac; and by extension the Jewish nation; and the Seed was also Jesus.

(Heb. zera') (3:15; 13:15; 15:3; 22:18; 28:13; Ps. 89:4) Strong's #2233

The Hebrew word translated seed can literally mean a seed sown in the ground (1:11, 12) or figuratively one's offspring or descendants (13:15). The word can refer to a large group of people, such as the descendants of Abraham or the nation of Israel, or to an individual. In some parts of Genesis it refers specifically to the coming Messiah, as in God's promise that the woman's "Seed" would defeat the serpent (3:15; see Num. 24:7; Is. 6:13; Gal. 3:16). As such, the term takes on great importance in the Bible: It is through Abraham's seed, both collectively in Israel and singularly in Christ, that God would reach out to save all people (15:3).

22:19 As he had said (v. 5), Abraham returned with his son, and they all went together (v. 8) back to Beersheba.

22:20–24 Milcah: The family of Nahor had first been noted at 11:29. It is touching to observe that there was correspondence between the families; but this genealogical notice also leads to the birth of Rebekah, who would figure significantly in the story to follow. This little piece is one of the family histories that help tie the Bible together.

23:1 Sarah's 127 years allowed her to see her son Isaac reach adulthood.

23:2 Kirjath Arba means the "Village of Arba" or the "Village of Four" (see Josh. 14:15). Abraham had lived for a while near Hebron at the location of some ancient terebinth trees (13:18; 18:1; 23:17). At this point the name Canaan would be particularly bitter to Abraham. None of the land was his. He had negotiated for water rights and herding privileges (21:22–34), but the land was not his; it still belonged to the Canaanites (12:6).

23:3 The Hittites had their principal center in Anatolia (modern Turkey). But there were some enclaves of Hittites (sons of Heth) in Canaan (see 15:20), and the region of Hebron was apparently one of them. It was with Hittites that Abraham negotiated to buy a burial spot for his beloved wife Sarah.

23:4 I am a foreigner and a visitor: Abraham was a "resident alien" in the land. His words were self-deprecating, to help him establish a bargaining position.

23:6 The sons of Heth (Hittites) responded with complimentary words. The adjective mighty is the term for deity (elohim as in 1:1). As an act of kindness, the Hittites let Abraham use one of their places for the burial of his dead family members.

23:7–11 Abraham stood up and bowed: Abraham's posture followed the customs of the time (see also v. 12). Abraham was not willing to bury Sarah in a borrowed tomb; he wanted to have a place that would belong to his family long after his death. His words meet with Ephron indicated that he wanted to purchase some property, the cave of Machpelah. Ephron the Hittite responded to Abraham's request by generously offering to give him what he sought, plus the nearby field as well.

23:13 I will give you money: He was not interested in the field, and he offered again to buy the cave. (Perhaps he believed a gift so easily given might as easily be withdrawn at a later time.) In any case, by money Abraham did not mean coins as we might think today. Coins were not invented until at least 650 B.C. Abraham was offering a generous weight of silver.

23:15 The dialogue of the chapter is wonderful; it presents a step-by-step description of the bargaining process. Ephron gave the purchase price, then seemed to dismiss it (What is that between you and me?).

23:16 Abraham weighed out the silver: He could have received the property without cost, but since he paid the agreed upon amount there could be no question at a later date.

23:17 Abraham had to purchase not only the field and the cave, but also the trees. This meant that he was responsible for the maintenance of these trees as well. All was done in the formal, legal manner of the time. The record is fascinating to read, but also noteworthy for this: the only land Abraham ever really possessed was a burial spot for his wife.

23:19 Abraham buried Sarah. Years later, Abraham would be buried in the same cave (25:10).

24:1–67 The passage tells how an unnamed servant of Abraham found a suitable wife for Isaac. The account is marked by a lingering style, with the loving details and repetition so treasured by the storytellers in Hebrew tradition. Above all it records the kind providence of the Lord toward His people.

24:2 Some have thought the oldest servant to be Eliezer of 15:2 because of his high position over all that Abraham had.

24:3 swear by the LORD: Such an oath indicated how exceedingly important the matter was to Abraham. from the daughters of the Canaanites: This was not an issue of racism, as is sometimes thought—it was theological. The Canaanite peoples worshiped the false gods Baal and Asherah (see 15:16; cf. Deut. 7:3).

24:7 Abraham repeated a major theme of God’s covenant to him. His descendants would inherit the land (see list at 15:1–21). His angel: This phrase is grammatically equivalent to the expression “the Angel of the LORD.” It is a way of referring to God’s presence (see 16:7; 22:11; 48:16).

24:10 The possession of camels in this ancient period was regarded as a mark of extraordinary wealth. Mesopotamia means “Aram of the Two Rivers.” The location is northern Syria beyond the Euphrates (cf. the location of Balaam’s homeland, Num. 22:5; 23:7). The city of Nahor is known as Haran (11:31).

24:12 O LORD God of my master Abraham: This language does not mean that the servant himself did not believe in the living God; rather, it was because of his faith that he prayed in this manner. The Lord had made His covenant with Abraham. The servant was making his appeal on the basis of God’s covenant loyalty to Abraham, as is seen in his appeal to God’s kindness (His covenant loyalty, 21:23). In the Psalms, this is the principal word used to describe God’s “loyal love” (Ps. 100:5).

24:15 Rebekah’s name may mean “Ensnaring Beauty.” She was of the family circle of Abraham (22:20–23).

24:16 Such commentary on a woman’s beautiful appearance is rare in the Bible (see the description of Sarai in 12:11; Rachel in 29:17; Joseph in 39:6; cf. 1 Sam. 16:12). Her chastity is noted: a virgin; no man had known her. The word translated virgin is not a precise term; hence the clarification, “no man had known her.”

24:19 I will draw water for your camels: This gesture went far beyond her social duties. This was precisely the proof that the servant had requested from the Lord.

24:23 Whose daughter are you: In biblical times, a young woman’s identity was closely tied to her father’s (see Ruth 2:5), and a married woman’s to her husband’s. After stating her family ties (v. 24; see 22:20–23), Rebekah responded that there was plenty of room for him to lodge with them (v. 25).

24:26 Abraham's servant was overwhelmed by God's grace, so he worshiped the LORD. He prostrated himself to the ground (the meaning of worshiped; see 19:1; 22:5). No wonder Abraham had so greatly trusted him (vv. 1–9).

24:27 Blessed be the LORD: In these and the following words, Abraham's servant gave God true, public praise, as is later to be found in the Book of Psalms (for example, Ps. 105:1, 2). Mercy and truth together mean something like "the Lord's utterly unswerving loyalty."

24:29 We tend to remember Laban from his subsequent dealings with Jacob (chs. 29–31). Here he appears to be a gentle servant of God, recognizing Abraham's servant with gracious hospitality (v. 31).

24:50, 51 It is surprising that Bethuel the father was not more active in these proceedings (vv. 29–31). Perhaps he was aged or infirm; in any event, Laban, Rebekah's brother, seems to be the one making decisions. The thing comes from the LORD: In these words and in Laban's first responses to the servant of Abraham (v. 31), it appears that the family of Bethuel and Laban also worshiped the living God (see 11:27–12:4; Josh. 24:2). Here is Rebekah: Brother and father recognized the work of God and they responded graciously and immediately.

24:52 Before doing anything else, Abraham's servant worshiped the LORD by prostrating himself before God and by giving public acknowledgment of His provision (v. 26).

24:53 In the manner of the East and with the abundance that belonged to Abraham, the servant gave lovely and costly gifts of jewelry, first to Rebekah and then to her family. Again the father is not mentioned.

24:58 Until now nothing had been said about Rebekah's desires, but her words I will go showed her willingness.

24:59 It was no easier for this family to send away their beloved daughter and sister Rebekah than it would be for us. This was an act of courage and faith in the Lord for all concerned.

24:60 they blessed Rebekah: In the customs of the ancient Middle East, the family gave a formal blessing on her wedded life (see Ruth 4:11, 12). These words were not mere sentiment nor were they a magical charm, but a prayer for God's blessing on her life. The mother of thousands of ten thousands: The two poetic lines echo the promise of God to Abraham and Sarah (17:15, 16). The term translated ten thousands means "myriads," "uncountable." It may be a play on the name Rebekah because in Hebrew the words sound similar. As in God's promise to Abraham (22:17), the possession of the gates of one's enemies meant power over them.

24:61–63 Rebekah and her maids must have made quite an entourage as they took off that day from Haran. Meanwhile, Isaac was also on the move (v. 62). Beer Lahai Roi was named in the story of Hagar's first expulsion from Abraham and Sarah's household (16:13, 14).

24:62 The South is the Negev (see 12:9; 13:1).

24:63 The precise meaning of the term translated to meditate is in dispute; perhaps it means "to walk about in thought."

24:65 In the manner of the East, wearing a veil would have been appropriate behavior for a young, unmarried woman who was about to come into the company of a man.

24:66 From the earlier recital to Laban (vv. 32–49), we can imagine the enthusiasm of the servant speaking to Isaac.

24:67 Isaac brought Rebekah to his mother's tent, a public act. his wife, and he loved her: Only rarely in the Bible do we read of romantic love (see the Book of Ruth). But the Song of Solomon rhapsodizes on it. Isaac's sense of grief at the death of his mother was now replaced by joy in the newness of married love. The story is lovely as it stands—a dramatic portrayal of God's kind providence toward His people.

25:1 The Hebrew phrase again took can be interpreted as "had taken." Keturah: She was not Abraham's second official wife. Instead she was a concubine (see v. 6; 1 Chr. 1:32). As an unofficial wife, Keturah was probably with Abraham for life. Her sons had a status similar to that of

- Ishmael, Abraham's son by Hagar (ch. 16), but without Ishmael's particular blessing (see 16:10–16).
- 25:2 Midian was the father of the Midianites, some of whom later bought Joseph from his brothers (see 36:35; 37:28, 36).
- 25:5 As the legal firstborn, Isaac received the grand share of his father's fortune; beyond that, he received the blessing of God (v. 11; 26:2–5).
- 25:6 The concubines were Hagar and Keturah. To protect Isaac's inheritance after his death, Abraham gave appropriate gifts to his lesser sons and sent them away.
- 25:7 God gave Abraham a long life as He had promised (see 12:2; 15:15).
- 25:8 gathered to his people: A burial. The phrase also indicates that there is an afterlife (see 15:15; 35:29; 49:33).
- 25:9, 10 Abraham purchased the cave of Machpelah for the burial of his wife Sarah (ch. 23).
- 25:11 God blessed Isaac because He had already established “an everlasting covenant” with him (see 17:19; Heb. 11:17). Later God renewed the covenant with Isaac (26:2–5). Beer Lahai Roi means “The Well of the One Who Lives and Who Sees Me.” At this well, an Angel of the Lord had appeared to Hagar (see 16:7–14).
- 25:12–18 genealogy of Ishmael: This passage distinguishes Ishmael's line, the line of the lesser promise (16:10–15), from Isaac's line (starting at v. 19), the line of the greater promise (for other genealogies in Genesis see the list at 2:4).
- 25:16 God fulfilled his promise to Abraham (17:20). The descendants of Ishmael had twelve princes to govern them, just as the Israelites were divided into twelve tribes (ch. 49).
- 25:18 They dwelt: The descendants of Ishmael lived in a large area, including the Arabian peninsula and the desert land between Canaan and Mesopotamia.
- 25:19 genealogy of Isaac: There are ten significant genealogies in Genesis (see the list at 2:4).
- 25:20 The story of the marriage of Rebekah and Isaac is recorded in ch. 24.
- 25:21 The Hebrew verb for pleaded indicates that Isaac prayed passionately for his wife. For examples of passionate prayer, see Ex. 8:30; 2 Sam. 21:14; 24:25. Isaac waited 20 years for God to grant his prayer (vv. 20, 26). barren: Rebekah experienced a period of infertility just like Sarah, Rachel, and Leah (see 16:1; 29:31; 30:9). After a period of barrenness, the LORD specifically gave each child in the line of promise.
- 25:22 struggled: Rebekah's pregnancy was difficult. It seemed as though the two children were competing in her womb. inquire: In the context of sacrificial worship, Rebekah prayed to the Lord.
- 25:23 The LORD spoke directly to Rebekah (16:8–11). Two nations: A theme of two sons recurs in Genesis: the sons of Eve (ch. 4), the sons of Tamar and Judah (38:27–30), and the sons of Joseph (ch. 48). In the ancient Middle East, the firstborn would have preeminence. But this time God chose to bless the younger.
- 25:24 The birth of twins was regarded as a special blessing.
- 25:25 The name Esau sounds like the Hebrew word that means “hairy.”
- 25:26 The younger brother grasped for his older brother's heel from birth. The Hebrew word that means “heel” sounds similar to the name Jacob. The name may mean either “He Who Grasps at the Heel (of Another)” or “He (the Lord) Is at His Heels (Is His Protector).” Later, Esau would taunt Jacob with the negative connotations of his name (see 27:36). Eventually God gave Jacob a new name, Israel (32:28).
- 25:27 hunter . . . mild man: The contrasting temperaments and interests of the two sons is similar to the contrast between Cain and Abel (4:2).
- 25:28 Isaac loved Esau: The following story illustrates the folly of parental favoritism.
- 25:30 The ruddy color of his complexion (v. 25) was tied to his strong desire for the red food and later to the red land he inherited (36:8). Now Esau was known as “Red”—that is, Edom.
- 25:31 Esau, as the firstborn, had a birthright to a double portion of the family estate. Moreover, he inherited from Isaac the privilege of an everlasting covenant with God (12:1–3).

- 25:33 Swear to me: The formal oath, even though unwitnessed, would have been regarded as binding by both parties.
- 25:34 The Hebrew verb for despised implies utter contempt (Num. 15:31; 2 Sam. 12:9; Mal. 1:6). Esau scorned God's promises given to the heirs of Isaac.
- 26:1 An earlier famine occurred during the days of Abraham and led to Abraham going to Egypt (12:10–20). Abraham later had a similar misadventure in Gerar (ch. 20), a story that amazingly was repeated in some ways in the life of his son in the present narrative. The Philistines came to the coastland of Canaan following their defeat by the Egyptians around 1200 B.C. The Egyptians called them the "Sea Peoples." The Philistines were apparently Greek peoples who migrated eastward (see 1 Sam. 4:1; 2 Sam. 5:17).
- 26:2 The LORD appeared to Isaac for the first time on record. Interestingly, God had already spoken to Rebekah (see 25:22, 23). Even though Egypt's conditions may have been hospitable, the Lord prohibited Isaac from going to Egypt as his father had during the earlier famine (12:10).
- 26:3 bless you: The Lord fulfilled His promise to Abraham concerning Isaac (17:19). He established His everlasting covenant with Isaac, just as He had with Abraham.
- 26:4 God promised to make Isaac's descendants innumerable as the stars because of His covenant with Abraham (22:17). God promised to bless the entire world, all the nations, through Abraham's descendants (12:3; 22:18; 28:14).
- 26:6 Gerar was better for farming than the arid regions of the Negev.
- 26:7 Rebekah was a close relative, 22:20–23 but not Isaac's sister. Isaac was even more deceitful than his father Abraham was (see 20:2, 12).
- 26:8 showing endearment: This Hebrew wordplay on the name Isaac literally means "He Who Laughs was laughing with Rebekah his wife."
- 26:9, 10 how could you: A sense of moral outrage from the Philistine king. Ironically, Abimelech became the protector of Isaac and his wife.
- 26:12, 13 God's special work for Abraham was extended to the son. The LORD blessed him so much that he became very prosperous and the envy of his neighbors.
- 26:15 Abraham had made a covenant with Abimelech concerning the rights to wells (see 21:22–34). But enmity had led to acts of sabotage against these old wells.
- 26:17 Although Isaac moved from Gerar, he did not leave the area.
- 26:18 On the basis of Isaac's rights to the water in the area, his men dug new wells, giving these wells the same names as the old ones.
- 26:21 Sitnah is related to the Hebrew term for Satan.
- 26:23 Isaac moved out of Gerar as the famine ended and water became more available. He returned to Beersheba, the land of his youth (22:19).
- 26:24 God of your father Abraham: God was faithful. He promised to the son what He had already promised to the father. This passage repeats the Abrahamic covenant (see the references at 15:1–21).
- 26:25 Isaac followed the practice of his father (see 12:8). He made an altar and called on the name of the LORD: At this altar Isaac not only prayed to the Lord, he also affirmed the reality of the living God in this special land (12:8; 21:33).
- 26:26 Abimelech came to end the animosity between his people and Isaac's family because he recognized God's blessing on Isaac (vv. 28, 29). Ahuzzath . . . and Phichol: These associates of Abimelech would witness the agreement.
- 26:28 the LORD is with you: This was God's design. He wanted to bless Abraham's family because Abraham and his family followed Him. Then, God's extraordinary blessing on His people would attract others to Himself (12:2, 3). The covenant formally bound both parties. The covenant here was as between two equals (for similar covenants, see Abraham and Abimelech in 21:2–34; Laban and Jacob in 31:43–55). The covenant between God and Abraham was of a different type—a covenant between a king and a servant (15:18).

- 26:30 ate and drank: This ceremonial meal expressed the new relationship and memorialized the alliance (27:3, 4; 31:46, 54).
- 26:31 peace: The Hebrew term shalom suggests that things were as they ought to be between the two contracting parties.
- 26:32 Either a brand-new well or a redigging of Abraham's well at that location (21:30, 31). The discovery of water was regarded as a blessing from God on their actions.
- 26:33 Shebah: The name is a wordplay on the Hebrew words that mean "swear" (v. 31) and "seven." The name Beersheba may mean either "Well of the Oath" or "Well of the Seven."
- 26:34 Esau married Hittite women, who believed in many different gods. His parents wanted him to marry a woman who worshiped the living God (27:46; 28:8; 36:1–8). The name Judith is related to the word that means "praise." She is not mentioned among the wives of Esau in ch. 36. Perhaps, the marriage did not last. The name Basemath means "Fragrant."
- 27:1 Isaac was old: Isaac actually did not die for many years (35:27–29). His actions were precautionary. his eyes: Isaac's failed vision allowed Jacob and his mother to trick him (vv. 11–29). For other blessings affected by Isaac's vision, see 48:8–22. Ordinarily, a father would give the primary blessing to the firstborn, in this case Esau (25:29–34). Yet God worked contrary to cultural expectations and Isaac's favoritism (37:4). God had already blessed the younger (25:23).
- 27:4 Isaac wanted to memorialize his blessing on Esau with a ceremonial meal of savory food (see v. 30). my soul: This phrase is simply a substitute for the personal pronoun, "I."
- 27:8 obey my voice: Rebekah wanted to circumvent the blessing that her husband planned to give to Esau. Here Rebekah appears to be calculating and devious. Yet God had told her that her younger son would have precedence over the older (25:23).
- 27:11, 12 Jacob wanted to know how he could pass as his brother. Esau had been hairy from birth (25:25). deceiver: Jacob feared that he would be discovered, not that he was doing wrong.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Clothing

The warmth of Canaan's climate led the people to prefer loose-fitting clothes, while the drab landscape may have contributed to their preference for bright colors in their garments. Clothing styles remained essentially the same throughout the period covered by the Old and New Testaments. Clothing was made from simple material, such as leather or goat's hair. In the early period of their history, the Hebrews were a people who tended flocks and herds. Thus they wove most of their clothes from plentiful wool. The flax plant provided linen for the more formal clothing of the priests or the wealthier classes. Many Hebrew homes had looms for weaving cloth. Colorful embroidery enlivened the fancier clothes. Purple dye was taken from a Mediterranean shellfish. Red came from insects taken from oak trees. Pomegranate and other plants provided blue dye.

Semites depicted on Beni-Hassan tomb painting. Note the brightly-colored, loose-fitting clothing.

- 27:18–20 I am Esau: Jacob lied, then his lies led him to blasphemy.
- 27:21–27 come near: Isaac had to feel Jacob (vv. 21, 22), hear him (v. 22), question him (v. 24), kiss and smell him (vv. 26, 27) before he finally believed Jacob's repeated lies. Each one of Jacob's lies needed another lie.
- 27:27–29 Ironically, Isaac began his blessing by describing the rustic smell of his son's clothing. peoples serve you: Isaac predicted that Jacob's descendants would obtain supremacy over other peoples. Jesus, as the King of kings and a descendant of Jacob, ultimately fulfilled this prediction (1 Tim. 6:14–16). master: This Hebrew word, related to a word meaning "hero," describes one who is valiant and powerful. mother's sons: Isaac intended that Jacob would bow to Esau. Yet because of Jacob's deception, Isaac blessed Jacob instead. Cursed . . . blessed: Unwittingly, Isaac blessed Jacob with the words originally spoken by the Lord to Abram (12:3). Jacob became the heir to the everlasting covenant between Abraham's descendants and the Lord.
- 27:32 Who are you: Surely Isaac recognized his older son's voice.
- 27:33 Isaac, in despair, realized he had been duped by his own son. he shall be blessed: In this ancient culture, words could not be easily withdrawn as they often are today. Isaac's words of blessing had power—indeed, they were backed by the power of the Lord (vv. 27–29). They could not be withdrawn.
- 27:34 he cried: Esau's anguish was unbearable. Bless me: Surely Isaac had reserved some blessing for Esau.
- 27:35 Jacob had stolen the blessing Isaac had intended for Esau. deceit: Later, Jacob would be deceived by his uncle Laban (29:25).
- 27:36–38 rightly named: One meaning of the name Jacob is "He Who Grasps at the Heel (of Another)." Jacob lived up to the meaning of his name by trying to steal Esau's right as the firstborn. Actually, the blessing was one of the birthrights of the firstborn son. Esau, as the firstborn, probably hoped to overcome the loss of his birthright (25:29–34) with Isaac's powerful blessing. As it turned out, Jacob achieved both through underhanded means. The blessing was irrevocable (v. 37). Have you only one blessing: Esau repeated his pleas (v. 34). This repetition suggests a prolonged period of grieving.
- 27:39 Behold: The blessing for Esau was much weaker than the blessing for Jacob (for the "reserve blessing" for Ishmael, see 16:11, 12).
- 27:40 The blessing affirmed that Esau's descendants would serve his brother. Yet eventually they would free themselves from domination.
- 27:42–45 Apparently Esau revealed his evil decision to someone. Again, Rebekah intervened to help her favorite son. Laban was Rebekah's brother and Haran was her homeland (ch. 24). Earlier, Laban had welcomed Abraham's servant (24:29). bereaved: Rebekah would lose both her sons if Esau killed Jacob—the one to death and the other, like Cain, to exile. Sadly, she died before Jacob returned (31:18; 35:27–29).
- 27:46 daughters of Heth: Rebekah spoke to Isaac about Jacob's future wife because they had already regretted Esau's marrying Hittite women (26:34, 35). Furthermore, Isaac had found Rebekah in Haran.

- 28:1 Isaac agreed with Rebekah that intermarriage with the pagan women of Canaan was dangerous. These women would bring their own false gods into the household.
- 28:2 Padan Aram is a region of Haran in northern Aram (Syria) near the Euphrates River.
- 28:3 God Almighty: This Hebrew name, El Shaddai, is used by or in the hearing of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (35:11). This is the second time it is used in Genesis. God later identified Himself to Moses with this same name (Ex. 6:3).
- 28:4 Isaac formally passed on to his son Jacob the blessing that God had first given to his father Abraham (12:1–3). descendants: The Hebrew term seed may refer to a single individual (3:15) or to a number of people. This same term is used in prophecy to designate the coming Messiah, Jesus Christ (see Num. 24:7; Is. 6:13).
- 28:6–9 Esau attempted to find favor in Isaac’s eyes by doing what Isaac wished. By marrying Mahalath the daughter of Ishmael, Esau believed he had met the standard Isaac had given Jacob (v. 1). Sadly, Esau could not regain his lost blessing. Mahalath is the same woman as Basemath, the daughter of Ishmael, in 36:2. Her name probably means “Dance.”
- 28:13 I am the LORD: God identified Himself as the God whom both Abraham and Isaac believed. Later, He becomes known as the God of Jacob (Ex. 3:15). Isaac, in his blessing, predicted Jacob would inherit this land (vv. 3, 4). Now God promised it!
- 28:14 The Lord ratified Isaac’s blessing on Jacob’s descendants (vv. 3, 4). all the families: Every time the covenant was renewed, God repeated His promise to show mercy to all people through Abraham’s descendants (12:3; 22:18; 26:4). Seed refers to Jacob’s sons; Jacob’s descendants, the nation of Israel; and the Promised One (as in 3:15; Is. 6:13).
- 28:15 I am with you: Right when Jacob was running away from the consequences of his lies, God mercifully chose to reaffirm His promises. Jacob was in no position to earn God’s favor. Yet God promised to be with him.
- 28:17 Afraid indicates a fear of God similar to terror. Awesome indicates a fear of God similar to wonder and worship (22:12; Ex. 20:20; Prov. 1:7). In Jacob’s case, these twin emotions were mixed together. house of God . . . gate of heaven: God and heaven had come down to the very place where Jacob was sleeping!
- 28:18 stone . . . as a pillar: To commemorate the great event, Jacob set a stone on end and poured oil on top to consecrate it to God. Later he would refer to the Lord as “The Stone of Israel” (49:24). For Moses’ use of oil to consecrate the tabernacle, see Lev. 8:10–12.
- 28:19 Bethel means “House of God.” God had also appeared to Abraham near Bethel (12:7–8).
- 28:20 vow: Although Jacob made a conditional promise to be faithful to God, he based it on God’s promises to him (v. 15).
- 28:22 Jacob promised to give a tenth of his possessions to God. His grandfather Abraham had given the same proportion to Melchizedek, the priest of God Most High (14:20). Later, the Mosaic Law required giving a tenth to God (Deut. 14:22).
- 29:1 The people of the East were not Canaanites.
- 29:2 Shepherds would naturally gather at a well. As in the case of Abraham’s servant (24:10, 11), Jacob met Rachel at a well, perhaps even at the same well. Because God allowed a number of significant events to occur at wells, they become a symbol of God’s blessing and care (see 16:14; 21:19, 30; 26:32; Is. 12:3; John 4:1–26).
- 29:5 The term son is being used in a loose sense. Nahor was actually the grandfather of Laban (22:20–23). Laban’s father was Bethuel (24:15, 50).
- 29:6 Rachel is a term of endearment, meaning “Ewe Lamb.” As the daughter of his mother’s brother, Rachel was a cousin of Jacob.
- 29:9 still speaking: Rachel’s arrival at that moment is a mirror of Rebekah’s action to Abraham’s servant so long ago (24:15–20). Again, God’s timing is perfect (for Boaz and Ruth, see Ruth 2:3).
- 29:11 kissed Rachel: Doubtless Jacob had heard the story of his mother’s encounter with the servant of Abraham many times. He knew their meeting was from God.

29:16 Leah was Rachel's older sister. Her name may be a term of endearment meaning "Wild Cow."

29:17 Delicate signifies a special loveliness in her eyes, or perhaps a weakness. beautiful of form: Rachel's description is similar to the descriptions of Sarai (12:11) and of Rebekah (24:16).

29:18 loved Rachel: A rare biblical example of "love at first sight" (for his father's similar response to Rebekah, see 24:67). The long seven years of service provides a stunning demonstration of the value Jacob placed on Rachel.

29:20 seemed only a few days: A rare statement in the Bible on romantic love.

29:22 The Hebrew term feast indicates that there was drinking.

29:23 A public feast in recognition of the union made the marriage between Jacob and Leah official—even though Leah was the wrong woman.

29:25 The Hebrew name deceived means "to act treacherously with" or "to betray" (1 Sam. 19:17). Jacob the deceiver had been deceived by Laban (27:35).

29:26 must not be done: The cultural necessity of Laban's actions is doubtful.

29:27 Laban deceived Jacob in order to get another seven years' work from him (for more of Laban's sharp deals, see 31:7, 41). Jacob loved Rachel so much that he was willing to work another seven years (v. 28).

29:29 As did Zilpah (v. 24), Bilhah later served as a surrogate mother when Rachel was barren (30:3–8).

29:31 Unloved actually means "hated." The Lord graciously enabled Leah to conceive a child because she was unloved. The culture of the ancient Middle East placed value on a woman who could bear a child, especially a son. Although she was the beloved wife of Jacob, Rachel could not conceive. She desired Leah's ability to conceive, and Leah desired the love that Jacob showered on Rachel.

29:32 Leah praised God for giving her a son. Perhaps Leah joyfully shouted "Behold a Son!" at Reuben's birth.

29:33 The name Simeon celebrates the fact that the Lord hears. He had heard Leah's prayers and He knew about her tragic relationship with Jacob.

29:34 Later, God chose the tribe of Levi to become priests and caretakers of the tabernacle. Then, the name Levi implied "Attached to the Lord."

30:1 The Hebrew verb for envied describes a strong inner feeling of rage (see also 37:11). Rachel's envy mirrored Sarai's envy of Hagar (see ch. 16).

30:3 Rachel's desperation led her to bring her maid Bilhah to Jacob as a surrogate wife (for Sarah doing the same thing with Hagar, see ch. 16). This was accepted practice in the ancient Middle East to protect an infertile wife. A woman could be divorced if she failed to conceive.

30:6 Dan: In giving a name related to the Hebrew word that means "judge," Rachel thanked the Lord for hearing and answering her pleas.

30:8 With the name Naphtali, Rachel expressed the vehemence of her struggle with her sister.

30:9 The now infertile Leah used her maid Zilpah to acquire more sons.

30:13 Leah was happy because of her numerous sons, so she named her son Asher.

30:14 Mandrakes are a special type of herb that the peoples of the ancient Middle East regarded as an aid to conception. Their aroma was associated with lovemaking (Song 7:13). Reuben's discovery of the mandrakes led to another squabble between Leah and Rachel. In the end, Leah hired Jacob for a night with her.

30:21 The name Dinah is related to the word that means "judgment."

30:22 Finally, God enabled Rachel to have a child. The three verbs, remembered, listened, and opened, emphasize that conception is a gift from God.

30:23 my reproach: In Rachel's culture a married woman without children was scorned.

30:24 By giving Rachel a son, God had removed her shame and brought joy to her life.

30:25 With the birth of Joseph by his beloved wife, Jacob was ready to go to his own place. Jacob had always wanted to return to Canaan (27:43, 44). Indeed, God had promised to bring him back to his homeland (28:4, 15).

- 30:26 Since Genesis speaks only of Laban's daughters during Jacob's visit, Laban probably did not have a son at the time (29:16). Therefore he adopted Jacob as his son and principal heir. The Code of Hammurabi attests that this was a common practice in the ancient Middle East. As the principal heir, Jacob and his family were regarded as a part of Laban's household (v. 43). But in the intervening years, Laban had fathered sons who would threaten Jacob's status in the family (31:1). Hence he asked Laban to let him go.
- 30:27 God had promised to bless others through Abraham's descendants (12:2, 3). Now, God blessed Laban through Jacob, and later He would bless an Egyptian household through Joseph (39:5).
- 30:28 Name me your wages: These words must have sounded hollow to Jacob, given his earlier experience in striking a deal with Laban (29:15–30; 31:7).
- 30:32 Presumably, the speckled and spotted sheep would be the smaller part of the flock. The deal was to Laban's advantage.
- 30:33 my righteousness: Jacob asserted his trustworthiness.
- 30:36 three days' journey: A distance of about 60 miles separated Jacob's and Laban's herds so the animals would not mix. Jacob still tended Laban's flocks.
- 30:37 rods of green poplar: Jacob placed sticks of various colors in the watering troughs to symbolize his belief that God would bless him with more speckled and spotted lambs (see v. 27; cf. 31:5, 9, 10). Indeed, God blessed Jacob as He had promised (28:13–15). Jacob added all the speckled and spotted animals to his own herd.
- 30:41 With the symbolic multicolored rods, Jacob asked God to bless him with speckled and spotted animals from the stronger livestock in Laban's herd. Indeed, God promised to do just that in a dream (31:10), and Jacob became wealthy (v. 43).
- 31:1 These sons probably were born to Laban after Jacob had arrived in Haran (30:26). Concerned about their welfare, the sons accused Jacob of being a thief.
- 31:3 God repeated the promises He gave Jacob at Bethel. He promised to be with Jacob as he returned to his homeland. This promise, I will be with you, is in fact related to the very name of God, Yahweh (see Ex. 3:12, 14). Verses 11–13 describe more of this revelation.

Jacob's Journeys

- (1) The Euphrates-Balikh River basin was Jacob's destination as he fled from Esau, ultimately reaching the home of his maternal uncle (Laban) near Haran.
- (2) Jacob's lengthy sojourn ended in a dispute with Laban and another flight—this time back to Canaan. His route likely took him toward Aleppo, then to Damascus and Edrei before reaching Peniel on the Jabbok River.
- (3) He and his dependents reached the hill country of Gilead before their caravan was overtaken by Laban. The covenant at Mizpah was celebrated on one of the hills later used as a border station between Syrian and Israelite territories.
- (4) Jacob lingered at Succoth, entered Canaan, and proceeded to Shechem, where he erected an altar to the Lord.

31:8 speckled . . . streaked: Apparently, Laban kept on switching the deal as he watched the births of a variety of colored animals. But with every new deal, God always increased Jacob's herd.

31:11 The Angel of God may be translated The Angel of Genuine Deity. God revealed Himself in Jacob's dream (see 28:13–17; 32:22–30). Jacob: Here, God used the positive meaning of the name Jacob “He (the Lord) Supplants.” For the negative sense, see 25:26; 27:36. In the past, Jacob (“He Who Supplants”) had achieved what he wanted by deceit and trickery. Now he had achieved great wealth because of God's blessing. The Lord is the Great Supplanter! Although Jacob's name was later changed to Israel (32:28), the name Jacob continued to be a term indicating God's work in Jacob's life (46:2; Ps. 114:7).

31:13 The Lord identified Himself as the same God who had revealed Himself to Jacob at Bethel (see 28:10–19).

31:14 Rachel and Leah agreed that it was proper to leave their father's home, despite the cultural ties that ordinarily would have kept them there (30:26). The births of sons to their father may have displaced their inheritance.

31:15 Both daughters resented the way their father had sold them (29:15). Furthermore, they argued that whatever God had taken from their father belonged to them anyway.

31:19 household idols: Laban's family was either polytheistic—believing in many gods—or henotheistic—believing in Yahweh as one god above all other gods (for Joshua's recollection of the polytheism of Abraham's relatives, see Josh. 24:1–3). In this culture, possession of the household idols was the right of the principal heir. Rachel probably did not steal the idols in order to worship them, but to retain the rights of the principal heir for Jacob. Ultimately, the Lord's blessing on Jacob was more important for him than any rights derived from being Laban's principal heir.

31:24 in a dream: From time to time, God warned others not to harm His people (for Abimelech's dreams, see 20:3, 6; for God's encounter with Balaam, see Num. 22:12, 20).

31:26 The sudden departure, Laban charges, was similar to a raiding party that took captives.

31:29 God of your father: Only God's warning in v. 24 stilled Laban's rage.

31:31, 32 Jacob explained that he left in secret because of a genuine fear that he would not be permitted to leave with his family. Furthermore, he declared his household innocent of the alleged theft and cursed the thief of the idols with death.

31:33 Laban, certain that Jacob had stolen the idols, began his search in Jacob's tent. Last, he entered Rachel's tent. The fact that each wife had her own tent indicates that Jacob was rich.

31:34, 35 Rachel hid the idols in her saddlebags and sat on them while she made her excuses. Laban did not ask Rachel to move because of a male taboo respecting a woman who was experiencing her monthly period.

31:36 Jacob, in his anger, recited the woes of working for Laban. Trespass means to “overstep a boundary.” Sin means “to miss a target” (as an archer might do). These words are used more often of actions against God than man, of course.

31:37 they may judge: Jacob had some leverage. Laban had been humiliated before his own men. His resolve to stop Jacob necessarily had to weaken.

31:38 Jacob had served 14 years for his two wives (29:15–30). After that, he worked another six years for his flocks (see v. 41). not miscarried: Here, Jacob affirmed his superior skills in managing the herds and God's blessing.

31:39 Jacob never charged Laban for any loss so that he could never charge Jacob for mismanagement. Furthermore, Jacob described the seasonal extremes that he suffered.

31:42 the Fear of Isaac: This name for God means that Isaac feared God with a reverential awe (Ps. 119:120). rebuked you last night: Perhaps Jacob knew that God had appeared to Laban.

31:43 Laban considered Jacob's children part of his extended family because he had adopted Jacob as a son and principal heir.

31:44 Covenant in this situation refers to a parity covenant—an agreement between equals. The word witness refers to a lasting reminder of a significant agreement or to a testimony that can be used in a court.

31:45, 46 Jacob, for a second time, set up a stone as a memorial. On the way to Haran at Bethel, he had already set up a pillar to mark the place where God spoke to him (28:18). Later he would erect another pillar at Bethel (35:14). In addition to the stone pillar, they also made a stone heap (v. 51). A ceremonial meal memorialized the agreement (see 26:30). At this meal, Jacob and Laban ate some of the animals that had been sacrificed while making the covenant.

31:49 Mizpah means “Outlook Point” and is related to the Hebrew word that means “to watch.” God above had His eyes on both men to make them keep their covenant!

31:51, 52 The heap and the pillar were a double witness between the two men. Neither was to cross these symbols in order to harm the other.

31:53 The wording in Laban’s oath suggests that Abraham, Nahor, and their father Terah all worshiped the same God, the God of Abraham. Possibly, the family believed in the Lord as the one God above many other gods—henotheism (for an indication of Terah’s polytheism, cf. Josh. 24:1–3).

31:54 Jacob offered a sacrifice: This is the only time Genesis records Jacob engaging in sacrificial worship (cf. 12:7, 8; 22:13). ate bread: As in other cases, the act of eating together further solemnized the agreement (see 26:30).

32:1 the angels of God: In a magnificent display of His care for him, God allowed Jacob to see that he was not traveling alone.

32:2 Jacob discovered that God’s armies were encamped around his family’s camp.

32:3–5 Jacob sent messengers to Esau with a report of his life over the last 20 years and with a request for favor, that is, grace.

32:6 Jacob viewed his brother’s coming as a threat to his family, particularly when he learned that four hundred men were with him!

Payback

Sometimes good happens to us when we least expect it. Sometimes we receive far more good than we deserve.

When Jacob learned that Esau was approaching (32:6), he was terrified. Here was his older twin brother—the brother that he and his mother had cheated out of his rightful portion of the family inheritance (27:1–29)—coming toward him with four hundred men. Jacob assumed the worst. He cried out to God for mercy and deliverance (32:9–12) and sent his own extended family and his possessions to his brother’s “welcoming committee” (32:13–23).

Yet to Jacob’s surprise, Esau ran to him, embraced him, kissed him, and wept (33:4). This kind of grace was completely unexpected. It proved disarming to Jacob, and he could only respond by pressing his gifts on Esau, perhaps as a small remuneration for the lost inheritance (33:8–11).

Like Jacob, we, too, were extended grace and forgiveness when we least expected it—or deserved it. In providing salvation through Christ, God offers unmerited favor to people who actually deserve judgment (Rom. 3:23–25; 5:15–17; James 4:1–6).

Jacob insisted on paying back his brother, and Esau finally accepted. But we can never pay back God for what He has done for us. However, we can respond to His gift of love by showing that same kind of love to others, especially as God teaches us how (1 John 3:11–17).

- 32:7 Here, the Hebrew term for afraid refers to fright or terror (see 31:42). Jacob divided his family into two groups in order to save one from the rage of his brother.
- 32:9–11 Jacob prayed to God that he might be delivered from Esau's rage. The Hebrew term for father indicates either the immediate father or a more remote male ancestor. By mentioning both Isaac and Abraham, Jacob appealed to the God who had spoken to his fathers. Jacob reminded the LORD of His promises to him. Then Jacob confessed his humility before God's mercy in the words I am not worthy. Next, Jacob asked God to deliver him. He did not pray in generalities. Instead, he named his concern: Esau! Finally, he concluded with another appeal to God's promises. Christians today can likewise base their prayers on God's proven character and His promises in the Bible.
- 32:13–21 a present for Esau: Jacob had prayed in faith; now he acted in faith. He gave Esau an overabundance of gifts. By giving the gifts at three different times, Jacob hoped to appease Esau gradually.
- 32:24 Jacob had been struggling all his life; even at the moment of his birth he was struggling with Esau (see 25:26). Later he struggled with Laban (ch. 31). Yet right before meeting Esau, Jacob had the struggle of his life! He who had once grasped his brother's heel now clung to the bodily form of the living God. Some believe that the Man who wrestled Jacob was the preincarnate Jesus Christ. Others believe the Man was the Angel of God (21:17; 31:11). In any case, Jacob wrestled with a manifestation of God (vv. 28–30), and because of God's mercy he survived.
- 32:25, 26 He did not prevail: The Man could not turn Jacob away from the struggle—even though He could have easily defeated Jacob. This Hebrew verb translated touched refers to God's special touch—as when God touches the earth (Amos 9:5) or the human heart (1 Sam. 10:26). Here, God's touch caused pain (see Josh. 9:19; 2 Sam. 14:10). Yet Jacob would not give up. He would not release the Man until he received a blessing.
- 32:28 God had burst into Jacob's life, had given him the sure promises that were given to Abraham (28:13–15), and now—following a night-long struggle with him—He gave him a new name. The name Israel can mean “Prince with God,” or perhaps it carries the idea of struggling or persisting, as the wordplay in this passage implies.
- 32:29 Jacob asked for the Man's name because Jacob had given his name. The Man did not answer. But Jacob might have developed his own name for the Man who had wrestled with him: “The Mighty God of Jacob” (see 49:24). God would one day reveal His name more fully to Moses (see Ex. 3:14, 15).
- 32:31 Jacob's experience with God physically changed him—he limped. The experience also had a spiritual impact on his life.
- 32:32 to this day: As always in Genesis, this phrase means the day of the first readers of the book. The Jewish rule against eating this muscle continues into modern times within Judaism.
- 33:1 For all Jacob knew, Esau was coming with 400 men to destroy his family.
- 33:2 maidservants and their children in front: Jacob aligned his family in a pattern that would protect them. He placed his favorite wife, Rachel, in the rear.
- 33:3 bowed himself: With this gesture, Jacob expressed his sorrow for the way he had wronged Esau.
- 33:4 Instead of taking his revenge, Esau welcomed Jacob with joy. The event turned into a grand family reunion (for Joseph's family reunion, see 45:15).
- 33:10 your face as . . . face of God: Jacob presented his gifts to his brother as if they were gifts to God. In this manner, he reenacted Abraham's gifts to Melchizedek (14:20) and indeed, he fulfilled his vow to the Lord (28:22).
- 33:11 take my blessing: Before, Jacob had done all he could to take Esau's blessing (25:29–34; 27:1–45). Now a wiser man, Jacob wanted to bless his brother with what God had given him. He wanted to restore the broken relationship with his brother.

33:17 Jacob stopped his journey and built temporary shelters east of the Jordan, perhaps at Deir ‘Alla, one mile north of the Jabbok River.

33:18 Jacob retraced his grandparents’ route into Canaan through Shechem (12:6). Jacob did not live in the city, because it was devoted to pagan gods. Instead, he lived outside the city in a tent.

33:19 As his grandfather had purchased land for a burial place for Sarah (ch. 23), so Jacob bought a parcel of land. Even though God promised the entire land to Abraham’s family (see 12:7), they had to buy it one little piece at a time.

33:20 Jacob, now named Israel, built an altar for the worship of the Lord, just as his grandfather had (see 12:7). The name he gave the altar reflected his mature faith in “God, the God of Israel.” The God of Jacob’s fathers was now Jacob’s personal God, for He had fulfilled His promises and protected him (28:13–15).

34:1 Apparently Dinah was Leah’s only daughter (30:21). It was natural for her to seek the companionship of other women.

34:2, 3 Shechem noticed Dinah and forced her to have intercourse. The term violated translates the same word used for Amnon’s rape of Tamar (2 Sam. 13:12, 14). Despite what he did, Shechem loved Dinah. The expression spoke kindly literally means, “spoke to her heart.”

34:4 Shechem’s appeal to his father suggests that marriages were commonly arranged by parents.

34:5 When Jacob heard, he must have been enraged. The verb translated defiled means “to make unclean.”

34:14 uncircumcised: Here, Jacob’s sons took the symbol of their holy faith (see 17:9–14) and used it as a weapon against their foes.

34:18 Shechem proved his love for Dinah by his willingness to undergo circumcision as an adult.

34:27 Most likely, Jacob’s other sons joined Simeon and Levi in plundering the city. Jacob’s sons let righteous anger over sin turn into unrighteous, unforgiving vengeance (see Eph. 4:26).

34:30, 31 Jacob rebuked his sons for their terrible behavior (done in the name of the Lord). Instead of making the family a blessing to other nations (12:3), they were making the family obnoxious to its neighbors. The Hebrew word means “to stink.” Jacob’s family had become an embarrassing odor to their neighbors, something that at best needed to be ignored and at worst to be scorned. Sadly, Jacob’s sons did not repent. Instead, they protested their father’s rebuke.

35:1 God, for a fifth time, visited Jacob (see 28:10–16; 31:3, 11–13; 32:1, 22–30; see also vv. 9–15). After the debacle at Shechem (ch. 34), God told Jacob to continue to Bethel, the place where God had first appeared to him (28:10–19). Again, Jacob retraced his grandfather Abraham’s route (12:8). This is the first time in the Bible that God commanded an altar to be made for Him. Abraham constructed an altar, but no divine command was recorded (12:7, 8).

35:2 Jacob’s command included the household idols that Rachel had stolen (31:22–35) as well as any idols among his servants. These foreign gods were gods of other people, not of Jacob. Indeed, the only true and living God is Jacob’s God. purify yourselves, and change your garments: Jacob’s household prepared for an encounter with the living and holy God. They cleaned themselves. Later, the Israelites would clean themselves in similar ways at the foot of Mt. Sinai (Ex. 19).

35:3 I will make an altar: Jacob declared his intention to obey God’s command (v. 1). who answered me . . . has been with me: Jacob recalled God’s constant protection (ch. 32) and His fulfillment of His promises (28:13–15) as a reason to obey and worship God.

35:4 As suggested by the nearby phrase foreign gods, these earrings probably represented some form of idolatry. In two other passages, earrings are mentioned in connection with idolatry (Judg. 8:22–28; Hos. 2:13). In many other passages, earrings are simply items of jewelry (Ex. 32:2, 3; 35:22; Prov. 25:12). The terebinth tree is a long-living deciduous tree, such as an oak. The tree has red berries and leaves shaped like feathers. Because the tree lived a long time, ancient people often used the terebinth tree to commemorate important events or to mark places of worship (see Hos. 4:13).

35:5 God protected Jacob’s family as they traveled. The Hebrew term for terror is related to the verb meaning “to be shattered” or “to be dismayed” (for examples of the use of this verb for divine judgment, see Is. 7:8; 30:31).

35:6 Luz . . . Bethel: The change of name is explained at 28:19 (see also Josh. 18:13; Judg. 1:23).

35:7 El Bethel: Naming an altar added to the solemnity of the worship conducted there (see 22:14).

35:8 Deborah was a nurse of Rebekah (see 24:59). The Hebrew verb translated as died means “had died.” Deborah had already died, but at this point the family commemorated her death and buried her at Bethel.

35:9 God renewed His everlasting covenant with Jacob. This is the eighth passage dealing with the Abrahamic covenant (see the list at 15:1–21).

35:10 God validated Jacob’s change of name and reaffirmed His promises to him. Now Jacob would be called Israel (32:28). Note that Genesis uses the names Jacob and Israel interchangeably (see vv. 14, 20–22; 46:2).

35:11 This is the third use of the name, El Shaddai, God Almighty (see 17:1; 28:3; cf. Ex. 6:3). God used His great name to attest His strong relationship with Jacob.

35:13 God went up: The living God had made His will known and now returned to His abode. This is one of the rare expressions in the Bible of God ascending (see also Acts 1:9).

35:14 This is the second pillar Jacob set up to commemorate God’s revelation at Bethel (28:18). Later, Jacob referred to God as “The Stone of Israel” (49:24). drink offering: Jacob consecrated the pillar by pouring wine and oil over it.

35:16 Ephrath is an alternative name for the region around Bethlehem (v. 19; 48:7; cf. Ruth 1:3; Mic. 5:2). The King of Glory would one day be born near the birthplace of Benjamin (Matt. 2:1).

35:17, 18 fear: Rachel’s sorrow and fear that her second son might be stillborn became a symbol for all mothers who fear for their child’s life (for Rachel’s weeping, see Jer. 31:15; Matt. 2:18). Jacob’s name for his new son Benjamin indicates his youngest son’s special place in the family—at Jacob’s right hand. Benjamin would commemorate his beloved wife.

35:19 Rachel was the only one of the principal characters in Abraham’s family of promise who was not buried at the cave of Machpelah (23:19, 20).

35:20 Jacob had set up pillars to mark the Lord’s great works in his life (28:18; 35:14) and to commemorate his agreement with Laban (31:45). Here he erected a pillar to mark his sorrow.

35:21 Eder means “flock.” This flock tower is mentioned only here and perhaps in Mic. 4:8.

35:22 Reuben, Jacob’s firstborn son, may have been asserting his right to be the principal heir. Maybe he felt slighted by Jacob’s implication that the youngest son Benjamin was the son of his right hand. By sleeping with his father’s concubine, he was asserting that he would succeed his father. Ironically, this very action caused him to lose the blessing he desired (see 49:3, 4).

35:27 After more than 20 years of absence, Jacob finally visited his father. Sadly, his mother Rebekah was probably dead since she is not mentioned. Mamre is identified as Hebron, where Isaac passed his youth with his father Abraham (13:18).

35:29 The expression gathered to his people may also suggest a belief in the afterlife (see 15:15; 25:8; 49:33; 2 Sam. 12:23). Isaac’s formerly feuding sons, Esau and Jacob, joined together to bury Isaac with his father and mother in the cave at Machpelah (see 49:31). Leah and Jacob would be buried there also (49:29–33; 50:12, 13).

36:1 The Hebrew term for genealogy means “family history” (see the list at 2:4). At birth, Esau was notably ruddy in color (25:25) and he was called Edom, meaning “Red” (v. 8).

36:2, 3 Because Esau took his wives from the daughters of Canaan, his family would be no different from other families of Canaan. Rebekah and Isaac worried about Esau’s wives (26:34, 35; 28:6–9). Would they tempt Esau’s family to abandon the Lord, the holy and living God? Adah means “Ornament.” Her father’s name Elon means “Terebinth.” Aholibamah means “My Tent Is a High Place.” Anah may mean “Sing!” and Basemath means “Fragrant.”

36:4–8 Genesis describes the growth of Esau’s family and possessions. He moved to Mount Seir. Eventually, the region would be named after Esau—Edom, the “Red” land (v. 43). Esau’s separation from Jacob was similar to the separation of Lot from Abraham (13:6–13).

36:9–19 These verses parallel and expand on the genealogical list of Esau's family in vv. 1–8. Verses 15–19 expand further on this same list. More care is given to the genealogy of Jacob.

36:12 Timna's son, Amalek, founded a people that later would trouble the Israelites (see Num. 14:39–45).

36:20–30 The people of Seir, the Horites, had close interrelationships with Esau's family. These family histories are repeated in 1 Chr. 1:38–42.

36:31–39 This list follows the list of the chiefs of Edom (vv. 15–19). The eight names in this list are unrelated to each other. This indicates that they were chosen for reasons other than royal descent.

36:40–43 These chiefs probably followed the kings listed in vv. 31–39. They bear some of the names of their forebears (vv. 1–14). Esau was the father of the Edomites: Although Esau is not the heir of God's everlasting covenant with the family of Abraham, God still blessed his family. They too became a nation.

37:1 in the land: When he left Laban, Jacob at first settled near Shechem (33:18–20). Then at the Lord's bidding he went to Bethel (35:1–15), where the divine covenant was renewed. Jacob traveled south again to Ephrath (later Bethlehem, see 35:16–20), where Rachel died while giving birth to Benjamin. Finally, Jacob went to Hebron (Kirjath Arba), where he buried his father (35:27–29). Chapter 37 continues Jacob's story at Hebron (v. 14). The word for stranger can also mean "sojourner" or "alien." The Lord had promised that this land would become a permanent possession of Abraham's family (12:7). To the third generation that promise was still not realized. Jacob and his family were still aliens in the land.

37:2 history of Jacob: This is the tenth time this Hebrew phrasing is used in Genesis (see the list at 2:4). Joseph was the first son of Jacob's favorite wife, Rachel (30:22–24). seventeen years old: This is one of the few places the Bible gives the age of a person at a certain event (see also 12:4). Usually, it records only the length of a person's whole life. Bilhah is the maid of Rachel, who gave birth to Dan and Naphtali (30:4–8); Zilpah is the maid of Leah, who gave birth to Gad and Asher (30:9–11). a bad report: Since Joseph in general demonstrated his integrity (see ch. 39), he was probably not slandering his brothers, but accurately reporting some negligence on their part. Whatever his intentions, his brothers naturally would have resented him.

37:3 The name Israel was given to Jacob following his wrestling with the Lord (32:22–32). It is used interchangeably with Jacob (35:21, 22; 43:6). son of his old age: Jacob's favoritism for his son Joseph may be explained as well by the special love he had for the boy's mother (29:30). a tunic of many colors: This is a traditional translation. The Hebrew phrase may simply mean a garment with long sleeves. The robe was distinctive in color or design and was probably costly.

37:4 they hated him: Unwittingly, Jacob's discriminatory actions made Joseph unpopular in the family.

37:5 In his youthful enthusiasm, Joseph told his family about his dream. Although the dream was prophetic, it alienated his brothers even more.

37:7 my sheaf arose: Joseph's dream pictured the prominence that he would eventually have in the family. In the culture of his day, the firstborn was the prominent one (see 35:23). Joseph's dream not only insulted his older brothers, it also violated custom.

37:8 Shall you indeed reign: The brothers understood immediately the meaning of Joseph's dream. Of course what they and he could not have known was that this dream would be fulfilled literally.

37:9 Joseph could have been more sensitive to his family's response to his dreams. His second dream was even more alarming. According to this dream, even the sun and moon, presumably his father and mother (though his mother was already deceased; see 35:16–20), would bow to Joseph. The 11 stars were his brothers.

37:10, 11 Now, even his father was insulted by Joseph's behavior. The son could have talked about his dreams with more tact. kept the matter: Although he was insulted, Jacob pondered Joseph's dreams for they were clearly from God.

37:12 The brothers journeyed north from Hebron (see 35:27–29), presumably in order to find better pastures for their flocks. Shechem plays a continuing role in the Genesis narrative. Abram had built his first altar to God there (see 12:6; 33:18).

37:14 well: The Hebrew word shalom means “well, whole, sound.” bring back word: Because Joseph had earlier brought back a bad report, he would not be welcomed by his brothers.

37:17 Dothan is about ten miles north of Shechem, near Mt. Gilboa.

37:18 saw him afar off: His distinctive tunic allowed the brothers to recognize Joseph at a distance (vv. 3, 23, 31). to kill him: His brothers’ hatred and envy led them to discuss murder (see vv. 4, 5, 8, 11).

37:19, 20 this dreamer: The Hebrew phrase expresses contempt and literally means “master of dreams.” The brothers feared that Joseph’s dreams may actually come true. By killing him, they could prevent this.

37:21 Reuben, as the firstborn son and principal heir, had the most to lose if Joseph’s dreams came true (see 35:23). Yet Reuben intervened to spare Joseph’s life. This was something of a contrast with his earlier wicked actions (35:22).

37:22 Shed no blood: Reuben attempted to save Joseph’s life by getting his brothers to leave Joseph in a pit. Without water in the pit, Joseph could only survive a few days. Reuben planned to rescue him in time. Reuben may have been motivated by a love for his father and a desire to ease the strained relationship with him that had resulted from his abuse of Bilhah (35:22; cf. 49:4). Once Reuben convinced his brothers not to kill Joseph, he left (v. 29).

37:25 The Ishmaelites were wandering traders. The name (referring to descendants of Ishmael, the son of Abraham; see 16:11–16; 17:18–27; 25:12–18; 28:9; 36:3) is loosely equivalent to the name Midianite (v. 28). Gilead is a mountainous region east of the Jordan River (see 31:21), famed for aromatic spices (Jer. 8:22; 46:11). Only the rich owned the few camels that were domesticated at this time.

37:26 What profit: The brothers not only considered killing Joseph, but started discussing how they could make the crime profitable.

37:28 Midian was a son of Abraham by his concubine Keturah (25:2, 4; 36:35). The name Midianites is used interchangeably with the name Ishmaelites (see v. 25), most likely indicating an alliance between the two peoples. Both terms refer to wandering Arab traders. Twenty shekels of silver may have been the going rate for a slave at the time. On the other hand, the Midianites may have paid a little less because they knew something was amiss (the standard price for a slave in later Israelite law was 30 shekels, see Ex. 21:32). According to 42:21, Joseph begged his brothers not to sell him. The brothers considered Joseph as good as dead; he would never return from Egyptian slavery.

37:29 Reuben returned, failed to find Joseph, and tore his clothes to express his grief. Tearing one’s clothes was a common expression of profound dismay. Reuben’s grief was genuine feeling for his younger brother mixed with the fear that he, the oldest brother, would be blamed.

37:31, 32 The brothers used Joseph’s tunic, the symbol of his favored position, as a grisly symbol of his supposed death. The tunic was distinctive because of its colors or its long sleeves (see v. 3).

37:33 torn to pieces: The Hebrew expression means “utterly torn apart.” The fact that only the tunic was found suggested the destruction of Joseph’s body.

37:34 Jacob tore his clothes just like Reuben did to express his sorrow.

37:35 and all his daughters: Genesis names only one of the daughters, Dinah (ch. 34). I shall go down into the grave: Joseph’s apparent fate only made Jacob love him more and withdraw from the rest of the family. The brothers did not gain their father’s favor by getting rid of Joseph.

37:36 Potiphar: An Egyptian name. an officer: The Hebrew term is used occasionally for a eunuch or a harem official (39:1; Esth. 2:3). captain of the guard: This phrase may mean the palace guard, or perhaps, the harem guard. In either case, Potiphar was an important official in the Egyptian royal court.

38:1–30 Although some consider the story of Judah and Tamar an intrusion into the Joseph story, it does fit into the flow of the narrative. First, the story provides a stunning contrast between the morals of Judah and Joseph. Second, Judah's story illustrates the further disintegration of Jacob's family. Jacob's sons had sold Joseph, and now Judah married a Canaanite woman and solicited a Canaanite prostitute (who happened to be his daughter-in-law, vv. 11–16). If this process continued, Jacob's family, the family of promise, would become like the people of Canaan. The fact that the Messiah's lineage would be eventually traced through Judah's line is a clear sign of God's grace and mercy (49:10; Matt. 1:2, 3).

38:1 Judah departed from his brothers: Jacob's family was slowly falling apart. First, Simeon and Levi had taken revenge on Shechem (ch. 34). Second, Reuben, the firstborn, had abused Bilhah (35:22). Third, the brothers had sold Joseph into slavery (ch. 37). Now Judah, the fourth son of Leah, left the family circle and sought Canaanite friends. Adullamite: A person from Adullam. This place was in the hill country northwest of Hebron, later associated with David's flight from Saul (1 Sam. 22:1). During his period of disenchantment with his family, Judah embraced the Canaanite Hirah as friend and confidant (vv. 12, 20).

38:2 daughter of a certain Canaanite: Not only did Judah take a Canaanite as his friend, he took a Canaanite woman, the daughter of Shua, as his wife.

38:3–5 In quick succession, three sons were born to Judah and the daughter of Shua. Chezib is probably three miles southwest of Adullam.

38:6 Just as Judah had married a Canaanite woman, so now he found a Canaanite wife, Tamar, for his firstborn son, Er. In this way, Judah intermingled his family with the Canaanites. Tamar means "Palm," indicating endearing beauty. Surprisingly, Tamar becomes a heroine in the Bible (see Ruth 4:12; Matt. 1:3).

38:7 The Lord did not judge the Canaanite woman, Tamar. Instead, he judged Er, the wicked firstborn son of Judah.

38:8 to your brother's wife: In the ancient Middle East, for a man to die without leaving a son was regarded as an incalculable loss. A person's memory was preserved in his descendants. In order to maintain the family line and the name of the deceased, a brother or another near relative would marry the man's widow and father a child that would carry on the man's family. This is called levirate marriage, from a Latin word meaning "husband's brother." The custom became part of the Mosaic Law (Deut. 25:5–10; Ruth 4:1–12).

38:9 emitted on the ground: Because of his own selfishness and wicked attitude toward his deceased brother, Onan would not allow his brother's widow to conceive a child. He feared the child would perpetuate the name of his brother Er and not his own.

38:10 The LORD judged Onan, just as He judged Er (v. 7).

38:11 Remain a widow: Instead of blaming his first two sons' deaths on their own wickedness, Judah blamed the innocent Tamar. He feared that he would lose his last son to her as well. So Judah stalled her by insincerely promising to marry her to his last son when he was of age. Presumably, Judah hoped she would eventually remarry outside the family.

38:12 The death of Judah's wife means that Judah had only one surviving son. Unless Judah remarried, his posterity was dependent on Shelah. sheepshearers: The time of sheepshearing was not only a time of work, it also was a time for celebration (2 Sam. 13:23, 24). Timnah is in the hill country of Judah (Josh. 15:10, 57). Hirah: Judah and Hirah's friendship lasted a long time.

38:14, 15 The period for mourning was long past. Tamar's continuing use of a widow's clothing shows her desire to marry the surviving brother of her husbands—something she finally realized would not be allowed. She wore a veil to avoid Judah's detection and to pose as a prostitute. Her desperate act was driven by a sense of injustice. On the one hand, Judah had broken his promise to marry her to Shelah. On the other hand, she had not done anything to deserve becoming a forgotten widow—her husbands' deaths were not her fault.

38:17 Judah's promise to give her a goat would ordinarily have been sufficient. However, Tamar insisted on a pledge.

38:18 The signet seal was an ancient means of identification. The seal was distinctively etched in stone, metal, or ivory and would hang on a person's neck. To confirm an agreement or transaction, the ancients would press the seal in soft clay (see 41:42). Basically, Judah gave Tamar the equivalent of a modern credit card. Presumably, Judah's staff was also marked in a distinctive manner.

38:19 garments of her widowhood: Tamar resumed wearing the clothing of a widow—clothing that broadcast Judah's broken promises to the community.

38:20 the young goat: By the time Hirah (see vv. 1, 12) came to pay what Judah had promised (see v. 17), Tamar had already left.

38:21 Harlot translates a Hebrew term that literally means “holy woman” and refers to sacred or cultic prostitutes. Such prostitutes would have practiced their profession as part of the pagan local religions.

38:24 played the harlot: After about three months, Tamar's pregnancy was showing. Judah seized the opportunity to get rid of Tamar, demanding that she be burned. The Law of Moses mentions burning as the punishment for certain prostitutes (Lev. 21:9). But on this occasion Judah was not considering God's righteousness. He merely wanted to get rid of the woman he believed had been destroying his family.

38:26 She has been more righteous: Judah, one of the heirs of the everlasting covenant with the living God, was put to shame by a Canaanite woman. To his credit, Judah confessed his sins.

38:27 The birth of twins was a special blessing from the Lord. This section continues a biblical theme of competing sons (see chs. 4; 25-28).

38:28 his hand: There could be no mistakes in identifying the firstborn. The midwife used a scarlet thread to make sure everyone knew which baby had been born first.

38:29 breach: The other baby burst forth after his brother's hand had been withdrawn. Despite the brother's hand, Perez was the firstborn. He became the one who is in the lineage of David—and ultimately Jesus (Ruth 4:18; Matt. 1:3).

38:30 Both Perez and Zerah established families in the house of Judah (1 Chr. 2:3-8); even Shelah established a family (see Num. 26:19-22). Tamar became a member of the family of promise, even though she was a Canaanite (see Ruth 4:12). Matthew mentions Tamar—a woman—in the lineage of the Messiah. She had become a heroine of the faith—despite her origins and the nature of her actions (Matt. 1:3).

39:1 Joseph had been taken down to Egypt: This verse repeats the sense of 37:36 and resumes the Joseph story that was interrupted by the story of Judah and Tamar (ch. 38). The first readers of Genesis were the second generation that had come out of Egypt under Moses. This narrative explained to them why their parents were Egyptian slaves. Potiphar: Joseph's brothers probably expected that he would be sold as a common laborer in a heavy construction project. Such heavy physical labor under harsh conditions could make a young man's life short. Yet because of God's mercy, Joseph was sold to a rich and important royal official.

Egypt

- 39:2 The LORD was with Joseph: This key phrase of this section is repeated (vv. 21, 23). This phrase indicates that God cared for, protected, and blessed Joseph. Joseph occupied a very high station for a slave. He lived and worked in his master's house.
- 39:3 Potiphar recognized that Joseph was successful because the LORD was with him. Perhaps Joseph had had some effect on his master's spiritual condition.
- 39:4 found favor: Joseph exemplified the faithful steward and illustrated the principle that one who is faithful in a little will be given charge over much (Matt. 25:21; 1 Cor. 4:2).
- 39:5 the LORD blessed the Egyptian's house: God commanded Abraham and his descendants to be a blessing to everyone (see 12:2, 3). Here Joseph, thrust into a foreign country by the anger of his brothers, brought God's blessing to an Egyptian official's home. What is more, the Egyptian knew that the blessing was from God.
- 39:6 all that he had: Potiphar's trust in Joseph was so complete that Potiphar had no care except for his menu (v. 23). handsome: Seldom does the Bible mention a character's physical traits. This description is similar to the description of David (1 Sam. 16:12).
- 39:7 Potiphar's wife began to flirt with Joseph. Perhaps she was bored. On the other hand, the Hebrew term translated as officer in v. 1 ordinarily means "eunuch." If Potiphar was literally a eunuch, this might help to explain his wife's actions.
- 39:8 But he refused: Joseph exemplified the highest standard of personal behavior. The recurring phrase, "the LORD was with him" (vv. 2, 21, 23) helps to explain Joseph's goodness. The empowering presence of God in his life helped Joseph to resist temptation.
- 39:9 sin against God: Here Joseph not only stood up for his ethical beliefs, but he also told a woman who probably believed in many gods about the righteousness of the only true God!
- 39:11 none of the men: This time, the master's wife caught Joseph alone.
- 39:12 The clothing of a slave in the hot climate of Egypt probably did not consist of much. She grabbed Joseph. In the ensuing struggle, she wound up holding his garment. Joseph fled.
- 39:14 he has brought: She insulted her husband in front of other slaves. The term Hebrew is used only four times in the Book of Genesis (see 14:13; 39:17; 41:12). Here it is a racial slur. to mock: The verb suggests racial hatred. The Hamitic Egyptians scorned the Semitic peoples of Canaan (see 43:32). The Egyptian slaves must have envied Joseph's success. Potiphar's wife must have found ready ears among these men to believe her lies. She had not cried out, of course. But the charge of rape was as serious then as it is in our day. The attempted rape of a master's wife by a foreign slave would have been an exceptional outrage.
- 39:19 The anger of Potiphar is understandable and expected.
- 39:20 into the prison: Surprisingly, Potiphar did not simply kill Joseph outright. Is it possible that Joseph had so impressed Potiphar during the considerable time he had been in his service that Potiphar found himself not fully believing the story his wife told him? Is it possible that Potiphar determined to throw Joseph into the royal prison, over which he had command (v. 1; 40:3; 41:9–11) in order to spare Joseph's life? In any case, Joseph wound up in prison for something he had steadfastly refused to do.
- 39:21 The LORD continued to be with Joseph—even in prison (see Ps. 139:7–12). Mercy can be translated loyal love (see Ps. 13:5). Here in an Egyptian prison, Joseph experienced God's loyal love. God faithfully kept His promises by staying with His people—even in rough circumstances (for God's promises to be with Abraham's descendants, see 12:1–3; 50:24). the keeper of the prison: This was the warden who was under the “captain of the guard” (40:3), namely Potiphar (39:1).

39:23 the LORD made it prosper: Because of God’s blessing, everything Joseph did prospered (see Ps. 1:1–3).

40:1 The butler and the baker of the king were important offices in the royal court. Offended stands for the word ordinarily translated as sinned. Its principal meaning is “to miss the mark.” The nature of their offenses is not explained.

40:3 The reference to the house implies that there were two holding areas for prisoners in this situation. One was the prison proper, the other was a type of house arrest associated with, but not in, the prison itself.

40:4 As a trustee of the prison, Joseph also served the high officials who were under house arrest awaiting the disposition of the charges against them.

40:5 Each . . . dream had its own interpretation; these were not ordinary dreams. They contained symbols that demanded explanation.

(Heb. chalom) (37:5; 40:5; 41:7; Joel 2:28) Strong's #2472

The word simply means “to dream.” The ancients understood a dream or a vision as “watching during sleep,” suggesting a special state of consciousness. Often dreams were recognized as revelations from the gods, or from the Lord God Himself in the case of the Hebrews. Many times these dreams and visions were encoded in symbolic language that needed interpretation. Those who could interpret dreams possessed power in the ancient world (41:37–40; Dan. 2:46–48). Joseph both received and interpreted such messages but was able to interpret the figures and symbols of dream-events only as God enabled him (40:8; 41:16).

- 40:6 Joseph came to see the butler and baker because it was part of his duties as the prison trustee.
- 40:8 Joseph's statement that interpretations belong to God was a bold testimony. But Joseph not only announced his faith, he then quickly acted upon it. Joseph had received such dreams as a younger man and had understood their meaning (37:5–11).
- 40:12 Joseph's words to the butler, lift up your head, form a grisly pun in the passage. Here they speak of the restoration of the butler to his former honor; in v. 19 they speak of death.
- 40:14 Joseph asked the butler to remember me so that his case might be reviewed and he might be delivered from a false imprisonment. Kindness represents a word that also means “loyal love.” Joseph spoke of a binding obligation that his interpretation of the dream had placed upon the butler.
- 40:15 Joseph had two good reasons for seeking his release: being sold by his brothers into slavery and being framed by Potiphar's wife. In both cases he was an innocent victim. Presumably the butler would recognize the unfairness of Joseph's condition, since he himself had been unfairly charged and badly treated as well.
- 40:16 Perhaps the chief baker's sense of guilt had held him back, but now he sensed that the time was right to announce his own dream. Both of these men respected Joseph's interpretations as true. Like the butler's, the baker's dream used the number three.
- 40:18 The interpretation of the baker's dream was bad news indeed: In three days the baker would be executed.
- 40:19 The pun in lift off your head is more evident in the Hebrew text (v. 13). More literally, the words read, “Pharaoh will lift your head . . . from you.” That is, the line begins exactly as in v. 13, but with a deadly zinger at the end! It is not simply baked goods the birds will eat (v. 17), but the flesh of the baker. That is, he will not be allowed even a proper burial; he will instead be hanged and then his body will be left for the vultures. Clearly there was no point for Joseph to ask to be remembered by the baker (vv. 14, 15).
- 40:20 Only here do we learn that the third day was Pharaoh's birthday. The play on words of vv. 13, 19 comes to its culmination here in he lifted up the head. Pharaoh brought both of the prisoners from their house arrest for all the other servants to see. The one he restored (v. 21), and the other he hanged (v. 22). It could be that there had been a threat against Pharaoh's life that involved the poisoning of food. Presumably the investigation led to two possible culprits, the butler who would serve Pharaoh his wine and the baker who would prepare bread for Pharaoh. The guilty party was executed; the other was given back his prestigious position. Pharaoh did this in the presence of all his servants in order to both warn and encourage the servant household. Pharaoh would reward those who served him well, but would destroy any who meant him harm.

40:23 The butler did not remember his promise made to Joseph. The euphoria of his release and restoration took his mind away from his distressing days under arrest. Soon the sheer business of his life precluded any action on behalf of Joseph. So Joseph stayed in prison. And God was still with him.

41:1–57 This chapter describes the turning point in Joseph's life. He rose from a dungeon to the Egyptian throne room. God engineered the circumstances so that through Joseph He could meet the needs of a nation during the coming famine and reunite Jacob's family.

41:1 As in the case of his servants (see 40:5), Pharaoh had an unusual dream to which he attached great significance. The river is the Nile, the life stream of Egypt.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Pharaoh

The title of the kings of Egypt until 323 B.C. The pharaoh was probably the most important person in Egyptian society. The Egyptians believed he was a god and the key to the nation's relationship to the cosmic gods of the universe. While the pharaoh ruled, he was the Son of Ra, the sun god, and the incarnation of the god Horus. He came from the gods with the divine responsibility to rule the land for them. His word was law, and he owned everything. The pharaoh was the head of the army as well as a central figure in the nation's religious life. As an intermediary between gods and people, the pharaoh functioned as a high priest in the many temples in Egypt. Because the Egyptian people believed their fate was dependent on that of the pharaoh, they seldom attempted to overthrow the government, although some pharaohs were very cruel.

Pharaoh

(Heb. Par 'oh) (41:1; Ex. 1:11) Strong's #6547

The name Pharaoh comes from the Egyptian word pr-'o, which means “the great house.” Originally the word Pharaoh was not a designation for the king of Egypt, but a reference to his palace. The ancient Egyptians believed that Pharaoh was the living representation of the god Horus in Egyptian religion, identified with the cult of the sun god and symbolized by the falcon. The plagues against the Egyptians prior to the Israelite exodus from Egypt were cosmic in nature, a kind of spiritual warfare between the living God and the false gods of Egypt (Ex. 12:12; 15:11). The tenth plague, resulting in the death of the firstborn among the Egyptians (including Pharaoh's), was divine judgment upon Pharaoh's claim to deity (Ex. 12:29, 30; 18:11, 12).

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 41:2 In ancient Semitic thought, the number seven had special significance. This significance probably had its roots in the seven days of creation (ch. 1).
- 41:3, 4 ugly and gaunt: The second group of seven cows contrasts strongly with the first. ate up: The bucolic scene quickly turns into a nightmare as the scrawny cows devour the healthy ones.
- 41:5–7 The second dream was very much like the first, only this time it presented heads of grain rather than cows. The numeral seven again was prominent.
- 41:8 magicians: The Hebrew term is related to the word for stylus, a writing instrument. Thus the magicians were associated in some manner with writing and knowledge, no doubt of the occult. Yet here, as on a later occasion (Ex. 8:18, 19), the power of the magicians was shown to be limited. The wise men were a class of scholars associated with the courts of the ancient Middle East. They were either functionaries of pagan religions as here, or merely observers and interpreters of life.
- 41:9 faults: The Hebrew word is usually translated sins. At long last the butler remembered his experience with the young Hebrew prisoner who interpreted his dream (40:9–15).
- 41:10, 12 captain of the guard: In vv. 10, 12, this phrase refers to Potiphar (see 39:1, 19, 20).
- 41:14 out of the dungeon: Joseph was manager of the prison (39:22, 23). Egyptian men not only shaved their face, but their entire body. They generally wore wigs. Egyptian officials scorned the “hairy” Canaanites, including the Hebrews (43:32). While in the service of Potiphar, Joseph probably adopted the manner and dress of the Egyptians. But in prison, Joseph could not keep up his appearance.
- 41:15 you can understand a dream: Pharaoh was desperate. He wanted a correct interpretation of his dream.
- 41:16 There is a strong emphasis on the word God. Joseph praised the power of the living God in the pagan court of Pharaoh. He would not take credit for his ability to interpret dreams or use his innocence to plead for his freedom. an answer of peace: His answer suggests that Joseph already knew the dream contained some good news for the Pharaoh.
- 41:17–24 in my dream: Pharaoh repeated the information he had given earlier to his own magicians and wise men (vv. 1–8). One new detail is recorded here (v. 21): the seven ugly cows do not look better after eating the good cows (v. 30).

41:25 Led by the Spirit of God, Joseph revealed that the dreams have the same meaning (22:15). God has shown Pharaoh: Again Joseph testified to the living God in a pagan court (39:3). God sent the dreams; God enabled Joseph to understand them; and ultimately God controlled and will control all things.

41:28 God has shown Pharaoh: The repetition of this phrase (v. 25) is for emphasis (v. 32). God put Joseph in Egypt during this critical time so that He could bless Egypt through a Hebrew. Then the true and living God's blessing would become known throughout the ancient world, for God had promised to bless all nations through the people of Israel (12:2).

41:30 the plenty will be forgotten: The famine would be so severe that everyone would forget the year of plenty.

41:32 God, and God: Joseph emphasized his reference to the true God as he witnessed to the reality of the only true God. He made it clear that he was speaking about the one God, not the numerous false gods that filled the Egyptian court, or even Pharaoh himself who was believed to be a god (see 22:1; 42:18).

41:33 a discerning and wise man: An exceedingly wise man.

41:34 One-fifth may seem large. However, the large amount would allow for spoilage, for extra grain for trade, and for extra grain to plant after the seven years of famine.

41:35 Pharaoh would view this large tax as an expansion of his own authority.

41:38 in whom is the Spirit of God: At least, Pharaoh acknowledged that Joseph was extraordinarily wise. Or more likely, he testified to the reality of God's power in Joseph's life.

41:40 You shall be over my house: Since Joseph was so wise, naturally he was the first choice for administering the collection of grain. in regard to the throne: Joseph was given enormous power. Only Pharaoh was above him.

41:42 With the signet ring, Joseph's orders would have the same authority as the word of Pharaoh (Esth. 3:10; 8:2). The ring had the signature of the Pharaoh in Egyptian hieroglyphics (38:18). Joseph would use the ring to mark clay or wax to authenticate royal documents and laws.

41:43 Bow the knee: The Egyptian people bowed as a sign of respect and homage to Joseph's position—not a sign of worship.

41:45 Zaphnath-Paaneah: Pharaoh honors Joseph by giving him an Egyptian name that probably means "The God Speaks and Lives." While in some contexts, this would refer to an Egyptian god, in this case it refers to the true God of Joseph. Wherever Joseph went in Egypt, his name would point to the reality of his God. Asenath: An Egyptian name meaning "Belonging to (the Goddess) Neith." Poti-Pherah means "He Whom Ra (the sun god) Gave." On is a city in northern Egypt that was noted for its worship of Ra. But Joseph and Asenath's sons were worshipers of the Lord, not Ra. Although Joseph married a pagan priest's daughter, he trained his sons to worship the living God. Probably Asenath also became a worshiper of the Lord.

41:46 thirty years old: Thirteen years had passed since Joseph was sold by his brothers (37:2).

41:47 seven plentiful years: Just as God had revealed, the years of plenty came.

41:49 The task was enormous for there was much grain. Joseph had to be a wise administrator. The skills he learned in Potiphar's household and in the royal prison must have been helpful during this busy time. But in the end, God made Joseph succeed (v. 52; 39:23).

41:50 Asenath's two sons carry on the two-son motif in Genesis (Ishmael and Isaac, chs. 16; 21; Esau and Jacob, 25:19–28; Perez and Zerah, 38:27–30).

41:54, 55 the seven years of famine: As Joseph had warned (v. 30), bad years followed the seven years of plenty. Pharaoh allowed Joseph to handle the crisis. He trusted completely Joseph's leadership.

41:56, 57 Joseph enriched the treasury of Pharaoh by selling grain to the Egyptians. all countries: The whole known world came to Egypt to buy grain. Just as Joseph had testified to Egypt concerning the reality of the true God, so now he was able to testify to all nations.

42:1 Jacob said to his sons: By this time, Judah had returned to Jacob (see ch. 38).

42:4 Benjamin: Jacob still played favorites (see 37:3). However, there is no mention of jealousy among the other brothers as there had been before (37:8).

42:6 bowed down before him: God fulfilled the dreams He gave to Joseph at the age of 17 (see 37:5–11).

42:7 acted as a stranger: These men standing before Joseph had sold him as a slave 20 years before—yet they were his brothers! Now suddenly here they were, bowing before him, just as he had dreamed! Joseph’s life was now thoroughly Egyptian. In fact, he had named his first son “Forgetfulness,” as a sign of his estrangement from the painful memories of his family (41:51). What went through Joseph’s mind as he recognized his brothers? No doubt shock, confusion, and anger. Joseph may have spoken roughly in order to control his emotions.

42:9 Joseph remembered the dreams and released his pent-up feelings. He accused his brothers of something he knew they did not do. In this way, Joseph set out to learn whether his brothers had changed for the better. Would they betray each other when under pressure?

42:13 the youngest: At the mention of his younger brother Benjamin, Joseph must have had great difficulty hiding his feelings. and one is no more: These words must have been unbearable to Joseph. Although his brothers supposed he was dead, he was right before their eyes!

42:14 Twice, Joseph accused them of being spies. The brothers must have been overcome with fear. They were standing before a man who had absolute, autocratic power. At his word they could be executed.

42:16 Joseph demanded that Benjamin, his full brother, be brought to him. At the time, Benjamin was with Jacob (v. 4).

42:18 Here, Joseph gave his brothers a clue about who he was. In effect, Joseph told them, “I fear the one God” (see 41:32).

42:21 truly guilty: The brothers realized that they were being punished for what they had done to Joseph so many years ago. when he pleaded with us: The first account (37:18–28) does not include this detail.

42:22 Only Reuben had tried to save Joseph on that awful day (37:22). His plan to rescue Joseph was thwarted when the brothers decided to sell him to the Midianite traders instead of abandoning him in a pit to die. his blood: According to Reuben, the brothers would be punished for killing Joseph.

42:23 Joseph had been speaking in Egyptian and an interpreter was translating to the brothers. The brothers did not suspect that this Egyptian official understood what they said in their own language.

42:24 wept: At last Joseph’s emotions went beyond his control. he took Simeon: Since Reuben, the firstborn son, had been Joseph’s principal defender years ago, Joseph took Simeon, the next son, hostage (35:23–26).

42:25 fill their sacks: The returned money would enable the brothers to come another time for another purchase. On the other hand, they might be accused of stealing it. money: This word refers to a certain weight of silver. Coinage had not yet been invented.

42:28 The discovery of some of their money frightened the brothers (but see v. 35). They accused God for their troubles.

42:29–34 The brothers truthfully reported to their father Jacob all that had transpired.

42:35 The discovery of the money in the sack of one of the brothers (vv. 27, 28) could have been explained as a mistake. But now they learned that each man’s money was in his sack!

42:36 You have bereaved me: Jacob’s grief increased. One son was dead; another was in prison; and now a third was threatened by an Egyptian official.

42:37 Kill my two sons: Reuben took the lead. He tried to comfort his father, just as he had tried to stop his brothers from hurting Joseph (37:22).

42:38 My son shall not go: Jacob was resolute. He had lost enough sons; he didn’t want to risk Benjamin, his favorite. with sorrow: He assured his sons that risking the loss of Benjamin in addition to having already lost Joseph would lead him into depression and cause his premature death.

43:6 deal so wrongfully: Jacob blamed his sons for telling the Egyptian there was still another brother. His sons replied that they had simply answered the questions they were asked (v. 7).

43:8 Send the lad with me: Judah promised that he would keep Benjamin safe. Judah had changed tremendously (contrast 38:1). Instead of leaving the family, he protected his brother and was concerned about his father's welfare.

43:9 Blame is from the Hebrew verb often translated as sin (see 40:1; 41:9).

43:14 This is the fourth time in Genesis that God is called El Shaddai (see 17:1; 28:3; 35:11). If I am bereaved: Jacob finally realized there was no other option.

43:18 The brothers must have been surprised. The last time, they were treated as spies and criminals (42:9–14). Now Joseph invited them into his house to dine with him.

43:23 The steward responded in an unexpected manner. He did not accuse them of anything; instead, he invited them into the house with a blessing of peace. Your God and the God of your father: Surprisingly, the steward expressed his own faith in the God of Joseph and Jacob. I had your money: Of course, this is not the whole truth.

43:26 For the second time (42:6) the brothers of Joseph bowed down to him, just as his revelatory dreams had predicted (37:5–11).

43:29 Benjamin had not been a part of the earlier conspiracy against Joseph. The relationship between Joseph and his younger brother must have been particularly close, since Joseph was overwhelmed when he saw Benjamin (v. 30).

43:32 place by himself: Joseph maintained his disguise, so he followed the Egyptian custom of eating at a table separate from the Hebrews. abomination: This word can indicate the strongest revulsion, something that might cause physical illness (see 46:34). The Egyptians might have been repulsed by bodily hair.

43:33 according to his birthright: The brothers might have been surprised and unsettled that they had been seated according to their ages.

44:1–5 Joseph continued to test the character of his brothers by commanding his servants to place his brothers' money in their sacks and a silver cup in Benjamin's sack.

44:6–12 In response to the servant's accusations, Joseph's brothers insisted on their innocence and promised to give up whoever had Joseph's silver cup. After searching all the brothers' sacks, the servant found the cup with Benjamin.

44:13 In genuine despair for Benjamin's predicament, the brothers tore their clothes. They could not let Benjamin die! Ironically a few years earlier, the same brothers had been debating whether to kill Joseph. Instead of tearing their own clothes in grief, they had torn Joseph's robe in order to cover up what they had done.

44:14 Although Reuben was the oldest, Judah took the leadership role in this section (46:28).

44:15 Here, divination is the practice of consulting the will of the gods by observing the liquid in a special cup. Allegedly Benjamin had stolen not only a silver cup from an Egyptian ruler, but a significant one. His action could have had grave consequences.

44:16 Judah 's contrition was complete. He offered no excuse; what had happened was the will of God. He presented himself and all his brothers as slaves to Joseph.

44:17 Joseph demanded that the youngest son, the presumably guilty one, become his slave. Joseph's parting words, go up in peace to your father, were a test. Would the brothers leave Benjamin as a slave in Egypt as they had left Joseph? For the brothers, Joseph's words must have been especially bitter. There would be no peace in their father's household if Benjamin became an Egyptian slave.

44:30–34 Judah explained to Joseph the deep despair his father would experience if he lost Benjamin. Then he offered himself as a slave in Benjamin's place. Instead of showing indifference to his family as he had in the past (see ch. 38), Judah offered his own life to save Benjamin's.

45:2 Joseph wept so loudly that his voice was heard throughout the whole palace (46:29)!

45:3 I am Joseph: Joseph must have said this in Hebrew and not in Egyptian (42:23). Still, the brothers could not believe their ears. They had sold Joseph as a slave. He would certainly be dead. Could it be true? The Egyptian lord who held their lives in his hands was their brother!

Joseph's Story

The remarkable story of Joseph's rise to power in Egypt is not just another rags-to-riches story. Fundamentally, the story is about how the Lord created a nation out of a troubled family.

Jacob's family was plagued by jealousy. Rachel envied Leah, and Leah envied Rachel (30:1). Leah's sons inherited this pattern of jealousy. They envied Joseph so much that they sold him as a slave (37:28). It may even be that Reuben abused Bilhah because of jealousy toward Benjamin (35:18–22). Also, the family was separating. After Joseph was sold into slavery, Judah left the family, associated with the Canaanites, and married a Canaanite woman (38:1–3). Simeon followed Judah's lead by also taking a Canaanite wife (46:10). With these jealousies and divisions, Jacob's family, the family of God's eternal promises (12:1–3), was becoming more and more like the pagan Canaanite community around them.

But the Lord did not let the troubles of this family thwart His good purposes. He had promised to shape a great nation from it—a nation that would spread His blessings to the whole earth (12:1–3). Jacob's family was divided, but God worked the events so that the family was reunited. Through a remarkable series of circumstances, God elevated Joseph from the position of slave and prisoner to administrator of Egypt, Pharaoh's right-hand man. God transformed the evil plans of Joseph's brothers into something good (37:19–28; 50:20). As the administrator of the Egyptians' plan to survive the coming famine, Joseph could save the lives of many people in the world. With his new name, Zaphnath-Paaneah (“The God Speaks and Lives”), and his remarkable story, Joseph could witness to these people about the power and goodness of the living God (41:45).

But God's good plan did not end there. God used the physical hardship of famine to reunite Israel's family. When Joseph's brothers saw him, not only did they express sorrow for their former evil actions (42:21; 45:5), but they demonstrated a new loyalty to their other half brother, Benjamin. Judah, who had left the family before (38:1), begged for Benjamin's life, even at the cost of his own freedom (44:18–34). The reunion of the family and the pressures of famine prompted Jacob to move closer to Egypt, to the land of Goshen. God used the evil attitudes of the Egyptians—their hatred of shepherds—to isolate the family there (43:32; 46:34). In this isolation, God could develop a nation dedicated to worshiping and obeying Him.

In all the exceptional events of Joseph's story, God remained faithful to His promises to Abraham (12:1–3). He created a great nation out of Jacob's family through a maze of human jealousy, family divisions, and racial hatred (50:20).

Joseph's rise to power in Egypt is ultimately about God's faithfulness to His promises (12:1–3).

Would Joseph take revenge?
- 45:5 Joseph used kindness to calm his brothers' fears. God sent me before you to preserve life: God had worked through the brothers' evil actions and hateful attitudes to preserve not only Jacob's family, but also the lives of many in the ancient world.

- 45:11 I will provide for you: With his family close by, Joseph could make sure his family had enough during the famine.
- 45:12 my mouth: Joseph still had to convince his brothers that he was really their brother.
- 45:14 Benjamin was Joseph's only full brother. Finally they were reunited.
- 45:18 Because Joseph was preserving the nation from destruction, Pharaoh was providing the best for Joseph.
- 45:21 Joseph sent his brothers back to his father with the Pharaoh's blessing and many gifts.
- 45:22 Benjamin, the brother who was at the greatest risk (ch. 44) now received the greatest blessing.
- 45:26–28 When the brothers told their father the great news concerning Joseph, Jacob was stunned. But he revived, saw the gifts, and believed his sons. before I die: These words are triumphant. Jacob could see his favorite son, whom he had believed to be dead.
- 46:1 Jacob's journey to Egypt began a 400-year sojourn away from the Promised Land of Canaan. Jacob entered Egypt with his 12 sons, including Joseph; 400 years later Jacob's descendants would leave Egypt as a small nation. Jacob went to the site that was so important to both his grandfather

Abram (21:22–34) and his father Isaac (26:26–33). At Beersheba, Jacob (or Israel) had left his family to go to Haran (28:10). offered sacrifices: Jacob worshiped God at Beersheba. He consecrated his family to the Lord before he left the Promised Land.

46:2 God appeared to Israel for the seventh time (35:1, 9). The fact that the names Israel and Jacob are used interchangeably indicates that the earlier negative connotations of the name Jacob have faded (31:11; 32:28; 35:10). Instead of meaning that Jacob “Supplants,” the name Jacob now means that God “Supplants.”

46:3 God had forbidden Isaac at a previous time to go to Egypt (26:2), and Isaac’s father Abram had had an unpleasant experience in Egypt (12:10–20). Despite Joseph’s gifts and words, Jacob feared what would happen in Egypt. Jacob’s family numbered 70 (v. 27). Out of this family, God would bring a great nation (Ex. 1:1–7). Again, God renewed His promises to Jacob (35:11).

46:4 go down with you: God promised to be with His people—even in a foreign land. Joseph will put: Jacob’s life was nearing its end. But God promised Jacob that his beloved Joseph, who he had thought was dead, would be with him at his deathbed.

46:8–27 these were the names: The listing of the family of Jacob is not only a remarkable historical document, but also a source of pride. From this family would come the whole nation of Israel—God’s people who would enter the Promised Land according to His promise (15:13–21). The order of the sons of Jacob is given according to their birth mothers (as in 35:23–26; their birth order is given in 29:31–30:24; 35:16–22).

46:8–15 First are the sons of Leah: Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, and Zebulun, along with their sons.

46:8 Reuben: The identifying phrase, Jacob’s firstborn, which should have been a mark of great pride, became a mark of sadness. Reuben lost the right of the firstborn because of his sin with Bilhah (35:22; 49:3, 4).

46:10 Shaul, the son of a Canaanite woman: This phrase indicates that marrying a Canaanite was unusual in Jacob’s family. Only Simeon and Judah married Canaanite women (Joseph’s wife was Egyptian).

46:11 The sons of Levi, Gershon, Kohath, and Merari became the founders of the Levitical families (Ex. 6:16–19). The sons of Kohath in particular became the founders of the priestly family, from which Aaron and Moses descended (Ex. 6:20–25).

46:12 The story of Judah’s family, including the untimely deaths of Er and Onan, is found in ch. 38. Shelah was the only surviving son of Judah by his Canaanite wife Shua. The other two sons, Perez and Zerah, were born to Tamar, his daughter-in-law.

46:15 Dinah’s sad story is reported in ch. 34.

46:26 The total is sixty-six, and when Jacob, Joseph, and Joseph’s two sons are added, the grand total is seventy. Ancient Israelites regarded the number 70 as a token of God’s special blessing on them.

46:28 Jacob treated Judah as the leader among the brothers (44:18). Normally the firstborn, Reuben, would have been expected to lead (46:8).

46:29 Joseph, the great leader of Egypt, went to meet his family in Goshen, where they would settle.

46:30 Now let me die: Jacob’s reunion with his son Joseph was the crowning event of his long life. Jacob lived for 17 more years (47:28).

46:31–34 These verses show Joseph’s leadership ability. He accomplished his goals by maintaining a genuinely deferential attitude to those in authority, by skill in making suggestions, and by a knowledge of the customs of the people. The Egyptians scorned shepherds (43:32). Abomination is a term referring to the strongest revulsion and distaste. God used the racial and ethnic prejudice of the Egyptians as a way of preserving the ethnic and spiritual identity of His own people. Jacob’s family was already intermarrying with Canaanites (ch. 38) and was in danger of losing its identity as the people of God.

47:1–6 Joseph’s plan worked. Pharaoh let Jacob’s family live in Goshen (see 46:31) because the Egyptians detested shepherds (see 46:31–34).

- 47:6 Goshen is an area in the Nile delta that is well watered and ideally suited for the shepherding family of Jacob.
- 47:7–10 The presentation of Joseph's father before Pharaoh must have been a grand occasion. But surprisingly, Jacob blessed Pharaoh (vv. 7, 10). Pharaoh as the host might have thought of pronouncing a blessing on Jacob because of his great admiration for Joseph. But instead the visitor blessed the host in the name of the living God! Literally Jacob obeyed God's command to Abram's descendants to "be a blessing" (see 12:2).
- 47:8 How old: Pharaoh's question suggests that the long ages of the patriarchal family were truly exceptional, even for this period. Jacob responded in humility and honesty. Jacob had experienced sadness or evil. Years of rivalry with his brother Esau and struggle with Laban had marked the early part of his life. For long years he grieved the supposed death of his son Joseph. His 130 years were fewer than the 175 years of Abraham (25:7) and the 180 years of Isaac (35:28). But his life was not over. He would live to the age of 147 and would die in Egypt (47:28).
- 47:11 With the Pharaoh's blessing, Joseph arranged the perfect place for his family members to live.
- 47:12 provided . . . bread: As the one in charge of the distribution of food during the famine, Joseph made sure that his family was well supplied.
- 47:13 Now there was no bread: The famine was severe even in Egypt.
- 47:14 The money was quantities of silver. Because the stored foods belonged to the Egyptian state, the state's power and wealth grew immensely. The Egyptians gave up their silver, their cattle, and their property in the process of buying food to keep themselves alive. Canaan also continued to suffer from the famine.
- 47:15–19 When they ran out of money (silver), the people brought their livestock (v. 17) to purchase grain. When they no longer had livestock they sold their land. In this way the collective wealth of Canaan and Egypt went into Pharaoh's treasury.
- 47:20 The Pharaoh's ownership of the land would eventually lead to gross abuses of power. For the abuse of the Israelites, see the Book of Exodus.
- 47:23–26 With the land now in the possession of the state, Joseph imposed a system of taxation on the people. The state supplied the seed for planting, but one-fifth of the proceeds became the property of Pharaoh. This became standard practice in Egypt (v. 26). The people responded with gratitude (v. 25) because Joseph had saved their lives.
- 47:27 Jacob's family did not have to sell their possessions in order to acquire food. Since Joseph controlled all the supplies, he gave his family what they needed.
- 47:28 seventeen years: Even though Jacob had been willing to die when he rejoined his son Joseph (see 45:28; 46:30), God gave him a good number of years to enjoy his family.
- 47:29–31 Jacob wanted to do a few more things before his death. First, He wanted Joseph to promise to bury him in Canaan. Second, he wanted to bless each of Joseph's sons (see chs. 48; 49).
- 47:29 your hand under my thigh: The action suggests a most solemn and binding promise (for the same sign between Abraham and his servant, see 24:2). deal kindly and truly with me: The expression means "demonstrate to me the utmost covenant loyalty." In other words be faithful, just as God has been faithful to His promises. do not bury me in Egypt: Jacob asked to be buried in Canaan. He demonstrated his vigorous faith in God's promises by asking to be buried in the land promised to his descendants.
- 48:1 Joseph knew the end of Jacob's life was approaching (47:29), but the news came that he was sick. This chapter continues a theme in Genesis of two competing sons. For Cain and Abel, see ch. 4; for Jacob and Esau, see chs. 25–28; for Perez and Zerah, see 38:27–30. Often the younger supplants the older. God works in ways different from the ordinary and expected course of events.
- 48:3 God Almighty: This is the fifth time the name El Shaddai is found in Genesis (17:1; 28:3; 35:11; 43:14; 49:25). Luz is the older name for Bethel. Jacob recalled God's appearances to him (28:10–15, 19; 35:6–13) and God's promises to his family.
- 48:5–7 The two sons of Joseph were Manasseh and Ephraim (41:50–52). Jacob reversed their birth order. He also said that they were as much his sons as were Reuben and Simeon, his first and second sons (29:32, 33). Because of the outrageous acts of Reuben (35:22) and Simeon (34:25), both of them had fallen from favor. Levi was also implicated in the outrage of Simeon (34:25). Therefore the rights and privileges of the firstborn son were passed down to two other sons, Judah (49:8–12) and Joseph (49:22–26). Reuben as the firstborn could have received a double portion of the father's inheritance. But Jacob gave the double share to Joseph (v. 22). Joseph's two sons are then counted with their uncles as founders of the tribes of Israel.

48:7 Rachel died beside me: The aged Jacob remembered the great love of his life, Rachel, who died giving birth to Benjamin.

48:11 I had not thought to see: Jacob recalled again his grief at the thought of Joseph's death and his joy at being able to see him again in this life (46:29). Now he could see Joseph's sons as well!

48:12–14 Joseph presented his sons to his father in an act of humility and respect. He placed his sons so that his father's right hand would rest on the head of the older son and the left hand on the younger. But Jacob deliberately reversed his hands, putting Ephraim first.

48:15 In his blessing, Jacob reaffirmed his great faith in the living God. Despite the self-serving acts of his youth, Jacob's faith had matured. Jacob used the definite article with the word God to emphasize "the Genuine Deity" (as in 6:2; 22:1; 27:28; 31:11; 46:3). He identified God as the One whom Abraham and Isaac served.

48:16 The Angel is an abbreviated way of referring to the Angel of the Lord (16:7; 22:11; 24:7). my name: Jacob wanted Joseph's two sons to inherit the blessing God gave to Abraham, Isaac, and himself.

48:17 Joseph realized that his father's right hand was on the head of the younger boy, and he attempted to rearrange his father's hands. But despite his dimmed eyesight, Jacob knew completely what he was doing. Once again in Genesis, God overturned the expected order of things. The older would serve the younger—just as Jacob himself had been elevated over his older brother so long ago (27:1-28:9).

48:20 as Ephraim and as Manasseh: Jacob recited the names of Joseph's sons with the youngest first. From then on, Joseph's two sons were known in that order.

48:21 Jacob promised Joseph that he would return to the land of Canaan. The promise was fulfilled after Joseph's death (see 50:24–26).

48:22 one portion above: By blessing the two sons of Joseph on the same level as his own sons, Jacob gave to Joseph the double share. from the hand of the Amorite: This promise would be fulfilled when the Israelites returned to Canaan to possess the land God had given them (see 15:12–21).

49:1 in the last days: Jacob described the future for his descendants.

49:3, 4 Jacob began with warm words of praise to Reuben, his firstborn son (for his birth, see 29:31, 32). But he ended with a rebuke of Reuben's presumptuous actions with Bilhah (35:22). By going to his father's bed, Reuben was attempting to solidify his claims as the firstborn son. In fact, he doomed his cause.

49:5–7 Simeon and Levi are linked because of the fierce and cruel revenge they took against Shechem and his people (see ch. 34). Even though Shechem had raped their sister, their vengeance was excessive, and an outrage against the sacred rite of circumcision. Because of what they did, Jacob described them as instruments of cruelty. Their anger was fierce and cruel, not righteous or zealous for God's honor (vv. 6, 7). Because of their actions, they would be scattered in Israel. Later, Simeon's allotment was scattered within the larger sphere of the tribe of Judah (Josh. 19:1–9), and Levi's allotment was scattered in cities throughout the land (Josh. 21).

49:8 Judah . . . shall praise: This verse is a wordplay on the meaning of Judah's name, "Let God Be Praised" (for the birth of Judah, see 29:35). Jacob's praise for Judah was surpassed only by his praise for Joseph (vv. 22–26; see ch. 48). Judah rose to the leadership of the 12 sons as Jacob passed over Reuben, Simeon, and Levi. Judah's selfless actions to save his brother Benjamin were exemplary (44:18–34), especially after the sorry episodes described in ch. 38.

49:9 The lion is an ancient royal symbol. It appears in Balaam's oracle (Num. 23; 24).

49:10 The scepter is an ornate staff or rod that is a symbol of royal authority. A lawgiver is the one who issues statutes. With these words, Jacob predicted that a royal line would rise from Judah's descendants. Shiloh is an obscure word, probably meaning the one "To Whom It Belongs." That is, until the One to whom all royal authority belongs comes, the tribe of Judah will always have a lawgiver in its ranks (Is. 9:1–6). Shiloh, like Seed (3:15), is a name for the coming Messiah.

49:11, 12 The imagery in this verse describes the warfare that the Messiah will wage to establish His reign (Ps. 2; 110; Rev. 19:11–21). Wine recalls the color of blood. The colors of his eyes and teeth speak of vitality and victory. The language of this passage expresses the mystery and wonder surrounding this Coming One, Shiloh.

49:13 Zebulun is given precedence over his brother Issachar (vv. 14, 15; for Zebulun's birth, see 30:19, 20). His blessing will be the northern coastlands bordering Phoenicia (cf. Josh. 18:10–16).

49:14 Jacob's words to Issachar portend a heavy enslavement following a time of plenty (see Is. 9:1). For the birth of Issachar, see 30:14–18. For Issachar's allotment, compare Josh. 19:17–23.

49:16 Dan shall judge: Dan's name is related to the word meaning "judge" (for his birth, see 30:1–6).

49:17, 18 A viper by the path: This possibly means that some of Dan's descendants would abandon their faith in the Lord. Yet the godly can still expect salvation from the Lord.

49:19 Gad, a troop shall tramp upon him: Although the tribe of Gad will endure hardship, ultimate victory is promised. For Gad's birth, see 30:9–11.

49:20 The brief words to Asher were happy and hopeful. For Asher's birth, see 30:12, 13.

49:21 Naphtali: Again, the brief words promised hope and joy. For Naphtali's birth to Rachel's maid Bilhah, see 30:7, 8.

49:22 Joseph: Only the promises given to Judah (vv. 8–12) can rival the praise Jacob gave to Joseph. For Joseph's birth to Rachel, see 30:22–24; for the exaltation of Joseph's family, see ch. 48.

49:23 The imagery of archers who shot at him represents Joseph's personal experience at the hands of his brothers and then the Egyptians (chs. 37; 39; 40).

49:24 Jacob described Joseph's eventual triumph. Not only did Joseph have great strength of character represented by the strong bow, he was protected by the Mighty God of Jacob. This is the first of five titles that Jacob used to describe God as he blessed Joseph (vv. 24, 25). The word translated as Mighty is found also at Ps. 132:2, 5; Is. 1:24; 49:26; 60:16. In all of these places it serves as a name for God. Using this special term for God in his blessing shows what great affection he had for his son Joseph. Second, Jacob called the Lord the great Shepherd. This term also would have great significance for a family of shepherds. God is the one Good Shepherd, who truly cares for the flock (Ps. 23; John 10). Even the Egyptian Pharaoh, who despised shepherds (46:28–47:6), appeared in statues with a shepherd's crook to represent his benevolent care for the nation. Third, Jacob praised God as the Stone of Israel. On the occasions when God spoke to him, Jacob (or Israel) erected stone pillars to commemorate the event (28:18). God had become for him the "Stone of Israel," the Rock that typifies stability and trustworthiness.

49:25 The fourth term Jacob used for God in the blessing of Joseph is the God of your father. Earlier, Jacob had described the Lord as the God of Abraham and Isaac (48:15). Here he expressed his faith in the God who had blessed him. Finally, Jacob called God the Almighty. This is the sixth and final time El Shaddai is used in Genesis. This name of God is found in association with Abraham (17:1), Isaac (28:3), Jacob (28:3; 35:11; 43:14; 48:3), and Joseph (here). In Exodus, God identified Himself to Moses with this name (see Ex. 6:3). In this way, with five titles for God, Jacob prayed manifold blessings on Joseph.

Almighty

(Heb. shadday) (17:1; 28:3; 35:11; 43:14; 48:3; 49:25; Job 37:23) Strong's #7706

This divine name in Hebrew is 'El Shadday. 'El means God, and Shadday is probably related to the Akkadian word for “mountain,” or to a Hebrew verb meaning “mighty.” God is “mountainlike.” He is powerful, majestic, awe-inspiring, and enduring. Just like a mountain, He provides a shelter from the elements and from evil (Ps. 91:1, 2). Therefore, 'El Shadday can mean “Majestic Deity” or “the God Who Provides My Refuge.”

- 49:26 Jacob's blessing on Joseph concluded with the most enthusiastic words. Separate is the word also used for the Nazirites (Num. 6:1–21). Both Joseph and later Nazirites were separated from others in order to serve God's holy purposes.
- 49:27 Benjamin: The image of a wolf is ominous (Judg. 20:21–25). For Benjamin's birth and the death of his mother Rachel, see 35:16–20.
- 49:28 the twelve tribes of Israel: Jacob's blessings are prophecies about the destiny of each tribe. Some of the blessings are obscure. But the blessings on Judah (vv. 8–12) and Joseph (vv. 22–26) are clear prophecies from God about their destinies (cf. Moses' blessing of the tribes of Israel, Deut. 33).
- 49:29 bury me with my fathers: Jacob challenged his sons not to bury him in Egypt. Certainly Jacob knew that many thousands of his descendants would be buried in Egypt during the 400 years of their prophesied sojourn (15:13–16). But God had promised him that he would return to the Promised Land (46:4). His son Joseph had sworn a solemn oath to bury him in Canaan (47:29–31). Now at the moment of death, Jacob wanted more assurance that this oath would be kept.
- 49:30–33 Jacob identified the place as the cave . . . Machpelah, where Jacob's father, mother, grandfather, and grandmother were buried. Abraham had purchased this land as a burial place for Sarah (ch. 23). gathered to his people: This phrase refers to death (15:15; 25:8; 35:29), but it also may refer to immortality (2 Sam. 12:23).
- 50:1 wept: Joseph expressed his strong, genuine love for his father (see 45:1–3; 46:29).
- 50:2 embalm: Joseph directed that his father be embalmed so that he could be buried in Canaan. One day Joseph would also be embalmed (v. 26).
- 50:4 Joseph made his request to leave Egypt to bury his father's remains in Canaan. The expression to the household of Pharaoh indicates that even Joseph did not always have immediate access to Pharaoh's presence.
- 50:10, 11 At Atad, east of the Jordan River, the delegation mourned another seven days. This is the entrance to the Promised Land. The Canaanites were so impressed with the party of mourners that they named the place for them.
- 50:15 Joseph's brothers had a new fear. What if Joseph's kindness to them were something Joseph showed merely to please his father? With Jacob dead, would Joseph take revenge?

50:16, 17 The message may have been truthful or it might have been an invention of the brothers reacting to their fear. trespass . . . sin: The evil the brothers had done to Joseph (for Jacob's use of the same words to Laban, see 31:36). Joseph wept: Joseph accepted the confession in the message as a sincere confession from his brothers.

50:20, 21 you meant evil: Joseph spoke clearly about how he viewed the events of his life (45:4–8). God meant it for good: God transformed the evil of a group of men into an exceedingly great work. Joseph not only saved the lives of numerous people in the ancient world, he also testified to the power and goodness of the living God. God works His good plan even through the evil plans of evil people.

50:22 one hundred and ten years: God blessed Joseph with a long life. This age may be compared to the 175 years of Abraham (25:7), 180 years of Isaac (35:28), and 147 years of Jacob (47:28).

50:23 children of Machir: The listing of the children of Ephraim before the children of Manasseh is a step in the fulfillment of Jacob's blessing. The younger son of Joseph was elevated over his older brother (see 48:8–22).

50:24 God will surely visit you: On his deathbed, Joseph expressed continuing faith in the promises of God. He reassured his relatives that God would continue to work in the family. In His time (see 15:12–16), God would keep His promise to give Canaan to Abraham's descendants (see 12:7; 26:3; 35:12; 46:4). to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob: This phrase is the standard way of referring to God's covenant to Abraham's family (see 48:15; 49:25; Ex. 2:24; 3:16). The recital of the three names reaffirms the certainty of the promise and God's commitment to fulfill it.

50:25 an oath: Joseph had buried his father Jacob in Canaan (vv. 7–14). Now he had the Israelites swear that they would take his bones to the Promised Land when the entire nation of Israel returned to Canaan. In this oath Joseph expressed his complete belief that God would keep His promise to give the land of Canaan to the Israelites (Heb. 11:22). Hundreds of years later, Moses would keep the Israelites' oath by taking Joseph's bones with the people into the wilderness (Ex. 13:19). Finally, Joshua would bury the bones of Joseph at Shechem after the conquest of Canaan (Josh. 24:32).

50:26 Joseph was embalmed, like Jacob (vv. 1–3) and all members of the Egyptian ruling class.

Introduction

The Book of Exodus describes the central historical event for the Israelites—their salvation from slavery in Egypt. In addition to being the Creator of the entire universe and the One who had covenanted with Abraham’s family, God emerges in Exodus as the Savior of the Israelites. He saved them from Egyptian slavery and in the process molded them into a nation, as He promised Abram in Genesis 12:1–3. Similar to a child, Israel was “born” as a nation in the Exodus, grew and developed in the wilderness, and reached adulthood in the Promised Land. The Book of Exodus records the origin of this nation and can be considered the foundational charter for Israel.

Moses, the main character in this book, participated in an epic drama that featured unforgettable confrontations with a stubborn pharaoh, a last-minute escape, and a joyful celebration. Throughout this entire drama, God demonstrated His power and holiness through miraculous signs and wonders. Finally, through Moses at Mount Sinai, God taught His people how to become a kingdom of priests and a holy nation dedicated to serving and worshiping Him (19:6).

Author Traditionally, Jewish and Christian scholars have agreed that Moses compiled and wrote Exodus, along with the other books of the Pentateuch (Genesis through Deuteronomy). With the exception of the historical summary in the first chapter and the genealogical section in the sixth chapter, Moses participated in or observed all the events described in the book. Furthermore, unlike Genesis, Exodus mentions Moses' writing (see 17:14; 24:4; 34:27). Moses' training in the Pharaoh's court (2:10; Acts 7:22) would have prepared him wonderfully for the task of the writing. However, Moses may not have written every word in Exodus. For example, the genealogical section in 6:14–27 appears to be a later scribal addition to the book. Yet, it is still reasonable to identify Moses as the architect and principal author of Exodus.

Some have observed that it would be unlikely for an author to use the third person ("he" or "Moses") rather than the first person ("I") in a narrative in which the author was so intimately involved. Yet in ancient cultures, the use of the third person for the narrator was customary.

Moses probably wrote his memoirs—which became the Pentateuch—while he was wandering in the wilderness with the Israelites. He wrote the early portions of the Exodus, we suspect, with the full assurance that he would be a participant in Israel's blessing in the Land of Promise. Only much later (Num. 20:1–13) did Moses lose his opportunity to enter the land.

Principal Themes Exodus has two principal sections. The first section, written as a story of epic prose (chs. 1–18), portrays God as the Savior and Provider for His people.

God first saved the infant Moses from a watery death and then provided him with the best education in the ancient world—Pharaoh's court. In this royal court and later in the Midianite wilderness, God shaped Moses into an instrument for saving His people, the Israelites, from slavery. Then at the chosen time, God sent Moses and Aaron to confront Pharaoh, the Israelites' oppressor. The miraculous signs and plagues displayed in this dramatic encounter demonstrated God's power over the supposed gods of Egypt—especially Pharaoh, who claimed he was an incarnate deity. Since Pharaoh had attempted to destroy God's firstborn son (the people of Israel; see 4:22, 23), the Lord, in the tenth plague, destroyed the Egyptians' firstborn sons. But the Lord passed over or saved the firstborn sons of the Israelites because they were His people and had obeyed His instructions concerning the Passover Feast (ch. 12). With this tenth plague, the Lord saved His people from slavery. At the Red Sea, God saved them again—this time from the power of the Egyptian army (see 12:31–42; 13:17—15:21). The enslaved people were free! God was their Savior!

Not only did God save these slaves, He provided for them. When the Israelites left Egypt, God prompted the Egyptians to give them all kinds of goods (12:36). Then in the wilderness He turned bitter waters sweet (15:22–27), gave manna from heaven (ch. 16), and brought water from a rock (17:1–7). Yet even with these miraculous provisions, the Israelites murmured and complained. They had barely finished singing the praises of the Lord (15:1–21) when they begin to murmur against His goodness (15:24). When would they trust in God their Provider?

The second section of the Book of Exodus is a series of detailed laws and instructions (chs. 19–40). However, these laws are no ordinary laws. They reveal the very character of God. They reveal God as a Lawgiver and as the Holy One.

This second section of Exodus records God's benevolent laws given in the context of a treaty with the Israelites. The Hebrew word translated law always has a positive meaning—"instruction." The law is like an outstretched finger, pointing out the direction a person should take in life. In the Ten Commandments (20:1–17), God mercifully pointed out His way to His people—the way to life. But benevolent instruction was only part of God's plan for the Israelites. His larger plan was to establish a relationship with them based on a formal treaty (ch. 20).

Exodus concludes with instructions about the tabernacle—its construction, furnishing, and services. Many of these instructions point to the person and work of the Lord Jesus Christ. These instructions and their encounter with God at Mount Sinai taught the Israelites that God is perfect and holy. He can be approached only in the way He prescribes.

At the close of Exodus, we read how the Israelites completed the construction of the tabernacle (39:33) and the glory of the Lord came to fill it (40:34). God had saved His people, provided for them, made a treaty with them, and taught them how to live. Finally He lived with them (Ex. 25:8; 29:45). All was ready, it seemed, for the journey to the Land of Promise.

Christ in the Scriptures

In numerous ways, Moses is a type of Christ (Deut. 18:15). Both Moses and Christ functioned as prophet, priest, and king. (Although Moses was never officially made king, he functioned as the ruler of Israel.) Both were endangered in infancy and hidden by their parents in order to escape death. Both acted as redeemers, saving the people whom they loved. Both voluntarily renounced power and wealth in order to associate with those they sought to save. Both were deliverers, lawgivers, and mediators. Further, Christ is clearly seen in the celebration of the Jewish Passover—that historic event (described in chs. 12; 13) that required the blood of a pure, sacrificial lamb to be painted over the doorposts of the Hebrews' homes to spare them from God's judgment and then usher them to freedom from slavery in Egypt. John 1:29, 36 and 1 Corinthians 5:7 make it clear that Christ is our Passover Lamb. It is His death—His blood applied, as it were, over the doorposts of our lives—that rescues us from divine condemnation.

Exodus 1

Israel's Suffering in Egypt ¹Now ^a*these are the names of the children of Israel who came to Egypt; each man and his household came with Jacob:*
²*Reuben, Simeon, Levi, and Judah; ³Issachar, Zebulun, and Benjamin;*
⁴*Dan, Naphtali, Gad, and Asher.*

⁵All those ¹who were descendants of Jacob were ^bseventy² persons (for Joseph was in Egypt already).

⁶And ^cJoseph died, all his brothers, and all that generation.

^{7d}But the children of Israel were fruitful and increased abundantly, multiplied and ³grew exceedingly mighty; and the land was filled with them.

⁸Now there arose a new king over Egypt, ^ewho did not know Joseph. Charts and Diagrams: The Pharaohs and the Exodus Story

⁹And he said to his people, “Look, the people of the children of Israel are more and ^fmightier than we; ^{10g}“come, let us ^hdeal shrewdly with them, lest they multiply, and it happen, in the event of war, that they also join our enemies and fight against us, and so go up out of the land.”

¹¹Therefore they set taskmasters over them ⁱto afflict them with their ^jburdens. And they built for Pharaoh ^ksupply cities, Pithom ^land Raamses.

¹²But the more they afflicted them, the more they multiplied and grew. And they were in dread of the children of Israel.

¹³So the Egyptians made the children of Israel ^mserve with ⁴rigor.

¹⁴And they ⁿmade their lives bitter with hard bondage—^oin mortar, in brick, and in all manner of service in the field. All their service in which they made them serve was with rigor.

¹⁵Then the king of Egypt spoke to the ^pHebrew midwives, of whom the name of one was Shiphrah and the name of the other Puah; ¹⁶and he said, “When you do the duties of a midwife for the Hebrew women, and see them on the birthstools, if it is a ^qson, then you shall kill him; but if it is a daughter, then she shall live.”

¹⁷But the midwives ^rfeared God, and did not do ^sas the king of Egypt commanded them, but saved the male children alive.

¹⁸So the king of Egypt called for the midwives and said to them, “Why have you done this thing, and saved the male children alive?”

¹⁹And ^tthe midwives said to Pharaoh, “Because the Hebrew women are not like the Egyptian women; for they ⁵are lively and give birth before the midwives come to them.”

²⁰Therefore God dealt well with the midwives, and the people multiplied and ⁶grew very mighty.

²¹And so it was, because the midwives feared God, ^vthat He ⁷provided households for them.

²²So Pharaoh commanded all his people, saying, ^w“Every son who is ⁸born you shall cast into the river, and every daughter you shall save alive.”

Exodus 2

Moses Is Born (Heb. 11:23) ¹And ^aa man of the house of Levi went and took as wife a daughter of Levi.

²So the woman conceived and bore a son. And ^bwhen she saw that he was a beautiful child, she hid him three months.

³But when she could no longer hide him, she took an ark of ^cbulrushes for him, daubed it with ^dasphalt and ^epitch, put the child in it, and laid it in the reeds ^fby the river's bank. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Egypt

^{4g}And his sister stood afar off, to know what would be done to him.

⁵Then the ^hdaughter of Pharaoh came down to bathe at the river. And her maidens walked along the riverside; and when she saw the ark among the reeds, she sent her maid to get it.

⁶And when she opened it, she saw the child, and behold, the baby wept. So she had compassion on him, and said, "This is one of the Hebrews' children."

⁷Then his sister said to Pharaoh's daughter, "Shall I go and call a nurse for you from the Hebrew women, that she may nurse the child for you?"

⁸And Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Go." So the maiden went and called the child's mother.

⁹Then Pharaoh's daughter said to her, "Take this child away and nurse him for me, and I will give you your wages." So the woman took the child and nursed him.

¹⁰And the child grew, and she brought him to Pharaoh's daughter, and he became ⁱher son. So she called his name ¹Moses, saying, "Because I drew him out of the water."

Moses Flees to Midian (Heb. 11:24, 25) ¹¹Now it came to pass in those days, ^jwhen Moses was grown, that he went out to his brethren and looked at their burdens. And he saw an Egyptian beating a Hebrew, one of his brethren.

¹²So he looked this way and that way, and when he saw no one, he ^kkilled the Egyptian and hid him in the sand.

¹³And ^lwhen he went out the second day, behold, two Hebrew men ^mwere fighting, and he said to the one who did the wrong, "Why are you striking your companion?"

¹⁴Then he said, ⁿ“Who made you a prince and a judge over us? Do you intend to kill me as you killed the Egyptian?” So Moses ^ofeared and said, “Surely this thing is known!”

¹⁵When Pharaoh heard of this matter, he sought to kill Moses. But ^pMoses fled from ²the face of Pharaoh and dwelt in the land of ^qMidian; and he sat down by ^ra well.

¹⁶sNow the priest of Midian had seven daughters. ^tAnd they came and drew water, and they filled the ^utroughs to water their father’s flock.

¹⁷Then the ^vshepherds came and ^wdrove them away; but Moses stood up and helped them, and ^xwatered their flock.

¹⁸When they came to ^yReuel³ their father, ^zhe said, “How is it that you have come so soon today?”

¹⁹And they said, “An Egyptian delivered us from the hand of the shepherds, and he also drew enough water for us and watered the flock.”

²⁰So he said to his daughters, “And where is he? Why is it that you have left the man? Call him, that he may ^aeat bread.”

²¹Then Moses was content to live with the man, and he gave ^bZipporah his daughter to Moses.

²²And she bore him a son. He called his name ^cGershom,⁴ for he said, “I have been ^da ⁵stranger in a foreign land.”

²³Now it happened ^ein the process of time that the king of Egypt died. Then the children of Israel ^fgroaned because of the bondage, and they cried out; and ^gtheir cry came up to God because of the bondage.

²⁴So God ^hheard their groaning, and God ⁱremembered His ^jcovenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob.

²⁵And God ^klooked upon the children of Israel, and God ^lacknowledged them.

Exodus 3

Moses at the Burning Bush (Ex. 6:2—7:7; 11:1–4; 12:35, 36) ¹Now Moses was tending the flock of ^aJethro his father-in-law, ^bthe priest of Midian. And he led the flock to the back of the desert, and came to ^cHoreb, ^dthe mountain of God.

²And ^ethe Angel of the LORD appeared to him in a flame of fire from the midst of a bush. So he looked, and behold, the bush was burning with fire, but the bush was not consumed.

³Then Moses said, “I will now turn aside and see this ^fgreat sight, why the bush does not burn.”

⁴So when the LORD saw that he turned aside to look, God called ^gto him from the midst of the bush and said, “Moses, Moses!” And he said, “Here I am.”

⁵Then He said, “Do not draw near this place. ^hTake your sandals off your feet, for the place where you stand is holy ground.”

⁶Moreover He said, ⁱ“I am the God of your father—the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob.” And Moses hid his face, for ^jhe was afraid to look upon God.

⁷And the LORD said: ^k“I have surely seen the oppression of My people who are in Egypt, and have heard their cry ^lbecause of their taskmasters, ^mfor I know their ¹sorrows.

⁸“So ⁿI have come down to ^odeliver them out of the hand of the Egyptians, and to bring them up from that land ^pto a good and large land, to a land ^qflowing with milk and honey, to the place of ^rthe Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites. Word Studies: delivered

¹⁰“Come now, therefore, and I will send you to Pharaoh that you may bring My people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt.”

¹¹But Moses said to God, ^v“Who am I that I should go to Pharaoh, and that I should bring the children of Israel out of Egypt?”

¹²So He said, ^w“I will certainly be with you. And this shall be a ^xsign to you that I have sent you: When you have brought the people out of Egypt, you shall serve God on this mountain.”

¹³Then Moses said to God, “Indeed, when I come to the children of Israel and say to them, ‘The God of your fathers has sent me to you,’ and they say to me, ‘What is His name?’ what shall I say to them?”

¹⁴And God said to Moses, “I AM WHO I AM.” And He said, “Thus you shall say to the children of Israel, ^y‘I AM has sent me to you.’ ”

¹⁵Moreover God said to Moses, “Thus you shall say to the children of Israel: ‘The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has sent me to you. This is ^zMy name forever, and this is My memorial to all generations.’

¹⁶“Go and ^agather the elders of Israel together, and say to them, ‘The LORD God of your fathers, the God of Abraham, of Isaac, and of Jacob, appeared to me, saying, ^b“I have surely visited you and seen what is done to you in Egypt; ¹⁷“and I have said ^cI will bring you up out of the affliction of Egypt to the land of the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, to a land flowing with milk and honey.” ’

¹⁸“Then ^dthey will heed your voice; and ^eyou shall come, you and the elders of Israel, to the king of Egypt; and you shall say to him, ‘The LORD God of the Hebrews has ^fmet with us; and now, please, let us go three days’ journey into the wilderness, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God.’

¹⁹“But I am sure that the king of Egypt ^gwill not let you go, no, not even by a mighty hand.

²⁰“So I will ^hstretch out My hand and strike Egypt with ⁱall My wonders which I will do in its midst; and ^jafter that he will let you go.

²¹“And ^kI will give this people favor in the sight of the Egyptians; and it shall be, when you go, that you shall not go empty-handed.

²²“But every woman shall ask of her neighbor, namely, of her who dwells near her house, ^marticles of silver, articles of gold, and clothing; and you shall put them on your sons and on your daughters. So ⁿyou shall plunder the Egyptians.”

Exodus 4

Miraculous Signs for Pharaoh ¹*Then Moses answered and said, “But suppose they will not believe me or listen to my voice; suppose they say, ‘The LORD has not appeared to you.’ ”*

²So the LORD said to him, “What is that in your hand?” He said, “A rod.”

³And He said, “Cast it on the ground.” So he cast it on the ground, and it became a serpent; and Moses fled from it.

⁴Then the LORD said to Moses, “Reach out your hand and take it by the tail” (and he reached out his hand and caught it, and it became a rod in his hand), ⁵“that they may ^abelieve that the ^bLORD God of their fathers, the God of Abraham, the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob, has appeared to you.”

⁶Furthermore the LORD said to him, “Now put your hand in your bosom.” And he put his hand in his bosom, and when he took it out, behold, his hand was leprous, ^clike snow.

⁷And He said, “Put your hand in your bosom again.” So he put his hand in his bosom again, and drew it out of his bosom, and behold, ^dit was restored like his other flesh.

⁸“Then it will be, if they do not believe you, nor heed the message of the ^efirst sign, that they may believe the message of the latter sign.

⁹“And it shall be, if they do not believe even these two signs, or listen to your voice, that you shall take water from ¹the river and pour it on the dry land. ^fThe water which you take from the river will become blood on the dry land.”

¹⁰Then Moses said to the LORD, “O my Lord, I am not eloquent, neither before nor since You have spoken to Your servant; but ^gI am slow of speech and ²slow of tongue.”

¹¹So the LORD said to him, ^h“Who has made man’s mouth? Or who makes the mute, the deaf, the seeing, or the blind? Have not I, the LORD?

¹²“Now therefore, go, and I will be ⁱwith your mouth and teach you what you shall say.”

¹³But he said, “O my Lord, ^jplease send by the hand of whomever else You may send.”

¹⁴So ^kthe anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses, and He said: “Is not Aaron the Levite your ^lbrother? I know that he can speak well. And look, ^mhe is also coming out to meet you. When he sees you, he will be glad in his heart.

¹⁵“Now ⁿyou shall speak to him and ^oput the words in his mouth. And I will be with your mouth and with his mouth, and ^pI will teach you what you shall do.

¹⁶“So he shall be your spokesman to the people. And he himself shall be as a mouth for you, and ^qyou shall be to him as God.

¹⁷“And you shall take this rod in your hand, with which you shall do the signs.”

Moses Goes to Egypt ¹⁸So Moses went and returned to ^rJethro his father-in-law, and said to him, “Please let me go and return to my brethren who are in Egypt, and see whether they are still alive.” And Jethro said to Moses, ^s“Go in peace.”

¹⁹Now the LORD said to Moses in ^tMidian, “Go, return to ^uEgypt; for ^vall the men who sought your life are dead.”

²⁰Then Moses ^wtook his wife and his sons and set them on a donkey, and he returned to the land of Egypt. And Moses took ^xthe rod of God in his hand.

²¹And the LORD said to Moses, “When you go back to Egypt, see that you do all those ^ywonders before Pharaoh which I have put in your hand. But ^zI will harden his heart, so that he will not let the people go.

²²“Then you shall ^asay to Pharaoh, ‘Thus says the LORD: ^b“Israel is My son, ^cMy firstborn.

²³“So I say to you, let My son go that he may serve Me. But if you refuse to let him go, indeed ^dI will kill your son, your firstborn.” ’ ”

²⁴And it came to pass on the way, at the ^eencampment, that the LORD ^fmet him and sought to ^gkill him.

²⁵Then ^hZipporah took ⁱa sharp stone and cut off the foreskin of her son and ³cast it at ⁴Moses’ feet, and said, “Surely you are a husband of blood to me!”

²⁶So He let him go. Then she said, “You are a ⁵husband of blood!”—because of the circumcision.

²⁷And the LORD said to Aaron, “Go into the wilderness ^jto meet Moses.” So he went and met him on ^kthe mountain of God, and kissed him.

²⁸So Moses ^ltold Aaron all the words of the LORD who had sent him, and all the ^msigns which He had commanded him.

²⁹Then Moses and Aaron ⁿwent and gathered together all the elders of the children of Israel.

³⁰And Aaron spoke all the words which the LORD had spoken to Moses. Then he did the signs in the sight of the people.

³¹So the people ^pbelieved; and when they heard that the LORD had ^qvisited the children of Israel and that He ^rhad looked on their affliction, then ^sthey bowed their heads and worshiped.

Exodus 5

First Encounter with Pharaoh ¹*Afterward Moses and Aaron went in and told Pharaoh, “Thus says the LORD God of Israel: ‘Let My people go, that they may ¹hold ^aa feast to Me in the wilderness.’ ”*

²And Pharaoh said, ^b“Who is the LORD, that I should obey His voice to let Israel go? I do not know the LORD, ^cnor will I let Israel go.”

³So they said, ^d“The God of the Hebrews has ^emet with us. Please, let us go three days’ journey into the desert and sacrifice to the LORD our God, lest He fall upon us with ^fpestilence or with the sword.”

⁴Then the king of Egypt said to them, “Moses and Aaron, why do you take the people from their work? Get back to your ^glabor.”

⁵And Pharaoh said, “Look, the people of the land are ^hmany now, and you make them rest from their labor!”

⁶So the same day Pharaoh commanded the ⁱtaskmasters of the people and their officers, saying, ⁷“You shall no longer give the people straw to make ^jbrick as before. Let them go and gather straw for themselves. Bible Times & Culture

Notes: Bricks

⁸“And you shall lay on them the quota of bricks which they made before. You shall not reduce it. For they are idle; therefore they cry out, saying, ‘Let us go and sacrifice to our God.’

⁹“Let more work be laid on the men, that they may labor in it, and let them not regard false words.”

¹⁰And the taskmasters of the people and their officers went out and spoke to the people, saying, “Thus says Pharaoh: ‘I will not give you straw.

¹¹‘Go, get yourselves straw where you can find it; yet none of your work will be reduced.’ ”

¹²So the people were scattered abroad throughout all the land of Egypt to gather stubble instead of straw.

¹³And the taskmasters forced them to hurry, saying, “Fulfill your work, your daily quota, as when there was straw.”

¹⁴Also the ^kofficers of the children of Israel, whom Pharaoh’s taskmasters had set over them, were ^lbeaten and were asked, “Why have you not fulfilled your task in making brick both yesterday and today, as before?”

¹⁵Then the officers of the children of Israel came and cried out to Pharaoh, saying, “Why are you dealing thus with your servants?

¹⁶“There is no straw given to your servants, and they say to us, ‘Make brick!’ And indeed your servants are beaten, but the fault is in your own people.”

¹⁷But he said, “You are idle! Idle! Therefore you say, ‘Let us go and sacrifice to the LORD.’

¹⁸“Therefore go now and work; for no straw shall be given you, yet you shall deliver the quota of bricks.”

¹⁹And the officers of the children of Israel saw that they were in trouble after it was said, “You shall not reduce any bricks from your daily quota.”

²⁰Then, as they came out from Pharaoh, they met Moses and Aaron who stood there to meet them.

^{21m}And they said to them, “Let the LORD look on you and judge, because you have made ²us abhorrent in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of his servants, to put a sword in their hand to kill us.”

Israel’s Deliverance Assured (Ex. 3:1—4:17) ²²So Moses returned to the LORD and said, “Lord, why have You brought trouble on this people? Why is it You have sent me?

²³“For since I came to Pharaoh to speak in Your name, he has done evil to this people; neither have You delivered Your people at all.”

Exodus 6

¹Then the LORD said to Moses, “Now you shall see what I will do to Pharaoh. For ^awith a strong hand he will let them go, and with a strong hand ^bhe will drive them out of his land.”

²And God spoke to Moses and said to him: “I am ¹the LORD.

^{3c}“I appeared to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, as ^dGod Almighty, but by My name ^eLORD² I was not known to them.

^{4f}“I have also ³established My covenant with them, ^gto give them the land of Canaan, the land of their ⁴pilgrimage, ^hin which they were ⁵strangers.

⁶“Therefore say to the children of Israel: ^j‘I am the LORD; ^kI will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, I will ^lrescue you from their bondage, and I will redeem you with ⁶an outstretched arm and with great judgments.

⁷‘I will ^mtake you as My people, and ⁿI will be your God. Then you shall know that I am the LORD your God who brings you out ^ofrom under the burdens of the Egyptians.

⁸‘And I will bring you into the land which I ^pswore⁷ to give to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; and I will give it to you as a heritage: I am the LORD.’ ”

⁹So Moses spoke thus to the children of Israel; ^qbut they did not heed Moses, because of ^ranguish⁸ of spirit and cruel bondage.

¹⁰And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ¹¹“Go in, tell Pharaoh king of Egypt to let the children of Israel go out of his land.”

¹²And Moses spoke before the LORD, saying, “The children of Israel have not heeded me. How then shall Pharaoh heed me, for ^sI am ⁹of uncircumcised lips?”

¹³Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, and gave them a ^tcommand¹⁰ for the children of Israel and for Pharaoh king of Egypt, to bring the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt.

The Family of Moses and Aaron (Gen. 46:8–27) ¹⁴These are the heads of their fathers’ houses: ^uThe sons of Reuben, the firstborn of Israel, were Hanoch, Pallu, Hezron, and Carmi. These are the families of Reuben.

^{15v}And the sons of Simeon were ¹¹Jemuel, Jamin, Ohad, Jachin, Zohar, and Shaul the son of a Canaanite woman. These are the families of Simeon.

¹⁶These are the names of ^wthe sons of Levi according to their generations: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. And the years of the life of Levi were one hundred and thirty-seven.

^{17x}The sons of Gershon were Libni and Shimi according to their families.

¹⁸And ^ythe sons of Kohath were Amram, Izhar, Hebron, and Uzziel. And the years of the life of Kohath were one hundred and thirty-three.

^{19z}The sons of Merari were Mahli and Mushi. These are the families of Levi according to their generations.

²⁰Now ^aAmram took for himself ^bJochebed, his father's sister, as wife; and she bore him ^cAaron and Moses. And the years of the life of Amram were one hundred and thirty-seven.

^{21d}The sons of Izhar were Korah, Nepheg, and Zichri.

²²And ^ethe sons of Uzziel were Mishael, Elzaphan, and Zithri.

²³Aaron took to himself Elisheba, daughter of ^fAmminadab, sister of Nahshon, as wife; and she bore him ^gNadab, Abihu, ^hEleazar, and Ithamar.

²⁴And ⁱthe sons of Korah were Assir, Elkanah, and Abiasaph. These are the families of the Korahites.

²⁵Eleazar, Aaron's son, took for himself one of the daughters of Putiel as wife; and ^jshe bore him Phinehas. These are the heads of the fathers' houses of the Levites according to their families.

²⁶These are the same Aaron and Moses to whom the LORD said, "Bring out the children of Israel from the land of Egypt according to their ^karmies."¹²

²⁷These are the ones who spoke to Pharaoh king of Egypt, ^lto bring out the children of Israel from Egypt. These are the same Moses and Aaron.

Aaron Is Moses' Spokesman ²⁸And it came to pass, on the day the LORD spoke to Moses in the land of Egypt, ²⁹that the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, "I am the LORD. ^mSpeak to Pharaoh king of Egypt all that I say to you."

³⁰But Moses said before the LORD, "Behold, ⁿI am ¹³of uncircumcised lips, and how shall Pharaoh heed me?"

Exodus 7

¹So the LORD said to Moses: “See, I have made you ^aas God to Pharaoh, and Aaron your brother shall be ^byour prophet.

²“You ^cshall speak all that I command you. And Aaron your brother shall tell Pharaoh to send the children of Israel out of his land.

³“And ^dI will harden Pharaoh’s heart, and ^emultiply My ^fsigns and My wonders in the land of Egypt.

⁴“But ^gPharaoh will not heed you, so ^hthat I may lay My hand on Egypt and bring My ⁱarmies and My people, the children of Israel, out of the land of Egypt ^jby great judgments.

⁵“And the Egyptians ^jshall know that I am the LORD, when I ^kstretch out My hand on Egypt and ^lbring out the children of Israel from among them.”

⁶Then Moses and Aaron ^mdid so; just as the LORD commanded them, so they did.

⁷And Moses was ⁿeighty years old and ^oAaron eighty-three years old when they spoke to Pharaoh.

Aaron’s Miraculous Rod (Ex. 4:1–5) ⁸Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, ⁹“When Pharaoh speaks to you, saying, ^p‘Show a miracle for yourselves,’ then you shall say to Aaron, ^q‘Take your rod and cast it before Pharaoh, and let it become a serpent.’ ”

¹⁰So Moses and Aaron went in to Pharaoh, and they did so, just ^ras the LORD commanded. And Aaron cast down his rod before Pharaoh and before his servants, and it ^sbecame a serpent.

¹¹But Pharaoh also ^tcalled the wise men and ^uthe ²sorcerers; so the magicians of Egypt, they also ^vdid in like manner with their ³enchantments.

¹²For every man threw down his rod, and they became serpents. But Aaron’s rod swallowed up their rods.

¹³And Pharaoh’s heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, as the LORD had said. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Hard of Heart

The First Plague: Waters Become Blood ¹⁴So the LORD said to Moses: ^w“Pharaoh’s heart is hard; he refuses to let the people go.

¹⁶“And you shall say to him, ^z‘The LORD God of the Hebrews has sent me to you, saying, “Let My people go, ^athat they may ⁴serve Me in the wilderness”; but indeed, until now you would not hear!

¹⁷‘Thus says the LORD: “By this ^byou shall know that I am the LORD. Behold, I will strike the waters which are in the river with the rod that is in my hand, and ^cthey shall be turned ^dto blood.

¹⁸“And the fish that are in the river shall die, the river shall stink, and the Egyptians will ^eloathe⁵ to drink the water of the river.” ’ ”

¹⁹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, “Say to Aaron, ‘Take your rod and ^fstretch out your hand over the waters of Egypt, over their streams, over their rivers, over their ponds, and over all their pools of water, that they may become blood. And there shall be blood throughout all the land of Egypt, both in buckets of wood and pitchers of stone.’ ”

²⁰And Moses and Aaron did so, just as the LORD commanded. So he ^glifted up the rod and struck the waters that were in the river, in the sight of Pharaoh and in the sight of his servants. And all the ^hwaters that were in the river were turned to blood.

²¹The fish that were in the river died, the river stank, and the Egyptians ⁱcould not drink the water of the river. So there was blood throughout all the land of Egypt.

²²Then the magicians of Egypt did ^kso with their ⁶enchantments; and Pharaoh’s heart grew hard, and he did not heed them, ¹as the LORD had said.

²³And Pharaoh turned and went into his house. Neither was his heart moved by this.

²⁴So all the Egyptians dug all around the river for water to drink, because they could not drink the water of the river.

²⁵And seven days passed after the LORD had struck the river.

Exodus 8

The Second Plague: Frogs ¹*And the LORD spoke to Moses, “Go to Pharaoh and say to him, ‘Thus says the LORD: “Let My people go, ^athat they may serve Me.*

²*“But if you ^brefuse to let them go, behold, I will smite all your territory with ^cfrogs.*

⁴*“And the frogs shall come up on you, on your people, and on all your servants.” ’ ’*

⁶*So Aaron stretched out his hand over the waters of Egypt, and ^fthe frogs came up and covered the land of Egypt.*

⁷^g*And the magicians did so with their ¹enchantments, and brought up frogs on the land of Egypt.*

⁸*Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, ^h“Entreat² the LORD that He may take away the frogs from me and from my people; and I will let the people ⁱgo, that they may sacrifice to the LORD.”* Word Studies: entreat

⁹*And Moses said to Pharaoh, “Accept the honor of saying when I shall intercede for you, for your servants, and for your people, to destroy the frogs from you and your houses, that they may remain in the river only.”*

¹⁰*So he said, “Tomorrow.” And he said, “Let it be according to your word, that you may know that ^jthere is no one like the LORD our God.*

¹¹*“And the frogs shall depart from you, from your houses, from your servants, and from your people. They shall remain in the river only.”*

¹²*Then Moses and Aaron went out from Pharaoh. And Moses ^kcried out to the LORD concerning the frogs which He had brought against Pharaoh.*

¹³*So the LORD did according to the word of Moses. And the frogs died out of the houses, out of the courtyards, and out of the fields.*

¹⁴*They gathered them together in heaps, and the land stank.*

¹⁵But when Pharaoh saw that there was ^lrelief, ^mhe hardened his heart and did not heed them, as the LORD had said.

The Third Plague: Lice ¹⁶So the LORD said to Moses, “Say to Aaron, ‘Stretch out your rod, and strike the dust of the land, so that it may become ³lice throughout all the land of Egypt.’ ”

¹⁷And they did so. For Aaron stretched out his hand with his rod and struck the dust of the earth, and ⁿit became lice on man and beast. All the dust of the land became lice throughout all the land of Egypt.

¹⁸Now ^othe magicians so worked with their ⁴enchantments to bring forth lice, but they ^pcould not. So there were lice on man and beast.

¹⁹Then the magicians said to Pharaoh, “This is ^qthe⁵ finger of God.” But Pharaoh’s ^rheart grew hard, and he did not heed them, just as the LORD had said.

The Fourth Plague: Flies ²⁰And the LORD said to Moses, ^s“Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh as he comes out to the water. Then say to him, ‘Thus says the LORD: ^t“Let My people go, that they may serve Me.

²¹“Or else, if you will not let My people go, behold, I will send swarms of flies on you and your servants, on your people and into your houses. The houses of the Egyptians shall be full of swarms of flies, and also the ground on which they stand.

²²“And in that day ^uI will set apart the land of ^vGoshen, in which My people dwell, that no swarms of flies shall be there, in order that you may ^wknow that I am the LORD in the midst of the ^xland.

²³“I will ⁶make a difference between My people and your people. Tomorrow this ^ysign shall be.” ’ ’

²⁴And the LORD did so. ^zThick swarms of flies came into the house of Pharaoh, into his servants’ houses, and into all the land of Egypt. The land was corrupted because of the swarms of flies.

²⁵Then Pharaoh called for Moses and Aaron, and said, “Go, sacrifice to your God in the land.”

²⁶And Moses said, “It is not right to do so, for we would be sacrificing ^athe abomination of the Egyptians to the LORD our God. If we sacrifice the abomination of the Egyptians before their eyes, then will they not ⁷stone us?

²⁷“We will go ^bthree days’ journey into the wilderness and sacrifice to the LORD our God as ^cHe will command us.”

²⁸So Pharaoh said, “I will let you go, that you may sacrifice to the LORD your God in the wilderness; only you shall not go very far away. ^dIntercede for me.”

²⁹Then Moses said, “Indeed I am going out from you, and I will entreat the LORD, that the swarms of flies may depart tomorrow from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people. But let Pharaoh not ^edeal deceitfully anymore in not letting the people go to sacrifice to the LORD.”

³⁰So Moses went out from Pharaoh and ^fentreated the LORD.

³¹And the LORD did according to the word of Moses; He removed the swarms of flies from Pharaoh, from his servants, and from his people. Not one remained.

³²But Pharaoh ^ghardened his heart at this time also; neither would he let the people go.

Exodus 9

The Fifth Plague: Livestock Diseased ¹*Then the LORD said to Moses, “Go in to Pharaoh and tell him, ‘Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: “Let My people go, that they may ^bserve Me.*

²“For if you ^crefuse to let them go, and still hold them, ³“behold, the ^dhand of the LORD will be on your cattle in the field, on the horses, on the donkeys, on the camels, on the oxen, and on the sheep—a very severe pestilence.

⁴“And ^ethe LORD will make a difference between the livestock of Israel and the livestock of Egypt. So nothing shall die of all that belongs to the children of Israel.” ’ ’ ”

⁵Then the LORD appointed a set time, saying, “Tomorrow the LORD will do this thing in the land.”

⁶So the LORD did this thing on the next day, and ^fall the livestock of Egypt died; but of the livestock of the children of Israel, not one died.

⁷Then Pharaoh sent, and indeed, not even one of the livestock of the Israelites was dead. But the ^gheart of Pharaoh became hard, and he did not let the people go.

The Sixth Plague: Boils (Deut. 28:27) ⁸*So the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, “Take for yourselves handfuls of ashes from a furnace, and let Moses scatter it toward the heavens in the sight of Pharaoh.*

⁹“And it will become fine dust in all the land of Egypt, and it will cause ^hboils that break out in sores on man and beast throughout all the land of Egypt.”

¹⁰Then they took ashes from the furnace and stood before Pharaoh, and Moses scattered them toward heaven. And they caused ⁱboils that break out in sores on man and beast.

¹¹And the ^jmagicians could not stand before Moses because of the ^kboils, for the boils were on the magicians and on all the Egyptians.

¹²But the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh; and he ^ldid not heed them, just ^mas the LORD had spoken to Moses.

The Seventh Plague: Hail ¹³*Then the LORD said to Moses, “Rise early in the morning and stand before Pharaoh, and say to him, ‘Thus says the* LORD God of the Hebrews: “Let My people go, that they may ^oserve Me, 14“for at this time I will send all My plagues to your very heart, and on your servants and on your people, ^pthat you may know that there is none like Me in all the earth.

15“Now if I had ^qstretched out My hand and struck you and your people with ^rpestilence, then you would have been cut off from the earth.

16“But indeed for ^sthis purpose I have raised you up, that I may ^tshow My power in you, and that My ^uname may be declared in all the earth.

17“As yet you exalt yourself against My people in that you will not let them go.

18“Behold, tomorrow about this time I will cause very heavy hail to rain down, such as has not been in Egypt since its founding until now.

19“Therefore send now and gather your livestock and all that you have in the field, for the hail shall come down on every man and every animal which is found in the field and is not brought home; and they shall die.” ’ ’

20He who ^vfeared the word of the LORD among the ^wservants of Pharaoh made his servants and his livestock flee to the houses.

21But he who did not regard the word of the LORD left his servants and his livestock in the field.

22Then the LORD said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be ^xhail in all the land of Egypt—on man, on beast, and on every herb of the field, throughout the land of Egypt.”

23And Moses stretched out his rod toward heaven; and ^ythe LORD sent thunder and hail, and fire darted to the ground. And the LORD rained hail on the land of Egypt.

24So there was hail, and fire mingled with the hail, so very heavy that there was none like it in all the land of Egypt since it became a nation.

25And the ^zhail struck throughout the whole land of Egypt, all that was in the field, both man and beast; and the hail struck every herb of the field and broke every tree of the field.

26aOnly in the land of Goshen, where the children of Israel were, there was no hail.

27And Pharaoh sent and ^bcalled for Moses and Aaron, and said to them, ^c“I have sinned this time. ^dThe LORD is righteous, and my people and I are wicked.

28e“Entreat¹ the LORD, that there may be no more ²mighty thundering and hail, for it is enough. I will let you ^fgo, and you shall stay no longer.”

²⁹So Moses said to him, “As soon as I have gone out of the city, I will ^gspread out my hands to the LORD; the thunder will cease, and there will be no more hail, that you may know that the ^hearth is the LORD’s.

³⁰“But as for you and your servants, ⁱI know that you will not yet fear the LORD God.”

³¹Now the flax and the barley were struck, ^jfor the barley was in the head and the flax was in bud.

³²But the wheat and the spelt were not struck, for they are ³late crops.

³³So Moses went out of the city from Pharaoh and ^kspread out his hands to the LORD; then the thunder and the hail ceased, and the rain was not poured on the earth.

³⁴And when Pharaoh saw that the rain, the hail, and the thunder had ceased, he sinned yet more; and he hardened his heart, he and his servants.

³⁵So ^lthe heart of Pharaoh was hard; neither would he let the children of Israel go, as the LORD had spoken by Moses.

Exodus 10

The Eighth Plague: Locusts (Joel 1:2–4) ¹Now the LORD said to Moses, “Go in to Pharaoh; ^afor I have hardened his heart and the hearts of his servants, ^bthat I may show these signs of Mine before him, ²“and that ^cyou may tell in the hearing of your son and your son’s son the mighty things I have done in Egypt, and My signs which I have done among them, that you may ^dknow that I am the LORD.”

³So Moses and Aaron came in to Pharaoh and said to him, “Thus says the LORD God of the Hebrews: ‘How long will you refuse to ^ehumble yourself before Me? Let My people go, that they may ^fserve Me.

⁴‘Or else, if you refuse to let My people go, behold, tomorrow I will bring ^glocusts into your territory.

⁶‘They shall ⁱfill your houses, the houses of all your servants, and the houses of all the Egyptians—which neither your fathers nor your fathers’ fathers have seen, since the day that they were on the earth to this day.’ ” And he turned and went out from Pharaoh.

⁷Then Pharaoh’s ^jservants said to him, “How long shall this man be ^ka snare to us? Let the men go, that they may serve the LORD their God. Do you not yet know that Egypt is destroyed?”

⁸So Moses and Aaron were brought again to Pharaoh, and he said to them, “Go, serve the LORD your God. Who are the ones that are going?”

⁹And Moses said, “We will go with our young and our old; with our sons and our daughters, with our flocks and our herds we will go, for ^lwe must hold a feast to the LORD.”

¹⁰Then he said to them, “The LORD had better be with you when I let you and your little ones go! Beware, for evil is ahead of you.

¹¹“Not so! Go now, you who are men, and serve the LORD, for that is what you desired.” And they were driven ^mout from Pharaoh’s presence.

¹²Then the LORD said to Moses, ⁿ“Stretch out your hand over the land of Egypt for the locusts, that they may come upon the land of Egypt, and ^oeat every herb of the land—all that the hail has left.”

¹³So Moses stretched out his rod over the land of Egypt, and the LORD brought an east wind on the land all that day and all that night. When it was morning, the east wind brought the locusts.

¹⁴And ^pthe locusts went up over all the land of Egypt and rested on all the territory of Egypt. They were very severe; ^qpreviously there had been no such locusts as they, nor shall there be such after them.

¹⁵For they ^rcovered the face of the whole earth, so that the land was darkened; and they ^sate every herb of the land and all the fruit of the trees which the hail had left. So there remained nothing green on the trees or on the plants of the field throughout all the land of Egypt.

¹⁶Then Pharaoh called ^tfor Moses and Aaron in haste, and said, ^u“I have sinned against the LORD your God and against you.

¹⁷“Now therefore, please forgive my sin only this once, and ^ventreat¹ the LORD your God, that He may take away from me this death only.”

¹⁸So he ^wwent out from Pharaoh and entreated the LORD.

¹⁹And the LORD turned a very strong west wind, which took the locusts away and blew them ^xinto the Red Sea. There remained not one locust in all the territory of Egypt.

²⁰But the LORD ^yhardened Pharaoh’s heart, and he did not let the children of Israel go.

The Ninth Plague: Darkness ²¹Then the LORD said to Moses, ^z“Stretch out your hand toward heaven, that there may be darkness over the land of Egypt, ²darkness which may even be felt.”

²²So Moses stretched out his hand toward heaven, and there was ^athick darkness in all the land of Egypt ^bthree days.

²³They did not see one another; nor did anyone rise from his place for three days. ^cBut all the children of Israel had light in their dwellings.

²⁴Then Pharaoh called to Moses and ^dsaid, “Go, serve the LORD; only let your flocks and your herds be kept back. Let your ^elittle ones also go with you.”

²⁵But Moses said, “You must also give ³us sacrifices and burnt offerings, that we may sacrifice to the LORD our God.

²⁶“Our ^flivestock also shall go with us; not a hoof shall be left behind. For we must take some of them to serve the LORD our God, and even we do not know with what we must serve the LORD until we arrive there.”

²⁷But the LORD ^ghardened Pharaoh's heart, and he would not let them go.

²⁸Then Pharaoh said to him, ^h"Get away from me! Take heed to yourself and see my face no more! For in the day you see my face you shall die!"

²⁹So Moses said, "You have spoken well. ⁱI will never see your face again."

Exodus 11

Death of the Firstborn Announced (Ex. 3:21, 22; 12:35, 36) ¹And the LORD said to Moses, “I will bring one more plague on Pharaoh and on Egypt. ^aAfterward he will let you go from here. ^bWhen he lets you go, he will surely drive you out of here altogether.

²“Speak now in the hearing of the people, and let every man ask from his neighbor and every woman from her neighbor, ^carticles of silver and articles of gold.”

^{3d}And the LORD gave the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians. Moreover the man ^eMoses was very great in the land of Egypt, in the sight of Pharaoh’s servants and in the sight of the people.

⁴Then Moses said, “Thus says the LORD: ^f‘About midnight I will go out into the midst of Egypt; ⁵‘and ^gall the firstborn in the land of Egypt shall die, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sits on his throne, even to the firstborn of the female servant who is behind the handmill, and all the firstborn of the animals.

^{6h}‘Then there shall be a great cry throughout all the land of Egypt, ⁱsuch as was not like it before, nor shall be like it again.

^{7j}‘But against none of the children of Israel ^kshall a dog ^lmove its tongue, against man or beast, that you may know that the LORD does make a difference between the Egyptians and Israel.’

⁸“And ^lall these your servants shall come down to me and bow down to me, saying, ‘Get out, and all the people who follow you!’ After that I will go out.” ^mThen he went out from Pharaoh in great anger.

⁹But the LORD said to Moses, ⁿ“Pharaoh will not heed you, so that ^oMy wonders may be multiplied in the land of Egypt.”

¹⁰So Moses and Aaron did all these wonders before Pharaoh; ^pand the LORD hardened Pharaoh’s heart, and he did not let the children of Israel go out of his land.

Exodus 12

The Passover Instituted (Num. 9:1–14; Deut. 16:1–8; Ezek. 45:21–25)

¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron in the land of Egypt, saying,

^{2a}“This month shall be your beginning of months; it shall be the first month of the year to you.

³“Speak to all the congregation of Israel, saying: ‘On the ^btenth of this month every man shall take for himself a lamb, according to the house of his father, a lamb for a household.

⁵‘Your lamb shall be ^cwithout¹ blemish, a male ²of the first year. You may take it from the sheep or from the goats.

⁷‘And they shall take some of the blood and put it on the two doorposts and on the lintel of the houses where they eat it.

⁸‘Then they shall eat the flesh on that ^enight; ^froasted in fire, with ^gunleavened bread and with bitter herbs they shall eat it.

⁹‘Do not eat it raw, nor boiled at all with water, but ^hroasted in fire—its head with its legs and its entrails.

¹⁰ⁱ‘You shall let none of it remain until morning, and what remains of it until morning you shall burn with fire.

¹²‘For I ^kwill pass through the land of Egypt on that night, and will strike all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both man and beast; and ^lagainst all the gods of Egypt I will execute judgment: ^m*I am* the LORD.

¹³‘Now the blood shall be a sign for you on the houses where you are. And when I see the blood, I will pass over you; and the plague shall not be on you to destroy you when I strike the land of Egypt.

¹⁴‘So this day shall be to you ⁿa memorial; and you shall keep it as a ^ofeast to the LORD throughout your generations. You shall keep it as a feast ^pby an everlasting ordinance.

^{15q}“Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread. On the first day you shall remove leaven from your houses. For whoever eats leavened bread from the first day until the seventh day, ^rthat ⁴person shall be ⁵cut off from Israel.

¹⁶“On the first day there shall be ^sa holy convocation, and on the seventh day there shall be a holy convocation for you. No manner of work shall be done on them; but that which everyone must eat—that only may be prepared by you.

¹⁷“So you shall observe the Feast of Unleavened Bread, for ^ton this same day I will have brought your ⁶armies ^uout of the land of Egypt. Therefore you shall observe this day throughout your generations as an everlasting ordinance.

^{18v}“In the first month, on the fourteenth day of the month at evening, you shall eat unleavened bread, until the twenty-first day of the month at evening.

²⁰“You shall eat nothing leavened; in all your dwellings you shall eat unleavened bread.’ ”

²¹Then ^xMoses called for all the ^yelders of Israel and said to them, ^z“Pick out and take lambs for yourselves according to your families, and kill the Passover lamb.

^{22a}“And you shall take a bunch of hyssop, dip it in the blood that is in the basin, and ^bstrike the lintel and the two doorposts with the blood that is in the basin. And none of you shall go out of the door of his house until morning.

^{23c}“For the LORD will pass through to strike the Egyptians; and when He sees the ^dblood on the ⁷lintel and on the two doorposts, the LORD will pass over the door and ^enot allow ^fthe destroyer to come into your houses to strike you.

²⁴“And you shall ^gobserve this thing as an ordinance for you and your sons forever.

²⁵“It will come to pass when you come to the land which the LORD will give you, ^hjust as He promised, that you shall keep this service.

²⁶ⁱ“And it shall be, when your children say to you, ‘What do you mean by this service?’

²⁷“that you shall say, ^j‘It is the Passover sacrifice of the LORD, who passed over the houses of the children of Israel in Egypt when He struck the Egyptians and delivered our households.’ ” So the people ^kbowed their heads and worshiped.

²⁸Then the children of Israel went away and ^ldid so; just as the LORD had commanded Moses and Aaron, so they did.

The Tenth Plague: Death of the Firstborn (Ex. 11:1–10) ^{29m}And it came to pass at midnight that ⁿthe LORD struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, from the firstborn of Pharaoh who sat on his throne to the firstborn of the captive who was ⁸in the dungeon, and all the firstborn of ^olivestock.

³⁰So Pharaoh rose in the night, he, all his servants, and all the Egyptians; and there was a great cry in Egypt, for there was not a house where there was not one dead.

The Exodus ³¹Then he ^pcalled for Moses and Aaron by night, and said, “Rise, go out from among my people, ^qboth you and the children of Israel. And go, serve the LORD as you have ^rsaid.

^{32s}“Also take your flocks and your herds, as you have said, and be gone; and bless me also.”

^{33t}And the Egyptians ^uurged the people, that they might send them out of the land in haste. For they said, “We shall all be dead.”

³⁴So the people took their dough before it was leavened, having their kneading bowls bound up in their clothes on their shoulders.

³⁵Now the children of Israel had done according to the word of Moses, and they had asked from the Egyptians ^varticles of silver, articles of gold, and clothing.

^{36w}And the LORD had given the people favor in the sight of the Egyptians, so that they granted them what they requested. Thus ^xthey plundered the Egyptians.

³⁷Then ^ythe children of Israel journeyed from ^zRameses to Succoth, about ^asix hundred thousand men on foot, besides children.

³⁸A ^bmixed multitude went up with them also, and flocks and herds—a great deal of ^clivestock.

³⁹And they baked unleavened cakes of the dough which they had brought out of Egypt; for it was not leavened, because ^dthey were driven out of Egypt and could not wait, nor had they prepared provisions for themselves.

⁴⁰Now the ⁹sojourn of the children of Israel who lived in ¹⁰Egypt was ^efour hundred and thirty years.

⁴¹And it came to pass at the end of the four hundred and thirty years—on that very same day—it came to pass that ^fall the armies of the LORD went out from the land of Egypt.

⁴²It is ^ga ¹¹night of solemn observance to the LORD for bringing them out of the land of Egypt. This is that night of the LORD, a solemn observance for all the children of Israel throughout their generations.

Passover Regulations (Gen. 17:9–14; Ex. 12:1–13) ⁴³And the LORD said to Moses and Aaron, “This is ^hthe ordinance of the Passover: No foreigner shall eat it.

⁴⁴“But every man’s servant who is bought for money, when you have ⁱcircumcised him, then he may eat it.

⁴⁵^j“A sojourner and a hired servant shall not eat it.

⁴⁶“In one house it shall be eaten; you shall not carry any of the flesh outside the house, ^knor shall you break one of its bones.

⁴⁷“All the congregation of Israel shall keep it.

⁴⁸“And ^mwhen a stranger ¹²dwells with you and wants to keep the Passover to the LORD, let all his males be circumcised, and then let him come near and keep it; and he shall be as a native of the land. For no uncircumcised person shall eat it.

⁴⁹ⁿ“One law shall be for the native-born and for the stranger who dwells among you.”

⁵⁰Thus all the children of Israel did; as the LORD commanded Moses and Aaron, so they did.

⁵¹^oAnd it came to pass, on that very same day, that the LORD brought the children of Israel out of the land of Egypt ^paccording to their armies.

Exodus 13

The Firstborn Consecrated ¹*Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,*
^{2a}“Consecrate¹ to Me all the firstborn, whatever opens the womb among the children of Israel, both of man and beast; it is Mine.”

The Feast of Unleavened Bread (Ex. 12:14–20) ³*And Moses said to the people: ^b“Remember this day in which you went out of Egypt, out of the house of ²bondage; for ^cby strength of hand the LORD brought you out of this place. ^dNo leavened bread shall be eaten.*

^{4e}“On this day you are going out, in the month Abib.

⁵*“And it shall be, when the LORD ^fbrings you into the ^gland of the Canaanites and the Hittites and the Amorites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, which He ^hswore to your fathers to give you, a land flowing with milk and honey, ⁱthat you shall keep this service in this month.*

^{6j}*“Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, and on the seventh day there shall be a feast to the LORD.*

⁷*“Unleavened bread shall be eaten seven days. And ^kno leavened bread shall be seen among you, nor shall leaven be seen among you in all your quarters.*

⁸*“And you shall ^ltell your son in that day, saying, ‘This is done because of what the LORD did for me when I came up from Egypt.’*

⁹*“It shall be as ^ma sign to you on your hand and as a memorial between your eyes, that the LORD’s law may be in your mouth; for with a strong hand the LORD has brought you out of Egypt.*

¹⁰ⁿ*“You shall therefore keep this ³ordinance in its season from year to year.*

The Law of the Firstborn ¹¹*“And it shall be, when the LORD ^obrings you into the land of the ^pCanaanites, as He swore to you and your fathers, and gives it to you, ^{12q}“that you shall ⁴set apart to the LORD all that open the womb, that is, every firstborn that comes from an animal which you have; the males shall be the LORD’s.*

¹³*“But ^revery firstborn of a donkey you shall redeem with a lamb; and if you will not redeem it, then you shall break its neck. And all the firstborn of* man among your sons ^syou shall redeem.

¹⁴“So it shall be, when your son asks you in time to come, saying, ‘What is this?’ that you shall say to him, ^u‘By strength of hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt, out of the house of bondage.

¹⁵‘And it came to pass, when Pharaoh was stubborn about letting us go, that ^vthe LORD killed all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, both the firstborn of man and the firstborn of beast. Therefore I sacrifice to the LORD all males that open the womb, but all the firstborn of my sons I redeem.’

¹⁶“It shall be as ^wa sign on your hand and as frontlets between your eyes, for by strength of hand the LORD brought us out of Egypt.”

The Wilderness Way (Ex. 40:34–38; Num. 9:15–23; 1 Kin. 8:10, 11)

¹⁷Then it came to pass, when Pharaoh had let the people go, that God did not lead them by way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near; for God said, “Lest perhaps the people ^xchange their minds when they see war, and ^yreturn to Egypt.”

¹⁸So God ^zled the people around by way of the wilderness of the Red Sea. And the children of Israel went up in orderly ranks out of the land of Egypt.

¹⁹And Moses took the ^abones of ^bJoseph with him, for he had placed the children of Israel under solemn oath, saying, ^c“God will surely ⁵visit you, and you shall carry up my bones from here with you.”

²⁰So ^dthey took their journey from ^eSuccoth and camped in Etham at the edge of the wilderness.

²¹And ^fthe LORD went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light, so as to go by day and night.

²²He did not take away the pillar of cloud by day or the pillar of fire by night from before the people.

Exodus 14

The Red Sea Crossing ¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ²“Speak to the children of Israel, ^athat they turn and camp before ^bPi Hahiroth, between ^cMigdol and the sea, opposite Baal Zephon; you shall camp before it by the sea.

³“For Pharaoh will say of the children of Israel, ^d“They are bewildered by the land; the wilderness has closed them in.’

⁴“Then ^eI will harden Pharaoh’s heart, so that he will pursue them; and I ^fwill gain honor over Pharaoh and over all his army, ^gthat the Egyptians may know that I am the LORD.” And they did so.

⁵Now it was told the king of Egypt that the people had fled, and ^hthe heart of Pharaoh and his servants was turned against the people; and they said, “Why have we done this, that we have let Israel go from serving us?”

⁶So he ¹made ready his chariot and took his people with him.

⁷Also, he took ⁱsix hundred choice chariots, and all the chariots of Egypt with captains over every one of them.

⁸And the LORD ^jhardened the heart of Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he pursued the children of Israel; and ^kthe children of Israel went out with boldness.

⁹So the ^lEgyptians pursued them, all the horses and chariots of Pharaoh, his horsemen and his army, and overtook them camping by the sea beside Pi Hahiroth, before Baal Zephon.

¹⁰And when Pharaoh drew near, the children of Israel lifted their eyes, and behold, the Egyptians marched after them. So they were very afraid, and the children of Israel ^mcried out to the LORD.

¹¹ⁿThen they said to Moses, “Because there were no graves in Egypt, have you taken us away to die in the wilderness? Why have you so dealt with us, to bring us up out of Egypt?

^{12o}“Is this not the word that we told you in Egypt, saying, ‘Let us alone that we may serve the Egyptians’? For it would have been better for us to serve the Egyptians than that we should die in the wilderness.”

¹³And Moses said to the people, ^p“Do not be afraid. ^qStand still, and see the ^rsalvation² of the LORD, which He will accomplish for you today. For the Egyptians whom you see today, you shall ^ssee again no more forever.

¹⁴“The LORD will fight for you, and you shall ^uhold³ your peace.”

¹⁵And the LORD said to Moses, “Why do you cry to Me? Tell the children of Israel to go forward.

¹⁶“But ^vlift up your rod, and stretch out your hand over the sea and divide it. And the children of Israel shall go on dry ground through the midst of the sea.

¹⁷“And I indeed will ^wharden the hearts of the Egyptians, and they shall follow them. So I will ^xgain honor over Pharaoh and over all his army, his chariots, and his horsemen.

¹⁸“Then the Egyptians shall know that I am the LORD, when I have gained honor for Myself over Pharaoh, his chariots, and his horsemen.”

¹⁹And the Angel of God, ^ywho went before the camp of Israel, moved and went behind them; and the pillar of cloud went from before them and stood behind them.

²⁰So it came between the camp of the Egyptians and the camp of Israel. Thus it was a cloud and darkness to the one, and it gave light by night to the other, so that the one did not come near the other all that night.

²¹Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and the LORD caused the sea to go back by a strong east wind all that night, and ^zmade the sea into dry land, and the waters were ^adivided. In-Text Map: The Exodus

²²So ^bthe children of Israel went into the midst of the sea on the dry ground, and the waters were ^ca wall to them on their right hand and on their left.

²³And the Egyptians pursued and went after them into the midst of the sea, all Pharaoh’s horses, his chariots, and his horsemen.

²⁵And He ⁵took off their chariot wheels, so that they drove them with difficulty; and the Egyptians said, “Let us flee from the face of Israel, for the LORD ^ffight^s for them against the Egyptians.”

²⁶Then the LORD said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the waters may come back upon the Egyptians, on their chariots, and on their horsemen.”

²⁷And Moses stretched out his hand over the sea; and when the morning appeared, the sea ^greturned to its full depth, while the Egyptians were fleeing into it. So the LORD ^hoverthrew⁶ the Egyptians in the midst of the sea.

²⁸Then ⁱthe waters returned and covered the chariots, the horsemen, and all the army of Pharaoh that came into the sea after them. Not so much as one of them remained.

²⁹But ^jthe children of Israel had walked on dry land in the midst of the sea, and the waters were a wall to them on their right hand and on their left.

³⁰So the LORD ^ksaved⁷ Israel that day out of the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel ^lsaw the Egyptians dead on the seashore.

³¹Thus Israel saw the great ⁸work which the LORD had done in Egypt; so the people feared the LORD, and ^mbelieved the LORD and His servant Moses.

Exodus 15

The Song of Moses (Ex. 14:13, 14; Ps. 78:12–14) ¹Then ^aMoses and the children of Israel sang this song to the LORD, and spoke, saying:

“I will ^bsing to the LORD, For He has triumphed gloriously!
The horse and its rider He has thrown into the sea!

²The LORD is my strength and ^csong, And He has become my salvation; He is my God, and ^dI will praise Him; My ^efather’s
God, and I ^fwill exalt Him.

³The LORD is a man of ^gwar; The LORD is His ^hname.

⁴ⁱPharaoh’s chariots and his army He has cast into the sea; ^jHis chosen captains also are drowned in the Red Sea.

⁵The depths have covered them; ^kThey sank to the bottom like a stone.

⁶“Your ^lright hand, O LORD, has become glorious in power; Your right hand, O LORD, has dashed the enemy in pieces.

⁷And in the greatness of Your ^mexcellence You have overthrown those who rose against You; You sent forth ⁿYour wrath; It ^oconsumed them ^plike stubble.

⁸And ^qwith the blast of Your nostrils The waters were gathered together; ^rThe floods stood upright like a heap; The depths ¹congealed in the heart of the sea.

^{9s}The enemy said, ‘I will pursue, I will overtake, I will ^tdivide the spoil;
My desire shall be satisfied on them.

I will draw my sword, My hand shall destroy them.’

¹⁰You blew with Your wind, The sea covered them; They sank like lead in the mighty waters.

¹¹“Who ^uis like You, O LORD, among the ²gods?

Who is like You, ^vglorious in holiness, Fearful in ^wpraises, ^xdoing wonders?

¹²You stretched out Your right hand; The earth swallowed them.

¹³You in Your mercy have ^yled forth The people whom You have redeemed; You have guided them in Your strength To ^zYour holy habitation. Word Studies: redeemed

¹⁴“The ^apeople will hear and be afraid; ^bSorrow³ will take hold of the inhabitants of Philistia.

¹⁵^cThen ^dthe chiefs of Edom will be dismayed; ^eThe mighty men of Moab, Trembling will take hold of them; ^fAll the inhabitants of Canaan will ^gmelt away.

¹⁶^hFear and dread will fall on them; By the greatness of Your arm They will be ⁱas still as a stone, Till Your people pass over, O LORD, Till the people pass over ^jWhom You have purchased.

¹⁷You will bring them in and ^kplant them In the ^lmountain of Your inheritance, In the place, O LORD, which You have made For Your own dwelling, The ^msanctuary, O LORD, which Your hands have established.

¹⁸“Theⁿ LORD shall reign forever and ever.”

¹⁹For the ^ohorses of Pharaoh went with his chariots and his horsemen into the sea, and ^pthe LORD brought back the waters of the sea upon them. But the children of Israel went on dry land in the midst of the sea.

The Song of Miriam (Num. 26:59) ²⁰Then Miriam ^qthe prophetess, ^rthe sister of Aaron, ^stook the timbrel in her hand; and all the women went out after her ^twith timbrels and with dances.

²¹And Miriam ^uanswered them:

^v“Sing to the LORD, For He has triumphed gloriously!
The horse and its rider He has thrown into the sea!”

Bitter Waters Made Sweet ²²So Moses brought Israel from the Red Sea; then they went out into the Wilderness of ^wShur. And they went three days in the wilderness and found no ^xwater.

²³Now when they came to ^yMarah, they could not drink the waters of Marah, for they were bitter. Therefore the name of it was called ⁴Marah.

²⁴And the people ^zcomplained against Moses, saying, “What shall we drink?”

²⁵So he cried out to the LORD, and the LORD showed him a tree. ^aWhen he cast it into the waters, the waters were made sweet. There He ^bmade a statute and an ⁵ ordinance for them, and there ^cHe tested them, ²⁶and said, ^d“If you diligently heed the voice of the LORD your God and do what is right in His sight, give ear to His commandments and keep all His statutes, I will put none of the ^e diseases on you which I have brought on the Egyptians. For I am the LORD ^fwho heals you.”

^{27g}Then they came to Elim, where there were twelve wells of water and seventy palm trees; so they camped there by the waters.

Exodus 16

Bread from Heaven ¹And they ^ajourneyed from Elim, and all the congregation of the children of Israel came to the Wilderness of Sin, which is between Elim and ^bSinai, on the fifteenth day of the second month after they departed from the land of Egypt.

²Then the whole congregation of the children of Israel ^ccomplained against Moses and Aaron in the wilderness.

³And the children of Israel said to them, ^d“Oh, that we had died by the hand of the LORD in the land of Egypt, ^ewhen we sat by the pots of meat and when we ate bread to the full! For you have brought us out into this wilderness to kill this whole assembly with hunger.”

⁴Then the LORD said to Moses, “Behold, I will rain ^fbread from heaven for you. And the people shall go out and gather ¹a certain quota every day, that I may ^gtest them, whether they will ^hwalk in My law or not.

⁵“And it shall be on the sixth day that they shall prepare what they bring in, and ⁱit shall be twice as much as they gather daily.”

⁶Then Moses and Aaron said to all the children of Israel, ^j“At evening you shall know that the LORD has brought you out of the land of Egypt.

⁷“And in the morning you shall see ^kthe glory of the LORD; for He ^lhears your complaints against the LORD. But ^mwhat are we, that you complain against us?”

⁸Also Moses said, “This shall be seen when the LORD gives you meat to eat in the evening, and in the morning bread to the full; for the LORD hears your complaints which you make against Him. And what are we? Your complaints are not against us but ⁿagainst the LORD.”

⁹Then Moses spoke to Aaron, “Say to all the congregation of the children of Israel, ^o‘Come near before the LORD, for He has heard your complaints.’ ”

¹⁰Now it came to pass, as Aaron spoke to the whole congregation of the children of Israel, that they looked toward the wilderness, and behold, the glory of the LORD ^pappeared in the cloud.

¹¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ^{12q}“I have heard the complaints of the children of Israel. Speak to them, saying, ^r‘At twilight you shall eat meat, and ^sin the morning you shall be filled with bread. And you shall know that I am the LORD your God.’ ”

¹³So it was that ^tquails came up at evening and covered the camp, and in the morning ^uthe dew lay all around the camp.

¹⁴And when the layer of dew lifted, there, on the surface of the wilderness, was ^va small round ^wsubstance, as fine as frost on the ground.

¹⁵So when the children of Israel saw it, they said to one another, “What is it?” For they did not know what it was. And Moses said to them, ^x“This is the bread which the LORD has given you to eat.”

¹⁷Then the children of Israel did so and gathered, some more, some less.

¹⁸So when they measured it by omers, ^ahe who gathered much had nothing left over, and he who gathered little had no lack. Every man had gathered according to each one’s need.

¹⁹And Moses said, “Let no one ^bleave any of it till morning.”

²⁰Notwithstanding they did not ²heed Moses. But some of them left part of it until morning, and it bred worms and stank. And Moses was angry with them.

²¹So they gathered it every morning, every man according to his need. And when the sun became hot, it melted.

²²And so it was, on the sixth day, that they gathered twice as much bread, two omers for each one. And all the rulers of the congregation came and told Moses.

²³Then he said to them, “This is what the LORD has said: ‘Tomorrow is ^ca Sabbath rest, a holy Sabbath to the LORD. Bake what you will bake today, and boil what you will boil; and lay up for yourselves all that remains, to be kept until morning.’ ”

²⁴So they laid it up till morning, as Moses commanded; and it did not ^dstink, nor were there any worms in it.

²⁵Then Moses said, “Eat that today, for today is a Sabbath to the LORD; today you will not find it in the field.

^{26e}“Six days you shall gather it, but on the seventh day, the Sabbath, there will be none.”

²⁷Now it happened that some of the people went out on the seventh day to gather, but they found none.

²⁸And the LORD said to Moses, “How long ^fdo you refuse to keep My commandments and My laws?

²⁹“See! For the LORD has given you the Sabbath; therefore He gives you on the sixth day bread for two days. Let every man remain in his place; let no man go out of his place on the seventh day.”

³⁰So the people rested on the seventh day.

³¹And the house of Israel called its name ³Manna. And ^git was like white coriander seed, and the taste of it was like wafers made with honey.

³²Then Moses said, “This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: ‘Fill an omer with it, to be kept for your generations, that they may see the bread with which I fed you in the wilderness, when I brought you out of the land of Egypt.’ ”

³³And Moses said to Aaron, ^h“Take a pot and put an omer of manna in it, and lay it up before the LORD, to be kept for your generations.”

³⁴As the LORD commanded Moses, so Aaron laid it up ⁱbefore the Testimony, to be kept.

³⁵And the children of Israel ^jate manna ^kforty years, ^luntil they came to an inhabited land; they ate manna until they came to the border of the land of Canaan.

³⁶Now an omer is one-tenth of an ephah.

Exodus 17

Water from the Rock (Num. 20:1–13) ¹Then ^aall the congregation of the children of Israel set out on their journey from the Wilderness of ^bSin, according to the commandment of the LORD, and camped in Rephidim; but there was no water for the people to ^cdrink.

^{2d}Therefore the people contended with Moses, and said, “Give us water, that we may drink.” So Moses said to them, “Why do you contend with me? Why do you ^etempt the LORD?”

³And the people thirsted there for water, and the people ^fcomplained against Moses, and said, “Why is it you have brought us up out of Egypt, to kill us and our children and our ^glivestock with thirst?”

⁴So Moses ^hcried out to the LORD, saying, “What shall I do with this people? They are almost ready to ⁱstone¹ me!”

⁵And the LORD said to Moses, ^j“Go on before the people, and take with you some of the elders of Israel. Also take in your hand your rod with which ^kyou struck the river, and go.

⁶“Behold, I will stand before you there on the rock in Horeb; and you shall strike the rock, and water will come out of it, that the people may drink.” And Moses did so in the sight of the elders of Israel.

⁷So he called the name of the place ^mMassah² and ³Meribah, because of the contention of the children of Israel, and because they ⁴tempted the LORD, saying, “Is the LORD among us or not?”

Victory over the Amalekites (Gen. 14:7; Num. 13:29; 14:25) ⁸ⁿNow Amalek came and fought with Israel in Rephidim.

⁹And Moses said to Joshua, “Choose us some men and go out, fight with Amalek. Tomorrow I will stand on the top of the hill with ^othe rod of God in my hand.”

¹⁰So Joshua did as Moses said to him, and fought with Amalek. And Moses, Aaron, and Hur went up to the top of the hill.

¹¹And so it was, when Moses ^pheld up his hand, that Israel prevailed; and when he let down his hand, Amalek prevailed.

¹²But Moses’ hands became ⁵heavy; so they took a stone and put it under him, and he sat on it. And Aaron and Hur supported his hands, one on one side, and the other on the other side; and his hands were steady until the going down of the sun.

¹³So Joshua defeated Amalek and his people with the edge of the sword.

¹⁴Then the LORD said to Moses, ^q“Write this for a memorial in the book and recount it in the hearing of Joshua, that ^rI will utterly blot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven.”

¹⁵And Moses built an altar and called its name, ⁶The-LORD-Is-My-Banner; ¹⁶for he said, “Because ⁷the LORD has ^ssworn: the LORD will have war with Amalek from generation to generation.”

Exodus 18

Jethro's Advice (Deut. 1:9–18) ¹And ^aJethro, the priest of Midian, Moses' father-in-law, heard of all that ^bGod had done for Moses and for Israel His people—that the LORD had brought Israel out of Egypt.

²Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, took ^cZipporah, Moses' wife, after he had sent her back, ³with her ^dtwo sons, of whom the name of one was ¹Gershom (for he said, ^e“I have been a ²stranger in a foreign land”) ⁴and the name of the other was ³Eliezer (for he said, “The God of my father was my ^fhelp, and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh”); ⁵and Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, came with his sons and his wife to Moses in the wilderness, where he was encamped at ^gthe mountain of God.

⁶Now he had said to Moses, “I, your father-in-law Jethro, am coming to you with your wife and her two sons with her.”

⁷So Moses ^hwent out to meet his father-in-law, bowed down, and ⁱkissed him. And they asked each other about their well-being, and they went into the tent.

⁸And Moses told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done to Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, all the hardship that had come upon them on the way, and how the LORD had ^jdelivered them.

⁹Then Jethro rejoiced for all the ^kgood which the LORD had done for Israel, whom He had delivered out of the hand of the Egyptians.

¹⁰And Jethro said, ¹“Blessed be the LORD, who has delivered you out of the hand of the Egyptians and out of the hand of Pharaoh, and who has delivered the people from under the hand of the Egyptians.

¹¹“Now I know that the LORD is ^mgreater than all the gods; ⁿfor in the very thing in which they ⁴behaved ^oproudly, He was above them.”

¹²Then Jethro, Moses' father-in-law, ⁵took a burnt ^poffering and other sacrifices to offer to God. And Aaron came with all the elders of Israel ^qto eat bread with Moses' father-in-law before God.

¹³And so it was, on the next day, that Moses ^rsat to judge the people; and the people stood before Moses from morning until evening.

¹⁴So when Moses' father-in-law saw all that he did for the people, he said, “What is this thing that you are doing for the people? Why do you alone ⁶sit, and all the people stand before you from morning until evening?”

¹⁵And Moses said to his father-in-law, “Because ^sthe people come to me to inquire of God.

¹⁶“When they have ^ta ⁷difficulty, they come to me, and I judge between one and another; and I make known the statutes of God and His laws.”

¹⁷So Moses’ father-in-law said to him, “The thing that you do is not good.

¹⁸“Both you and these people who are with you will surely wear yourselves out. For this thing is too much for you; ^uyou are not able to perform it by yourself.

¹⁹“Listen now to my voice; I will give you ⁸counsel, and God will be with you: Stand ^vbefore God for the people, so that you may ^wbring the difficulties to God.

²⁰“And you shall ^xteach them the statutes and the laws, and show them the way in which they must walk and ^ythe work they must do.

²²“And let them judge the people at all times. ^dThen it will be that every great matter they shall bring to you, but every small matter they themselves shall judge. So it will be easier for you, for ^ethey will bear the burden with you.

²³“If you do this thing, and God so commands you, then you will be able to endure, and all this people will also go to their ^fplace in peace.”

²⁴So Moses heeded the voice of his father-in-law and did all that he had said.

²⁵And ⁸Moses chose able men out of all Israel, and made them heads over the people: rulers of thousands, rulers of hundreds, rulers of fifties, and rulers of tens.

²⁶So they judged the people at all times; the ^hhard⁹ cases they brought to Moses, but they judged every small case themselves.

²⁷Then Moses let his father-in-law depart, and ⁱhe went his way to his own land.

Exodus 19

Israel at Mount Sinai ¹*In the third month after the children of Israel had gone out of the land of Egypt, on the same day, ^athey came to the Wilderness of Sinai.*

²For they had departed from ^bRephidim, had come to the Wilderness of Sinai, and camped in the wilderness. So Israel camped there before ^cthe mountain.

³And ^dMoses went up to God, and the LORD ^ecalled to him from the mountain, saying, “Thus you shall say to the house of Jacob, and tell the children of Israel: ^{4f}‘You have seen what I did to the Egyptians, and how ^gI ¹bore you on eagles’ wings and brought you to Myself.

⁶‘And you shall be to Me a ^lkingdom of priests and a ^mholy nation.’ These are the words which you shall speak to the children of Israel.”

⁷So Moses came and called for the ⁿelders of the people, and ²laid before them all these words which the LORD commanded him.

⁸Then ^oall the people answered together and said, “All that the LORD has spoken we will do.” So Moses brought back the words of the people to the LORD.

⁹And the LORD said to Moses, “Behold, I come to you ^pin the thick cloud, ^qthat the people may hear when I speak with you, and believe you forever.” So Moses told the words of the people to the LORD.

¹⁰Then the LORD said to Moses, “Go to the people and ^rconsecrate them today and tomorrow, and let them wash their clothes. Word Studies: consecrate

¹¹“And let them be ready for the third day. For on the third day the LORD will come down upon Mount Sinai in the sight of all the people.

¹³‘Not a hand shall touch him, but he shall surely be stoned or shot with an arrow; whether man or beast, he shall not live.’ When the trumpet sounds long, they shall come near the mountain.”

¹⁴So Moses went down from the mountain to the people and sanctified the people, and they washed their clothes.

¹⁵And he said to the people, “Be ready for the third day; ^tdo not come near your wives.”

¹⁶Then it came to pass on the third day, in the morning, that there were ^uthunderings and lightnings, and a thick cloud on the mountain; and the sound of the trumpet was very loud, so that all the people who were in the camp ^vtrembled.

¹⁷And ^wMoses brought the people out of the camp to meet with God, and they stood at the foot of the mountain.

¹⁸Now ^xMount Sinai was completely in smoke, because the LORD descended upon ^yit in fire. ^zIts smoke ascended like the smoke of a furnace, and ³the ^awhole mountain quaked greatly.

¹⁹And when the blast of the trumpet sounded long and became louder and louder, ^bMoses spoke, and ^cGod answered him by voice.

²⁰Then the LORD came down upon Mount Sinai, on the top of the mountain. And the LORD called Moses to the top of the mountain, and Moses went up.

²¹And the LORD said to Moses, “Go down and warn the people, lest they break through ^dto gaze at the LORD, and many of them perish.

²²“Also let the ^epriests who come near the LORD ^fconsecrate themselves, lest the LORD ^gbreak out against them.”

²³But Moses said to the LORD, “The people cannot come up to Mount Sinai; for You warned us, saying, ^h“Set bounds around the mountain and consecrate it.’ ”

²⁴Then the LORD said to him, “Away! Get down and then come up, you and Aaron with you. But do not let the priests and the people break through to come up to the LORD, lest He break out against them.”

²⁵So Moses went down to the people and spoke to them.

Exodus 20

The Ten Commandments (Deut. 5:1–22) ¹*And God spoke ^aall these words, saying:* Article: The Mosaic Covenant

^{2b}“I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, ^cout of the house of ¹bondage.

^{3d}“You shall have no other gods before Me.

^{4e}“You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; ^{5f}you shall not bow down to them nor ²serve them. ⁸For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, ^hvisiting³ the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, ⁶but ⁱshowing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments.

^{7j}“You shall not take the name of the LORD your God in vain, for the LORD ^kwill not hold him guiltless who takes His name in vain.

^{8l}“Remember the Sabbath day, to keep it holy.

^{9m}Six days you shall labor and do all your work, ¹⁰but the ⁿseventh day is the Sabbath of the LORD your God. In it you shall do no work: you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male servant, nor your female servant, nor your cattle, ^onor your stranger who is within your gates.

¹¹For ^p*in* six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, the sea, and all that is in them, and rested the seventh day. Therefore the LORD blessed the Sabbath day and hallowed it.

^{12q}“Honor your father and your mother, that your days may be ^rlong upon the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

^{13s}“You shall not murder.

¹⁴“You shall not commit ^uadultery.

^{15v}“You shall not steal.

^{16w}“You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.

^{17x}“You shall not covet your neighbor’s house; ^yyou shall not covet your neighbor’s wife, nor his male servant, nor his female servant, nor his ox, nor his donkey, nor anything that is your neighbor’s.”

The People Afraid of God's Presence ¹⁸Now ^zall the people ^awitnessed the thunderings, the lightning flashes, the sound of the trumpet, and the mountain ^bsmoking; and when the people saw it, they trembled and stood afar off.

¹⁹Then they said to Moses, ^c“You speak with us, and we will hear; but ^dlet not God speak with us, lest we die.”

²⁰And Moses said to the people, ^e“Do not fear; ^ffor God has come to test you, and ^gthat His fear may be before you, so that you may not sin.”

²¹So the people stood afar off, but Moses drew near ^hthe thick darkness where God was.

The Law of the Altar ²²Then the LORD said to Moses, “Thus you shall say to the children of Israel: ‘You have seen that I have talked with you ⁱfrom heaven.’

²³‘You shall not make anything to be ^jwith Me—gods of silver or gods of gold you shall not make for yourselves.

²⁴‘An altar of ^kearth you shall make for Me, and you shall sacrifice on it your burnt offerings and your peace offerings, ^lyour sheep and your oxen. In every ^mplace where I ⁴record My name I will come to you, and I will ⁿbless you.

²⁵‘And ^oif you make Me an altar of stone, you shall not build it of hewn stone; for if you ^puse your tool on it, you have profaned it.

²⁶‘Nor shall you go up by steps to My altar, that your ^qnakedness may not be exposed on it.’

³“If he comes in by himself, he shall go out by himself; if he comes in married, then his wife shall go out with him.

⁴“If his master has given him a wife, and she has borne him sons or daughters, the wife and her children shall be her master’s, and he shall go out by himself.

^{5c}“But if the servant plainly says, ‘I love my master, my wife, and my children; I will not go out free,’

⁶“then his master shall bring him to the ^djudges. He shall also bring him to the door, or to the doorpost, and his master shall pierce his ear with an awl; and he shall serve him forever.

⁷“And if a man ^esells his daughter to be a female slave, she shall not go out as the male slaves do.

⁹“And if he has betrothed her to his son, he shall deal with her according to the custom of daughters.

¹⁰“If he takes another wife, he shall not diminish her food, her clothing, ^fand her marriage rights.

¹¹“And if he does not do these three for her, then she shall go out free, without paying money.

²⁰“And if a man beats his male or female servant with a rod, so that he dies under his hand, he shall surely be punished.

²¹“Notwithstanding, if he remains alive a day or two, he shall not be punished; for he is his ^rproperty.

²³“But if any harm follows, then you shall give life for life, ²⁴“eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot, ²⁵“burn for burn, wound for wound, stripe for stripe.

^{21s}“You shall neither mistreat a ²stranger nor oppress him, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

²²“You shall not afflict any widow or fatherless child.

²³“If you afflict them in any way, and they ^ucry at all to Me, I will surely ^vhear their cry; ²⁴“and My ^wwrath will become hot, and I will kill you with the sword; ^xyour wives shall be widows, and your children fatherless.

^{25y}“If you lend money to any of My people who are poor among you, you shall not be like a moneylender to him; you shall not charge him ^zinterest.

^{26a}“If you ever take your neighbor’s garment as a pledge, you shall return it to him before the sun goes down.

²⁷“For that is his only covering, it is his garment for his skin. What will he sleep in? And it will be that when he cries to Me, I will hear, for I am ^bgracious.

^{28c}“You shall not revile God, nor curse a ^druler of your people.

²⁹“You shall not delay to offer ^ethe first of your ripe produce and your juices. ^fThe firstborn of your sons you shall give to Me.

^{30g}“Likewise you shall do with your oxen and your sheep. It shall be with its mother ^hseven days; on the eighth day you shall give it to Me.

³¹“And you shall be ⁱholy men to Me: ^jyou shall not eat meat torn by beasts in the field; you shall throw it to the dogs.

Exodus 23

Justice for All

¹“You ^ashall not circulate a false report. Do not put your hand with the wicked to be an ^bunrighteous witness.

^{2c}“You shall not follow a crowd to do evil; ^dnor shall you testify in a dispute so as to turn aside after many to pervert justice.

³“You shall not show partiality to a ^epoor man in his dispute.

^{4f}“If you meet your enemy’s ox or his donkey going astray, you shall surely bring it back to him again.

^{5g}“If you see the donkey of one who hates you lying under its burden, and you would refrain from helping it, you shall surely help him with it.

^{6h}“You shall not pervert the judgment of your poor in his dispute.

⁷ⁱ“Keep yourself far from a false matter; ^jdo not kill the innocent and righteous. For ^kI will not justify the wicked.

⁸“And ^lyou shall take no bribe, for a bribe blinds the discerning and perverts the words of the righteous.

⁹“Also ^myou shall not oppress a ¹stranger, for you know the heart of a stranger, because you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

The Law of Sabbaths

¹⁰ⁿ“Six years you shall sow your land and gather in its produce,

^{12o}“Six days you shall do your work, and on the seventh day you shall rest, that your ox and your donkey may rest, and the son of your female servant and the stranger may be refreshed.

¹³“And in all that I have said to you, ^pbe circumspect and ^qmake no mention of the name of other gods, nor let it be heard from your mouth.

Three Annual Feasts
(Ex. 34:18–26; Deut. 16:1–17)

¹⁴_r“Three times you shall keep a feast to Me in the year:

¹⁵_s“You shall keep the Feast of Unleavened Bread (you shall eat unleavened bread seven days, as I commanded you, at the time appointed in the month of Abib, for in it you came out of Egypt; ^tnone shall appear before Me empty);

¹⁷_w“Three times in the year all your males shall appear before the Lord ³GOD. Word Studies: Lord GOD

¹⁸_x“You shall not offer the blood of My sacrifice with leavened ^ybread; nor shall the fat of My ⁴sacrifice remain until morning.

¹⁹_z“The first of the firstfruits of your land you shall bring into the house of the LORD your God. ^aYou shall not boil a young goat in its mother’s milk.

The Angel and the Promises

^{20b}“Behold, I send an Angel before you to keep you in the way and to bring you into the place which I have prepared.

²¹“Beware of Him and obey His voice; ^cdo not provoke Him, for He will ^dnot pardon your transgressions; for ^eMy name is in Him.

²²“But if you indeed obey His voice and do all that I speak, then ^fI will be an enemy to your enemies and an adversary to your adversaries.

^{23g}“For My Angel will go before you and ^hbring you in to the Amorites and the Hittites and the Perizzites and the Canaanites and the Hivites and the Jebusites; and I will ⁵cut them off.

²⁴“You shall not ⁱbow down to their gods, nor serve them, ^jnor do according to their works; ^kbut you shall utterly overthrow them and completely break down their sacred pillars.

²⁵“So you shall ^lserve the LORD your God, and ^mHe will bless your bread and your water. And ⁿI will take sickness away from the midst of you.

^{26o}“No one shall suffer miscarriage or be barren in your land; I will ^pfulfill the number of your days.

²⁷“I will send ^qMy fear before you, I will ^rcause confusion among all the people to whom you come, and will make all your enemies turn their backs to you.

²⁸“And ^sI will send hornets before you, which shall drive out the Hivite, the Canaanite, and the Hittite from before you.

²⁹“I will not drive them out from before you in one year, lest the land become desolate and the beasts of the field become too numerous for you.

³⁰“Little by little I will drive them out from before you, until you have increased, and you inherit the land.

³¹“And ^uI will set your ⁶bounds from the Red Sea to the sea, Philistia, and from the desert to the ⁷River. For I will ^vdeliver the inhabitants of the land into your hand, and you shall drive them out before you.

^{32w}“You shall make no ⁸covenant with them, nor with their gods.

³³“They shall not dwell in your land, lest they make you sin against Me. For if you serve their gods, ^xit will surely be a snare to you.”

Exodus 24

Israel Affirms the Covenant

¹Now He said to Moses, “Come up to the LORD, you and Aaron, ^aNadab and Abihu, ^band seventy of the elders of Israel, and worship from afar.

²“And Moses alone shall come near the LORD, but they shall not come near; nor shall the people go up with him.”

³So Moses came and told the people all the words of the LORD and all the ¹judgments. And all the people answered with one voice and said, ^c“All the words which the LORD has said we will do.”

⁴And Moses ^dwrote all the words of the LORD. And he rose early in the morning, and built an altar at the foot of the mountain, and twelve ^epillars according to the twelve tribes of Israel.

⁵Then he sent young men of the children of Israel, who offered ^fburnt offerings and sacrificed peace offerings of oxen to the LORD.

⁶And Moses ^gtook half the blood and put it in basins, and half the blood he sprinkled on the altar.

⁷Then he ^htook the Book of the Covenant and read in the hearing of the people. And they said, “All that the LORD has said we will do, and be obedient.”

⁸And Moses took the blood, sprinkled it on the people, and said, “This is ⁱthe blood of the covenant which the LORD has made with you according to all these words.”

On the Mountain with God

⁹Then Moses went up, also Aaron, Nadab, and Abihu, and seventy of the elders of Israel, ¹⁰and they ^jsaw the God of Israel. And there was under His feet as it were a paved work of ^ksapphire stone, and it was like the ^lvery² heavens in its clarity.

¹¹But on the nobles of the children of Israel He ^mdid not ³lay His hand. So ⁿthey saw God, and they ^oate and drank.

¹²Then the LORD said to Moses, ^p“Come up to Me on the mountain and be there; and I will give you ^qtablets of stone, and the law and commandments which I have written, that you may teach them.”

¹³So Moses arose with ^rhis assistant Joshua, and Moses went up to the mountain of God.

¹⁴And he said to the elders, “Wait here for us until we come back to you. Indeed, Aaron and ^sHur are with you. If any man has a difficulty, let him go to them.”

¹⁵Then Moses went up into the mountain, and ^ta cloud covered the mountain.

¹⁶Now ^uthe glory of the LORD rested on Mount Sinai, and the cloud covered it six days. And on the seventh day He called to Moses out of the midst of the cloud.

¹⁷The sight of the glory of the LORD was like ^va consuming fire on the top of the mountain in the eyes of the children of Israel.

¹⁸So Moses went into the midst of the cloud and went up into the mountain. And ^wMoses was on the mountain forty days and forty nights.

Exodus 25

Offerings for the Sanctuary

(Ex. 35:4–9)

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

²“Speak to the children of Israel, that they bring Me an ¹offering. ^aFrom everyone who gives it willingly with his heart you shall take My offering.

³“And this is the offering which you shall take from them: gold, silver, and bronze;

⁴“blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, and goats’ hair;

⁵“ram skins dyed red, ²badger skins, and acacia wood;

^{6b}“oil for the light, and ^cspices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense;

⁷“onyx stones, and stones to be set in the ^dephod and in the breastplate.

⁸“And let them make Me a ^esanctuary, ³ that ^fI may dwell among them.

⁹“According to all that I show you, that is, the pattern of the tabernacle and the pattern of all its furnishings, just so you shall make it.

The Ark of the Testimony

(Ex. 37:1–9)

^{10g}“And they shall make an ark of acacia wood; two and a half cubits shall be its length, a cubit and a half its width, and a cubit and a half its height.

¹¹“And you shall overlay it with pure gold, inside and out you shall overlay it, and shall make on it a molding of ^hgold all around.

¹²“You shall cast four rings of gold for it, and put them in its four corners; two rings shall be on one side, and two rings on the other side.

¹³“And you shall make poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold.

¹⁴“You shall put the poles into the rings on the sides of the ark, that the ark may be carried by them.

¹⁵ⁱ“The poles shall be in the rings of the ark; they shall not be taken from it.

¹⁶“And you shall put into the ark ^jthe Testimony which I will give you.

^{17k}“You shall make a mercy seat of pure gold; two and a half cubits shall be its length and a cubit and a half its width.

¹⁸“And you shall make two cherubim of gold; of hammered work you shall make them at the two ends of the mercy seat.

²⁰“And ^lthe cherubim shall stretch out their wings above, covering the mercy seat with their wings, and they shall face one another; the faces of the cherubim shall be toward the mercy seat.

^{21m}“You shall put the mercy seat on top of the ark, and ⁿin the ark you shall put the Testimony that I will give you.

²²“And ^othere I will meet with you, and I will speak with you from above the mercy seat, from ^pbetween the two cherubim which are on the ark of the Testimony, about everything which I will give you in commandment to the children of Israel.

The Table for the Showbread

(Ex. 37:10–16)

²³^q“You shall also make a table of acacia wood; two cubits shall be its length, a cubit its width, and a cubit and a half its height.

²⁴“And you shall overlay it with pure gold, and make a molding of gold all around.

²⁵“You shall make for it a frame of a handbreadth all around, and you shall make a gold molding for the frame all around.

²⁶“And you shall make for it four rings of gold, and put the rings on the four corners that are at its four legs.

²⁷“The rings shall be close to the frame, as holders for the poles to bear the table.

²⁸“And you shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold, that the table may be carried with them.

²⁹“You shall make ^rits dishes, its pans, its pitchers, and its bowls for pouring. You shall make them of pure gold.

³⁰“And you shall set the ^sshowbread on the table before Me always.

The Gold Lampstand

(Ex. 37:17–24)

³¹“You shall also make a lampstand of pure gold; the lampstand shall be of hammered work. Its shaft, its branches, its bowls, its ornamental knobs, and flowers shall be of one piece.

³²“And six branches shall come out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of the other side.

³³“Three bowls shall be made like almond blossoms on one branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower, and three bowls made like almond blossoms on the other branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower—and so for the six branches that come out of the lampstand.

³⁴“On the lampstand itself four bowls shall be made like almond blossoms, each with its ornamental knob and flower.

³⁵“And there shall be a knob under the first two branches of the same, a knob under the second two branches of the same, and a knob under the third two branches of the same, according to the six branches that extend from the lampstand.

³⁶“Their knobs and their branches shall be of one piece; all of it shall be one hammered piece of pure gold.

³⁷“You shall make seven lamps for it, and ^wthey shall arrange its lamps so that they ^xgive light in front of it.

³⁸“And its wick-trimmers and their trays shall be of pure gold.

³⁹“It shall be made of a talent of pure gold, with all these utensils.

⁴⁰“And ^ysee to it that you make them according to the pattern which was shown you on the mountain. Charts and Diagrams: Tabernacle Furnishings

Exodus 26

The Tabernacle

(Ex. 36:8–38)

²“The length of each curtain shall be twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits. And every one of the curtains shall have ¹the same measurements. Charts and Diagrams: The Tabernacle

³“Five curtains shall be coupled to one another, and the other five curtains shall be coupled to one another.

⁴“And you shall make loops of blue yarn on the edge of the curtain on the selvedge of one set, and likewise you shall do on the outer edge of the other curtain of the second set.

⁶“And you shall make fifty clasps of gold, and couple the curtains together with the clasps, so that it may be one tabernacle.

^{7b}“You shall also make curtains of goats’ hair, to be a tent over the tabernacle. You shall make eleven curtains.

⁸“The length of each curtain shall be thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; and the eleven curtains shall all have the same measurements.

⁹“And you shall couple five curtains by themselves and six curtains by themselves, and you shall double over the sixth curtain at the forefront of the tent.

¹⁰“You shall make fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that is outermost in one set, and fifty loops on the edge of the curtain of the second set.

¹¹“And you shall make fifty bronze clasps, put the clasps into the loops, and couple the tent together, that it may be one.

¹²“The remnant that remains of the curtains of the tent, the half curtain that remains, shall hang over the back of the tabernacle.

^{14c}“You shall also make a covering of ram skins dyed red for the tent, and a covering of badger skins above that.

¹⁵“And for the tabernacle you shall ^dmake the boards of acacia wood, standing upright.

¹⁶“Ten cubits shall be the length of a board, and a cubit and a half shall be the width of each board.

¹⁷“Two ²tenons shall be in each board for binding one to another. Thus you shall make for all the boards of the tabernacle.

¹⁸“And you shall make the boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards for the south side.

¹⁹“You shall make forty sockets of silver under the twenty boards: two sockets under each of the boards for its two tenons.

²⁰“And for the second side of the tabernacle, the north side, there shall be twenty boards ²¹“and their forty sockets of silver: two sockets under each of the boards.

²²“For the far side of the tabernacle, westward, you shall make six boards.

²³“And you shall also make two boards for the two back corners of the tabernacle.

²⁴“They shall be ³coupled together at the bottom and they shall be coupled together at the top by one ring. Thus it shall be for both of them. They shall be for the two corners.

²⁵“So there shall be eight boards with their sockets of silver—sixteen sockets—two sockets under each of the boards.

²⁶“And you shall make bars of acacia wood: five for the boards on one side of the tabernacle, ²⁷“five bars for the boards on the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the side of the tabernacle, for the far side westward.

²⁸“The ^emiddle bar shall pass through the midst of the boards from end to end.

²⁹“You shall overlay the boards with gold, make their rings of gold as holders for the bars, and overlay the bars with gold.

³⁰“And you shall raise up the tabernacle ^faccording to its pattern which you were shown on the mountain.

^{31g}“You shall make a veil woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen. It shall be woven with an artistic design of cherubim.

³²“You shall hang it upon the four pillars of acacia wood overlaid with gold. Their hooks shall be gold, upon four sockets of silver.

³³“And you shall hang the veil from the clasps. Then you shall bring ^hthe ark of the Testimony in there, behind the veil. The veil shall be a divider for you between ⁱthe holy place and the Most Holy.

^{34j}“You shall put the mercy seat upon the ark of the Testimony in the Most Holy.

^{35k}“You shall set the table outside the veil, and ^lthe lampstand across from the table on the side of the tabernacle toward the south; and you shall put the table on the north side.

^{36m}“You shall make a screen for the door of the tabernacle, woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a weaver.

³⁷“And you shall make for the screen ⁿfive pillars of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold; their hooks shall be gold, and you shall cast five sockets of bronze for them.

Exodus 27

The Altar of Burnt Offering

(Ex. 38:1–7)

¹“You shall make ^aan altar of acacia wood, five cubits long and five cubits wide—the altar shall be square—and its height shall be three cubits. Word Studies: altar

²“You shall make its horns on its four corners; its horns shall be of one piece with it. And you shall overlay it with bronze.

³“Also you shall make its pans to receive its ashes, and its shovels and its basins and its forks and its firepans; you shall make all its utensils of bronze.

⁴“You shall make a grate for it, a network of bronze; and on the network you shall make four bronze rings at its four corners.

⁵“You shall put it under the rim of the altar beneath, that the network may be midway up the altar.

⁶“And you shall make poles for the altar, poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with bronze.

⁷“The poles shall be put in the rings, and the poles shall be on the two sides of the altar to bear it.

⁸“You shall make it hollow with boards; ^bas it was shown you on the mountain, so shall they make it.

The Court of the Tabernacle

(Ex. 38:9–20)

⁹*c*“You shall also make the court of the tabernacle. For the south side there shall be hangings for the court made of fine woven linen, one hundred cubits long for one side.

¹⁰“And its twenty pillars and their twenty sockets shall be bronze. The hooks of the pillars and their bands shall be silver.

¹¹“Likewise along the length of the north side there shall be hangings one hundred cubits long, with its twenty pillars and their twenty sockets of bronze, and the hooks of the pillars and their bands of silver.

¹²“And along the width of the court on the west side shall be hangings of fifty cubits, with their ten pillars and their ten sockets.

¹³“The width of the court on the east side shall be fifty cubits.

¹⁴“The hangings on one side of the gate shall be fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets.

¹⁵“And on the other side shall be hangings of fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets.

¹⁷“All the pillars around the court shall have bands of silver; their ^dhooks shall be of silver and their sockets of bronze.

¹⁸“The length of the court shall be one hundred cubits, the width fifty throughout, and the height five cubits, made of fine woven linen, and its sockets of bronze.

¹⁹“All the utensils of the tabernacle for all its service, all its pegs, and all the pegs of the court, shall be of bronze.

The Care of the Lampstand

(Lev. 24:1–4)

²⁰“And ^eyou shall command the children of Israel that they bring you pure oil of pressed olives for the light, to cause the lamp to ¹burn continually.

²¹“In the tabernacle of meeting, ^foutside the veil which is before the Testimony, ^gAaron and his sons shall tend it from evening until morning before the LORD. ^h*It shall be* a statute forever to their generations on behalf of the children of Israel.

Exodus 28

Garments for the Priesthood

(Ex. 39:1–7)

²“And ^eyou shall make ¹holy garments for Aaron your brother, for glory and for beauty.

³“So ^fyou shall speak to all who are gifted artisans, ^gwhom I have filled with the spirit of wisdom, that they may make Aaron’s garments, to consecrate him, that he may minister to Me as priest.

⁴“And these are the garments which they shall make: ^ha breastplate, ⁱan ²ephod, ^ja robe, ^ka skillfully woven tunic, a turban, and ^la sash. So they shall make holy garments for Aaron your brother and his sons, that he may minister to Me as priest.

The Ephod

⁵“They shall take the gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and the fine linen, ^{6m}“and they shall make the ephod of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, artistically worked.

⁷“It shall have two shoulder straps joined at its two edges, and so it shall be joined together.

⁸“And the ³intricately woven band of the ephod, which is on it, shall be of the same workmanship, made of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen.

⁹“Then you shall take two onyx ⁿstones and engrave on them the names of the sons of Israel:

¹⁰“six of their names on one stone and six names on the other stone, in order of their ^obirth.

¹¹“With the work of an ^pengraver in stone, like the engravings of a signet, you shall engrave the two stones with the names of the sons of Israel. You shall set them in settings of gold.

¹²“And you shall put the two stones on the shoulders of the ephod as memorial stones for the sons of Israel. So ^qAaron shall bear their names before the LORD on his two shoulders ^ras a memorial.

¹³“You shall also make settings of gold,

¹⁴“and you shall make two chains of pure gold like braided cords, and fasten the braided chains to the settings.

The Breastplate

(Ex. 39:8–21)

¹⁵s“You shall make the breastplate of judgment. Artistically woven according to the workmanship of the ephod you shall make it: of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, you shall make it.

¹⁶“It shall be doubled into a square: a span shall be its length, and a span shall be its width.

¹⁷t“And you shall put settings of stones in it, four rows of stones: The first row shall be a ⁴sardius, a topaz, and an emerald; this shall be the first row;

¹⁸“the second row shall be a turquoise, a sapphire, and a diamond;

¹⁹“the third row, a ⁵jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst;

²⁰“and the fourth row, a ⁶beryl, an ⁷onyx, and a jasper. They shall be set in gold settings.

²²“You shall make chains for the breastplate at the end, like braided cords of pure gold.

²³“And you shall make two rings of gold for the breastplate, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.

²⁴“Then you shall put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings which are on the ends of the breastplate;

²⁶“You shall make two rings of gold, and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on the edge of it, which is on the inner side of the ephod.

²⁹“So Aaron shall ^ubear the names of the sons of Israel on the breastplate of judgment over his heart, when he goes into the holy place, as a memorial before the LORD continually.

³⁰“And ^vyou shall put in the breastplate of judgment the ⁹Urim and the Thummim, and they shall be over Aaron’s heart when he goes in before the LORD. So Aaron shall bear the judgment of the children of Israel over his heart before the LORD continually.

Other Priestly Garments

(Ex. 39:22–31)

³¹_w“You shall make the robe of the ephod all of blue.

³⁴“a golden bell and a pomegranate, a golden bell and a pomegranate, upon the hem of the robe all around.

³⁵“And it shall be upon Aaron when he ministers, and its sound will be heard when he goes into the holy place before the LORD and when he comes out, that he may not die.

³⁶_x“You shall also make a plate of pure gold and engrave on it, like the engraving of a signet:

HOLINESS TO THE LORD.

³⁷“And you shall put it on a blue cord, that it may be on the turban; it shall be on the front of the turban.

³⁹“You shall ^askillfully weave the tunic of fine linen thread, you shall make the turban of fine linen, and you shall make the sash of woven work.

⁴⁰_b“For Aaron’s sons you shall make tunics, and you shall make sashes for them. And you shall make ¹¹hats for them, for glory and ^cbeauty.

⁴¹“So you shall put them on Aaron your brother and on his sons with him. You shall ^danoint them, ^econsecrate them, and ¹²sanctify them, that they may minister to Me as priests.

⁴²“And you shall make ^ffor them linen trousers to cover their ¹³nakedness; they shall ¹⁴reach from the waist to the thighs.

⁴³“They shall be on Aaron and on his sons when they come into the tabernacle of meeting, or when they come near ^gthe altar to minister in the holy place, that they ^hdo not incur ¹⁵iniquity and die. ⁱ*It shall be* a statute forever to him and his descendants after him.

Exodus 29

Aaron and His Sons Consecrated

(Lev. 8:1–36)

¹“And this is what you shall do to them to hallow them for ministering to Me as priests: ^aTake one young bull and two rams without blemish, ²“and ^bunleavened bread, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, and unleavened wafers anointed with oil (you shall make them of wheat flour).

³“You shall put them in one basket and bring them in the basket, with the bull and the two rams.

⁴“And Aaron and his sons you shall bring to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, ^cand you shall wash them with water.

^{5d}“Then you shall take the garments, put the tunic on Aaron, and the robe of the ephod, the ephod, and the breastplate, and gird him with ^ethe intricately woven band of the ephod.

^{6f}“You shall put the turban on his head, and put the holy crown on the turban.

⁷“And you shall take the anointing ^goil, pour it on his head, and anoint him.

⁸“Then ^hyou shall bring his sons and put tunics on them.

⁹“And you shall gird them with sashes, Aaron and his sons, and put the hats on them. ⁱThe priesthood shall be theirs for a perpetual statute. So you shall ^jconsecrate Aaron and his sons.

¹⁰“You shall also have the bull brought before the tabernacle of meeting, and ^kAaron and his sons shall put their hands on the head of the bull.

¹¹“Then you shall kill the bull before the LORD, by the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

¹²“You shall take some of the blood of the bull and put it on ^lthe horns of the altar with your finger, and ^mpour all the blood beside the base of the altar.

¹³“And ⁿyou shall take all the fat that covers the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, and the two kidneys and the fat that is on them, and burn them on the altar.

¹⁴“But ^othe flesh of the bull, with its skin and its offal, you shall burn with fire outside the camp. It is a sin offering.

^{15p}“You shall also take one ram, and Aaron and his sons shall ^qput their hands on the head of the ram;

¹⁶“and you shall kill the ram, and you shall take its blood and ^rsprinkle it all around on the altar.

¹⁷“Then you shall cut the ram in pieces, wash its entrails and its legs, and put them with its pieces and with its head.

¹⁸“And you shall burn the whole ram on the altar. It is a ^sburnt offering to the LORD; it is a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

¹⁹“You shall also take the other ram, and Aaron and his sons shall put their hands on the head of the ram.

²¹“And you shall take some of the blood that is on the altar, and some of ^uthe anointing oil, and sprinkle it on Aaron and on his garments, on his sons and on the garments of his sons with him; and ^vhe and his garments shall be hallowed, and his sons and his sons’ garments with him.

²³“one loaf of bread, one cake made with oil, and one wafer from the basket of the unleavened bread that is before the LORD;

²⁴“and you shall put all these in the hands of Aaron and in the hands of his sons, and you shall ^xwave them as a wave offering before the LORD.

²⁵“You shall receive them back from their hands and burn them on the altar as a burnt offering, as a sweet aroma before the LORD. It is an offering made by fire to the LORD.

²⁶“Then you shall take ^zthe breast of the ram of Aaron’s consecration and wave it as a wave offering before the LORD; and it shall be your portion.

²⁸“It shall be from the children of Israel for Aaron and his sons ^bby a statute forever. For it is a heave offering; ^cit shall be a heave offering from the children of Israel from the sacrifices of their peace offerings, that is, their heave offering to the LORD.

²⁹“And the ^dholy garments of Aaron ^eshall be his sons’ after him, ^fto be anointed in them and to be consecrated in them.

³⁰“That son who becomes priest in his place shall put them on for ^hseven days, when he enters the tabernacle of meeting to minister in the ¹holy place.

³¹“And you shall take the ram of the consecration and ⁱboil its flesh in the holy place.

³²“Then Aaron and his sons shall eat the flesh of the ram, and the ^jbread that is in the basket, by the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

³³^k“They shall eat those things with which the atonement was made, to consecrate and to sanctify them; ^lbut an outsider shall not eat them, because they are holy.

³⁴“And if any of the flesh of the consecration offerings, or of the bread, remains until the morning, then ^myou shall burn the remainder with fire. It shall not be eaten, because it is holy.

³⁵“Thus you shall do to Aaron and his sons, according to all that I have commanded you. ⁿSeven days you shall consecrate them.

³⁶“And you ^oshall offer a bull every day as a sin offering for atonement. ^pYou shall cleanse the altar when you make atonement for it, and you shall anoint it to sanctify it.

³⁷“Seven days you shall make atonement for the altar and sanctify it. And the altar shall be most holy. ^qWhatever touches the altar must be holy.

The Daily Offerings

(Num. 28:1–8)

³⁸“Now this is what you shall offer on the altar: ^rtwo lambs of the first year, ^sday by day continually.

³⁹“One lamb you shall offer ^tin the morning, and the other lamb you shall offer ²at twilight.

⁴⁰“With the one lamb shall be one-tenth of an ephah of flour mixed with one-fourth of a hin of pressed oil, and one-fourth of a hin of wine as a drink offering.

⁴¹“And the other lamb you shall ^uoffer ³at twilight; and you shall offer with it the grain offering and the drink offering, as in the morning, for a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

⁴²“This shall be ^va continual burnt offering throughout your generations at the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the LORD, ^wwhere I will meet you to speak with you.

⁴³“And there I will meet with the children of Israel, and the tabernacle ^xshall be sanctified by My glory.

⁴⁴“So I will consecrate the tabernacle of meeting and the altar. I will also ^yconsecrate both Aaron and his sons to minister to Me as priests.

^{45z}“I will dwell among the children of Israel and will ^abe their God.

⁴⁶“And they shall know that ^bI am the LORD their God, who ^cbrought them up out of the land of Egypt, that I may dwell among them. I am the LORD their God.

Exodus 30

The Altar of Incense

(Ex. 37:25–28)

¹“You shall make ^aan altar to burn incense on; you shall make it of acacia wood. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Acacia

²“A cubit shall be its length and a cubit its width—it shall be square—and two cubits shall be its height. Its horns shall be of one piece with it.

³“And you shall overlay its top, its sides all around, and its horns with pure gold; and you shall make for it a ¹molding of gold all around.

⁴“Two gold rings you shall make for it, under the molding on both its sides. You shall place them on its two sides, and they will be holders for the poles with which to bear it.

⁵“You shall make the poles of acacia wood, and overlay them with gold.

⁶“And you shall put it before the ^bveil that is before the ark of the Testimony, before the ^cmercy seat that is over the Testimony, where I will meet with you.

⁷“Aaron shall burn on it ^dsweet incense every morning; when ^ehe tends the lamps, he shall burn incense on it.

⁸“And when Aaron lights the lamps ²at twilight, he shall burn incense on it, a perpetual incense before the LORD throughout your generations.

⁹“You shall not offer ^fstrange incense on it, or a burnt offering, or a grain offering; nor shall you pour a drink offering on it.

¹⁰“And ^gAaron shall make atonement upon its horns once a year with the blood of the sin offering of atonement; once a year he shall make atonement upon it throughout your generations. It is most holy to the LORD.”

The Ransom Money

¹¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

^{12h}“When you take the census of the children of Israel for their number, then every man shall give ⁱa³ ransom for himself to the LORD, when you number them, that there may be no ^jplague among them when you number them.

^{13k}“This is what everyone among those who are numbered shall give: half a shekel according to the shekel of the sanctuary ^l(a shekel is twenty gerahs).
^mThe half-shekel shall be an offering to the LORD.

¹⁴“Everyone included among those who are numbered, from twenty years old and above, shall give an ⁴offering to the LORD.

¹⁵“The ⁿrich shall not give more and the poor shall not give less than half a shekel, when you give an offering to the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves.

¹⁶“And you shall take the atonement money of the children of Israel, and ^oshall ⁵appoint it for the service of the tabernacle of meeting, that it may be ^pa memorial for the children of Israel before the LORD, to make atonement for yourselves.”

The Bronze Laver

¹⁷Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

^{18q}“You shall also make a ⁶laver of bronze, with its base also of bronze, for washing. You shall ^rput it between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar. And you shall put water in it, Word Studies: washing

¹⁹“for Aaron and his sons ^sshall wash their hands and their feet in water from it.

²⁰“When they go into the tabernacle of meeting, or when they come near the altar to minister, to burn an offering made by fire to the LORD, they shall wash with water, lest they die.

²¹“So they shall wash their hands and their feet, lest they die. And ^tit shall be a ⁷statute forever to them—to him and his descendants throughout their generations.”

The Holy Anointing Oil

(Ex. 37:29)

²²Moreover the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

²³“Also take for yourself ^uquality spices—five hundred shekels of liquid ^vmyrrh, half as much sweet-smelling cinnamon (two hundred and fifty shekels), two hundred and fifty shekels of sweet-smelling ^wcane, ²⁴“five hundred shekels of ^xcassia, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, and a ^yhin of olive oil.

²⁵“And you shall make from these a holy anointing oil, an ointment compounded according to the art of the perfumer. It shall be ^za holy anointing oil.

^{26a}“With it you shall anoint the tabernacle of meeting and the ark of the Testimony;

²⁷“the table and all its utensils, the lampstand and its utensils, and the altar of incense;

²⁸“the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and the laver and its base.

²⁹“You shall consecrate them, that they may be most holy; ^bwhatever touches them must be holy.

^{30c}“And you shall anoint Aaron and his sons, and consecrate them, that they may minister to Me as priests.

³¹“And you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: ‘This shall be a holy anointing oil to Me throughout your generations.

³²‘It shall not be poured on man’s flesh; nor shall you make any other like it, according to its composition. ^dIt is holy, and it shall be holy to you.

^{33e}‘Whoever ⁸compounds any like it, or whoever puts any of it on an outsider, ^fshall be ⁹cut off from his people.’ ”

The Incense

(Ex. 37:29)

³⁴And the LORD said to Moses: ^g“Take sweet spices, stacte and onycha and galbanum, and pure frankincense with these sweet spices; there shall be equal amounts of each.

³⁵“You shall make of these an incense, a compound ^haccording to the art of the perfumer, salted, pure, and holy.

³⁶“And you shall beat some of it very fine, and put some of it before the Testimony in the tabernacle of meeting ⁱwhere I will meet with you. ^jIt shall be most holy to you.

³⁷“But as for the incense which you shall make, ^kyou shall not make any for yourselves, according to its ¹⁰composition. It shall be to you holy for the LORD.

³⁸“Whoever makes any like it, to smell it, he shall be cut off from his people.”

Exodus 31

Artisans for Building the Tabernacle

(Ex. 35:30—36:1)

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

^{2a}“See, I have called by name Bezalel the ^bson of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah.

³“And I have ^cfilled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom, in understanding, in knowledge, and in all manner of workmanship, ⁴“to design artistic works, to work in gold, in silver, in bronze,

⁵“in cutting jewels for setting, in carving wood, and to work in all manner of workmanship.

⁶“And I, indeed I, have appointed with him ^dAholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan; and I have put wisdom in the hearts of all the ^egifted artisans, that they may make all that I have commanded you:

^{7f}“the tabernacle of meeting, ^gthe ark of the Testimony and ^hthe mercy seat that is on it, and all the furniture of the tabernacle—

⁸ⁱ“the table and its utensils, ^jthe pure gold lampstand with all its utensils, the altar of incense,

^{9k}“the altar of burnt offering with all its utensils, and ^lthe laver and its base

^{10m}“the ¹garments of ministry, the holy garments for Aaron the priest and the garments of his sons, to minister as priests,

¹¹ⁿ“and the anointing oil and ^osweet incense for the holy place. According to all that I have commanded you they shall do.”

The Sabbath Law

¹²And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

¹³“Speak also to the children of Israel, saying: ^p“Surely My Sabbaths you shall keep, for it is a sign between Me and you throughout your generations, that you may know that I am the LORD who ^qsanctifies² you.

¹⁴“You shall keep the Sabbath, therefore, for it is holy to you. Everyone who ³profanes it shall surely be put to death; for ^swhoever does any work on it, that person shall be cut off from among his people.

¹⁶“Therefore the children of Israel shall keep the Sabbath, to observe the Sabbath throughout their generations as a perpetual covenant.

¹⁷“It is ^va sign between Me and the children of Israel forever; for ^w*in* six days the LORD made the heavens and the earth, and on the seventh day He rested and was refreshed.’ ”

¹⁸And when He had made an end of speaking with him on Mount Sinai, He gave Moses ^xtwo tablets of the Testimony, tablets of stone, written with the finger of God.

Exodus 32

The Gold Calf

(Deut. 9:6–29)

¹Now when the people saw that Moses ^adelayed coming down from the mountain, the people ^bgathered together to Aaron, and said to him, ^c“Come, make us ¹gods that shall ^dgo before us; for as for this Moses, the man who ^ebrought us up out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him.”

²And Aaron said to them, “Break off the ^fgolden earrings which are in the ears of your wives, your sons, and your daughters, and bring them to me.”

³So all the people broke off the golden earrings which were in their ears, and brought them to Aaron.

^{4g}And he received the gold from their hand, and he fashioned it with an engraving tool, and made a molded calf. Then they said, “This is your god, O Israel, that ^hbrought you out of the land of Egypt!”

⁵So when Aaron saw it, he built an altar before it. And Aaron made a ⁱproclamation and said, “Tomorrow is a feast to the LORD.”

⁶Then they rose early on the next day, offered burnt offerings, and brought peace offerings; and the people ^jsat down to eat and drink, and rose up to play.

⁷And the LORD said to Moses, ^k“Go, get down! For your people whom you brought out of the land of Egypt ^lhave corrupted themselves.

⁸“They have turned aside quickly out of the way which ^mI commanded them. They have made themselves a molded calf, and worshiped it and sacrificed to it, and said, ⁿ“This is your god, O Israel, that brought you out of the land of Egypt!’ ” ⁹And the LORD said to Moses, ^o“I have seen this people, and indeed it is a ²stiff-necked people!

¹⁰“Now therefore, ^plet Me alone, that ^qMy wrath may burn hot against them and I may ³consume them. And ^rI will make of you a great nation.”

^{11s}Then Moses pleaded with ⁴the LORD his God, and said: “LORD, why does Your wrath burn hot against Your people whom You have brought out of the land of Egypt with great power and with a mighty hand?

^{12t}“Why should the Egyptians speak, and say, ‘He brought them out to harm them, to kill them in the mountains, and to consume them from the face of the earth’? Turn from Your fierce wrath, and ^urelent from this harm to Your people.

¹³“Remember Abraham, Isaac, and Israel, Your servants, to whom You ^vswore by Your own self, and said to them, ^w‘I will multiply your descendants as the stars of heaven; and all this land that I have spoken of I give to your descendants, and they shall inherit it forever.’ ”

¹⁴So the LORD ^xrelented from the harm which He said He would do to His people.

¹⁵And ^yMoses turned and went down from the mountain, and the two tablets of the Testimony were in his hand. The tablets were written on both sides; on the one side and on the other they were written.

¹⁶Now the ^ztablets were the work of God, and the writing was the writing of God engraved on the tablets.

¹⁷And when Joshua heard the noise of the people as they shouted, he said to Moses, “There is a noise of war in the camp.”

¹⁸But he said:

“It is not the noise of the shout of victory,
Nor the noise of the cry of defeat,
But the sound of singing I hear.”

¹⁹So it was, as soon as he came near the camp, that ^ahe saw the calf and the dancing. So Moses’ anger became hot, and he cast the tablets out of his hands and broke them at the foot of the mountain.

^{20b}Then he took the calf which they had made, burned it in the fire, and ground it to powder; and he scattered it on the water and made the children of Israel drink it.

²¹And Moses said to Aaron, “‘What did this people do to you that you have brought so great a sin upon them?’”

²²So Aaron said, “Do not let the anger of my lord become hot. ^dYou know the people, that they are set on evil.

²³“For they said to me, ‘Make us gods that shall go before us; as for this Moses, the man who brought us out of the land of Egypt, we do not know what has become of him.’

²⁴“And I said to them, ‘Whoever has any gold, let them break it off.’ So they gave it to me, and I cast it into the fire, and this calf came out.”

²⁵Now when Moses saw that the people were ^eunrestrained (for Aaron ^fhad not restrained them, to their shame among their enemies), ²⁶then Moses stood in the entrance of the camp, and said, “Whoever is on the LORD's side—come to me!” And all the sons of Levi gathered themselves together to him.

²⁷And he said to them, “Thus says the LORD God of Israel: ‘Let every man put his sword on his side, and go in and out from entrance to entrance throughout the camp, and ⁸let every man kill his brother, every man his companion, and every man his neighbor.’ ”

²⁸So the sons of Levi did according to the word of Moses. And about three thousand men of the people fell that day.

²⁹^hThen Moses said, ⁵“Consecrate yourselves today to the LORD, that He may bestow on you a blessing this day, for every man has opposed his son and his brother.”

³⁰Now it came to pass on the next day that Moses said to the people, ⁱ“You have committed a great sin. So now I will go up to the LORD; ^jperhaps I can ^kmake atonement for your sin.”

³¹Then Moses ^lreturned to the LORD and said, “Oh, these people have committed a great sin, and have ^mmade for themselves a god of gold!

³²“Yet now, if You will forgive their sin—but if not, I pray, ⁿblot me ^oout of Your book which You have written.”

³³And the LORD said to Moses, ^p“Whoever has sinned against Me, I will ^qblot him out of My book.

³⁴“Now therefore, go, lead the people to the place of which I have ^rspoken to you. ^sBehold, My Angel shall go before you. Nevertheless, ^tin the day when I ^uvisit for punishment, I will visit punishment upon them for their sin.”

³⁵So the LORD plagued the people because of ^vwhat they did with the calf which Aaron made.

Exodus 33

The Command to Leave Sinai

¹Then the LORD said to Moses, “Depart and go up from here, you ^aand the people whom you have brought out of the land of Egypt, to the land of which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, ^b“To your descendants I will give it.’

^{2c}“And I will send My Angel before you, ^dand I will drive out the Canaanite and the Amorite and the Hittite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite.

³“Go up ^eto a land flowing with milk and honey; for I will not go up in your midst, lest ^fI ¹consume you on the way, for you are a ^gstiff-necked² people.”

⁴And when the people heard this bad news, ^hthey mourned, ⁱand no one put on his ornaments.

⁵For the LORD had said to Moses, “Say to the children of Israel, ‘You are a stiff-necked people. I could come up into your midst in one moment and consume you. Now therefore, take off your ³ornaments, that I may ^jknow what to do to you.’ ”

⁶So the children of Israel stripped themselves of their ornaments by Mount Horeb.

Moses Meets with the LORD

⁷Moses took his tent and pitched it outside the camp, far from the camp, and ^kcalled it the tabernacle of meeting. And it came to pass that everyone who ^lsought the LORD went out to the tabernacle of meeting which was outside the camp.

⁸So it was, whenever Moses went out to the tabernacle, that all the people rose, and each man stood ^m*at* his tent door and watched Moses until he had gone into the tabernacle.

⁹And it came to pass, when Moses entered the tabernacle, that the pillar of cloud descended and stood at the door of the tabernacle, and the LORD ⁿtalked with Moses.

¹⁰All the people saw the pillar of cloud standing at the tabernacle door, and all the people rose and ^oworshiped, each man in his tent door.

¹¹So ^pthe LORD spoke to Moses face to face, as a man speaks to his friend. And he would return to the camp, but ^qhis servant Joshua the son of Nun, a young man, did not depart from the tabernacle.

The Promise of God's Presence

¹²Then Moses said to the LORD, “See, ^rYou say to me, ‘Bring up this people.’ But You have not let me know whom You will send with me. Yet You have said, ^s‘I know you by name, and you have also found grace in My sight.’

¹³“Now therefore, I pray, ^tif I have found grace in Your sight, ^ushow me now Your way, that I may know You and that I may find grace in Your sight. And consider that this nation is ^vYour people.”

¹⁴And He said, ^w“My Presence will go with you, and I will give you ^xrest.”
Article: The Merciful God Versus a False God

¹⁵Then he said to Him, ^y“If Your Presence does not go with us, do not bring us up from here.

¹⁶“For how then will it be known that Your people and I have found grace in Your sight, ^zexcept You go with us? So we ^ashall be separate, Your people and I, from all the people who are upon the face of the earth.”

¹⁷So the LORD said to Moses, ^b“I will also do this thing that you have spoken; for you have found grace in My sight, and I know you by name.”

¹⁸And he said, “Please, show me ^cYour glory.”

¹⁹Then He said, “I will make all My ^dgoodness pass before you, and I will proclaim the name of the LORD before you. ^eI will be gracious to whom I will be ^fgracious, and I will have compassion on whom I will have compassion.”

²⁰But He said, “You cannot see My face; for ^gno man shall see Me, and live.”

²¹And the LORD said, “Here is a place by Me, and you shall stand on the rock.

²²“So it shall be, while My glory passes by, that I will put you ^hin the cleft of the rock, and will ⁱcover you with My hand while I pass by.

²³“Then I will take away My hand, and you shall see My back; but My face shall ^jnot be seen.”

Exodus 34

Moses Makes New Tablets

(Deut. 10:1–5)

¹And the LORD said to Moses, ^a“Cut two tablets of stone like the first ones, and ^bI will write on these tablets the words that were on the first tablets which you broke.

²“So be ready in the morning, and come up in the morning to Mount Sinai, and present yourself to Me there ^con the top of the mountain.

³“And no man shall ^dcome up with you, and let no man be seen throughout all the mountain; let neither flocks nor herds feed before that mountain.”

⁴So he cut two tablets of stone like the first ones. Then Moses rose early in the morning and went up Mount Sinai, as the LORD had commanded him; and he took in his hand the two tablets of stone.

⁵Now the LORD descended in the ^ecloud and stood with him there, and ^fproclaimed the name of the LORD.

⁶And the LORD passed before him and proclaimed, “The LORD, the LORD ^gGod, merciful and gracious, longsuffering, and abounding in ^hgoodness and ⁱtruth, Word Studies: goodness

^{7j}“keeping mercy for thousands, ^kforgiving iniquity and transgression and sin, ^lby no means clearing the guilty, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children and the children’s children to the third and the fourth generation.”

⁸So Moses made haste and ^mbowed his head toward the earth, and worshiped.

⁹Then he said, “If now I have found grace in Your sight, O Lord, ⁿlet my Lord, I pray, go among us, even though we are a ^ostiff-necked¹ people; and pardon our iniquity and our sin, and take us as ^pYour inheritance.”

The Covenant Renewed

(Ex. 23:14–19; Deut. 7:1–6; 16:1–17)

¹⁰And He said: “Behold, ^qI make a covenant. Before all your people I will ^rdo ²marvels such as have not been done in all the earth, nor in any nation; and all the people among whom you are shall see the work of the LORD. For it is ^san awesome thing that I will do with you.

^{11t}“Observe what I command you this day. Behold, ^uI am driving out from before you the Amorite and the Canaanite and the Hittite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite.

^{12v}“Take heed to yourself, lest you make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land where you are going, lest it be a snare in your midst.

¹³“But you shall ^wdestroy their altars, break their sacred pillars, and ^xcut down their wooden images

¹⁴“(for you shall worship ^yno other god, for the LORD, whose ^zname is Jealous, is a ^ajealous God),

¹⁵“lest you make a covenant with the inhabitants of the land, and they ^bplay the harlot with their gods and make sacrifice to their gods, and one of them ^cinvites you and you ^deat of his sacrifice, ¹⁶“and you take of ^ehis daughters for your sons, and his daughters ^fplay the harlot with their gods and make your sons play the harlot with their gods.

^{17g}“You shall make no molded gods for yourselves.

¹⁸“The Feast of ^hUnleavened Bread you shall keep. Seven days you shall eat unleavened bread, as I commanded you, in the appointed time of the month of Abib; for in the ⁱmonth of Abib you came out from Egypt.

^{19j}“All ³that open the womb are Mine, and every male firstborn among your livestock, whether ox or sheep.

^{21m}“Six days you shall work, but on the seventh day you shall rest; in plowing time and in harvest you shall rest.

²²“And you shall observe the Feast of Weeks, of the firstfruits of wheat harvest, and the Feast of Ingathering at the year’s end.

²³ⁿ“Three times in the year all your men shall appear before the Lord, the LORD God of Israel.

²⁴“For I will ^ocast out the nations before you and enlarge your borders; neither will any man covet your land when you go up to appear before the LORD your God three times in the year.

²⁵“You shall not offer the blood of My sacrifice with leaven, ^pnor shall the sacrifice of the Feast of the Passover be left until morning.

^{26q}“The first of the firstfruits of your land you shall bring to the house of the LORD your God. You shall not boil a young goat in its mother’s milk.”

²⁷Then the LORD said to Moses, “Write ^rthese words, for according to the tenor of these words I have made a covenant with you and with Israel.”

^{28s}So he was there with the LORD forty days and forty nights; he neither ate bread nor drank water. And ^tHe wrote on the tablets the words of the covenant, the ⁴Ten Commandments.

The Shining Face of Moses

²⁹Now it was so, when Moses came down from Mount Sinai (and the ^utwo tablets of the Testimony were in Moses' hand when he came down from the mountain), that Moses did not know that ^vthe skin of his face shone while he talked with Him.

³⁰So when Aaron and all the children of Israel saw Moses, behold, the skin of his face shone, and they were afraid to come near him.

³¹Then Moses called to them, and Aaron and all the rulers of the congregation returned to him; and Moses talked with them.

³²Afterward all the children of Israel came near, ^wand he gave them as commandments all that the LORD had spoken with him on Mount Sinai.

³³And when Moses had finished speaking with them, he put ^xa veil on his face.

³⁴But ^ywhenever Moses went in before the LORD to speak with Him, he would take the veil off until he came out; and he would come out and speak to the children of Israel whatever he had been commanded.

³⁵And whenever the children of Israel saw the face of Moses, that the skin of Moses' face shone, then Moses would put the veil on his face again, until he went in to speak with Him.

Exodus 35

Sabbath Regulations

¹Then Moses gathered all the congregation of the children of Israel together, and said to them, ^a“These are the words which the LORD has commanded you to do:

²“Work shall be done for ^bsix days, but the seventh day shall be a holy day for you, a Sabbath of rest to the LORD. Whoever does any work on it shall be put to ^cdeath.

^{3d}“You shall kindle no fire throughout your dwellings on the Sabbath day.”

Offerings for the Tabernacle

(Ex. 25:1–9; 39:32–43)

⁴And Moses spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying,
^e“This is the thing which the LORD commanded, saying:

⁵“Take from among you an offering to the LORD. ^fWhoever is of a willing heart, let him bring it as an offering to the LORD: ^ggold, silver, and bronze;

^{6h}“blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, and ⁱgoats’ hair;

⁷“ram skins dyed red, badger skins, and acacia wood;

⁸“oil for the light, ^jand spices for the anointing oil and for the sweet incense;

⁹“onyx stones, and stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate.

Articles of the Tabernacle

^{10k}‘All who are gifted artisans among you shall come and make all that the LORD has commanded:

¹¹‘the tabernacle, its tent, its covering, its clasps, its boards, its bars, its pillars, and its sockets;

^{12m}‘the ark and its poles, with the mercy seat, and the veil of the covering;

¹³‘the ⁿtable and its poles, all its utensils, ^oand the showbread;

¹⁴‘also ^pthe lampstand for the light, its utensils, its lamps, and the oil for the light;

^{15q}‘the incense altar, its poles, ^rthe anointing oil, ^sthe sweet incense, and the screen for the door at the entrance of the tabernacle;

^{16t}‘the altar of burnt offering with its bronze grating, its poles, all its utensils, and the laver and its base;

^{17u}‘the hangings of the court, its pillars, their sockets, and the screen for the gate of the court;

¹⁸‘the pegs of the tabernacle, the pegs of the court, and their cords;

^{19v}‘the ¹garments of ministry, for ministering in the holy place—the holy garments for Aaron the priest and the garments of his sons, to minister as priests.’ ”

The Tabernacle Offerings Presented

²⁰And all the congregation of the children of Israel departed from the presence of Moses.

²¹Then everyone came ^wwhose heart ²was stirred, and everyone whose spirit was willing, and they ^xbrought the LORD's offering for the work of the tabernacle of meeting, for all its service, and for the holy garments.

²²They came, both men and women, as many as had a willing heart, and brought ^yearrings and nose rings, rings and necklaces, all ^zjewelry of gold, that is, every man who made an offering of gold to the LORD.

²³And ^aevery man, with whom was found blue, purple, and scarlet thread, fine linen, and goats' hair, red skins of rams, and ³badger skins, brought them.

²⁴Everyone who offered an offering of silver or bronze brought the LORD's offering. And everyone with whom was found acacia wood for any work of the service, brought it.

²⁵All the women who were ^bgifted artisans spun yarn with their hands, and brought what they had spun, of blue, purple, and scarlet, and fine linen.

²⁶And all the women whose hearts ⁴stirred with wisdom spun yarn of goats' hair.

²⁷^cThe rulers brought onyx stones, and the stones to be set in the ephod and in the breastplate, ²⁸*and* ^dspices and oil for the light, for the anointing oil, and for the sweet incense.

²⁹The children of Israel brought a ^efreewill offering to the LORD, all the men and women whose hearts were willing to bring material for all kinds of work which the LORD, by the hand of Moses, had commanded to be done.

The Artisans Called by God

(Ex. 31:1–11)

³⁰And Moses said to the children of Israel, “See, ^fthe LORD has called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah;

³¹“and He has filled him with the Spirit of God, in wisdom and understanding, in knowledge and all manner of workmanship, ³²“to design artistic works, to work in gold and silver and bronze,

³³“in cutting jewels for setting, in carving wood, and to work in all manner of artistic workmanship.

³⁴“And He has put in his heart the ability to teach, in him and ^gAholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan.

³⁵“He has ^hfilled them with skill to do all manner of work of the engraver and the designer and the tapestry maker, in blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine linen, and of the weaver—those who do every work and those who design artistic works.

Exodus 36

¹“And Bezalel and Aholiab, and every ^agifted artisan in whom the LORD has put wisdom and understanding, to know how to do all manner of work for the service of the ^bsanctuary,¹ shall do according to all that the LORD has commanded.”

The People Give More than Enough

²Then Moses called Bezalel and Aholiab, and every gifted artisan in whose heart the LORD had put wisdom, everyone ^cwhose heart ²was stirred, to come and do the work.

³And they received from Moses all the ^doffering which the children of Israel ^ehad brought for the work of the service of making the sanctuary. So they continued bringing to him freewill offerings every morning.

⁴Then all the craftsmen who were doing all the work of the sanctuary came, each from the work he was doing,

⁵and they spoke to Moses, saying, ^f“The people bring much more than enough for the service of the work which the LORD commanded us to do.”

⁶So Moses gave a commandment, and they caused it to be proclaimed throughout the camp, saying, “Let neither man nor woman do any more work for the offering of the sanctuary.” And the people were restrained from bringing,

⁷for the material they had was sufficient for all the work to be done—indeed too ^gmuch.

Building the Tabernacle

(Ex. 26:1–37)

^{8h}Then all the gifted artisans among them who worked on the tabernacle made ten curtains woven of fine linen, and of blue, purple, and scarlet thread; with artistic designs of cherubim they made them.

⁹The length of each curtain was twenty-eight cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; the curtains were all the same size.

¹⁰And he coupled five curtains to one another, and the other five curtains he coupled to one another.

¹¹He made loops of blue yarn on the edge of the curtain on the selvedge of one set; likewise he did on the outer edge of the other curtain of the second set.

¹²ⁱFifty loops he made on one curtain, and fifty loops he made on the edge of the curtain on the end of the second set; the loops held one curtain to another.

¹³And he made fifty clasps of gold, and coupled the curtains to one another with the clasps, that it might be one tabernacle.

^{14j}He made curtains of goats' hair for the tent over the tabernacle; he made eleven curtains.

¹⁵The length of each curtain was thirty cubits, and the width of each curtain four cubits; the eleven curtains were the same size.

¹⁶He coupled five curtains by themselves and six curtains by themselves.

¹⁷And he made fifty loops on the edge of the curtain that is outermost in one set, and fifty loops he made on the edge of the curtain of the second set.

¹⁸He also made fifty bronze clasps to couple the tent together, that it might be one.

^{19k}Then he made a covering for the tent of ram skins dyed red, and a covering of ³badger skins above that.

²⁰For the tabernacle ^lhe made boards of acacia wood, standing upright.

²¹The length of each board was ten cubits, and the width of each board a cubit and a half.

²²Each board had two ⁴tenons ^mfor binding one to another. Thus he made for all the boards of the tabernacle.

²³And he made boards for the tabernacle, twenty boards for the south side.

²⁴Forty sockets of silver he made to go under the twenty boards: two sockets under each of the boards for its two tenons.

²⁵And for the other side of the tabernacle, the north side, he made twenty boards

²⁶and their forty sockets of silver: two sockets under each of the boards.

²⁷For the west side of the tabernacle he made six boards.

²⁸He also made two boards for the two back corners of the tabernacle.

²⁹And they were coupled at the bottom and ⁵coupled together at the top by one ring. Thus he made both of them for the two corners.

³⁰So there were eight boards and their sockets—sixteen sockets of silver—two sockets under each of the boards.

³¹And he made ⁿbars of acacia wood: five for the boards on one side of the tabernacle, ³²five bars for the boards on the other side of the tabernacle, and five bars for the boards of the tabernacle on the far side westward.

³³And he made the middle bar to pass through the boards from one end to the other.

³⁴He overlaid the boards with gold, made their rings of gold to be holders for the bars, and overlaid the bars with gold.

³⁵And he made ^oa veil of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen; it was worked with an artistic design of cherubim.

³⁶He made for it four pillars of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold, with their hooks of gold; and he cast four sockets of silver for them.

³⁷He also made a ^pscreen for the tabernacle door, of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and fine woven linen, made by a ⁶weaver, ³⁸and its five pillars with their hooks. And he overlaid their capitals and their rings with gold, but their five sockets were bronze.

Exodus 37

Making the Ark of the Testimony

(Ex. 25:10–22)

¹Then ^aBezalel made ^bthe ark of acacia wood; two and a half cubits was its length, a cubit and a half its width, and a cubit and a half its height.

²He overlaid it with pure gold inside and outside, and made a molding of gold all around it.

³And he cast for it four rings of gold to be set in its four corners: two rings on one side, and two rings on the other side of it.

⁴He made poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold.

⁵And he put the poles into the rings at the sides of the ark, to bear the ark.

⁶He also made the ^cmercy seat of pure gold; two and a half cubits was its length and a cubit and a half its width.

⁷He made two cherubim of beaten gold; he made them of one piece at the two ends of the mercy seat:

⁸one cherub at one end on this side, and the other cherub at the other end on that side. He made the cherubim at the two ends of one piece with the mercy seat.

⁹The cherubim spread out their wings above, and covered the ^dmercy seat with their wings. They faced one another; the faces of the cherubim were toward the mercy seat.

Making the Table for the Showbread

(Ex. 25:23–30)

¹⁰He made ^ethe table of acacia wood; two cubits was its length, a cubit its width, and a cubit and a half its height.

¹¹And he overlaid it with pure gold, and made a molding of gold all around it.

¹²Also he made a frame of a handbreadth all around it, and made a molding of gold for the frame all around it.

¹³And he cast for it four rings of gold, and put the rings on the four corners that were at its four legs.

¹⁴The rings were close to the frame, as holders for the poles to bear the table.

¹⁵And he made the poles of acacia wood to bear the table, and overlaid them with gold.

¹⁶He made of pure gold the utensils which were on the table: its ^fdishes, its cups, its bowls, and its pitchers for pouring.

Making the Gold Lampstand

(Ex. 25:31–40)

¹⁷He also made the ^glampstand of pure gold; of hammered work he made the lampstand. Its shaft, its branches, its bowls, its ornamental knobs, and its flowers were of the same piece.

¹⁸And six branches came out of its sides: three branches of the lampstand out of one side, and three branches of the lampstand out of the other side.

¹⁹There were three bowls made like almond blossoms on one branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower, and three bowls made like almond blossoms on the other branch, with an ornamental knob and a flower—and so for the six branches coming out of the lampstand.

²⁰And on the lampstand itself were four bowls made like almond blossoms, each with its ornamental knob and flower.

²¹*There was* a knob under the first two branches of the same, a knob under the second two branches of the same, and a knob under the third two branches of the same, according to the six branches extending from it.

²²Their knobs and their branches were of one piece; all of it was one hammered piece of pure gold.

²³And he made its seven lamps, its ^hwick-trimmers, and its trays of pure gold.

²⁴Of a talent of pure gold he made it, with all its utensils.

Making the Altar of Incense

(Ex. 30:1–5)

²⁵_iHe made the incense altar of acacia wood. Its length was a cubit and its width a cubit—it was square—and two cubits was its height. Its horns were of one piece with it.

²⁶And he overlaid it with pure gold: its top, its sides all around, and its horns. He also made for it a molding of gold all around it.

²⁷He made two rings of gold for it under its molding, by its two corners on both sides, as holders for the poles with which to bear it.

²⁸And he _jmade the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with gold.

Making the Anointing Oil and the Incense

(Ex. 30:22–38)

²⁹He also made _kthe holy anointing oil and the pure incense of sweet spices, according to the work of the perfumer.

Exodus 38

Making the Altar of Burnt Offering

(Ex. 27:1–8)

¹He made ^athe altar of burnt offering of acacia wood; five cubits was its length and five cubits its width—it was square—and its height was three cubits.

²He made its horns on its four corners; the horns were of one piece with it. And he overlaid it with bronze.

³He made all the utensils for the altar: the pans, the shovels, the basins, the forks, and the firepans; all its utensils he made of bronze.

⁴And he made a grate of bronze network for the altar, under its rim, midway from the bottom.

⁵He cast four rings for the four corners of the bronze grating, as holders for the poles.

⁶And he made the poles of acacia wood, and overlaid them with bronze.

⁷Then he put the poles into the rings on the sides of the altar, with which to bear it. He made the altar hollow with boards.

Making the Bronze Laver

⁸He made ^bthe laver of bronze and its base of bronze, from the bronze mirrors of the serving women who assembled at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

Making the Court of the Tabernacle

(Ex. 27:9–19)

⁹Then he made ^cthe court on the south side; the hangings of the court were of fine woven linen, one hundred cubits long.

¹⁰There were twenty pillars for them, with twenty bronze sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver.

¹¹On the north side the hangings were one hundred cubits long, with twenty pillars and their twenty bronze sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver.

¹²And on the west side there were hangings of fifty cubits, with ten pillars and their ten sockets. The hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver.

¹³For the east side the hangings were fifty cubits.

¹⁴The hangings of one side of the gate were fifteen cubits long, with their three pillars and their three sockets, ¹⁵and the same for the other side of the court gate; on this side and that were hangings of fifteen cubits, with their three pillars and their three sockets.

¹⁶All the hangings of the court all around were of fine woven linen.

¹⁷The sockets for the pillars were bronze, the hooks of the pillars and their bands were silver, and the overlay of their capitals was silver; and all the pillars of the court had bands of silver.

¹⁸The screen for the gate of the court was woven of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen. The length was twenty cubits, and the height along its width was five cubits, corresponding to the hangings of the court.

¹⁹And there were four pillars with their four sockets of bronze; their hooks were silver, and the overlay of their capitals and their bands was silver.

²⁰All the ^dpegs of the tabernacle, and of the court all around, were bronze.

Materials of the Tabernacle

²¹ⁱThis is the inventory of the tabernacle, ^ethe tabernacle of the Testimony, which was counted according to the commandment of Moses, for the service of the Levites, ^fby the hand of ^gIthamar, son of Aaron the priest.

²²^hBezalel the son of Uri, the son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, made all that the LORD had commanded Moses.

²³And with him was ⁱAholiab the son of Ahisamach, of the tribe of Dan, an engraver and ²designer, a weaver of blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine linen.

²⁴All the gold that was used in all the work of the holy place, that is, the gold of the ^joffering, was twenty-nine talents and seven hundred and thirty shekels, according to ^kthe shekel of the sanctuary.

²⁵And the silver from those who were ^lnumbered of the congregation was one hundred talents and one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary:

²⁷And from the hundred talents of silver were cast ^othe sockets of the sanctuary and the bases of the veil: one hundred sockets from the hundred talents, one talent for each socket.

²⁸Then from the one thousand seven hundred and seventy-five shekels he made hooks for the pillars, overlaid their capitals, and ^pmade bands for them.

²⁹The offering of bronze was seventy talents and two thousand four hundred shekels.

³⁰And with it he made the sockets for the door of the tabernacle of meeting, the bronze altar, the bronze grating for it, and all the utensils for the altar, ³¹the sockets for the court all around, the bases for the court gate, all the pegs for the tabernacle, and all the pegs for the court all around.

Exodus 39

Making the Garments of the Priesthood

(Ex. 28:1–43)

¹Of the ^ablue, purple, and scarlet thread they made ^bgarments¹ of ministry, for ministering in the ²holy place, and made the holy garments for Aaron, ^cas the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Ephod

^{2d}He made the ^eephod of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen.

³And they beat the gold into thin sheets and cut it into threads, to work it in with the blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and the fine linen, into artistic designs.

⁴They made shoulder straps for it to couple it together; it was coupled together at its two edges.

⁵And the intricately woven band of his ephod that was on it was of the same workmanship, woven of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{6f}And they set onyx stones, enclosed in ³settings of gold; they were engraved, as signets are engraved, with the names of the sons of Israel.

⁷He put them on the shoulders of the ephod as ^gmemorial stones for the sons of Israel, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Breastplate

^{8h}And he made the breastplate, artistically woven like the workmanship of the ephod, of gold, blue, purple, and scarlet thread, and of fine woven linen.

⁹They made the breastplate square by doubling it; a span was its length and a span its width when doubled.

¹⁰ⁱAnd they set in it four rows of stones: a row with a sardius, a topaz, and an emerald was the first row;

¹¹the second row, a turquoise, a sapphire, and a diamond;

¹²the third row, a jacinth, an agate, and an amethyst;

¹³the fourth row, a beryl, an onyx, and a jasper. They were enclosed in settings of gold in their mountings.

¹⁴*There were* ^jtwelve stones according to the names of the sons of Israel: according to their names, engraved like a signet, each one with its own name according to the twelve tribes.

¹⁵And they made chains for the breastplate at the ends, like braided cords of pure gold.

¹⁶They also made two settings of gold and two gold rings, and put the two rings on the two ends of the breastplate.

¹⁷And they put the two braided chains of gold in the two rings on the ends of the breastplate.

¹⁸The two ends of the two braided chains they fastened in the two settings, and put them on the shoulder straps of the ephod in the front.

¹⁹And they made two rings of gold and put them on the two ends of the breastplate, on the edge of it, which was on the inward side of the ephod.

²⁰They made two other gold rings and put them on the two shoulder straps, underneath the ephod toward its front, right at the seam above the intricately woven band of the ephod.

²¹And they bound the breastplate by means of its rings to the rings of the ephod with a blue cord, so that it would be above the intricately woven band of the ephod, and that the breastplate would not come loose from the ephod, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

Making the Other Priestly Garments

²²^kHe made the ^lrobe of the ephod of woven work, all of blue.

²³And there was an opening in the middle of the robe, like the opening in a coat of mail, with a woven binding all around the opening, so that it would not tear.

²⁴They made on the hem of the robe pomegranates of blue, purple, and scarlet, and of fine woven linen.

²⁵And they made ^mbells of pure gold, and put the bells between the pomegranates on the hem of the robe all around between the pomegranates:

²⁶a bell and a pomegranate, a bell and a pomegranate, all around the hem of the robe to ⁴minister in, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

²⁷ⁿThey made tunics, artistically woven of fine linen, for Aaron and his sons,

²⁸^oa turban of fine linen, exquisite hats of fine linen, ^pshort trousers of fine woven linen,

²⁹^qand a sash of fine woven linen with blue, purple, and scarlet thread, made by a weaver, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

³⁰^rThen they made the plate of the holy crown of pure gold, and wrote on it an inscription like the engraving of a signet:

^sHOLINESS TO THE LORD.

³¹And they tied to it a blue cord, to fasten it above on the turban, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

The Work Completed

(Ex. 35:10–19)

³²Thus all the work of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting was ^tfinished. And the children of Israel did ^uaccording to all that the LORD had commanded Moses; so they did.

³³And they brought the tabernacle to Moses, the tent and all its furnishings: its clasps, its boards, its bars, its pillars, and its sockets;

³⁴the covering of ram skins dyed red, the covering of badger skins, and the veil of the covering;

³⁵the ark of the Testimony with its poles, and the mercy seat;

³⁶the table, all its utensils, and the ^vshowbread;

³⁷the pure gold lampstand with its lamps (the lamps set in order), all its utensils, and the oil for light;

³⁸the gold altar, the anointing oil, and the sweet incense; the screen for the tabernacle door;

³⁹the bronze altar, its grate of bronze, its poles, and all its utensils; the laver with its base;

⁴⁰the hangings of the court, its pillars and its sockets, the screen for the court gate, its cords, and its pegs; all the utensils for the service of the tabernacle, for the tent of meeting;

⁴¹and the ⁵garments of ministry, to ⁶minister in the holy place: the holy garments for Aaron the priest, and his sons' garments, to minister as priests.

⁴²According to all that the LORD had commanded Moses, so the children of Israel ^wdid all the work.

⁴³Then Moses looked over all the work, and indeed they had done it; as the LORD had commanded, just so they had done it. And Moses ^xblessed them.

Exodus 40

The Tabernacle Erected and Arranged

¹Then the LORD ^aspoke to Moses, saying:

²“On the first day of the ^bfirst month you shall set up ^cthe tabernacle of the tent of meeting. Word Studies: tabernacle

^{3d}“You shall put in it the ark of the Testimony, and ¹partition off the ark with the veil.

^{4e}“You shall bring in the table and ^farrange the things that are to be set in order on it; ^gand you shall bring in the lampstand and ²light its lamps.

^{5h}“You shall also set the altar of gold for the incense before the ark of the Testimony, and put up the screen for the door of the tabernacle.

⁶“Then you shall set the ⁱaltar of the burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting.

⁷“And ^jyou shall set the laver between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar, and put water in it.

⁸“You shall set up the court all around, and hang up the screen at the court gate.

⁹“And you shall take the anointing oil, and ^kanoint the tabernacle and all that is in it; and you shall hallow it and all its utensils, and it shall be holy.

¹⁰“You shall ^lanoint the altar of the burnt offering and all its utensils, and consecrate the altar. ^mThe altar shall be most holy.

¹¹“And you shall anoint the laver and its base, and consecrate it.

¹²ⁿ“Then you shall bring Aaron and his sons to the door of the tabernacle of meeting and wash them with water.

¹³“You shall put the holy ^ogarments on Aaron, ^pand anoint him and consecrate him, that he may minister to Me as priest.

¹⁴“And you shall bring his sons and clothe them with tunics.

¹⁵“You shall anoint them, as you anointed their father, that they may minister to Me as priests; for their anointing shall surely be ^qan everlasting priesthood throughout their generations.”

¹⁶Thus Moses did; according to all that the LORD had commanded him, so he did.

¹⁷And it came to pass in the first month of the second year, on the first day of the month, that the ^rtabernacle was ³raised up.

¹⁸So Moses raised up the tabernacle, fastened its sockets, set up its boards, put in its bars, and raised up its pillars.

¹⁹And he spread out the tent over the tabernacle and put the covering of the tent on top of it, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

²⁰He took ^sthe Testimony and put it into the ark, inserted the poles through the rings of the ark, and put the mercy seat on top of the ark.

²¹And he brought the ark into the tabernacle, ^thung up the veil of the covering, and partitioned off the ark of the Testimony, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{22u}He put the table in the tabernacle of meeting, on the north side of the tabernacle, outside the veil;

^{23v}and he set the bread in order upon it before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{24w}He put the lampstand in the tabernacle of meeting, across from the table, on the south side of the tabernacle;

²⁵and ^xhe lit the lamps before the LORD, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{26y}He put the gold altar in the tabernacle of meeting in front of the veil;

^{27z}and he burned sweet incense on it, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{28a}He hung up the screen at the door of the tabernacle.

^{29b}And he put the altar of burnt offering before the door of the tabernacle of the tent of meeting, and ^coffered upon it the burnt offering and the grain offering, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{30d}He set the laver between the tabernacle of meeting and the altar, and put water there for washing;

³¹and Moses, Aaron, and his sons would ^ewash their hands and their feet with water from it.

³²Whenever they went into the tabernacle of meeting, and when they came near the altar, they washed, ^fas the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{33g}And he raised up the court all around the tabernacle and the altar, and hung up the screen of the court gate. So Moses ^hfinished the work.

The Cloud and the Glory

(Ex. 13:21, 22; Num. 9:15–23)

³⁴ⁱThen the ^jcloud covered the tabernacle of meeting, and the ^kglory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

³⁵And Moses ^lwas not able to enter the tabernacle of meeting, because the cloud rested above it, and the glory of the LORD filled the tabernacle.

^{36m}Whenever the cloud was taken up from above the tabernacle, the children of Israel would ⁴go onward in all their journeys.

³⁷But ⁿif the cloud was not taken up, then they did not journey till the day that it was taken up.

³⁸For ^othe cloud of the LORD was above the tabernacle by day, and fire was over it by night, in the sight of all the house of Israel, throughout all their journeys.

Annotations for Exodus

- 1:1 Israel is also called Jacob. His twelve sons became the founders of the twelve tribes of the nation Israel.
- 1:2 The sons are listed according to their mothers and their ages. Reuben, Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar and Zebulun are all sons of Leah. Benjamin is the son of Rachel. Dan and Naphtali are sons of Bilhah, the maid of Rachel. Gad and Asher are sons of Zilpah, the maid of Leah (for each son's birth, see Gen. 29:31–35; 35:16–20, 23–26).
- 1:5, 6 seventy persons: See Gen. 46:1–27. Joseph was not included among the 70 (for Joseph's death, see Gen. 50).
- 1:7 The extraordinary growth of the family of promise in Egypt is a great miracle—evidence of God's blessing. God multiplied a small family of 12 sons and one daughter into a nation that would conquer Canaan. This verse piles one descriptive phrase upon another to emphasize the incredible growth of Israel's family and God's hand in this miracle.
- 1:8–10 The new king did not remember Joseph—his privileged position in the older pharaoh's administration, his administrative skill that saved the Egyptians from starvation, and his enrichment of the pharaoh's treasury. This new pharaoh probably did not reign immediately after the death of the pharaoh of Joseph's day. More likely, this pharaoh was one of the Hyksos kings who descended from foreign invaders. Ethnically they were a minority in Egypt. These kings may have perceived the growing numbers of Hebrews as a challenge to themselves—and to their control over Egypt.

- 1:11 By God’s mercy, the Israelites were left to themselves for most of the four hundred years they were in Egypt. They increased dramatically during this period. But the time finally came when Pharaoh put taskmasters, meaning “chiefs of slave gangs,” over them. Pithom and Raamses: These store cities are mentioned according to the names by which they were known in later times. The Pharaoh Ramses (whose name presumably relates to the name of one of these cities) was not yet in power.
- 1:12 God multiplied His people in times of distress. The fear of the Egyptians toward the people of Israel was based on misjudgment and hatred. The term dread means “to feel a sickening dread” (as in Num. 21:4).
- 1:13, 14 The harsher the Egyptians made the lives of the Hebrews, the more they flourished. made their lives bitter: Later God commanded the Israelites to eat something bitter with the Passover meal so that they might remember the bitterness of their time in Egypt (see ch. 12). rigor: This term means “harshness” or “severity.” With every task the Egyptians gave to the Hebrews, they made things increasingly difficult for them. They hoped to break the Israelites’ spirit with abusive slavery.
- 1:15 This chapter summarizes nearly four centuries of history. The king of Egypt mentioned here is probably not the Hyksos king alluded to in vv. 8–14. This king, perhaps Thutmose I (c. 1539–1514 B.C.), ruled Egypt when Moses was born (2:1–10). Hebrew midwives: Probably Hebrews themselves, or perhaps Egyptians who were given Hebrew names of honor. Most likely, these two women headed a guild of midwives. One thing is certain: they knew the living God (see vv. 17, 21). Their names, Shiphrah (“Beautiful One”) and Puah (“Splendid One”), are preserved in this account because they were godly women with a courageous faith. At the same time, the names of the pharaohs—the “important” people of the day—are omitted.
- 1:16 The custom was to support the mother on a birthstool during delivery. sons: Pharaoh ordered the midwives to kill the baby boys because he feared the increasing numbers of male Hebrews as a military threat.
- 1:17 The Hebrew term for fear is the word regularly used for piety, obedience, and the true worship of God (see Gen. 22:12; Ex. 20:20). The midwives would not obey the evil commands of a human ruler, even when their own lives were at risk, because they wanted to please the God of heaven.

1:20, 21 God blessed the midwives because they feared God. The phrase of v. 17 is repeated for emphasis. He provided households for them: Ordinarily households were established for men. God established the families of these two midwives (see Gen. 18:19) because they were faithful to Him.

1:22 Because he could not count on the midwives, Pharaoh commanded the Egyptians to kill the Hebrew male babies by drowning them in the river—the Nile.

2:1 Both of Moses' parents were from the house of Levi. Later, God chose this family to be the priestly family for Israel.

2:2–4 bore a son: As v. 4 shows, this is not their first child. The older sister was Miriam; Aaron was three years older than this son (see 7:7). The mother hid her baby from the authorities, who wanted to kill him. But after three months, she found it impossible (see 1:22). Just as the ark of Noah had been the means by which a family was saved from a watery death (Gen. 7:1), so this ark in which she placed her baby would be the means of saving him. She hoped that someone would find the ark and adopt the boy. She sent his sister, Miriam, to see what would happen.

Egypt

Egypt's territory covered the northeast shoulder of Africa, bordered by the Sahara Desert to the west, the tropical forests of Nubia to the south, the Red Sea to the east, and the Mediterranean to the north. The Nile River was like the bloodstream of ancient Egypt. The waters of the Nile brought life to the parched plains that the Egyptian people cultivated in Bible times. The Nile flooded each year in mid-July, providing water for the irrigation systems built to benefit from this inundation. But while the timing of the flooding was predictable, its extent was not. Too small or too large a rise in the Nile each year signaled disaster, for farmers in the first case, for whole settlements in the second. The river was both a blessing and a curse to the Egyptian farmers (fellahin).

A view of the Nile River from space. The Nile brought life to the parched plains of Egypt.

- 2:5 This daughter of Pharaoh was probably one of many daughters. Even though the Egyptians were accustomed to bathe frequently, bathing in the Nile was a ritual dipping in the waters the Egyptians believed to be sacred.
- 2:6 The baby was one of the Hebrews' children. A Hebrew baby would have been circumcised on the eighth day. Although circumcision was practiced in Egypt, it was not done to infants. Upon unwrapping the infant's clothing, the women would have seen his "special mark."
- 2:7 The daughter of Pharaoh was not prepared to care for the baby. Since it was a Hebrew child, who would be better than a Hebrew woman to nurse it?
- 2:8 the maiden: The Hebrew term means a young woman of marriageable age; this is the word translated virgin in Is. 7:14. Miriam would have been in her mid-to late teens.
- 2:9 Not only did God, through Pharaoh's daughter, protect the child from the river death that Pharaoh had commanded (see 1:22), but through Pharaoh's treasury He provided wages to the mother for caring for her own son!
- 2:10 After what was likely a prolonged period of nursing the child, the mother brought her son to Pharaoh's daughter, who then adopted the boy. The name Moses is probably related to the Egyptian word meaning "born." Pharaoh's daughter explains the meaning of the name: "Because I drew him out of water." In Hebrew, Moses means "He Who Draws Out." In this manner, Moses' name can refer the reader to the living God, who is the true Deliverer, and also to Moses, who would deliver the Israelites from the Red Sea (see chs. 14; 15).
- 2:11 The years of Moses' experience in the pharaoh's court are not detailed. Yet Stephen, the NT martyr, reports a long-held and surely accurate tradition: "Moses was learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians and was mighty in words and deeds" (Acts 7:22). The training of Moses was the best education in the world at that time. He would have learned three languages: Egyptian, Akkadian, and Hebrew. When Moses came into the presence of a later pharaoh to demand the freedom of the Israelites (chs. 7–14), he was no stranger to the royal family. his brethren: At about the age of 40, Moses saw the mistreatment of his own people by his adopted people. While he had been living a life of disciplined luxury, his people were being abused.
- 2:12 Despite his privilege and position, Moses realized that there was no legal procedure for him to stop the abuses of the Egyptian taskmasters. Moved by a sense of injustice, he rashly killed the taskmaster.
- 2:15 Pharaoh sought to kill Moses because he had committed a capital crime. The land of Midian is the region of the Sinai Peninsula and Arabian deserts where the semi-nomadic Midianites lived (for the Abrahamic origin of the Midianites, see Gen. 25:1, 2). by a well: As in the stories of the fathers and mothers of Israel in Genesis (Gen. 16:7–13; 21:22–34; 24:10–14; 29:4–12; 30:37–43), a well played a significant role in the story of Moses.
- 2:16 Like Melchizedek, the priest-king of Salem or Jerusalem (see Gen. 14:18–20), the priest of Midian appears to be a foreigner who had come to worship the true and living God. His daughters came to the well since, in the ancient world, typically the women drew water (see Gen. 24).
- 2:17 The shepherds had probably acted churlishly toward these women before. Unmarried women with no brothers had little protection in the ancient East. Moses stood up and came to the aid of the - women. Once again, Moses demonstrated his sensitivity to injustice (vv. 11–13).

- 2:18, 19 Reuel is also called Jethro (4:18). His daughters reported to him that they had been delivered by an Egyptian. The dress, appearance, and language of Moses would have given this impression.
- 2:20 Reuel's invitation to eat bread was about more than a casual bite to eat. He was recruiting Moses to marry one of his seven daughters.
- 2:21 Moses was content: For a fugitive from the powerful hand of the Egyptian pharaoh, the offer of a home, protection, and a new life would be appealing. Moses had come as an alien. He had nothing to offer but himself, and thus he would have become part of Reuel's household in the deal (see 4:18). Zipporah means "Bird."
- 2:22 Gershom means "A Stranger There." Moses was doubly removed from his land. He and his people, the Israelites, were strangers in Egypt (Gen. 15:13). Now he was cast off from them and was estranged in yet another waiting place. For all he knew, he would be a stranger for the rest of his days.
- 2:23–25 the king of Egypt died: The death of Pharaoh (likely Thutmose III, who died about 1447 B.C.) meant that Moses could return to Egypt. At the death of a pharaoh, Egyptian authorities dropped all pending charges, even in capital cases (see 4:19). The plight of the Israelite people had reached fever pitch during the time of Moses' absence. Four different Hebrew words—translated groaned, cried out, cry, and groaning—are used to describe the Israelites' complaint (see 6:5). Corresponding to the four terms for the people's distress, four wonderful verbs are used to describe the Lord's response to His people: heard, remembered, looked, and acknowledged.
- 3:1 Horeb, another name for Mt. Sinai, means "Desolate Place." Yet because of God's appearance on the mountain (here and in chs. 19; 20), this desolate place would become holy, the mountain of God (see 4:27). Usually this site is identified as Jebel el-Musa, a mountain in the southern Sinai Peninsula.
- 3:2 the Angel of the LORD: An appearance of God. This is the first occurrence in Exodus of this frequently used phrase (14:19; 23:20, 23; 32:34; 33:2; compare Gen. 22:11, 15). The flame of fire was an extraordinary sight, particularly since the bush was not consumed.
- 3:3–5 The ground had become holy; it was set apart by the divine presence. For Moses' vivid memory of this experience with God at the end of his life, see Deut. 33:16.
- 3:6 God identified Himself as the God of your father—the God worshiped by Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (v. 15). In announcing these names, the Lord was assuring Moses that His covenant with the fathers of Israel was still in effect.
- 3:8 The words come down speak of God's gracious intervention on the earth (Ps. 40:1). Not only was God intimately aware of the troubles of His people, but now He would act on their behalf. The good and large land of Canaan was God's great pledge to His people (Gen. 12:7; 15:12–21; see also Ex. 6:8). flowing with milk and honey: The land of Canaan would sustain God's people well—with some sections given to agriculture and others for herds and flocks. Under God's blessing, milk and honey would seem to flow.

(Heb. natsal) (3:8; Judg. 6:9; 1 Sam. 10:18) Strong's #5337

This verb may mean either “to strip, to plunder” or “to snatch away, to deliver.” The word is often used to describe God’s work in delivering (3:8), or rescuing (6:6), the Israelites from slavery. Sometimes it signifies deliverance of God’s people from sin and guilt (Ps. 51:14). But in 18:8, the word is a statement of God’s supremacy over the Egyptian pantheon of deities. The Lord was so powerful that He could “snatch” the entire nation of Israel from Pharaoh’s grasp (18:10). This was only the beginning, for God repeatedly delivered the Israelites from their enemies (Josh. 11:6; Judg. 3:9). The Lord was their Deliverer, and the psalmists proclaimed this fact with joy (Ps. 18:12; 144:2).

Go to the List of Word Studies

3:12 God promised to be with Moses. Not only had God come down to deliver (v. 8), but now He promised to be present. This prefigures the Incarnation: Jesus would come down to deliver us from our sins and be with us. God gave Moses a sign, a final proof that this experience was a divine manifestation and not a dream. Here the sign is a reminder, memorial, or symbol (see also 8:23; 12:13). But the word can also mean a miracle of God—a wonder that demonstrates His power and presence (as in 7:3).

3:14 I AM WHO I AM: The One who spoke to Moses declared Himself to be the Eternal One—uncaused and independent. Only the Creator of all things can call Himself the I AM in the absolute sense; all other creatures are in debt to Him for their existence. But in addition, God the Creator declares His relationship with the people of Israel. The future tense of the Hebrew verb related to God’s name is used in v. 12: The I Am will be with His people. Thus God declares His covenantal relationship with Israel with His name. Many refer to the “I Am” as the covenantal name of God.

3:15 The LORD: This represents the Hebrew name Yahweh. The Hebrew word meaning “I Am” used in v. 14 is very similar. Translations into English often use LORD in small capitals to represent God’s name, Yahweh. Here, God does not merely declare His absolute existence, He declares His relationship to His people. He is the God who made an eternal covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (see v. 6). As in other significant passages in the OT (see Gen. 22:11–18), repetition and restatement are used for emphasis. Here they indicate the paramount importance of the divine Name.

3:18 The fact that Israelites had to go somewhere else to sacrifice to the LORD may have been an implied slur on the land of Egypt. The wickedness of the Egyptians polluted the land and made it unsuitable for worshiping their God. The Israelites needed neutral soil to worship God in purity (see 7:16).

3:19 The mighty hand is the Lord’s hand. God was the One who forced the Pharaoh to free the Israelites (v. 20; see also 6:1).

3:20 The Lord’s extended hand of mercy to the Israelites and of rage against the Egyptians is a constant theme in Exodus (for God’s outstretched arm, see 6:6; for God’s right hand, see 15:6, 12). My wonders are the ten plagues of chs. 7–12. The word refers to things only God can do, and which are designed to inspire reverence in His worshipers and fear in His enemies.

3:21, 22 God would so humiliate their leader Pharaoh that the common people of Egypt would become favorably disposed toward Israel. The Israelites, who had been slaves in Egypt, would not leave empty-handed. They would plunder the Egyptians by merely asking for precious goods (for the fulfillment of this prophecy, see 11:2; 12:35, 36). Later, the Israelites gave these very same precious goods to God as offerings for the tabernacle (ch. 35). Thus God enriched a slave populace so that they in turn were able to give their riches back to Him with thanksgiving.

4:2–5 God turned Moses' rod—probably a long wooden pole with the familiar shepherd's crook at one end—into a snake to demonstrate the reality of His power and presence during Moses' coming mission.

4:6, 7 Again God demonstrated His power to Moses by making his hand leprous and then healing it. Leprosy in the Bible included a wide variety of skin diseases.

4:9 The third sign would be the transformation of the water from the Nile into blood. In fact, this occurred in the first plague (7:14–25).

4:11, 12 In great patience, God reminded Moses that it was He who had made Moses' mouth, even as it is He who has fashioned each individual according to His wisdom. Then He promised to instruct Moses as to precisely what to say.

4:14 At this point, Moses saw a flash of God's anger (see his words in Ps. 90:11). Although Moses did not know it, God was already arranging some assistance for Moses. He was sending Aaron to him (for their meeting, see v. 27).

4:15, 16 words in his mouth: As Moses was a prophet of God, so Aaron was to be a prophet of Moses (7:1). The prophet had one job: to represent accurately the message of the one who sent him or her. Moses would be as God to Aaron because he would tell him what to say, just as God would tell Moses what to say.

4:18 Moses needed to gain permission from his father-in-law to leave (for a similar predicament involving Jacob, see Gen. 31). Moses had become an official part of Jethro's family (2:16–22; 3:1).

4:20 Moses took his sons. Gershom, Moses' firstborn, is mentioned in 2:22. The name of the second son is not given until 18:4, after Israel's deliverance. This is Eliezer, whose name means "My God Is Help." Moses also took the rod of God, that is, the rod that God had used to demonstrate His power (vv. 2–5, 17).

4:21 Pharaoh, most likely Amenhotep II (c. 1447–1421 B.C.), is not simply the king of Egypt, but a symbol for all who resist God—for all of God's enemies. I will harden his heart: Some interpret these words as meaning that God would confirm what Pharaoh had stubbornly determined to do. In the first five plagues, the hardening is attributed to Pharaoh (see 7:13, 22; 8:15, 19, 32; 9:7). Then for the sixth plague, God hardened a heart that Pharaoh had already hardened (9:12). Others insist that God had determined Pharaoh's negative response to Moses long before Pharaoh could harden his heart. These interpreters point to this verse and to 9:16, in which God says that He raised up Pharaoh for the purpose of demonstrating His power.

4:22, 23 The nation Israel is God's son and naturally God is his Father. In the course of time, others—all those who would believe in God's Son—would become God's children (see John 1:12). But the nation Israel is His firstborn. Eventually God would claim all of the Israelites' firstborn as His own because He saved them from the tenth plague—the destruction of the firstborn sons of all the Egyptians (see Num. 3:12, 13).

4:24 The encampment might have been a primitive inn on Moses' route back to Egypt. the LORD met him and sought to kill him: The precise meaning of this passage is unclear. Clearly someone in Moses' family was not circumcised, despite what God had commanded. Most likely, Moses had kept one of his sons uncircumcised in order to please his Midianite family. (The Midianites practiced circumcision on a groom right before his marriage instead of circumcising male infants.) Moses' neglect was a crime deserving of death, especially for the future leader of God's people. For this reason God met or "seized" Moses (for another use of this same Hebrew verb, see v. 27).

- 4:25, 26 At this time, circumcision was practiced with stone knives rather than bronze because of associations with ancient traditions that may even have predated Israelite circumcision (see Gen. 17). Many of Israel's neighboring peoples practiced circumcision, but none except Israel circumcised infants. husband of blood: Zipporah may have been angry that she could not follow the Midianite custom and leave her son uncircumcised.
- 4:26 The Lord who had met or "seized" Moses (v. 24), now let him go.
- 4:27, 28 The meeting of these two brothers after 40 years must have been a very emotional moment. The Hebrew verb translated met encompasses the idea of a forceful, direct encounter—a bear hug (this same Hebrew verb is used in v. 24). How fitting that the two would meet on the mountain of God (3:1). Later at this mountain they would both minister together.
- 4:29–31 When they arrived in Egypt, they gathered the elders together. Aaron acted as Moses' prophet (vv. 14–16). It is not clear whether it was Aaron or Moses who did the signs. But the people's response was appropriate. They believed and worshiped the God who had sent these signs and messengers. God had visited them! Here God's visitation is for deliverance (as in Ruth 1:6). In other places the word refers to a visitation in wrath (as in Is. 10:12).
- 5:1 God emboldened Moses and Aaron to approach the powerful tyrant of Egypt with strong, daring words in the name of their God: "Let My people go." Yet the Lord told them what to expect (3:19; 4:21–23). It was God's plan that Pharaoh would not agree to their demand.
- 5:2 Who is the LORD: Later these arrogant words would haunt Pharaoh (12:31, 32). Indeed he would ascribe greatness to God and shamefulness to himself and his people (9:27). Meanwhile, Pharaoh believed himself to be a god. He certainly felt no need to cave in to the demands of some other, unknown god. Sadly for him, he had never encountered the true and living God, hence his response, nor will I let Israel go, just as God had predicted (3:19; 4:21–23). Note that Pharaoh had not yet hardened his heart (something not stated until 7:13). In the next encounter (ch. 7), Pharaoh would harden his heart resolutely.
- 5:3 The boldness of Moses and Aaron's first words (v. 1) is replaced with panic. The Israelites had to obey their God.
- 5:6–9 To punish Moses and Aaron for insolence, Pharaoh imposed severe measures on the Hebrew workers, who needed straw to strengthen the sun-dried bricks they were making. With no reduction in their daily quota, the people would have to gather the straw during their off-hours. Until now the Egyptians had provided it for them. Pharaoh invented a suitable excuse: The Hebrews had too much free time.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Bricks

Bricks were common building materials in the ancient world. They were usually rectangular in shape and composed of clay or mud, along with other ingredients such as straw (5:7–9) or sand. Bricks were usually baked by the sun, but they could also be fired in a kiln to produce greater strength and hardness.

The earliest bricks were shaped by hand; later, they were formed with wooden molds. Brickmaking involved several stages. A good clay source was absolutely necessary; then the clay was sifted and mixed to the desired consistency by adding water. Generally, a temper, often straw, was added; this temper acted as a binder for poor clays and prevented warping and cracking during the drying process. Following this, the bricks were shaped and then dried. Bricks were often inscribed with an official's name, the name of a building, or a dedicatory inscription.

An Egyptian man makes mud bricks as the ancient Israelites would have done. Note the brick mold at the man's feet.

5:15–19 The Hebrew leaders of the work gangs, the officers or subordinate officials, understandably complained about the new work rules. Pharaoh repeated his excuse that the people were idle (v. 8) and ordered them to continue. The Hebrew crew chiefs were in a more precarious position than ever.

5:20, 21 The Hebrew crew chiefs turned their anger on Moses and Aaron. Indeed their words, Let the LORD look on you and judge, are a harsh curse. They felt that Moses and Aaron's words to Pharaoh were futile and only made him hate them more. The word translated abhorrent means "to cause to stink."

5:22 The Hebrew crew chiefs' harsh charge against Moses greatly troubled him. His complaint to God, Why is it You have sent me? alludes to his initial reluctance to be the Lord's agent of deliverance (4:10–17).

5:23 speak in Your name: It seems that Moses expected Pharaoh to cave in as soon as he heard the use of the Lord's name Yahweh (3:14, 15; 5:1). Yet God had warned Moses that Pharaoh would do the opposite (3:19; 4:21). Moses had forgotten this clear revelation.

6:1 The Lord's response to Moses, Now you shall see, was designed to encourage him. Nothing had happened yet because God had not yet begun to act. strong hand: The reference seems to be to Pharaoh, although consistently the "strong hand" of Exodus is the Lord's (3:19, 20; 6:6; 15:6, 12). Thus the sense of the verse is, "Because of My strong hand Pharaoh will let them go, and because of My strong hand Pharaoh will drive them out of his land."

6:2 By explaining His purpose for Israel, God encouraged Moses after his disheartening experience with Pharaoh (see 5:1–9). This passage builds strongly on the revelation of God to Moses at the burning bush (see 2:23–3:22). The words I am the LORD begin and conclude this section (vv. 2, 8). LORD stands for God's name, "Yahweh."

6:3 The patriarchs had known God Almighty. It is not that they had never heard the name Yahweh, but they had not known God in an intimate way. The patriarchs knew a great deal about God and had experienced His goodness in many ways. But they had not had the revelation that was granted to Moses and the people of his day.

6:4 My covenant: The Abrahamic covenant celebrated in Genesis (Gen. 12:1–3, 7; 15:12–21; 17:22:15–18). pilgrimage: The fathers and mothers of Israel had wandered about in the land of Canaan without ever owning more than grazing rights, well treaties, and a burial ground for Sarah (Gen. 23; see Heb. 11:8–10). They were strangers in Egypt, resident aliens, without citizenship in their own country.

6:5 groaning: This verse recalls the Israelites' cry in 2:23–25. With this wonderful introduction of Himself, the Lord was now ready to state His plan for Israel (vv. 6–8).

6:6–8 These verses express four aspects of God's plan for Israel. (1) He would deliver them from Egypt. This was more than freedom from slavery; it was a picture of their national salvation, for in the process the nation was redeemed from their sin (see 14:31). (2) He would make them His people, a fellowship of believers. (3) He would be their God, a description of a one-on-one relationship. (4) He would bring them to Canaan, the Promised Land.

6:9 Despite God's powerful words to Moses, the people were still unwilling to believe. Their cruel suffering overwhelmed them. But they would eventually believe! They needed to experience the reality of the living God (see 14:31).

6:10, 11 The Lord renewed His command to Moses (4:22, 23). Pharaoh's arrogant rejection was not the end of the story, just the beginning.

6:12 Moses complained that his own people would not listen to him. How then would Pharaoh? Moses was still convinced that his uncircumcised lips (he was a poor speaker) would ruin everything (see 4:10).

6:13 The Lord's response was to repeat the initial command. This was not something to be negotiated, but something to be done. Following the parenthesis of vv. 14–27, the story continues in v. 28. There we learn that there was more to the interaction between Moses and the Lord than these verses suggest.

6:14–27 The family history of Moses, Aaron, and Miriam briefly interrupts the narrative. But this was not just a matter of public record, it was something to celebrate! All of Israel's priests would eventually come from this line.

7:1, 2 These verses repeat the issues of 4:10–17. Repetition with variation is a part of Hebrew prose style to show emphasis. you as God: As Moses was the prophet of the Lord, so Aaron became Moses' prophet. Aaron would speak for Moses, for a prophet was the "mouth" of the one who sent him (or her).

7:3 I will harden Pharaoh's heart: It was in God's plan that Pharaoh would be inflexibly stubborn, thus setting the scene for God to deliver His people by powerful signs and . . . wonders. The word sign (see also 4:8, 9; 8:23) may be used to describe a reminder, a memorial, or a symbol, as in 3:12 (see also 12:13), but here it speaks of a pledge or attestation of God's presence. The term wonder similarly describes a special display of God's power. These two words paired together mean "irrefutable works." God would demonstrate His power and authenticate His agents, Moses and Aaron, with such works. The doubling of the personal pronoun, My . . . My, makes this assertion even more forceful.

7:5 God also planned from the beginning that the Egyptians would know that He and He alone was the living God. In the first nine plagues, God used forces of creation in a supernatural way to bring judgment on the Egyptians. In the tenth plague, the destruction of the firstborn of Egypt, God would stretch out His hand and bring judgment Himself (see 12:12, 13, 29, 30).

7:6 did so . . . so they did: The obedience of Moses and Aaron is a recurring theme in the Pentateuch (see 12:28; Num. 8:20–22). But even these men of God did not always obey Him.

7:7 eighty . . . eighty-three: In a sense, these men had already lived a lifetime (see Ps. 90:10) before their principal life work had begun! Moses was to lead the nation of Israel for another 40 years before he died (see Deut. 29:5; 31:2; 34:5). Aaron died in the same year as his younger brother, at the age of 123 (Num. 20:22–29; 33:38, 39).

- 7:8 Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron: This is the first time Moses and Aaron are referred to as receiving a message from God together.
- 7:9 In the first confrontation with Pharaoh there was no talk of miracles (5:1–9). This time they would perform a miracle, a special display of God’s power. Aaron’s rod would figure prominently in several of the plagues (7:20; 8:5, 16; 9:23; 10:13, 22; see also 14:16; 17:5, 9).
- 7:10 The sign that God had done before Moses, turning his rod into a serpent (4:1–5), was now repeated before Pharaoh and his courtiers.
- 7:11 Pharaoh was not about to be outdone. Wise men refers to his counselors, men of learning and insight. Sorcerers refers to those who practiced divination. They were prominent in the courts of ancient kings (see Deut. 18:10; Dan. 2:2; Mal. 3:5). The magicians of Egypt were believed to possess occult knowledge (see Gen. 41:8, 24; Ex. 8:7, 18, 19; 9:11; see also Dan. 1:20; 2:2). The power of these persons may have been in trickery and slight-of-hand illusions, or demonic power. The word enchantments speaks of “secret things” or “mysteries” (see 7:22)—to paraphrase, “their bag of tricks.” But in their encounter with Moses and Aaron, these men were no match for the power of God (8:19; 9:11)! Later, the royal courts of Israel had wise men (1 Kin. 4:34; Prov. 25:1), but the black arts of sorcery, divination, and astrology were forbidden (Deut. 18:9–14).
- 7:12 his rod . . . serpents: The text does not say whether this was a genuine transformation or a trick of Pharaoh’s evil sorcerers. It is possible that they knew what the first sign would be and had drugged or stunned serpents in some manner so that they might appear to be rods. In any event, their serpents were no match for Aaron’s serpent; his swallowed theirs!
- 7:13 Many times Pharaoh’s heart grew hard, meaning he became insensitive and dull to the demonstration of God’s power (vv. 14, 22, 23; 8:15, 19, 32; 9:7, 12, 34, 35; 10:1, 20, 27; 11:10; 14:4, 5, 8). This was as the LORD had said—as God had planned from the beginning (3:19; 4:21; 7:3, 4). Pharaoh was willful (see 5:1–9). But he was captive to the dulling work of God’s Spirit (see Is. 6:10, concerning the people of Judah).

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Hard of Heart

One Hebrew word describing the hardening of Pharaoh’s heart has the connotation of making the heart “heavy” (9:34; 10:1). This would be a major disadvantage within Egyptian religion, in which a person needed a “light” heart (rather than a heavy, sinful one) after death to weigh favorably on the gods’ balance scale. In Egyptian thought, to be “hard of heart” (but not “heavy”) was a positive trait. The idiom was used of strength and of self-restraint shown while serving at court. To ensure that a person’s heart would declare innocence to the gods, a heart-shaped scarab made of a precious stone was placed on the chest of the mummified body. In Exodus, however, to have a hard heart is a negative trait, and when the Lord God hardens Pharaoh’s heart, his sinfulness is displayed.

- 7:15 Some of the plagues were announced to Pharaoh beforehand; others came without warning.

Those that were announced were the first (7:14–18), second (8:1–4), fourth (8:20–23), fifth (9:1–5), seventh (9:13–19), eighth (10:1–6), and tenth (11:4–8). Those not announced were the third (8:16, 17), sixth (9:8–10), and ninth (10:21–23). Note the pattern: two are announced, then a third comes without warning. This pattern occurs three times, culminating in the last, worst plague. to the water . . . the river's bank: Pharaoh went to the waters of the Nile not to bathe, but to be empowered. Pharaoh's bath in the Nile was a sacred Egyptian rite connected to Pharaoh's claim of divinity. rod: This rod is called the rod of God (4:20) and the rod of Aaron (7:9).

7:16 The LORD God of the Hebrews: A similar identification of the Lord was used in the initial, disastrous encounter of Moses before Pharaoh (see 5:1, 3). This time, Pharaoh would see a display of God's power, not just hear God's name (2:23–3:15; 6:2–8; 9:1). The statement serve Me in the wilderness conveys the idea of sacred worship (8:20; 9:1, 13). There is an implied criticism of Egypt as unfit for such worship because of its idolatry (see 3:18; 8:26, 27).

7:17 The waters of the Nile may have chemically changed to blood. However, elements of the account suggest another possibility: (1) The first nine plagues form a set. Each of these is a natural event that occurs in a miraculous way, in quantity or timing. The change of the waters into blood would not be a natural event. (2) The plagues grow in severity with each successive one, coming to a climax with the tenth. A change of the water to actual blood would be out of step with this pattern. (3) The Hebrew word translated blood can refer to a red color, as in Joel 2:31. An appropriate miracle of natural timing might be that God caused torrential rains to flood and pollute the sources of the Nile to create this plague at the time it was needed. Red soil and algae would make the waters of the Nile red, unfit for drinking and deficient in oxygen for the fish.

7:19 The waters of Egypt came from the Nile and its annual flooding. The plague affected the entire water system of the nation, even the wooden and stone reservoirs that held additional supplies of drinking water.

7:20 Moses and Aaron obeyed God's command and invoked the plague with the rod (see 4:1–8, 20; 7:9; 8:5, 16; 9:23; 10:13, 22; 14:16; 17:5, 9). Later believers in Israel would celebrate this great event in a song (see Ps. 78:44; 105:29, 30).

7:22 magicians . . . with their enchantments: Perhaps the tricksters of Pharaoh were able secretly to color containers of water in an attempt to duplicate the sign of the Lord in the Nile River (7:11). Their attempts were feeble by comparison. Even with this demonstration of God's power, the heart of Pharaoh grew hard . . . as the LORD had said (3:19; 4:21; 7:3, 13, 14).

7:23 Pharaoh showed his utter disdain for the revelation of God's power over the Nile when he turned and went into his house. He also seemed oblivious to the suffering of his people.

8:2 Frogs, which in moderate numbers were regarded as signs of life, renewal, and happiness, would now become pests.

8:5 The rod of Aaron (7:19) was not a magician's wand; it was a powerful symbol of God's power in the hand of His servant (4:1–8, 20; 7:9, 20; 8:16; 9:23; 10:13, 22; 14:16; 17:5, 9). It is not clear in this passage, but it is likely, based on the words in 8:22; 9:4, 26; 10:23; 11:7, that the Hebrews were spared the effects of this plague on the land of Egypt. Only the polluting of the Nile (7:14–25) would have affected the Hebrew people directly.

8:7 the magicians . . . with their enchantments: We do not know how or in what quantity the magicians produced frogs; but doing so hardly helped the situation!

8:8 Note that Pharaoh did not turn to his magicians to relieve the land of the frogs; he called for Moses and Aaron to entreat the LORD (translated "intercede" in v. 9) on his behalf.

entreat

(Heb. ‘atar) (8:8, 9, 29, 30; 9:28; 10:17, 18) Strong’s #6279

This Hebrew word translated entreat (8:8) or intercede (8:9) is one of the biblical words for prayer. The word depicts a person earnestly beseeching God and basically means “to ask” (see Gen. 25:21; Is. 19:22). In the OT, spreading out one’s hands before the Lord was a common gesture associated with prayer (see 9:29). This gesture expressed the petitioner’s receptiveness to God, and his or her need. Empty-handed, with nothing to offer but oneself, petitioners were asking God to fill their hands with His blessings. For this reason, God warned worshipers to petition Him with hands that were not soiled by unclean and halfhearted offerings (Mal. 1:9).

- 8:9 Accept the honor: Moses rises to Pharaoh’s challenge and even invites him to set the time for Moses’ prayer for relief from the frogs. In this way, Pharaoh would not be able to say that it was just a coincidence that the frogs began to abate at a certain time.
- 8:10 The Bible, especially the prophetic books, asserts again and again that there is no one like the LORD our God. Here the living God was being compared with the false gods of Egypt (9:14; 15:11; Is. 40:25).
- 8:12 cried out to the LORD: The Hebrew verb translated cry places emphasis on the need at hand and suggests God’s willingness to stoop down to answer that need (see 22:27; Ps. 40:1). This same sort of prayer provoked the Lord to rescue His people (see 2:23; 14:10, 15; 15:25; 17:4; 22:23, 27).
- 8:14 There were so many dead frogs the land stank. The miraculous nature of this plague lay in the timing and magnitude of the invasion. God did not create new frogs from nothing; He caused frogs to come up in unnaturally large numbers at exactly the right time, and then to die at exactly the right time (see also vv. 30, 31; 9:33; 10:18, 19).
- 8:15 Pharaoh’s behavior exhibits a pattern. During the time of stress, Pharaoh was willing to promise anything. But as soon as the stress ended, he hardened his heart and became unwilling to do what he had promised (3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14).
- 8:16, 17 The plague of lice was the first not to be announced to Pharaoh beforehand. all the land of Egypt: It is not clear in this passage, but it is likely, based on the wording in 8:22; 9:4, 26; 10:23; 11:7, that the Hebrews were spared the effects of this plague. All the dust of the land became lice: A hyperbole that suggests unprecedented trouble with insects in countless numbers.
- 8:18 The magicians . . . with their enchantments (see 7:11) failed this time. Perhaps the lack of announcement meant they had no time to prepare.
- 8:19 It is remarkable that Pharaoh’s magicians attributed the plague to the finger of God. But what choice did they have? Their own competence was on the line. Still their words had no impact on Pharaoh (3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14).
- 8:22 The pressure on Pharaoh intensified with this plague. For the first time (but see also 9:4, 26; 10:23; 11:7), God vowed to set apart the land of Goshen for the protection of His people. Swarms of flies would be everywhere except near the Hebrews. By this means God would make Himself known among all in Egypt. In some ways this exclusion is the most remarkable aspect of the plagues, especially in the last one (see 11:7; ch. 12).

8:26 By using the strong terminology the abomination of the Egyptians (see Deut. 17:1; 18:12; 22:5), Moses employed the ethnic and cultural sensibilities of the Egyptians to free the Israelites (see Gen. 43:32; 46:34). The sacrificial animals of Israel would include sheep, something the Egyptians regarded as detestable. The Egyptians' anger against the Hebrews might lead them to stone the Hebrews to death.

8:29 Moses promised to pray for relief from the plague of flies, but he also warned Pharaoh to keep his promise (see 7:22; 8:15, 19).

8:32 As soon as the Lord removed the swarms of flies, Pharaoh reverted to his earlier stubbornness against Moses, Israel, and God—and hardened his heart (3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14).

9:1 the LORD God of the Hebrews: God forcefully identified Himself as the God of the Hebrews just as He said He would (3:18). The first time Moses spoke to Pharaoh in God's name, he was rebuffed (5:1–9). On subsequent occasions, God demonstrated to Pharaoh the power of His name (6:2–8; 7:16).

9:3 A very severe pestilence on the livestock of Egypt would destroy much of the economy of Egypt as well as its military preparedness.

9:4 make a difference: The same verb is used in 8:22 (see 11:7). Among the Hebrews, nothing would die. The miracles of the Lord in the first nine plagues lay in their timing, their intensity, and as here, whom they affected. As the Egyptians' animals would fall all about them, the animals of the Hebrews would continue to flourish.

9:5 Just as it had been announced, the plague began at a set time. The timing was a significant part of these plagues as was the subsequent relief (see 9:18).

9:6, 7 As with the fourth plague (see 8:24), the LORD did this thing. There is no mention of the rod of Moses (7:20). Even though Pharaoh sent his agents and confirmed that the animals of the Hebrews had been spared this calamity, the heart of Pharaoh became hard (3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14).

9:8 to Moses and Aaron: This is the second plague to arrive with no warning (see 7:15). ashes: Moses' use of a symbolic act in the sight of Pharaoh indicated that the outbreak of disease was not a coincidence. This disease was from the Lord.

9:9, 10 It is not clear from the text whether the Hebrews were spared the plague of boils as they were spared the others, but it seems reasonable to think so (see 8:22; 9:4, 26; 10:23; 11:7). As in the case of the fourth (8:24) and fifth (9:6) plagues, there is no mention of the rod of Moses in connection with the plague of boils (see 7:20).

9:11 The reference to the hapless magicians (7:11) is almost humorous. Not only were they powerless, but they also suffered from the plague.

9:12 hardened the heart of Pharaoh: See 3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14.

9:14 The words to your very heart suggest a growing intensity in the plagues (see chs. 11; 12). none like Me: God is beyond comparison (see 8:10). He is distinct from all the supposed gods of Egypt, who were now under His direct attack.

9:15 if I had: The Lord points out that He could have destroyed the stubborn Pharaoh right at the beginning.

9:16 for this . . . I have raised you up: God used Pharaoh's stubbornness (see 4:21): (1) to demonstrate His power; and (2) to make known His name (see 10:2; Rom. 9:17, 18). Pharaoh was not only an evil ruler in a powerful state; he was an evil man, ungodly, unrighteous, and anti-God. Pharaoh set himself up as a god who maintained the stability of his kingdom. The Lord's judgment on him was an appropriate response to this fraud.

9:17 The term you exalt yourself has the idea of self-aggrandizement. In this Pharaoh is behaving in a manner similar to that of the Prince of Tyre (Ezek. 28:1–10) and Satan, whom the Prince of Tyre emulated (see Ezek. 28:11–19).

- 9:18 tomorrow: One theme in the plagues is the certainty of their timing (see 7:20; 9:5).
- 9:19–21 The fact that God was judging Pharaoh does not mean He was unmerciful. The Lord could have destroyed Pharaoh and his people in a moment (v. 15), but He did not. He could have brought each plague without warning, but in most cases He served notice (see 7:16). In anticipation of this plague, He warned the Egyptians to gather their livestock so they might be spared the hailstorm. Even some members of Pharaoh's court now took the word of the LORD seriously.
- 9:22–25 The wording of this paragraph is detailed, repetitious, and altogether frightening. We hear from time to time of terrible hailstorms with hail as large as "baseballs." The wording of this text suggests that no hailstorm had ever been as terrible as this. The rod used here is the same one that was first described in 4:1–8 (see also 4:20; 7:9; 8:5, 16; 10:13, 22; 14:16; 17:5, 9). The reference to fire probably means lightning (as in Lev. 10:2; 1 Kin. 18:38; Ps. 78:48).
- 9:26 The exclusion of the land of Goshen from the Lord's plagues was part of the miracle (see 8:22; 11:7).
- 9:27 Pharaoh's response was more yielding than ever in the aftermath of this terrible blow. For such a proud man to say I have sinned was a stunning admission, as was his confession, the LORD is righteous. What a change from his initial arrogance (see 5:2)! But sadly, these words of contrition would not hold. Pharaoh would repeat them later (see 10:16, 17), only to take them back in the end.
- 9:29 I will spread out my hands: This is a gesture of prayer (see Ps. 134:2) tied here to a request (v. 28; see 8:8). Pharaoh finally admitted that the earth is the LORD's (see Ps. 24:1).
- 9:31, 32 As in Canaan (see Ruth 1:22; 2:23), barley was the first of the crops to be harvested in the late spring; wheat would be harvested in the summer. From this verse the timing of the year-long series of plagues can be estimated (see 7:19).
- 9:33, 34 It took a miracle to stop the plague as well as to start it (see 8:10–14, 30, 31; 10:18, 19). Sadly, Pharaoh's remorse (see v. 27) was short-lived; he hardened his heart (v. 34; 3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14).
- 10:1 The coming plague of locusts would be preceded by a warning, so God commanded Moses to go in to Pharaoh (see 7:15). I have hardened his heart: Three verbs are used in Exodus to describe God's hardening of Pharaoh's heart. Usually the verb meaning "to make hard" is used (see 4:21). In 7:3, the Hebrew verb meaning "to make stiff" is used. Here the Hebrew verb that means "to make heavy" or "to make insensitive" is used.
- 10:2 your son and your son's son: The story of God's deliverance of Israel from Egypt was to be told by one generation to the next. the mighty things I have done: This whole phrase translates an unusual Hebrew verb that literally means "to make sport of" or "to toy with." The Lord was saying, "I have just been playing games with Pharaoh." The word signs refers to God's power, His revelation of Himself (v. 1; 7:9; 9:16).
- 10:3 refuse to humble yourself: Pharaoh's pride was his undoing. He believed himself to be a god, and paraded himself as one. God resists the proud but gives grace to the humble (Ps. 18:27; 147:6; Is. 57:15–21; 1 Pet. 5:5).
- 10:4 As in each of the first nine plagues, the Lord used a part of His own creation, locusts—well known as a recurring cause of destruction—to bring unparalleled devastation to Egypt.
- 10:7 The term snare can be used to describe a trap for birds (as in Amos 3:5). Here it speaks of Moses as a symbol of destruction for the Egyptians. Egypt is destroyed: This admission by Pharaoh's counselors fulfilled God's prediction that the Egyptians would acknowledge God's supremacy over Pharaoh (7:5; 8:19; 9:20; 12:33).
- 10:8, 9 Pharaoh's questions implied that he was not serious about releasing the Israelites. For example, Who are the ones that are going? was a preposterous question. From the beginning, Moses had demanded the release of the entire population of Hebrews, and he stated this again.
- 10:11 Pharaoh grudgingly gave permission for the men to leave. Keeping wives, families, flocks, and possessions under his control would assure that the men would return.
- 10:12–15 Since Pharaoh was still obstinate, the Lord brought on the locusts and they covered the face of the whole earth. This is a hyperbolic way of expressing that this was an unprecedented disaster in all the land of Egypt. It is not clear in this passage, but it is likely (based on the words in 8:22; 9:4, 26; 10:23; 11:7) that the Hebrews were spared the effects of this plague.

10:16–18 Pharaoh confessed I have sinned, and Moses entreated the LORD on his behalf because Pharaoh could not stop the plague himself, nor could his magicians. The text is careful to attribute the relief to God and not to Moses. God was winning.

10:19 a very strong west wind: As in the case of the frogs (8:10–14) and the hail (9:33), Pharaoh saw God's power over the forces of nature. Truly the earth was the Lord's (see 9:29; Ps. 24:1).

10:20 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart: See 3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14.

10:22, 23 A comparison with other passages (see 10:12, 13) suggests that when Moses stretched out his hand he was holding the rod of God (see 4:1–8, 20; 7:9, 20; 8:5, 16; 9:23; 14:16; 17:5, 9), an indication to Pharaoh that he was opposing the living God. The Hebrew expression thick darkness comes from a pair of words. The first is the common word for darkness. The second is used less often and describes deep gloom (see Job 3:6, 10:21, 22; Ps. 91:6; Is. 29:18). This calamity would have affected the Egyptians the most. They worshiped many gods, but none so much as the sun. Even a normal solar eclipse would have had an impact, but an enshrouding darkness that lasted for three days was a frontal attack on their gods (see 12:12), on their Pharaoh and his supposed control of nature, and on all Pharaoh's counselors who were as helpless as he was. see . . . nor . . . rise: The people must have been terrified.

10:27 But the LORD hardened Pharaoh's heart: See 3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14.

10:28, 29 There can be no mistaking the intent of Pharaoh's threat, you shall die, or of Moses' reply, I will never see your face again. It is likely that Moses spoke the words of 11:4–8 as a part of this same conversation, interrupted only by the prophecy that begins in 11:1. This would explain Moses' "great anger" toward Pharaoh (see 11:8).

11:1, 2 one more plague: At this point, the series of plagues had come to its climax. lets you go . . . drive you out: Pharaoh would be glad to be rid of the Israelites. ask from his neighbor: God had announced this from the beginning (3:21, 22; see 12:35, 36 for the result).

11:3 Another remarkable component of the Exodus was the Egyptians' favor (or grace) toward the Hebrews and admiration for their leader. After all that had happened, we might expect the opposite. But the positive feelings for Moses were shared, amazingly enough, even by Pharaoh's servants. This, too, is a part of the wit and irony of this great victory the Lord had won over His enemy Pharaoh (who represents evil, sin, ungodliness, and even Satan; see 15:3).

11:4 About midnight I will go out: The Lord was the power behind all ten plagues. But in none of the earlier ones did He become personally involved as He did here.

11:5 firstborn of Pharaoh . . . of the female servant: The use of these social opposites indicates totality (another use of social opposites is in 12:29). None of the Egyptians would escape this plague.

11:6 Prediction of the great cry to come (see 12:30) only intensified the tragedy. Pharaoh had been warned of this (see 4:22, 23).

11:7 In some of the other nine plagues, the text specifically says that God protected His people from the effects (see 8:22; 9:4, 26; 10:23). Here too it states emphatically that none of the children of Israel would suffer in this last, most ghastly plague. God served notice that He did recognize a difference between the Egyptians and Israel (see 8:22; 9:4). The institution of the Passover (ch. 12) accentuated this great distinction. The Lord in His mercy protected His people even as He executed judgment on those who opposed Him.

11:8 Moses repeated God's prophecy: Pharaoh's servants would honor Moses and beg him for mercy. This was certainly an affront to Pharaoh, along with the fact that Moses left in great anger (most likely soon after the words of 10:28, 29).

11:9 As in each of the other plagues, it was part of God's plan that Pharaoh would not heed God's commands or warnings. Only in the face of Pharaoh's stubbornness might the power of God be displayed.

12:2 This month, called Abib in 13:4, corresponds to April-May and is also called Nisan. first month: As the Christian world dated time with respect to the birth of Christ, so Hebrew people began to mark time relative to the month of their departure from Egypt. In later Judaism an alternate dating system developed, with the new year celebrated in the fall (September-October).

12:3 Each family took a lamb on the tenth of the month but waited until the fourteenth day to kill it (see v. 6), perhaps allowing time to notice any problems that might make the animal unfit for this holy sacrifice. The word for lamb can refer to either a young sheep or a young goat (see v. 5). The Passover feast involved the whole family, the household.

12:4 Any household too small to eat a lamb in one meal was to join with another. No one was to be excluded.

12:5 Sacrifice was not a way to get rid of unwanted animals. Only the best lambs without blemish were suitable. a male of the first year: God meant the Passover lamb sacrificed for the Israelites to be a picture (a type or model) of the coming death of the Savior, Jesus Christ (see 1 Cor. 5:7). sheep . . . goats: We usually speak of the Passover lamb, but it could be a young goat as well.

12:6, 7 Each family took a lamb on the tenth of the month but waited until the fourteenth day to kill it (see v. 3). The blood of the Passover lamb on the doorposts and . . . lintel was the Lord's provision for salvation from physical death, just as the blood of Christ is the Lord's provision for our salvation from spiritual death.

12:8 Verses 15–20 expand on the instructions for unleavened bread. See 1 Cor. 5:8 for Paul's comparison of sincerity and truth with unleavened bread. Bitter herbs reminded the people of the unpleasantness of slavery.

12:11 The people were to dress for travel, in readiness to march at the Lord's bidding. Ordinarily they would not wear sandals (or shoes) in the house. One's staff would be propped near the door, but not on this night. They were to eat . . . in haste, ready to leave. It is the LORD's Passover: (See v. 13 for the meaning of Passover). The commands for this night were not for the people's comfort. They readied the people for God's quick and miraculous deliverance. By the time of Jesus, the Jews ate this meal in a very leisurely manner, reclining on cushions around a three-winged table, the Roman triclinium (see John 13:23). The first Passover meal was eaten in haste, but subsequent Passover meals could be less hurried, because the deliverance from Egypt had already been accomplished.

The Passover

The Passover commemorated God's deliverance of the Israelites from slavery in Egypt, but it also pointed to the coming Deliverer and Savior of all people—Jesus Christ.

More specifically, the New Testament identifies the Passover lamb, the young lamb sacrificed in place of the family's firstborn, as a type of the person and work of Jesus. (A type is a divinely ordained correspondence between a person, event, or institution and its antitype or fulfillment. Most biblical types are fulfilled in the person and work of Jesus.) Right at the beginning of Jesus' ministry, John the Baptist prophetically announced that Jesus was "the Lamb of God who takes away the sin of the world" (John 1:29). Furthermore, Paul wrote that "Christ, our Passover, was sacrificed for us" (1 Cor. 5:7). Finally, Peter identified Jesus as the "lamb without blemish and without spot" (1 Pet. 1:19). All these New Testament references allude to the Passover lamb.

The Passover lamb had to be (1) without blemish, (2) male, and (3) young. (4) It had to be examined (four days from the selection to the sacrifice) and (5) it had to be slain in public. (6) None of its bones was to be broken. Finally, (7) its blood on the Israelites' doorposts was a sign that God should pass over and not destroy that family's firstborn (see 12:3–13, 46; Num. 9:12). In each particular, Jesus was the fulfillment of this divinely ordained type. Jesus was (1) sinless and perfect. In His humanity, He was both (2) a male and (3) somewhat young when He was slain. (4) He lived a meticulously examined life. (5) He died publicly, and despite the brutality of His death, (6) not one of His bones was broken (John 19:36). Finally, (7) Jesus' blood is the sign of Jesus' death. Through Jesus' death, we are saved from the coming judgment (Rom. 5:9; Eph. 2:13; Col. 1:14; Heb. 9:22; 10:19; 1 Pet. 1:2; 1 John 1:7; Rev. 1:5; 7:14). Thus in all respects, Jesus fulfilled the divinely ordained prophetic picture. He is our Passover Lamb.

12:12 Pass through (also in v. 23) refers to linear motion, as in crossing over a stream (Gen. 31:21), crossing a border (Num. 20:17), or going across a territory (Num. 21:23). Abram used this word to describe his journey to Canaan (Gen. 12:6). This word is related to the name Hebrew (as in Ex. 1:15, 16; 2:6), perhaps meaning, “one who has come from the other side.” Here it is used ominously of the anticipated journey of the Lord to destroy the firstborn in the land of Egypt as threatened at the beginning (see 4:21–23) and told to Pharaoh's face (11:4–8). I will pass through . . . I will strike . . . I will execute . . . I am the LORD: The repetition of the pronoun I emphasizes that God did this, not an angel or some other agent.

12:13 The term sign can mean a reminder, memorial, or symbol, as it does here (see also 3:12), or a miracle that points to the power of God (as in 7:3). The verb translated pass over (from which the Hebrew name for Passover comes; see vv. 11, 12) means “to spare” or “skip” (see vv. 23, 27); it is used only in these three verses and in Is. 31:5. This judgment was carried out personally by the living God. I see . . . I will pass over you . . . I strike the land: As in v. 12, I is repeated for emphasis (see the report in v. 29).

12:14 Henceforth the day would be a memorial (similar to the word describing God's name in 3:15). feast to the LORD: Some of the religious duties are somber and require fasting. The Passover, however, was a feast of celebration. (The name of the prophet Haggai was based on the Hebrew word for feast.) The same term translated everlasting here was also used to describe God's name (3:15). The word means “in perpetuity,” for time without end (see Ps. 90:2).

12:15, 16 seven days: The Passover was tied directly to the Feast of Unleavened Bread, so named in v. 17 (see 23:15; Lev. 23:4–8). Shall be cut off means “shall be executed” (see Gen. 17:14). The term convocation means “gathering.” On the days of holy convocation the only work permitted was the preparation of food.

12:17–24 As vv. 17–20 repeat and expand on the ideas of vv. 15, 16, so vv. 21–24 take up the main ideas of the Passover (vv. 1–14) and expand on them.

12:25–28 To ensure against forgetting this festival, these verses include instructions on how one generation should teach the next concerning its importance. to the land: The hope for entry into the Promised Land was an essential part of the salvation story. when your children say: These words are implemented in a significant part of the Passover Haggadah (liturgy): Questions are provided for children to ask, and the answers are prepared as well. He struck: The language of this verse is consistent with that of vv. 12, 13. The Lord Himself passed over the homes of the faithful in Israel, and the Lord Himself struck the homes of the Egyptians (see v. 29). bowed their heads and worshiped: This is the second time that such words are used of the Israelites in the Exodus. so they did: The Israelites not only worshiped God, but they believed His words and obeyed Him.

12:29 Moses, at the very beginning of his commission, was told about the death of the Egyptians' firstborn (4:22, 23). Furthermore, he announced it directly to Pharaoh (see 11:4–8). God regarded the nation of Israel as His firstborn. In exchange for the attacks on His firstborn son, the Lord attacked the firstborn son of Pharaoh (vv. 12, 13, 23, 27). the firstborn of Pharaoh . . . to the firstborn of the captive: This use of opposites indicates totality—everyone in Egypt. and all the firstborn of livestock: Though not nearly as awful as the death of firstborn children, the death of the livestock was a blow to the Egyptians economically. These deaths were also attacks on their gods (see v. 12).

12:30 The great cry in Egypt gives us only a glimpse of how Pharaoh's people paid for his choices. Not a house escaped. Wherever there was a family there was a death.

12:31 called for Moses and Aaron: Based on the words of Moses reported in 10:29, it is likely that this message was delivered by an intermediary. Pharaoh was grief-stricken at the death of his firstborn son.

12:32 your flocks and your herds: At last Pharaoh capitulated (see 10:9, 26). His words and bless me also show a softening of his heart. The death of his son—and the deaths of firstborn sons everywhere—must have shattered him to the core of his being.

12:33 The Egyptians urged the people to leave because they feared they might all die if the Israelites did not leave soon. A Psalm written later celebrated this miraculous deliverance from slavery: "Egypt was glad when they departed, for the fear of them had fallen upon them" (Ps. 105:38).

12:34 The dough before it was leavened explains the "unleavened bread" of vv. 15–20. The Israelites did not have enough time to let the leaven (yeast) work in their dough. They left Egypt with unleavened dough. From that day on, unleavened bread would remind them of the haste of that night of flight from slavery.

12:35 asked from the Egyptians: This was God's plan from the beginning (see 3:21, 22; 11:2, 3). The slaves were now being paid for their years of servitude. Pharaoh was no longer respected by his people. The ones who suffered through all ten plagues respected the nation of the God who had humiliated the Pharaoh.

12:36 plundered the Egyptians: Newly freed slaves do not usually make their escape with their masters pushing the family silver into their hands. But this is what happened when Israel left Egypt.

12:37 The familiar phrase the children of Israel refers to the heirs of God's promises to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. The Lord gave the name Israel to Jacob (see Gen. 32:22–32). The reference to Rameses most likely relates to the store city Raamses mentioned in 1:11, perhaps Tell el-Daba in the Eastern Delta region. Succoth is possibly Tell el-Maskhuta further to the east. The number six hundred thousand men indicates a total population of some three million people. The actual numbering of the people did not take place until later (Num. 1). Thus this verse should not be regarded as an independent witness to the number of fighting men in Israel at the time of the Exodus from Egypt, since it is derived from the later census (see Num. 1:46).

12:38 The mixed multitude included Egyptians and perhaps other ethnic groups who had their own reasons for leaving. Some of these people later caused trouble when things did not go smoothly or as anticipated (see Num. 11:4). The movement of this vast population was further complicated by their flocks and herds, which they needed to provide milk, meat, and hides, as well as sacrifices to the Lord.

12:39 The people baked unleavened cakes (bread without leaven) in obedience to God's command (vv. 1–20). and could not wait: The symbolism in this has to do with the haste of their departure, not (as some have supposed) something evil in leaven itself. If leaven were intrinsically evil, Israel would have been forbidden to eat leavened bread at any time.

12:40, 41 four hundred and thirty years: If the Exodus took place around 1446 B.C., Jacob's arrival in Egypt would have been around 1876 B.C.

12:42 The departure of Israel from Egypt was to be a night of solemn observance. The Passover has been carefully observed by Jews since that time. In a sense, Christians also celebrate the Passover when they celebrate the Lord's Supper, Jesus' last supper with his disciples which took place at the time of the Passover. When at the Lord's Supper Christians recall Jesus' saving acts for them, they can also thank God for His saving acts for the Israelites at the time of the Exodus.

12:43–51 The regulations concerning Passover may have been given at another time, but are included here because of the description of the first Passover earlier in the chapter.

12:43 no foreigner: The holy feast was designed for those who had come to faith in the living God. To invite others to share in the meal would cause people to lose their understanding of its sacred nature. However, this exclusion was certainly not designed to keep foreigners away from God (see the next verses).

12:44 A servant who had faith in God and was circumcised could partake of the holy feast (Gen. 17:12). But persons who did not share in Israel's faith were excluded (v. 45).

12:46 in one house: The first Passover was celebrated in each home (see vv. 1–13), for each house was marked by the blood of the Passover lamb. nor . . . break one of its bones: Not breaking the bones of the lamb foreshadowed Jesus' death: None of the Savior's bones were broken even though He suffered a horrible death (see Ps. 34:20; John 19:33, 36).

12:47 All the congregation of Israel: This limited participation by outsiders and demanded participation from all of those who were part of the community.

12:48 The term stranger is different from that in v. 43. Both may speak of foreigners, but the term in v. 43 sometimes has negative overtones as well (see, for example, the word used for foreign gods in Gen. 35:2, 3; Josh. 24:20, 23). It would not be a light decision for a male sojourner to come to the Passover meal—he would have to be circumcised! This rite would demand faith in the Lord and a determination to share in the responsibilities and promises of Israel.

13:1–22 Before the dramatic story of the crossing of the Red Sea there is a record of foundational institutions that the Lord gave to Israel. These are: (1) the consecration of the firstborn (vv. 1, 2); (2) the Feast of Unleavened Bread (vv. 3–10); and (3) the law concerning the firstborn (vv. 11–16). This is followed by the Lord's command to the Israelites to travel in an unexpected direction (vv. 17–22).

13:1 The LORD spoke to Moses often, but Moses' close relationship with God was special (see 33:11; Num. 12:8).

13:2 The term translated consecrate means “to make holy.” it is Mine: The explanation of the rite of consecration of the firstborn males to the Lord is developed further in vv. 11–16.

13:3 Remember this day: See 12:41, 42, 51.

13:4 in the month Abib: This verse defines the month of 12:2.

13:8 Even later generations of Israelites who had not been part of the Exodus were to say, “This is what the LORD did for me.” They all shared in God's deliverance because of its lasting effects and God's promise of its permanence.

13:9 Sign: A similar commandment is found in Deut. 6:8. Jews would fasten a small box containing passages of Scripture to their hand and forehead during prayer to serve as a memorial. With or without such a physical sign, the symbol represented an internal reality: God's instructions were to become a rule for one's life.

13:12 Set apart helps explain the meaning of consecrate in v. 2. The idea is “to treat as distinct,” “to mark out as special.” The term males qualifies the term every firstborn.

13:13 A firstborn male donkey was redeemed with a lamb; a donkey was not allowed as a sacrifice to the Lord. Similarly, the Israelites were to redeem their firstborn sons; they were never to slay them in human sacrifice. In this way the people were dramatically reminded of the extent to which the Lord had gone to free them from slavery. He had spared their firstborn even as He slew the firstborn of Egypt, human and animal, to buy their freedom. Later the Lord claimed the Levites for Himself in exchange for the firstborn sons of the people (see Num. 3:40–51).

13:16 A sign was a reminder, memorial, or symbol; see v. 9 (compare Deut. 6:8).

- 13:17 If the people of Israel had traveled directly to Canaan, it would have been in a northerly direction along the coastal plain. Later this plain would be known as the land of the Philistines. There were some Philistine people in Canaan from an early period, but their main invasion and settlement of the land did not come before the mid-twelfth century B.C. The use of this name is similar to the use of later names for the store cities Israel had worked on in Egypt (see 1:11). change their minds: The Egyptians had heavily fortified this coastal route for their own defensive purposes. The people might have been forced into battle with the Egyptians before they were prepared.
- 13:18 by way of the wilderness: The fact of the journey of Israel from Egypt is not in dispute. The route is another matter. The text is clear that the people did not go directly toward Canaan. Hence many alternative routes have been proposed to explain the direction they did take. The traditional route has the people moving in a southerly direction along the western shore of the Sinai Peninsula until they reached Mt. Sinai in the far south-central region of the peninsula. The rendering the Red Sea comes from the Septuagint, the Greek translation of the OT completed about 150 B.C.; the Hebrew phrase means “Sea of Reeds.” This phrase may refer to the ancient northern extension of the Red Sea. Many believe it was one of the marshy lakes in the region.
- 13:19 the bones of Joseph: The story of the last wish of Joseph and his death is found in Gen. 50:22–26. How wonderful that more than four hundred years later this dying wish, which required great faith in the living God, was accomplished!
- 13:20 We do not know the location of Succoth, Etham, and certain other early encampments of Israel (for Succoth, see 12:37).
- 13:21, 22 God’s presence with His people was made dramatically apparent in a pillar of cloud and a pillar of fire (14:19, 20, 24; 40:38; Num. 9:21). God stayed with His people throughout the Exodus experience. By these and other wonderful signs He made Himself unforgettable! Because God is Spirit (John 4:24), it is a mark of His gracious character that He made His presence seen and felt among His people. If the people focused on the fact of His presence, they would not need to fear.
- 14:1—15:21 The crossing of the Red Sea (or Sea of Reeds), the climactic part of the Exodus from Egypt, is given both in a prose account (ch. 14) and in poetry, a psalm of praise to God (ch. 15).
- 14:2 The locations of Pi Hahiroth, Migdol, and Baal Zephon are not known today. Pi Hahiroth may be a translation of an Egyptian name, perhaps “Dwelling of Hathor” or something similar. Migdol means “Tower” and might refer to some topographical feature. Baal Zephon means “Baal of the North,” a name suggesting that Canaanite religious ideas had extended to this region. God told the Israelites to camp by the sea so that later He could deliver them miraculously.
- 14:3 The Egyptians would note Israel’s route of escape, note the change in direction (v. 2), and conclude that they were bewildered. This was a ruse, of course, orchestrated by God Himself.
- 14:4 then I will harden Pharaoh’s heart: (See 3:19; 4:21; 5:2; 7:3, 13, 14; see also 14:8.) One more blow against Pharaoh was determined. The meaning of the verb gain honor is significant. When Moses and Aaron had first approached Pharaoh (see 5:1–9), he had treated the men and their God with contempt. With Pharaoh’s final defeat, the name the LORD (that is, Yahweh) and its association with the people of Israel would be known and honored abroad.
- 14:6, 7 he made ready his chariot: At Pharaoh’s command, the commander of the chariots pursued the Israelites. Six hundred choice chariots was a most formidable force. Chariots in the wars of the ancient world provided a decisive advantage over foot soldiers.
- 14:8 the LORD hardened the heart of Pharaoh: As He promised in 14:4.
- 14:10, 11 We cannot fault the people for being very afraid; fear itself is not a sin. However, the sarcastic remark to Moses (and hence to the Lord) that there were no graves in Egypt showed a lack of faith. This is just the first of a series of complaints that they leveled against Moses. With each one their grumbling grew into open hostility (see 16:2, 3; 17:2, 3).
- 14:12 The statement let us alone refers to Israel’s response to Moses and Aaron after their first, disastrous approach to Pharaoh (5:21).

- 14:13, 14 Despite their harsh words, Moses did not lash out against the complaining people. Instead he sought to encourage them with a promise that they would see the salvation of the LORD. The Hebrew word for salvation comes from a term that has to do with room or space. The people were under great pressure, squeezed between the waters before them and the armies of Pharaoh behind them. Salvation would relieve the pressure in a most dramatic way. This salvation was to come from God, for He was pleased to provide it (see v. 30; compare also 15:2).
- 14:15 The people were to go forward—not go back and not give up.
- 14:16 Moses' rod is the same celebrated rod of God (see 4:20) that Moses and Aaron had used in bringing forth many of the plagues against the Egyptians (see 4:1–8; 7:9, 20; 8:5, 16; 9:23; 10:13, 22; 17:5, 9). stretch out your hand: The power of God was going to be demonstrated in a most formidable manner. The Israelites, like the Canaanites, thought of the sea as an uncontrollable enemy. The parting of the Red Sea was an unforgettable demonstration that every force in all creation was completely under God's control (see Ps. 93).
- 14:19 Here, the Angel of God and the pillar of cloud cooperated to protect and lead the Israelites (see 23:20, 23; 33:9–11). The name Angel of God is an alternative expression for the Angel of the Lord. The pillar is later strongly associated with the Lord Himself (see 33:9–11).
- 14:20 The pillar became two different realities—a curse to the pursuing Egyptians and a blessing to the entrapped Israelites. all that night: At night, God confused the Egyptians and let the Israelites pass through the sea.
- 14:21 Moses stretched . . . and the LORD caused: God commanded Moses to stretch out the rod of God (see v. 16). This was not a magical wand. The power was from God Himself; it was not in the stick. One of the forces the Lord used to part the waters was a strong east wind. We may picture an exceedingly strong wind with a narrow focus, driving a wedge between the two walls of water that were formed.

The Exodus

The exodus and conquest narratives form the classic historical and spiritual drama of OT times. Subsequent ages looked back to this period as one of obedient and victorious living under divine guidance. Close examination of the environment and circumstances also reveals the strenuous exertions, human sin, and bloody conflicts of the era.

(1) It was necessary for Moses to take refuge in Midian, where the Egyptian authorities could not reach him. The decades spent in the desert wilderness (Ex. 3:1) were an important formative part of his life.

(2) The exact crossing place through the biblical “Sea of Reeds” (Heb. Yam Suph) is unknown.

(3) The Israelite tribes fled past the Egyptian system of border posts, through the “Red Sea” and into the wilderness, where they avoided the main military and trade routes leading across northern Sinai. Their route possibly took them past the remote turquoise and copper mining regions northwest of Mount Sinai.

In historical terms, the exodus from Egypt was ignored by Egyptian scribes and recorders. No definitive monuments mention the event itself, but a stele of Merneptah (c. 1209 B.C.) claims that a people called Israel were encountered by Egyptian troops somewhere in northern Canaan.

Finding precise geographic and chronological details of the period is problematic, but new information has emerged from vast amounts of fragmentary archaeological and inscriptional evidence. Hittite cuneiform documents parallel the ancient covenant formula governing Israel’s national contract with God at Mount Sinai.

The Late Bronze Age (c. 1550–1200 B.C.) was a time of major social migrations. Egyptian control over the Semites in the eastern Nile delta was harsh, with a system of brickmaking quotas imposed on the labor force, often the landless, low-class “Apiru.” Numerous Canaanite towns were violently destroyed. New populations, including the “Sea Peoples,” made their presence felt in Anatolia, Egypt, Canaan, Transjordan, and elsewhere in the eastern Mediterranean.

Correspondence from Canaanite town rulers to the Egyptian court in the time of Akhenaten (c. 1350 B.C.) reveals a weak structure of alliances, with an intermittent Egyptian military presence and an ominous fear of people called “Apiru” (= “Hapiru”).

Go to the List of In-Text Maps

14:22 The effects of the wind on the waters was so strong that the ground of the watercourse had become dry! It was an act of faith on Israel’s part to cross over on this dry ground. They might have refused to go and would then not have been delivered from the Egyptian army.

14:23 Egyptians pursued: The startled and confused Egyptians pursued the Israelites even into the Red Sea.

14:24 The Lord waited until the time was just right. Then He caused confusion to fall among the Egyptians in the morning watch, while it was still dark.

14:25 Without their wheels, the chariots were more liability than threat. the LORD fights for them: This was the confession the Lord demanded; word spread widely. The Lord fought for the Israelites (see vv. 4, 17, 18).

14:28 Of all the Egyptian men, horses, and equipment that entered the dry bed of the sea, not so much as one survived. The defeat was total. No doubt some Egyptian warriors had not actually entered the water and had survived. It was they who would spread the word about the Lord, the Warrior of Israel.

14:31 The great work literally means “the great hand.” That is, God did it; Moses was just the visible executor (see 15:6). This great, climactic verse speaks of the genuine faith of the people of Israel at the end of their experience of God’s saving works and at the beginning of their journey of faith. When we read so the people feared the LORD and the words that follow, we are meant to understand that the community had come to saving faith and so were a reborn people. They believed the LORD (the same wording used of Abraham’s saving faith in Gen. 15:6; see Paul’s comments, Rom. 4). It was also significant that the people believed His servant Moses. At the beginning of this miraculous ordeal, they had not believed him at all (see 6:9). The people were transformed spiritually even as they were delivered physically. It is no wonder that they broke out in song (ch. 15).

15:1–19 This section contains the first psalm (or song) of any length in the Bible. Other poetic sections in Genesis (for example, Gen. 1:27; 3:14–16, 17–19; 4:23, 24) are too brief to be called psalms. Moses composed this psalm, and its grammar, structure, and vocabulary testify to its ancient origin (see Deut. 32; Ps. 90 for two other psalms by Moses).

15:1 Moses and the children of Israel sang in worship together, as a community of believers, not just as a nation. And they sang to the LORD; the living God was their main audience. The term triumphed gloriously is an emphatic construction, expressing exuberant joy over God’s great victory (see also 18:8). Horse and . . . rider can also be rendered “horse and chariot.” The Hebrew verb for thrown is a rare and pictorial expression. It describes God as reaching down and tossing members of the Egyptian army into the water one by one.

15:2 Because my strength and song is such an unusual pairing of words, some have thought that the word translated song must mean “power,” “fortress,” or something similar. However, the idea as it is expressed is wonderful: God is my strong song. That is, a person of faith may regard the living, omnipotent God as the reason for singing! my salvation: The word save and its related nouns have to do with room or space (see 14:13). With the terrifying sea before them and the pursuing Egyptians behind them, they were trapped. Yet God surprised them with His deliverance! I will praise Him: There are numerous words for praise in the Bible. But the Hebrew verb here is unique; it means “to bring God beauty.” By the sacrifices of one’s lips (see Heb. 13:15), people of all ages can bring beauty to the One who created all that is beautiful. my father’s God: The Israelites worshiped the same God that Abraham, their father, had worshiped.

15:3 To call God a man of war is most appropriate in this context. The battle has been won, and the praise belongs to the Victor. the LORD is His name: It is difficult to exaggerate the importance of God’s name Yahweh in the Bible (3:14, 15). Other supposed gods had secret names that only guilds of priests knew. By knowing a god’s secret name, a priest supposedly had special access to that god. But the living God has made His name known to all, and salvation is found in His name alone.

15:6 The Exodus narrative has emphasized the extended, powerful right hand of God throughout (see vv. 12, 16). This was a way of describing God’s active and powerful presence among His people. God did not deliver Israel “from afar”; He “came down” to act among them (3:8).

15:7, 8 Moses used more figures of speech to convey the great feeling of the moment. The powerful wind that made the waters pile up on either side of the people (see 14:21) is described in poetry as a blast of Your nostrils.

15:9–11 The arrogance of the pursuing armies trying to fight the living God is described in v. 9. Who is like You: Many times, the Bible uses this language of incomparability to describe the true God. In a world in which there were many supposed gods, the Lord was unique. He alone is God. He is not just better than other gods; there are no other gods. No person, god, or thing can be compared to the one true God (see Ps. 96:4, 5; Is. 40:25, 26; Mic. 7:18). Fearful means that God inspired wonder, worship, and obedience from the Israelites.

15:13 mercy: Best rendered as “loyal love,” God’s faithful love for His people (see Ps. 13:5). redeemed is from a word that has to do with protecting family rights. God had protected His family, the Israelites. Holy habitation refers to the land of Israel in general, the land that God was giving to His people for their enjoyment (v. 17).

(Heb. ga'al) (15:13; Ruth 4:4; Is. 43:14) Strong's #1350

The basic meaning of the Hebrew verb translated redeem is “to protect family rights” or “to deliver.” The word refers to the responsibility of a close relative to buy back family land that had been sold because of debt (Lev. 25:25). The same Hebrew word is used to describe Boaz’s kindness to Ruth. Boaz not only bought back the family’s land, but he also saved Ruth from poverty (Ruth 4:3–10). Boaz’s kindness and willingness to save Ruth is a picture of the kindness of God. The Israelites had become the “family of God” (see 4:22; 13:2). God had freely taken on the responsibility to buy them back, to pay the price to free them from slavery. The Lord was Israel’s Redeemer as Isaiah proclaimed (Is. 43:14), but He was also the personal Redeemer of both Job and David (Job 19:25; Ps. 19:14). We too have a Redeemer, Jesus, who was willing to pay the price—His own death on the Cross—to free us from our sins (Gal. 4:5; Titus 2:14).

15:14, 15 The news of Israel’s deliverance from Egypt spread abroad (see Josh. 2:9). God’s powerful deliverance was not to be kept a secret. The nations of the world were to be put on alert: God fought for Israel, and Israel was on the march! These words should have encouraged the Israelites to have courage. Instead, the subsequent story illustrates the cowardice of the Israelites. They struggled to trust in their powerful God (see Num. 13; 14).

15:16 fear and dread: A pairing of two words to express one emphatic thought, “overwhelming dread.” The expression Your arm is interchangeable with right hand (see vv. 6, 12). The verb for purchased (“to acquire,” “to possess”) can also mean “to create” (see Gen. 14:19).

15:17 bring them in: The verse speaks of the hope for the near future, the conquest of the land of Canaan (soon to be the land of Israel), as well as the hope for the more distant future, the building of the temple.

15:18 the LORD shall reign forever and ever: Ultimately the salvation of Israel from Egypt points to the coming reign of the living God on earth over His redeemed people.

15:20 Miriam, Moses’ sister, is mentioned here by name for the first time. Most likely she is the one intended in the story of Moses’ birth in ch. 2. She is called a prophetess. Although there is no record of women serving as priests in ancient Israel, women did serve as prophetesses (Deborah, Judg. 4:4; the wife of Isaiah, Is. 8:3; Huldah, 2 Kin. 22:14). As a prophetess (see Mic. 6:4), Miriam spoke authoritatively from God. However neither she nor her brother Aaron was ever Moses’ equal in intimacy with God (see Num. 12). This passage also describes the Israelites’ first worship service following their deliverance from the Red Sea. Women led this worship with timbrels and with dances, something later celebrated in the Psalms (Ps. 68:25).

15:22 Hagar had been found by the Angel of the Lord by a spring on the way to Shur (Gen. 16:7; see 20:1; 25:18). The lack of water in this area would prove a constant test of Israel’s faith in the God who had so miraculously rescued them (see ch. 17).

15:24 The verb complained is not so harsh as the verb in 17:2, but it expresses dissatisfaction. It is sometimes rendered “to murmur” (16:2, 7; Num. 14:2; 16:11; 17:5). The people’s recent deliverance from the Egyptian armies makes this complaint seem fickle and a true test of God’s mercy. We are often like the Israelites, turning from praise to complaint far too easily.

15:25 The use of the tree made the miracle of cleansing easier to perceive.

15:26 none of the diseases: As God had transformed the bitterness of the waters of Marah, so He promised to preserve His people from illness (see 23:25). The descriptive phrase I am the LORD who heals you testifies to the mercy and power of God. It is still true: all healing comes from the Lord.

15:27 Elim means “Place of Trees.” The wells and palm trees of Elim were a welcome relief from the barrenness of the wasteland. Many times the Bible compares wells and springs to salvation and palm trees to blessing (see Ps. 1). Elim is probably Wadi Gharandal, near the traditional (southerly) site of Mt. Sinai.

16:1 The location of the wasteland called the Wilderness of Sin is uncertain; its position between Elim and Sinai depends on the location of Mt. Sinai. (The name Sin has nothing to do with the English word sin.) The term second month means one month from the time of their departure from Egypt (compare 12:2, 18, 40).

16:2 the whole congregation: This phrase indicates a general dissent, not that there were no exceptions.

16:3 died by the hand of the LORD: How could the Israelites voice this outrageous complaint? All that God had done for Israel by His great right hand was in mercy and deliverance. This complaint centered on food (for a similar complaint concerning water, see 15:22–26). After God’s great deliverance of the Israelites from the Egyptians and His provision of water, couldn’t they see that providing sufficient food for them would be a small thing for their great God?

16:4 The Lord’s response to the people’s complaint was a promise of bread from heaven (manna, see v. 15). God Himself would supply their food. But the Israelites’ reception of this wonderful blessing from God was already tarnished by their attitude. What could have been a joyful discovery became a bittersweet one. A certain quota meant a daily amount (see v. 5). The verb translated test (with God as subject) does not mean “to tempt one to fail,” but “to prove what one really is” (see also 15:25; 20:20).

16:5 The gathering of twice as much on the sixth day would allow for the Sabbath rest (see v. 25).

16:6, 7 you shall know: The people would experience God’s power in a new way (see also v. 12). see the glory: They would have a renewed sense of God’s presence and further evidence of God’s mercy.

16:10 Because God is Spirit (John 4:24), He has varied the ways in which He has shown Himself. The glory of the LORD is one of the grand theophanies (appearances of God) recorded in Exodus. God first appeared to Moses in the burning bush (ch. 3). We do not know exactly what the people saw in the cloud, but the sight certainly made them aware of God’s majestic and somewhat ominous presence (see Ps. 97:2–5).

16:12 God promised ample provision for His people in meat and bread. And you shall know: God supplied the heavenly food so that the Israelites would know beyond a doubt that God was with them and was providing for them.

16:13 God provided meat through a natural event, the migration of quails through the region. It still was God’s benevolent provision; the quails came at just the right time and in large numbers. On a later occasion, the gift of quails would come with judgment (see Num. 11:31–35).

16:14, 15 a small round substance: There have been many attempts to explain manna as a naturally occurring substance that still might be found in the desert. Some have identified it as insect or plant secretions. The wording of these verses belies every one of these approaches. The description of the manna in these two verses (see also v. 31) is necessary precisely because it was not a naturally occurring substance (see the description in Num. 11:1–15). The Israelites’ question What is it? named the mystery bread: manna (see v. 31). This is the bread: The manna could be made into bread. the LORD has given: The bread was a specific gift from God.

16:16 There would be sufficient manna for each person. Thus no one was to take more than he or she needed. The Hebrew measure one omer is used only in this chapter in the Bible. It was about two quarts; v. 36 explains that it was one tenth of an ephah.

16:19 The Israelites' daily dependence on manna was an act of faith, hence the instruction let no one leave any. No one needed to gather more than one day's worth because there would be more manna on the next day. To do otherwise would only show doubt in God's provision.

16:20 The Hebrew word translated stank is the same Hebrew word used by the crew chiefs to describe how the Hebrew people fared when Moses and Aaron first approached Pharaoh: "you have made us abhorrent (stink) in the sight of Pharaoh" (see 5:21). Moses was angry: Concerning one of many occasions on which the people would not follow the Lord's directions!

16:21 it melted: The ungathered manna would disappear during the day.

16:22–26 Perhaps the most amazing feature of the manna concerned the Sabbath. On the sixth day of the week, the people were to gather a two-day supply for each person. On any other day, manna that was kept from the day before would spoil and fill with worms. But on the Sabbath, the manna from the previous day would be as fresh as when first gathered. This is the most convincing argument that this "bread" was not a naturally occurring substance. six days . . . the Sabbath (v. 26): The characteristics of manna were a built-in reminder of the importance of the Sabbath day in the life of the people of Israel (see 20:8–11).

16:27–31 Some of the Israelites missed the point and went out on the Sabbath to gather manna. How long: The Lord's command had been clear, and yet the people simply ignored it.

16:31 coriander seed . . . honey: Apparently the manna was very tasty. It was also quite nutritious, and it was the staple of the Israelites for a full generation!

16:32, 33 The memorial pot of manna kept for later generations would serve as a reminder of this miraculous work of the Lord during Israel's wilderness period. Indeed, this pot of manna was a continuing miracle, for the manna would quickly rot and become wormy if a person tried to take more than a daily share (see v. 20). Yet apparently the pot of manna before the LORD was kept for centuries without turning bad!

16:35 forty years: The completion of the story is anticipated before the intervening steps are recorded.

17:1 Rephidim may be located at Wadi Refayid in southwest Sinai (also mentioned in v. 8; 19:2; Num. 33:14, 15). no water: The need for water for the people and for their flocks must have been an immense problem, regardless of how we interpret the large number of 12:37.

17:2 There would have been no sin in asking for water. But the Israelites contended with Moses. This verb is often used in the prophets to describe a judicial dispute (Mic. 6:2). Here it means a grumpy complaining. Moses judged this to be a challenge to God's faithful mercy, and evidence of unbelief in His provision. This was not the first time that the people had railed against Moses (14:11, 12; 16:2, 3); sadly, it would not be the last.

17:3 Why . . . to kill us? Their genuine concern for water led the people to accuse Moses of having an outrageous motivation. Ultimately their attacks pointed at God.

17:5 The participation of some of the elders shows that not all the people were making the strong, malicious accusations that are described in vv. 2 and 3. Moses' rod here is the same rod of God (see v. 9; 4:20) that Moses and Aaron had used during the plagues of Egypt (see 7:9, 20; 8:5, 16; 9:23; 10:13, 22) and with which Moses had signaled the parting of the waters (14:16).

17:6 The enveloping presence of God came down on the rock in a unique way. Once before, Moses had been commanded to hold his rod over a body of water, and it became dry (see 14:21); here he was to strike a rock in a dry desert so that water would come from it. The striking of the rock pictured the coming death of the Savior. Water to satisfy the people's thirst came from the rock that was struck. One day, living water to satisfy spiritual thirst would come from the death of Jesus, our Rock. Moses did so: The text does not say so, but the implication seems to be that the water came rushing out and the people had plenty to drink and to water their flocks. Indeed, it is likely that the water from the rock became a steady source.

17:7 Massah . . . Meribah: Had the people not behaved so horribly, God would have provided the water in a context of blessing, and the names for the place would have been positive. Sadly, the names referred to the temptation and contention that occurred there (see Num. 20:13, 24 for the use of these names again). From our point of view, we wonder how the question Is the LORD among us? could even be asked! The people had seen God's power in the plagues, the Exodus, the crossing of the Red Sea, and the provision of manna. Every day they saw the pillar of His presence. Yet had we been part of this crowd, we would likely have been as impatient and questioning as they were.

17:8 The people of Amalek were descendants of Esau, the Edomites (see Gen. 36:1, 12). Their attack on Israel was unprovoked. The Israelites—and the Lord—regarded this attack as particularly heinous (see vv. 14–16).

17:9 This is the first mention of Joshua, the man who would later succeed Moses. He had chosen Joshua to be his close aide (24:13; 32:17; 33:11). the rod of God: The second time this wonderful phrase is used (4:20) and the last mention of the rod in Exodus (see Num. 20:8, 9).

17:10 Joshua led the battle; this field training would serve him well later in Canaan. God had trained Moses for his work; He was now training Joshua to succeed him. Hur: The first mention of this close associate of Moses and Aaron (see 24:14). He should not be confused with the grandfather of Bezalel (31:2; 35:30; 38:22).

17:11 Moses held up his hand (holding the rod of God, see v. 9) not as a form of magic, but as a visible sign that Israel's victory was in God's hands.

17:12 Moses was not a young man, and even a youth would grow weary sooner or later, so his aides supported his hands. Only in this way would Israel prevail; only in the power of God would they win their battle.

17:13 Joshua defeated: The armies of Israel would fight, as all armies might fight, with normal combat techniques. But the victory was assured because of God's power on His people's behalf.

17:14 Write this: Some people allege that the first five books of the OT, the Pentateuch, were not actually written down until centuries after Moses' death. Others concede that Moses may have written certain small sections, such as the one to which this verse seems to refer (see 24:4). Yet it is reasonable to assert that Moses wrote some passages of the first five books at the clear command of God, as this verse indicates, and then the rest later to record the full story of God's dealing with the Israelites during his lifetime (see also 34:27, 28). The word memorial is used of the Passover in 12:14. The book refers to a scroll; bound books were not developed until many centuries after the time of Moses. recount it: The public announcement of an oracle of the Lord gave the sense that it was that much more certain. Joshua's later role as Moses' successor would make him an important witness to this oracle of the Lord. utterly blot out: Moses reiterated God's command to the second generation (see Deut. 25:19).

17:15 Moses built and named an altar, just as Abraham and Isaac had (see Gen. 8:20; 12:7; 26:25; 33:20; 35:1). Naming an altar gave it special significance by marking out a characteristic of God that was associated with worship there; the name memorialized the idea. The-LORD-Is-My-Banner is the name of the altar, not a name for God.

17:16 The Hebrew translated as the LORD has sworn is somewhat obscure, but appears to mean "Surely there is a hand on the throne of the LORD." In this phraseology, the Creator of the universe is pictured as seated on His throne while raising His hand in a solemn oath. It is a fearful thing for the wicked to fall into the hands of the just and righteous Judge of the universe.

18:1 God wanted the salvation of Israel out of Egypt to be heard throughout the world (see 15:14, 15). Word of God's deliverance of the Israelites had reached the remote dwelling place of Jethro, the priest of Midian (for more on Jethro, see 2:18; 3:1; 4:18).

18:2 Zipporah: After the shocking story of the circumcision of Zipporah's son, the narrative of Exodus does not mention her again until this verse (see 2:16–21; 4:24–26). Most likely, Zipporah had returned to her father after that traumatic event. Now she visited Moses with her father. But after this passage, she is not mentioned again in the Bible. Later, it appears that Moses married another woman (Num. 12:1).

18:3 Now Zipporah's two sons stayed with Moses and became part of the families of Israel. However, the subsequent history of the family of Gershom involved a terrible scandal (see Judg. 18:30).

18:4 Eliezer means "My God Is Help" or perhaps "My God Is Power." Although the birth and naming of Gershom (v. 3) was mentioned early in the narrative (see 2:22), it is only at this relatively late point in the second son's life—after the Exodus—that his name is mentioned. Furthermore, his name is tied directly to the Exodus: and delivered me from the sword of Pharaoh.

18:5, 6 The language in these verses suggests formality. Moses had been adopted into the family of Jethro when he had been a man adrift; his marriage brought certain lasting obligations. He had asked Jethro's permission to return to his own people in obedience to God's call (4:18). The heavy-handed repetition of the term father-in-law in this passage (vv. 1, 2, 5, 6, 7, 8, 12, 14, 15, 17, 24, 27) suggests that this is more than a courtesy title. Jethro had true authority over Moses.

18:7 bowed down, and kissed him: The ancient Middle Eastern acts of bowing and kissing were not acts of worship, but signs of respect and reminders of obligations between two people. It is strange that the narrative does not mention Moses' meeting with his wife. Well-being is a translation of the familiar Hebrew word shalom, meaning "peace."

18:9, 10 When Jethro rejoiced, he did more than express personal happiness. His joy came from his acknowledgment of the true and living God. The priest who may have known something about the true God now gave praise to God in the words and manner of a true believer.

18:11 Jethro's words now I know that the LORD is greater imply that he had once regarded the Lord as one among many gods or perhaps as the principal among them. Here he declares full faith in God as the supreme Deity.

18:12 The burnt offering was totally consumed. However the other sacrifices were fellowship offerings. The priests of the Lord and the priest of Midian ate their part of the sacrifices together in common faith in the one true God. The scene is reminiscent of the one in which Abram celebrated the Lord together with Melchizedek (Gen. 14:18–20).

18:13 Judge here means "to render decisions."

18:14, 15 The lively interchange between Moses and Jethro shows a very human side of Moses. He was driven by a desire to do everything perfectly, but his activities were far too time consuming for one man to bear alone. Jethro observed this (see vv. 17, 18).

18:16 This fascinating verse suggests that God's laws were general when they were first given, then applied on a case-by-case basis. Doubtless, many of the specific laws in the Book of Exodus are the result of this process, the application of general principles to specific cases (see 21:1).

18:19 Jethro gave his counsel in the context of his new faith in God, but it was rooted in experience and wisdom he had gained throughout his life.

18:20–22 Moses would teach the broad areas of God's instruction, and others would deal with more mundane cases. Major matters would still be brought to Moses. Jethro listed only five qualifications for the men who would aid Moses. His list has some similarities to the qualifications for church offices in the NT (1 Tim. 3:1–13). (1) They were to be able men having strength, efficiency, and wealth (see Gen. 47:6; Ruth 3:11; Prov. 12:4; 31:10). (2) They were to fear God, showing piety, reverence, godly humility, and ready obedience (see Gen. 22:12). (3) They were to be men of truth, conforming to God's character (see 34:6). (4) They were to be haters of (turners from) covetousness, so they could not be bribed. (5) They were to be ranked, with rulers over them. In other words, each man was to be accountable to someone else.

18:23 and God so commands: Any arrangement must be in keeping with God's will if it is to be blessed by Him. in peace: That is, this would be for the general welfare of all concerned (see v. 7).

18:24–27 heeded: We see Moses' character in this interaction. He was willing to listen to others and to improve the way he was doing things. This was also a mark of his leadership ability and his lack of self-absorbing pride (see Num. 12). The report that Jethro went his way was not a moral judgment, merely a statement about his travels. By going back to his land, Jethro was able to extend the knowledge of the true God at a time when the Israelites mostly kept to themselves. Jethro the priest of Midian had become Jethro the minister of the Lord.

19:1, 2 The arrival of the community of Israel at Mt. Sinai was a momentous event that would shape their subsequent history. The narrator (Moses) was tremendously impressed with the Lord's timing (see 12:41, 51). Likely, the same day means exactly two months after the Exodus, the fourteenth day of the third month (see 12:2, 18; 13:4; 16:1). When the Lord first confronted Moses, it was before the mountain. At that time, the Lord had promised that the Israelites would worship God at this place (see 3:12). This promise of God was about to be fulfilled.

19:3 Moses went up to God because God had made His presence known on the mountain, and Moses was the only one who had access to the Lord (see 33:9–11; Num. 12). Moses was the intermediary between the Lord and the people.

19:4 The poetic expression on eagles' wings is a lovely way of describing the people's deliverance from Egypt. The Lord had whisked the Israelites away from slavery and brought them to Himself. This type of language not only describes Israel's salvation from slavery, but it can also describe our salvation from sin.

19:5 For the first time in Exodus, the term covenant is used to refer to the Lord's solemn arrangement with the Israelites at Mt. Sinai, sometimes called the Mosaic covenant (see also 24:1–8; 31:12–18; 34:27, 28). In previous passages in Exodus, this term has been used of the Abrahamic covenant (see 2:24; 6:3–5). This same word is also used for binding treaties between Israel and other nations (see 23:32; 34:12, 15).

19:9 God was able to reveal only so much of His splendor to a people who were unprepared for a full revelation. Hence, He appeared to them in the thick cloud.

19:10 The people were instructed as to how they might prepare for the visitation of the living God. They were to consecrate themselves, that is, go through purifying rites to be ceremonially prepared for the meeting.

consecrate

(Heb. qadash) (13:2; 19:10; 29:44) Strong's #6942

This Hebrew verb means “to make holy,” “to declare distinct,” or “to set apart.” The word describes dedicating an object or person to God. By delivering the Israelites from slavery in Egypt, God made the nation of Israel distinct. Through His mighty acts of deliverance, God demonstrated that the Israelites were His people, and He was their God (6:7). By having the people wash themselves at Mt. Sinai, the Lord made it clear that they as a people were being set apart for Him (19:10). Just like the Israelites, Christians also have been delivered, from slavery to sin. This deliverance has set us apart: we have been dedicated to our Savior and His purposes. We have been called to be His holy people (1 Pet. 1:15, 16; 2:9).

- 19:12 God commanded Moses to set bounds for the people. None could come near the mountain; they were all to keep their distance. When Moses first approached God at the burning bush, he was commanded to remove his sandals (3:5). The people were not even to get that close.
- 19:13 not live: The threat of death demonstrated the seriousness of what was about to happen. What must it have been like, we wonder, to anticipate with terror and wonder a close encounter with the living God? The trumpet was a ram's horn (as in Josh. 6:4; the word in v. 16 is different).
- 19:14, 15 Sexual relations were also forbidden during the three days, for they would make the people ritually unclean.
- 19:16 The epiphany of the Lord was a spectacular event of thunderings and lightnings, and a thick cloud. The Canaanite god Baal was associated with these elements in the mythology of the day. His adherents believed him to be a god of storm, so clouds, thunder, and lightning would often be associated with him. But Israel learned that their God alone was the living God. He alone surrounded Himself in thick clouds, sent forth thunder and lightning, illuminated the earth, and filled the heavens with His wonders. Amazingly, one of the heavenly visitors played the trumpet rather than someone in the camp of Israel (compare Is. 27:13; 1 Cor. 15:52; 1 Thess. 4:16). None of the Israelites had ever heard such a blast! No wonder they trembled (20:18, 19).
- 19:18 Even though we know God is everywhere, language such as the LORD descended gives us a greater appreciation of His merciful grace. The omnipotent Creator came down to meet the Israelites. His presence evoked an overwhelming sense of awe. The smoke was an enveloping cover for God's glory, even as the associated fire reminded the Israelites of that great glory.
- 19:19, 20 The blast of the trumpet (see v. 16) was not simply a distraction. It was a part of the physical assault on the senses—a sound and sight overload. Despite the ever grander display of God's glory, Moses drew closer to God even as the people were shrinking back from Him.
- 20:1–17 This passage conforms to the pattern of ancient Middle Eastern treaties between a king and his vassals or servants. The Great King presented to His servants, the Israelites, the duties and obligations of the covenant He made with them.
- 20:1 And God spoke: The following words of God are known as the Law of Moses. However, Moses was merely a reluctant prophet, a mouthpiece for God's words. This law is really the Law of God.

The Mosaic Covenant

Encamped before Mount Sinai, the Israelites encountered their God, who had recently delivered them from Egyptian slavery (Gen. 12:1–3; Ex. 12; 13). At this mountain for the first time, God made a covenant with the entire nation of Israel (chs. 19–24), usually referred to as the Mosaic covenant, the covenant with the people as given to Moses. God formalized His relationship with the Israelites with a suzerain-vassal (ruler-subject) treaty. That is, God came to the Israelites as the Great King and presented to them a binding treaty in which He would make certain promises to them and they would have certain obligations as His servants. This was not a treaty between equals; it was a treaty between the superior King and His inferior servants.

In this treaty, God first reminded the Israelites of who He was and how He had acted in their behalf. He was their Savior—the One who had snatched them from their oppressors (19:4). If they covenanted with Him, God promised to make the Israelites His “special treasure” (19:5). He would lavish special attention on them and make them “a kingdom of priests and a holy nation” (19:6). On the one hand, Israel would become holy—or distinct and separate from all other nations—because of its special relationship with God. But on the other hand, Israel, in its separation, was to be the means by which the other nations would learn of the living God. This nation of priests would lead others to a correct worship of the true God (Ps. 117).

As part of this treaty, God graciously instructed the Israelites on how they should live (ch. 20). As a people who had a relationship with the living God, the Israelites had to act a certain way—God's way. The Law was benevolent instruction from God Himself. It was God's direction, like an outstretched hand pointing out the way one should take on the road of life. The Israelites were in a most enviable position. God had demonstrated His love for them by saving them. He had shown His faithfulness to His promises to their parents, Abraham and Sarah. He had formalized His relationship with them in a treaty and promised to make them His special people. Finally He even gave them instructions for how to live. They were at peace with their Creator.

As part of the Mosaic covenant, God instructed the Israelites on how they should live.

- 20:2 I am the LORD your God: First, the Great King identified Himself by speaking His name (see 3:14, 15). who brought you out: Then, God reminded the Israelites of His gracious actions on their behalf (see chs. 12–15). In ancient treaties, a king would describe the history of relations between his kingdom and the one being contracted. In this treaty between the Lord and the Israelites, God described His gracious deliverance of Israelites from cruel slavery.
- 20:3 no other gods: God was not to be viewed by Israel as one God among many nor as the best of the gods. He was and is the only living God. He and He alone was to be worshiped, obeyed, and adored by the Israelites.
- 20:4 not make . . . a carved image: Peoples in the ancient world produced many kinds of idols, images, and other substitutes for God. Israel was forbidden to do this from the beginning. They could not make anything that would detract from the exclusive worship of the living God. However, the prohibition of fashioning images was not an injunction against every kind of art.
- 20:5 The phrase bow down . . . nor serve form a pair of Hebrew words that describes one idea: any form of worship to another god. God is a jealous God: In other words, He has a zeal for the truth that He alone is God, and He is jealous of any rivals. The Hebrew verb translated visiting can mean coming in an act of mercy (as in Ruth 1:6) or coming in divine judgment (as here). third and fourth: Idolatry would bring judgment that would affect the idolaters' descendants.
- 20:6 The Lord's mercy would extend even more to the descendants of righteous people. The contrasting of the phrases "third and fourth" (v. 5) with thousands demonstrates that God's mercy is greater than His wrath. The lingering effects of righteousness will last far longer than the lingering effects of wickedness.
- 20:7 The third commandment concerns the sanctity of God's name (see 3:14, 15). The revelation of God's name, Yahweh, entailed some risk. If it was broadcast among the people there was more likelihood that people would not hold it in reverence. Use of God's name in vain involved: (1) trivializing His name by regarding it as insignificant; (2) trying to use it to advance evil purposes by coaxing God to violate His character and purposes (one of the ways priests of false religions often used the names of their false gods); and even (3) using it in worship thoughtlessly.
- 20:8–11 The fourth commandment, remember the Sabbath day, was the special sign of the covenant with Israel at Mt. Sinai (see 31:12–18). With this command, God set Israel apart from its neighbors. Other peoples had their own various patterns of work and rest, but Israel was to set aside one day in seven for rest. The word Sabbath means "rest." The day was kept holy by ceasing all labor on that day. The Sabbath was specifically the seventh day, Saturday. It was patterned after the seventh day of rest for God following the six days of creation. During the Sabbath, the Israelites worshiped God and recalled His deliverance of them from slavery (see Deut. 5:15). The observance of the Sabbath included even foreign guests.
- 20:12 Honor your father and your mother: The term honor means "to treat with significance." It is the opposite of in vain (v. 7). Care of one's elderly parents was a basic element of social responsibility and godly piety in Israel. Here it is tied directly to how a person would fare in the land. People who were faithless to God in disregarding their parents would not last long in the new Promised Land.

- 20:13 The sixth to ninth commandments were designed to build a cohesive society in ancient Israel. Each was based on the value that God placed on people. Each of these commands was reaffirmed in the NT. The sixth commandment, you shall not murder, did not forbid all taking of life, for the Law itself included provisions for capital punishment (21:15–17, 23) as well as warfare (17:8–16). The deliberate murder of another person (outside the legitimate provisions of capital punishment or war) flagrantly violated the sanctity of life. This included murder committed by officers of the state (see the story of Naboth, 1 Kin. 21).
- 20:14 The seventh commandment concerned adultery. God regarded the sanctity of marriage as a sacred trust similar to the sanctity of life (v. 13). The marriage relationship was a symbol of faithfulness.
- 20:15 The eighth commandment protected the sanctity of property by prohibiting theft.
- 20:16 The ninth commandment prohibited bearing false witness. First, this command protected the reputation of people from libel by others. Second, this command established the ancient Israelite system of justice on a firm foundation. In ancient Israelite law, the judging of a person's guilt or innocence was based on testimony by faithful witnesses (see Deut. 17:6). False witnesses would undermine justice.
- 20:17 Covet means "to have a strong desire for." Coveting was not merely an appreciation of something from a distance, but an uncontrolled, inordinate, selfish desire. This tenth command governed an internal matter: the sin of coveting occurred in the mind. This demonstrated that God intended the Israelites not only to avoid the actions named in the previous commands, but also to turn away from the evil thoughts that led to those actions.
- 20:20 The response of Moses in this verse forms one of the most significant concepts in the first five books of the Bible. Note the interchange between the words do not fear and His fear. Moses told the people to stop being afraid; God was not going to hurt them. Yet they were very much afraid of the Lord (see 19:16; compare also 20:18, 19). God did not want His people to live in terror of Him, as though He were an irrational, uncontrolled, violent force ready to be unleashed on innocent people without provocation. Rather, God wanted His people to respect the obvious hazards of wanton sin. Appropriate fear of God in this sense would make them circumspect, reverent, obedient, and worshipful, so that they might not sin.
- 20:21 God remained in thick darkness—a symbol of His elusive presence (see Ps. 97:2). Only Moses could come near.
- 20:24 Israel was forbidden to make any altar more elaborate than an altar of earth. These individual altars would be used only until the selection of the central place for the worship of God (later in Jerusalem, see Deut. 12). See Ex. 24:4 for an example of an altar built by Moses at Mt. Sinai. See also 1 Kin. 18:31, 32 for an altar built by Elijah on Mt. Carmel. Where I record My name can mean "where I cause My name to be remembered."
- 20:26 your nakedness: The worship of the gods of Canaan involved sexually perverse acts. Nothing obscene or unseemly was permitted in the pure worship of the living God.
- 21:1 The word translated here the judgments is one of several Hebrew words that describe the Law (the Torah). This word describes God's response to a specific action, something like an umpire's call. Laws that appear in this section are responses to specific cases among the Israelites. Often the people would present critical or difficult disputes to Moses (see ch. 18). When Moses had to render a decision on an issue that he was not sure about, he would ask the Lord. The decisions that he gave became known as case law or casuistic law. Such laws differed from the Ten Commandments (20:1–17), known as apodictic law. The Ten Commandments were general laws not based on specific cases. It is believed by some that among the nations of the ancient world, only Israel had both casuistic and apodictic law.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

The Code of Hammurabi

An ancient law code named after a king who ruled Babylonia from about 1792 to 1750 B.C. These laws are similar to the Law as revealed to Moses in the first five books of the OT. The Code of Hammurabi was discovered in 1901–1902 by the archaeologist V. Scheil at Susa, an early city of the ancient Babylonians. It was written on a seven-foot-high stone monument (called a stèle) with the upper part picturing Hammurabi receiving a scepter and a ring, symbols of justice and order, from Shamash, the Babylonian sun-god and divine lawgiver. The rest of the monument contains the code. Hammurabi's law dates from about 300 years after Abraham and some 300 years before the events described in the Books of Exodus, Leviticus, and Deuteronomy. This law code was written for a complex urban culture, in contrast to the simple agricultural culture of Palestine.

- 21:2 if you buy a Hebrew servant: Indebtedness or other crises might force a person to be sold into slavery. But what was to be done if that slave were a member of the Hebrew community? Moses ruled that the period of enslavement was not to exceed six years, and in the seventh he shall go out free. Perpetual slavery of Hebrew men and women was prohibited.
- 21:2–5 Other rulings followed: (1) A slave who was married at the time of his enslavement would keep his wife. (2) If the marriage took place during the period of slavery, the wife and children belonged to the master.
- 21:6 If the slave being freed did not wish to leave his family behind, he was allowed to make a commitment of lifelong servitude. The slave would be taken before judges, where he would be given the opportunity to declare his intentions. pierce his ear: A sign of voluntary, lifelong servitude.
- 21:7–11 Women also endured the hardship of slavery. In ancient times, a family might be reduced to such a desperate state that they would sell a daughter into bondage. The law in this section served to protect the purchased bride. If she were not acceptable to her new master, he would let her be redeemed, that is, her freedom might be purchased by another. In no case was she to be sold to a foreign people. If she were purchased as a bride for a man's son, she was to be treated as one would treat a daughter. If the man took another wife later, he was to continue to treat the purchased bride with respect. Her food, her clothing, and her marriage rights would continue. A husband who refused these necessities was to let the woman go out free.
- 21:12 This verse lays out the basic circumstances for capital punishment. In ancient Israel, as in our own day, cases often had mitigating circumstances that might weigh against a death penalty. Complicating the matter was the common practice of family retribution. A family who had suffered death or injury believed they had just cause to exact a penalty from the offender. These laws were meant to place limits on the penalties that might be carried out.
- 21:13 A person who accidentally murdered another could escape punishment by fleeing to a city of refuge (see Num. 35:9–34). God delivered him: A phrase indicating that the death was accidental.
- 21:14, 15 acts with premeditation: The Hebrew word means “to boil up” or “to act with presumption.” See 18:11 for the only other use of this verb in Exodus. Deliberate acts of murder, including the particularly heinous act of killing one's parents, were punishable by death.
- 21:17 curses: Breaking the fifth commandment (see 20:12) in this harsh manner was also a capital offense.
- 21:18, 19 This ruling allowed the victim of a fight to be compensated for lost time and treatment of injury. Like other such laws, it is likely that a particular case resulted in this judgment.
- 21:20, 21 These provisions guarded somewhat against the abuse of slaves. They did not endorse the practice of slavery.
- 21:22, 23 Defenders of abortion have sometimes cited this verse to support the idea that life in the womb is something less than a person. No matter how it is translated, this verse contains nothing that would support the modern practice of abortion on demand. She gives birth prematurely is one possible translation of the Hebrew. If this is a correct rendering, the subsequent “harm” would be harm to the baby (or perhaps to the mother and to the baby). More probably the Hebrew means that the woman suffers a miscarriage. no harm follows: If the woman did not die from the blow, then the offender would be fined for the loss of her child. If, however, she were to die, then the penalty was life for life.

21:23–25 Here we encounter the best-known statement of lex talionis (“law of retaliation”). Many ancient cultures allowed punishments greatly out of proportion to the offense. In Israel, a judgment corresponded to the nature of the injury. The idea is no more than eye for eye, etc.

21:26, 27 In this instance, the verb strike means to cause injury. A master who inflicted harm on his slaves could be compelled to set them free.

21:28–32 The judgments concerning the ox have a modern ring to them. An ox that caused human death was to be destroyed, but the owner suffered no further punishment. If, however, the ox had a history of injuring others and subsequently killed a free person, the owner could be put to death as well. In other cases, a heavy fine might be imposed but the owner’s life spared. A shekel was about two-fifths of an ounce. Thirty shekels of silver was likely a sizable sum at that time.

21:33, 34 An unattended pit that caused the death of an animal would require restitution to the animal’s owner because animals were the livelihood of their owners.

22:1–4 Just as stealing a horse in the days of the American frontier was sometimes punished by hanging (because of the great loss suffered by the person affected by that theft), so the stealing of an ox or a sheep carried heavy penalties. The restitution was usually greater than the value of the stolen animal. the sun has risen on him: To strike the thief after the act would be considered inappropriate use of force. The thief who could not offer restitution was to be sold into slavery.

22:10–13 In some cases of suspected mismanagement, an oath of the LORD would be an acceptable testimony of innocence. In other cases, restitution was demanded, unless it might be proven that the loss was due to circumstances beyond one’s reasonable control.

22:16, 17 The violation of a young woman was regarded as a serious affront. The payment of the bride price also meant that the one who had enticed her had to marry her (with the father’s permission). The steep fine was meant to discourage young men from reckless behavior.

22:18, 20 The Bible does not record any executions of sorcerers or sorceresses, but it does recount the deadly consequences of false worship (see ch. 32; Num. 25).

22:25–27 God also had a special concern for poor in Israel. They were not to be subject to the abusive practices of moneylenders nor have goods they needed for survival taken as collateral. When he cries to Me: At the conclusion of this verse, the Lord declares why it is right and fitting for one in distress to call out to Him. He says I am gracious, an anticipation of the great revelation of His compassionate character to Moses in 34:6, 7.

22:28 revile God, nor curse a ruler: Since God is the ultimate sovereign, to curse a lesser ruler might encourage disrespect for God’s authority.

22:29, 30 Promptness was commanded both in offering the firstfruits of the field and in the presentation of one’s sons to the Lord. The sons were to be redeemed (see 13:11–16) on the eighth day. This verse reminded the Israelites that all they had was a gift from the Lord.

22:31 holy: Israel was to be set apart from other nations (see 19:5, 6). Meat torn by beasts was not to be eaten, presumably because the blood had not been drained from it.

23:1 false report: Malicious talk is everywhere condemned in Scripture (see James 3:1–12).

23:3 partiality to a poor man: God’s support of the poor (see 22:25–27) did not overrule His justice. Here God anticipated that some would use poverty as an excuse for greedy, even criminal activity.

23:4, 5 The enemy in this context would be another member of the Hebrew community.

23:10–12 In addition to the weekly Sabbath (see 20:8–11; 31:12–18), Israel was also to practice a Sabbath year after arriving in the land (see also Lev. 25:1–7). let it rest and lie fallow: Letting the land rest allowed the poor to glean any produce that might grow during the fallow year. It also gave the land time to rejuvenate for greater productivity in subsequent years. Of course, the vineyard and olive grove would continue to produce, but the owners were not to harvest the fruit. The year of rest was also an act of faith, for the Israelites would have to trust God to meet their needs.

23:16 The Feast of Harvest is also called the Feast of Weeks (34:22). The Feast of Ingathering is also called the Feast of Tabernacles or Sukkoth (34:22; Lev. 23).

23:17 Lord GOD: Here two names for God, Adonai, translated as Lord, and Yahweh, translated as GOD, are used together. This expression emphasizes God's sovereignty.

Lord GOD

(Heb. 'adonay YHWH) (23:17; Gen. 24:7) Strong's #113; #3068

This rare description of God links the title 'adonay, meaning “Lord” or “Master,” with God’s personal name Yahweh. The title Lord speaks of God’s unlimited power and authority, just as a master had unlimited power over a slave. On the other hand, God’s personal name Yahweh invokes His merciful and righteous character. Yahweh is spelled with four consonants in Hebrew. The Jews do not pronounce this sacred name and instead read 'adonay wherever the name occurs in the Scriptures. Its precise meaning and pronunciation is unknown. Most probably the name Yahweh is derived from the Hebrew verb for “to be,” and means “I AM WHO I AM” (3:14).

23:19 You shall not boil a young goat in its mother’s milk is a command that forbade the Israelites to imitate the cruel sacrifices of their pagan neighbors.

23:20–22 an Angel: In v. 23, this being is described as “My Angel,” an equivalent to the expression “the Angel of the LORD.” The Hebrew word translated angel can mean a supernatural angel or a human messenger (the prophet Malachi’s name means “My Messenger”). to keep you . . . to bring you: The Angel led and protected the Israelites just as the pillar of cloud did (see 13:21, 22; 14:19, 20, 24; 16:10; 19:9, 16; 24:15–18; 33:9–11; 34:5; 40:34–38). My name is in Him: This is perhaps the strongest identification of the Angel with God. His voice . . . I speak: The interplay of these words also identifies the Angel with God.

23:24 The Canaanite gods, including Baal and his consorts, Anat and Asherah, were to be utterly destroyed. The sacred pillars, symbols of the overt sexuality of the Canaanite cult, were also to be destroyed.

23:26 miscarriage . . . be barren: God’s promises to make the Israelites fertile reminded the Israelites that there was no need to turn to the fertility cult that was so pervasive in Canaan.

23:29–31 not drive . . . in one year: This is the first description of God’s plan for the gradual conquest of Canaan. your bounds: These boundaries concur with the original promise given to Abraham (Gen. 15:18–21). In biblical times these boundaries were never quite achieved.

23:32, 33 The word covenant here describes a binding agreement that recognizes the rights of each party. Israel was forbidden to make such treaties lest they be corrupted by the perverse customs of their neighbors. their gods: Principally, Baal and other fertility gods.

24:1 Come up to the LORD speaks of God’s grace and His holiness. God could be approached only on His terms. That any were invited to come near was because of His marvelous grace. Aaron and his sons Nadab and Abihu were allowed to join Moses, along with seventy of the elders. The later demise of Nadab and Abihu (see Lev. 10:1, 2) was tragic, given their esteemed privilege before the Lord. The number 70 is applied for the first time to the number of elders Moses had appointed following his discussion with Jethro (18:24–27; 24:9; Num. 11:16, 24, 25). Worship from afar was the command given to all except Moses. Here, worship meant literally “to bow down to the earth.”

24:4 Moses wrote: Some scholars of the Pentateuch believe that Israel’s leaders invented or exaggerated the life of Moses to heroic proportions to unify the nation, and that the laws and stories found in Exodus were not written until centuries after his death. Yet Scripture attests that Moses wrote down everything that he had heard from the Lord (see also 17:14; 34:27, 28; Num. 33:2). The pillars here should not be confused with the sacred pillars of the Canaanite gods (see 23:24). Twelve tribes: The whole nation was to be represented in worship.

24:5 Burnt offerings were incinerated in their entirety on the altar (see Lev. 1). Peace offerings were the prelude to a great, celebratory meal before the Lord (see Lev. 3).

24:6 The sprinkling of blood on the altar must have been an awe-inspiring ceremony. The blood of the OT sacrifice anticipated, of course, the death of the Lord Jesus Christ. The sacrifice of bulls and goats was an imperfect system that would be superseded by Christ's work (see 12:7; Rom. 3:23–26; Heb. 10:4, 10).

24:7 The Book of the Covenant was likely the instructions and judgments of 20:22–23:33 that had been recorded by Moses (see 24:3, 4). Although the book (more precisely, the scroll) existed in written form, it was read to the people. Written documents were not widely available, and literacy was restricted to a few. Thus the Law was communicated orally. we will do: For the second time (see v. 3), the people made a solemn oath of obedience to the Lord.

24:8 The sprinkling of blood on the people brought them into a covenant with the Lord. As their houses had been “under the blood” at the time of the Passover in Egypt (ch. 12), now the people themselves were under the blood of the covenant of the Lord. This resembles our own relationship to God, made possible by the blood of the Lamb of God (1 Pet. 1:2).

24:9–11 The people mentioned in v. 1 saw the God of Israel. The mention of His feet and His hand indicates that they saw a manifestation of God in some human form. Perhaps this was an appearance of Jesus before His Incarnation (see 23:20). The lack of details reminds us that any attempt to describe the glory of God is always inadequate. Nobles are the elders of vv. 1, 9. This passage could imply that the Lord did indeed lay His hand on Moses (see vv. 12–18). So they saw God: The repetition of this indescribable reality is for emphasis. and they ate and drank: The festive covenant meal, likely including meat from the peace offerings as well as bread and wine, was a grand celebration of the presence of the living God. It was also a prophetic glimpse of the supper of the Lord Jesus and His disciples, in which He transformed the ancient symbols of deliverance from Egypt (bread and wine) into the new symbols of His impending death and resurrection (see Matt. 26:17–30).

24:12 Come up to me: Only Moses could draw near to God at that time. Here also is the first mention of the tablets of stone on which the Lord had written His law and commandments. These are sometimes pictured with the first four commandments (concerning one's relationship to God) written on one tablet and the last six (concerning one's responsibility before others) written on the other tablet. It is more likely, however, that all ten commandments appeared on each tablet. Middle Eastern treaties were typically written in duplicate. One copy was placed in the temple of the god of each of the contracting parties. Therefore the gods of both peoples witnessed the agreement. But in this case, both copies were placed before the only living God.

24:13, 14 Joshua was first mentioned during Israel's battle with Amalek (17:9–14; see also 32:17; 33:11). for us: The plural wording of these verses suggests that Joshua accompanied Moses at least partway up Mt. Sinai. Perhaps Joshua aided Moses during the strenuous ascent up the mountain but was not allowed to come into the presence of the Lord with Moses (see vv. 15, 18). Joshua was not with the people during this time, but he was able to hear their boisterous, debased worship of the golden calf and report that startling news to Moses. Hur: See 17:10.

24:15, 16 Moses then witnessed the appearance of the Lord in the midst of a cloud (see 19:9). The glory of the LORD is closely associated with the cloud, as in 33:9. It is possible that the seventh day of waiting was also the seventh day of the week, the Sabbath.

24:17, 18 The sight of the glory of the LORD again is not described for us. All that the people could see was something like a consuming fire. Moses had seen such a fire in the burning bush (see 3:2).

The significance of the forty days and forty nights is not specified in Scripture. However, based on the response of the people (see 32:1), it was considered to be a very long period of time.

25:2 bring Me . . . willingly: God does not need the gifts of His people, but He receives their gifts as a part of their true worship of Him. Yet in this passage God asks His people for specific, voluntary gifts. This is because He wanted gifts that were given freely and gladly, not under compulsion. Also, he specified the gifts so that Moses could accomplish the plan that God was about to present to him.

25:3–7 Bronze was commonly used in this period. Widespread use of iron was still centuries away. The list contains items and materials of significant value. The people gave these valuables to the Lord to express their desire to worship Him in spirit and in truth.

25:8 Sanctuary means “holy place.” As the ground had become holy because of the presence of God in the burning bush (see 3:5) so the sanctuary would be holy because of the presence of God that overshadowed the structure and dwelled in its symbols. God, whose true dwelling place is beyond the heavens, desired a structure that would represent His holy presence among His people. That I may dwell is related to the Hebrew verb from which we derive the word Shekinah, which designates the radiance, glory, and presence of God dwelling among His people.

25:9 The pattern suggests that there is a heavenly reality that the earthly tabernacle was designed to resemble (see also v. 40; 26:30; 27:8; Acts 7:44; Heb. 8:5).

25:10 The most important religious symbol associated with the tabernacle was the holy ark or box. In contrast to the idolatry of Israel’s neighbors, the shrine of the living God had no likeness or idol of any sort (see Ex. 20:2–6). The highly decorated, beautifully fashioned ark kept the charter of the nation’s relationship with God—the two stone tablets of the Ten Commandments—along with other symbols of God’s mercy to them. Acacia wood was durable and resistant to disease and insects, making it the most suitable material for constructing the ark. The cubit was a measurement taken from the length of a man’s arm from elbow to extended middle finger. The measurement could vary, but the commonly accepted estimate for the cubit is 18 inches. Therefore, the ark was about four feet long and two and one quarter feet wide and high.

25:11–15 The gold would have made the box resplendent and costly. In addition to the gold used to overlay the ark, within and without, a decorative molding of gold adorned the box. The rings of gold allowed the ark to be carried on poles. It was not to be picked up by hand or carted about (see 2 Sam. 6).

25:16 The Testimony was the two tablets of the Ten Commandments.

25:17 Mercy seat is a familiar English translation of a Hebrew noun derived from the verb meaning “atone for,” “to cover over,” or “to make propitiation.” The noun means “the place of propitiation.” The mercy seat was the lid for the ark as well as the base on which the cherubim were to be placed. In the old covenant, the mercy seat was a place of propitiation for sin, resulting in peace with God. For ancient Israelites, the mercy seat had a meaning similar to that of the Cross for Christians.

25:18–20 two cherubim: The only likenesses permitted in the holy worship of the Lord were these beautiful artistic representations of mysterious, angelic beings. The cherub was likely a composite creature with the body of a lion, a human-like face, and the wings of a great bird. Other ancient cultures had similar devices. Embroidered patterns of cherubim were also woven into the tapestry of the curtains of the tabernacle (see 26:1). The only cherubim’s wings stretched out and faced inward, shading the mercy seat. Their faces gazed on the mercy seat itself.

25:22 The Lord promised Moses that He would meet with him at the mercy seat. The verb carries a specific meaning, “to meet at an appointed place.” The Lord would also meet with Moses at the tent of meeting (see Ex. 29:42, 43; 30:36). Some have thought that the mercy seat and the cherubim were something of a throne for the Lord, with the extended wings of the cherubs forming an exquisite seat for Him, or perhaps a footstool (1 Chr. 28:2).

25:23 The table was used to display 12 loaves of bread in the presence of the Lord. It was approximately three feet long, 18 inches wide, and 27 inches high.

- 25:24, 25 Like the ark, the table was to be overlaid with gold and was to have a decorative molding of gold (see v. 11). The frame was a decorative element that kept objects on the table from being disturbed.
- 25:26–28 The table was to have rings and poles so that it could be transported properly. The poles protected the holy object from being touched by human hands.
- 25:29 pure gold: All of the implements for making bread were also to be costly and wonderfully designed to physically represent their holiness. They were “set apart” to God.
- 25:30 The showbread itself is described more fully in Lev. 24:5–9. Twelve loaves representing the twelve tribes were placed in two rows with six loaves in each row. It was called showbread because it was placed symbolically before the “face” of God.
- 25:31 Perhaps the loveliest ornament in the tabernacle was the menorah, the golden lampstand. Lamps in biblical times were ordinarily oven-baked clay bowls that contained olive oil. A pinched edge or groove held the wick. These seven lamps, fashioned with much greater care and precision, were to be placed on a magnificent lampstand. Chapter 37 describes how the artisans made the lampstand (37:17–24). of one piece: All of the elements of the lampstand were to be hammered out of one solid piece of gold, requiring skill, knowledge of metalworking, and great artistry.
- 25:32 One of the seven lamps was to be placed in the center, flanked by three branches on either side. This became the basic design for the menorah of later Judaism. The symbolism of the number seven goes back to the creation account of Gen. 1 and represents completion.
- 25:33–36 The bowls, branches, and knobs were highly decorative. The lamp illuminated the interior of the Holy Place, but it also was a work of art in its own right, showing God’s pleasure in artistry.
- 25:37 light in front: The wicks would all be on the same side of the lampstand so that the light would be shed principally in one direction. The lights would burn even when no priest was present.
- 25:38 The implements used in servicing the lamps were also to be made of pure gold.
- 25:39 A talent weighed about 75 pounds. It is very difficult to estimate the monetary value of the lampstand, since there were no coins or currency at this time. We can assume it was enormously valuable and exquisitely beautiful.
- 25:40 the pattern: Moses was not only told how to make the implements. He actually “saw” in some manner on Sinai a heavenly pattern for them (see v. 9; see also 26:30; 27:8; Acts 7:44; Heb. 8:5).

Tabernacle Furnishings

The symbolism of God’s redemptive covenant was preserved in the tabernacle, making each element an object lesson for the worshiper. Likely reconstructions of the furnishings are based on the detailed descriptions and precise measurements recorded in Exodus 25–40. (The bronze basin is not shown here.)

(1) ARK OF THE COVENANT (TESTIMONY)

The ark of the covenant compares with the roughly contemporary shrine and funerary furniture of Tutankhamun (c. 1300 B.C.), which, along with the Nimrud and Samaria ivories from a later period, have been used to guide the graphic interpretation of the text. Both sources show the conventional way of depicting extreme reverence, with facing winged guardians shielding a sacred place.

(2) INCENSE ALTAR

(3) LAMPSTAND

The traditional form of the lampstand is not attested archaeologically until much later.

(4) TABLE OF SHOWBREAD

The table holding the showbread was made of wood overlaid with thin sheets of gold. All of the objects were portable and were fitted with rings and carrying poles, practices typical of Egyptian ritual processions as early as the Old Kingdom period (c. 2715–2640 B.C.).

(5) BRONZE ALTAR

The altar of burnt offering was made of wood overlaid with bronze. The size, five cubits square and three cubits high, matches that of an altar found at Arad from the time of Solomon.

26:1 The English word tabernacle comes from the Latin tabernaculum, meaning “tent.” The Hebrew word means literally “dwelling place.” Sometimes it refers only to the tent. In other places, it means the tent with the surrounding courtyard. The same Hebrew word is used for the later shrine in Shiloh (Ps. 78:60) and for the worship shrines in Jerusalem before and after the building of the temple (see, for instance, Ps. 26:8; 46:4; 74:7). In Exodus, the description of the tabernacle begins with the inside, according to “God’s view,” so to speak, and moves to the outside. Thus the ten curtains are described first. These ten curtains were divided into two sets. The inner curtains were made of delicate fabric with brilliant colors and exquisite design. All of this was hidden from public view.

26:2, 3 Each curtain was about 42 feet long and six feet wide. The curtains were grouped in ten sections so they could be moved more easily.

The Tabernacle

The new religious observances taught by Moses in the wilderness centered on rituals connected with the tabernacle and amplified Israel’s sense of separateness, purity, and oneness under the lordship of Yahweh.

A few desert shrines have been found in Sinai (notably at Serabit el-Khadem) and at Timnah in the Negev. They show marked Egyptian influence.

Specific cultural antecedents to portable shrines carried on poles and covered with thin sheets of gold can be found in ancient Egypt as early as the Old Kingdom (2800–2250 B.C.), but they were especially prominent in the Eighteenth and Nineteenth Dynasties (1570–1180). The best examples come from the fabulous tomb of Tutankhamun, c. 1300 B.C.

Comparisons of construction details in the text of Ex. 25–40 with the frames, shrines, poles, sheathing, draped fabric covers, gilt rosettes, and winged protective figures from the shrine of Tutankhamun are instructive. The period, the Late Bronze Age, is equivalent in all dating systems to the era of Moses and the Exodus.

26:4–6 Every detail of the curtains was specified, including directions for making the loops and clasps. With these the curtains were linked together to form the tent.

26:7 curtains of goats' hair: The coarse fabric of the outer curtains protected the delicate fabrics within from the elements. Goats' hair was a rich, black fabric highly prized in the ancient world.

Eleven curtains: The outer curtains had to be larger than the inner curtains to assure complete coverage (see vv. 1, 2). The extra outer curtain was used over the front of the tent (see v. 9).

26:15–25 Some have pictured the boards described in this section as made of solid wood. But this would have obscured completely the fabrics, particularly the inner fabric of fine linen that was designed for the “pleasure of the Lord.” For this reason a second view seems preferable: that the sections were open frames, through which the fabric of the inner covering would be clearly visible.

26:16–19 The boards were designed to be put together and taken apart easily, as befits a portable tent. As in the case of the design for the fabric, precise directions were given for making of the boards, their tenons (or tabs), and their sockets. Each board was about 15 feet long and two and a half feet wide. Twenty boards were on the north side, 20 on the south, and six on the west. Corner posts stabilized the structure. The sockets of silver were costly and beautiful but functional. They were made from silver that was donated as redemption money by males over the age of 20 (see 38:25–28).

26:26–30 The bars (or crossbars) were placed at right angles to the upright boards (vv. 15–25) to stabilize the lattice-work structure. Five bars . . . the middle bar: On each of the three paneled sides of the tabernacle (north, south, and west), five bars were added to make the frame strong and rigid. The considerable weight of the fabrics and the prospect of inclement weather necessitated additional supports.

26:29 The fine acacia wood used to form the boards and bars also was overlaid with gold. This step added considerable weight to the structure, yet increased its beauty and intrinsic worth.

26:30 according to its pattern: Again, Moses was reminded of the pattern he had seen (see 25:9, 40; 27:8; Acts 7:44; Heb. 8:5).

26:31–35 The veil separated the holy place from the Most Holy Place. (See the record of the completion of this veil in 36:35, 36.) Only the ark would stay in the Most Holy Place.

26:31–33 Perhaps the most beautiful and intricate of all the fabrics in the tabernacle, the veil was to hang from pillars by clasps, dividing the chamber into two separate rooms. The larger room would be called the holy place and the smaller room the Most Holy Place. The Hebrew expression can also be translated “the Holiest Place” or “the Holy of Holies” (compare Heb. 9:2, 3 for “the Holiest of All”).

26:34, 35 The ark with its mercy seat was the only object that would stay in the Most Holy Place.

The lampstand and the table were to be in the holy place. Each object was purposely placed to reflect the pattern, order, and design given to Moses (v. 30).

27:1 The altar was about seven and a half feet square, with a height of four and a half feet. The cubit was approximately 18 inches.

altar

(Heb. mizbeach) (27:1; 30:1) Strong's #4196

This word depicts a “place of slaughtering” and is derived from the verb meaning “to slaughter for sacrifice” (20:24; Deut. 16:2). Altars were the site of sacrificial worship (Gen. 8:20) and were made of earth (20:24), stones (Josh 8:31; Judg 13:19), or even bronze (38:1–7). The ritual slaughtering of animals to the Lord was central to Hebrew worship at the temple (Lev. 1:5). But throughout Scripture, the Lord warned that righteousness, justice, and a humble heart submitted to Him were more important than bringing sacrificial gifts to the altar (Ps. 51:17; Prov. 21:3; Matt. 5:23, 24). The sacrifices on the altar in the temple were a sign that God had forgiven the Israelites’ sins. That sign pointed to the ultimate sacrifice: the sacrifice of His Son on the Cross for the sins of humanity (Heb. 9:11–15; 13:10–13).

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 27:2 The horns were projections on each corner of the square altar. They could have been used to secure the sacrificial animal to the altar. They were also sprinkled with blood from the sacrifices (see 29:12).
- 27:3–5 Various implements were made of bronze, including the grate, which was to be suspended above the altar. The grate would allow the ashes to drop below.
- 27:8 A hollow altar would allow the ashes to fall down through its center. It is possible that the altar was partially filled with dirt to protect it from the intense heat of the sacrificial fires.
- 27:9–18 The courtyard of the tabernacle separated the ceremonies of worship from common areas. It was arranged to keep people and stray animals from wandering into the tabernacle. Entering the tent could only be a deliberate act. The construction of the court is described in 38:9–20.
- 27:19 utensils: These numerous tools and utensils were used only for the tabernacle. “Common” tools could not be used for holy tasks. The pegs made of bronze were used for ropes to hold the supporting pillars of the courtyard. Everything was designed for portability.
- 27:20 The fuel for the lamps, pure oil of pressed olives (see also Lev. 24:1–4), burned with little smoke. The purity of the oil was indicative of the standard God demanded for all sacrifices offered to Him.
- 27:21 shall tend it: The lamp was never to go out. This command was a perpetual statute throughout the period of the Aaronic priesthood. The priests were also to burn the sweet incense on the altar of incense (see 30:7, 8).
- 28:1 Aaron and Aaron’s sons: Aaron is first mentioned when he is reunited with his brother Moses after Moses’ 40-year exile in Midian (4:14, 27–31). Their family history and early experience is given in 6:14–7:7. minister to Me as priest: The ministry of the priests was for the sake of the people, but its principal focus was toward the Lord. As the holy angels are God’s attending spirits, so the holy priests are His attending priests.
- 28:2 The holy garments were made holy by their consecration to God’s service, as the materials of the tabernacle had been. for glory and for beauty: It is likely that the magnificent clothing of the priests represented the concept of imputed righteousness before the Lord (see Zech. 3:1–5).

28:3 gifted artisans: This is the first description of the craftsmen who would fashion the items for tabernacle worship. The expression literally means those “who are wise at heart” (in 35:25, the same expression is used of skillful women who did the weaving). These people possessed divinely given skills of craftsmanship. the spirit of wisdom: God added to this skill a special endowment of the Spirit to aid their work. The study of the “gifts of the Spirit” (see Rom. 12:3–8; 1 Cor. 12:1–11) can begin with this record of the spiritually guided artisans.

28:4 The garments of the priest are specified: ephod (vv. 5–14), breastplate (vv. 15–30), robe (vv. 31–35), tunic (v. 39), turban (vv. 36–38), sash (v. 39). Other garments were prepared for Aaron’s sons (vv. 40–43).

28:5–14 The ephod has been described variously as a cape or a vest made of fine linen with brilliant colors. Its two main sections covered the chest and back, with seams at the shoulders and a band at the waist. The shoulders were emblazoned with beautiful memorial stones.

28:9–12 The two onyx stones, engraved with the names of the tribes of Israel, were set in gold. They symbolized the intercessory work of the priest. He was to represent the people before the Lord. The names of the tribes were literally written on his shoulders, so that the priest would bear their names before the LORD on his two shoulders as a memorial.

28:15 The breastplate was a small pouch that hung from the neck of the priest. It was decorated with twelve stones, one for each of the tribes of Israel. Within the pouch were the Urim and Thummim (see 28:30). The breastplate of judgment was used by the priest in seeking judgment—that is, a decision from the Lord on an issue presented for divine discernment. The breastplate was made of the same fabric as the ephod, to which it would be securely tied.

28:16 a square: It measured nine inches on each side. The span was determined as the length from the tip of the thumb to the tip of the small finger on an outstretched hand.

28:17–21 Four rows of precious and semiprecious stones were fastened to the breastplate. These twelve stones bore the names of the twelve tribes. This was another symbol of the priest’s representation of the people before the Lord. Not all of the stones can be identified precisely today.

28:29 Over his heart was a touching phrase that reminded the priest of his solemn responsibility. He represented the nation before the living God. Any lesser devotion merited divine judgment (see the sad fate of Aaron’s sons, Nadab and Abihu, at Lev. 10:1, 2).

28:30 The breastplate held the mysterious stones called the Urim and the Thummim. These transliterated Hebrew words mean “Lights” and “Perfections” (both superlative plurals). Together their names may mean “perfect knowledge” or a similar idea. It is not known how Aaron and his successors used these stones (if indeed they were stones). We do know that God instructed his priests in many ways. It is possible that these stones were meant to assure the priest that God would reveal His true judgment to him. Hence, the expression “to consult with the Urim and the Thummim” might mean presenting a matter before the Lord with Urim and Thummim in the breastplate, a sign that the priest confidently expected the Lord to resolve the issue.

28:31, 32 The robe was a long, flowing garment made of blue. It may have been a seamless garment.

28:33–35 The pomegranates on the hem were decorative. The bells would tinkle as the priest moved about within the sacred places. This sound would assure those outside that the priest was interceding on their behalf.

Pomegranate

The Hebrew word for pomegranate is rimmon. Known in Palestine since earliest times (cf. Num. 13:23), the pomegranate grew wild in western Asia and northern Africa and was cultivated in Palestine. This beautiful rose-red fruit with its many seeds was a favorite among the Israelites. The abundance of seeds was symbolic of fertility and it was grown both for its tasty fruit and for its beauty in the garden. The juice of the pomegranate was highly prized (Song 8:2) and it was one of the fruits that grew in the Promised Land (Num. 13:23). This sweet-tasting fruit was used in many ways. Its juice was enjoyed as a cooling drink and as wine. Symbols of the fruit were embroidered as decorations around the bottom of the high priest's robe (Ex. 28:33, 34) and carved on the pillars of Solomon's Porch at the temple (1 Kin. 7:20).

The beautiful pomegranate was a favorite among the Israelites, and is still a common fruit grown in the Middle East.

28:36–38 The turban of the high priest was made of white linen on which was secured a gold plate engraved with the words HOLINESS TO THE LORD. The plate rested on the forehead of the priest. The meaning of the phrase bear the iniquity seems to indicate that the holy gifts of the people would be acceptable only when presented through mediations of a holy priest. These words anticipate the work of the Savior, who bore our iniquities in His own body (see 1 Pet. 2:24).

28:39 The record of the completion of these items is given in 39:27–29.

28:41 put them on . . . anoint . . . consecrate . . . sanctify: The rites of consecrating the priests for their holy work are detailed more fully in ch. 29, in 40:13–15, and in Lev. 8–10.

28:42 This command to wear trousers protected the modesty of the priests. Given the sexually preoccupied worship of Israel's neighbors, this provision was decidedly countercultural.

28:43 that they do not incur iniquity and die: It is difficult for us to grasp the gravity of the priests' responsibility as they ministered before the living God. They had to serve God with a pure heart, to represent the people without guile, and to worship without deviating from the commands of God.

To fail would invite judgment—even death. Sadly, priests did die because they failed to show respect for the holiness of God (Lev. 10:1, 2; 1 Sam. 4:17; 2 Sam. 6:7).

29:1 The Hebrew word translated hallow describes actions that would mark the priests as distinct, holy, or set aside for God’s purposes—as people who would approach Him in His service. The instruction to present animals without blemish reminds us that sacrifice was not an occasion to rid oneself of sick or defective livestock. Offering the best animals was an act of faith that expressed thanksgiving and confidence in God’s provision. Blameless too was the death of the Savior Jesus, who was without fault in every particular.

29:2 unleavened bread: As it was at Passover (12:8), the use of leaven was prohibited in this rite also. Leaven was allowed for everyday baking.

29:4 wash them: The bathing of the priests symbolized the necessity of cleanness before the Lord. Bathing was a rare luxury in the desert of Sinai.

29:7 The directions for mixing the anointing oil are given in 30:22–33. To pour it on his head was a lavish gesture, later celebrated by a psalmist (Ps. 133:2). and anoint him: As the priests of old were anointed for holy service, so would the Messiah (meaning “Anointed One”) be anointed for His great service of sacrifice to the living God.

29:8, 9 The sons were to be dressed after their father was. The verb translated consecrate literally means “to fill one’s hand.” A king was handed a rod as the symbol of his political power; so the hand of the priest was filled with spiritual power.

29:10, 11 The slaying of the bull would happen only after the priests had put their hands on its head. This gesture showed that the animal had been designated as their substitute. To kill the bull, the priests cut an artery in the bull’s neck to cause a quick death.

29:12 blood: The application of the blood to the horns of the altar may have been to make the display of blood more prominent (see 12:7). The operation was not a tidy one. The sacrifice of a large animal, in the open air with a hot sun overhead and flies buzzing around, was a formidable task. The rest of the blood was poured at the base of the altar.

29:13, 14 sin offering: The burning of the fat and the kidneys on the altar would have produced an acrid odor. Yet because sin was consumed, these sacrifices are described at times as “a sweet aroma” to the Lord (see 29:18). The rest of the animal was burned outside the camp, for it was unsuitable before the Lord (for more on the sin offering, see Lev. 4).

29:15–18 Burnt offering is a translation of a Hebrew term that can be rendered “that which goes up (in smoke).” Aaron and his sons needed to offer sacrifices for themselves as much as for their fellow Israelites (see Heb. 5:1–4). However, no sacrifices were needed for the Savior, Jesus; He alone came as the sinless priest.

29:19–28 One of the most obscure rites in the Book of Exodus is the use of the ram of consecration. The Hebrew expression can mean “the ram of the filling”; that is, the ram that results in the filling of the hands of the priests with their divine service (see v. 9). Much of this section remains somewhat mysterious to us, but we can sense the priests carefully preparing for the worship of the Holy God with this sacrifice.

29:19 the other ram: That is, the second of the two rams mentioned in v. 1 (compare the first ram, vv. 15–18).

29:20, 21 The blood that was daubed on the priests signified that they were entirely “under the blood” that atoned for sin (see 12:7). It is possible that the anointing of the ear represented the hearing of the Word of God, that the anointing of the thumb represented the accomplishment of the will of God, and that the anointing of the toe represented the journey of the walk with God. Not only were the persons of the priests to be sprinkled with blood and anointed with oil, but so were their garments. In this way, the beautiful clothing of the priests would be made holy or hallowed.

29:22–24 A wave offering was to be made of the fat of the ram and the unleavened bread (described first in v. 2). The elements would be held high and then waved back and forth before the altar. The offering made clear that everything was owed to God, but some was received back as God's gift. For more on the wave offering, see Lev. 7:30; 10:14.

29:25 After this symbolic act (vv. 22–24), the fat and the unleavened breads were burned as a burnt offering (for the same word, see v. 18). This is also called an offering made by fire.

29:26 The breast of the ram was waved as a symbol of giving and receiving, and was then kept by the priests as their portion to eat as a gift from the Lord.

29:27, 28 The word translated heave offering means “something held up (before the Lord).” Another translation of this word is “contribution.”

29:31–34 The priests were to eat the meat of the ram of the consecration (see vv. 19–28) in a meal of celebration, along with the bread (vv. 2, 23) that had not been burned. An outsider was not to eat this food, nor were any leftovers permitted. Anything not eaten as a part of the sacred feast had to be burned.

29:35–37 The rites of consecration lasted seven days. The repetition of these actions, day after day, dramatically emphasized the need for holiness and faithfulness in worship.

29:40, 41 One-tenth of an ephah was about two quarts; one-fourth of a hin was about one quart. The same offering was presented at twilight.

29:42, 43 The purpose of the tabernacle and its offering are reiterated. It was here that the Lord would meet with His people, speak with them, and display His glory.

29:44 consecrate: The same idea, to set apart for God's service, is expressed in v. 9 with the Hebrew idiom “to fill the hand.”

29:46 I am the LORD their God: Using His personal name, God declared to the Israelites that He was their God. He had redeemed them and delivered them in order that they might become His people and He in turn their God (see 15:2).

30:1, 2 This smaller altar was a stand used for burning the sweet-smelling incense. As with the ark of the covenant (25:10), the table of the showbread (25:23), and the altar of burnt offering (27:1), this altar was made of acacia wood (25:10). It was 18 inches square and three feet high.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Acacia

Two species of the acacia are found in Palestine: the Acacia nilotica and the Acacia seyal. These are quite similar. They grow 15–20 feet high, with large thorns and hard wood suitable for building. Both have yellow flowers and produce long pods with beans inside. God instructed the Israelites to build a tabernacle of acacia wood. The tree was probably growing in the region of the Sinai Peninsula, so it was familiar to the Israelites at that time. The Hebrews used acacia wood for boards, altars, pillars, tables, staves, and bars for the tabernacle (Ex. 25:5, 10, 13; 26:15, 26; 27:1; 30:1). Acacia trees grew along the Jordan Valley from the Sea of Galilee to the Dead Sea (Is. 41:19).

30:3 Like the larger altar, the smaller was overlaid with gold. The horns were a decorative copy of those on the altar of burnt offering (see 27:2).

30:4, 5 Rings and poles were used to carry the altar, signaling again the great respect that was demanded in the transportation of these holy furnishings.

30:6 The altar was situated within the holy place near the veil that divided it from the Most Holy Place. The mention of the ark of the Testimony reminds us of the most significant furnishing in the tabernacle.

30:7, 8 Aaron was directed to burn sweet incense each morning and at twilight, along with his tending of the lamps (27:20, 21). Why, we might ask, was the high priest charged with carrying out such a simple act? Burning incense actually was a privilege, for it was restricted to those who were allowed to approach God. The Hebrew expression for twilight may be rendered “between the two evenings.” Later rabbis sometimes defined twilight as the point when natural light was no longer enough to easily distinguish a black thread from a white thread.

30:9 Strange may mean “foreign” or perhaps “common” (that is, unsanctified) incense. No other kinds of offerings were to be made on this altar.

30:10 once a year: This Day of Atonement was later specified in Lev. 16. The “atoning” of objects such as this was a ritual cleansing to make these objects holy before the Lord. Since man was sinful, the things he came in contact with were associated with his sinfulness. Once a year, everything in the tabernacle that man touched had to be ceremonially cleansed. The phrase translated it is most holy is literally “holy of holies,” the same Hebrew construction used in 26:34. Here the phrase describes not the Most Holy Place, but the supreme holiness of the articles of worship before the Lord (see v. 29).

30:12, 13 The term ransom is related to the words for atonement and propitiation (see v. 10 and 29:36, 37). The idea is to pay a price for one’s life. The Israelites had to acknowledge that their lives were from God and governed by Him by giving Him an offering of money. A half-shekel was about one-fifth of an ounce (see 21:32; 38:26).

30:14–16 Every male was to provide a half-shekel ransom. The sum was not based on the worth or wealth of the person. The collection supported the Levites who cared for the tabernacle.

30:18 laver of bronze . . . its base: The shape of the laver is not specified, but it clearly had two parts, the laver itself and its base. Women provided the bronze mirrors that became the building materials for the laver (see 38:8).

washing

(Heb. rachats) (2:5; 30:18; Prov. 30:12) Strong's #7364

In the Bible, washing or bathing has important cultural and religious associations. The ancient custom of washing a guest's feet was an act of hospitality that lasted into the NT period (Gen. 18:4; John 13:5). Ritual washing was an important step in the purification of the priests for service in the tabernacle (40:12). Washing with water symbolized spiritual cleansing, the preparation necessary for entering God's presence (Ps. 26:6; 73:13). The OT prophets continued to use this imagery of washing and applied it symbolically to the act of repentance (Is. 1:16; Ezek. 16:4). In the NT, Paul describes redemption in Christ as "the washing of regeneration" (Titus 3:5).

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 30:19–21 wash their hands and their feet: The constant need for cleansing the priests' hands is understandable. But the feet of the priests would also be readily soiled because they wore sandals. The continual washing was symbolic of the need to be cleansed from sin regularly. Lest they die emphasizes the seriousness of maintaining the priests' holiness before God (see also 28:43).
- 30:22–25 The priests used the holy oil in rites of anointing (see 29:7). This costly and treasured mixture must have had an unforgettable, wonderful aroma. The holy anointing oil was declared holy because it was set aside for use only in religious rites specified by the law (vv. 32, 33). The perfumer, like his counterparts who worked with wood, fabric, and metal, was a highly skilled craftsman (v. 35).
- 30:26–29 Everything connected with divine worship had to be anointed with the special oils. In this way, the creations of the workmen became holy, set aside for special use in the worship of God.
- 30:30 Anointing initiated the priests into the privilege of God's service.
- 30:31–33 The oil was reserved exclusively for the consecration of the tabernacle and all its furnishings. Any other use would result in divine judgment. Cut off means put to death (see Gen. 17:14).
- 30:34–38 As in the case of the anointing oil (see vv. 22–25), the directions for making the incense are precise. The resulting mixture was a lavish, expensive, precious commodity.
- 30:36 before the Testimony: A portion of the fragrant incense were to be taken into the Most Holy Place as a holy symbol for the people before the Lord.
- 30:37, 38 No incense was to be made for personal use nor was it to be used for any other purpose than that which God commanded. It shall be to you holy for the LORD was a succinct reminder of the importance of reserving holy things for worshiping God.
- 31:2 called by name: The Lord now designated specifically the man who would be the principal artisan for the tabernacle. The name Bezalel means "in the shadow of God." Hur, the grandfather of Bezalel, should not be confused with the more famous associate of Aaron and Moses (17:10; 24:14).
- 31:3 filled him with the Spirit of God: This wonderful phrase is indicative of the work of the Holy Spirit during OT times. We are familiar with the "filling of the Spirit" that came upon the disciples at Pentecost (Acts 2) and brought into being the new community of faith, the church. But we often neglect the work of the Spirit among the Israelites. Passages such as this one help us to see the continuity of God's work among His people through the ages. In this case, the Spirit empowered uniquely gifted people to design and build a tabernacle befitting a holy and magnificent God.

31:6 The name Aholiab, given to the principal assistant to Bezalel, means "Tent of the Father." It describes one who lives closely with God, the Father of His people (see 35:34; 36:1, 2; 38:23). The wisdom in the hearts was "the spirit of wisdom" spoken of in 28:3, or "the Spirit of God, in wisdom" of 31:3. Such wisdom was a divine gift that allowed these craftsmen to complete their holy work.

31:13, 14 My Sabbaths reminds us that keeping the Sabbath is the Lord's idea, not a human invention. Such days of rest must be kept in righteousness before Him (Is. 1:10–15). a sign: a reminder, memorial, or symbol. The Sabbath distinguished Israel from its pagan neighbors, an idea reinforced by the last phrase, the LORD who sanctifies you. put to death: The Sabbath was not for casual recreation, but for worshiping God. Those who observed the Sabbath carelessly invited their own destruction.

31:16, 17 Here the Sabbath is declared to be a sign between the Lord and Israel forever. The idea of Sabbath can be found in the pattern of six days of creation, followed by a seventh day of rest.

31:18 an end of speaking: When Moses returned to the people, the Spirit of God directed him to recall the amazing complex of details, ideas, and concepts of holy worship. The two tablets of the Testimony, similar to ancient treaties, bore the Ten Commandments on each tablet. Both tablets were kept together before God in His holy tabernacle. The stone emphasized the permanence of the Word of God. The finger of God is a bold anthropomorphism (a quality of God expressed as a human characteristic) that underscores the divine origin of the Law. Scholars of religion have long spoken of Israel's religious ideas as its unique contribution to civilization, much as the Greeks developed philosophy and the Romans displayed a genius for organization and empire-building. Yet such a comparison misses the point of Scripture. The Ten Commandments were not the product of man, but the revelation of the Lord.

32:1–35 The story of the Israelites' worship of the gold calf reveals both the unfaithfulness of the Israelites and God's great mercy. Even though the people had broken their promise to obey Him in such a short time, God forgives their sin and begins again with them.

32:1 This infamous story begins on a very human level. The people saw that Moses delayed coming down from the mountain: The extended absence of Moses (24:18) and the terrifying setting into which he had disappeared (24:9–17) led the people to think that he might never return. The people were the redeemed of Israel (ch. 12; 14:31), but in their discouragement they wandered to other gods. It is most shocking to discover the role that Aaron played in this debacle. It appears as though he also had given up hope for his brother's return. Moses was gone for 40 days, yet we may conclude that the people ran out of patience before then. The preparation of the idol would have taken some time. make us gods that shall go before us: The people were asking not for the true God, but for other gods. This Moses is spoken of in scathing and demeaning tones. Is it possible that the entire community turned against Moses? We may consider the possibility of spiritual warfare—that unseen and unrecognized forces worked to encourage evil among God's people. Stephen alluded to this event when he said that the fathers "turned back to Egypt" (Acts 7:39, 40).

32:2, 3 The golden earrings were part of the treasure from Egypt that should have been used for building the tabernacle (see 35:20–29).

32:4 A molded calf was an ominous worship symbol. Not only were the cow and the bull worshiped in Egypt, but the bull was a familiar embodiment of Baal seen in Canaan. This is your god can be rendered "these are your gods," suggesting that the worship of the Lord had been blended with the symbols of Baal and other fertility gods. Aaron thus had led the people in breaking the first three commandments: they had bowed to another god besides the Lord; they had made a graven image; and they used the Lord's name in false worship (see v. 5). God had said repeatedly that it was He and only He who had brought the Israelites out of Egypt (20:1, 2; 29:45, 46), an event they had all witnessed.

32:6 The worship expressed here involved sacrifices combined with possibly sexual acts of profane worship. The words and rose up to play suggest the latter idea. See 34:12–16 for an elaboration of such Canaanite practices that Israel was forbidden to follow.

32:7, 8 The Lord alerted Moses to the fact of Israel's sin. Have corrupted themselves: The Hebrew means "to pervert," "to ruin." It is used also to describe the ruin of humankind that provoked the Flood (see Gen. 6:12).

32:9 a stiff-necked people: This is the first occasion of this doleful phrase, which describes the stubbornness of the people who refused to follow the ways of God (see 33:3, 5; 34:9; Deut. 9:6, 13; 10:16).

32:10 The words of God then turned very ominous. He threatened to destroy the nation entirely and begin anew with Moses (see Num. 14:11, 12). This declaration prompted Moses to intercede on behalf of the people for God's mercy (see vv. 11–13).

32:11–13 Moses used three principal arguments in this great prayer to assuage the anger of the Lord. (1) The deliverance of Israel from Egypt was the work of the Lord. How could He abandon them now? (2) The Egyptians would hear of this judgment and would believe that they had triumphed after all. How could He destroy them now? (3) The covenant had been established long before by divine oath. How could He revoke this promise now? We see clearly Moses' own humility, his compassion for the Israelites, and his zeal for God's glory and honor.

32:14 So the LORD relented: Here is a wonderful example of the interaction of faithful intercessory prayer and the purpose of the Lord. God intended to spare Israel. But He drew Moses into the process by causing him to pray for the right outcome. He uses our prayer combined with His own determination to make His will come to pass.

32:15, 16 The two tablets of the Testimony are the tablets of the Ten Commandments (see 31:18).

32:17 It appears that Joshua had accompanied Moses on at least a part of the journey to Mt. Sinai (see 24:13, 14). While Moses was alone with God, Joshua seems to have remained nearby. From his base, he was the first to hear the raucous worship of the golden calf and report that startling news to Moses.

32:19, 20 In great rage, Moses destroyed the tablets. This gesture, highly symbolic, suggested that the law had been "broken" by the actions of the people. Then Moses destroyed the calf, finally making the people drink its residue mixed with water.

32:21–24 Moses then turned on Aaron, demanding to know how such wickedness had happened. Aaron's feeble response reminds us of Adam's weak reply to God in Gen. 3:12. Aaron passed the blame onto the people rather than admit his own complicity in this terrible sin.

32:25 Despite the return of Moses, some of the people were unrestrained, perhaps still conducting themselves in the unseemly behavior of worshipers of Baal (see Num. 25).

32:26 Whoever is on the LORD's side: The first to respond to Moses were men from the tribe of Levi, an act that drew them more fully into the Lord's service.

32:27, 28 Moses sent the Levites to kill the people engaged in evil (most likely sexual degeneracy, see Num. 25). It was painful for a Levite to slay his brother . . . his companion . . . his neighbor. But the wicked, even if they were relatives, had to be destroyed lest the whole camp perish under God's judgment.

32:29 Consecrate yourselves: The people needed to turn completely back to the living God in the hope that He would receive them in blessing again.

32:30, 31 The terrible sin of the people needed to be removed. Moses hoped to make atonement for the people.

32:32, 33 blot me out of Your book: This is the most touching moment in Moses' leadership of the Israelites. Like Paul many centuries later, he could almost wish himself to be cursed, if by being so he could secure the salvation of his people (see Rom. 9:3). Moses' offer could not be accepted. But his selfless gesture also resembles the self-sacrifice of Jesus, which God accepted as the atonement for the sins of every generation of humanity (Mark 10:45). My book is the Book of Life (Ps. 87:6; compare 1 Cor. 5:5; 11:27–32).

32:34 God promises that His Angel (23:20–23) will still lead the people, but coupled with that promise is a solemn threat of punishment. The expression in the day may refer to the Day of the Lord, proclaimed by later prophets (see Joel 2; Zeph. 1).

32:35 It is not clear whether the LORD plagued the people after Moses' prayer or if this passage refers to the judgment God had already sent upon the people (see vv. 26–28). It is possible that this refers both to the punishment of the Lord for this particular sin and to later plagues (punishments) that would befall the Israelites in the wilderness as they continued to disobey the Lord.

33:1 Depart . . . go up: The time had come for the march into Canaan. which I swore: For God's covenant with Abraham and Isaac, see Gen. 12:7; 15:13–21; 22:15–18.

33:3, 4 God announced that He would not go up among his people because they were stiff-necked. Thus the hope of reaching the Promised Land was darkened by God's withdrawal from their presence. This bad news, the command to move on without the presence of the Lord, was hardly a message that they wanted to hear.

33:5, 6 I could come suggested that the threat of judgment was still very real (see 32:35). The ornaments were associated with the idolatrous worship of the golden calf (32:2, 3). Their removal was a mark of genuine repentance and renewal.

33:7 his tent . . . the tabernacle of meeting: Moses moved his own tent outside the camp to symbolize the Lord's departure from His people. Moses called his tent the tabernacle of meeting, for here he met with the living God. The people who sought the LORD, that is, who needed a divine decision, would consult Moses at his tent far from the center of the camp.

33:8 all the people rose . . . stood: In contrast to their earlier wickedness, the people now responded reverently to the living God. Only Moses could approach God, but those who were nearby could respond from a distance in awe and worship.

33:9 This pillar of cloud is the same one that guided the Israelites out of Egypt (13:21, 22; 24:15, 16).

33:10 saw . . . worshiped: The people could not approach the Lord as Moses did. Moses saw and spoke with the Lord as one would to a friend. From a distance, the people saw the pillar and recognized the presence of God, and they worshiped by bowing low to the ground. The text is careful to say that the people stayed off at some distance. Only Moses could come near the pillar, God's Presence.

33:11 the LORD: The identification of the pillar with the Lord is now unmistakable. his servant Joshua: Here we glimpse again (see 17:9; 24:13; 32:17) the bold man of God who would become Moses' successor. The word translated "servant" here does not mean slave, but rather a minister, one who does spiritual service.

33:12 The message the Lord had given to Moses and the people, recorded at the beginning of the chapter (vv. 1–3), troubled Moses. Thus he pressed the Lord to grant His presence in the adventure of faith that the people were to undertake. Whom You will send with me was Moses' indirect way of seeking assurance that the Lord Himself would accompany the people.

33:13 The words Your way refer in this context to the divine Presence among His people. Your people was Moses' reminder of God's promise that He would make the Israelites His people (see 6:1–8).

33:14–16 My Presence means literally in Hebrew "My Face." This extraordinary promise of God's Presence with His people was ultimately fulfilled in Jesus, God made man. Rest refers to the land of Canaan, when the conquest would be over and the land could be enjoyed by the Israelites. Moses even dared to say that the Presence of the Lord in the midst of His people was the only acceptable condition for further advance. Only the Lord's Presence would demonstrate to surrounding nations that Israel's deliverance was really the work of the true and merciful God.

The Merciful God Versus a False God

God had chosen the Israelites to be His treasure—to be His holy people (19:5, 6). He had entered into a treaty with them and had established a relationship with them. He had given them the Ten Commandments (20:1–17). Finally He had called Moses up to the top of Mount Sinai in order to give him detailed instructions as to how the Israelites should live as God’s holy people. Now the Israelites had to wait. For forty days, they had to wait.

But the Israelites did not wait on God. That is, they did not continue their hope in God (Ps. 40:1; Is. 40:31). Instead, they grew impatient, choosing to make a false image to worship. At the same time as God was reaching out to the Israelites by giving Moses instructions for how to live, the Israelites were breaking their covenant—their treaty—with God by disregarding His uniqueness. They created an image similar to the gods of their neighbors—a calf. (Not only did the Egyptians worship the cow and the bull, but the bull was also a well-known symbol for the worship of Baal in Canaan.) The Israelites worshiped this new false image along with their worship of the living God (see 20:5, 6). They were guilty of syncretism—blending the worship of false gods with the worship of the true God. Tragically, they abandoned the living God for a false god at the very time that God was reaching out to them.

Although the Israelites had blatantly disobeyed Him, God demonstrated His mercy. Instead of completely destroying these disobedient people, He spared them. He disciplined them so they would learn from their sin, and then He gave them a second chance. He forgave them and finally blessed them with His presence (33:14). In this tragic story is the central message of the Bible: Despite the repeated sinfulness of His people, God is merciful. He forgives those who repent (Acts 2:38).

33:17 God’s grace was accompanied by his intimate knowledge of and care for Moses, represented in the expression I know you by name.

33:18 The word glory conveys the idea of weight, significance, and importance (see 16:7, 10; 24:16, 17; 40:34, 35). Here, astoundingly, Moses requested an even greater sense of God’s Presence than up to then had been experienced by any person.

33:19 Amazingly, the Lord responded positively. My goodness speaks of the sense of the wonder of God, of His divine attributes, of His essential worth and majesty. Proclaim the name of the LORD: The name of God is the expression of His person, who He is. be gracious . . . have compassion: The Lord’s sovereignty is paramount in His dealings with people. God can do anything He wants. Yet, in His mercy, He responded to Moses’ plea. What a great gift this is: The Creator of the universe tenderly granting the audacious request of His servant (see Ps. 40:1).

33:20 cannot see My face: We cannot begin to describe what Moses experienced in this dramatic encounter. God is Spirit (John 4:24). Any experience of the living God requires Him to enter our finite sphere of space and time. Whatever Moses experienced was only a glimpse of what is still to be experienced! Human language is simply too limited to express the mysteries these verses describe.

33:21 The place is generally assumed to be a cleft in the rock of Mt. Sinai. How fitting that Moses would experience the Lord who is his Rock (see Deut. 32:4) while standing on the rock.

33:22, 23 The use of words such as hand, back, and face is anthropomorphic, a way of describing

God, who is Spirit, in terms familiar to humankind. The point of these verses is clear enough. Moses would see something wonderful, but not so much as would take his life. This great revelation is described in 34:5–9.

34:1 The command to cut two tablets of stone is one of the great demonstrations of God’s mercy. Despite the failure of the people at the very time that the Lord was instructing Moses on how they should worship, He was willing to begin again with them. Once more He would instruct them concerning His righteous ways.

34:3 As in the preparation of the people in ch. 19, the warning that no man shall come up with you was meant to protect the careless or the curious who would die if they trespassed on holy ground.

34:5 Like ch. 19, these verses describe an epiphany, the appearance of the Lord in His grand descent to encounter humans. As at other times (see 33:9–11) the people saw the cloud, which Moses knew as the visible symbol of the living God before him. The living God proclaimed His name to Moses by expressing His character, His awesome wonder, and His mercy.

34:6 The Hebrew verb translated passed is the same verb that describes Abram’s journey through the land of Canaan (see Gen. 12:6). The name Hebrew is probably derived from this verb. Here the word speaks of the “movement” of the Lord before Moses. As the Lord moved by Moses, He proclaimed the meaning of His name Yahweh (see 3:14, 15), revealing His gracious character in an unforgettable manner. Indeed, this verse is the foundation for understanding the character of the Lord. The words merciful and gracious convey the idea of “overwhelmingly gracious.” longsuffering: The idea of the Hebrew idiom is that God is very slow to anger. In our idiom, we would say He has “a very long fuse.” The Hebrew word for goodness means “loyal love”; the word for truth means “faithfulness,” “truth,” and “constancy.”

(Heb. chesed) (15:13; 20:6; 34:6) Strong's #2617

When God revealed Himself to Moses on Mt. Sinai, He described Himself as overflowing with goodness. This is one of the most significant words that describes God's character (see Ps. 13:5). It is often translated as mercy (20:6; Ps. 6:4) and sometimes as lovingkindness (Ps. 17:7). The basic meaning of the word is "loyal love" or "steadfast love." It refers to God's loyalty and faithfulness to His covenant. This love is very similar to marital love, a love that is obligatory because of the marriage contract, but still intimate and voluntary. Hosea's actions toward his unfaithful wife are a striking picture of God's "faithful love" for the people of Israel (Hos. 1:1–3; 2:19; 3:1–5). In the NT, this characteristic of God is described as His grace (Gk. charis; John 1:17).

Go to the List of Word Studies

34:7 thousands . . . the third and the fourth: This phrase resembles the words of 20:5, 6, but the order is changed for emphasis here. The point is that God is more willing to show his mercy than His wrath. Yet His wrath is also very real (see 32:34, 35; Ps. 90:11).

34:9 Go among us indicates that Moses was still praying for a reversal of God's judgment announced in 33:1–3. The Lord responded to these pleasing words by restoring the covenant (see vv. 10–28).

34:10 I make a covenant: This verse introduces the renewal of covenant; the message is completed in vv. 27, 28. Concurrent with the announcement of the covenant is the promise that the people will experience an awesome thing, namely the conquest of Canaan. The enormity of Israel's refusal to obey God's command and conquer the land (see Num. 13; 14) is to be seen in the light of this extraordinary promise (see also Deut. 4:32–40).

34:12 covenant: Israel was forbidden to make treaties with nearby peoples. Instead, they were to destroy those nations, lest they be ruined by their perverted ideas and false religious affections. The next verses (vv. 13–26) repeat some of the salient features of the Lord's covenant with Israel. We read these words with sadness in retrospect. They are the very commands Israel abandoned so quickly.

34:15 Unfortunately, the phrase to play the harlot was probably not just a figure of speech. Unfaithfulness to the Lord was often manifested in sexual rites with temple prostitutes (male and female), an act of supposed union with Baal, Asherah, and other pagan deities. To eat of his sacrifice alludes to the love feast that preceded the orgy, reminiscent of the episode with the golden calf (see 32:5, 6, 19, 25).

34:16 take of his daughters for your sons: God's prohibition against intermarriage was not a matter of prejudice. The influence of immoral religious practices was subtle, pervasive, and unrelenting. Intermarriage would be the quickest route to compromise with false religion and immoral behavior.

34:17 Israel had, in fact, already paid the price for fashioning molded gods.

34:19, 20 The law of the firstborn is also found in 13:2; 22:29, 30.

34:21 The law of the Sabbath is repeated from 20:8–11; 31:12–18.

34:22–24 The commands of the three annual feasts are repeated from 23:14–17. Faithful participation in these feasts was linked to God's promise in v. 24 to preserve the people in the land.

34:28 The period of forty days and forty nights matched Moses' earlier pilgrimage to Sinai (see 24:18). bread . . . water: A person can survive without food for weeks. But no one can go without water for more than three or four days. If Moses drank no water for 40 days, then we must view his continued existence as a miracle of the Lord. Is it possible that he was removed into a heavenly sphere for this long period of time? We simply do not know. We are confident that God was able to sustain His servant in any way He pleased! The Lord then wrote . . . the Ten Commandments, equated once again with the words of the covenant. The Writer was the Lord Himself (see 31:18; 32:15, 16; 34:1, 4).

34:29–35 skin of his face shone: One of the Bible's most wonderful descriptions is that of Moses' shining face. His proximity to the Presence of God transformed his very appearance (2 Cor. 3:7–18).

34:30 The people were afraid to come near. With all they had seen and heard, they had reason to be cautious.

34:31, 32 Moses sought to allay their fear and to teach them the commandments the Lord had sent him to proclaim.

34:33–35 The veil Moses wore concealed the glow of his face. This supernatural glow was enhanced on each subsequent encounter with the Lord. Paul taught that Moses wore the veil because the glow faded, a sign of imperfect glory (see 2 Cor. 3:7, 13).

35:1–3 The principal teaching concerning the Sabbath is the fourth commandment (20:8–11), and this teaching is expanded in 31:12–18. Here is another repetition of the command for emphasis (see 34:21). To kindle . . . fire was considered a breach of the command. To some Jews today, turning on a light switch on the Sabbath is the equivalent of kindling a fire.

35:4–9 This section is based on the instructions of 25:1–8. Here we observe Moses doing as God commanded him when he was on the mountain of the Lord.

35:10–19 gifted artisans: The call now went out for artisans who would create the tabernacle furnishings and the garments for the priests, the details of which appeared in chs. 25–31.

35:20–29 The offerings for the tabernacle are perhaps the most impressive offering ever taken from God's people for any endeavor! The key was the stirring of the heart and the willingness of the spirit of those who gave. Both men and women gave. Even in this patriarchal time, women participated actively in God's work. All people came with gifts that were sumptuous, varied, and abundant. At last they had to be told to stop giving (see 36:2–7)!

35:25 women . . . gifted artisans: Here the artisans, usually referred to in the masculine (28:3), are distinctly identified as women.

35:31 filled him with the Spirit of God: See the parallel passage at 31:3. Compare also the comments at 28:3. The special endowment of the Spirit of God in this artisan and in those who worked with him attested to the importance the Lord attached to the aesthetic beauty of the tabernacle. The preparations for building the tabernacle and later the temple foreshadowed the incarnation of the Savior. For it was both in the tabernacle and temple and in the Incarnation that "heaven came down," that God drew near to His people in saving wonder and divine fellowship.

35:34 The ability to teach is similar to the gift of teaching mentioned by Paul (Rom. 12:7). The same Spirit was at work among His people in the OT period as in the New.

36:8 gifted artisans: This is a wonderful comment carried through from 35:30–36:4 (see 28:3; 31:6; 35:10, 25). The demands of God's design (ch. 26) called for careful, detailed, and artistic work. The skillful work was of high quality.

36:14–19 Here we read about the fashioning of the outer curtains (v. 14). See 26:7–14 for God's command concerning their design.

36:20–30 A discussion of the tabernacle frame. See 26:15–25 for its design.

36:31–34 The construction of the crossbars for the outer structure of the tabernacle. See 26:26–30 for the earlier instructions for their design.

- 36:35, 36 The description of the veil that divided the holy place and the Most Holy Place. See 26:31–35 for God’s command concerning its design.
- 36:37, 38 The description of the screen for the door of the tabernacle. See 26:36, 37 for its design.
- 37:1–9 This section describes how Bezalel (see 31:2) constructed the holy ark, including the mercy seat and the cherubs following the pattern that the Lord gave to Moses on the mountain (see 25:10–22). This text follows the earlier passage in every particular concerning its actual construction. The only detail not repeated here is the instruction to put the Testimony in the ark and the mercy seat on top (25:21). This is found again in 40:20.
- 37:10–16 The construction of the table for the showbread. This section corresponds in every detail to the instructions given to Moses by the Lord in 25:23–30. The only aspect not repeated here from the earlier text is the instruction to place the showbread on the table (see 40:4, 22, 23).
- 37:17–24 The creation of the golden lampstand. Again, this section corresponds in every detail to the instructions given to Moses in 25:31–40. The earlier text contains instruction for lighting the lamps, which Moses did when everything was completed (see 40:4, 25).
- 38:1–7 The construction of the altar of burnt offering. The corresponding instructions are found in 27:1–19. The details from the preceding section are presented again to demonstrate that all was done as the Lord had commanded. Throughout these sections, the pronoun he (see v. 1) refers to Bezalel (see 37:1; compare 35:30–34), who was working according to the commands that the Lord had given Moses. Bezalel was the overseer. He would have had many artisans working under his leadership (see 36:8).
- 38:8 The crafting of the bronze laver. For the corresponding instructions, see 30:17–21.
- 38:9–20 The building of the court of the tabernacle. For the corresponding instructions, see 27:9–19.
- 38:24 The weight of all the gold used in the work may have been about a ton. The talent weighed about 70 pounds and equaled 3,000 shekels.
- 38:25 the silver: The quantity of silver was simply enormous, about 7,000 pounds.
- 38:26 A bekah (half-shekel) of silver, required of each man over the age of 20, came from 603,550 people, which corresponds with other estimates of the Exodus community (see Num. 1). The number may be literal, but some contend that it is far too large for the time and the events of the Exodus.
- 38:27, 28 Enormous amounts of silver appeared in the most mundane elements of the tabernacle and its furnishings. Although the tabernacle was a tent, it was not a makeshift dwelling. It was a glorious shrine that symbolized the presence of the living God in the midst of His people.
- 38:29 The weight of the bronze was about 5,000 pounds.
- 39:1 This verse is a summary statement that confirms the completion of the priests’ garments first described in 28:1–4.
- 39:2–7 This section details the crafting of Aaron’s ephod, according to the explicit instructions given to Moses in 28:5–14.
- 39:8–21 Here we read about the breastplate, made according to the directions spelled out in 28:15–30. The only detail not repeated is the placement of the Urim and the Thummim within the breastplate (see 28:30). This is reported in Lev. 8:8.
- 39:22–26 The fashioning of the robe is described, following the divine commands given to Moses in 28:31–35.
- 39:27–29 The fashioning of the tunics, the turban, and the sash follow the commands given in 28:39. short trousers: These were provided for the priests for modesty as they ascended the steps (see the command in 28:42).
- 39:30, 31 The fashioning of the plate that was attached to the turban of the high priest followed precisely the commands that the Lord had given to Moses (28:36–38).
- 39:32–43 These verses list all the work that God had commanded through Moses. It was now completed. A mood of celebration pervades these verses. One can sense the pride of accomplishment coupled with the reverence for all of these holy objects.

39:43 The words Moses looked suggest that Moses conducted a final inspection. He was satisfied that everything was finished according to the pattern he had seen on the mountain. Then Moses blessed them, a magnanimous gesture of approval for the work accomplished.

40:2 This first month was the month Abib, also called Nisan (see 12:2; 13:4). The tabernacle was completed nine months after the arrival of the people at Mt. Sinai (see 19:1) and two weeks before the second celebration of the Passover (see v. 17).

tabernacle

(Heb. mishkan) (25:9; 26:1; 40:2) Strong's #4908

The word tabernacle signifies “a dwelling place” and is related to the verb meaning “to dwell,” “to settle down,” and “to live among” (29:45; Gen. 14:13). In Exodus, the tabernacle is a temporary place to live—a tent (see also Song 1:8). God’s tent, the tabernacle, functioned as an object lesson in God’s holiness and a symbol of His divine presence among His people (33:7–11). It was a sign that God wanted to live among His people and establish an intimate relationship with them (5:8, 9). The ultimate outworking of that desire was that Jesus Christ, who was Himself God, became a man. As the Son of God, Jesus lived among us, walked with us, and revealed God the Father to us (John 1:14–18). This is why His name is Immanuel, meaning “God with us” (Matt. 1:23).

40:3–8 Moses now directed the placement of furnishings in the tabernacle, including the ark, the table of showbread, the altar . . . for the incense, the altar of the burnt offering, the laver, and the court along with appropriate screens. The lamps were to be lit and water was to be placed in the laver. See ch. 25 for a list of the furnishings.

40:9–11 Following the placement of the furnishings, the Lord instructed Moses to anoint everything in the tabernacle so that it would be holy (separated to the Lord). For the anointing, Moses would have used the special olive oil that was mixed with spices (see 30:22–33). The altar shall be most holy, in Hebrew, is a superlative literally meaning “holy of holies.”

40:12–15 The Lord’s next command to Moses was to prepare the priests for their holy service. These verses recall the extensive commands in ch. 29. wash them: The priests had to be clean before they were dressed in their holy garments (see the description at 28:1–4). Moses, acting as God’s representative, was then to anoint them as he had anointed the furnishings. The family of Aaron was to have an everlasting priesthood. The same declaration also appears in ch. 29 (see 28:1).

40:16 Moses scrupulously obeyed every detail of God’s commands (see 7:10). Since Israel’s welfare depended on the obedience of its leaders, Moses’ faithfulness allowed untold blessings to follow God’s wandering people. did . . . all that the LORD had commanded him: The repetition of this phrase emphasizes that Moses precisely obeyed God.

40:20, 21 The Testimony is the stone tablets of the Ten Commandments (see 25:16). the mercy seat on top of the ark: See the description in 25:17–22.

40:22, 23 the table . . . the bread: See the description in 25:23–30.

40:24, 25 the lampstand . . . lamps: See the description in 25:31–40; 27:20, 21.

40:26, 27 the gold altar: See the description in 30:1–10. incense: See the description in 30:34–38.

40:28 the screen: See the description in 26:36, 37.

40:29 the altar of burnt offering: See the description in 27:1–8.

40:30–32 the laver (v. 30): See the description in 30:17–21.

40:33 the court: See the description in 27:9–19.

40:34 cloud . . . glory: When everything the Lord had commanded had been completed, He came near in an epiphany, a dramatic descent that manifested His glory among His people (see 19:20; 34:5). When the Lord came near in the event described at 19:20, the people were terrified. But in His coming near the tabernacle described here, the people were overjoyed. This was not a descent in judgment, but in mercy. The glory of the LORD filling the tabernacle demonstrated His Presence with the Israelites, His significance to them, and His awe-inspiring wonder. The words of John 1:1–18 are appropriate to recall here. In the Incarnation, the glory of God was manifest not in a tent, but in His Son.

40:35 Although Moses had been intimately involved in preparing the tabernacle, its completion meant that the glory of the Lord was present and that even Moses could not enter it. The cloud rested speaks of God living among His people (see John 1:14). Throughout this section we encounter two attributes of God. One is His great grace and tender mercy. The King of glory was in the midst of His people! The second is His indescribable holiness. The Lord filled the tent and no one could draw near!

40:36, 37 the cloud: The glory of the Lord, which now was among His people also directed the Israelites' movement (see 13:21, 22; Num. 9:15–23). The appearance of His glory is sometimes called the Shekinah or the Shekinah glory, from the Hebrew for “to dwell.”

40:38 the cloud of the LORD: How wonderful that the Book of Exodus concludes with this image of the gracious God, hovering protectively over His people. Christians today emphasize the indwelling presence of the Holy Spirit in their lives (see Acts 2). But God was also present with His people before Jesus came. A faithful Israelite follower of God could see the tabernacle and realize that God was there in His splendor and power. And with Him the people advanced to Canaan, the land He had promised to them.

Introduction

God's concern for His people and His desire for fellowship with them becomes more and more clear to anyone who reads carefully through the Book of Leviticus. Every detailed regulation recorded in Leviticus is a revelation from God through Moses for His people. With these laws, God personally instructed the Israelites how to live before Him. Christian readers sometimes get lost in all the regulations governing various types of sacrifices, what was clean or unclean, who was eligible to be a priest, and so on. However, when these details are placed within the context of God's desire to have fellowship with the Israelites and live with them, the seemingly "dead" Law takes on a new life.

Name The name of the book is derived from the name of the tribe of Levi, the tribe that supplied the priests for Israel. Leviticus addresses many of the activities of the priests. It gives extensive instructions for the sacrificial system that atoned for both ceremonial and moral impurity. Yet Leviticus is not merely a manual for priests. It was intended for the entire Israelite community, with at least two purposes: (1) that people would know and value their privileges and responsibilities before God; and (2) that priests could not gain oppressive power over the people with any monopoly on the knowledge of how to approach God.

Author and Date Jewish and Christian tradition has regarded Moses as the author of Leviticus. After delivering Israel out of Egypt, God revealed His covenant to Moses at Mount Sinai. When God entered into a covenant with the Israelites, He transformed them from a band of refugee slaves into a nation. Leviticus records a large part of that covenant. If Moses or a scribe acting as his secretary wrote down the revelation as God gave it, Leviticus was composed shortly after 1440 B.C. or shortly after 1290 B.C., depending on the date assigned to the Exodus.

Critical biblical scholarship of the late nineteenth century challenged the traditional dating and authorship of Leviticus. According to that scholarship, which is still influential today, Leviticus was written much later, during the postexilic period. This would be a date after 530 B.C. During the past century, however, our understanding of the history, languages, cultures, and religions of the ancient Middle East including Israel has advanced greatly. Many of the premises on which the late dating of Leviticus was based have been shown to be unreliable.

Although Leviticus does not itself claim to be written by Moses, twenty of the twenty-seven chapters begin, “And the LORD spoke to Moses,” or a variation of that statement. The phrase occurs 14 other places in the book as well. The intent is that this is the word of God given through Moses at Mount Sinai. As with the rest of the Pentateuch, later editorial activity may have occurred. The material could have been arranged by someone other than Moses, though Moses certainly was as capable of its arrangement as anyone. The important point is that Leviticus is what it says it is, a series of revelations from God about how God's people may approach Him through sacrifice and honor Him in holy living.

Purpose The purpose of Leviticus was to show the Israelites how they could live in ritual and moral purity. When they maintained their purity, God could live among them and they could approach Him in worship. Many of the required sacrifices described in Leviticus were for the atonement of sins. On the other hand, the voluntary sacrifices brought the people to fellowship and feast with God, their family, and others.

The instructions in Leviticus were not given to the Israelites in order to help them achieve their own salvation. Salvation can never be earned. It is always a gift of God's grace appropriated by faith. These instructions were given to a redeemed nation so that its members would know how to maintain their fellowship with God.

The distinctions between clean and unclean and the various laws for holy living promoted the Israelites' own welfare and marked them out as a people separated to God. Israel's witness to God's holiness and their visible well-being as a result of holy living before Him would vividly demonstrate to their neighbors God's power and His care for His people. The directive found first in 11:44 and many times afterward clearly expresses this purpose for the laws: "You shall be holy; for I am holy."

Modern Christians can learn much from Leviticus. The holiness of God, the necessity of holy living, the great cost of atonement and forgiveness, the privilege and responsibility of presenting only our best to God, the generosity of God that enables His people to be generous—these are only some of the lessons. Leviticus reveals the holiness of God and His love for His people in ways found nowhere else in the Bible. Ultimately, Leviticus calls God's people of all ages to the great adventure of patterning life after God's holy purposes.

Christ in the Scriptures

Leviticus is replete with types and allusions to the person and work of Jesus Christ. The five offerings described in chapters 1–7 all point to Christ. The burnt offering typifies Christ's total offering in submission to His Father's will. The grain offering typifies Christ's sinless service. The peace offering alludes to the fellowship that believers have with God through the work of the Cross. The sin offering typifies Christ as our guilt-bearer. The trespass offering pictures Christ's payment for the damage of sin.

Leviticus points vividly to Jesus. He alone is the spotless Lamb who can make an eternal and final payment for sin. He alone is the perfect High Priest who can represent human rebels before the holy Judge of the universe.

Leviticus 1

The Burnt Offering

¹Now the LORD ^acalled to Moses, and spoke to him ^bfrom the tabernacle of meeting, saying,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ^c“When any one of you brings an offering to the LORD, you shall bring your offering of the livestock—of the herd and of the flock. Word Studies: offering

^{4e}“Then he shall put his hand on the head of the burnt offering, and it will be ^faccepted on his behalf ^gto make atonement for him.

⁵“He shall kill the ^hbull before the LORD; ⁱand the priests, Aaron’s sons, shall bring the blood ^jand sprinkle the blood all around on the altar that is by the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

⁶“And he shall ^kskin the burnt offering and cut it into its pieces.

⁷“The sons of Aaron the priest shall put ^lfire on the altar, and ^mlay the wood in order on the fire.

⁸“Then the priests, Aaron’s sons, shall lay the parts, the head, and the fat in order on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar;

⁹“but he shall wash its entrails and its legs with water. And the priest shall burn all on the altar as a burnt sacrifice, an offering made by fire, a ⁿsweet¹ aroma to the LORD.

¹⁰“If his offering is of the flocks—of the sheep or of the goats—as a burnt sacrifice, he shall bring a male ^owithout blemish.

^{11p}“He shall kill it on the north side of the altar before the LORD; and the priests, Aaron’s sons, shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar.

¹²“And he shall cut it into its pieces, with its head and its fat; and the priest shall lay them in order on the wood that is on the fire upon the altar;

¹⁴“And if the burnt sacrifice of his offering to the LORD is of birds, then he shall bring his offering of ^rturtledoves or young pigeons.

¹⁵“The priest shall bring it to the altar, ²wring off its head, and burn it on the altar; its blood shall be drained out at the side of the altar.

¹⁶‘And he shall remove its crop with its feathers and cast it ^sbeside the altar on the east side, into the place for ashes.

Leviticus 2

The Grain Offering

¹‘When anyone offers ^aa grain offering to the LORD, his offering shall be of fine flour. And he shall pour oil on it, and put ^bfrankincense on it. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Olives

²‘He shall bring it to Aaron’s sons, the priests, one of whom shall take from it his handful of fine flour and oil with all the frankincense. And the priest shall burn ^cit as a memorial on the altar, an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

^{3d}‘The rest of the grain offering shall be Aaron’s and his ^esons’. ^f*It is* most holy of the offerings to the LORD made by fire.

⁴‘And if you bring as an offering a grain offering baked in the oven, it shall be unleavened cakes of fine flour mixed with oil, or unleavened wafers ^ganointed¹ with oil.

⁵‘But if your offering is a grain offering baked in a ²pan, it shall be of fine flour, unleavened, mixed with oil.

⁶‘You shall break it in pieces and pour oil on it; it is a grain offering.

⁷‘If your offering is a grain offering baked in a ^hcovered pan, it shall be made of fine flour with oil.

⁸‘You shall bring the grain offering that is made of these things to the LORD. And when it is presented to the priest, he shall bring it to the altar.

¹⁰‘And ^kwhat is left of the grain offering shall be Aaron’s and his sons’. It is most holy of the offerings to the LORD made by fire.

¹¹‘No grain offering which you bring to the LORD shall be made with ^lleaven, for you shall burn no leaven nor any honey in any offering to the LORD made by fire.

^{12m}‘As for the offering of the firstfruits, you shall offer them to the LORD, but they shall not be burned on the altar for a sweet aroma.

¹³‘And every offering of your grain offering ⁿyou shall season with salt; you shall not allow ^othe salt of the covenant of your God to be lacking from your grain offering. ^pWith all your offerings you shall offer salt.

¹⁵‘And ^syou shall put oil on it, and lay frankincense on it. It is a grain offering.

¹⁶‘Then the priest shall burn ^tthe memorial portion: part of its beaten grain and part of its oil, with all the frankincense, as an offering made by fire to the LORD.

Leviticus 3

The Peace Offering

¹‘When his offering is a ^asacrifice of a peace offering, if he offers it of the herd, whether male or female, he shall offer it ^bwithout ¹blemish before the LORD.

²‘And ^che shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it at the door of the tabernacle of meeting; and Aaron’s sons, the priests, shall ^dsprinkle the blood all around on the altar. Word Studies: blood

³‘Then he shall offer from the sacrifice of the peace offering an offering made by fire to the LORD. ^eThe fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails,

⁴‘the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove;

⁵‘and Aaron’s sons ^fshall burn it on the altar upon the ^gburnt sacrifice, which is on the wood that is on the fire, as an ^hoffering made by fire, a ⁱsweet aroma to the LORD.

⁶‘If his offering as a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD is of the flock, whether male or female, ^jhe shall offer it without blemish.

⁷‘If he offers a ^klamb as his offering, then he shall ^loffer it ^mbefore the LORD.

⁸‘And he shall lay his hand on the head of his offering, and kill it before the tabernacle of meeting; and Aaron’s sons shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar.

⁹‘Then he shall offer from the sacrifice of the peace offering, as an offering made by fire to the LORD, its fat and the whole fat tail which he shall remove close to the backbone. And the fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails,

¹⁰‘the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove;

¹¹‘and the priest shall burn them on the altar as ⁿfood, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

¹²‘And if his ^ooffering is a goat, then ^phe shall offer it before the LORD.

¹³‘He shall lay his hand on its head and kill it before the tabernacle of meeting; and the sons of Aaron shall sprinkle its blood all around on the altar.

¹⁴‘Then he shall offer from it his offering, as an offering made by fire to the LORD. The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat that is on the entrails,

¹⁵‘the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove;

¹⁶‘and the priest shall burn them on the altar as food, an offering made by fire for a sweet aroma; ^qall the fat is the LORD’s.

¹⁷‘This shall be a ^rperpetual² statute throughout your generations in all your dwellings: you shall eat neither fat nor ^sblood.’ ”

Leviticus 4

The Sin Offering

¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, saying: ^a‘If a person sins ¹unintentionally against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which ought not to be done, and does any of them,

^{3b}‘if the anointed priest sins, bringing guilt on the people, then let him offer to the LORD for his sin which he has sinned ^ca young bull without blemish as a ^dsin offering.

⁴‘He shall bring the bull ^eto the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the LORD, lay his hand on the bull’s head, and kill the bull before the LORD.

⁵‘Then the anointed priest ^fshall take some of the bull’s blood and bring it to the tabernacle of meeting.

⁶‘The priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle some of the blood seven times before the LORD, in front of the ^gveil of the sanctuary.

⁷‘And the priest shall ^hput some of the blood on the horns of the altar of sweet incense before the LORD, which is in the tabernacle of meeting; and he shall pour ⁱthe remaining blood of the bull at the base of the altar of the burnt offering, which is at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

⁸‘He shall take from it all the fat of the bull as the sin offering. The fat that covers the entrails and all the fat which is on the entrails,

⁹‘the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove,

^{10j}‘as it was taken from the bull of the sacrifice of the peace offering; and the priest shall burn them on the altar of the burnt offering.

^{11k}‘But the bull’s hide and all its flesh, with its head and legs, its entrails and offal—

¹²‘the whole bull he shall carry outside the camp to a clean place, ^lwhere the ashes are poured out, and ^mburn it on wood with fire; where the ashes are poured out it shall be burned.

¹⁴‘when the sin which they have committed becomes known, then the assembly shall offer a young bull for the sin, and bring it before the tabernacle of meeting.

¹⁵‘And the elders of the congregation ^pshall lay their hands on the head of the bull before the LORD. Then the bull shall be killed before the LORD.

^{16q}‘The anointed priest shall bring some of the bull’s blood to the tabernacle of meeting.

¹⁷‘Then the priest shall dip his finger in the blood and sprinkle it seven times before the LORD, in front of the veil.

¹⁹‘He shall take all the fat from it and burn it on the altar.

²⁰‘And he shall do ^rwith the bull as he did with the bull as a sin offering; thus he shall do with it. ^sSo the priest shall make ²atonement for them, and it shall be forgiven them.

²¹‘Then he shall carry the bull outside the camp, and burn it as he burned the first bull. It is a sin offering for the assembly.

²²‘When a ³ruler has sinned, and ^tdone something unintentionally against any of the commandments of the LORD his God in anything which should not be done, and is guilty, ²³‘or ^uif his sin which he has committed ⁴comes to his knowledge, he shall bring as his offering a kid of the goats, a male without blemish.

²⁴‘And ^vhe shall lay his hand on the head of the goat, and kill it at the place where they kill the burnt offering before the LORD. It is a sin offering.

^{25w}‘The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour its blood at the base of the altar of burnt offering.

^{27z}‘If ⁶anyone of the ⁷common people sins unintentionally by doing something against any of the commandments of the LORD in anything which ought not to be done, and is guilty, ²⁸‘or ^aif his sin which he has committed comes to his knowledge, then he shall bring as his offering a kid of the goats, a female without blemish, for his sin which he has committed.

^{29b}‘And he shall lay his hand on the head of the sin offering, and kill the sin offering at the place of the burnt offering.

³⁰‘Then the priest shall take some of its blood with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour all the remaining blood at the base of the altar.

³¹^c‘He shall remove all its fat, ^das fat is removed from the sacrifice of the peace offering; and the priest shall burn it on the altar for a ^esweet aroma to the LORD. ^fSo the priest shall make atonement for him, and it shall be forgiven him.

³²‘If he brings a lamb as his sin offering, ^ghe shall bring a female without blemish.

³³‘Then he shall ^hlay his hand on the head of the sin offering, and kill it as a sin offering at the place where they kill the burnt offering.

³⁴‘The priest shall take some of the blood of the sin offering with his finger, put it on the horns of the altar of burnt offering, and pour all the remaining blood at the base of the altar.

Leviticus 5

The Trespass Offering

¹‘If a person sins in ^ahearing the utterance of an oath, and is a witness, whether he has seen or known of the matter—if he does not tell it, he ^bbears ¹guilt.

²‘Or ^cif a person touches any unclean thing, whether it is the carcass of an unclean beast, or the carcass of unclean livestock, or the carcass of unclean creeping things, and he is unaware of it, he also shall be unclean and ^dguilty.

³‘Or if he touches ^ehuman uncleanness—whatever uncleanness with which a man may be defiled, and he is unaware of it—when he realizes it, then he shall be guilty.

⁴‘Or if a person ²swears, speaking thoughtlessly with his lips ^fto do evil or ^gto do good, whatever it is that a man may pronounce by an oath, and he is unaware of it—when he realizes it, then he shall be guilty in any of these matters.

⁵‘And it shall be, when he is guilty in any of these matters, that he shall ^hconfess that he has sinned in that thing;

⁶‘and he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD for his sin which he has committed, a female from the flock, a lamb or a kid of the goats as a sin offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him concerning his sin.

⁷ⁱ‘If he is not able to bring a lamb, then he shall bring to the LORD, for his trespass which he has committed, two ^jturtledoves or two young pigeons: one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering.

⁸‘And he shall bring them to the priest, who shall offer that which is for the sin offering first, and ^kwring off its head from its neck, but shall not divide it ³completely.

¹⁰‘And he shall offer the second as a burnt offering according to the ^mprescribed manner. So ⁿthe priest shall make atonement on his behalf for his sin which he has committed, and it shall be forgiven him.

¹¹‘But if he is ^onot able to bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons, then he who sinned shall bring for his offering one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour as a sin offering. ^pHe shall put no oil on it, nor shall he put frankincense on it, for it is a sin offering.

¹²‘Then he shall bring it to the priest, and the priest shall take his handful of it ^qas a memorial portion, and burn it on the altar ^raccording to the offerings made by fire to the LORD. It is a sin offering.

^{13s}“The priest shall make atonement for him, ^{4f}for his sin that he has committed in any of these matters; and it shall be forgiven him. ^t*The rest* shall be the priest’s as a grain offering.’ ”

Offerings with Restitution

¹⁴Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

^{15u}“If a person commits a trespass, and sins unintentionally in regard to the holy things of the LORD, then ^vhe shall bring to the LORD as his trespass offering a ram without blemish from the flocks, with your valuation in shekels of silver according to ^wthe shekel of the sanctuary, as a trespass offering. Article: The Holiness Code

¹⁶“And he shall make restitution for the harm that he has done in regard to the holy thing, ^xand shall add one-fifth to it and give it to the priest. ^ySo the priest shall make atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering, and it shall be forgiven him.

^{18b}“And he shall bring to the priest a ram without blemish from the flock, with your valuation, as a trespass offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him regarding his ignorance in which he erred and did not know it, and it shall be forgiven him.

¹⁹“It is a trespass offering; ^che has certainly trespassed against the LORD.”

Leviticus 6

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

²“If a person sins and ^acommits a trespass against the LORD by ^blying¹ to his neighbor about ^cwhat was delivered to him for safekeeping, or about ²a pledge, or about a robbery, or if he has ^dextorted from his neighbor,

³“or if he ^ehas found what was lost and lies concerning it, and ^fswears falsely—in any one of these things that a man may do in which he sins:

⁴“then it shall be, because he has sinned and is guilty, that he shall ³restore ^gwhat he has stolen, or the thing which he has extorted, or what was delivered to him for safekeeping, or the lost thing which he found,

⁵“or all that about which he has sworn falsely. He shall ^hrestore its full value, add one-fifth more to it, and give it to whomever it belongs, on the day of his trespass offering.

⁶“And he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD, ⁱa ram without blemish from the flock, with your ⁴valuation, as a trespass offering, to the priest. Word Studies: priest

^{7j}“So the priest shall make atonement for him before the LORD, and he shall be forgiven for any one of these things that he may have done in which he trespasses.”

The Law of the Burnt Offering

⁸Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

^{10l}“And the priest shall put on his linen garment, and his linen trousers he shall put on his body, and take up the ashes of the burnt offering which the fire has consumed on the altar, and he shall put them ^mbeside the altar.

¹¹“Then ⁿhe shall take off his garments, put on other garments, and carry the ashes outside the camp ^oto a clean place.

¹²“And the fire on the altar shall be kept burning on it; it shall not be put out. And the priest shall burn wood on it every morning, and lay the burnt offering in order on it; and he shall burn on it ^pthe fat of the peace offerings.

¹³“A fire shall always be burning on the ^qaltar; it shall never go out.

The Law of the Grain Offering

¹⁴“This is the law of the grain offering: The sons of Aaron shall offer it on the altar before the LORD.

¹⁶“And the remainder of it Aaron and his sons shall eat; with unleavened bread it shall be eaten in a holy place; in the court of the tabernacle of meeting they shall eat it.

¹⁷“It shall not be baked with leaven. I have given it as their ⁵portion of My offerings made by fire; it is most holy, like the sin offering and the ^rtrespass offering.

^{18s}“All the males among the children of Aaron may eat it. ^t*It shall be* a statute forever in your generations concerning the offerings made by fire to the LORD. ^u“Everyone who touches them must be holy.’ ”

¹⁹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

^{20v}“This is the offering of Aaron and his sons, which they shall offer to the LORD, beginning on the day when he is anointed: one-tenth of an ^wephah of fine flour as a daily grain offering, half of it in the morning and half of it at night.

²²“The priest from among his sons, ^ywho is anointed in his place, shall offer it. It is a statute forever to the LORD. ^zIt shall be ⁷wholly burned.

²³“For every grain offering for the priest shall be wholly burned. It shall not be eaten.”

The Law of the Sin Offering

²⁴Also the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²⁵“Speak to Aaron and to his sons, saying, ‘This is the law of the sin offering: ^aIn the place where the burnt offering is killed, the sin offering shall be killed before the LORD. It is most holy.

^{26b}“The priest who offers it for sin shall eat it. In a holy place it shall be eaten, in the court of the tabernacle of meeting.

^{27c}“Everyone who touches its flesh ⁸must be holy. And when its blood is sprinkled on any garment, you shall wash that on which it was sprinkled, in a holy place.

²⁸‘But the earthen vessel in which it is boiled ^dshall be broken. And if it is boiled in a bronze pot, it shall be both scoured and rinsed in water.

²⁹‘All the males among the priests may eat it. It is most holy.

^{30e}‘But no sin offering from which any of the blood is brought into the tabernacle of meeting, to make atonement in ⁹the holy ^fplace, shall be ^geaten. It shall be ^hburned in the fire.

Leviticus 7

The Law of the Trespass Offering

¹‘Likewise ^athis is the law of the trespass offering (it is most holy):

²‘In the place where they kill the burnt offering they shall kill the trespass offering. And its blood he shall sprinkle all around on the altar.

³‘And he shall offer from it all its fat. The fat tail and the fat that covers the entrails,

⁴‘the two kidneys and the fat that is on them by the flanks, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver above the kidneys, he shall remove;

⁵‘and the priest shall burn them on the altar as an offering made by fire to the LORD. It is a trespass offering.

^{6b}‘Every male among the priests may eat it. It shall be eaten in a holy place. ^cIt is most holy.

^{7d}‘The trespass offering is like the sin offering; there is one law for them both: the priest who makes atonement with it shall have it.

⁸‘And the priest who offers anyone’s burnt offering, that priest shall have for himself the skin of the burnt offering which he has offered.

⁹‘Also ^eevery grain offering that is baked in the oven and all that is prepared in the covered pan, or ¹in a pan, shall be the priest’s who offers it.

¹⁰‘Every grain offering, whether mixed with oil or dry, shall belong to all the sons of Aaron, to one as much as the other.

The Law of Peace Offerings

^{11f}‘This is the law of the sacrifice of peace offerings which he shall offer to the LORD:

¹²‘If he offers it for a thanksgiving, then he shall offer, with the sacrifice of thanksgiving, unleavened cakes mixed with oil, unleavened wafers ^ganointed with oil, or cakes of blended flour mixed with oil.

¹³‘Besides the cakes, as his offering he shall offer ^hleavened bread with the sacrifice of thanksgiving of his peace offering.

¹⁴‘And from it he shall offer one cake from each offering as a heave offering to the LORD. ⁱIt shall belong to the priest who sprinkles the blood of the peace offering.

^{15j}‘The flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offering for thanksgiving shall be eaten the same day it is offered. He shall not leave any of it until morning.

¹⁶‘But ^kif the sacrifice of his offering is a vow or a voluntary offering, it shall be eaten the same day that he offers his sacrifice; but on the next day the remainder of it also may be eaten;

¹⁷‘the remainder of the flesh of the sacrifice on the third day must be burned with fire.

¹⁸‘And if any of the flesh of the sacrifice of his peace offering is eaten at all on the third day, it shall not be accepted, nor shall it be ^limputed to him; it shall be an ^mabomination to him who offers it, and the person who eats of it shall bear ²guilt.

²⁰‘But the person who eats the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace offering that belongs to the ⁿLORD, ^owhile he is unclean, that person ^pshall be cut off from his people.

²¹‘Moreover the person who touches any unclean thing, such as ^qhuman uncleanness, an ^runclean animal, or any ^sabominable⁴ unclean thing, and who eats the flesh of the sacrifice of the peace offering that belongs to the LORD, that person ^tshall be cut off from his people.’ ”

Fat and Blood May Not Be Eaten

²²And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²³“Speak to the children of Israel, saying: ^u“You shall not eat any fat, of ox or sheep or goat.

²⁴‘And the fat of an animal that dies naturally, and the fat of what is torn by wild beasts, may be used in any other way; but you shall by no means eat it.

²⁵‘For whoever eats the fat of the animal of which men offer an offering made by fire to the LORD, the person who eats it shall be cut off from his people.

^{26v}‘Moreover you shall not eat any blood in any of your dwellings, whether of bird or beast.

²⁷‘Whoever eats any blood, that person shall be cut off from his people.’ ”

The Portion of Aaron and His Sons

²⁸Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²⁹“Speak to the children of Israel, saying: ^w‘He who offers the sacrifice of his peace offering to the LORD shall bring his offering to the LORD from the sacrifice of his peace offering.

^{30x}‘His own hands shall bring the offerings made by fire to the LORD. The fat with the breast he shall bring, that the ^ybreast may be waved as a wave offering before the LORD.

^{31z}‘And the priest shall burn the fat on the altar, but the ^abreast shall be Aaron’s and his sons’.

^{32b}‘Also the right thigh you shall give to the priest as a heave offering from the sacrifices of your peace offerings.

³³‘He among the sons of Aaron, who offers the blood of the peace offering and the fat, shall have the right thigh for his part.

³⁴‘For ^cthe breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering I have taken from the children of Israel, from the sacrifices of their peace offerings, and I have given them to Aaron the priest and to his sons from the children of Israel by a statute forever.’ ”

³⁵This is the consecrated portion for Aaron and his sons, from the offerings made by fire to the LORD, on the day when Moses presented them to ⁵minister to the LORD as priests.

³⁶The LORD commanded this to be given to them by the children of Israel, ^don the day that He anointed them, by a statute forever throughout their generations.

³⁷This is the law ^eof the burnt offering, ^fthe grain offering, ^gthe sin offering, ^hthe trespass offering, ⁱthe consecrations, and ^jthe sacrifice of the peace

offering,

³⁸which the LORD commanded Moses on Mount Sinai, on the day when He commanded the children of Israel ^kto offer their offerings to the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai.

Leviticus 8

Aaron and His Sons Consecrated

(Ex. 29:1–37)

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

^{2a}“Take Aaron and his sons with him, and ^bthe garments, ^cthe anointing oil, a ^dbull as the sin offering, two ^erams, and a basket of unleavened bread;

³“and gather all the congregation together at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.”

⁴So Moses did as the LORD commanded him. And the congregation was gathered together at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

⁵And Moses said to the congregation, “This is what the LORD commanded to be done.”

⁶Then Moses brought Aaron and his sons and ^fwashed them with water.

⁷And he ^gput the tunic on him, girded him with the sash, clothed him with the robe, and put the ephod on him; and he girded him with the intricately woven band of the ephod, and with it tied the ephod on him.

⁸Then he put the breastplate on him, and he ^hput the ¹Urim and the Thummim in the breastplate.

⁹ⁱAnd he put the turban on his head. Also on the turban, on its front, he put the golden plate, the holy crown, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{10j}Also Moses took the anointing oil, and anointed the tabernacle and all that was in it, and consecrated them.

¹¹He sprinkled some of it on the altar seven times, anointed the altar and all its utensils, and the laver and its base, to ²consecrate them.

¹²And he ^kpoured some of the anointing oil on Aaron’s head and anointed him, to consecrate him.

^{13l}Then Moses brought Aaron’s sons and put tunics on them, girded them with sashes, and put ³hats on them, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

^{14m}And he brought the bull for the sin offering. Then Aaron and his sons ⁿlaid their hands on the head of the bull for the sin offering, ¹⁵and Moses killed it. ^oThen he took the blood, and put some on the horns of the altar all around with his finger, and purified the altar. And he poured the blood at the base of the altar, and consecrated it, to make ⁴atonement for it.

^{16p}Then he took all the fat that was on the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, and the two kidneys with their fat, and Moses burned them on the altar.

¹⁷But the bull, its hide, its flesh, and its offal, he burned with fire outside the camp, as the LORD ^qhad commanded Moses.

¹⁸^rThen he brought the ram as the burnt offering. And Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, ¹⁹and Moses killed it. Then he sprinkled the blood all around on the altar.

²⁰And he cut the ram into pieces; and Moses ^sburned the head, the pieces, and the fat.

²¹Then he washed the entrails and the legs in water. And Moses burned the whole ram on the altar. It was a burnt sacrifice for a ⁵sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD, ^tas the LORD had commanded Moses.

²²And ^uhe brought the second ram, the ram of consecration. Then Aaron and his sons laid their hands on the head of the ram, ²³and Moses killed it. Also he took some of ^vits blood and put it on the tip of Aaron's right ear, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot.

²⁴Then he brought Aaron's sons. And Moses put some of the ^wblood on the tips of their right ears, on the thumbs of their right hands, and on the big toes of their right feet. And Moses sprinkled the blood all around on the altar.

²⁵^xThen he took the fat and the fat tail, all the fat that was on the entrails, the fatty lobe attached to the liver, the two kidneys and their fat, and the right thigh;

²⁶^yand from the basket of unleavened bread that was before the LORD he took one unleavened cake, a cake of bread anointed with oil, and one wafer, and put them on the fat and on the right thigh;

²⁷and he put all these ^zin Aaron's hands and in his sons' hands, and waved them as a wave offering before the LORD.

²⁹And ^bMoses took the ^cbreast and waved it as a wave offering before the LORD. It was Moses' ^dpart of the ram of consecration, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

³⁰Then ^eMoses took some of the anointing oil and some of the blood which was on the altar, and sprinkled it on Aaron, on his garments, on his sons, and on the garments of his sons with him; and he consecrated Aaron, his garments, his sons, and the garments of his sons with him.

³¹And Moses said to Aaron and his sons, ^f“Boil the flesh at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and eat it there with the bread that is in the basket of consecration offerings, as I commanded, saying, ‘Aaron and his sons shall eat it.’

^{32g}“What remains of the flesh and of the bread you shall burn with fire.

³³“And you shall not go outside the door of the tabernacle of meeting for seven days, until the days of your consecration are ended. For ^hseven days he shall consecrate you.

³⁴ⁱ“As he has done this day, so the LORD has commanded to do, to make atonement for you.

³⁵“Therefore you shall stay at the door of the tabernacle of meeting day and night for seven days, and ^jkeep the ⁶charge of the LORD, so that you may not die; for so I have been commanded.”

³⁶So Aaron and his sons did all the things that the LORD had commanded by the hand of Moses.

Leviticus 9

The Priestly Ministry Begins

¹It came to pass on the ^aeighth day that Moses called Aaron and his sons and the elders of Israel.

²And he said to Aaron, “Take for yourself a young ^bbull as a sin offering and a ram as a burnt offering, without blemish, and offer them before the LORD.

⁴‘also a bull and a ram as peace offerings, to sacrifice before the LORD, and ^da grain offering mixed with oil; for ^etoday the LORD will appear to you.’ ”

⁵So they brought what Moses commanded before the tabernacle of meeting. And all the congregation drew near and stood ¹before the LORD.

⁶Then Moses said, “This is the thing which the LORD commanded you to do, and the glory of the LORD will appear to you.”

⁷And Moses said to Aaron, “Go to the altar, ^foffer your sin offering and your burnt offering, and make atonement for yourself and for the people. ⁸Offer the offering of the people, and make atonement for them, as the LORD commanded.” Word Studies: make atonement

⁸Aaron therefore went to the altar and killed the calf of the sin offering, which was for himself.

⁹Then the sons of Aaron brought the blood to him. And he dipped his finger in the blood, put it on the horns of the altar, and poured the blood at the base of the altar.

^{10h}But the fat, the kidneys, and the fatty lobe from the liver of the sin offering he burned on the altar, as the LORD had commanded Moses.

¹¹ⁱThe flesh and the hide he burned with fire outside the camp.

¹²And he killed the burnt offering; and Aaron’s sons presented to him the blood, ^jwhich he sprinkled all around on the altar.

^{13k}Then they presented the burnt offering to him, with its pieces and head, and he burned them on the altar.

^{14l}And he washed the entrails and the legs, and burned them with the burnt offering on the altar.

^{15m}Then he brought the people’s offering, and took the goat, which was the sin offering for the people, and killed it and offered it for sin, like the first one.

¹⁶And he brought the burnt offering and offered it ⁿaccording to the ²prescribed manner.

¹⁷Then he brought the grain offering, took a handful of it, and burned it on the altar, ^obesides the burnt sacrifice of the morning.

¹⁸He also killed the bull and the ram as ^psacrifices of peace offerings, which were for the people. And Aaron's sons presented to him the blood, which he sprinkled all around on the altar,

¹⁹and the fat from the bull and the ram—the fatty tail, what covers the entrails and the kidneys, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver;

²⁰and they put the fat on the breasts. ^qThen he burned the fat on the altar;

²¹but the breasts and the right thigh Aaron waved ^ras a wave offering before the LORD, as Moses had commanded.

²²Then Aaron lifted his hand toward the people, ^sblessed them, and came down from offering the sin offering, the burnt offering, and peace offerings.

²³And Moses and Aaron went into the tabernacle of meeting, and came out and blessed the people. Then the glory of the LORD appeared to all the people, ²⁴and ^tfire came out from before the LORD and consumed the burnt offering and the fat on the altar. When all the people saw it, they ^ushouted and fell on their ^vfaces.

Leviticus 10

The Profane Fire of Nadab and Abihu

¹Then ^aNadab and Abihu, the sons of Aaron, ^beach took his censer and put fire in it, put incense on it, and offered ^cprofane fire before the LORD, which He had not commanded them.

²So ^dfire went out from the LORD and devoured them, and they died before the LORD. Word Studies: fire

³And Moses said to Aaron, “This is what the LORD spoke, saying:

‘By those ^ewho come near Me
I must be regarded as holy;

And before all the people
I must be glorified.' ”

So Aaron held his peace.

⁴Then Moses called Mishael and Elzaphan, the sons of Uzziel the uncle of Aaron, and said to them, “Come near, ^fcarry your brethren from ¹before the sanctuary out of the camp.”

⁵So they went near and carried them by their tunics out of the camp, as Moses had said.

⁶And Moses said to Aaron, and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his sons, “Do not ²uncover your heads nor tear your clothes, lest you die, and ^gwrath come upon all the people. But let your brethren, the whole house of Israel, ³bewail the burning which the LORD has kindled.

^{7h}“You shall not go out from the door of the tabernacle of meeting, lest you die, ⁱfor the anointing oil of the LORD is upon you.” And they did according to the word of Moses.

Conduct Prescribed for Priests

⁸Then the LORD spoke to Aaron, saying:

^{9j}“Do not drink wine or intoxicating drink, you, nor your sons with you, when you go into the tabernacle of meeting, lest you die. It shall be a statute forever throughout your generations,

¹⁰“that you may ^kdistinguish between holy and unholy, and between unclean and clean,

¹¹ⁱ“and that you may teach the children of Israel all the statutes which the LORD has spoken to them by the hand of Moses.”

¹²And Moses spoke to Aaron, and to Eleazar and Ithamar, his sons who were left: ^m“Take the grain offering that remains of the offerings made by fire to the LORD, and eat it without leaven beside the altar; ⁿfor it is most holy.

¹³“You shall eat it in a ^oholy place, because it is your ⁴due and your sons’ due, of the sacrifices made by fire to the LORD; for ^pso I have been commanded.

^{14q}“The breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering you shall eat in a clean place, you, your sons, and your ^rdaughters with you; for they are your due and your sons’ ^sdue, which are given from the sacrifices of peace offerings of the children of Israel.

¹⁵“The thigh of the heave offering and the breast of the wave offering they shall bring with the offerings of fat made by fire, to offer as a wave offering before the LORD. And it shall be yours and your sons’ with you, by a statute forever, as the LORD has commanded.”

¹⁶Then Moses made careful inquiry about ^uthe goat of the sin offering, and there it was—burned up. And he was angry with Eleazar and Ithamar, the sons of Aaron who were left, saying, ^{17v}“Why have you not eaten the sin offering in a holy place, since it is most holy, and God has given it to you to bear ^wthe guilt of the congregation, to make atonement for them before the LORD?

¹⁸“See! ^xIts blood was not brought inside ⁵the holy place; indeed you should have eaten it in a holy place, ^yas I commanded.”

¹⁹And Aaron said to Moses, “Look, ^zthis day they have offered their sin offering and their burnt offering before the LORD, and such things have befallen me! If I had eaten the sin offering today, ^awould it have been accepted in the sight of the LORD?”

²⁰So when Moses heard that, he was content.

Leviticus 11

Foods Permitted and Forbidden

(Deut. 14:3–21)

¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying to them,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, saying, ^a‘These are the animals which you may eat among all the animals that are on the earth:

³‘Among the animals, whatever divides the hoof, having cloven hooves and chewing the cud—that you may eat.

⁴‘Nevertheless these you shall ^bnot eat among those that chew the cud or those that have cloven hooves: the camel, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is ¹unclean to you;

⁵‘the ²rock hyrax, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is ³unclean to you;

⁶‘the hare, because it chews the cud but does not have cloven hooves, is unclean to you;

⁷‘and the swine, though it divides the hoof, having cloven hooves, yet does not chew the cud, ^cis unclean to you.

⁸‘Their flesh you shall not eat, and their carcasses you shall not touch. ^dThey are unclean to you.

^{9e}‘These you may eat of all that are in the water: whatever in the water has fins and scales, whether in the seas or in the rivers—that you may eat.

¹⁰‘But all in the seas or in the rivers that do not have fins and scales, all that move in the water or any living thing which is in the water, they are ⁴an ^fabomination to you.

¹¹‘They shall be an abomination to you; you shall not eat their flesh, but you shall regard their carcasses as an abomination.

¹²‘Whatever in the water does not have fins or scales—that shall be an abomination to you.

^{13g}‘And these you shall regard as an abomination among the birds; they shall not be eaten, they are an abomination: the eagle, the vulture, the buzzard,

¹⁴‘the kite, and the falcon after its kind;

¹⁵‘every raven after its kind,

¹⁶‘the ostrich, the short-eared owl, the sea gull, and the hawk after its kind;

¹⁷‘the little owl, the fisher owl, and the screech owl;

¹⁸‘the white owl, the jackdaw, and the carrion vulture;

¹⁹‘the stork, the heron after its kind, the hoopoe, and the bat.

²⁰‘All flying insects that creep on all fours shall be an abomination to you.

²¹‘Yet these you may eat of every flying insect that creeps on all fours: those which have jointed legs above their feet with which to leap on the earth.

²²‘These you may eat: ^hthe locust after its kind, the destroying locust after its kind, the cricket after its kind, and the grasshopper after its kind.

²³‘But all other flying insects which have four feet shall be an abomination to you.

Unclean Animals

²⁴‘By these you shall become ⁵unclean; whoever touches the carcass of any of them shall be unclean until evening;

²⁵‘whoever carries part of the carcass of any of them ⁱshall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening:

²⁶‘The carcass of any animal which divides the foot, but is not cloven-hoofed or does not chew the cud, is unclean to you. Everyone who touches it shall be unclean.

²⁷‘And whatever goes on its paws, among all kinds of animals that go on all fours, those are unclean to you. Whoever touches any such carcass shall be unclean until evening.

²⁸‘Whoever carries any such carcass shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening. It is unclean to you.

²⁹‘These also shall be unclean to you among the creeping things that creep on the earth: the mole, ^jthe mouse, and the large lizard after its kind;

³⁰‘the gecko, the monitor lizard, the sand reptile, the sand lizard, and the chameleon.

³¹‘These are unclean to you among all that creep. Whoever ^ktouches them when they are dead shall be unclean until evening.

³³‘Any ^mearthen vessel into which any of them falls ⁿyou shall break; and whatever is in it shall be unclean:

³⁴‘in such a vessel, any edible food upon which water falls becomes unclean, and any drink that may be drunk from it becomes unclean.

³⁷‘And if a part of any such carcass falls on any planting seed which is to be sown, it remains clean.

³⁸‘But if water is put on the seed, and if a part of any such carcass falls on it, it becomes ⁷unclean to you.

³⁹‘And if any animal which you may eat dies, he who touches its carcass shall be ^ounclean until evening.

^{40p}‘He who eats of its carcass shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening. He also who carries its carcass shall wash his clothes and be unclean until evening.

⁴¹‘And every creeping thing that creeps on the earth shall be ⁸an abomination. It shall not be eaten.

^{43q}‘You shall not make ⁹yourselves ¹⁰abominable with any creeping thing that creeps; nor shall you make yourselves unclean with them, lest you be defiled by them.

⁴⁴‘For I am the LORD your ^rGod. You shall therefore consecrate yourselves, and ^syou shall be holy; for I am holy. Neither shall you defile yourselves with any creeping thing that creeps on the earth.

^{45t}‘For I am the LORD who brings you up out of the land of Egypt, to be your God. ^uYou shall therefore be holy, for I am holy.

⁴⁶‘This is the law ¹¹of the animals and the birds and every living creature that moves in the waters, and of every creature that creeps on the earth,

^{47v}‘to distinguish between the unclean and the clean, and between the animal that may be eaten and the animal that may not be eaten.’ ”

Leviticus 12

The Ritual After Childbirth

(cf. Luke 2:22–24)

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, saying: ‘If a ^awoman has conceived, and borne a male child, then ^bshe shall be ¹unclean seven days; ^cas in the days of her customary impurity she shall be unclean.

³‘And on the ^deighth day the flesh of his foreskin shall be circumcised.

⁴‘She shall then continue in the blood of her purification thirty-three days. She shall not touch any ²hallowed thing, nor come into the sanctuary until the days of her purification are fulfilled.

⁵‘But if she bears a female child, then she shall be unclean two weeks, as in her customary impurity, and she shall continue in the blood of her purification sixty-six days.

^{6e}‘When the days of her purification are fulfilled, whether for a son or a daughter, she shall bring to the priest a ^flamb ³of the first year as a burnt offering, and a young pigeon or a turtledove as a ^gsin offering, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

⁷‘Then he shall offer it before the LORD, and make ⁴atonement for her. And she shall be clean from the flow of her blood. This is the law for her who has borne a male or a female.

^{8h}‘And if she is not able to bring a lamb, then she may bring two turtledoves or two young pigeons—one as a burnt offering and the other as a sin offering. ⁱSo the priest shall make atonement for her, and she will be ⁵clean.’ ”

Leviticus 13

The Law Concerning Leprosy

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: Bible Times & Culture Notes: Leprosy

²“When a man has on the skin of his body a swelling, ^aa scab, or a bright spot, and it becomes on the skin of his body like a ¹leprous sore, ^bthen he shall be brought to Aaron the priest or to one of his sons the priests.

⁴“But if the bright spot is white on the skin of his body, and does not appear to be deeper than the skin, and its hair has not turned white, then the priest shall isolate the one who has the sore ^cseven days.

⁵“And the priest shall examine him on the seventh day; and indeed if the sore appears to be as it was, and the sore has not spread on the skin, then the priest shall isolate him another seven days.

⁶“Then the priest shall examine him again on the seventh day; and indeed if the sore has faded, and the sore has not spread on the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean; it is only a scab, and he ^dshall wash his clothes and be clean.

⁷“But if the scab should at all spread over the skin, after he has been seen by the priest for his cleansing, he shall be seen by the priest again.

⁸“And if the priest sees that the scab has indeed spread on the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him ³unclean. It is leprosy.

⁹“When the leprous sore is on a person, then he shall be brought to the priest.

^{10e}“And the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the swelling on the skin is white, and it has turned the hair white, and there is a spot of raw flesh in the swelling, ¹¹“it is an old leprosy on the skin of his body. The priest shall pronounce him ⁴unclean, and shall not isolate him, for he is unclean.

¹²“And if leprosy breaks out all over the skin, and the leprosy covers all the skin of the one who has the sore, from his head to his foot, wherever the priest looks,

¹³“then the priest shall consider; and indeed if the leprosy has covered all his body, he shall pronounce him clean who has the sore. It has all turned ^fwhite. He is clean.

¹⁴“But when raw flesh appears on him, he shall be unclean.

¹⁵“And the priest shall examine the raw flesh and pronounce him to be unclean; for the raw flesh is unclean. It is leprosy.

¹⁶“Or if the raw flesh changes and turns white again, he shall come to the priest.

¹⁷“And the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the sore has turned white, then the priest shall pronounce him clean who has the sore. He is clean.

¹⁸“If the body develops a ⁸boil in the skin, and it is healed,

¹⁹“and in the place of the boil there comes a white swelling or a bright spot, reddish-white, then it shall be shown to the priest;

²⁰“and if, when the priest sees it, it indeed appears deeper than the skin, and its hair has turned white, the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore which has broken out of the boil.

²¹“But if the priest examines it, and indeed there are no white hairs in it, and it is not deeper than the skin, but has faded, then the priest shall isolate him seven days;

²²“and if it should at all spread over the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a ⁵leprous sore.

²³“But if the bright spot stays in one place, and has not spread, it is the scar of the boil; and the priest shall pronounce him clean.

²⁴“Or if the body receives a ^hburn on its skin by fire, and the raw flesh of the burn becomes a bright spot, reddish-white or white,

²⁶“But if the priest examines it, and indeed there are no white hairs in the bright spot, and it is not deeper than the skin, but has faded, then the priest shall isolate him seven days.

²⁷“And the priest shall examine him on the seventh day. If it has at all spread over the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him unclean. It is a leprous sore.

²⁸“But if the bright spot stays in one place, and has not spread on the skin, but has faded, it is a swelling from the burn. The priest shall pronounce him clean, for it is the scar from the burn.

²⁹“If a man or woman has a sore on the head or the beard,

³²“And on the seventh day the priest shall examine the sore; and indeed if the scale has not spread, and there is no yellow hair in it, and the scale does not appear deeper than the skin, ³³“he shall shave himself, but the scale he shall not shave. And the priest shall isolate the one who has the scale another seven days.

³⁴“On the seventh day the priest shall examine the scale; and indeed if the scale has not spread over the skin, and does not appear deeper than the skin, then the priest shall pronounce him clean. He shall wash his clothes and be clean.

³⁵“But if the scale should at all spread over the skin after his cleansing, ³⁶“then the priest shall examine him; and indeed if the scale has spread over the skin, the priest need not seek for yellow hair. He is unclean.

³⁸“If a man or a woman has bright spots on the skin of the body, specifically white bright spots, ³⁹“then the priest shall look; and indeed if the bright spots on the skin of the body are dull white, it is a white spot that grows on the skin. He is clean.

⁴⁰“As for the man whose hair has fallen from his head, he is bald, but he is clean.

⁴¹“He whose hair has fallen from his forehead, he is bald on the forehead, but he is clean.

⁴²“And if there is on the bald head or bald ⁱforehead a reddish-white sore, it is leprosy breaking out on his bald head or his bald forehead.

⁴⁴“he is a leprous man. He is unclean. The priest shall surely pronounce him ⁶unclean; his sore is on his ^jhead.

⁴⁵“Now the leper on whom the sore is, his clothes shall be torn and his head ^kbare; and he shall ^lcover his mustache, and cry, ^m‘Unclean! Unclean!’

⁴⁶“He shall be unclean. All the days he has the sore he shall be unclean. He is unclean, and he shall ⁷dwell alone; his dwelling shall be ⁿoutside the camp.

The Law Concerning Leprous Garments

⁴⁷“Also, if a garment has a ⁸leprous plague in it, whether it is a woolen garment or a linen garment, ⁴⁸“whether it is in the warp or woof of linen or wool, whether in leather or in anything made of leather,

⁵⁰“The priest shall examine the plague and isolate that which has the plague seven days.

⁵¹“And he shall examine the plague on the seventh day. If the plague has spread in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, in the leather or in anything made of leather, the plague is ^oan active leprosy. It is unclean.

⁵²“He shall therefore burn that garment in which is the plague, whether warp or woof, in wool or in linen, or anything of leather, for it is an active leprosy; the garment shall be burned in the fire.

⁵³“But if the priest examines it, and indeed the plague has not spread in the garment, either in the warp or in the woof, or in anything made of leather, ⁵⁴“then the priest shall command that they wash the thing in which is the plague; and he shall isolate it another seven days.

⁵⁵“Then the priest shall examine the plague after it has been washed; and indeed if the plague has not changed its color, though the plague has not spread, it is unclean, and you shall burn it in the fire; it continues eating away, whether the damage is outside or inside.

⁵⁶“If the priest examines it, and indeed the plague has faded after washing it, then he shall tear it out of the garment, whether out of the warp or out of the woof, or out of the leather.

⁵⁸“And if you wash the garment, either warp or woof, or whatever is made of leather, if the plague has disappeared from it, then it shall be washed a second time, and shall be clean.

⁵⁹“This is the law of the leprous plague in a garment of wool or linen, either in the warp or woof, or in anything made of leather, to pronounce it clean or to pronounce it unclean.”

Leviticus 14

The Ritual for Cleansing Healed Lepers

(cf. Matt. 8:1–4; Luke 5:12–14)

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“This shall be the law of the ¹leper for the day of his cleansing: He ^ashall be brought to the priest.

³“And the priest shall go out of the camp, and the priest shall examine him; and indeed, if the ²leprosy is healed in the leper, ⁴“then the priest shall command to take for him who is to be cleansed two living and clean birds, ^bcedar wood, ^cscarlet, and ^dhyssop.

⁵“And the priest shall command that one of the birds be killed in an earthen vessel over running water.

⁶“As for the living bird, he shall take it, the cedar wood and the scarlet and the hyssop, and dip them and the living bird in the blood of the bird that was killed over the running water.

⁷“And he shall ^esprinkle it ^fseven times on him who is to be cleansed from the leprosy, and shall pronounce him clean, and shall let the living bird loose in the open field.

⁸“He who is to be cleansed ^gshall wash his clothes, shave off all his hair, and ^hwash himself in water, that he may be clean. After that he shall come into the camp, and ⁱshall stay outside his tent seven days.

⁹“But on the ^jseventh day he shall shave all the hair off his head and his beard and his eyebrows—all his hair he shall shave off. He shall wash his clothes and wash his body in water, and he shall be clean.

¹¹“Then the priest who makes him clean shall present the man who is to be made clean, and those things, before the LORD, at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

¹²“And the priest shall take one male lamb and ^moffer it as a trespass offering, and the log of oil, and ⁿwave them as a wave offering before the LORD.

¹³“Then he shall kill the lamb ^oin the place where he kills the sin offering and the burnt offering, in a holy place; for ^pas the sin offering is the priest's, so is the trespass offering. ^qIt is most holy.

¹⁵“And the priest shall take some of the log of oil, and pour it into the palm of his own left hand.

¹⁸“The rest of the oil that is in the priest's hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed. ^tSo the priest shall make ³atonement for him before the LORD.

¹⁹“Then the priest shall offer ^uthe sin offering, and make atonement for him who is to be cleansed from his uncleanness. Afterward he shall kill the burnt offering. Charts and Diagrams: The Offerings

²⁰“And the priest shall offer the burnt offering and the grain offering on the altar. So the priest shall make atonement for him, and he shall be ^vclean.

²¹“But ^wif he is poor and cannot afford it, then he shall take one male lamb as a trespass offering to be waved, to make atonement for him, ⁴one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering, a log of oil, ^{22x}“and two turtledoves or two young pigeons, such as he is able to afford: one shall be a sin offering and the other a burnt offering.

^{23y}“He shall bring them to the priest on the eighth day for his cleansing, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, before the LORD.

^{24z}“And the priest shall take the lamb of the trespass offering and the log of oil, and the priest shall wave them as a wave offering before the LORD.

²⁵“Then he shall kill the lamb of the trespass offering, ^aand the priest shall take some of the blood of the trespass offering and put it on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of his right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot.

²⁶“And the priest shall pour some of the oil into the palm of his own left hand.

²⁷“Then the priest shall sprinkle with his right finger some of the oil that is in his left hand seven times before the LORD.

²⁸“And the priest shall put some of the oil that is in his hand on the tip of the right ear of him who is to be cleansed, on the thumb of the right hand, and on the big toe of his right foot, on the place of the blood of the trespass offering.

²⁹“The rest of the oil that is in the priest’s hand he shall put on the head of him who is to be cleansed, to make atonement for him before the LORD.

³⁰“And he shall offer one of ^bthe turtledoves or young pigeons, such as he can afford—

³¹“such as he is able to afford, the one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering, with the grain offering. So the priest shall make atonement for him who is to be cleansed before the LORD.

³²“This is the law for one who had a leprous sore, who cannot afford ^cthe usual cleansing.”

The Law Concerning Leprous Houses

³³And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying:

^{34d}“When you have come into the land of Canaan, which I give you as a possession, and ^eI put the ⁵leprous plague in a house in the land of your possession,

³⁵“and he who owns the house comes and tells the priest, saying, ‘It seems to me that there is ^fsome plague in the house,’ ³⁶“then the priest shall command that they empty the house, before the priest goes into it to examine the plague, that all that is in the house may not be made unclean; and afterward the priest shall go in to examine the house.

³⁷“And he shall examine the plague; and indeed if the plague is on the walls of the house with ingrained streaks, greenish or reddish, which appear to be ⁶deep in the wall, ³⁸“then the priest shall go out of the house, to the door of the house, and ⁷shut up the house seven days.

³⁹“And the priest shall come again on the seventh day and look; and indeed if the plague has spread on the walls of the house, ⁴⁰“then the priest shall command that they take away the stones in which is the plague, and they shall cast them into an unclean place outside the city.

⁴¹“And he shall cause the house to be scraped inside, all around, and the dust that they scrape off they shall pour out in an unclean place outside the city.

⁴²“Then they shall take other stones and put them in the place of those stones, and he shall take other mortar and plaster the house.

⁴³“Now if the plague comes back and breaks out in the house, after he has taken away the stones, after he has scraped the house, and after it is plastered, ⁴⁴“then the priest shall come and look; and indeed if the plague has spread in the house, it is ⁸an active leprosy in the house. It is unclean.

⁴⁵“And he shall break down the house, its stones, its timber, and all the plaster of the house, and he shall carry them outside the city to an unclean place.

⁴⁶“Moreover he who goes into the house at all while it is shut up shall be ⁸unclean ^huntil evening.

⁴⁷“And he who lies down in the house shall ⁱwash his clothes, and he who eats in the house shall wash his clothes.

⁴⁸“But if the priest comes in and examines it, and indeed the plague has not spread in the house after the house was plastered, then the priest shall pronounce the house clean, because the plague is healed.

⁴⁹“And ^jhe shall take, to cleanse the house, two birds, cedar wood, scarlet, and hyssop.

⁵⁰“Then he shall kill one of the birds in an earthen vessel over running water; ⁵¹“and he shall take the cedar wood, the hyssop, the scarlet, and the living bird, and dip them in the blood of the slain bird and in the running water, and sprinkle the house seven times.

⁵²“And he shall ⁹cleanse the house with the blood of the bird and the running water and the living bird, with the cedar wood, the hyssop, and the scarlet.

⁵³“Then he shall let the living bird loose outside the city in the open field, and ^kmake atonement for the house, and it shall be clean.

⁵⁴“This is the law for any ^lleprous sore and scale, ⁵⁵“for the ^mleprosy of a garment ⁿand of a house,

^{56o}“for a swelling and a scab and a bright spot,

⁵⁷“to ^pteach when it is unclean and when it is clean. This is the law of leprosy.”

Leviticus 15

The Law Concerning Bodily Discharges

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ^a“When any man has a discharge from his body, his discharge is unclean.

³“And this shall be his uncleanness in regard to his discharge—whether his body runs with his discharge, or his body is stopped up by his discharge, it is his uncleanness.

⁴“Every bed is ¹unclean on which he who has the discharge lies, and everything on which he sits shall be unclean.

⁵“And whoever ^btouches his bed shall ^cwash his clothes and ^dbathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

⁶“He who sits on anything on which he who has the ^edischarge sat shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

⁷“And he who touches the body of him who has the discharge shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

⁸“If he who has the discharge ^fspits on him who is clean, then he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

⁹“Any saddle on which he who has the discharge rides shall be unclean.

¹⁰“Whoever touches anything that was under him shall be unclean until evening. He who carries any of those things shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

¹¹“And whomever the one who has the discharge touches, and has not rinsed his hands in water, he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

¹²“The ^gvessel of earth that he who has the discharge touches shall be broken, and every vessel of wood shall be rinsed in water.

¹⁴“On the eighth day he shall take for himself ⁱtwo turtledoves or two young pigeons, and come before the LORD, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and give them to the priest.

¹⁵“Then the priest shall offer them, ^jthe one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering. ^kSo the priest shall make ²atonement for him before the LORD because of his discharge.

¹⁶‘If any man has an emission of semen, then he shall wash all his body in water, and be unclean until evening.

¹⁷‘And any garment and any leather on which there is semen, it shall be washed with water, and be unclean until evening.

¹⁸‘Also, when a woman lies with a man, and there is an emission of semen, they shall bathe in water, and ^mbe unclean until evening.

¹⁹ⁿ‘If a woman has a discharge, and the discharge from her body is blood, she shall be ³set apart seven days; and whoever touches her shall be unclean until evening.

²⁰‘Everything that she lies on during her impurity shall be unclean; also everything that she sits on shall be unclean.

²¹‘Whoever touches her bed shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

²²‘And whoever touches anything that she sat on shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

²³‘If anything is on her bed or on anything on which she sits, when he touches it, he shall be unclean until evening.

²⁶‘Every bed on which she lies all the days of her discharge shall be to her as the bed of her impurity; and whatever she sits on shall be unclean, as the uncleanness of her impurity.

²⁷‘Whoever touches those things shall be unclean; he shall wash his clothes and bathe in water, and be unclean until evening.

²⁸‘But ^qif she is cleansed of her discharge, then she shall count for herself seven days, and after that she shall be clean.

²⁹‘And on the eighth day she shall take for herself two turtledoves or two young pigeons, and bring them to the priest, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

³¹‘Thus you shall ^sseparate the children of Israel from their uncleanness, lest they die in their uncleanness when they ^tdefile My tabernacle that is among them.

^{32u}“This is the law for one who has a discharge, ^vand for him who emits semen and is unclean thereby,

^{33w}“and for her who is indisposed because of her customary impurity, and for one who has a discharge, either man ^xor woman, ^yand for him who lies with her who is unclean.’ ”

Leviticus 16

The Day of Atonement

¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses after ^athe death of the two sons of Aaron, when they offered profane fire before the LORD, and died;

²and the LORD said to Moses: “Tell Aaron your brother ^bnot to come at just any time into the Holy Place inside the veil, before the mercy seat which is on the ark, lest he die; for ^cI will appear in the cloud above the mercy seat.

³¹“Thus Aaron shall ^dcome into the Holy Place: ^ewith the blood of a young bull as a sin offering, and of a ram as a burnt offering.

⁵“And he shall take from ^hthe congregation of the children of Israel two kids of the goats as a sin offering, and one ram as a burnt offering. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Goats

⁶“Aaron shall offer the bull as a sin offering, which is for himself, and ⁱmake atonement for himself and for his house.

⁷“He shall take the two goats and present them before the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

⁸“Then Aaron shall cast lots for the two goats: one lot for the LORD and the other lot for the scapegoat.

⁹“And Aaron shall bring the goat on which the LORD’s lot fell, and offer it as a sin offering.

¹⁰“But the goat on which the lot fell to be the scapegoat shall be presented alive before the LORD, to make ^jatonement upon it, and to let it go as the scapegoat into the wilderness.

¹¹“And Aaron shall bring the bull of the sin offering, which is for ^khimself, and make atonement for himself and for his house, and shall kill the bull as the sin offering which is for himself.

¹²“Then he shall take ^la censer full of burning coals of fire from the altar before the LORD, with his hands full of ^msweet incense beaten fine, and bring it inside the veil.

¹³ⁿ“And he shall put the incense on the fire before the LORD, that the cloud of incense may cover the ^omercy seat that is on the Testimony, lest he ^pdie.

¹⁴^q“He shall take some of the blood of the bull and ^rsprinkle it with his finger on the mercy seat on the east side; and before the mercy seat he shall sprinkle some of the blood with his finger seven times.

^{15s}“Then he shall kill the goat of the sin offering, which is for the people, bring its blood ^tinside the veil, do with that blood as he did with the blood of the bull, and sprinkle it on the mercy seat and before the mercy seat.

¹⁶“So he shall ^umake atonement for the Holy Place, because of the uncleanness of the children of Israel, and because of their transgressions, for all their sins; and so he shall do for the tabernacle of meeting which remains among them in the midst of their uncleanness. Word Studies: transgressions

¹⁷“There shall be ^vno man in the tabernacle of meeting when he goes in to make atonement in the Holy Place, until he comes out, that he may make atonement for himself, for his household, and for all the assembly of Israel.

¹⁹“Then he shall sprinkle some of the blood on it with his finger seven times, cleanse it, and ^xconsecrate² it from the ³uncleanness of the children of Israel.

²⁰“And when he has made an end of atoning for the Holy Place, the tabernacle of meeting, and the altar, he shall bring the live goat.

²²“The goat ⁴shall ^abear on itself all their iniquities to an ⁵uninhabited land; and he shall ^brelease the goat in the wilderness.

²³“Then Aaron shall come into the tabernacle of meeting, ^cshall take off the linen garments which he put on when he went into the Holy Place, and shall leave them there.

²⁴“And he shall wash his body with water in a holy place, put on his garments, come out and offer his burnt offering and the burnt offering of the people, and make ⁶atonement for himself and for the people.

^{25d}“The fat of the sin offering he shall burn on the altar.

²⁶“And he who released the goat as the scapegoat shall wash his clothes ^eand bathe his body in water, and afterward he may come into the camp.

^{27f}“The bull for the sin offering and the goat for the sin offering, whose blood was brought in to make atonement in the Holy Place, shall be carried outside the camp. And they shall burn in the fire their skins, their flesh, and their offal.

²⁸“Then he who burns them shall wash his clothes and bathe his body in water, and afterward he may come into the camp.

²⁹“This shall be a statute forever for you: ⁸In the seventh month, on the tenth day of the month, you shall ⁷afflict your souls, and do no work at all, whether a native of your own country or a stranger who ⁸dwells among you.

³⁰“For on that day the priest shall make ⁹atonement for you, to ^hcleanse you, that you may be clean from all your sins before the LORD.

³¹ⁱ“It is a sabbath of solemn rest for you, and you shall afflict your souls. It is a statute forever.

^{32j}“And the priest, who is anointed and ^kconsecrated to minister as priest in his father’s place, shall make atonement, and put on the linen clothes, the holy garments;

³³“then he shall make ¹⁰atonement for ¹¹the Holy Sanctuary, and he shall make atonement for the tabernacle of meeting and for the altar, and he shall make atonement for the priests and for all the people of the assembly.

³⁴ⁱ“This shall be an everlasting statute for you, to make atonement for the children of Israel, for all their sins, ^monce a year.” And he did as the LORD commanded Moses.

Leviticus 17

The Sanctity of Blood

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“Speak to Aaron, to his sons, and to all the children of Israel, and say to them, ‘This is the thing which the LORD has commanded, saying:

³“Whatever man of the house of Israel who ^akills an ox or lamb or goat in the camp, or who kills it outside the camp,

⁴“and does not bring it to the door of the tabernacle of meeting to offer an offering to the LORD before the tabernacle of the LORD, the guilt of bloodshed shall be ^bimputed to that man. He has shed blood; and that man shall be ¹cut off from among his people,

⁶“And the priest ^dshall sprinkle the blood on the altar of the LORD at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and ^eburn the fat for a sweet aroma to the LORD.

⁷“They shall no more offer their sacrifices ^fto ²demons, after whom they ^ghave played the harlot. This shall be a statute forever for them throughout their generations.” ’

⁸“Also you shall say to them: ‘Whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, ^hwho offers a burnt offering or sacrifice, ⁹“and does not ⁱbring it to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, to offer it to the LORD, that man shall be ³cut off from among his people.

^{10j}“And whatever man of the house of Israel, or of the strangers who dwell among you, who eats any blood, ^kI will set My face against that person who eats blood, and will cut him off from among his people.

¹²“Therefore I said to the children of Israel, ‘No one among you shall eat blood, nor shall any stranger who dwells among you eat blood.’

^{14r}“for it is the life of all flesh. Its blood sustains its life. Therefore I said to the children of Israel, ‘You shall not eat the blood of any flesh, for the life of all flesh is its blood. Whoever eats it shall be cut off.’

¹⁵^s“And every person who eats what died naturally or what was torn by beasts, whether he is a native of your own country or a stranger, ^hhe shall both wash his clothes and ^ubathe in water, and be unclean until evening. Then he shall be clean.

¹⁶“But if he does not wash them or bathe his body, then ^vhe shall bear his ⁴guilt.”

Leviticus 18

Laws of Sexual Morality

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ^a‘I am the LORD your God.

^{3b}‘According to ¹the doings of the land of Egypt, where you dwelt, you shall not do; and ^caccording to the doings of the land of Canaan, where I am bringing you, you shall not do; nor shall you walk in their ²ordinances.

^{4d}‘You shall observe My judgments and keep My ordinances, to walk in them: I am the LORD your God.

⁵‘You shall therefore keep My statutes and My judgments, which if a man does, he shall live by them: I am the LORD.

⁶‘None of you shall approach anyone who is near of kin to him, to uncover his nakedness: I am the LORD.

⁷‘The nakedness of your father or the nakedness of your mother you shall not uncover. She is your mother; you shall not uncover her nakedness.

⁸‘The nakedness of your ^efather’s wife you shall not uncover; it is your father’s nakedness.

^{9f}‘The nakedness of your sister, the daughter of your father, or the daughter of your mother, whether born at home or elsewhere, their nakedness you shall not uncover.

¹⁰‘The nakedness of your son’s daughter or your daughter’s daughter, their nakedness you shall not uncover; for theirs is your own nakedness.

¹¹‘The nakedness of your father’s wife’s daughter, begotten by your father—she is your sister—you shall not uncover her nakedness.

^{12g}‘You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father’s sister; she is near of kin to your father.

¹³‘You shall not uncover the nakedness of your mother’s sister, for she is near of kin to your mother.

^{14h}‘You shall not uncover the nakedness of your father’s brother. You shall not approach his wife; she is your aunt.

¹⁵‘You shall not uncover the nakedness of your daughter-in-law—she is your son’s wife—you shall not uncover her nakedness.

¹⁶‘You shall not uncover the nakedness of your brother’s wife; it is your brother’s nakedness.

¹⁷‘You shall not uncover the nakedness of a woman and her ⁱdaughter, nor shall you take her son's daughter or her daughter's daughter, to uncover her nakedness. They are near of kin to her. It is wickedness.

¹⁸‘Nor shall you take a woman ^jas a rival to her sister, to uncover her nakedness while the other is alive.

¹⁹‘Also you shall not approach a woman to uncover her nakedness as ^klong as she is in her ^lcustomary impurity.

^{20m}‘Moreover you shall not lie carnally with your ⁿneighbor's wife, to defile yourself with her.

²¹‘And you shall not let any of your descendants ^opass through ^pthe fire to ^qMolech, nor shall you profane the name of your God: I am the LORD.

²²‘You shall not lie with ^ra male as with a woman. It is an abomination.

²³‘Nor shall you mate with any ^sanimal, to defile yourself with it. Nor shall any woman stand before an animal to mate with it. It is perversion.

²⁴‘Do not defile yourselves with any of these things; ^ufor by all these the nations are defiled, which I am casting out before you.

²⁵‘For ^vthe land is defiled; therefore I ^wvisit³ the punishment of its iniquity upon it, and the land ^xvomits out its inhabitants.

^{26y}‘You shall therefore ⁴keep My statutes and My judgments, and shall not commit any of these abominations, either any of your own nation or any stranger who dwells among you

²⁷‘(for all these abominations the men of the land have done, who were before you, and thus the land is defiled),

²⁸‘lest ^zthe land vomit you out also when you defile it, as it vomited out the nations that were before you.

²⁹‘For whoever commits any of these abominations, the persons who commit them shall be ⁵cut off from among their people.

³⁰‘Therefore you shall keep My ⁶ordinance, so ^athat you do not commit any of these abominable customs which were committed before you, and that you do not defile yourselves by them: ^bI am the LORD your God.’ ”

Leviticus 19

Moral and Ceremonial Laws

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“Speak to all the congregation of the children of Israel, and say to them:

^a“You shall be holy, for I the LORD your God am holy.

^{3b}“Every one of you shall revere his mother and his father, and ^ckeep My Sabbaths: I am the LORD your God.

^{4d}“Do not turn to idols, ^enor make for yourselves ¹molded gods: I am the LORD your God.

⁵“And ^fif you offer a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD, you shall offer it of your own free will.

⁶“It shall be eaten the same day you offer it, and on the next day. And if any remains until the third day, it shall be burned in the fire.

⁷“And if it is eaten at all on the third day, it is an abomination. It shall not be accepted.

^{9g}“When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not wholly reap the corners of your field, nor shall you gather the gleanings of your harvest.

¹⁰“And you shall not glean your vineyard, nor shall you gather every grape of your vineyard; you shall leave them for the poor and the stranger: I am the LORD your God.

^{11h}“You shall not steal, nor deal falsely, ⁱnor lie to one another.

¹²“And you shall not ^jswear by My name falsely, ^knor shall you profane the name of your God: I am the LORD.

^{13l}“You shall not cheat your neighbor, nor rob him. ^mThe wages of him who is hired shall not remain with you all night until morning.

¹⁴“You shall not curse the deaf, ⁿnor put a stumbling block before the blind, but shall fear your God: I am the LORD.

¹⁵“You shall do no injustice in ^ojudgment. You shall not ^pbe partial to the poor, nor honor the person of the mighty. In righteousness you shall judge your neighbor.

¹⁶“You shall not go about as a ^qtalebearer among your people; nor shall you ^rtake a stand against the life of your neighbor: I am the LORD.

^{17s}“You shall not hate your brother in your heart. ^tYou shall surely ²rebuke your neighbor, and not bear sin because of him. Word Studies: hate

^{18u}‘You shall not take vengeance, nor bear any grudge against the children of your people, ^vbut you shall love your neighbor as yourself: I am the LORD.

¹⁹‘You shall keep My statutes. You shall not let your livestock breed with another kind. You shall not sow your field with mixed seed. Nor shall a garment of mixed linen and wool come upon you.

²¹‘And he shall bring his trespass offering to the LORD, to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, a ram as a trespass offering.

²²‘The priest shall make ⁴atonement for him with the ram of the trespass offering before the LORD for his sin which he has committed. And the sin which he has committed shall be forgiven him.

²³‘When you come into the land, and have planted all kinds of trees for food, then you shall count their fruit as ⁵uncircumcised. Three years it shall be as uncircumcised to you. It shall not be eaten.

²⁴‘But in the fourth year all its fruit shall be holy, a praise to the LORD.

²⁵‘And in the fifth year you may eat its fruit, that it may yield to you its increase: I am the LORD your God.

²⁶‘You shall not eat anything with the blood, nor shall you practice divination or soothsaying.

²⁷‘You shall not shave around the sides of your head, nor shall you disfigure the edges of your beard.

²⁸‘You shall not ^xmake any cuttings in your flesh for the dead, nor tattoo any marks on you: I am the LORD.

^{29y}‘Do not prostitute your daughter, to cause her to be a harlot, lest the land fall into harlotry, and the land become full of wickedness.

³⁰‘You shall ⁶keep My Sabbaths and ^zreverence My sanctuary: I am the LORD. Word Studies: sanctuary

³¹‘Give no regard to mediums and familiar spirits; do not seek after ^athem, to be defiled by them: I am the LORD your God.

^{32b}‘You shall ⁷rise before the gray headed and honor the presence of an old man, and ^cfear your God: I am the LORD.

³³‘And ^dif a stranger dwells with you in your land, you shall not mistreat him.

^{34e}‘The stranger who dwells among you shall be to you as ⁸one born among you, and ^fyou shall love him as yourself; for you were strangers in the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

³⁵‘You shall do no injustice in judgment, in measurement of length, weight, or volume.

³⁶‘You shall have ^ghonest scales, honest weights, an honest ephah, and an honest hin: I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt.

^{37h}‘Therefore you shall observe all My statutes and all My judgments, and perform them: I am the LORD.’ ”

Leviticus 20

Penalties for Breaking the Law

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

^{2a}“Again, you shall say to the children of Israel: ^b“Whoever of the children of Israel, or of the strangers who ¹dwell in Israel, who gives any of his descendants to Molech, he shall surely be put to death. The people of the land shall ^cstone him with stones. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Molech

^{3d}“I will set My face against that man, and will ²cut him off from his people, because he has given some of his descendants to Molech, to defile My sanctuary and profane My holy name.

⁴“And if the people of the land should in any way ³hide their eyes from the man, when he gives some of his descendants to Molech, and they do not kill him, ⁵“then I will set My face against that man and against his family; and I will cut him off from his people, and all who prostitute themselves with him to commit harlotry with Molech.

⁶“And ^ethe person who turns to mediums and familiar spirits, to prostitute himself with them, I will set My face against that person and cut him off from his people.

^{7f}“Consecrate⁴ yourselves therefore, and be holy, for I am the LORD your God.

⁸“And you shall keep ^gMy statutes, and perform them: ^hI am the LORD who ⁵sanctifies you.

⁹“For ⁱeveryone who curses his father or his mother shall surely be put to death. He has cursed his father or his mother. ^jHis blood shall be upon him.

^{10k}“The man who commits adultery with another man’s wife, he who commits adultery with his neighbor’s wife, the adulterer and the adulteress, shall surely be put to death.

¹¹“The man who lies with his ^lfather’s wife has uncovered his father’s nakedness; both of them shall surely be put to death. Their blood shall be upon them.

¹²“If a man lies with his ^mdaughter-in-law, both of them shall surely be put to death. They have committed perversion. Their blood shall be upon them.

¹³ⁿ“If a man lies with a male as he lies with a woman, both of them have committed an abomination. They shall surely be put to death. Their blood shall be upon them.

¹⁴‘If a man marries a woman and her ^omother, it is wickedness. They shall be burned with fire, both he and they, that there may be no wickedness among you.

¹⁵‘If a man mates with an ^panimal, he shall surely be put to death, and you shall kill the animal.

¹⁷‘If a man takes his ^qsister, his father’s daughter or his mother’s daughter, and sees her nakedness and she sees his nakedness, it is a wicked thing. And they shall be ⁶cut off in the sight of their people. He has uncovered his sister’s nakedness. He shall bear his ⁷guilt.

^{18r}‘If a man lies with a woman during her ⁸sickness and uncovers her nakedness, he has ⁹exposed her flow, and she has uncovered the flow of her blood. Both of them shall be ¹⁰cut off from their people.

¹⁹‘You shall not uncover the nakedness of your ^smother’s sister nor of your ^tfather’s sister, for that would uncover his near of kin. They shall bear their guilt.

²⁰‘If a man lies with his ^uuncle’s wife, he has uncovered his uncle’s nakedness. They shall bear their sin; they shall die childless.

²¹‘If a man takes his ^vbrother’s wife, it is an ¹¹unclean thing. He has uncovered his brother’s nakedness. They shall be childless.

²²‘You shall therefore keep all My ^wstatutes and all My judgments, and perform them, that the land where I am bringing you to dwell ^xmay not vomit you out.

^{23y}‘And you shall not walk in the statutes of the nation which I am casting out before you; for they commit all these things, and ^ztherefore I abhor them.

²⁴‘But ^aI have said to you, “You shall inherit their land, and I will give it to you to possess, a land flowing with milk and honey.” I am the LORD your God, ^bwho has separated you from the peoples.

^{25c}‘You shall therefore distinguish between clean animals and unclean, between unclean birds and clean, ^dand you shall not make yourselves ¹²abominable by beast or by bird, or by any kind of living thing that creeps on the ground, which I have separated from you as ¹³unclean.

²⁶‘And you shall be holy to Me, ^efor I the LORD am holy, and have separated you from the peoples, that you should be Mine.

^{27f}‘A man or a woman who is a medium, or who has familiar spirits, shall surely be put to death; they shall stone them with stones. Their blood shall be upon them.' ”

Leviticus 21

Regulations for Conduct of Priests

(cf. Ezek. 44:15–31)

¹And the LORD said to Moses, “Speak to the priests, the sons of Aaron, and say to them: ^aNone shall defile himself for the dead among his people,

²except for his relatives who are nearest to him: his mother, his father, his son, his daughter, and his brother;

³also his virgin sister who is near to him, who has had no husband, for her he may defile himself.

⁴*Otherwise* he shall not defile himself, being a ¹chief man among his people, to profane himself.

^{5b}They shall not make any bald place on their heads, nor shall they shave the edges of their beards nor make any cuttings in their flesh.

⁶They shall be ^choly to their God and not profane the name of their God, for they offer the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and the ^dbread of their God; ^etherefore they shall be holy.

^{7f}They shall not take a wife who is a harlot or a defiled woman, nor shall they take a woman ^gdivorced from her husband; for ²*the priest* is holy to his God.

⁸Therefore you shall ³consecrate him, for he offers the bread of your God. He shall be holy to you, for ^hI the LORD, who ⁱsanctify you, am holy.

⁹The daughter of any priest, if she profanes herself by playing the harlot, she profanes her father. She shall be ^jburned with fire.

¹⁰*He who is* the high priest among his brethren, on whose head the anointing oil was ^kpoured and who is consecrated to wear the garments, shall not ¹uncover⁴ his head nor tear his clothes;

¹¹nor shall he go ^mnear any dead body, nor defile himself for his father or his mother;

¹²ⁿnor shall he go out of the sanctuary, nor profane the sanctuary of his God; for the ^oconsecration of the anointing oil of his God is upon him: I am the LORD.

¹³And he shall take a wife in her virginity.

¹⁴A widow or a divorced woman or a defiled woman or a harlot—these he shall not marry; but he shall take a virgin of his own people as wife.

¹⁵Nor shall he profane his posterity among his people, for I the LORD sanctify him.’ ”

¹⁶And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

¹⁷“Speak to Aaron, saying: ‘No man of your descendants in succeeding generations, who has any defect, may approach to offer the bread of his God.

¹⁸‘For any man who has a ^pdefect shall not approach: a man blind or lame, who has a marred face or any limb ^qtoo long,

¹⁹‘a man who has a broken foot or broken hand,

²⁰‘or is a hunchback or a dwarf, or a man who has a defect in his eye, or eczema or scab, or is a eunuch.

²¹‘No man of the descendants of Aaron the priest, who has a defect, shall come near to offer the offerings made by fire to the LORD. He has a defect; he shall not come near to offer the bread of his God.

²²‘He may eat the bread of his God, both the most holy and the holy;

²³‘only he shall not go near the ^rveil or approach the altar, because he has a defect, lest ^she profane My sanctuaries; for I the LORD sanctify them.’ ”

²⁴And Moses told it to Aaron and his sons, and to all the children of Israel.

Leviticus 22

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“Speak to Aaron and his sons, that they ^aseparate¹ themselves from the holy things of the children of Israel, and that they ^bdo not profane My holy name by what they ^cdedicate to Me: I am the LORD.

³“Say to them: ‘Whoever of all your descendants throughout your generations, who goes near the holy things which the children of Israel dedicate to the LORD, ^dwhile he has ²uncleanness upon him, that person shall be cut off from My presence: I am the LORD.

⁴“Whatever man of the descendants of Aaron, who is a ^eleper or has ^fa discharge, shall not eat the holy offerings ^guntil he is clean. And ^hwhoever touches anything made unclean by a corpse, or ⁱa man who has had an emission of semen, ⁵“or ^jwhoever touches any creeping thing by which he would be made unclean, or ^kany person by whom he would become unclean, whatever his uncleanness may be—

⁶“the person who has touched any such thing shall be unclean until evening, and shall not eat the holy offerings unless he ^lwashes his body with water.

⁷“And when the sun goes down he shall be clean; and afterward he may eat the holy offerings, because ^mit is his food.

⁸ⁿ“Whatever dies naturally or is torn by beasts he shall not eat, to defile himself with it: I am the LORD.

⁹“They shall therefore keep ^oMy ³ordinance, ^plest they bear sin for it and die thereby, if they profane it: I the LORD sanctify them.

^{10q}“No outsider shall eat the holy offering; one who ⁴dwells with the priest, or a hired servant, shall not eat the holy thing.

¹¹“But if the priest ^rbuys a person with his money, he may eat it; and one who is born in his house may eat his food.

¹²“If the priest’s daughter is married to an outsider, she may not eat of the holy offerings.

¹³“But if the priest’s daughter is a widow or divorced, and has no child, and has returned to her father’s house as in her youth, she may eat her father’s food; but no outsider shall eat it.

¹⁴‘And if a man eats the holy offering unintentionally, then he shall restore a holy offering to the priest, and add one-fifth to it.

¹⁵‘They shall not profane the ^sholy offerings of the children of Israel, which they offer to the LORD,

¹⁶‘or allow them to bear the guilt of trespass when they eat their holy offerings; for I the LORD sanctify them.’ ”

Offerings Accepted and Not Accepted

¹⁷And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

^{19u}‘you shall offer of your own free will a male without blemish from the cattle, from the sheep, or from the goats.

^{20v}‘Whatever has a defect, you shall not offer, for it shall not be acceptable on your behalf.

^{22y}‘Those that are blind or broken or maimed, or have an ⁶ulcer or eczema or scabs, you shall not offer to the LORD, nor make ^zan offering by fire of them on the altar to the LORD.

²³‘Either a bull or a lamb that has any limb ^atoo long or too short you may offer as a freewill offering, but for a vow it shall not be accepted.

²⁴‘You shall not offer to the LORD what is bruised or crushed, or torn or cut; nor shall you make any offering of them in your land.

²⁵‘Nor ^bfrom a foreigner’s hand shall you offer any of these as ^cthe bread of your God, because their ^dcorruption is in them, and defects are in them. They shall not be accepted on your behalf.’ ”

²⁶And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

^{27e}“When a bull or a sheep or a goat is born, it shall be seven days with its mother; and from the eighth day and thereafter it shall be accepted as an offering made by fire to the LORD.

²⁸“Whether it is a cow or ewe, do not kill both her ^fand her young on the same day.

²⁹“And when you ^goffer a sacrifice of thanksgiving to the LORD, offer it of your own free will.

³⁰“On the same day it shall be eaten; you shall leave ^hnone of it until morning: I am the LORD.

³¹ⁱ“Therefore you shall keep My commandments, and perform them: I am the LORD.

^{32j}“You shall not profane My holy name, but ^kI will be ⁷hallowed among the children of Israel. I am the LORD who ^lsanctifies you,

^{33m}“who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD.”

Leviticus 23

Feasts of the Lord

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, Charts and Diagrams: The Feasts and Sacred Times of Ancient Israel

²“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ‘The feasts of the LORD, which you shall proclaim to be ^aholy convocations, these are My feasts.

The Sabbath

^{3b} Six days shall work be done, but the seventh day is a Sabbath of solemn rest, a holy convocation. You shall do no work on it; it is the Sabbath of the LORD in all your dwellings.

The Passover and Unleavened Bread

(Num. 28:16–25)

^{4c}‘These are the feasts of the LORD, holy convocations which you shall proclaim at their appointed times.

^{5d}‘On the fourteenth day of the first month at twilight is the LORD’s Passover.

⁶‘And on the fifteenth day of the same month is the Feast of Unleavened Bread to the LORD; seven days you must eat unleavened bread.

^{7e}‘On the first day you shall have a holy convocation; you shall do no ¹customary work on it.

⁸‘But you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD for seven days. The seventh day shall be a holy convocation; you shall do no customary work on it.’ ”

The Feast of Firstfruits

⁹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

¹⁰“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ^f“When you come into the land which I give to you, and reap its harvest, then you shall bring a sheaf of ^gthe firstfruits of your harvest to the priest.

¹¹“He shall ^hwave the sheaf before the LORD, to be accepted on your behalf; on the day after the Sabbath the priest shall wave it.

¹²“And you shall offer on that day, when you wave the sheaf, a male lamb of the first year, without blemish, as a burnt offering to the LORD.

¹⁴“You shall eat neither bread nor parched grain nor fresh grain until the same day that you have brought an offering to your God; it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

The Feast of Weeks

(Ex. 34:22; Num. 28:26–31; Deut. 16:9, 10)

¹⁵‘And you shall count for yourselves from the day after the Sabbath, from the day that you brought the sheaf of the wave offering: seven Sabbaths shall be completed.

¹⁶‘Count ⁱfifty days to the day after the seventh Sabbath; then you shall offer ^ja new grain offering to the LORD.

¹⁷‘You shall bring from your dwellings two wave loaves of two-tenths of an ephah. They shall be of fine flour; they shall be baked with leaven. They are ^kthe firstfruits to the LORD.

¹⁹‘Then you shall sacrifice ^lone kid of the goats as a sin offering, and two male lambs of the first year as a sacrifice of a ^mpeace offering.

²⁰‘The priest shall wave them with the bread of the firstfruits as a wave offering before the LORD, with the two lambs. ⁿThey shall be holy to the LORD for the priest.

²¹‘And you shall proclaim on the same day that it is a holy convocation to you. You shall do no customary work on it. It shall be a statute forever in all your dwellings throughout your generations.

^{22o}‘When you reap the harvest of your land, you shall not wholly reap the corners of your field when you reap, nor shall you gather any gleaning from your harvest. You shall leave them for the poor and for the stranger: I am the LORD your God.’ ”

The Feast of Trumpets

(Num. 29:1–6)

²³Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²⁴“Speak to the children of Israel, saying: ‘In the ^pseventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a sabbath-rest, ^qa memorial of blowing of trumpets, a holy convocation.

²⁵‘You shall do no customary work on it; and you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD.’ ”

The Day of Atonement

(Num. 29:7–11)

²⁶And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

²⁷“Also the tenth day of this seventh month shall be the Day of Atonement. It shall be a holy convocation for you; you shall afflict your souls, and offer an offering made by fire to the LORD.

²⁸“And you shall do no work on that same day, for it is the Day of Atonement, ^sto make atonement for you before the LORD your God.

²⁹“For any person who is not ^tafflicted in soul on that same day ^ushall be cut off from his people.

³⁰“And any person who does any work on that same day, ^vthat person I will destroy from among his people.

³¹“You shall do no manner of work; it shall be a statute forever throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

³²“It shall be to you a sabbath of solemn rest, and you shall ³afflict your souls; on the ninth day of the month at evening, from evening to evening, you shall ⁴celebrate your sabbath.”

The Feast of Tabernacles

(Num. 29:12–40; Deut. 16:13–17)

³³Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

³⁴“Speak to the children of Israel, saying: ^w‘The fifteenth day of this seventh month shall be the Feast of Tabernacles for seven days to the LORD.

³⁵‘On the first day there shall be a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work on it.

³⁶‘For seven days you shall offer an ^xoffering made by fire to the LORD. ^yOn the eighth day you shall have a holy convocation, and you shall offer an offering made by fire to the LORD. It is a ^zsacred⁵ assembly, and you shall do no customary work on it.

^{37a}‘These are the feasts of the LORD which you shall proclaim to be holy convocations, to offer an offering made by fire to the LORD, a burnt offering and a grain offering, a sacrifice and drink offerings, everything on its day—

^{38b}‘besides the Sabbaths of the LORD, besides your gifts, besides all your vows, and besides all your freewill offerings which you give to the LORD.

³⁹‘Also on the fifteenth day of the seventh month, when you have ^cgathered in the fruit of the land, you shall keep the feast of the LORD for seven days; on the first day there shall be a sabbath-rest, and on the eighth day a sabbath-rest.

⁴⁰‘And ^dyou shall take for yourselves on the first day the ⁶fruit of beautiful trees, branches of palm trees, the boughs of leafy trees, and willows of the brook; ^eand you shall rejoice before the LORD your God for seven days.

^{41f}‘You shall keep it as a feast to the LORD for seven days in the year. It shall be a statute forever in your generations. You shall celebrate it in the seventh month.

^{42g}‘You shall dwell in ⁷booths for seven days. ^hAll who are native Israelites shall dwell in booths,

⁴³ⁱ‘that your generations may ^jknow that I made the children of Israel dwell in booths when ^kI brought them out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.’ ”

⁴⁴So Moses ^ldeclared to the children of Israel the feasts of the LORD.

Leviticus 24

Care of the Tabernacle Lamps

(Ex. 27:20, 21)

¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

^{2a}“Command the children of Israel that they bring to you pure oil of pressed olives for the light, to make the lamps burn continually.

³“Outside the veil of the Testimony, in the tabernacle of meeting, Aaron shall be in charge of it from evening until morning before the LORD continually; it shall be a statute forever in your generations.

⁴“He shall ¹be in charge of the lamps on ^bthe pure gold lampstand before the LORD continually.

The Bread of the Tabernacle

⁵“And you shall take fine flour and bake twelve ^ccakes with it. Two-tenths of an ephah shall be in each cake.

⁶“You shall set them in two rows, six in a row, ^don the pure gold table before the LORD.

⁷“And you shall put pure frankincense on each row, that it may be on the bread for a ^ememorial, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

^{8f}“Every Sabbath he shall set it in order before the LORD continually, being taken from the children of Israel by an everlasting covenant.

⁹“And ^git shall be for Aaron and his sons, ^hand they shall eat it in a holy place; for it is most holy to him from the offerings of the LORD made by fire, by a perpetual statute.”

The Penalty for Blasphemy

¹⁰Now the son of an Israelite woman, whose father was an Egyptian, went out among the children of Israel; and this Israelite woman's son and a man of Israel fought each other in the camp.

¹¹And the Israelite woman's son ⁱblasphemed the name of the LORD and ^jcursed; and so they ^kbrought him to Moses. (His mother's name was Shelomith the daughter of Dibri, of the tribe of Dan.)

¹²Then they ^lput him ²in custody, ^mthat ³the mind of the LORD might be shown to them.

¹³And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

¹⁴“Take outside the camp him who has cursed; then let all who heard him ⁿlay their hands on his head, and let all the congregation stone him.

¹⁵“Then you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: ‘Whoever curses his God ^oshall ⁴bear his sin.

¹⁶‘And whoever ^pblasphemes the name of the LORD shall surely be put to death. All the congregation shall certainly stone him, the stranger as well as him who is born in the land. When he blasphemes the name of the LORD, he shall be put to death.

^{17q}‘Whoever kills any man shall surely be put to death.

^{18r}‘Whoever kills an animal shall make it good, animal for animal.

¹⁹‘If a man causes disfigurement of his neighbor, as ^she has done, so shall it be done to him—

²⁰‘fracture for ^tfracture, ^ueye for eye, tooth for tooth; as he has caused disfigurement of a man, so shall it be done to him.

²¹‘And whoever kills an animal shall restore it; but whoever kills a man shall be put to death.

²²‘You shall have ^vthe⁵ same law for the stranger and for one from your own country; for I am the LORD your God.’ ”

²³Then Moses spoke to the children of Israel; and they took outside the camp him who had cursed, and stoned him with stones. So the children of Israel did as the LORD commanded Moses.

Leviticus 25

The Sabbath of the Seventh Year

(Deut. 15:1–11)

¹And the LORD spoke to Moses on Mount ^aSinai, saying,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ‘When you come into the land which I give you, then the land shall ^bkeep a sabbath to the LORD.

³‘Six years you shall sow your field, and six years you shall prune your vineyard, and gather its fruit;

⁴‘but in the ^cseventh year there shall be a sabbath of solemn ^drest for the land, a sabbath to the LORD. You shall neither sow your field nor prune your vineyard.

^{5e}‘What grows of its own accord of your harvest you shall not reap, nor gather the grapes of your untended vine, for it is a year of rest for the land.

⁶‘And the sabbath produce of the land shall be food for you: for you, your male and female servants, your hired man, and the stranger who dwells with you,

⁷‘for your livestock and the beasts that are in your land—all its produce shall be for food.

The Year of Jubilee

⁸‘And you shall count seven sabbaths of years for yourself, seven times seven years; and the time of the seven sabbaths of years shall be to you forty-nine years.

⁹‘Then you shall cause the trumpet of the Jubilee to sound on the tenth day of the seventh month; ^fon the Day of Atonement you shall make the trumpet to sound throughout all your land.

¹¹‘That fiftieth year shall be a Jubilee to you; in it ⁱyou shall neither sow nor reap what grows of its own accord, nor gather the grapes of your untended vine.

¹²‘For it is the Jubilee; it shall be holy to you; ^jyou shall eat its produce from the field.

^{13k}‘In this Year of Jubilee, each of you shall return to his possession.

¹⁴‘And if you sell anything to your neighbor or buy from your neighbor’s hand, you shall not ^loppress one another.

^{15m}‘According to the number of years after the Jubilee you shall buy from your neighbor, and according to the number of years of crops he shall sell to you.

¹⁶‘According to the multitude of years you shall increase its price, and according to the fewer number of years you shall diminish its price; for he sells to you according to the number of the years of the crops.

¹⁷‘Therefore ⁿyou shall not ¹oppress one another, ^obut you shall fear your God; for I am the LORD your God.

Provisions for the Seventh Year

^{18p}‘So you shall observe My statutes and keep My judgments, and perform them; ^qand you will dwell in the land in safety.

¹⁹‘Then the land will yield its fruit, and ^ryou will eat your fill, and dwell there in safety.

²⁰‘And if you say, ^s“What shall we eat in the seventh year, since ^twe shall not sow nor gather in our produce?”

²¹‘Then I will ^ucommand My blessing on you in the ^vsixth year, and it will bring forth produce enough for three years.

^{22w}‘And you shall sow in the eighth year, and eat ^xold produce until the ninth year; until its produce comes in, you shall eat of the old harvest.

Redemption of Property

²³‘The land shall not be sold permanently, for ^ythe land is Mine; for you are ^zstrangers and sojourners with Me. Article: Redeeming the Land

²⁴‘And in all the land of your possession you shall grant redemption of the land.

^{25a}‘If one of your brethren becomes poor, and has sold some of his possession, and if ^bhis redeeming relative comes to redeem it, then he may redeem what his brother sold.

²⁶‘Or if the man has no one to redeem it, but he himself becomes able to redeem it,

²⁷‘then ^clet him count the years since its sale, and restore the remainder to the man to whom he sold it, that he may return to his possession.

²⁸‘But if he is not able to have it restored to himself, then what was sold shall remain in the hand of him who bought it until the Year of Jubilee; ^dand in the Jubilee it shall be released, and he shall return to his possession.

²⁹‘If a man sells a house in a walled city, then he may redeem it within a whole year after it is sold; within a full year he may redeem it.

³¹‘However the houses of villages which have no wall around them shall be counted as the fields of the country. They may be redeemed, and they shall be released in the Jubilee.

³²‘Nevertheless ^ethe cities of the Levites, and the houses in the cities of their possession, the Levites may redeem at any time.

³⁴‘But ^fthe field of the common-land of their cities may not be ^gsold, for it is their perpetual possession.

Lending to the Poor

³⁵‘If one of your brethren becomes poor, and ²falls into poverty among you, then you shall ^hhelp him, like a stranger or a sojourner, that he may live with you.

³⁶ⁱ‘Take no usury or interest from him; but ^jfear your God, that your brother may live with you.

³⁷‘You shall not lend him your money for usury, nor lend him your food at a profit.

^{38k}‘I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.

The Law Concerning Slavery

³⁹‘And if one of your brethren who dwells by you becomes poor, and sells himself to you, you shall not compel him to serve as a slave.

⁴⁰‘As a hired servant and a sojourner he shall be with you, and shall serve you until the Year of Jubilee.

⁴¹‘And then he shall depart from you—he and his children ^lwith him—and shall return to his own family. He shall return to the possession of his fathers.

⁴²‘For they are ^mMy servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt; they shall not be sold as slaves.

⁴³ⁿ‘You shall not rule over him ^owith ³rigor, but you ^pshall fear your God.

⁴⁴‘And as for your male and female slaves whom you may have—from the nations that are around you, from them you may buy male and female slaves.

⁴⁵‘Moreover you may buy ^qthe children of the strangers who dwell among you, and their families who are with you, which they beget in your land; and they shall become your property.

⁴⁶‘And ^ryou may take them as an inheritance for your children after you, to inherit them as a possession; they shall be your permanent slaves. But regarding your brethren, the children of Israel, you shall not rule over one another with rigor.

⁴⁷‘Now if a sojourner or stranger close to you becomes rich, and one of your brethren who dwells by him becomes poor, and sells himself to the stranger or sojourner close to you, or to a member of the stranger’s family,

⁴⁸‘after he is sold he may be redeemed again. One of his brothers may redeem him;

⁴⁹‘or his uncle or his uncle’s son may redeem him; or anyone who is near of kin to him in his family may redeem him; or if he is able he may redeem himself.

⁵⁰‘Thus he shall reckon with him who bought him: The price of his release shall be according to the number of years, from the year that he was sold to him until the Year of Jubilee; it shall be ^saccording to the time of a hired servant for him.

⁵¹‘If there are still many years remaining, according to them he shall repay the price of his redemption from the money with which he was bought.

⁵²‘And if there remain but a few years until the Year of Jubilee, then he shall reckon with him, and according to his years he shall repay him the price of his redemption.

⁵³‘He shall be with him as a yearly hired servant, and he shall not rule with rigor over him in your sight.

⁵⁴‘And if he is not redeemed in these years, then he shall be released in the Year of Jubilee—he and his children with him.

⁵⁵‘For the children of Israel are servants to Me; they are My servants whom I brought out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.

Leviticus 26

Promise of Blessing and Retribution

(Deut. 7:12–24; 28:1–68)

¹‘You shall ^anot make idols for yourselves;
neither a carved image nor a sacred pillar shall you rear up for yourselves;
nor shall you set up an engraved stone in your land, to bow down to it;
for I am the LORD your God.

^{2b}You shall ¹keep My Sabbaths and reverence My sanctuary:
I am the LORD.

^{3c}‘If you walk in My statutes and keep My commandments, and perform them,

^{4d}then I will give you rain in its season, ^ethe land shall yield its produce, and the trees of the field shall yield their fruit.

^{5f}Your threshing shall last till the time of vintage, and the vintage shall last till the time of sowing;

you shall eat your bread to the full, and ^gdwell in your land safely.

^{6h}I will give peace in the land, and ⁱyou shall lie down, and none will make you afraid;

I will rid the land of ^jevil² beasts, and ^kthe sword will not go through your land.

⁷You will chase your enemies, and they shall fall by the sword before you.

^{8l}Five of you shall chase a hundred, and a hundred of you shall put ten thousand to flight;

your enemies shall fall by the sword before you.

⁹‘For I will ^mlook on you favorably and ⁿmake you fruitful, multiply you and confirm My ^ocovenant with you. Article: The Dream Lives On ¹⁰You shall eat the ^pold harvest, and clear out the old because of the new.

^{11q}I will set My ³tabernacle among you, and My soul shall not abhor you.

^{12r}I will walk among you and be your God, and you shall be My people.

¹³I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, that you should not be their slaves;

I have broken the bands of your ^syoke and made you walk ⁴upright.

¹⁴‘But if you do not obey Me, and do not observe all these commandments,

¹⁵and if you despise My statutes, or if your soul abhors My judgments, so that you do not perform all My commandments, but break My covenant,

¹⁶I also will do this to you:

I will even appoint terror over you, ^twasting disease and fever which shall ^uconsume the eyes and ^vcause sorrow of heart.

And ^wyou shall sow your seed ⁵in vain, for your enemies shall eat it.

¹⁷I will ⁶set ^xMy face against you, and ^yyou shall be defeated by your enemies.

^zThose who hate you shall reign over you, and you shall ^aflee when no one pursues you.

¹⁸‘And after all this, if you do not obey Me, then I will punish you ^bseven times more for your sins.

¹⁹I will ^cbreak the pride of your power;

I ^dwill make your heavens like iron and your earth like bronze.

²⁰And your ^estrength shall be spent in vain;

for your ^fland shall not yield its produce, nor shall the trees of the land yield their fruit.

²¹‘Then, if you walk contrary to Me, and are not willing to obey Me, I will bring on you seven times more plagues, according to your sins.

^{22g}I will also send wild beasts among you, which shall rob you of your children, destroy your livestock, and make you few in number; and ^hyour highways shall be desolate.

²³‘And if ⁱby these things you are not reformed by Me, but walk contrary to Me, ^{24j}then I also will walk contrary to you, and I will punish you yet seven times for your sins.

²⁵And ^kI will bring a sword against you that will execute the vengeance of the covenant;

when you are gathered together within your cities ^lI will send pestilence among you; and you shall be delivered into the hand of the enemy.

^{26m}When I have cut off your supply of bread, ten women shall bake your bread in one oven, and they shall bring back your bread by weight, ⁿand you shall eat and not be satisfied.

²⁷‘And after all this, if you do not obey Me, but walk contrary to Me,

²⁸then I also will walk contrary to you in fury; and I, even I, will chastise you seven times for your sins.

^{29o}You⁷ shall eat the flesh of your sons, and you shall eat the flesh of your daughters.

^{30p}I will destroy your high places, cut down your incense altars, and cast your carcasses on the lifeless forms of your idols; and My soul shall abhor you.

³¹I will lay your ^qcities waste and ^rbring your sanctuaries to desolation, and I will not ^ssmell the fragrance of your ⁸sweet aromas.

³²I will bring the land to desolation, and your enemies who dwell in it shall be astonished at it.

^{33u}I will scatter you among the nations and draw out a sword after you; your land shall be desolate and your cities waste.

^{34v}Then the land shall enjoy its sabbaths as long as it lies desolate and you are in your enemies' land;
then the land shall rest and enjoy its sabbaths.

³⁵As long as it lies desolate it shall rest—for the time it did not rest on your ^wsabbaths when you dwelt in it.

³⁶‘And as for those of you who are left, I will send ^xfaintness⁹ into their hearts in the lands of their enemies; the sound of a shaken leaf shall cause them to flee;
they shall flee as though fleeing from a sword, and they shall fall when no one pursues.

^{37y}They shall stumble over one another, as it were before a sword, when no one pursues; and ^zyou shall have no power to stand before your enemies.

³⁸You shall ^aperish among the nations, and the land of your enemies shall eat you up.

³⁹And those of you who are left ^bshall ¹⁰waste away in their iniquity in your enemies' lands; also in their ^cfathers' iniquities, which are with them, they shall waste away.

⁴⁰‘But ^dif they confess their iniquity and the iniquity of their fathers, with their unfaithfulness in which they were unfaithful to Me, and that they also have walked contrary to Me,

⁴¹and that I also have walked contrary to them and have brought them into the land of their enemies; if their ^euncircumcised hearts are ^fhumbled, and they ^gaccept their guilt—

⁴²then I will ^hremember My covenant with Jacob, and My covenant with Isaac and My covenant with Abraham I will remember;
I will ⁱremember the land.

^{43j}The land also shall be left empty by them, and will enjoy its sabbaths while it lies desolate without them; they will accept their guilt, because they ^kdespised My judgments and because their soul abhorred My statutes.

⁴⁴Yet for all that, when they are in the land of their enemies, ^lI will not cast them away, nor shall I abhor them, to utterly destroy them and break My covenant with them;

for I am the LORD their God.

⁴⁵But ^mfor their sake I will remember the covenant of their ancestors, ⁿwhom I brought out of the land of Egypt ^oin the sight of the nations, that I might be their God:

I am the LORD.' ”

^{46p}These are the statutes and judgments and laws which the LORD made between Himself and the children of Israel ^qon Mount Sinai by the hand of Moses.

Leviticus 27

Redeeming Persons and Property Dedicated to God

¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,

²“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ^a“When a man ¹consecrates by a vow certain persons to the LORD, according to your ²valuation, ³“if your valuation is of a male from twenty years old up to sixty years old, then your valuation shall be fifty shekels of silver, ^baccording to the shekel of the sanctuary.

⁴“If it is a female, then your valuation shall be thirty shekels;

⁵“and if from five years old up to twenty years old, then your valuation for a male shall be twenty shekels, and for a female ten shekels;

⁶“and if from a month old up to five years old, then your valuation for a male shall be five shekels of silver, and for a female your valuation shall be three shekels of silver;

⁷“and if from sixty years old and above, if it is a male, then your valuation shall be fifteen shekels, and for a female ten shekels.

⁸“But if he is too poor to pay your valuation, then he shall present himself before the priest, and the priest shall set a value for ^chim; according to the ability of him who vowed, the priest shall value him.

⁹“If it is an animal that men may bring as an offering to the LORD, all that anyone gives to the LORD shall be holy.

¹⁰“He shall not substitute it or exchange it, good for bad or bad for good; and if he at all exchanges animal for animal, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall be ^dholy.

¹¹“If it is an unclean animal which they do not offer as a sacrifice to the LORD, then he shall present the animal before the priest; ¹²“and the priest shall set a value for it, whether it is good or bad; as you, the priest, value it, so it shall be.

^{13e}“But if he wants at all to redeem it, then he must add one-fifth to your valuation.

¹⁴“And when a man ³dedicates his house to be holy to the LORD, then the priest shall set a value for it, whether it is good or bad; as the priest values it, so it shall stand.

¹⁵‘If he who dedicated it wants to ⁴redeem his house, then he must add one-fifth of the money of your valuation to it, and it shall be his.

¹⁷‘If he dedicates his field from the Year of Jubilee, according to your valuation it shall stand. Word Studies: Jubilee

¹⁸‘But if he dedicates his field after the Jubilee, then the priest shall ^freckon to him the money due according to the years that remain till the Year of Jubilee, and it shall be deducted from your valuation.

¹⁹‘And if he who dedicates the field ever wishes to redeem it, then he must add one-fifth of the money of your valuation to it, and it shall belong to him.

²⁰‘But if he does not want to redeem the field, or if he has sold the field to another man, it shall not be redeemed anymore;

²²‘And if a man dedicates to the LORD a field which he has bought, which is not the field of ^jhis possession, ²³‘then the priest shall reckon to him the worth of your valuation, up to the Year of Jubilee, and he shall give your valuation on that day as a holy offering to the LORD.

²⁴^k‘In the Year of Jubilee the field shall return to him from whom it was bought, to the one who owned the land as a possession.

²⁵‘And all your valuations shall be according to the shekel of the sanctuary: ^ltwenty gerahs to the shekel.

²⁶‘But the ^mfirstborn of the animals, which should be the LORD’s firstborn, no man shall dedicate; whether it is an ox or sheep, it is the LORD’s.

²⁷‘And if it is an unclean animal, then he shall redeem it according to your valuation, and ⁿshall add one-fifth to it; or if it is not redeemed, then it shall be sold according to your valuation.

²⁸^o‘Nevertheless no ⁶devoted offering that a man may devote to the LORD of all that he has, both man and beast, or the field of his possession, shall be sold or redeemed; every devoted offering is most holy to the LORD.

²⁹^p‘No person under the ban, who may become doomed to destruction among men, shall be redeemed, but shall surely be put to death.

³⁰‘And ^qall the tithe of the land, whether of the seed of the land or of the fruit of the tree, is the LORD’s. It is holy to the LORD.

³¹^r‘If a man wants at all to redeem any of his tithes, he shall add one-fifth to it.

³²‘And concerning the tithe of the herd or the flock, of whatever ^spasses under the rod, the tenth one shall be holy to the LORD.

³³‘He shall not inquire whether it is good or bad, ^tnor shall he exchange it; and if he exchanges it at all, then both it and the one exchanged for it shall be holy; it shall not be redeemed.’ ”

³⁴^uThese are the commandments which the LORD commanded Moses for the children of Israel on Mount ^vSinai.

Annotations for Leviticus

1:1 Now connects Leviticus with Exodus. The last sections of Exodus describe the building of the tabernacle, the design of the priests' garments, and the coming of God's glory to dwell in the tabernacle. God was now ready to instruct Moses on how the Israelites should approach Him in the earthly dwelling they had built for Him. the LORD called to Moses, and spoke: Moses had not created these instructions. They came from God, through Moses, God's prophet (see Deut. 34:10). The tabernacle of meeting was the center of Israel's public worship until Solomon's temple was built in Jerusalem centuries later. The tabernacle's plan is revealed in Ex. 25–30 and its construction is described in Ex. 36–39.

1:2 The children of Israel means "the people of Israel." Now that God had entered into covenant with them, Israel was a people and no longer just a band of refugees (Ex. 6:2–8). any one: This is a general term and specifically includes women. The term can refer to those who are not descendants of Abraham. Any person may come to faith in God and worship with God's people (Num. 15:14, 16, 29).

(Heb. qorban) (1:2; 2:1; Ezek. 20:28) Strong's #7133

This Hebrew word is derived from the verb “to bring near,” and it literally means “that which one brings near to God.” The fact that the Israelites had such an opportunity to present their gifts to God reveals His mercy. Even though they were sinful and rebellious, God instituted a sacrificial system in which they could reconcile themselves to Him. Jesus’ death on the Cross was the ultimate offering, the offering that ended the need for any others. For through the sacrifice of His sinless life, we have once for all been reconciled to God (Heb. 10:10–18). An appropriate response to Jesus’ death for us is to offer our lives as living sacrifices to God (Rom. 12:1).

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 1:3 The burnt sacrifice was the only sacrifice that was entirely consumed on the altar. It foreshadows the total sacrifice of Christ on the Cross. It also symbolizes the fact that the worshiper must hold nothing in reserve when coming to God; everything is consumed in the relationship between God and the sincere worshiper. male without blemish: A male without blemish would have been prime breeding stock and was a potential source of wool and meat—or of money if sold. To offer it on the altar was a real sacrifice. The principle still holds: God’s people are to offer their best as a symbol that they are offering all that is theirs. A person should offer of his own free will. True sacrifice to the Lord is to be done with an attitude of joy—no half-hearted obedience. door of the tabernacle: A person’s sins had to be atoned for before he or she could come before God. before the LORD: God was present everywhere, but His presence was felt in an unusual manner at the site of His holy worship.
- 1:4 Each worshiper brought his or her own offering and then placed his or her own hand on the animal’s head. No one could send another person to offer sacrifices for his or her own sins. By the same token, no one today can send someone else to accept the atonement that Jesus Christ purchased with His sacrifice on Calvary.
- 1:5 the priests, Aaron’s sons: Aaron was Moses’ older brother and the one whom God had designated to be high priest of Israel (Ex. 28:1). Aaron’s sons were Nadab, Abihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar. They and their descendants would be priests in the tabernacle. For details concerning Nadab and Abihu’s untimely end, see ch. 10. sprinkle the blood: The blood, the bearer of life, was the most important part of the sacrifice. The lifeblood of the sacrificial animal on the altar substituted for the life of the guilty worshiper.
- 1:9 sweet aroma to the LORD: Never, in this image or elsewhere, does Scripture represent God as eating the offerings brought to Him, as the pagan gods were thought to do. When sacrifice was done in faith and with a free will (v. 3), it was accepted by the Lord as desirable or “sweet.” The same is true of the death of His Son. Because the death of Jesus provided our salvation, Isaiah said, “It pleased the LORD to bruise Him” (Is. 53:10, italics added).
- 1:10–13 The procedure for the burnt offering was the same when the animal was a sheep or a goat (Ex. 12:5).

1:14–17 While the richest Israelites offered bulls, most of the people offered sheep or goats. The poorest were allowed to bring turtledoves or young pigeons. All sacrifices required the active participation of the worshiper. The Israelite who brought a pair of birds was required to help prepare them for the altar. The different offerings were accepted by God without prejudice or favoritism. Economic standing is not a measure of acceptability before God (James 2:1–9).

2:1 Anyone translates an inclusive term, emphasizing that male or female, native Israelite or convert, could come to God with an offering (see 1:2). Fine flour was from the best grain and was free from impurities. This flour was fit for the king's table (1 Kin. 4:22; Ezek. 16:13) and was served to honored guests (Gen. 18:6). As with animal sacrifices, the offering was to be from the best the worshiper had. Olive oil, an important product of the Promised Land, was a primary part of the diet and a prominent symbol of blessing and prosperity. Frankincense was a costly incense from South Arabia and East Africa. Both its fragrance and value enhanced the grain offering. As an imported luxury, frankincense had to be bought with money. By including frankincense in this offering, every aspect of an Israelite's wealth was made a part of what he or she offered to God.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Olives

The olive touched nearly every phase of Jewish life. Olive wood was used in carpentry, the fruit served as food, and the oil found its way into a variety of medicines and ointments, as well as being fuel for light. The cultivation of olive trees was routinely simple, requiring only occasional loosening of the soil. Olive trees flourish in the shallow, rocky soil of Palestine and require little water. However, the trees cannot withstand severe cold, so they find southern Palestine more hospitable than the north. Olives ripen slowly and the farmer picks them as time permits. Olives can be eaten after being pickled, but they are valued most for their oil, which is used as a substitute for scarcer animal fats. In ancient times, farmers extracted the oil in stone presses by rolling a thick stone wheel over the olives on another flat, circular stone which was grooved to carry the oil into a basin (Mic. 6:15).

An olive press. Ancient farmers would put olives on the horizontal rock and roll the thick stone wheel over them to extract the oil.

- 2:2 The handful of the offering burned on the altar included all the frankincense. This helped to make the offering a sweet aroma to the LORD.
- 2:3 Aaron's and his sons': A significant portion of the priests' daily food came from this part of the grain offering. most holy: Only the consecrated priests were allowed to eat the offerings, and only within the tabernacle (6:16). What is holy must be used in a holy place, by holy people, in a holy manner.
- 2:4–7 These verses list three types of cooked grain offerings: (1) bread baked in the oven; (2) cakes baked or fried in a pan—that is, on a flat plate or griddle; and (3) cakes baked in a covered pan. All were made of fine flour mixed with oil. Since most of these offerings were eaten by the priests, frankincense was left out of them. Frankincense would have permeated a cake if baked into it.
- 2:8–10 The priests' presentation of these cooked grain offerings on the altar was essentially the same as for the uncooked grain offerings.
- 2:11 Prohibiting leaven in grain offerings that were burned on the altar might have been based on the same principle that prohibited eating the blood of animals. As blood is the life force of animals, leaven represents the life force of the vegetable kingdom. It is also possible that leaven and honey were both prohibited because they cause fermentation, which represents corruption.
- 2:12 A separate offering of the firstfruits of the harvest is described later (23:9–21).
- 2:13 The salt of the covenant of your God was to be used in every grain offering. Every such offering was a reminder of the covenant God had made with Israel at Sinai and of the worshiper's obligation and privilege to remain faithful to God and God's covenant. Jesus may have had covenant faithfulness in mind when He told His followers, "You are the salt of the earth" (Matt. 5:13).
- 2:14–16 This grain offering was prepared and presented at the altar in the same way as those already described. As they had to be prepared from fine flour, so this one had to be prepared from the first of the year's grain harvest. The principle was reaffirmed: only the best of a person's resources is good enough to offer to God.
- 3:1 peace offering: The Hebrew word for peace means "wholeness, completeness, soundness, health." When a person has this, in all its dimensions, that person is at peace. The peace offerings were times of feasting, drinking, talking, singing, and enjoying salvation as a great gift from God (see 7:11–21). Paul describes Jesus Christ as our perfect peace offering (see Col. 1:20). Unlike the burnt sacrifice, the peace offering could be either male or female. Like the burnt sacrifice, it had to be without blemish because it was offered before the LORD.
- 3:2 As with the burnt sacrifice, the presenter was an active participant in the peace offering (see vv. 8, 13). He brought the animal, laid his hand on its head, and killed it. Then the priests sprinkled the blood all around on the altar. The blood, representing life, was the first sacrifice to God.

(Heb. dam) (3:2; 4:5; Ex. 12:13; Is. 1:11) Strong's #1818

This word is related to the Hebrew word 'adam, which means “red” (Gen. 25:30), and refers to the blood of animals (Ex. 23:18) or human beings (Gen. 4:10). In the Scriptures, blood may be a synonym for death (Judg. 9:24) or even murder (Jer. 19:4). The word blood may also represent a person's guilt, as in the phrase “his blood shall be upon him”—that is, he is responsible for his own guilt (20:9). The OT equates life with blood (Gen. 9:4; Deut. 12:23), which vividly illustrates the sanctity of human life (Gen. 9:6). According to the NT, “without shedding of blood there is no remission” of sin (Heb. 9:22). Thus the emphasis on blood in the OT sacrifices pointed to the blood Christ would shed on our behalf (Rom. 5:9; 1 Cor. 11:25, 26).

- 3:3, 4 The fat, the two kidneys, and the fatty lobe attached to the liver (vv. 9, 10, 14, 15) specifically belonged to God. The fat was the most prized portion of the meat. The kidneys were viewed as the seat of the emotions. The liver was the essential organ for telling the future in the pagan cultures surrounding Israel (see Ezek. 21:21); such fortunetelling was strictly forbidden in Israel (Deut. 18:10). These portions, burned on the altar, were given to God as the best of the sacrificial animal. In addition, the offering of the fatty lobe attached to the liver demonstrated reliance on God for the future rather than on pagan gods. Burning the liver, or even a portion of it, meant that it could not be used for fortunetelling.
- 3:5 Upon the burnt sacrifice indicates that the peace offering normally followed the burnt offering, which was entirely consumed on the altar. Being reconciled to God through the burnt offering, the worshiper was in a position to fellowship with God and with his or her family by sharing in the feast of the peace offering. Repentance and reconciliation must come before genuine fellowship.
- 3:7 before the LORD: Not a redundancy, but a reminder of the Lamb of God and that all offerings are offered before God (1:3).
- 3:9 the whole fat tail: The tail of the Palestinian broad-tailed sheep is almost entirely fat and can weigh more than 16 pounds. This explains its special mention in the regulations for offering the fat of the sheep.
- 3:11 The mention of food does not mean that God desired, needed, or ate the sacrifice, as the pagan gods were thought to do.
- 3:12 In the regulations for offering a goat, the animal's sex is not mentioned as it is in the regulations for cattle and sheep. Otherwise, the regulations for the sacrifice of a goat are the same as those for the sacrifice of a sheep.
- 3:16 All the fat is the LORD's is a reminder that our gifts to God must be from the best that we have.
- 3:17 perpetual . . . dwellings: Some regulations in the Law of Moses could be observed only in the land that God was giving the Israelites. However, this prohibition of eating fat or blood applied wherever an Israelite might live. There were no exceptions. These sacrificial regulations consistently emphasize the theme of only the best for God. As it was in ancient Israel, so it is today:

only our best is good enough to give to God.

4:2 sins unintentionally: Sin that occurred without the sinner realizing it still offended the holiness of God and polluted His earthly dwelling place, just as clothing may be soiled without the wearer knowing it. To be used again, both the clothing and the tabernacle required cleansing.

4:3 anointed priest: Since the high priest represented the people before God, his sin brought guilt on the people. Until the sin was atoned for, the priest could not come before God, and the people's most important intermediary with God was set aside. A young bull was the most expensive sacrifice required for the purification offering, reflecting the importance of the high priest's office.

4:4, 5 The steps in offering different animals were similar, with small but important variations (see vv. 14, 15, 22–24, 27–29, 32, 33). Whether it was the bull for the anointed priest or the whole congregation, the male kid for the ruler, or the female kid or lamb for the common person, the worshiper brought the animal, laid a hand on its head, and killed it. These actions emphasized that the offering was to atone for the worshiper's sin.

4:6 Seven symbolizes completeness in the Bible, based on the seven days of creation in Gen. 1; 2. The veil was a heavy linen curtain that separated the Most Holy Place from the rest of the tabernacle (Ex. 26:31). Sprinkling the blood before, or on, the veil purified the Most Holy Place.

4:7 The altar of sweet incense was in the holy place (Ex. 30:1–6). Incense, not an animal sacrifice, was burned on this altar. Still, this part of the tabernacle also needed purification—through the application of blood—from the pollution of the priest's sin.

4:8–10 The instructions concerning the fat were the same as for the fat of the peace offering.

4:11, 12 Burning the whole bull ensured that the priest did not profit in any way from his own sin or from the atonement for his sin. Carrying it outside the camp was another way of symbolizing the seriousness of the pollution of the tabernacle caused by the high priest's sin. The part of the bull not burned on the altar could not be used for any other purpose. It needed to be disposed of entirely.

4:12 Even the ashes from the altar symbolized the atonement necessary for sin. Therefore, the ground outside the camp where they were poured out was considered clean.

4:13 whole congregation: All the people of Israel. hidden: A sin committed without anyone being aware of it, or without the one responsible knowing that it was sin.

4:15 The elders represented the whole congregation as they laid their hands on the head of the bull.

4:22 ruler: Literally, “one lifted up,” a leader or chief of the people. The leader of the whole nation (judge or king) or a group (such as the chiefs and representatives of all the tribes) could be called by this name.

4:23 A kid of the goats was designated for a ruler of the people. Since he was a civil and not a religious leader, his sin polluted the sanctuary less seriously than did the sin of the high priest or the sin of the whole congregation.

4:25 The altar of burnt offering stood in the outer court of the tabernacle. The pollution of a ruler's sin did not penetrate to the holy place or to the Most Holy Place (where the ark of the covenant stood), as did the pollution due to the sin of the high priest or the congregation.

4:26 The priest was not guilty of sin in this case, so he was entitled to the meat from the sacrificial animal brought by the ruler.

4:27 common people: Literally, “the people of the land,” those who held no religious, civil, or military office.

5:1 utterance of an oath: Anyone with information regarding the oath was obligated to come forward and give testimony. Regardless of whether the person's information was firsthand or secondhand, if he did not testify, he became guilty and had to bring a purification offering. It was not having the information, but withholding it that made the person guilty.

5:2 unclean: The difference between clean and unclean animals is carefully spelled out in ch. 11. beast: Larger wild animals. livestock: Domesticated animals. creeping things: Smaller wild animals, including reptiles, small mammals, and insects. unaware of it: Either by not noticing that he had touched the carcass or by forgetting before bringing the purification offering.

- 5:3 human uncleanness: Primarily the body fluids that caused a person to become unclean (see ch. 15). Contact with a corpse would also be included, as would contact with another person's waste. The ancient Israelites knew nothing about microbiology. But God, who knows everything, gave the Israelites certain laws that prevented disease and made them distinct from their neighbors.
- 5:4 thoughtlessly: Rashly, in the grip of strong emotion or without thinking the matter through. to do evil or to do good: A rash vow is rash, whether the intention is good or evil. In any case, the guilt brought on by a rash vow needed to be atoned for. unaware of it: Certainly a person would know when he was making a vow, but he might not realize its full implications. He could also forget a vow to do good and fail to fulfill it. when he realizes it: At that point, the person's guilt had to be atoned for by the purification offering.
- 5:5 in any of these matters: Any of the situations described in vv. 1–4. This was a reminder that these sins were to be taken seriously; they required atonement. confess: The rituals of sacrifice were not automatic in their effect. The worshiper had to recognize, acknowledge, and repent of the sin.
- 5:6 trespass offering: This offering is not the same as the trespass offering prescribed in the next section. This section still deals with purification offerings for inadvertent guilt.
- 5:7 If he is not able: If he cannot afford it. two turtledoves: Part of the purification offering was burned on the altar and part was not burned. To accomplish this when offering birds, the worshiper brought two.
- 5:8–10 The first bird for the sin offering was sacrificed for its blood. The second was burned, like the fat and vital organs of the larger animals.
- 5:11 one-tenth of an ephah: Approximately two quarts. Oil and frankincense were not added as they were to the grain offering. This was a purification offering; it had to be pure flour.
- 5:12, 13 Part of the offering was burned on the altar, as was part of the animal sacrifices. The rest belonged to the priests, as did the remainder of the animal sacrifices (except the burnt offerings) brought by ordinary citizens.
- 5:15 commits a trespass: This phrase refers both to the objective responsibility of a sinner for his or her actions and the subjective feeling of guilt experienced by the offender. The offering righted the wrong of the offense and cleared the conscience of the sinner. the holy things of the LORD: Anything separated from common use and dedicated to the sacred use of the Lord—the tabernacle, its furnishings and utensils, the sacrificial food reserved for the priests, the tithes, and any other gifts given to the sanctuary. the shekel of the sanctuary: Slightly heavier than the shekel used in ordinary transactions in the marketplace. The common shekel was about eleven and a half grams, or four-tenths of an ounce; the sanctuary shekel was about twelve and a half grams.

The Holiness Code

Most of the religions of the ancient world made a distinction between the sacred and the profane. However, the gods of these pagan religions were usually seen as behaving little better than human beings, and often quite a bit worse. Furthermore, the religious rituals of many of these religions were often cruel, degrading, and dehumanizing.

God did not want His people Israel to practice those things. He was not a God to be worshiped in that way. So when the Israelites left Egypt, He gave them careful instructions for how they were to worship Him. Most of these religious laws are contained in the Book of Leviticus, which means “the book of the Levites.” The Levites were the descendants of Levi who were called to be priests and religious leaders. Thus Leviticus could be said to be Israel’s manual for worship and religious life.

Another term by which Leviticus is often known is the Holiness Code. It spells out what it means to worship and serve a holy God. Categories of instruction include:

- Worship through offerings and sacrifices (chs. 1–7).
- The relationship between physical and biological matters and religious life (chs. 11–15).
- The Day of Atonement, the annual occasion on which the nation’s sin was dealt with (ch. 16).
- The spiritual implications of day-to-day life (chs. 17–24).
- The Year of Jubilee, involving the return of property and lands to their owners, and servants to their families (ch. 25).
- The implications of obeying or disobeying the Law (ch. 26).
- Vows (ch. 27).

The letter of these laws applied only to ancient Israel, but the spirit of them continues to apply to God’s people today. Like the Hebrews, we are called to holiness in every area of life (1 Pet. 1:14–16). In fact, Jesus said that the commandment of Leviticus to “love your neighbor as yourself” (Lev. 19:18) was second only to loving God with all of one’s being (Matt. 22:37–39).

As you read Leviticus, you may find the strict and repetitive laws concerning blood sacrifices and other religious rituals to seem far removed from modern life. But they remind us—just as they reminded the Israelites—of the heavy penalty that sin exacts and of the necessity for the atoning death of the Lord Jesus Christ. He is the Lamb of God whose blood made atonement for our sins. In fact, His death was anticipated by the sacrifices made on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 16:11–34; Heb. 9:6–28).

Recognizing this connection, we have great cause to praise and thank the Lord as we read Leviticus. Here we have a picture of what it cost Jesus to make us right with God. We also have a picture of what our response should be—lives of holiness.

5:16 make restitution: A guiding principle of biblical law and ethics is that when a person has caused harm to another, whether to God or to another human being, the one offending is responsible to make good the loss. add one-fifth to it: As a fine, in addition to the ram and the full restitution. The restitution and fine were paid first, as evidence of the offender’s genuine repentance. Then the priest sacrificed the ram as atonement.

5:17 he does not know: Ignorance did not make an offense harmless. The offender was still guilty and bore responsibility for his iniquity. He might also be troubled in his conscience, though he might never learn the exact nature of his offense. People often experienced dread that they had committed unwitting offense against God, His sanctuary, or His holy things.

5:18 In such a situation, the offering of a ram (without restitution or fine, since the value of what had been taken or harmed could not be determined) brought atonement for the unknown offense. his ignorance in which he erred and did not know it: This was not a sin of rebellion, but one for which the offender earnestly desired to atone, though he did not know what it was.

5:19 he has certainly trespassed against the LORD: This could also be phrased as “He has certainly made reparation to the LORD.” The emphasis on the worshiper’s ignorance of his sin and his uneasy conscience was matched here by the statement that his offering had been accepted. He was forgiven, and his conscience could rest.

6:2, 3 a trespass against the LORD: The offenses listed were against people. However, they also wronged God because the offender used God’s name in vain in the oath he used to swear his innocence in court. lying to his neighbor: Saying the property was lost, stolen, or destroyed, when he had kept it for himself. delivered to him for safekeeping: In the absence of banks, people would leave valuables with trusted neighbors or business associates when they went on a long journey. a pledge: A security deposit or collateral on a loan. any one of these things: In all these cases, a person betrayed his neighbor's trust, taking or keeping property illegally and then lying about it under oath. Since in court it was one person's sworn word against another's, the wronged person had little recourse.

6:4 is guilty: Objectively, he had done wrong. Subjectively, he became conscience-stricken. Since his oath in court had placed him beyond the reach of punishment, only the offender's guilty conscience could bring him to justice. shall restore: Restitution was necessary before anything else when someone had wronged another by taking what was rightfully his. Zacchaeus recognized the principle of restitution when he encountered Jesus (Luke 19:8).

6:5, 6 As with sin concerning the holy things (5:16), restitution and a one-fifth fine were evidence of genuine repentance. Then the offender could bring the ram for the trespass offering and be forgiven for the sin against God of swearing falsely in God's name. Jesus preserved this order for the person who remembered at the altar that he had offended his brother (Matt. 5:23, 24).

priest

(Heb. kohen) (1:5, 6:6; 27:21; 2 Chr. 35:2) Strong's #3548

Priesthood was not unique to the Israelites. From the Egyptians to the Philistines, all the ancient Middle Eastern nations had a class of priests. At Mt. Sinai, God consecrated Aaron and his descendants as priests (Ex. 28:1). They were to be representatives of the people before God, offering sacrifices and prayers on their behalf. Furthermore, they instructed the people about their religious duties and the character of God (Deut. 33:8–10). The NT describes Jesus Christ as our High Priest (Heb. 5:10). Through His death on the Cross, the formal priesthood was abolished (Heb. 10:11, 12). In its stead, all believers become priests—not to offer sacrifices but to pray, worship God, and witness to others about Jesus (Heb. 13:15, 16; 1 Pet. 2:5, 9; Rev. 1:5, 6).

Go to the List of Word Studies

6:9 Aaron and his sons, the priests, were responsible for the correct preparation and presentation of all offerings. shall be kept burning: The fire on the altar was never to go out. This was accomplished at night with a burnt offering that was not extinguished. It could have been stoked with wood through the night to keep it burning. After being renewed in the morning (see v. 12), the fire was kept going throughout the day for the succession of offerings from various individuals.

6:10 linen garment . . . linen trousers: The sacred clothing of the priests, worn only in the tabernacle (see 16:4; Ex. 28:40–43). The trousers were a linen undergarment that prevented immodest exposure as the priest ascended and descended the altar ramp. This modesty communicated to the Israelites that human sexuality could not influence God. That idea was a central feature of Baal worship, which continually tempted the Israelites. The priests of Baal would use obscene gestures and actions in the pagan worship of their depraved god.

6:11 The linen garments were worn only within the tabernacle. They were not worn when carrying the ashes outside the camp.

6:12, 13 the fire . . . shall not be put out: Five times in this paragraph the priests are instructed to keep the fire burning. There are at least three reasons for this: (1) The original fire on the altar came from God (9:24). (2) Perpetual fire symbolized the perpetual worship of God. (3) Perpetual fire symbolized the continual need for atonement and reconciliation with God, which was the purpose of the offerings. If the ashes were cleaned off the altar every morning, the fire would have been at its lowest at that point. It was renewed with wood. Then the morning burnt offering was sacrificed, followed by other offerings through the day.

6:18 all the males . . . Aaron: This included all the priests, as well as descendants of Aaron who were disqualified from the priesthood for some reason (see 21:16–23). statute forever: “For all the age,” or for as long as sacrifices are offered. must be holy: Only those who had been made holy or had been consecrated to God could touch or use the reserved sacrificial portions.

6:20 beginning . . . anointed: The high priest personally was to offer this sacrifice twice daily for as long as he was in office. one-tenth of an ephah: About two quarts. half of it . . . at night: The idea of a morning and an evening appointment with God is ancient. It is a precious privilege, open to every believer through the high priestly work of Christ. at night: More precisely, “in the evening—at the time of the evening sacrifice.

6:22 The priest . . . in his place: Aaron’s successors as high priest, beginning with his son Eleazar (see Num. 20:25–28). statute forever: This grain offering and the burnt offering were sacrificed daily—with some interruptions, most notably during the Exile—until the destruction of the temple in A.D. 70. Even in the periods of Judah’s worst apostasy, the evidence suggests that the daily offerings continued, though often for incorrect or inadequate reasons (see Is. 1:10–17; Jer. 7:8–15; Mic. 6:6–8).

6:23 It shall not be eaten: The priests could eat most of the grain offerings brought by the people (2:3, 10). The principle here was that no one should profit from an offering which he himself had given.

6:24–30 Instructions for the priests about the sin, or purification, offering (see 4:1–5:13).

6:27 The blood of the sin offering was for the atonement of the one bringing the offering; as such, the blood was holy, intended for a specific, holy purpose. The blood could be washed from a garment only in a holy place.

6:28 It here refers to the flesh of the sin offering. The breaking of the earthen vessel, a clay cooking pot, is a striking contrast to the scouring of the bronze pot. No reason is given for the different treatment. However, the answer may be that a clay vessel is permeable and the residue of cooking could never be removed completely from it, even by a thorough scrubbing. The ancients knew nothing about microbiology; but God knows all things! Broth would not permeate a bronze pot and could be removed completely from it. That which is holy must not be profaned. Sacrificing the clay vessel, as it were, prevented profaning even the smallest part of the flesh of the sin offering, which was most holy (vv. 25, 29).

6:30 The blood of the sin offering for the priest and of that for the entire congregation was brought into the tabernacle of meeting (4:5–7, 16–18). Because no one should profit from an offering given to atone for his own sin, the priests were forbidden to eat the flesh of these offerings.

7:2 In the place: At the door of the tabernacle of meeting before the Lord (1:3).

7:3, 4 The burning of the fat was commanded as it was for the peace offering (3:9–11). The fat was considered the best part of the meat. As such, it was not to be eaten by the worshiper or the priest. Instead, it was offered to God. Our best is still the measure of what we should offer to God.

7:7 the priest who makes atonement: That is, the individual officiating priest. Since many individual Israelites would have brought both trespass and sin offerings, the priests would take turns officiating for them and would receive equal proportions of the sacrifices.

7:8 The skin was the only part of the burnt offering that was not burned (1:6). The officiating priest received it as part of his wages.

7:9 Each Israelite’s baked grain offering belonged to the individual priest who offered it, as did the flesh of an animal offered as a sin or a trespass offering (v. 7).

7:10 By contrast, an offering of unbaked grain belonged to all the sons of Aaron, to one as much as the other. No priest was to be deprived of his rightful share in the sacrifices brought by the congregation. The priests were consecrated to the service of God, and their welfare and that of their families depended on the provisions from the sacrifices. The principle remains valid: No one called to serve the people of God as a vocation may be deprived of a fair living.

7:12, 13 The sacrifice of thanksgiving was a public proclamation of who God is and what He does. A thanksgiving offering required three kinds of unleavened cakes and leavened bread.

7:14 The heave offering was a “present” or contribution to the officiating priest as his portion of the thanksgiving offering (Ex. 29:26–28; Lev. 7:29–34). The offering was waved before the Lord as an acknowledgment that He is the giver of all gifts.

7:15 the same day it is offered: The festive worshiper bringing his peace offering for a family feast at the tabernacle demonstrated trust in God for the next day’s provision. He did not worry about saving food for the next day. When feasting and rejoicing in the presence of God, generosity is entirely appropriate.

7:16 the next day . . . may be eaten: The vow and the voluntary peace offering were slightly less solemn than the thanksgiving (or confession) peace offering. Therefore, any leftovers from them could be eaten on the second day without jeopardizing the purity of the tabernacle.

7:18 it shall not be . . . imputed: The sacrifice would lose all its benefit to the worshiper. This was so even if the one eating the meat was not the one who had brought the offering. It shall be an abomination may be rephrased, “It shall be rotten or spoiled.” This would be true first in the physical sense: Unrefrigerated two-day-old meat would spoil. But it also would be rotten in the sense of an unclean thing that contaminated the holy precincts.

7:19 touches any unclean thing: An unclean object pollutes a clean object. A similar principle applies to sterile objects in medicine. Touching a sterile object with a dirty object makes the sterile object unsterile.

7:20, 21 unclean: Chapters 11–15; 22 detail various kinds of uncleanness in persons and things. shall be cut off: The person will be removed from membership in the covenant community. This meant either execution, banishment, or denial of citizenship privileges (worship, inheritance, and so on; see Gen. 17:14). This concern for approaching God’s presence in a state of ritual purity is reflected in Paul’s instructions about the reverence and self-examination the Christian should use in approaching the Lord’s Supper (1 Cor. 11:27–29).

7:23 The fat was considered the best portion of the sacrificial animal; as such, it belonged to God.

7:24 used in any other way: That is, for softening leather, for fuel, or in any other way but eating it.

7:29 The portions of the peace offering that belonged to the Lord included the fat, which was burned on the altar (v. 31), and the breast and thigh, which were the priests’ portions (vv. 30–34).

7:30 His own hands: A worshiper could not delegate his worship, thanksgiving, or praise. Worship by proxy was impossible. The breast was one of the finer portions of the meat that was allowed to be eaten. The breast of the sacrificial animal was brought to the priest as a wave offering or an elevated offering—raised by the worshiper in the presence of God and the priest—symbolizing that the entire sacrifice was dedicated to God.

7:31 The breast (the elevated offering) was Aaron’s and his sons’—it belonged to all the priests.

7:32, 33 heave offering: The right (front) thigh of the sacrificial animal belonged to the priest who performed the sacrifice. Thus the officiating priest received his individual portion, the thigh (heave offering), and all the priests received a further portion, the breast (wave offering).

7:37, 38 A summary listing of the offerings of chs. 1–7, with the reminder that these sacrifices were prescribed by God Himself on Mt. Sinai. What God commanded He made possible, by giving careful instruction (the law of the . . . offering) regarding the proper way to bring the offerings before Him. God does not leave His people to wonder how they may approach Him and please Him. All these offerings foreshadow, in one way or another, the perfect sacrifice of Christ upon Calvary.

8:2 Aaron had presided over Israel’s idolatry with the golden calf. Now God gave him a second chance by allowing him to be ordained as God’s own high priest. His ministry would affect all Israelites by atoning for their sins and bringing them into fellowship with God. the garments: The high priestly clothing that Aaron wore, prescribed by God to Moses in Ex. 28:1–39. anointing oil: Made from myrrh, cinnamon, cane, cassia, and olive oil (Ex. 30:23–25).

8:3 the congregation: The ordination of the priests was so important that all the people needed to witness it.

8:5 This is what the LORD commanded, or similar words, is noted nine times in this chapter (vv. 4, 5, 9, 13, 17, 21, 29, 34, 36). It was important that God’s instructions for worship be carried out meticulously. Sloppy, careless, or thoughtless worship did not honor God.

8:6 Moses brought Aaron: As the prophet of God and the leader of God’s people (Deut. 18:15–18; 34:1–12), Moses was the only person qualified to ordain Aaron and his sons as Israel’s priests. Until Moses ordained them, they were not priests and could not lead Israel’s worship. Moses’ prophetic ministry took precedence over Aaron's priestly ministry. washed them with water: This symbolized moral purity.

8:7 The ephod was the magnificent outer garment of the high priest, made of gold thread; violet, purple, and scarlet woolen thread; and fine linen thread (Ex. 28:5, 6).

8:8 the Urim and the Thummim: Sacred lots used to determine the will of God. What they looked like and how they were used is not known. Apparently, the high priest phrased questions so the answers would be "yes" or "no," depending on how the lots came up.

8:9 The golden plate was also known as the holy crown of the high priest. On it was engraved HOLINESS TO THE LORD (Ex. 28:36).

8:11 Since the altar was the central furnishing of the tabernacle for the atonement for sin, sprinkling it seven times represented the complete consecration of the tabernacle and all its furnishings and utensils to God's service.

8:12 anointed: The high priests of Israel, beginning here with Aaron, were anointed, as were the kings of Israel (1 Sam. 10:1; 16:13) and at least some of the prophets (1 Kin. 19:16). Jesus combines in His person the offices of High Priest, King, and Prophet, so He is the Anointed One, which is the meaning of the names Messiah and Christ.

8:13 While Aaron's sons were set apart or ordained as priests, they were not anointed. Only the high priest was anointed.

8:15 Moses' actions here were slightly different from the normal sin offering prescribed in ch. 4. The purpose is clear from the statement that he purified the altar . . . and consecrated it. The priests, the altar, and everything associated with the sacrificial system had to be pure and consecrated to God. Otherwise the sacrifices would not atone for the sins of Israel.

8:23 The reason for applying the blood of the sacrifice to Aaron's ear, thumb, and big toe is unclear. They were his extremities, top to bottom, possibly to represent the total covering of his sins by the sacrificial blood. Blood offering had also been applied to the horns of the altar (v. 15), signaling the close connection between the altar and the priests who ministered before it.

8:25 The right thigh normally was the individual officiating priest's portion of the peace offering (7:32). In this case, it was a consecration offering for all the priests, so it was burned on the altar.

8:29 Moses' part: Moses, acting as priest in this first sacrifice, received the breast, which from that time on would go to Aaron and his sons.

8:30 Moses' act of consecration here, though it used anointing oil together with blood from the altar, was different from his anointing of Aaron alone in v. 12.

8:33 seven days: Becoming intercessors between God and the people was an extremely important step for Aaron and his sons—and for Israel. This period of confinement to the tabernacle emphasized the significance of the event. consecrate you: Literally, "fill your hand." In the physical sense, this referred to the fact that the priests' hands often would be filled with sacrifices as they served God in the tabernacle. In a greater sense, their consecration meant that their hands always would be filled with God's service to the exclusion of everything else.

8:35 That you may not die was a reminder that it is dangerous to approach God carelessly, without reverence, ignoring His instructions. Two of Aaron's sons failed to heed this warning and died (ch. 10).

8:36 For now, all those involved obeyed all the LORD had commanded. Their ordination was complete; their priesthood was valid. God would accept their service and their intercession for the people.

9:1 the eighth day: After the seven days of Aaron and his sons' consecration (8:33–36) were completed.

9:2 A young bull was the prescribed sin offering for the high priest (4:3). Before he could offer the sacrifices of others, his own sin needed atonement. The bull of the sin offering and the ram of the burnt offering (1:4, 10) accomplished this.

9:3 you shall speak: To this point Moses had given all the directions. Now that Aaron had been anointed high priest, it was fitting that he begin to instruct Israel on how to bring sacrifices. A kid of the goats was prescribed as the sin offering for individuals—a male goat for leaders (4:22, 23) and a female for ordinary citizens (4:27, 28).

9:4 All four of the regular public offerings—burnt, sin, peace, and grain—were performed on this first day of Israel’s sacrificial worship in the tabernacle. The first two were specifically to atone for sin; the second two were for a feast of fellowship with God. Only the trespass, or reparation, offering was missing because it was a private offering (5:14–6:7). the LORD will appear to you: The purpose of all worship is to fellowship with God. The sacrifices were not an end in themselves; they allowed the worshiper to meet with God without being destroyed. The Israelites looked forward; we look back to Christ’s atonement, by which we are ushered into God’s presence.

9:5 So they brought . . . and . . . drew near: The immediate and total obedience of the people is emphasized, in contrast with the complaining and rebellion that marked their response to Moses and to God (Ex. 32; Num. 14).

9:7 Before Aaron could make atonement for the people, he had to make atonement for himself.

make atonement

(Heb. kaphar) (1:4; 9:7; 14:18; 2 Sam. 21:3) Strong's #3722

In its various uses this word can mean “to cover,” “to appease,” or “to ransom.” It can refer to monetary transaction, but in the Scriptures it more commonly speaks of payment for sin. All of the various offerings in the Jewish sacrificial system are described as effecting atonement. The key idea is that these offerings gained the favor of God, and God removed the worshiper's guilt. The sacrifice was presented as a substitute for the life of the offender. The sacrifice of an animal atoned for the offender's sin and turned aside God's wrath. Like the lambs offered to atone for the sins of the Israelites, Jesus' life was offered as a substitute for ours. His death turned away God's wrath and atoned for our sin (Rom. 3:25).

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 9:8 The high priest had to kill the calf of the sin offering himself, since the sacrifice was for him. In Aaron's first attempt at being a priest for Israel, he had made a golden calf for the people to worship (Ex. 32). His first sacrifice as God's anointed high priest was a calf for his own sin offering. Aaron undoubtedly recognized the irony and praised God for His mercy. God had given Aaron a second chance. Truly, God is the God of the second chance for any who will respond to Him in faith!
- 9:9–11 Aaron did not sprinkle the blood before the veil (4:6). Also, the altar here is the altar of burnt offering, not the altar of incense (4:7). This variation from the normal pattern of the sin offering for the high priest was probably due to the fact that Aaron had not yet committed any sin that polluted the inner sanctuary. Therefore, its cleansing was not necessary. For regulations concerning the fat, flesh, and hide, see 4:8–12.
- 9:12–14 Because there was no variation from the general procedure for the burnt offering, the record of Aaron's performing this sacrifice is less detailed than the regulations for it (1:10–13). Aaron killed the ram himself (9:2), since it was a burnt offering for him and not for all the people.
- 9:15 The goat as the sin offering looked forward to the Day of Atonement (16:5, 9), rather than back to the normal sin offering for all the people, which required a bull (4:14).
- 9:18 The peace offerings for the people concluded the four offerings. Aaron had sacrificed a bull, a calf, and a ram for himself; and a kid, a calf, a lamb, a bull, a ram, and a grain offering for the people. On Aaron's first day as high priest, he offered all but one of the various sacrifices. The fact that God sent fire to consume these offerings signaled His future acceptance of all the sacrifices He had commanded the Israelites to bring—if they would bring them with a repentant and trusting spirit, as He had instructed.
- 9:22 Aaron . . . blessed them: The ultimate function of the priests was to bless the people. When God gave the priestly blessing, He said that the priests would put His name on the children of Israel, and He would bless them (Num. 6:27). The purpose of the priests' sacrifices was to cleanse the priests so they could bless the people (Deut. 10:8). The purpose of the people's sacrifices was to cleanse the people so they could receive God's blessing, and in turn be a blessing to all other peoples (Gen. 12:3; 22:18). came down: The altar of burnt offering was five by five by three cubits (about seven and a half feet square and four and a half feet high). The priest climbed a ramp to offer on it.

9:23 the tabernacle of meeting: Moses, Aaron, and Aaron's sons were in the courtyard in front of the altar of burnt offering. Moses and Aaron went into the tent itself where the altar of incense, the table of showbread, and the golden lampstand (the menorah) stood. blessed the people: This was the second time that day that the people had been blessed. The fact that Moses and Aaron could bless the people after they met with God signaled that God was pleased with the inaugural sacrifices Aaron had offered on behalf of himself and the people. glory of the LORD appeared: as God had promised through Moses (vv. 4, 6).

9:24 fire came out: The sacrifices were consumed, not by fire ignited by Aaron, but by fire from before the LORD. This is the first of only five times that the OT records fire from God as a sign that a sacrifice was accepted (Judg. 6:21; 1 Kin. 18:38; 1 Chr. 21:26; 2 Chr. 7:1). Since the fire on this altar was never to go out, all Israel's sacrifices from this time forward would be consumed by fire that originated from God. fell on their faces: This response to the glory of God's presence was called fear by previous generations. Today we call it reverence. The pattern of the Israelites' sacrifice established a valid pattern for approaching God today. Sin must be confessed, repented, and atoned for. When God accepted the sacrifice, He accepted the one who offered it into His presence.

10:1 Nadab and Abihu were Aaron's eldest sons. With Aaron and 70 elders of Israel, they had accompanied Moses partway up Mt. Sinai and had seen God (see Ex. 24:1, 9–11). They had participated with their father in the inaugural sacrifices recorded in ch. 9. They had obeyed, and God had accepted all that had been done on that day. profane fire: Nadab and Abihu violated God's holiness in some way the author does not spell out. Profane is literally "strange." Which He had not commanded them is in striking contrast with the careful obedience to God's commands recorded in chs. 8; 9. Whatever the details, their act was clearly disobedient, and they knew it.

10:2 Fire went out from the LORD in punishment. Two verses earlier (9:24), fire had come from the Lord in acceptance of Israel and its worship. What is a blessing when it comes as a result of faithfulness can be deadly when provoked by disobedience. devoured them: killed them. Their cousins picked them up in their priestly tunics and carried them outside the camp for burial (v. 5). they died: Their deaths were a result of their own rebellious action.

Word Studies

fire

(Heb. 'esh) (10:2; 16:13; Ex. 3:2; 13:21) Strong's #784

In the OT, fire and flame were closely associated with Israel's worship and religious life. The consumption of offerings by flame assured the priests that God had accepted the people's sacrifices (Judg. 6:21; 1 Kin. 18:38). Numerous references to fire in the Bible emphasize God's judgment on wickedness and unbelief. God is represented as a "consuming fire" (Ex. 24:17; Deut. 4:24; Amos 5:6; Heb. 12:29). As a source of heat and light, fire is often pictured in the Bible as God's agent to purify and illuminate. The coming Messenger of the Lord is portrayed as a "refiner's fire" (Mal. 3:2). The tongues "as of fire" that came with the descent of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost underscored the purging and illuminating quality of God's truth (Acts 2:3).

- 10:3 those who come near Me: In this context, God referred to the priests, Aaron and his sons. Those who are closest to God—those who minister before Him and teach the people—have a greater responsibility to be careful about God's holiness. James stresses this principle in his letter (James 3:1). I must be glorified is still a good principle by which to measure our worship. Anything that does not glorify God is not truly worship and should not be allowed in our worship gatherings.
- Aaron held his peace: Though he certainly was grieving the sudden loss of his sons, Aaron recognized that their action was rebellion against God. If it had not been dealt with promptly, it would have spread and disrupted Israel's holy worship.
- 10:4 carry: Though priests were forbidden to come into contact with the dead, a brother's corpse normally was an exception to this rule (21:1–4). However, Moses called Aaron's cousins to carry the bodies of Nadab and Abihu out of the camp because their rebellion had been the cause of their deaths, and because their father and brothers had only just begun their priestly duties. your brethren: The Hebrew word for brother can include cousins, as it does here.
- 10:5 as Moses had said: The pattern of obedience interrupted by Nadab and Abihu's sin was reestablished.
- 10:6 uncover your heads nor tear your clothes: These were conventional signs of mourning (see Ezek. 24:16, 17).
- 10:8 the LORD spoke to Aaron: This is the only place in Leviticus where God speaks to Aaron alone.
- 10:10 Holy and unholy had been the subject of the preceding instructions about sacrifices and their first implementation (chs. 1–9). Unclean and clean would be the subject of the following instructions about animals, diseases, bodily discharges, and so on (chs. 11–15).
- 10:11–13 you may teach . . . the statutes: In the OT era, the priests were primarily responsible for teaching the people of Israel the Law of God. Parents, in turn, were to teach their children (Deut. 6:6–9, 20–25). a holy place: within the tabernacle. For instructions about the grain offering, see 2:10.
- 10:14 a clean place: a place that had not been defiled by (or had been ritually cleansed from) the kinds of uncleanness described in chs. 11–15. This place was not specifically near the tabernacle, where some of the priests' portions had to be eaten, but presumably in the priests' dwellings or any other clean place within the camp (before they reached the Promised Land) or within the land (after they reached it). your daughters: The right of the women in the priests' families to share in their portions of the offerings is described more fully in 22:10–13. For instructions on the wave and heave offerings, see 7:32, 33.

10:15 Moses reassured his brother that God would allow him to remain as high priest, in spite of the sin and death of two of his sons.

10:16 careful inquiry: Moses was responsible to see that Nadab and Abihu's sin did not cause further punishment to fall on Israel. burned up: The flesh of the sin offering, if it was not for the priest or the whole congregation, was not to be burned completely. Only its fat should have been burned (4:26, 31, 35). This sin offering was not for Aaron and his sons, even though it was for all the people, since Aaron was to offer a separate sin offering for himself (and presumably for his sons, too). Moses was angry. Much had gone wrong already. The worship rituals had been carried out improperly. What more might God do because of this further breach?

10:17, 18 The priests were to eat the flesh (except for the fat) of any sin offering whose blood was not brought inside the holy place—that is, of any sin offering that was not intended to atone for them (4:5–7, 16–18). Eleazar and Ithamar had not done this, but had burned up all the goat of the sin offering.

10:19 Aaron said: Moses had spoken to Eleazar and Ithamar, perhaps out of respect for his older brother, since Aaron should have eaten the meat of the sin offering also. But Aaron replied, taking responsibility for his family, as was proper in Israel's patriarchal society. such things: Aaron was referring to the deaths of his two eldest sons. would it have been accepted: Aaron did not eat the sacrificial meat because he was afraid of what more God might do. He was not being rebellious, as his dead sons had been in burning the incense. Aaron was arguing that in circumstances such as the one he faced that day, God would prefer the priest to err on the side of caution rather than presumption. Aaron's reply to Moses illustrates that the interpretation of the Law was not static.

10:20 Moses . . . was content: Rebellion arises from a heart that is not right toward God. Moses recognized that Aaron's failure was not rebellion, that his argument had merit, and that Aaron could be forgiven. The first great crisis in establishing Israel's worship of God had passed.

11:1 the LORD spoke: Now that Aaron was high priest, he was responsible for teaching and administering the law. So God spoke to Moses and Aaron together when He gave these further instructions (10:10, 11).

11:2 on the earth: As distinct from the sea and the air. A similar grouping of animal life is found in the creation account (Gen. 1:20–31).

11:3 chewing the cud: That is, the ruminants, like cows, sheep, goats, deer, and antelope. The ruminants eat only plants, mainly grasses and grains. No meat-eating animal chews the cud. The animals allowed for food are not mentioned by name (as they are in Deut. 14:4, 5). Cattle, sheep, and goats provided most of the meat for the ancient Israelites. They ate meat much less often than we do, usually only on special occasions such as the sacrificial feasts or to honor guests in the home.

11:4 The camel was eaten by some of Israel's neighbors, who considered it a delicacy. But the camel would not have been an important source of meat for Israel even if it had been permitted, for it never was as numerous in Israel or as important to Israel's economy as it was to their neighbors. The camel does have a split hoof, but its sole or pad is so thick that its imprint is like a single pad.

11:5 The rock hyrax lives in colonies among the rocks (see Prov. 30:26). Though it is sometimes called a rock badger, it is not a badger. The rock hyrax is about the same size as a rabbit. Hyraxes appear to chew constantly while sitting outside their dens sunning themselves.

11:6 The hare is not a ruminant, although it does appear to chew constantly. It does not have a hoof.

11:7 The swine is the best known of the unclean animals and continues to be avoided by both Jews and Muslims. The swine was most commonly eaten by Israel's neighbors in both the OT and NT periods. All the reasons for labeling an animal as unclean fit the swine: (1) Inadequately cooked pork could transmit disease to humans; (2) pigs were sacrificed to pagan deities; (3) because pork tasted good, refusing it would be a suitable test of faithfulness and obedience.

11:8 In the case of these unclean animals, eating their meat or touching their dead carcasses caused an Israelite to be unclean or ritually impure. However, touching a live animal did not make a person unclean, and an Israelite could raise and use a donkey or camel as a beast of burden without becoming unclean.

11:9 A water creature had to possess both fins and scales in order to be eaten. Only true fish—and not all of them—fit this description. Oysters, clams, crabs, lobsters, and eels were unclean. Whether in the seas or in the rivers applied this command to both saltwater and freshwater species.

11:10–12 The phrasing is careful, deliberate, and repetitive to remove any possibility of finding any exception anywhere. Abomination is a stronger word than unclean. It implies not just avoidance, but active, fierce repulsion. Fins and scales are “appropriate” for water creatures. Fish that have them are clean. Water creatures that appear to mix categories—suggesting disorder—are not merely unclean; they are an abomination. There are good health reasons for being cautious in eating some of these creatures, but this was not the main reason for classifying them as unclean.

11:19 The hoopoe is a migratory bird. It spends its winters in tropical Africa and its summers in Israel and farther north. The bat of course is not a bird. But in the pre-scientific age it was grouped with birds because it has wings and flies.

11:20 Creep on all fours is an idiom for crawling on the ground, as insects do on their six legs. Many insects move about in filth and eat refuse. Their association with death, impurity, and disorder made them unclean.

11:21 Insects with jointed legs . . . with which to leap were permitted to be eaten. The joints are the enlarged third legs of locusts and grasshoppers that enable them to leap. Locusts and grasshoppers do not live in filth or eat dung. They eat only plants.

11:24 These refers to just the flying insects of the previous paragraph or possibly to all the unclean animals discussed so far. Merely to touch an unclean carcass caused a person to be unclean until evening, when the new day began for the Israelites.

11:25 If a person carried or picked up a carcass, or part of a carcass, that person's uncleanness was greater. Therefore, the remedy had to be more thorough.

11:26 The word carcass is not in the Hebrew text, but clearly that is what is meant here. A live unclean animal, such as a donkey or camel, could not make a person unclean simply by touching it. Otherwise, many people would have been unclean all the time.

11:27, 28 Whatever goes on its paws is unclean because it does not have a cloven hoof. As with the previous group, to touch a carcass was to be unclean and to carry a carcass was to be even more unclean, requiring a more thorough cleansing.

11:29, 30 Another group of animals is introduced here. Many of these animals could be found in or around human dwellings. Since these animals were unclean, it was important to know how to deal with them and with objects and utensils they touched. These are small creatures that creep on the earth. This refers not only to their great numbers, but also to their quickness of movement. The group includes small rodents in general, such as mice, voles, shrews, and hamsters, as well as some kinds of lizard.

11:31 when they are dead: Literally, “in their death” or “in their dying.” The Israelite farmer was more likely to kill a small rodent in the course of the day than any other creature named in this chapter. It was important to remember as they killed these pests that they themselves would be unclean until evening if they touched them.

11:32 Expensive vessels of wood, fabric, leather, or fiber were to be put in water. Whether they were only to be washed, or soaked until evening, is unclear. But at evening, the start of the new Jewish day, they would be clean.

- 11:33 Any earthen vessel . . . you shall break: Pottery was plentiful, cheap, and easily replaced. Vessels made of pottery were also used for food preparation and eating. Again, hygiene was an important result of avoiding the unclean.
- 11:34 The contents of any vessel made unclean in this way became unclean also.
- 11:35 These ovens were made of clay and so had to be broken also.
- 11:36 A spring or a cistern could hardly be emptied. Only the person removing the carcass became unclean—probably until evening.
- 11:37, 38 Dry planting seed did not become unclean.
- 11:39, 40 if any animal . . . dies: This refers to animals that died of natural causes, and not those killed for food. The carcass caused the person who touched it to be unclean because its blood had not been drained. Eating from or carrying the carcass involved more than merely touching it and required a greater remedy—washing one’s clothes as well as waiting until evening. Eating meat without draining its blood apparently was not as serious an offense as eating and drinking blood by itself (7:26, 27). Carrying the carcass would have been unavoidable in many situations—removing the animal for burial, for example. Uncleanliness often was not a moral issue—at least in the way a person became unclean.
- 11:41–43 Crawls on its belly and has many feet are new descriptions. They were not mentioned in the previous ban on eating creeping things.
- 11:44 I am the LORD your God: The word for LORD is Yahweh, the name by which God had revealed Himself to Moses (Ex. 3:14, 15; 6:2, 3). Consecrate yourselves means “make yourselves holy.” You shall be holy; for I am holy: This is the foundation of the so-called Holiness Code of chs. 17–26. To be holy means to “be separate.” God is holy as the transcendent Creator, above and apart from nature. To be separate to God is much more important than to be separate from other things. As God’s people are separated to Him, we become more and more conformed to His image, to be the persons God intended us to be when He created the first man and the first woman in His image (Gen. 1:26, 27). Holiness in God’s people involves grace, righteousness, integrity, peace, and mercy, because these are characteristics of the God who has redeemed us and whom we serve.
- 11:45 For emphasis, God reaffirmed His identity. Then He added an astounding commitment to Israel. His purpose in bringing them up out of the land of Egypt was to be their God. Because of God’s holy nature, they too had to be holy.
- 11:46, 47 This statement summarizes the content and purpose of the chapter by listing again the four broad groupings of animals. To distinguish reminds the reader that these were instructions for the people as well as the priests. The priests were responsible for teaching the Israelites.
- 12:2 The child did not cause the mother to be unclean. God had ordained and blessed childbirth from the beginning, even before the sin in the Garden (Gen. 1:28). Rather, it was the blood and other fluids in childbirth that made the mother ritually unclean for a period of time, just as other bodily fluids caused people to be unclean (ch. 15). This uncleanness was not necessarily a moral judgment on the mother. Seven days of uncleanness for a male child was the same length of time as the uncleanness for the woman’s menstrual period or customary impurity (15:19–24).
- 12:3 Recent medical science has concluded that the eighth day is the best time for circumcision. Before the eighth day, blood does not clot as well, and after it, sensitivity to pain becomes greater. Circumcision was also practiced by groups such as the Ammonites, Moabites, and Edomites. However, in Israel it was the outward symbol of God’s covenant with Abraham (Gen. 17:9–14). The fact that the symbol involved the male reproductive organ was a reminder that God had promised Abraham many descendants.
- 12:4 The eighth day also marked the end of the mother’s uncleanness with regard to everyday objects and activities; she no longer would make them unclean by touching them. But her personal uncleanness would continue for another thirty-three days. This corresponds with the medical characteristics of childbirth. After seven days, most discharges have ceased, but slight signs may continue for as long as six weeks. The phrase blood of her purification reminds us of this. Blood is the carrier of life in the body and the agent of purification from sin, both in the OT sacrificial system and Christ's sacrifice. At the same time, blood may become a source of pollution and death if it is taken lightly or not handled appropriately.

12:5 The birth of a female child doubled the period of ritual impurity. No reason is given.

12:6 The sacrifices required were the same for a son or a daughter, showing that God places equal value upon both sexes and that He intends His people to do the same. The burnt offering (ch. 1) and the sin offering (ch. 4) were two of the five regular offerings Israel had been instructed to bring before God. Following the birth of a child, these sacrifices were a woman's responsibility, though her husband normally would accompany her (Luke 2:22–24). The fact that the mother was to offer the sacrifices for herself reminds us that women were to be active participants in Israel's worship. A young pigeon or a turtledove was the least expensive offering. The poor could bring these birds when they could not afford a lamb (5:7).

12:7 The repetition here of the phrase a male or a female reemphasizes the equal worth of a girl and a boy.

12:8 If she is not able to bring a lamb is, literally, "If she cannot find in her hand enough for a lamb." Buying an animal for sacrifice was perhaps as common as raising one. Mary, following the birth of Jesus and the days of her purification, went to the temple in Jerusalem in accordance with this regulation (Luke 2:22–24). Her offering was a pair of birds. Joseph and Mary obviously were poor; the Magi had not yet visited them with their expensive gifts for the newborn King.

Leprosy

Leprosy is caused by a bacillus and is characterized by the formation of nodules that spread, causing loss of sensation and deformity. Now treated with sulfone drugs, leprosy is perhaps the least infectious of all known contagious diseases. Hansen's Disease, as it is more properly known, was often misdiagnosed in biblical times. People believed then that it was highly contagious and hereditary. On the basis of a hair in a scab, a pimple, or a spot on the skin that had turned white, the priest would declare a person to be a leper and would quarantine him or her for seven days. If healed of leprosy, the person was expected to offer certain sacrifices and engage in rites of purification (14:1–32).

- 13:2 The Hebrew word for a man means a “human being”—that is, anyone. A swelling, a scab, or a bright spot would often be a minor ailment that healed within a few days and caused no further concern. he shall be brought: The most serious result of the priest’s examination was to be declared unclean and banished from the camp. The natural tendency would be to put off seeing the priest about a condition. However, ritual uncleanness was a serious matter for all the people. It was important to diagnose skin problems immediately so that the whole camp did not become unclean. If the afflicted person did not come on his own initiative, his family and clan leaders were responsible for bringing him.
- 13:3 The priest shall examine: The priest made the diagnosis. However, nothing is said about how to treat the ailments. The subject of the passage is not medical treatment but ritual impurity, and making sure that the community of Israel, and particularly the tabernacle, would not become unclean.
- 13:6 he shall wash his clothes: Personal hygiene was an important factor in identifying and preventing the spread of infectious diseases, even those that did not cause a person to be unclean.
- 13:11 shall not isolate him: Isolation, or quarantine, was for the purpose of protecting the community until a diagnosis was reached. In this case, the patient was already diagnosed as unclean, which meant he had to live outside the camp (v. 46).
- 13:16, 17 Some of these diseases were healed, either spontaneously or with treatment. After another examination, the priest would then pronounce the patient clean.
- 13:45, 46 his clothes . . . his mustache: These actions were signs of mourning because the afflictions were symbolic of death and decay. The afflicted person might as well have been dead as far as contact with the community or opportunity to worship in the sanctuary was concerned. ‘Unclean! Unclean!’: The afflicted person had to warn people away. Others would become unclean by coming into contact with him. All the days: Not every disease was incurable. Some people recovered and upon examination by the priest were allowed back into society and worship in the sanctuary. He shall dwell alone . . . outside the camp: This ensured that the rest of the community and the sanctuary did not become ritually impure. The community was also protected from the unchecked spread of the disease. The serious skin diseases became a metaphor for sin. Like them, sin is dangerous and ultimately fatal, often difficult to diagnose, and incurable without God’s intervention.
- 13:47 Leprous plague would include any mold, mildew, or other fungus growths on clothing.
- 13:50–58 The procedures for diagnosing a problem with a garment were similar to those for diagnosing human skin ailments. A seven-day period of quarantine and a second examination were required. Infected garments had to be burned. If the plague had not spread, a garment could be salvaged.
- 13:56 The fact that a garment was considered worth saving even after a piece had been torn out of it indicates how valuable cloth was in the ancient world. Cloth was the product of many hours of hard work and was not lightly thrown away.

- 14:1–32 This passage details the ritual for cleansing a healed leper.
- 14:2 He shall be brought to the priest: The priest was responsible for diagnosing the uncleanness, so it was necessary for him to administer the sacrifices and other rituals that marked and celebrated the return of the person to the community of Israel.
- 14:3 the priest shall go out of the camp: Even if the person was healed, he still was unclean and could not come into the camp until the proper rituals had been carried out (v. 8). This does not contradict the instructions to bring the person to the priest; the priest came outside the camp and the person was brought to him there. if the leprosy is healed: These rites were not for healing. They were to confirm and celebrate the healing that already had occurred, to cleanse the recovered patient, and to readmit him or her into the community and its worship.
- 14:4 Cedar wood was used perhaps because of its durability and resistance to decay, symbolizing the patient's recovery from the decay that had threatened his life. Scarlet was probably a scarlet thread or cord. Scarlet symbolized blood, the agent in the sacrificial system that brought victory over sin and death. Hyssop was an aromatic herb used for food flavoring, fragrance, and medicine.
- 14:5 Running water is literally "living water." This is water from a spring or stream, as opposed to water from a cistern, vessel, or pool. Stagnant water symbolized potential death; living water symbolized life. The blood of the bird ran into the water in the earthen vessel.
- 14:6, 7 It is likely that the sprigs of hyssop were tied to the cedar wood with the scarlet thread. With that in one hand and the living bird in the other hand, the priest would dip them all in the blood and water mixture in the pottery bowl and then shake them over the head of the one to be cleansed. This procedure was performed seven times. The dead bird represented the death the patient had escaped; the sprinkling began the process of ritual cleansing that allowed the person to reenter the community and its worship. After being dipped in the blood of the dead bird, the living bird was let loose in the open field. It symbolically took away from the camp and the tabernacle the uncleanness of the person who was returning to the camp.
- 14:8, 9 Two washings of clothes and body and two head shavings, seven days apart, completed the ritual cleansing. These certainly served a hygienic purpose, removing residual scales and flakes that might have passed on contagious diseases to others.
- 14:10 The eighth day was the day of circumcision for a newborn male. The symbolism of starting again, almost of being born again into the community of faith, was continued. three-tenths of an ephah: About nine pounds. one log of oil: About two-thirds of a pint.
- 14:13 in the place . . . holy place: These offerings were brought to the door of the tabernacle (1:3; 4:4, 14). The place where the lamb was killed is referred to as the holy place. Therefore, it must have been inside the door, in the court of the tabernacle, rather than outside.
- 14:14–18 These rites are similar to Moses' actions in consecrating Aaron and his sons as priests (8:23). They encompassed the entire body, symbolizing a reversal in the person's status before God, from unclean and outside the community to a full member of the community once again.
- 14:19, 20 With these three offerings and the trespass offering (v. 12), the formerly unclean person had brought all the mandatory sacrifices that it was impossible to bring during the time of uncleanness.

The Offerings

Offering

Burnt Offering

(Lev. 1:3–17; 6:8–13)

Purpose

The burnt offering signified:

- (1) Atonement for sin (1:4).
- (2) Complete dedication to God. (Hence it is called the whole burnt offering.)

What Was Offered

According to wealth:

- (1) Unblemished bull (1:3–9).
- (2) Unblemished male sheep or goat (1:10–13).
- (3) Turtledoves or young pigeons (1:14–17).

Offering

Grain Offering

(Lev. 2:1–16; 6:14–18; 7:12, 13)

Purpose

The grain offering accompanied all burnt offerings. It signified thanksgiving to God.

What Was Offered

Three types:

- (1) Fine flour mixed with oil and frankincense (2:1–3).
- (2) Cakes made of fine flour mixed with oil and baked in an oven (2:4), in a pan (2:5), or in a covered pan (2:7).
- (3) Green heads of roasted grain mixed with oil and frankincense (2:14, 15).

Offering

Peace Offering

(Lev. 3:1–17; 7:11–21, 28–34)

Purpose

The peace offering expressed fellowship between the worshiper and God. There were three types:

- (1) Thank offering: expressed gratitude for an unexpected blessing.
- (2) Votive offering: expressed gratitude for a blessing granted when a vow had been made while asking for the blessing.
- (3) Free will offering: expressed gratitude to God without regard to any specific blessing.

What Was Offered

According to wealth:

- (1) From the herd, an unblemished male or female (3:1–5).
- (2) From the flock, an unblemished male or female (3:6–11).
- (3) From the goats (3:12–17).

Minor imperfections were permitted when the peace offering was a freewill offering of a bull or a lamb (22:23).

Offering

Sin Offering

(Lev. 4:1—5:13; 6:24–30)

Purpose

The sin offering was for atonement of sins committed unknowingly, especially where no restitution was possible. (In Num. 15:30, 31, the sin offering was of no avail in cases of defiant rebellion against God.)

What Was Offered

- (1) For the high priest, an unblemished bull (4:3–12).
- (2) For the congregation, an unblemished bull (4:13–21).
- (3) For a ruler, an unblemished male goat (4:22–26).
- (4) For a common citizen, an unblemished female goat or lamb (4:27–35).
- (5) In cases of poverty, two turtledoves or two young pigeons (one for a sin offering, the other for a burnt offering) could be substituted (5:7–10).
- (6) In cases of extreme poverty, fine flour could be substituted (5:11–13).

Offering

Trespass Offering

(Lev. 5:14—6:7; 7:1–7)

Purpose

The trespass offering atoned for sins committed unknowingly, especially where restitution was possible.

What Was Offered

- (1) If the offense was against the Lord, an unblemished lamb was to be brought for sacrifice. Restitution was calculated according to the priest's estimate of the value of the offense plus one-fifth (5:15, 16).
- (2) If the offense was against a person, an unblemished ram was brought. Restitution was calculated according to the value plus one-fifth (6:4–6).

14:21–32 God's legislation for Israel showed special concern for the poor. In these sacrifices, the poor Israelite still had to bring a lamb for the trespass offering. But for the sin offering and the burnt offering, he was allowed to bring turtledoves or pigeons. In addition, the grain offering was reduced from three-tenths to one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour. The ritual for restoring a poor person to the community was essentially the same as it was for other Israelites.

14:34 The land of Canaan, which I give you refers to the land God had promised Abraham He would give to his descendants (Gen. 15:18–21; Deut. 6:10, 11; 8:7–9). Leprous plague is the same Hebrew term used in 13:2 to indicate serious skin diseases that could come upon humans. All of these were harmful growths, whether on human skin, clothing, or the wall of a house.

14:45 If every effort to save the house failed, it was destroyed and removed so the rest of the houses of the town would not become infected with the problem.

14:47 Lies down probably means to sleep overnight in the house.

14:49–53 The rite for cleansing a house of its uncleanness was the same as for cleansing a person.

14:54–57 This statement concludes the section 13:1–14:57. Again, the common characteristic of these problems, whether on persons, garments, or the walls of houses, was that they were harmful surface growths. Their uncleanness required action. If it could not be removed, the thing that carried the uncleanness had to be removed from among God's people. Uncleanness today still requires action. But God has provided an infinitely stronger remedy for human uncleanness—the blood of Christ, which cleanses initially and then continues to cleanse the believer moment by moment.

15:2 any man: Regulations about female discharges begin in v. 19. Discharge refers to any abnormal flow. Body, literally “flesh,” is used here as a euphemism for the sexual organ.

15:4–12 A man with a discharge was unclean, as was anyone who came into contact with him, his spit, or any object that he touched. The other person made unclean was required to wash his clothes and himself and would be unclean until evening.

15:12 The vessel of earth . . . of wood: Here the purpose was to prevent the spread of the disease through food and food utensils.

15:13 Seven days was enough time to be sure the discharge really had ceased.

15:14 Two turtledoves or two young pigeons was the smallest, least expensive sacrifice allowed. The degree of uncleanness caused by genital discharges was less than that caused by skin diseases. These sacrifices would have atoned for any sins he had committed while he was unclean and barred from the tabernacle.

15:16, 17 This passage concerns emissions of semen apart from sexual intercourse, which is the subject of v. 18.

15:18 Both the male and the female are involved in sexual intercourse. Both had to wash afterward, and both were ritually unclean until evening. Gen. 1; 2 portray sexual intercourse as God's plan from the beginning. Therefore, this uncleanness and requirement of washing does not mean that sexual intercourse is sinful.

15:19–24 This passage provides regulations concerning a woman's menstrual period. Her ritual uncleanness lasted seven days. As was the case with a man's discharge, any person or object she touched became unclean.

15:24 This regulation did not forbid intercourse during menstruation; see, however, 18:19; 20:18. The man became ritually unclean for seven days, the same length of time as for the woman. No sacrifice was required; menstruation was not regarded as sinful.

15:25–27 If a woman had a flow of blood at any time other than her normal monthly period, or if her period lasted longer than usual, her uncleanness continued the whole time and passed to all she touched. Such was the case with the woman who touched Jesus secretly (Luke 8:43–48).

15:28–30 At the end of her abnormal discharge, a woman's obligation was the same as a man's. This is another indication of her standing before God, of her right and duty to offer sacrifice on her own behalf in the tabernacle. She was to bring the smallest allowable sacrifice for the atonement of sins she may have committed during the period of her uncleanness, when she was barred from the tabernacle.

15:31–33 Hygiene and health were important byproducts, but the focus of these regulations concerning uncleanness was on keeping God's tabernacle undefiled so that Israel would have a place to come for the atonement of sin and the privilege of meeting with God.

16:1 The two sons of Aaron died because of how they offered profane fire, literally, "drew near," before the LORD. If Aaron was to draw near to the Lord and be Israel's intermediary, he had to know how to do it properly to avoid the fate his sons had suffered.

16:2 God's command not to come at just any time refers to the arrogant attitude with which Aaron's sons had approached to offer unauthorized sacrifice (10:1). the Holy Place inside the veil: The Most Holy Place, the inner sanctuary of the tabernacle, was separated from the larger room (the Holy Place) by a veil of fine blue, purple, and scarlet linen (Ex. 26:31). lest he die: Carelessly approaching the presence of God was dangerous.

16:4 Holy garments are not the elaborate robe and accessories described in Ex. 28, but the simple linen garments the priests wore when on duty at the altar. On this day, the high priest went in simplicity and humility; he offered atonement for himself first, then for his family, and finally for all of Israel.

Goats

Although goats did not need good pasture, they were terribly hard on vegetation; they ate everything within reach, including fledgling trees and shrubs. Their excessive numbers and indiscriminate grazing have been blamed for some of the barren hills of present-day Israel.¹ But to the Israelites goats had great value. They supplied milk and milk products. The meat tasted like venison; the young kids were especially tender. Goat hair was not shorn, but combed from the animals and woven into coarse cloth. Goatskin made good leather and water bottles. Even the horns of rams were used for drinking vessels and musical instruments. A man with a large flock of goats was indeed well off. Goats had their drawbacks—they stank, and they were lively, strong-willed creatures, unlike their docile cousins the sheep. In Jesus' parable, when the sheep and goats were separated, the goats wound up in the position of disfavor (Matt. 25:31–34).

16:6 After atoning for himself, the high priest could offer the sacrifice to atone for the people. The author of Hebrews places great emphasis on this point in discussing the superior priesthood of Jesus (Heb. 7:26–28; 9:11–28; 10:19–22).

16:12 beaten fine: That is, of the highest quality.

16:15–19 Aaron offered the goat . . . for the people. The further actions involved in this sacrifice made it clear that the sins of the people had a defiling effect on the tabernacle. If not removed, the sins would have caused the ministry to be ineffective in atoning for the people.

transgressions

(Heb. pasha') (16:16, 21; Ps. 32:1, 5) Strong's #6588

This Hebrew word is derived from the verb pasha', which can mean “to revolt” (2 Kin. 8:20), “to offend” (Prov. 18:19), or “to transgress” in the sense of crossing a boundary (Jer. 3:13). It refers to violations of God’s law as revealed to Moses—in other words, someone crossing the limits that God had established. Although rebelling against God was a grave mistake, the Lord made provision for Israel’s “transgressions” in the Day of Atonement (16:15–19). The priest could make atonement for Israel’s sin, and the nation could be reconciled to God. Like ancient Israel, we are in rebellion against God. In fact, it was “our transgressions” that wounded Jesus (Is. 53:5, 8; 1 Pet. 2:24).

Go to the List of Word Studies

16:20 Aaron performed these actions out of the sight of the people.

16:21 Sending the goat into the wilderness was a public ceremony. Everyone could see Aaron symbolically place the sins of the people on the goat’s head. Iniquities . . . transgressions . . . sins cover all of the ways in which people could offend God. All of these offenses were placed on the head of the goat, which took them away from the camp, away from the people, and away from God. A suitable man was a man who was ready and waiting to perform this task.

16:22 shall bear on itself all their iniquities: This is the origin of the common expression “scapegoat.” This goat was not guilty of the sins he bore, but he bore them anyway, allowing the guilty to escape the consequences of their sins. In Jesus’ bearing the sins of the human race, and in His death outside the city (outside the camp), He fulfilled this annual ritual of the Day of Atonement. Not only was Jesus the perfect High Priest; He was the perfect sacrifice.

16:25 Aaron burned the fat of the sin offering as instructed in 4:8–10.

16:27 The bull and goat of the two sin offerings were burned according to the instructions in 4:11, 12.

16:29 In the seventh month: The Day of Atonement fell between mid-September and mid-October. afflict your souls: Examine yourselves, repent of wrong actions and attitudes, and seek God’s forgiveness. The mere actions of the sacrifices, without genuine repentance, were useless.

16:31 A sabbath of solemn rest was more sacred and more strictly observed than the normal weekly Sabbath.

16:32 In his father’s place emphasizes that this day was to be observed throughout Israel’s generations.

16:34 And he did as the LORD commanded Moses indicates that Aaron, as high priest, carried out everything God had commanded for this all-important day.

17:3 Whatever man: There were to be no exceptions. Kills probably indicates a sacrifice, for only the sacrificial animals the ox, lamb, and goat are listed. Animals with defects that did not threaten human health were slaughtered for their meat, but were not acceptable for sacrifice.

17:4 The guilt of bloodshed usually refers to killing a human being. However, the blood of the sacrifice was the only means of atonement for sin; to desecrate this provision from God was not a light offense.

- 17:5 Which they offer means “which they might offer.” Sacrifice in an open field was prohibited.
- 17:7 Demons were pagan deities in the form of goats, like satyrs, who were thought to inhabit the wilderness. Israel probably came in contact with satyr worship when they settled in Goshen (Gen. 47:1–6). They have played the harlot indicates (1) Israel’s worship of other gods and (2) God’s attitude to this worship. Adultery was a serious sin; forsaking one’s faith in God was an even more serious sin. A statute forever is another clue that this regulation was not about slaughtering animals for meat but about animals offered in sacrifice. When Israel’s worship was centralized in Jerusalem, some families lived more than a hundred miles from the temple. It would have been impossible for them to travel to Jerusalem each time they killed an animal for meat. However, they could travel to Jerusalem every time they offered a sacrifice.
- 17:8, 9 This regulation specifically extends the command to strangers who dwell among you.
- 17:10 Eating blood was forbidden in the strongest possible terms. Any blood means blood in any form, including blood not drained from the animal when it was slaughtered.
- 17:11 This verse explains the basis of blood atonement. The life of animals and of humans is in the blood. If a creature loses its blood, it loses its life. I have given emphasizes that blood has no intrinsic power to atone for sin. God appointed blood to have this power because it represents the life of the creature. A life may receive atonement only by the sacrifice of a life. The author of Hebrews emphasized the temporary nature of animal blood sacrifices. They required constant renewal. However, Jesus’ one-time sacrifice of Himself is effective eternally (Heb. 9:12–14, 25–28).
- 17:13 That may be eaten refers to animals that are clean according to the regulations in ch. 11. Cover it with dust is a token of burial.
- 17:15 The reason for uncleanness in this context was contact with a carcass in which there was still blood that had not been drained. The Law forbade eating any animal that had died a natural death (Deut. 14:21). In such cases, a person became ritually unclean until evening, the mildest degree of uncleanness.
- 17:16 guilt: The mild degree of ritual uncleanness became a serious sin if the required cleansing was not done.
- 18:2 The LORD here translates the divine name Yahweh, the name by which God revealed Himself to Moses in Ex. 6:2, 3. In using this name, God was basing His claim to the Israelites’ devotion on His willingness to reveal Himself to them, to redeem them, and to be their God.
- 18:3 Israel had lived in Egypt for generations and had been dominated by the Egyptians. Canaan is the land God was going to give Israel. The Israelites would be tempted to imitate the Canaanites physically, culturally, and religiously.
- 18:4, 5 ordinances . . . statutes: These are decrees, laws, and acts of a permanent nature. Judgments refers to judicial decisions involving situations that might not be addressed in the statutes. Through the ordinances and the judgments of God, Israel would know how to live. he shall live by them: God gave the law as a means of life on all levels—physical, moral, spiritual, and relational. However, as Paul observed, when the law was violated, it became a cause of death (see Rom. 7:10–12). At that point, a greater remedy than the law was needed. This remedy is in Christ.
- 18:6 Anyone who is near of kin covers cases such as incest between father and daughter and between brother and full sister, even though they are absent from the following list. All the cases that appear in the list are based on blood relationship or marriage. To uncover someone’s nakedness is to have sexual intercourse with that person.
- 18:7 The nakedness of your father does not imply a homosexual act. Rather, it emphasizes that to commit incest with the wife of one’s father is symbolically to uncover the father’s nakedness also, because the two are one flesh through marriage.
- 18:8 Father’s wife may refer to a father’s marriage partner after the death or divorce of one’s mother, or it may refer to a wife or concubine who is not one’s mother.
- 18:9 Your sister refers to a half sister, since she is defined either as the daughter of your father or the daughter of your mother. Elsewhere refers to cases in which a father maintained multiple households of wives or concubines. It may also refer to illegitimate half sisters.

18:11 Here, begotten by your father is a legal and not a biological term to indicate adoption. Legally she would be a full sister.

18:17 a woman and her daughter: This might involve a widow who lived with her daughter and son-in-law.

18:18 as a rival to her sister: An example of the problems this situation can cause is the family life of Jacob, who married the sisters Leah and Rachel. Jacob, of course, did not violate this restriction, since it had not yet been given.

18:19 Her customary impurity refers to a woman's menstrual period. Sexual intercourse during this time was forbidden because the woman was ritually impure, and intercourse would make the man ritually impure as well.

18:20 Adultery is forbidden in Ex. 20:14; its penalty is given in Lev. 20:10.

18:22 Homosexuality here is labeled an abomination, something detestable to God both ritually and morally. Ritually, it was detestable partly because it was practiced in Canaanite religion, which God had commanded Israel not to follow.

18:23 Bestiality is labeled perversion, something out of the natural order. It, too, was a feature of some of the religions of Israel's neighbors.

18:24–30 The land had become so defiled by the perverted practices of the Canaanites that it was vomiting them out. For that reason, the land would be available to Israel to settle. The Israelites, however, needed to be careful to live as God's holy people in the land or it would vomit them out as well.

19:3 Revere means to respect and to obey. Under normal circumstances, young children are to obey their parents. Adult children are to respect their parents and concern themselves with their parents' welfare. keep My Sabbaths: The weekly Sabbath was an acknowledgment that not everything depended on the Israelites' efforts. It was an acknowledgment of God's lordship and His grace. It was valuable for worship, for rest and healing, for building relationships with family, and for regaining or strengthening an eternal perspective (see also Mark 2:23–3:5).

19:5 The peace offering was a free will offering. Just like the Israelites, when we have peace, or wholeness, in God through the peace offering of Christ (see Col. 1:19, 20), we can offer freely everything we are, everything we have, and everything we do.

19:9, 10 Providing for the poor and the stranger (the alien who could not own land) was a priority in ancient Israelite society. Reserving the gleanings of a harvest for the poor is a very effective way of providing food for them. I am the LORD your God: The generosity of God's people was rooted in God's generosity toward the Israelites.

19:13 wages . . . until morning: A day laborer needed his pay daily to provide food for himself and his family. To withhold it for one's own gain or convenience created a hardship for him and was forbidden (see Deut. 24:14, 15; James 5:4).

19:15 In court, neither the poor, nor the mighty, nor even a person's neighbor were to be given any special treatment.

19:16 A talebearer is not just a gossip, but a slanderer, actively seeking to destroy another's reputation.

19:17 hate your brother in your heart: Jesus addressed this principle in the Sermon on the Mount (Matt. 5:21–24). rebuke your neighbor: The way to avoid letting hatred build up was to confront the person. Ideally this would involve resolving the issue face to face. However, it also could involve taking the issue to court to settle it legally rather than taking it into one's own hands or allowing it to fester in one's heart.

Word Studies

hate

(Heb. sane') (19:17; Ps. 5:5; 97:10; Prov. 6:16; Amos 5:15; Mal. 1:3)

Strong's #8130

Various degrees and types of hatred are described in the Bible. The people of God are to hate what God Himself hates with an absolute hatred—sin (Deut. 12:31; Is. 61:8; Heb. 1:9). But God is also said to hate human beings, as when He declared, “Jacob I have loved; but Esau I have hated” (Mal. 1:2, 3; Rom. 9:13). This is a relative hatred. It is not the opposite of love but a diminished love. To hate our relatives for the sake of Christ (Luke 14:26) means to love them less than we love Christ (Matt. 10:37); it does not mean to hate them absolutely. Believers ought to love their enemies (Matt. 5:43, 44) but hate their enemies’ sins (Eph. 5:3–14; Rev. 2:6).

Go to the List of Word Studies

19:18 Vengeance belongs to God (see Deut. 32:35), partly because human vengeance often is carried out too zealously. God’s vengeance is entirely just. Bear any grudge means actively keeping a grudge alive with an eye toward vengeance. You shall love your neighbor as yourself: Jesus identified this as one of only two commandments that, if kept, would fulfill all of the Law (Matt. 22:37–40).

19:19 Holiness means purity, in three important areas: (1) animal husbandry, (2) agriculture, and (3) domestic life. This principle also reflects reverence for creation as God made it.

19:20 The concubine, a woman of low social standing and few rights, may not have had the freedom to cry out when approached sexually. Therefore, she remained guiltless. Because the woman was a slave, the man escaped death but remained guilty before God. Atonement was necessary for him to receive forgiveness. There shall be scourging may be rephrased as “damages must be paid.” The woman’s owner probably received the compensation, since the passage emphasizes that no money had yet been paid for her.

19:23–25 The most common reason suggested for this regulation is that young trees need to preserve their strength for themselves rather than putting it into fruit. In that case, the owner probably would have clipped off the blossoms in the first three years. The harvest of the fourth year was a kind of firstfruits (2:14). From the fifth year, the harvest belonged to the owner—after the firstfruits of each year’s harvest had been given to God. that it may yield to you its increase: Faithfulness in observing this regulation was rewarded by increase in the production of fruit from the fifth year on.

19:26 Divination and soothsaying reveal a lack of trust in God to bring the best possible future. God, and not some demon or impersonal force, is all-powerful and directs the future.

19:27 Beards were standard among Israelite men. Shaving one’s hair or beard often was a sign of mourning.

19:28 The human body was designed by God, who intended it to be whole and beautiful. Disfiguring the body dishonored God, in whose image the person was created. Cutting one’s flesh for the dead and tattooing (or perhaps painting) one’s body had religious significance among Israel’s pagan neighbors. In Israel, such practices were signs of rebellion against God.

19:29 Fathers exercised total control over their daughters in Israel's patriarchal society. For a man in debt, facing the loss of his land, hiring out his daughter as a prostitute might have seemed like an attractive alternative. However, sexual relations are sacred. Forcing a daughter to violate that sanctity defiled her against her will.

sanctuary

(Heb. miqdash) (19:30; Ex. 15:17; 25:8) Strong's #4720

This noun means “holy place,” a place separated and dedicated to God. It was the place where God had chosen to meet the Israelites. There priests would atone for the people’s sin; in turn, the people would offer their worship and praise. Because it was God’s dwelling place, the priests were prohibited from defiling it by entering while they were ceremonially unclean (21:12). But most important, the Israelites had to respect the sanctuary by approaching it with a contrite heart and a determination to praise their Creator. Just as Moses had to respect the ground where God made His presence known (see Ex. 3:5), so now the Israelites had to respect the place where God had chosen to meet them.

19:31 Mediums and familiar spirits are different from what is mentioned in v. 26. Both of these may involve consulting the spirits of the dead. All contact with these or other spirits was strictly forbidden in Israel. It demonstrated lack of faith in and rebellion against God.

19:32 To rise when an elder entered one’s presence was another way of showing reverence for God and submission to Him.

19:33, 34 Generous treatment of a stranger, or a resident alien, in the land was based on God’s generous treatment of the Israelites when they were strangers in the land of Egypt. What God had done for them they were to pass along to others. This is still a good principle for God’s people to follow. In v. 18, the Israelites were instructed, “Love your neighbor as yourself.” Verse 34 expands that standard to include strangers. Jesus gave the definitive illustration of this principle in His story of the Good Samaritan (Luke 10:30–36).

19:35, 36 Injustice in judgment is injustice in legal transactions (vv. 11, 12, 15–18). Injustice . . . in measurement is one kind of injustice in business transactions. ephah: About five gallons. hin: A little less than a gallon. Once again, the fact that God had brought the Israelites out of the land of Egypt is cited as reason to believe He would provide for all of their needs. God had treated the Israelites generously. They could afford to treat each other fairly in their business dealings.

20:2–5 strangers: All of the people dwelling in the land, whether citizens or not, were required to abstain from religious practices that defiled God’s sanctuary and profaned His holy name. I will . . . cut him off: Execution by stoning seems to have been the way God set His face against the offender. However, if those responsible did not carry out the sentence on a guilty person, God executed judgment Himself. prostitute themselves: God “wed” Israel to Himself at Sinai. The Israelites’ betrayal of that sacred bond by going after other gods was often portrayed as prostitution.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Molech

The fire-god Molech was the principle god of the Ammonites, and essentially identical with the Moabite god Chemosh. Fire-gods appear to have been common to all the Canaanite, Syrian, and Arab tribes who worshiped fire with the most inhuman rites. According to Jewish tradition, the image of Molech was made of brass, hollow within, and was situated outside Jerusalem. “His face was [that] of a calf, and his hands stretched forth like a man who opens his hands to receive [something] of his neighbor. And they kindled it with fire, and the priests took the babe and put it into the hands of Molech, and the babe gave up the ghost.” Many instances of human sacrifices are found in ancient writings, which may be compared with the description in the OT of the manner in which Molech was worshiped.

20:8 Who sanctifies you means “who sets you apart (to Myself).” There is an aspect of the worshiper’s being set apart to God for which the worshiper was responsible, and an aspect God took upon Himself. The worshiper accepted God’s gifts and agreed to forsake all other allegiances. God gave the Law to show the worshiper how to live set apart to God and from all other allegiances.

20:9 One who curses his father or his mother was very far from honoring them (see 19:3; Ex. 20:12). His blood shall be upon him signifies that capital punishment was deserved. This statement also reassured the executioners that they were not guilty of shedding the offenders’ blood. This was important, since there was no professional justice system at this time in ancient Israel. Nearly all functions of the law were performed by private citizens.

20:10 The adulterer and the adulteress both entered freely into the affair. Both were punished.

20:12 Perversion literally means “mixing, confusion”—in this case, of the natural order.

20:14 Marries (literally takes) probably means to have as a common-law wife. burned . . . he and they: Perhaps this was done after the stoning to prevent burial, which was very important to the ancients. Not to be buried was thought to make a peaceful afterlife impossible.

20:18 her sickness: That is, her menstrual flow (15:19–24; 18:19). exposed . . . her blood: In menstruation, the mysterious powers of blood and sex are drawn together. Casual disregard shows disrespect for God as the Creator as well as for the human role in procreation.

20:20 They shall die childless may not seem to be a severe penalty, but it was greatly dreaded in the ancient world, where continuation of the family line was extremely important. If this situation were an extramarital affair, as implied by the verb lies with, the childlessness would affect two families. The man would have no heirs, and the woman would lose her status as a faithful wife.

20:21 takes: If a man died childless before his father’s death and the division of the family property, his brother was to marry the widow. Their firstborn would be considered the dead brother’s heir. Otherwise it was forbidden for a surviving brother to marry his dead brother’s widow. It might seem that he was trying to gain the dead man’s estate for himself. They shall be childless: The Hebrew implies that if the man already had heirs, none would survive him, and that this marriage would not produce others.

20:23 I am casting out: God took full responsibility for His judgment on the wickedness of the people of Canaan, for which He would use Israel as His instrument.

20:24 Flowing with milk and honey conveys the agricultural potential of the land. Abundant wildflowers were the source of the honey and point to the excellent grazing for flocks and herds that would provide the milk. Has separated you emphasizes that the people of Israel were distinct from the people of Canaan whom they would displace. Israel's God was different from the gods of Canaan. Israel needed to operate on a different, higher standard of morality to demonstrate that to the world.

- 21:1 defile himself: Contact with a dead body made a person unclean. Since the priests ministered before the altar of the Lord, the occasions on which they were allowed to be unclean were restricted. While they were unclean they could not perform their priestly duties.
- 21:2, 3 The only exceptions for the priest were his closest relatives. For them he could attend mourning rites. The wife is probably included in the term relatives who are nearest to him. The virgin sister still belonged to the priest's father's family. A married sister belonged to her husband's family; the priest could not attend mourning rites for her.
- 21:5 These were pagan mourning customs. All Israel was forbidden to observe them (19:27, 28). Naturally, that prohibition began with the priests.
- 21:6 The bread belonged to God because it was sacrificed on His altar. There is no suggestion that God needed or ate this food, only that it belonged to Him. The priests received portions of it as one part of God's provision for them and their families (6:14–7:36).
- 21:7 A priest could marry a widow, but other women who had been with a man in any sexual relationship were forbidden to him. A priest's marriage symbolized his special, holy relationship to God.
- 21:9 Prostitution, the ultimate promiscuity, was the opposite of holiness, the ultimate faithfulness. The priest's daughter was to reflect her father's holiness to God, especially in an age when everything one did reflected on one's family.
- 21:10–12 The high priest was not allowed to become ritually unclean, even at the death of his father or mother. Nor could he display any signs of mourning. His duties in the sanctuary could not be interrupted. For his exalted position before God, the high priest sometimes paid a high personal price.
- 21:13–15 The standard for the high priest's wife was higher than for the wife of an ordinary priest. The high priest could marry only a virgin. Of his own people could mean either another priest's daughter or an Israelite woman. His posterity had to be pure.
- 21:18–20 Most of these physical conditions were permanent; a person afflicted by them could never serve as a priest. But some, like a broken limb or a skin condition, would heal with time. The priest suffering from them was barred from serving as a priest only so long as he was afflicted.
- 21:20 Neither eczema nor scab is included in the list of things that made an ordinary Israelite unclean (13:1–46). As with mourning rites and marriage partners, the priests were held to a higher standard than the people because the priests had a more public role in modeling holiness to God.
- 21:22 He may eat: Physical defect did not imply a moral defect. The person afflicted still had access to the food of the altar by which the priests lived. He was not denied his provision, nor was he forced to leave the sanctuary.
- 21:23 My sanctuaries probably refers to the two divisions of the tabernacle: (1) the holy place, where the altar of incense stood; and (2) the Most Holy Place, where the ark of the covenant rested. This implies that the person with a physical defect had access to the outer court around the tabernacle as long as he did not come too close to the altar of burnt offering, which stood in the outer court.
- 21:24 These instructions were not given secretly to the priests, but publicly. Each Israelite was to know what God expected of him or her, and what God expected of the priests.
- 22:2 separate . . . holy things: When the priests were ritually impure, they were not to come near the offerings the Israelites had brought to the tabernacle for dedication to God. profane My holy name by what they dedicate: If a ritually unclean priest officiated at a sacrifice, the value of sacrifice would be nullified.
- 22:3 All . . . your generations made the restriction as broad as possible in any one generation, and as broad as possible through all time. Cut off from My presence does not mean executed or banished from the community, but permanently denied the privilege of ministering as a priest.

22:4 leper: Regulations concerning leprosy are given in 13:1–46; 14:1–32. Regulations about discharge are found in 15:1–18.

22:5, 6 creeping thing . . . until evening: Clean and unclean animals are listed in ch. 11.

22:7 it is his food: The sacrifices brought by the Israelites were a major part of the daily provisions for the priests.

22:8 Ordinary Israelites could eat this meat (17:15, 16). The priests were held to a higher standard.

22:10 Three groups of persons were denied access to the meat of the offerings: (1) the outsider (literally any stranger), whether a foreigner or an Israelite not of Aaron's family line; (2) the one who dwells as a guest with the priest; and (3) a hired servant, who was not a member of the priest's household but worked in it on a daily basis.

22:11 Slaves, whether bought or born in the household, were allowed to eat of the priest's share of the consecrated food. They were part of his household.

22:12 A priest's daughter became a member of her husband's family when she married. If her husband was not a priest, she lost her right to eat consecrated food.

22:14–16 Restitution plus one-fifth was the penalty here for an ineligible person who ate of the holy offering. In 5:14–16, the penalty was the sacrifice of a ram and restitution plus one-fifth.

22:18 strangers: Resident aliens in Israel were permitted to worship God with the Israelites. If a resident alien accepted the Israelites' God as his God, he was accepted at God's sanctuary under the same conditions as any Israelite was.

22:19–21 without blemish . . . no defect in it: This standard was addressed later by the prophet Malachi when some in his day were bringing defective animals to sacrifice on God's altar (Mal. 1:7–14). We are not to offer God less than our best.

22:23 An exception was made for a freewill offering, since it was not required and was not made in fulfillment of a vow.

22:24, 25 cut: Castrated animals were not acceptable for sacrifice. from a foreigner's hand: Israel's sacrificial animals were to be raised by Israelites who worshiped God, not by foreigners who worshiped a multitude of pagan gods.

22:27 The eighth day parallels the time of circumcision for the human male baby. This regulation probably was chiefly kindhearted. The mother, though an animal, was not to be deprived of her newborn in the first days after its birth, when both her maternal instincts and her milk supply were at their highest.

22:31–33 All of these elements had been expressed before, but not all together. God's person, His name, His present action in sanctifying His people, and His past action in rescuing them from slavery in Egypt all were given as the basis of Israel's worship.

23:1 the LORD spoke to Moses: The instructions about each convocation are marked off in this chapter by the normal introduction for a speech in Leviticus. The instructions for each could be read separately, while still reminding the people that each had been ordained by God.

The Feasts and Sacred Times of Ancient Israel

Event: The Sabbath (Ex. 20:8–11; 31:12–17; Lev. 23; Deut. 5:12–15)

Commemoration: Every seventh day was a solemn rest from all work.

Event: The New Moon (Num. 28:11–15; Ps. 81:3)

Commemoration: The first day of each month was a day of rest, special sacrifices, and the blowing of trumpets.

Event: Passover (Ex 12:1–14; Lev. 23:5; Num. 9:1–14; 28:16; Deut. 16:1–7)

Commemoration: On the fourteenth day of the first month (Nisan), this festival commemorated God's deliverance of Israel from bondage in Egypt.

Event: The Feast of Unleavened Bread (Ex 12:15–20; 13:3–10; Lev. 23:6–8; Num. 28:17–25; Deut. 16:3, 4, 8)

Commemoration: This feast, which marked the beginning of the barley harvest, immediately followed Passover and lasted until the twenty-first day of the month.

Event: The Feast of Firstfruits (Lev. 23:9–14; Num. 28:26)

Commemoration: This feast, which marked the beginning of the barley harvest, immediately followed Passover and lasted until the twenty-first day of the month.

Event: The Feast of Weeks (Harvest of Pentecost) (Ex. 23:16; 34:22; Lev. 23:15–21; Nu 28:26–31; Deut. 16:9–12)

Commemoration: This festival took place fifty days after the barley harvest, and involved new grain offerings to the Lord.

Event: The Feast of Trumpets (Rosh Hashanah) (Lev. 23:23–25; Num. 29:1–6)

Commemoration: The first day of the seventh month (Tishri) marked the occasion, which involved a Sabbath rest, the blowing of trumpets, and a holy convocation.

Event: The Day of Atonement (Yom Kippur) (Lev. 16; 23:26–32; Num. 29:7–11)

Commemoration: Observed on the tenth day of the seventh month (Tishri), this was a day of fasting (on which no work was done) for the purpose of atoning for the sins of the past year.

Event: The Feast of Tabernacles (Booths or Ingathering) (Ex. 23:16; 34:22; Lev. 23:33–36, 39–43; Num. 29:12–38; Deut. 16:13–15)

Commemoration: This eight-day celebration lasted from the fifteenth to the twenty-second day of the seventh month (Tishri).

Event: The Feast of Dedication (Lights or Hanukkah) (John 10:22)

Commemoration: Celebrated in the ninth month (Chislev), this eight-day feast commemorated the cleansing and rededication of the temple after its defilement by Syria.

Event: The Feast of Purim (Lots) (Esth. 9:18–32)

Commemoration: This feast was celebrated on the fourteenth and fifteenth days of the twelfth month (Adar).

Event: The Sabbath Year (Ex. 23:10, 11; Lev. 25:1–7)

Commemoration: Every seventh year was designated as a “year of release” to allow the land to lie fallow.

Event: The Year of Jubilee (Lev. 25:8–55; 27:17–24; Ezek. 46:17)

Commemoration: The fiftieth year, which followed seven Sabbath years, proclaimed liberty to those who were servants because of debt, and returned lands to their former owners.

- 23:2 Speak to the children of Israel: These instructions were for all of the people, and not just for the priests. The feasts of the LORD literally means “appointed times of the Lord.” This phrase emphasizes that these were specifically appointed holy days. Here of means both “ordained by” and “consecrated to” or “honoring” the Lord. Holy convocations were sacred assemblies of all the people called together at the appointed times by the priests. The Feast of Unleavened Bread and the Feast of Tabernacles lasted seven and eight days, respectively. The first and the last day of each were holy meetings. The days between were part of the holiday, though there were no special meetings on them.
- 23:3 Six days shall work be done: Perhaps as important to human well-being as the day of rest are the six days of work. Work was given to the human race in the Garden. Work is one of the ways humans bear the image of God. Work itself is not a curse on the race. Instead, it remains, even after the Fall, God’s good gift. The regular seventh day of rest and other holidays from work are ordained for our refreshment and the chance to commune more closely with God and His people. A Sabbath of solemn rest may be restated as “a Sabbath that is all a Sabbath should be”—a day of rest and of solemn, joyful worship. In all your dwellings emphasized the universal nature of the Sabbath. It was not to be observed only in the sanctuary; it was to be celebrated in every household.
- 23:5 fourteenth day of the first month: This would fall between mid-March and mid-April. The Passover celebrated Israel’s exodus from Egypt (Ex. 12:1–28).
- 23:6–8 The Feast of Unleavened Bread immediately followed Passover, beginning the fifteenth day of Nisan. Later in Israel’s history, this and other festivals involved pilgrimages to the central sanctuary, first in Shiloh and later in Jerusalem. This feast marked the beginning of the barley harvest, the first important grain harvest of the year. In practice, the Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread were observed together as an eight-day festival. In the instructions of Ex. 12:1–28 they are treated as one. Unleavened means without yeast. Customary work was work that could be left a day or two without problems. Essential or emergency tasks could be done. For example, animals could be milked. an offering: Instructions for this offering are given in Num. 28:16–25.
- 23:10 a sheaf of the firstfruits: This bundle of the first harvested barley belonged to God as a special offering, acknowledging God’s provision of the harvest. Paul called Christ “the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep”—the first of the dead to be resurrected (1 Cor. 15:20).
- 23:11 To wave the sheaf was to elevate the offering before God.
- 23:13 Two-tenths of an ephah was twice the grain offering for the regular morning and evening burnt offerings (see Exodus 29:40). Ex. 29:38–42 specifies a drink offering to accompany the regular morning and evening offerings. Wine was the third major agricultural product of the land, along with grain and oil.
- 23:14 An Israelite could not eat the grain of a new harvest until he had brought the offering of the firstfruits to the sanctuary. Parched grain was a favorite food of those working in the harvest. Newly harvested heads of grain were roasted in a fire and eaten when cool (Ruth 2:14).
- 23:17 Firstfruits refers to the firstfruits of wheat. The Feast of Weeks comes near the end of the wheat harvest in Palestine. Either the grain for baking these firstfruit loaves was set aside at the beginning of the harvest or the first grain used from the new harvest qualified as its firstfruits.
- 23:18–20 for the priest: Grain and meat from the sacrificial offerings were a large part of God’s provision for the priests and their families (7:1–14, 31–36).
- 23:22 The Israelites were to be generous when they reaped a plentiful harvest because God gave the harvest to them (19:9, 10). Grapes are not mentioned here because the Feast of Weeks came well before the grape harvest.

- 23:24 The seventh month . . . first day falls in mid-September. a memorial: Israel remembered God's goodness, which was expressed in the covenant, and asked God to continue to remember that covenant. Blowing of trumpets marked solemn, joyful, and urgent occasions in ancient Israel.
- 23:25 an offering made by fire: The animals and amounts of grain for this offering are listed in Num. 29:2–5.
- 23:27 Day of Atonement: The day was not given this name in ch. 16. Literally, it is the “Day of Atonements”—that is, the day above all days, when complete atonement was made for all Israel.
- 23:28 do no work: On the Day of Atonement, the most important work of all was done by the high priest in the Most Holy Place. To do any lesser work would have been sacrilegious.
- 23:30 I will destroy: God Himself would see to it that the transgressor of this most holy day would be called to account.
- 23:32 This is the third time in this passage that the Israelites were commanded to afflict their souls, indicating the importance of this duty for this day. from evening to evening: This is the only place in the regulations of Leviticus where the beginning time of a day of observance is noted.
- 23:36 A sacred assembly indicates the last day of a joyous eight-day celebration.
- 23:38 Besides . . . which you give was a gentle warning not to bring an offering for a special festival day and then attempt to use it again for one of the regular offerings commanded in chs. 1–7. God is generous beyond measure with His people. God's people should be generous with their offerings to Him.
- 23:40 the fruit of beautiful trees: In celebrating the Feast of Tabernacles today, people use the citron, a fruit like the lemon, but larger. Leafy trees are thought to be the myrtle.
- 23:42 The implication is that the booths were made of the tree branches.
- 23:43 Dwelling in booths for seven days would remind the Israelites of God's goodness in preserving them through the hardships in the wilderness. The Feast of Tabernacles was both a celebration of harvest and a thanksgiving for God's protection of His people.
- 24:2–4 Pure oil was needed for the lampstand because it stood within the tabernacle. pressed olives: Oil for the sacred lampstand was extracted by pounding olives in a mortar by hand, a process that produced the finest, lightest olive oil. The veil of the Testimony separated the holy place from the Most Holy Place. Aaron: Aaron and his sons (Ex. 27:21). From evening until morning indicates tending the lamps twice a day, not tending them throughout the night.
- 24:5–9 twelve cakes: One for each of the tribes of Israel. The frankincense on each row was not poured on the loaves because the priests had to eat them. When the loaves were replaced, the frankincense was burned as a memorial, an offering made by fire to the LORD. Every Sabbath, new loaves replaced the ones that had been there for a week. eat it in a holy place: See 7:1–14, 31–36 for regulations concerning the priests' food. Jesus referred to the light of the menorah and the showbread when He called Himself the “light of the world” (see John 8:12) and “the bread of life” (see John 6:35). The showbread eaten by the priests foreshadowed the bread of the Lord's Supper eaten by Christians. David, even though he was not a priest, ate the showbread when he fled from Saul (see 1 Sam. 21:1–6). In a conversation with His opponents, Jesus approved of David's action (see Luke 6:1–5). The law could be set aside to meet genuine human needs.
- 24:10–12 Blaspheming the name of the LORD was forbidden (Ex. 22:28). The question in this case was whether Israel's law applied to those who were not full-blooded Israelites. Note the care in recording that the offender's father was an Egyptian, as well as his mother's name, her father's name, and their tribe.
- 24:13, 14 The offender was taken outside the camp as a sign that he had been cut off from the people of Israel, and so that his death would not defile the camp. To lay their hands on his head was a witness that they had heard the words of blasphemy and a sign that his sin was his own responsibility.
- 24:15 His God can refer to either the Creator or any pagan deities the person worshiped. Anyone who cursed the Creator bore the responsibility for the sin and was executed. If an Israelite worshiped a pagan deity, he was liable for the death penalty on those grounds. Foreigners were allowed to worship Israel's God, but if they did not, they were not to worship their own gods while living among the people of Israel (17:8, 9). For such a person to curse his own god in Israel's presence was of no concern to Israel. In that case, he shall bear his sin meant, "If his god desires to punish him, let him." Of course, faithful Israelites would have understood that other gods do not exist, and could not punish anyone who curses them.

24:16 To blaspheme the name of the LORD was a different matter. God had rescued the Israelites from Egypt and bound them to Himself in covenant at Sinai. To blaspheme His name was rebellion. Rebellion, even against human governments, carried the death penalty. Stranger as well as him who is born in the land literally means "like stranger, like native." The laws of Israel applied to resident aliens as well as to citizens.

24:19, 20 eye for eye: This law is also found in Ex. 21:23–25. Its purpose was not to require the injured party to inflict equal bodily harm on the one who had injured him, but to forbid him from inflicting greater bodily harm.

24:22 One reason for these seemingly unrelated laws at this place in Leviticus was to anticipate the question of whether other laws would also apply to non-Israelites. The answer was yes, they would apply to the stranger.

25:1 Mount Sinai was where God gave the covenant. Thus the following was part of the covenant and should be observed in order to keep faith with God.

25:2 The land which I give you is a reminder that the land belongs to God. The Israelites lived in it by His grace and under His direction. All of the laws of the Sabbath year and of the Jubilee were based on this premise. If Israel would follow God's direction while occupying the land, He would bless them abundantly. To that end, these instructions were aimed at restoring the social order that had become unbalanced as time passed. Unchecked, the rich would continue to get richer, and the poor would never have a chance to escape their poverty. A sabbath to the LORD is the same phrase used for the weekly Sabbath (23:3). The people rested weekly from their work; the land was to rest every seventh year from its work. The principle of the land needing rest has been rediscovered in recent years and is practiced in various ways by farmers of many nations.

25:5–7 shall not reap: Reaping and gathering for storage and selling were not permitted in the Sabbath year. However, harvesting for daily needs was permitted. Since the purpose of these laws was to promote social equality in Israel, anyone, regardless of social standing, was permitted to use anything that grew, wherever it grew. Even the wild beasts of the field are mentioned here, to emphasize that God would provide for every creature. Of course, Israel's main provision during this time was the bumper crop produced the year before the Sabbath year (vv. 21, 22).

25:10 To proclaim liberty meant specifically that all debts were canceled, all Israelites who had had to sell themselves into slavery were freed, and all land reverted to its original owner. The same phrase occurs in Is. 61:1, the passage Jesus read in the synagogue in Nazareth at the beginning of His earthly ministry. Jesus' mission on this earth was to proclaim liberty to all who have lost their inheritance and become servants of the Evil One.

25:11, 12 The fiftieth or Jubilee year was itself a Sabbath year (vv. 2–7). Observing the Jubilee year would have meant two years of rest in a row for the land.

25:17 To refrain from oppressing a fellow citizen is one way of showing fear, or reverence and respect, for God.

25:18, 19 If those who live in God's land follow His instructions, they will dwell there in safety, free from want and external threats.

25:21, 22 I will command My blessing on you: If the Israelites would obey God's command to let the land rest, they could be sure that the land would provide for their needs. Parts of three years were involved. In the seventh year, no planting or harvesting for storage would be allowed. Some of the crops of the eighth year would not be harvested and ready for use until the ninth year had begun.

25:23, 24 The principle governing all of these laws was that the land did not belong to Israel; it belonged to God. you are strangers and sojourners with Me: God emphasized that the Israelites would live in a land that was not their own. Likewise, the Christian believer lives on this earth as a stranger and a sojourner, looking for a city “whose builder and maker is God” (Heb. 11:10).

Redeeming the Land

An ancient Israelite was in desperate straits if he had to sell his family's land. Both food and income came from the proceeds of the land. Dispossessed family members would quickly become someone else's servants. Most people would work hard to avoid such a situation. However, illness, crop failure, or other misfortunes could force a person into debt to the point that his only alternative was to sell his land.

Even in this distressing situation there was hope. A dispossessed family could be saved from poverty and hardship:

First, a redeeming relative could redeem (or buy) the land (25:25). From the proceeds, the man could pay off his creditors. The land stayed in the extended family; the poor family stayed on their land; and eventually the redeemer was repaid. The redeemer was the nearest male relative. If he could not fulfill this privilege and obligation, it passed down the kinship line until someone could. This is the scenario of Ruth 4: Boaz acted as a kinsman-redeemer and bought Naomi's field.

If a man did not have any relative who would redeem his land, he could save enough to buy it back himself. The purchase price would be prorated according to the number of years left until the next Jubilee year, the fiftieth year (25:26, 27). A man might have to wait until the Jubilee year to reclaim the land of his inheritance (25:28). Even in this most desperate situation, there was the hope and promise that at the Jubilee year, the family would be able to return debt free to their land and make a fresh start.

The law of redemption and the law of the Jubilee year are vivid symbols of what Jesus Christ did on the Cross for every person. What our first father and mother lost in the Garden, we cannot retrieve by any means. We cannot go back to Eden. Yet Jesus Christ, our elder Brother, redeemed it for us. We have been evicted from our inheritance, but in the Year of Jubilee, we will be allowed to return. We will live with Jesus in Paradise.

25:29, 30 A walled city indicates one of the larger cities of the land. These provided more economic diversity than unwallled villages. A person's survival did not depend on owning a city house. Therefore, the time limit to redeem these houses was one year. They were bought and sold without regard to the Jubilee year.

25:31 An unwallled village in ancient Israel was tiny by today's standards. Many had only a handful of families. The basic economic activity was farming the land within a walking radius of the village. For people living in these villages, losing the family home would be nearly as great a disaster as the loss of their farmland. Therefore, village houses were included in the laws of redemption and Jubilee.

25:32–34 The Levites' houses, too, were protected under the basic law of redemption and Jubilee (vv. 25–28) because their homes were their only substantial assets.

25:35–38 Charging interest on a loan to a poor Israelite—your brother—would only hinder his financial progress. This law probably did not prohibit interest on commercial loans, which was another level of economic activity, one that did not threaten anyone's survival. Some might have been tempted to refuse to lend money to a poor fellow citizen, preferring to lend to non-Israelites in order to collect interest. This explains the command then you shall help him, like a stranger or a sojourner. Mercy and generosity were to be stronger motivations than financial gain. That remains a valid principle today.

25:37 Perhaps seed for planting, as well as food for eating, is meant here.

25:38 The motivation to be generous to the poor should have come from a person's gratitude to God for His generosity in bringing Israel out of Egypt, giving them the land of Canaan, and making a covenant to be their God. Serving a generous God, God's people can afford to be generous, too.

25:44–46 Foreign slaves could be bought, sold, and inherited like other property. This does not mean God approves of slavery. He made laws to ameliorate the practices of that time.

25:48, 49 Though this order of kinship in redeeming is not mandatory, it was the natural progression from close relative to more distant relative. A brother, if he could, would be the one to redeem. If no brother could or if the man had no brother, an uncle would be next, and then a cousin.

26:1 A sacred pillar was a stone or wooden column erected to represent a pagan god or goddess. It was not a likeness, but a symbol. Together, the four terms used in this verse cover all the possibilities for pagan images. I am the LORD your God confronts the Israelites with a choice of allegiances. Would they love the living God or idols?

26:3–13 This section uses an if-then format. Verse 3 is the if section, the conditions under which God's blessings would be poured out on the land and the people.

26:4, 5 The blessings were in three areas of Israel's life. First, God promised the resources for abundant supplies of food, including rain whenever it would be needed. threshing . . . sowing: The grain harvest was finished by early-to mid-June. The grape harvest began about two months later. Having two months to thresh the grain indicated a large harvest. Sowing could not occur until after the first rains softened the ground enough to plow, usually from mid-October on. A two-month grape harvest also would be a bumper crop. Dwell in your land safely hints at the next area of God's blessing on Israel.

26:6–10 Second, God promised security or peace in the land. Neither animal nor human adversaries would be successful against Israel. The bears and lions, which were dangerous to humans, would be neutralized. Any human enemy daring to attack Israel would be routed easily, even at odds of a hundred to one.

The Dream Lives On

Imagine a world without sin. No problem is too great to be solved. No one goes without food. Everyone's needs are met. People live in peace and prosperity. Justice reigns. There is no crime. Death is unknown.

Down through history, various groups have grasped at that utopian ideal. None has succeeded. Yet the dream lives on, and for good reason: That was God's original intention for His creation. He made a perfect world and placed humankind in it with a mandate to "be fruitful and multiply" (Gen. 1:28). Likewise, He has promised to someday restore His creation to its original purpose and perfection (Rev. 21:1–4).

In the meantime, humanity must live with the memory of what Eden was and the hope of what the new creation will be. God helps people keep alive that vision of life with Him—which sometimes seems more like a dream—by offering occasional glimpses of it:

1. Genesis describes what Eden was like (Gen. 1:1–2:25). The account tells of a world that was “very good” as God determines “good” (1:31).

2. In the Law, God promised to bless His people Israel with a land of peace and prosperity if they upheld His commandments (Lev. 26:3). Life in the Promised Land would not be a return to Eden, but it would have much of the same character. For example, God promised to make the people “fruitful” and help them “multiply” (26:9). (Note that this was a covenant agreement.)

3. In the Psalms, the world as it is, even in its fallen condition, is full of the “possessions” of the Lord. He has not left it to fend for itself. He maintains the earth and its creatures and rejoices in His works (Ps. 104:24–30).

4. Isaiah foresaw new heavens and a new earth. There will be no more weeping or, by implication, sin or death. God’s people will build houses in a renewed Jerusalem and will do meaningful, satisfying work (Is. 65:17–23).

5. Paul also looks forward to the day when creation will be set free from its “futility,” a day when God’s people will finally be “delivered from the bondage of corruption” (Rom. 8:19–25).

God’s people live in hope. They base their lives on the promise that God’s original design and purpose will not be crushed under the terrible load of sin, rebellion, and condemnation. Instead, because of Christ, they look forward to the day when they will enter a new world to live with God forever.

God’s people live in hope that His creation will one day be restored to perfection, as it was in the Garden of Eden.

26:10 clear out the old: Israel would not finish eating the old harvest before the new one was brought in.

26:11–13 Third, God promised His presence in Israel’s midst. He would set His tabernacle among them. Furthermore, He would actively walk among them, looking out for their welfare, helping and protecting them. I will be your God, and you shall be My people is the covenant by which God bound Himself to Israel and Israel to Him. Later prophets often reminded Israel of this when they called the nation back to faithfulness to God.

26:14, 15 As with the blessings, the curses are presented in an if-then format. These two verses are the if section, the conditions under which God would bring disaster on His people in an effort to turn their hearts back to Him. Commandments . . . statutes . . . judgments . . . covenant cover all of the legislation God had given at Sinai and the agreement Israel had entered into with God there.

26:16, 17 Terror, various diseases, and famine caused by military defeat would be God's first attempts to call Israel back to Himself.

26:18–20 This second series of curses would be fulfilled if the first failed to get Israel's attention. This was characterized as seven times more punishment. your heavens like iron and your earth like bronze: Rainfall was essential to the agriculture of ancient Israel. The summer heat baked the land. If the early rains of winter did not fall and soften the soil, the primitive plows of ancient agriculture could not break it up for planting. Of course, without rainfall, planting was futile anyway; the seeds would not grow.

26:21, 22 If drought did not bring the Israelites to their senses, God would visit them with seven times more plagues—this time wild beasts. When the human population was far below today's levels, a sharp increase in the number of large predators would have been a serious threat to the people and their domestic animals.

26:23–26 If Israel did not repent after the wild beasts, God would multiply their punishment another seven times with war, resulting in epidemics and famine. when you are gathered: When enemies invaded a land in the ancient world, the people living in unwalled villages fled to the walled cities for refuge, causing great overcrowding. If a city then was besieged for a long time, unsanitary conditions led to pestilence, epidemics of deadly communicable diseases. Another result of a long siege was famine. The flour ration allotted to ten women would be so small that they would bake it all together in one oven. The bread itself would be weighed to ensure equal distribution.

26:29 Further disobedience would result in cannibalism. This occurred centuries later during a siege of Samaria, and later still during the Babylonian siege of Jerusalem (2 Kin. 6:28, 29; Lam. 2:20; 4:10).

26:30 High places and incense altars were dedicated to the worship of pagan gods. To defile them with human carcasses would make them permanently unfit for worship. There is mocking irony in this threat of human carcasses being tossed upon the carcasses (the lifeless forms) of pagan deities.

26:33 scatter: This threat was fulfilled in the Babylonian exile of 587–536 B.C.

26:36, 37 those of you who are left: Survivors would not enjoy relief or peace of mind after escaping the disasters. They would still be timid, even when no one pursued them.

26:38, 39 Having been exiled to foreign lands, the people were not to think they were beyond God's punitive reach. They would waste away, perhaps wishing they had not escaped the quick death that had overtaken so many others.

26:42 God's covenant with the patriarchs took precedence over the covenant at Sinai (see Gal. 3:15–18). Even when Israel violated the Sinai covenant, God honored the patriarchal covenant.

26:44, 45 Ultimately, God's character is grace, mercy, love, and redemption. On that basis, God would remember the covenant. He would not utterly destroy them. God remembers and redeems because God is God.

26:46 This summary statement confirms the authority of Leviticus because its source is the LORD.

27:2–8 While people could dedicate themselves or their children (see 1 Sam. 1:11, 22) to God, only the Levites were allowed to serve God as priests. Therefore, those vowed in service to God had to be redeemed. The chief factor in determining value was relative physical strength. A man brought a higher price than a woman because he could do heavier work. Age also was a factor. By redeeming at a certain price the person dedicated to the sanctuary, the Israelite gave the value of the gift he had vowed.

27:8 A person might dedicate himself as God's possession and go redeem the vow—since he could not personally serve in the sanctuary—only to have the priest discover he was too poor to pay that value. At this time, 50 shekels (v. 3) might have represented about four years' earnings. In that case, the priest set a redemption value according to the ability to pay.

27:9, 10 Rash vows and afterthoughts about vows were discouraged. If one vowed or brought a clean animal for sacrifice, then regretted the decision, the animal could not be exchanged.

27:11–13 Unclean animals could not be sacrificed. Therefore, the priest set a value on any such animal brought as a gift so that the sanctuary would receive the monetary value of the gift.

27:14, 15 The priest also set the value of a house given to fulfill a vow. Obviously, the priests had to be knowledgeable in many kinds of commercial enterprises. A house in a walled city could be dedicated to God if it was not part of the inheritance that was to stay in the family perpetually (25:29, 30).

27:16–25 A field could be dedicated to the Lord. If it was part of a family's inheritance, it could be redeemed before the Jubilee. The price for a parcel requiring a homer of barley seed to sow it was fifty shekels. A homer was a donkey-load. Over the full 49-year inter-Jubilee period, the price to redeem the parcel was about a shekel a year, the cost of its seed each year. A person was encouraged to redeem the land as soon as he could so that his family would not be deprived of its support.

Jubilee

(Heb. yobel) (25:10; 27:17; Ex. 19:13) Strong's #3104

This word literally means “ram” or “ram’s horn” (Josh. 6:5), and in one instance is rendered “trumpet” (Ex. 19:13). The term is associated with the Year of Jubilee in Leviticus (25:10) and Numbers (Num. 36:4). The fiftieth year was a “jubilee” year for the Hebrews, marked by the blowing of a trumpet (25:9). During this year, the Israelites experienced freedom and liberty: Slaves were freed; debts were canceled; the land was left fallow; family property was redeemed (25:10–17). The fact that Jesus quoted Is. 48:8, 9 seems to indicate that Jesus equated His earthly ministry with the principles of the Year of Jubilee (Luke 4:18, 19).

- 27:22–24 A dedicated field not part of the family inheritance but bought from another was redeemable before the Jubilee under the same terms as a field belonging to the family inheritance. However, if it was not redeemed, it reverted to the original owner in the Year of Jubilee.
- 27:26, 27 Animal firstborns could not be dedicated to God, since they belonged to Him already (see Ex. 13:2). One could not pay a vow with a firstborn animal, expecting to gain double credit with God from a single sacrifice. Clean animals could not be redeemed; they would have been sacrificed. Unclean animals could not be sacrificed, and they could be redeemed with money.
- 27:28, 29 Devoting a possession was a stronger act than dedication. Nothing devoted could be redeemed. Persons devoted (under the ban) were to be put to death. No private citizen would have had the power to put himself or anyone else under the ban.
- 27:30, 31 For a person living a distance from the sanctuary, it may have been easier to redeem the tithes of his crops than to bring the crops to the sanctuary.
- 27:32, 33 Sheep and goats were counted and inspected when they passed under the rod, which the shepherd placed across the entrance to the fold. Each year, the newborn animals were counted this way. Every tenth animal was part of the tithe that belonged to God. The owner was not allowed to adjust this procedure so that the animal for the tithe was small, weak, or sickly, nor could he substitute a poor animal for a better one.
- 27:34 Though it was given to an ancient people of another culture and is not binding on the modern believer in most of its details, the Book of Leviticus still has much to teach the follower of Christ. Holy living still should be our goal because we have been redeemed through the blood of Christ, which is infinitely more precious than the blood of any sacrificial animal.

Introduction

The Book of Numbers describes the events right before the Israelites entered the Promised Land. Similar to the tension-filled days before a great battle or election day, these events reveal the Israelites' restlessness and impatience, but also the anticipation of what God would do. The Israelites made grave mistakes during this crucial period, and God disciplined them. But through His discipline and instruction God trained the Israelites not only to worship Him, but to trust in Him for the ultimate victory.

The long lists of numbers and names in Numbers discourage many readers. However, these must be viewed as the ancient Israelites viewed them. The lists were the final roll call before the battle. They prompted praise to God for His faithfulness to the Israelites. He had protected them and multiplied their numbers even in the middle of a barren wilderness.

Israel enters the Promised Land

Name and Author The Book of Numbers is the fourth of the first five books of the Old Testament, the Pentateuch. The English name Numbers comes from the title that the translators of the Septuagint (a Greek translation of the Old Testament completed around 150 B.C.) gave the book, a name that refers to the two prominent census lists contained within.

Until the nineteenth century, Jewish and Christian scholars had unanimously agreed that Moses wrote the entire Pentateuch. Educated by the Egyptians, he certainly had the credentials to compose the five books, and he was a primary character in Exodus through Deuteronomy.

However, many nineteenth-and twentieth-century scholars have doubted that the historical Moses composed the first five books of the Old Testament. Instead, they have suggested that these books, including Genesis, were compiled at a later date. According to this analysis, anonymous editors used at least four documents to piece together the Pentateuch. These four documents were identified by tracing the divine names, such as Elohim and Yahweh, through the Pentateuch, and by tracing certain variations in subject matter, phrasing, and word choice. The four documents are called: the J document, which uses the name Yahweh for God; the E document, which uses the name Elohim for God; the P or Priestly document; and the D or Deuteronomic document. More recently, this dissection of the Pentateuch has been challenged, and no real consensus has emerged from the ensuing scholarly debate.

On the other hand, most evangelical writers have insisted on Moses' authorship and compilation of the Pentateuch. Given the long sojourn of the Israelites in the wilderness, Moses would certainly have had the time to compile the materials and write most of the books. However, he may have overseen some additions to the books, and certain later editors under the leading of the Spirit may have added other materials. For example, the remarkable story of Balaam (chs. 22–24) may have been written by someone other than Moses, for Moses was neither a participant in nor an observer of these events.

At the same time, there are many positive indications in Numbers that Moses did write the principal narrative. For example, 33:2 speaks specifically of Moses writing the itinerary. Also, 3:40 certainly implies that Moses wrote down the number and names of Israel's firstborn. Moreover, the constant refrain "then the LORD spoke to Moses," found at the beginning of nearly every major section of the book, testifies not only to its divine origin but also to Moses' significant role in communicating these divine instructions to the Israelites.

Structure Numbers has two basic sections. Each of them begins with a census. The first census (chs. 1–4) numbered the men of war of the first generation of those who had left Egypt. This census and the triumphal march into the Promised Land quickly turned into disaster. The first generation of Israelites did not trust God and did not thank Him for His provision. Instead, they doubted God, accused Him, and rebelled against His gracious instructions. This demanded discipline: The first generation would not inherit the land because they had been faithless.

But while the Lord would not let them enter the land, He still had not abandoned His people. He allowed these rebellious people to live out their lives in the wilderness. Further, He graciously continued to instruct them in His ways and how they could prepare their sons and daughters to enter the land. The faithless first generation had not altered God's purposes or discouraged God from fulfilling His promises. One day, the Israelites would obey God and would conquer the Promised Land.

After 40 years of wandering in the wilderness, the second census (ch. 26) numbered the men of war of the second generation. Finally, they were prepared to do what their parents had failed to do. But underlying the narrative of chapters 26–36 is the nagging question: "Will the second generation be successful, or will they repeat the errors of their fathers?" The book ends with a positive expectation. The second generation would succeed; the people of God would inherit the promise of the land of Canaan—at last!

Christ in the Scriptures

Perhaps the clearest portrait of Christ in the Book of Numbers is the incident of the bronze serpent on a pole. Numbers 21 records that a number of Israelites were bitten by serpents in the desert. God instructed Moses to fashion a bronze serpent on a pole and lift it high. All who looked at the serpent in faith recovered (Num. 21:4–9). Here we have a stunning picture of the Crucifixion. “As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up” (John 3:14).

Another type of Christ in Numbers was the rock that miraculously poured out water to quench the thirst of the multitudes (Num. 20:8–10). “They drank of that spiritual Rock that followed them, and that Rock was Christ” (1 Cor. 10:4). The miracle of the manna (Num. 11:7–9) also pictures Jesus, the self-described “bread of life,” who came down from heaven centuries later (John 6:35).

At one point in Numbers, the ungodly prophet Balaam exclaims, “I see Him, but not now; I behold Him, but not near; a Star shall come out of Jacob; a Scepter shall rise out of Israel, and batter the brow of Moab, and destroy all the sons of tumult” (Num. 24:17). Balaam was foreseeing the coming kingdom of God’s Messiah.

Numbers 1

The First Census of Israel (cf. 2 Sam. 24:1–9; 1 Chr. 21:1–6) ¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses ^ain the Wilderness of Sinai, ^bin the tabernacle of meeting, on the ^cfirst day of the second month, in the second year after they had come out of the land of Egypt, saying: ^{2a}“Take a census of all the congregation of the children of Israel, by their families, by their fathers’ houses, according to the number of names, every male ^eindividually, ³“from ^ftwenty years old and above—all who are able to go to war in Israel. You and Aaron shall number them by their armies.

⁴“And with you there shall be a man from every tribe, each one the head of his father’s house.

⁵“These are the names of the men who shall stand with you: from Reuben, Elizur the son of Shedeur; ⁶“from Simeon, Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai; ⁷“from Judah, Nahshon the son of Amminadab; ⁸“from Issachar, Nethanel the son of Zuar; ⁹“from Zebulun, Eliab the son of Helon; ¹⁰“from the sons of Joseph: from Ephraim, Elishama the son of Ammihud; from Manasseh, Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur; ¹¹“from Benjamin, Abidan the son of Gideoni; ¹²“from Dan, Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai; ¹³“from Asher, Pagiel the son of Ocran; ¹⁴“from Gad, Eliasaph the son of ^gDeuel;¹

¹⁵“from Naphtali, Ahira the son of Enan.”

^{16h}These were ⁱchosen² from the congregation, leaders of their fathers’ tribes, ^jheads of the divisions in Israel.

¹⁷Then Moses and Aaron took these men who had been ³mentioned ^kby name, ¹⁸and they assembled all the congregation together on the first day of the second month; and they recited their ^lancestry by families, by their fathers’ houses, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, each one individually.

¹⁹As the LORD commanded Moses, so he numbered them in the Wilderness of Sinai. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Sinai

²⁰Now the ^mchildren of Reuben, Israel’s oldest son, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers’ house, according to the number of names, every male individually, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ²¹those who were numbered of the tribe of Reuben were forty-six thousand five hundred.

²²From the ⁿchildren of Simeon, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, of those who were numbered, according to the number of names, every male individually, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ²³those who were numbered of the tribe of Simeon were fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

²⁴From the ^ochildren of Gad, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ²⁵those who were numbered of the tribe of Gad were forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty.

²⁶From the ^pchildren of Judah, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ²⁷those who were numbered of the tribe of Judah were ^qseventy-four thousand six hundred.

²⁸From the ^rchildren of Issachar, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ²⁹those who were numbered of the tribe of Issachar were fifty-four thousand four hundred.

³⁰From the ^schildren of Zebulun, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ³¹those who were numbered of the tribe of Zebulun were fifty-seven thousand four hundred.

³²From the sons of Joseph, the ^tchildren of Ephraim, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ³³those who were numbered of the tribe of Ephraim were forty thousand five hundred.

³⁴From the ^uchildren of Manasseh, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ³⁵those who were numbered of the tribe of Manasseh were thirty-two thousand two hundred.

³⁶From the ^vchildren of Benjamin, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ³⁷those who were numbered of the tribe of Benjamin were thirty-five thousand four hundred.

³⁸From the ^wchildren of Dan, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ³⁹those who were numbered of the tribe of Dan were sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

⁴⁰From the ^xchildren of Asher, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ⁴¹those who were numbered of the tribe of Asher were forty-one thousand five hundred.

⁴²From the children of Naphtali, their genealogies by their families, by their fathers' house, according to the number of names, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war: ⁴³those who were numbered of the tribe of Naphtali were fifty-three thousand four hundred.

^{44y}These are the ones who were numbered, whom Moses and Aaron numbered, with the leaders of Israel, twelve men, each one representing his father's house.

⁴⁵So all who were numbered of the children of Israel, by their fathers' houses, from twenty years old and above, all who were able to go to war in Israel— ⁴⁶all who were numbered were ^zsix hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.

⁴⁷But ^athe Levites were not numbered among them by their fathers' tribe; ⁴⁸for the LORD had spoken to Moses, saying: ^{49b}“Only the tribe of Levi you shall not number, nor take a census of them among the children of Israel; ^{50c}“but you shall appoint the Levites over the tabernacle of the Testimony, over all its furnishings, and over all things that belong to it; they shall carry the tabernacle and all its furnishings; they shall attend to it ^dand camp around the tabernacle.

^{51e}“And when the tabernacle is to go forward, the Levites shall take it down; and when the tabernacle is to be set up, the Levites shall set it ^fup. ^gThe outsider who comes near shall be put to death.

⁵²“The children of Israel shall pitch their tents, ^heveryone by his own camp, everyone by his own standard, according to their armies; ⁵³ⁱ“but the Levites shall camp around the tabernacle of the Testimony, that there may be no ^jwrath on the congregation of the children of Israel; and the Levites shall ^kkeep⁴ charge of the tabernacle of the Testimony.”

⁵⁴Thus the children of Israel did; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so they did.

Numbers 2

The Tribes and Leaders by Armies ¹And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: Charts and Diagrams: Placement of Tribes in the Israelite Encampment

^{2a}“Everyone of the children of Israel shall camp by his own ¹standard, beside the emblems of his father’s house; they shall camp ^bsome distance from the tabernacle of meeting.

³“On the ^ceast side, toward the rising of the sun, those of the standard of the forces with Judah shall camp according to their armies; and ^dNahshon the son of Amminadab shall be the leader of the children of Judah.”

⁴And his army was numbered at seventy-four thousand six hundred.

⁵“Those who camp next to him shall be the tribe of Issachar, and Nethanel the son of Zuar shall be the leader of the children of Issachar.”

⁶And his army was numbered at fifty-four thousand four hundred.

⁷“Then comes the tribe of Zebulun, and Eliab the son of Helon shall be the leader of the children of Zebulun.”

⁸And his army was numbered at fifty-seven thousand four hundred.

⁹“All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces with Judah, one hundred and eighty-six thousand four hundred—^ethese shall ²break camp first.

¹⁰“On the ^fsouth side shall be the standard of the forces with Reuben according to their armies, and the leader of the children of Reuben shall be Elizur the son of Shedeur.”

¹¹And his army was numbered at forty-six thousand five hundred.

¹²“Those who camp next to him shall be the tribe of Simeon, and the leader of the children of Simeon shall be Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.”

¹³And his army was numbered at fifty-nine thousand three hundred.

¹⁴“Then comes the tribe of Gad, and the leader of the children of Gad shall be Eliasaph the son of ³Reuel.”

¹⁵And his army was numbered at forty-five thousand six hundred and fifty.

¹⁶“All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces with Reuben, one hundred and fifty-one thousand four hundred and fifty—⁸they shall ⁴be the second to break camp.

^{17h}“And the tabernacle of meeting shall move out with the ⁵camp of the Levites ⁱin the middle of the ⁶camp; as they camp, so they shall move out, everyone in his place, by their ⁷standards.

¹⁹And his army was numbered at forty thousand five hundred.

²⁰“Next to him comes the tribe of Manasseh, and the leader of the children of Manasseh shall be Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.”

²¹And his army was numbered at thirty-two thousand two hundred.

²²“Then comes the tribe of Benjamin, and the leader of the children of Benjamin shall be Abidan the son of Gideon.”

²³And his army was numbered at thirty-five thousand four hundred.

²⁴“All who were numbered according to their armies of the forces with Ephraim, one hundred and eight thousand one hundred—^jthey shall ⁸be the third to break camp.

²⁵“The ⁹standard of the forces with Dan shall be on the north side according to their armies, and the leader of the children of Dan shall be Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.”

²⁶And his army was numbered at sixty-two thousand seven hundred.

²⁷“Those who camp next to him shall be the tribe of Asher, and the leader of the children of Asher shall be Pagiel the son of Ocran.”

²⁸And his army was numbered at forty-one thousand five hundred.

²⁹“Then comes the tribe of Naphtali, and the leader of the children of Naphtali shall be Ahira the son of Enan.”

³⁰And his army was numbered at fifty-three thousand four hundred.

³¹“All who were numbered of the forces with Dan, one hundred and fifty-seven thousand six hundred—^kthey shall ¹⁰break camp last, with their ¹¹standards.”

³²These are the ones who were numbered of the children of Israel by their fathers' houses. ^lAll who were numbered according to their armies of the forces were six hundred and three thousand five hundred and fifty.

³³But ^mthe Levites were not numbered among the children of Israel, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

³⁴Thus the children of Israel ⁿdid according to all that the LORD commanded Moses; ^oso they camped by their ¹²standards and so they broke camp, each one by his family, according to their fathers' houses.

Numbers 3

The Sons of Aaron (Lev. 10:1–7) ¹Now these are the ^arecords¹ of Aaron and Moses when the LORD spoke with Moses on Mount Sinai.

²And these are the names of the sons of Aaron: Nadab, the ^bfirstborn, and ^cAbihu, Eleazar, and Ithamar.

³These are the names of the sons of Aaron, ^dthe anointed priests, ²whom he consecrated to minister as priests.

^{4e}Nadab and Abihu had died before the LORD when they offered profane fire before the LORD in the Wilderness of Sinai; and they had no children. So Eleazar and Ithamar ministered as priests in the presence of Aaron their father.

The Levites Serve in the Tabernacle ⁵And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ^{6f}“Bring the tribe of Levi near, and present them before Aaron the priest, that they may serve him.

⁷“And they shall attend to his needs and the needs of the whole congregation before the tabernacle of meeting, to do ⁸the work of the tabernacle.

⁸“Also they shall attend to all the furnishings of the tabernacle of meeting, and to the needs of the children of Israel, to do the work of the tabernacle.

⁹“And ^hyou shall give the Levites to Aaron and his sons; they are given entirely to ³him from among the children of Israel.

¹⁰“So you shall appoint Aaron and his sons, ⁱand they shall attend to their priesthood; ^jbut the outsider who comes near shall be put to death.”

¹¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ¹²“Now behold, ^kI Myself have taken the Levites from among the children of Israel instead of every firstborn who opens the womb among the children of Israel. Therefore the Levites shall be ^lMine, ¹³“because ^mall the firstborn are Mine. ⁿOn the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt, I sanctified to Myself all the firstborn in Israel, both man and beast. They shall be Mine: I am the LORD.”

Census of the Levites Commanded (cf. Num. 1:47–54) ¹⁴Then the LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, saying: ¹⁵“Number the children of Levi by their fathers’ houses, by their families; you shall number ^oevery male from a month old and above.”

¹⁶So Moses numbered them according to the ⁴word of the LORD, as he was commanded.

¹⁷^pThese were the sons of Levi by their names: Gershon, Kohath, and Merari.

¹⁸And these are the names of the sons of ^qGershon by their families: ^rLibni and Shimei.

¹⁹And the sons of ^sKohath by their families: ^tAmram, Izehar, Hebron, and Uzziel.

²⁰^uAnd the sons of Merari by their families: Mahli and Mushi. These are the families of the Levites by their fathers' houses.

²¹From Gershon came the family of the Libnites and the family of the Shimites; these were the families of the Gershonites.

²²Those who were numbered, according to the number of all the males from a month old and above—of those who were numbered there were seven thousand five hundred.

²³^vThe families of the Gershonites were to camp behind the tabernacle westward.

²⁴And the leader of the father's house of the Gershonites was Eliasaph the son of Lael.

²⁸According to the number of all the males, from a month old and above, there were eight thousand ⁵six hundred ⁶keeping charge of the sanctuary.

²⁹^fThe families of the children of Kohath were to camp on the south side of the tabernacle.

³⁰And the leader of the fathers' house of the families of the Kohathites was Elizaphan the son of ^gUzziel.

³¹^hTheir duty included ⁱthe ark, ^jthe table, ^kthe lampstand, ^lthe altars, the utensils of the sanctuary with which they ministered, ^mthe screen, and all the work relating to them.

³²And Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest was to be chief over the leaders of the Levites, with oversight of those who kept charge of the sanctuary.

³³From Merari came the family of the Mahlites and the family of the Mushites; these were the families of Merari.

³⁴And those who were numbered, according to the number of all the males from a month old and above, were six thousand two hundred.

³⁵The leader of the fathers' house of the families of Merari was Zuriel the son of Abihail. ⁿThese were to camp on the north side of the tabernacle.

³⁶And ^othe appointed duty of the children of Merari included the boards of the tabernacle, its bars, its pillars, its sockets, its utensils, all the work relating to them, ³⁷and the pillars of the court all around, with their sockets, their pegs, and their cords.

^{38p}Moreover those who were to camp before the tabernacle on the east, before the tabernacle of meeting, were Moses, Aaron, and his sons, ^qkeeping charge of the sanctuary, ^rto meet the needs of the children of Israel; but ^sthe outsider who came near was to be put to death.

^{39t}All who were numbered of the Levites, whom Moses and Aaron numbered at the commandment of the LORD, by their families, all the males from a month old and above, were twenty-two thousand.

Levites Dedicated Instead of the Firstborn ⁴⁰Then the LORD said to Moses:

^u“Number⁷ all the firstborn males of the children of Israel from a month old and above, and take the number of their names.

^{41v}“And you shall take the Levites for Me—I am the LORD—instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the livestock of the children of Israel.”

⁴²So Moses numbered all the firstborn among the children of Israel, as the LORD commanded him.

⁴³And all the firstborn males, according to the number of names from a month old and above, of those who were numbered of them, were twenty-two thousand two hundred and seventy-three.

⁴⁴Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ^{45w}“Take the Levites instead of all the firstborn among the children of Israel, and the livestock of the Levites instead of their livestock. The Levites shall be Mine: I am the LORD.

⁴⁶“And for ^xthe redemption of the two hundred and seventy-three of the firstborn of the children of Israel, ^ywho are more than the number of the Levites, ⁴⁷“you shall take ^zfive shekels for each one ^aindividually; you shall take them in the currency of the shekel of the sanctuary, ^bthe shekel of twenty gerahs.

⁴⁸“And you shall give the money, with which the excess number of them is redeemed, to Aaron and his sons.”

⁴⁹So Moses took the redemption money from those who were over and above those who were redeemed by the Levites.

⁵⁰From the firstborn of the children of Israel he took the money, ^cone thousand three hundred and sixty-five shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary.

⁵¹And Moses ^dgave their redemption money to Aaron and his sons, according to the word of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.

Numbers 4

Duties of the Sons of Kohath ¹*Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: ²“Take a census of the sons of ^aKohath from among the children of Levi, by their families, by their fathers’ house, ^{3b}“from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, all who enter the service to do the work in the tabernacle of meeting.*

^{4c}“This is the service of the sons of Kohath in the tabernacle of meeting, relating to ^dthe most holy things: ⁵“When the camp prepares to journey, Aaron and his sons shall come, and they shall take down ^ethe covering veil and cover the ^fark of the Testimony with it.

⁶“Then they shall put on it a covering of badger skins, and spread over that a cloth entirely of ^gblue; and they shall insert ^hits poles.

⁸“They shall spread over them a scarlet cloth, and cover the same with a covering of badger skins; and they shall insert its poles.

⁹“And they shall take a blue cloth and cover the ^klampstand of the light, ^lwith its lamps, its wick-trimmers, its trays, and all its oil vessels, with which they service it.

¹⁰“Then they shall put it with all its utensils in a covering of badger skins, and put it on a carrying beam.

¹¹“Over ^mthe golden altar they shall spread a blue cloth, and cover it with a covering of badger skins; and they shall insert its poles.

¹²“Then they shall take all the ⁿutensils of service with which they minister in the sanctuary, put them in a blue cloth, cover them with a covering of badger skins, and put them on a carrying beam.

¹³“Also they shall take away the ashes from the altar, and spread a purple cloth over it.

¹⁵“And when Aaron and his sons have finished covering the sanctuary and all the furnishings of the sanctuary, when the camp is set to go, then ^othe sons of Kohath shall come to carry them; ^pbut they shall not touch any holy thing, lest they die. ^qThese are the things in the tabernacle of meeting which the sons of Kohath are to carry.

¹⁶“The appointed duty of Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest is ^rthe oil for the light, the ^ssweet incense, ^tthe daily grain offering, the ^uanointing oil, the oversight of all the tabernacle, of all that is in it, with the sanctuary and its furnishings.”

¹⁷Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying: ¹⁸“Do not cut off the tribe of the families of the Kohathites from among the Levites; ¹⁹“but do this in regard to them, that they may live and not die when they approach ^vthe most holy things: Aaron and his sons shall go in and ⁴appoint each of them to his service and his task.

^{20w}“But they shall not go in to watch while the holy things are being covered, lest they die.”

Duties of the Sons of Gershon ²¹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

²²“Also take a census of the sons of ^xGershon, by their fathers’ house, by their families.

^{23y}“From thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, you shall number them, all who enter to perform the service, to do the work in the tabernacle of meeting.

²⁷“Aaron and his sons shall ⁵assign all the service of the sons of the Gershonites, all their tasks and all their service. And you shall ⁶appoint to them all their tasks as their duty.

²⁸“This is the service of the families of the sons of Gershon in the tabernacle of meeting. And their duties shall be ^dunder the ⁷authority of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

Duties of the Sons of Merari ²⁹“As for the sons of ^eMerari, you shall number them by their families and by their fathers’ house.

^{30f}“From thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, you shall number them, everyone who enters the service to do the work of the tabernacle of meeting.

³³“This is the service of the families of the sons of Merari, as all their service for the tabernacle of meeting, under the ⁸authority of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.”

Census of the Levites ^{34k}And Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of the congregation numbered the sons of the Kohathites by their families and by their fathers' house, ³⁵from thirty ^lyears old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting; ³⁶and those who were numbered by their families were two thousand seven hundred and fifty.

³⁷These were the ones who were numbered of the families of the Kohathites, all who might serve in the tabernacle of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the commandment of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

³⁸And those who were numbered of the sons of Gershon, by their families and by their fathers' house, ³⁹from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting— ⁴⁰those who were numbered by their families, by their fathers' house, were two thousand six hundred and thirty.

^{41m}These are the ones who were numbered of the families of the sons of Gershon, of all who might serve in the tabernacle of meeting, whom Moses and Aaron numbered according to the commandment of the LORD.

⁴²Those of the families of the sons of Merari who were numbered, by their families, by their fathers' ⁹house, ⁴³from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who entered the service for work in the tabernacle of meeting— ⁴⁴those who were numbered by their families were three thousand two hundred.

⁴⁵These are the ones who were numbered of the families of the sons of Merari, whom Moses and Aaron numbered ⁿaccording to the word of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

⁴⁶All who were ^onumbered of the Levites, whom Moses, Aaron, and the leaders of Israel numbered, by their families and by their fathers' houses, ^{47p}from thirty years old and above, even to fifty years old, everyone who came to do the work of service and the work of bearing burdens in the tabernacle of meeting— ⁴⁸those who were numbered were eight thousand five hundred and eighty.

⁴⁹According to the commandment of the LORD they were numbered by the hand of Moses, ^qeach according to his service and according to his task; thus were they numbered by him, ^ras the LORD commanded Moses.

Numbers 5

Ceremonially Unclean Persons Isolated (cf. Lev. 15:1–33) ¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ²“Command the children of Israel that they put out of the camp every ^aleper, everyone who has a ^bdischarge, and whoever becomes ^cdefiled ¹by a corpse.

³“You shall put out both male and female; you shall put them outside the camp, that they may not defile their camps ^din the midst of which I dwell.”

⁴And the children of Israel did so, and put them outside the camp; as the LORD spoke to Moses, so the children of Israel did.

Confession and Restitution (Lev. 6:1–7) ⁵Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ⁶“Speak to the children of Israel: ^e“When a man or woman commits any sin that men commit in unfaithfulness against the LORD, and that person is guilty, ^{7f}“then he shall confess the sin which he has committed. He shall make restitution for his trespass ^gin full, plus one-fifth of it, and give it to the one he has wronged.

⁸“But if the man has no ²relative to whom restitution may be made for the wrong, the restitution for the wrong must go to the LORD for the priest, in addition to ^hthe ram of the atonement with which atonement is made for him.

⁹“Every ⁱoffering³ of all the holy things of the children of Israel, which they bring to the priest, shall be ^jhis.

¹⁰“And every man’s ⁴holy things shall be his; whatever any man gives the priest shall be ^khis.’ ”

Concerning Unfaithful Wives ¹¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ¹²“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ‘If any man’s wife goes astray and behaves unfaithfully toward him, ¹³“and a man ^llies with her carnally, and it is hidden from the eyes of her husband, and it is concealed that she has defiled herself, and there was no witness against her, nor was she ^mcaught— ¹⁴“if the spirit of jealousy comes upon him and he becomes ⁿjealous of his wife, who has defiled herself; or if the spirit of jealousy comes upon him and he becomes jealous of his wife, although she has not defiled herself— ¹⁵“then the man shall bring his wife to the priest. He shall ^obring the offering required for her, one-tenth of an ephah of barley meal; he shall pour no oil on it and put no frankincense on it, because it is a grain offering of jealousy, an offering for remembering, for ^pbringing iniquity to remembrance.

¹⁶‘And the priest shall bring her near, and set her before the LORD.

¹⁷‘The priest shall take holy water in an earthen vessel, and take some of the dust that is on the floor of the tabernacle and put it into the water.

¹⁸‘Then the priest shall stand the woman before the ^qLORD, uncover the woman’s head, and put the offering for remembering in her hands, which is the grain offering of jealousy. And the priest shall have in his hand the bitter water that brings a curse.

¹⁹‘And the priest shall put her under oath, and say to the woman, “If no man has lain with you, and if you have not gone astray to uncleanness while under your husband’s authority, be free from this bitter water that brings a curse.

²⁰‘But if you have gone astray while under your husband’s authority, and if you have defiled yourself and some man other than your husband has lain with you”— ²¹‘then the priest shall ^rput the woman under the oath of the curse, and he shall say to the woman—^s“the LORD make you a curse and an oath among your people, when the LORD makes your thigh ⁵rot and your belly swell; ²²“and may this water that causes the curse ^tgo into your stomach, and make your belly swell and your thigh rot.” ^uThen the woman shall say, “Amen, so be it.”

²³‘Then the priest shall write these curses in a book, and he shall scrape them off into the bitter water.

²⁴‘And he shall make the woman drink the bitter water that brings a curse, and the water that brings the curse shall enter her to become bitter.

^{25v}‘Then the priest shall take the grain offering of jealousy from the woman’s hand, shall ^wwave the offering before the LORD, and bring it to the altar; ²⁶‘and the priest shall take a handful of the offering, ^xas its memorial portion, burn it on the altar, and afterward make the woman drink the water.

²⁷‘When he has made her drink the water, then it shall be, if she has defiled herself and behaved unfaithfully toward her husband, that the water that brings a ^ycurse will enter her and become bitter, and her belly will swell, her thigh will rot, and the woman ^zwill become a curse among her people.

²⁸‘But if the woman has not defiled herself, and is clean, then she shall be free and may conceive children.

³¹‘Then the man shall be free from ⁶iniquity, but that woman ^bshall bear her ⁷guilt.’ ”

Numbers 6

The Law of the Nazirite ¹*Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,* ²*“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ‘When either a man or woman* ¹*consecrates an offering to take the vow of a Nazirite,* ^a*to separate himself to the LORD,* ^{3b}‘he shall separate himself from wine and similar drink; he shall drink neither vinegar made from wine nor vinegar made from similar drink; neither shall he drink any grape juice, nor eat fresh grapes or raisins.

⁴*‘All the days of his* ²*separation he shall eat nothing that is produced by the grapevine, from seed to skin.*

⁶*‘All the days that he separates himself to the LORD* ^d*he shall not go near a dead body.*

^{7e}‘He shall not ³*make himself unclean even for his father or his mother, for his brother or his sister, when they die, because his separation to God is on his head.*

^{8f}‘All the days of his separation he shall be holy to the LORD.

⁹*‘And if anyone dies very suddenly beside him, and he defiles his consecrated head, then he shall* ^g*shave his head on the day of his cleansing; on the seventh day he shall shave it.*

¹²*‘He shall consecrate to the LORD the days of his separation, and bring a male lamb in its first year* ⁱ*as a trespass offering; but the former days shall be* ⁴*lost, because his separation was defiled.*

¹³*‘Now this is the law of the Nazirite:* ^j*When the days of his separation are fulfilled, he shall be brought to the door of the tabernacle of meeting.*

¹⁴*‘And he shall present his offering to the LORD: one male lamb in its first year without blemish as a burnt offering, one ewe lamb in its first year* without blemish ^kas a sin offering, one ram without blemish ^las a peace offering, ¹⁵‘a basket of unleavened bread, ^mcakes of fine flour mixed with oil, unleavened wafers ⁿanointed with oil, and their grain offering with their ^odrink offerings.

¹⁶‘Then the priest shall bring them before the LORD and offer his sin offering and his burnt offering; ¹⁷‘and he shall offer the ram as a sacrifice of a peace offering to the LORD, with the basket of unleavened bread; the priest shall also offer its grain offering and its drink offering.

^{18p}‘Then the Nazirite shall shave his consecrated head at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and shall take the hair from his consecrated head and put it on the fire which is under the sacrifice of the peace offering.

²⁰‘and the priest shall wave them as a wave offering before the LORD; ^t*they are* holy for the priest, together with the breast of the wave offering and the thigh of the heave offering. After that the Nazirite may drink wine.’

²¹“This is the law of the Nazirite who vows to the LORD the offering for his separation, and besides that, whatever else his hand is able to provide; according to the vow which he takes, so he must do according to the law of his separation.”

The Priestly Blessing ²²And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ²³“Speak to Aaron and his sons, saying, ‘This is the way you shall bless the children of Israel. Say to them:

²⁴“The LORD ^ubless you and ^vkeep you; ²⁵The LORD ^wmake His face shine upon you, And ^xbe gracious to you; ^{26y}The LORD ⁵lift up His countenance upon you, And ^zgive you peace.” ’

^{27a}“So they shall ⁶put My name on the children of Israel, and ^bI will bless them.”

Numbers 7

Offerings of the Leaders ¹*Now it came to pass, when Moses had finished ^asetting up the tabernacle, that he ^banointed it and consecrated it and all its furnishings, and the altar and all its utensils; so he anointed them and consecrated them.* Word Studies: anointed

²Then ^cthe leaders of Israel, the heads of their fathers' houses, who were the leaders of the tribes ¹and over those who were numbered, made an offering.

³And they brought their offering before the LORD, six covered carts and twelve oxen, a cart for every two of the leaders, and for each one an ox; and they presented them before the tabernacle.

⁴Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ⁵“Accept these from them, that they may be used in doing the work of the tabernacle of meeting; and you shall give them to the Levites, to every man according to his service.”

⁶So Moses took the carts and the oxen, and gave them to the Levites.

⁷Two carts and four oxen ^dhe gave to the sons of Gershon, according to their service; ^{8e}and four carts and eight oxen he gave to the sons of Merari, according to their service, under the ²authority of Ithamar the son of Aaron the priest.

⁹But to the sons of Kohath he gave none, because theirs was ^fthe service of the holy things, ^gwhich they carried on their shoulders.

¹⁰Now the leaders offered ^hthe dedication offering for the altar when it was anointed; so the leaders offered their offering before the altar.

¹¹For the LORD said to Moses, “They shall offer their offering, one leader each day, for the dedication of the altar.”

¹²And the one who offered his offering on the first day was ⁱNahshon the son of Amminadab, from the tribe of Judah.

¹³His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to ^jthe shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a ^kgrain offering; Bible Times & Culture Notes: Silver

¹⁴one gold pan of ten shekels, full of ^lincense; ^{15m}one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb ⁿin its first year, as a burnt offering; ¹⁶one kid of the goats as a ^osin offering; ¹⁷and for ^pthe sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Nahshon the son of Amminadab. Word Studies: sacrifice

¹⁸On the second day Nethanel the son of Zuar, leader of Issachar, presented an offering.

¹⁹For his offering he offered one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ²⁰one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ²¹one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ²²one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ²³and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Nethanel the son of Zuar.

²⁴On the third day Eliab the son of Helon, leader of the children of Zebulun, presented an offering.

²⁵His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ²⁶one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ²⁷one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ²⁸one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ²⁹and for the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Eliab the son of Helon.

³⁰On the fourth day ^qElizur the son of Shedeur, leader of the children of Reuben, presented an offering.

³¹His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ³²one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ³³one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ³⁴one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ³⁵and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Elizur the son of Shedeur.

³⁶On the fifth day ^rShelumiel the son of Zurishaddai, leader of the children of Simeon, presented an offering.

³⁷His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ³⁸one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ³⁹one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ⁴⁰one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁴¹and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

⁴²On the sixth day ^sEliasaph the son of ³Deuel, leader of the children of Gad, presented an offering.

⁴³His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ⁴⁴one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ⁴⁵one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as ^ta burnt offering; ⁴⁶one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁴⁷and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

⁴⁸On the seventh day ^uElishama the son of Ammihud, leader of the children of Ephraim, presented an offering.

⁴⁹His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ⁵⁰one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ⁵¹one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ⁵²one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁵³and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Elishama the son of Ammihud.

⁵⁴On the eighth day ^vGamaliel the son of Pedahzur, leader of the children of Manasseh, presented an offering.

⁵⁵His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ⁵⁶one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ⁵⁷one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ⁵⁸one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁵⁹and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year.

This was the offering of Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

⁶⁰On the ninth day ^wAbidan the son of Gideoni, leader of the children of Benjamin, presented an offering.

⁶¹His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ⁶²one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ⁶³one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ⁶⁴one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁶⁵and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Abidan the son of Gideoni.

⁶⁶On the tenth day ^xAhiezer the son of Ammishaddai, leader of the children of Dan, presented an offering.

⁶⁷His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ⁶⁸one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ⁶⁹one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ⁷⁰one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁷¹and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

⁷²On the eleventh day ^yPagiel the son of Ocran, leader of the children of Asher, presented an offering.

⁷³His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ⁷⁴one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ⁷⁵one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ⁷⁶one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁷⁷and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Pagiel the son of Ocran.

⁷⁸On the twelfth day ^zAhira the son of Enan, leader of the children of Naphtali, presented an offering.

⁷⁹His offering was one silver platter, the weight of which was one hundred and thirty shekels, and one silver bowl of seventy shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, both of them full of fine flour mixed with oil as a grain offering; ⁸⁰one gold pan of ten shekels, full of incense; ⁸¹one young bull, one ram, and one male lamb in its first year, as a burnt offering; ⁸²one kid of the goats as a sin offering; ⁸³and as the sacrifice of peace offerings: two oxen, five rams, five male goats, and five male lambs in their first year. This was the offering of Ahira the son of Enan.

⁸⁴This was ^athe dedication offering for the altar from the leaders of Israel, when it was anointed: twelve silver platters, twelve silver bowls, and twelve gold pans. Word Studies: dedication

⁸⁵Each silver platter weighed one hundred and thirty shekels and each bowl seventy shekels. All the silver of the vessels weighed two thousand four hundred shekels, according to the shekel of the sanctuary.

⁸⁶The twelve gold pans full of incense weighed ten shekels apiece, according to the shekel of the sanctuary; all the gold of the pans weighed one hundred and twenty shekels.

⁸⁷All the oxen for the burnt offering were twelve young bulls, the rams twelve, the male lambs in their first year twelve, with their grain offering, and the kids of the goats as a sin offering twelve.

⁸⁸And all the oxen for the sacrifice of peace offerings were twenty-four bulls, the rams sixty, the male goats sixty, and the lambs in their first year sixty. This was the dedication offering for the altar after it was ^banointed.

⁸⁹Now when Moses went into the tabernacle of meeting ^cto speak with Him, he heard ^dthe voice of One speaking to him from above the mercy seat that was on the ark of the Testimony, from ^ebetween the two cherubim; thus He spoke to him.

Numbers 8

Arrangement of the Lamps (Ex. 25:31–40) ¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ²“Speak to Aaron, and say to him, ‘When you ^aarrange the lamps, the seven ^blamps shall give light in front of the lampstand.’ ” ³And Aaron did so; he arranged the lamps to face toward the front of the lampstand, as the LORD commanded Moses.

^{4c}Now this workmanship of the lampstand was hammered gold; from its shaft to its flowers it was ^dhammered work. ^eAccording to the pattern which the LORD had shown Moses, so he made the lampstand.

Cleansing and Dedication of the Levites ⁵Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ⁶“Take the Levites from among the children of Israel and cleanse them ceremonially.

⁷“Thus you shall do to them to cleanse them: Sprinkle ^fwater of purification on them, and ^glet¹ them shave all their body, and let them wash their clothes, and so make themselves clean.

⁸“Then let them take a young bull with ^hits grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil, and you shall take another young bull as a sin offering.

⁹ⁱ“And you shall bring the Levites before the tabernacle of meeting, ^jand you shall gather together the whole congregation of the children of Israel.

^{12m}“Then the Levites shall lay their hands on the heads of the young bulls, and you shall offer one as a sin offering and the other as a burnt offering to the LORD, to make atonement for the Levites.

¹³“And you shall stand the Levites before Aaron and his sons, and then offer them like a wave offering to the LORD.

¹⁴“Thus you shall ⁿseparate the Levites from among the children of Israel, and the Levites shall be ^oMine.

¹⁵“After that the Levites shall go in to service the tabernacle of meeting. So you shall cleanse them and ^poffer them, like a wave offering.

¹⁶“For they are ^qwholly given to Me from among the children of Israel; I have taken them for Myself ^rinstead of all who open the womb, the firstborn of all the children of Israel.

^{17s}“For all the firstborn among the children of Israel are Mine, both man and beast; on the day that I struck all the firstborn in the land of Egypt I ³sanctified them to Myself.

¹⁸“I have taken the Levites instead of all the firstborn of the children of Israel.

²⁰Thus Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel did to the Levites; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so the children of Israel did to them.

^{21v}And the Levites purified themselves and washed their clothes; then Aaron presented them, like a wave offering before the LORD, and Aaron made atonement for them to cleanse them.

^{22w}After that the Levites went in to do their work in the tabernacle of meeting before Aaron and his sons; ^xas the LORD commanded Moses concerning the Levites, so they did to them.

²³Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ²⁴“This is what pertains to the Levites: ^yFrom twenty-five years old and above one may enter to perform service in the work of the tabernacle of meeting; ²⁵“and at the age of fifty years they must cease performing this work, and shall work no more.

²⁶“They may minister with their brethren in the tabernacle of meeting, ^zto attend to needs, but they themselves shall do no work. Thus you shall do to the Levites regarding their duties.”

Numbers 9

The Second Passover (Ex. 12:1–20) ¹Now the LORD spoke to Moses in the Wilderness of Sinai, in the first month of the second year after they had come out of the land of Egypt, saying: ²“Let the children of Israel keep ^athe Passover at its appointed ^btime.

³“On the fourteenth day of this month, ¹at twilight, you shall ²keep it at its appointed time. According to all its ³rites and ceremonies you shall keep it.”

⁴So Moses told the children of Israel that they should keep the Passover.

⁵And ^cthey kept the Passover on the fourteenth day of the first month, at twilight, in the Wilderness of Sinai; according to all that the LORD commanded Moses, so the children of Israel did.

⁶Now there were certain men who were ^ddefiled by a human corpse, so that they could not keep the Passover on that day; ^eand they came before Moses and Aaron that day.

⁷And those men said to him, “We became defiled by a human corpse. Why are we kept from presenting the offering of the LORD at its appointed time among the children of Israel?”

⁸And Moses said to them, “Stand still, that ^fI may hear what the LORD will command concerning you.”

⁹Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ¹⁰“Speak to the children of Israel, saying: ‘If anyone of you or your ⁴posterity is unclean because of a corpse, or is far away on a journey, he may still keep the LORD’s Passover.

¹¹‘On ^gthe fourteenth day of the second month, at twilight, they may keep it. They shall ^heat it with unleavened bread and bitter herbs.

¹²ⁱ‘They shall leave none of it until morning, ^jnor break one of its bones.

^kAccording to all the ⁵ordinances of the Passover they shall keep it.

¹⁴‘And if a stranger ⁶dwells among you, and would keep the LORD’s Passover, he must do so according to the rite of the Passover and according to its ceremony; ^oyou shall have one ⁷ordinance, both for the stranger and the native of the land.’ ”

The Cloud and the Fire (Ex. 13:21, 22; 40:34–38) ¹⁵Now ^pon the day that the tabernacle was raised up, the cloud ^qcovered the tabernacle, the tent of the Testimony; ^rfrom evening until morning it was above the tabernacle like the appearance of fire.

¹⁶So it was always: the cloud covered it by day, and the appearance of fire by night.

¹⁷Whenever the cloud ^swas ⁸taken up from above the tabernacle, after that the children of Israel would journey; and in the place where the cloud settled, there the children of Israel would pitch their tents.

¹⁸At the ⁹command of the LORD the children of Israel would journey, and at the command of the LORD they would camp; ^tas long as the cloud stayed above the tabernacle they remained encamped.

¹⁹Even when the cloud continued long, many days above the tabernacle, the children of Israel ^ukept the charge of the LORD and did not journey.

²⁰So it was, when the cloud was above the tabernacle a few days: according to the command of the LORD they would remain encamped, and according to the command of the LORD they would journey.

²¹So it was, when the cloud remained only from evening until morning: when the cloud was taken up in the morning, then they would journey; whether by day or by night, whenever the cloud was taken up, they would journey.

²³At the command of the LORD they remained encamped, and at the command of the LORD they journeyed; they ^wkept the charge of the LORD, at the command of the LORD by the hand of Moses.

Numbers 10

Two Silver Trumpets ¹*And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:* ²*“Make two silver trumpets for yourself; you shall make them of hammered work; you shall use them for ^acalling the congregation and for directing the movement of the camps.*

³*“When ^bthey blow both of them, all the congregation shall gather before you at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.*

⁴*“But if they blow only one, then the leaders, the ^cheads of the divisions of Israel, shall gather to you.*

⁵*“When you sound the ^dadvance, ^ethe camps that lie on the east side shall then begin their journey.*

⁶*“When you sound the advance the second time, then the camps that lie ^fon the south side shall begin their journey; they shall sound the call for them to begin their journeys.*

⁷*“And when the assembly is to be gathered together, ^gyou shall blow, but not ^hsound the advance.*

⁸ⁱ*“The sons of Aaron, the priests, shall blow the trumpets; and these shall be to you as an ¹ordinance forever throughout your generations.*

^{9j}“When you go to war in your land against the enemy who ^koppresses you, then you shall sound an alarm with the trumpets, and you will be ^lremembered before the LORD your God, and you will be saved from your enemies. Word Studies: enemies

¹⁰*“Also ^min the day of your gladness, in your appointed feasts, and at the beginning of your months, you shall blow the trumpets over your burnt offerings and over the sacrifices of your peace offerings; and they shall be ⁿa memorial for you before your God: I am the LORD your God.”*

Departure from Sinai ¹¹*Now it came to pass on the twentieth day of the second month, in the second year, that the cloud ^owas taken up from above the tabernacle of the Testimony.* Charts and Diagrams: A Chronology of the Second Year of the Exodus

¹²*And the children of Israel set out from the ^pWilderness of Sinai on ^qtheir journeys; then the cloud settled down in the ^rWilderness of Paran.*

¹³*So they started out for the first time ^saccording to the command of the LORD by the hand of Moses.*

¹⁴The ²standard of the camp of the children of Judah ^tset out first according to their armies; over their army was ^uNahshon the son of Amminadab.

¹⁵Over the army of the tribe of the children of Issachar was Nethanel the son of Zuar.

¹⁶And over the army of the tribe of the children of Zebulun was Eliab the son of Helon.

¹⁷Then ^vthe tabernacle was taken down; and the sons of Gershon and the sons of Merari set out, ^wcarrying the tabernacle.

¹⁸And ^xthe standard of the camp of Reuben set out according to their armies; over their army was Elizur the son of Shedeur.

¹⁹Over the army of the tribe of the children of Simeon was Shelumiel the son of Zurishaddai.

²⁰And over the army of the tribe of the children of Gad was Eliasaph the son of Deuel.

²¹Then the Kohathites set out, carrying the ^yholy things. (The tabernacle would be ³prepared for their arrival.) ²²And ^zthe standard of the camp of the children of Ephraim set out according to their armies; over their army was Elishama the son of Ammihud.

²³Over the army of the tribe of the children of Manasseh was Gamaliel the son of Pedahzur.

²⁴And over the army of the tribe of the children of Benjamin was Abidan the son of Gideoni.

²⁵Then ^athe standard of the camp of the children of Dan (the rear guard of all the camps) set out according to their armies; over their army was Ahiezer the son of Ammishaddai.

²⁶Over the army of the tribe of the children of Asher was Pagiel the son of Ocran.

²⁷And over the army of the tribe of the children of Naphtali was Ahira the son of Enan.

^{28b}Thus was the order of march of the children of Israel, according to their armies, when they began their journey.

²⁹Now Moses said to ^cHobab the son of ^dReuel⁴ the Midianite, Moses' father-in-law, "We are setting out for the place of which the LORD said, ^e"I will give it to you.' Come with us, and ^fwe will treat you well; for ^gthe LORD has promised good things to Israel."

³⁰And he said to him, "I will not go, but I will depart to my own land and to my relatives.”

³¹So Moses said, “Please do not leave, inasmuch as you know how we are to camp in the wilderness, and you can ⁵be our ^heyes.

³²“And it shall be, if you go with us—indeed it shall be—that ⁱwhatever good the LORD will do to us, the same we will do to you.”

³³So they departed from ^jthe mountain of the LORD on a journey of three days; and the ark of the covenant of the LORD ^kwent before them for the three days’ journey, to search out a resting place for them.

³⁴And ^lthe cloud of the LORD was above them by day when they went out from the camp.

³⁵So it was, whenever the ark set out, that Moses said:

^m“Rise up, O LORD!

Let Your enemies be scattered, And let those who hate You flee before You.”

³⁶And when it rested, he said:

“Return, O LORD, To the many thousands of Israel.”

Numbers 11

The People Complain ¹Now ^awhen the people complained, it displeased the LORD; ^bfor the LORD heard it, and His anger was aroused. So the ^cfire of the LORD burned among them, and consumed some in the outskirts of the camp. Charts and Diagrams: The Prayers of Moses in Numbers

²Then the people ^dcried out to Moses, and when Moses ^eprayed to the LORD, the fire was ¹quenched.

³So he called the name of the place ²Taberah, because the fire of the LORD had burned among them.

⁴Now the ^fmixed multitude who were among them ³yielded to ^gintense craving; so the children of Israel also wept again and said: ^h“Who will give us meat to eat?”

⁵ⁱ“We remember the fish which we ate freely in Egypt, the cucumbers, the melons, the leeks, the onions, and the garlic; ⁶“but now ^jour whole being is dried up; there is nothing at all except this manna before our eyes!”

⁷Now ^kthe manna was like coriander seed, and its color like the color of bdellium.

⁸The people went about and gathered it, ground it on millstones or beat it in the mortar, cooked it in pans, and made cakes of it; and ^lits taste was like the taste of pastry prepared with oil.

⁹And ^mwhen the dew fell on the camp in the night, the manna fell on it.

¹⁰Then Moses heard the people weeping throughout their families, everyone at the door of his tent; and ⁿthe anger of the LORD was greatly aroused; Moses also was displeased.

^{11o}So Moses said to the LORD, “Why have You afflicted Your servant? And why have I not found favor in Your sight, that You have laid the ⁴burden of all these people on me?”

¹²“Did I conceive all these people? Did I beget them, that You should say to me, ^p‘Carry them in your bosom, as a ^qguardian carries a nursing child,’ to the land which You ^rswore⁵ to their fathers?”

^{13s}“Where am I to get meat to give to all these people? For they weep all over me, saying, ‘Give us meat, that we may eat.’”

^{14t}“I am not able to bear all these people alone, because the burden is too heavy for me.

¹⁵“If You treat me like this, please kill me here and now—if I have found favor in Your sight—and ^udo not let me see my wretchedness!”

The Seventy Elders ¹⁶So the LORD said to Moses: “Gather to Me ^vseventy men of the elders of Israel, whom you know to be the elders of the people and ^wofficers over them; bring them to the tabernacle of meeting, that they may stand there with you.

¹⁷“Then I will come down and talk with you there. ^xI will take of the Spirit that is upon you and will put the same upon them; and they shall bear the burden of the people with you, that you may not bear it yourself alone.

¹⁸“Then you shall say to the people, ⁶“Consecrate yourselves for tomorrow, and you shall eat meat; for you have wept ^yin the hearing of the LORD, saying, “Who will give us meat to eat? For it was well with us in Egypt.” Therefore the LORD will give you meat, and you shall eat.

¹⁹“You shall eat, not one day, nor two days, nor five days, nor ten days, nor twenty days, ^{20z}“but for a whole month, until it comes out of your nostrils and becomes loathsome to you, because you have ^adespised the LORD who is among you, and have wept before Him, saying, ^b“Why did we ever come up out of Egypt?” ’ ”

²¹And Moses said, ^c“The people whom I am among are six hundred thousand men on foot; yet You have said, ‘I will give them meat, that they may eat for a whole month.’

^{22d}“Shall flocks and herds be slaughtered for them, to provide enough for them? Or shall all the fish of the sea be gathered together for them, to provide enough for them?”

²³And the LORD said to Moses, ^e“Has⁷ the LORD’s arm been shortened? Now you shall see whether ^fwhat I say will happen to you or not.”

²⁴So Moses went out and told the people the words of the LORD, and he ^ggathered the seventy men of the elders of the people and placed them around the tabernacle.

²⁵Then the LORD came down in the cloud, and spoke to him, and took of the Spirit that was upon him, and placed the same upon the seventy elders; and it happened, ^hwhen the Spirit rested upon them, that ⁱthey prophesied, ⁸although they never did so again.

²⁶But two men had remained in the camp: the name of one was Eldad, and the name of the other Medad. And the Spirit rested upon them. Now they were among those listed, but who ^jhad not gone out to the tabernacle; yet they prophesied in the camp.

²⁷And a young man ran and told Moses, and said, “Eldad and Medad are prophesying in the camp.”

²⁸So Joshua the son of Nun, Moses’ assistant, one of his choice men, answered and said, “Moses my lord, ^kforbid them!”

²⁹Then Moses said to him, “Are you ⁹zealous for my sake? ¹Oh, that all the LORD’s people were prophets and that the LORD would put His Spirit upon them!”

³⁰And Moses returned to the camp, both he and the elders of Israel.

The LORD Sends Quail ³¹Now a ^mwind went out from the LORD, and it brought quail from the sea and left them fluttering near the camp, about a day’s journey on this side and about a day’s journey on the other side, all around the camp, and about two cubits above the surface of the ground. Bible

Times & Culture Notes: Quail

³²And the people stayed up all that day, all night, and all the next day, and gathered the quail (he who gathered least gathered ten ⁿhomers); and they spread them out for themselves all around the camp.

³³But while the ^omeat was still between their teeth, before it was chewed, the wrath of the LORD was aroused against the people, and the LORD struck the people with a very great plague.

³⁴So he called the name of that place ¹⁰Kibroth Hattaavah, because there they buried the people who had yielded to craving.

^{35p}From Kibroth Hattaavah the people moved to Hazeroth, and camped at Hazeroth.

Numbers 12

Dissension of Aaron and Miriam ¹Then ^aMiriam and Aaron ¹spoke ^bagainst Moses because of the ²Ethiopian woman whom he had married; for ^che had married an Ethiopian woman.

²So they said, “Has the LORD indeed spoken only through ^dMoses? ^eHas He not spoken through us also?” And the LORD ^fheard it.

³(Now the man Moses was very humble, more than all men who were on the face of the earth.) ^{4g}Suddenly the LORD said to Moses, Aaron, and Miriam, “Come out, you three, to the tabernacle of meeting!” So the three came out.

^{5h}Then the LORD came down in the pillar of cloud and stood in the door of the tabernacle, and called Aaron and Miriam. And they both went forward.

⁶Then He said,

“Hear now My words: If there is a prophet among you, I, the LORD, make Myself known to him ⁱin a vision; I speak to him ^jin a dream.

⁷Not so with ^kMy servant Moses; ^lHe is faithful in all ^mMy house.

⁸I speak with him ⁿface to face, Even ^oplainly,³ and not in ⁴dark sayings; And he sees ^pthe form of the LORD.

Why then ^qwere you not afraid To speak against My servant Moses?”

⁹So the anger of the LORD was aroused against them, and He departed.

¹⁰And when the cloud departed from above the tabernacle, ^rsuddenly Miriam became ^sleprous, as white as snow. Then Aaron turned toward Miriam, and there she was, a leper.

¹¹So Aaron said to Moses, “Oh, my lord! Please ^tdo not lay ⁵*this* sin on us, in which we have done foolishly and in which we have sinned.

¹²“Please ^udo not let her be as one dead, whose flesh is half consumed when he comes out of his mother’s womb!”

¹³So Moses cried out to the LORD, saying, “Please ^vheal her, O God, I pray!”

¹⁴Then the LORD said to Moses, “If her father had but ^wspit in her face, would she not be shamed seven days? Let her be ^xshut⁶ out of the camp seven days, and afterward she may be received again.”

^{15y}So Miriam was shut out of the camp seven days, and the people did not journey till Miriam was brought in again.

¹⁶And afterward the people moved from ^zHazeroth and camped in the Wilderness of Paran.

Numbers 13

Spies Sent into Canaan (Deut. 1:19–33) ¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ^{2a}“Send men to spy out the land of Canaan, which I am giving to the children of Israel; from each tribe of their fathers you shall send a man, every one a leader among them.”

³So Moses sent them ^bfrom the Wilderness of Paran according to the command of the LORD, all of them men who were heads of the children of Israel.

¹⁶These are the names of the men whom Moses sent to ²spy out the land. And Moses called ^eHoshea³ the son of Nun, Joshua.

¹⁷Then Moses sent them to spy out the land of Canaan, and said to them, “Go up this way into the South, and go up to ^fthe mountains, ¹⁸“and see what the land is like: whether the people who dwell in it are strong or weak, few or many; ¹⁹“whether the land they dwell in is good or bad; whether the cities they inhabit are like camps or strongholds; ²⁰“whether the land is ⁴rich or poor; and whether there are forests there or not. ^gBe of good courage. And bring some of the fruit of the land.” Now the time was the season of the first ripe grapes.

²¹So they went up and spied out the land ^hfrom the Wilderness of Zin as far as ⁱRehob, near the entrance of ^jHamath.

²²And they went up through the South and came to ^kHebron; Ahiman, Sheshai, and Talmai, the descendants of ¹Anak, were there. (Now Hebron was built seven years before Zoan in Egypt.) ^{23m}Then they came to the ⁵Valley of Eshcol, and there cut down a branch with one cluster of grapes; they carried it between two of them on a pole. They also brought some of the pomegranates and figs.

²⁴The place was called the Valley of ⁶Eshcol, because of the cluster which the men of Israel cut down there.

²⁵And they returned from spying out the land after forty days.

²⁶Now they departed and came back to Moses and Aaron and all the congregation of the children of Israel in the Wilderness of Paran, at ⁿKadesh; they brought back word to them and to all the congregation, and showed them the fruit of the land.

²⁷Then they told him, and said: “We went to the land where you sent us. It truly ⁷flows with ^omilk and honey, ^pand this is its fruit.

²⁸“Nevertheless the ^qpeople who dwell in the land are strong; the cities are fortified and very large; moreover we saw the descendants of ^rAnak there.

^{29s}“The Amalekites dwell in the land of the South; the Hittites, the Jebusites, and the Amorites dwell in the mountains; and the Canaanites dwell by the sea and along the banks of the Jordan.”

³⁰Then ^tCaleb quieted the people before Moses, and said, “Let us go up at once and take possession, for we are well able to overcome it.”

^{31u}But the men who had gone up with him said, “We are not able to go up against the people, for they are stronger than we.”

³²And they ^vgave the children of Israel a bad report of the land which they had spied out, saying, “The land through which we have gone as spies is a land that devours its inhabitants, and ^wall the people whom we saw in it are men of great stature.

³³“There we saw the ⁸giants (^xthe descendants of Anak came from the giants); and we were ^ylike⁹ grasshoppers in our own sight, and so we were ^zin their sight.”

Numbers 14

Israel Refuses to Enter Canaan ¹So all the congregation lifted up their voices and cried, and the people ^awept that night.

^{2b}And all the children of Israel complained against Moses and Aaron, and the whole congregation said to them, “If only we had died in the land of Egypt! Or if only we had died in this wilderness!

³“Why has the LORD brought us to this land to ¹fall by the sword, that our wives and ^cchildren should become victims? Would it not be better for us to return to Egypt?”

⁴So they said to one another, ^d“Let us select a leader and ^ereturn to Egypt.”

⁵Then Moses and Aaron ²fell on their faces before all the assembly of the congregation of the children of Israel.

⁶But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh, who were among those who had spied out the land, tore their clothes; ⁷and they spoke to all the congregation of the children of Israel, saying: ^f“The land we passed through to spy out is an exceedingly good land.

⁸“If the LORD ^gdelights in us, then He will bring us into this land and give it to us, ^h“a land which flows with milk and honey.’

^{10m}And all the congregation said to stone them with stones. Now ⁿthe glory of the LORD appeared in the tabernacle of meeting before all the children of Israel.

Moses Intercedes for the People ¹¹Then the LORD said to Moses: “How long will these people ^oreject⁴ Me? And how long will they not ^pbelieve Me, with all the ⁵signs which I have performed among them?

¹²“I will strike them with the pestilence and disinherit them, and I will ^qmake of you a nation greater and mightier than they.”

¹³And ^rMoses said to the LORD: ^s“Then the Egyptians will hear it, for by Your might You brought these people up from among them, ¹⁴“and they will tell it to the inhabitants of this land. They have ^theard that You, LORD, are among these people; that You, LORD, are seen face to face and Your cloud stands above them, and You go before them in a pillar of cloud by day and in a pillar of fire by night.

¹⁵“Now if You kill these people as one man, then the nations which have heard of Your fame will speak, saying, ¹⁶‘Because the LORD was not ^uable to bring this people to the land which He swore to give them, therefore He killed them in the wilderness.’

¹⁷“And now, I pray, let the power of my Lord be great, just as You have spoken, saying, ^{18v}‘The LORD is longsuffering and abundant in mercy, forgiving iniquity and transgression; but He by no means clears the guilty, ^wvisiting the iniquity of the fathers on the children to the third and fourth generation.’

^{19x}“Pardon the iniquity of this people, I pray, ^yaccording to the greatness of Your mercy, just ^zas You have forgiven this people, from Egypt even until now.”

²⁰Then the LORD said: “I have pardoned, ^aaccording to your word; ²¹“but truly, as I live, ^ball the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD—^{22c}“because all these men who have seen My glory and the signs which I did in Egypt and in the wilderness, and have put Me to the test now ^dthese ten times, and have not heeded My voice, ²³“they certainly shall not ^esee the land of which I ⁶swore to their fathers, nor shall any of those who rejected Me see it.

²⁴“But My servant ^fCaleb, because he has a different spirit in him and ^ghas followed Me fully, I will bring into the land where he went, and his descendants shall inherit it.

²⁵“Now the Amalekites and the Canaanites dwell in the valley; tomorrow turn and ^hmove out into the wilderness by the Way of the Red Sea.”

Death Sentence on the Rebels ²⁶And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, ²⁷ⁱ“How long shall I bear with this evil congregation who complain against Me? ^jI have heard the complaints which the children of Israel make against Me.

²⁸“Say to them, ^k‘As I live,’ says the LORD, ‘just as you have spoken in My hearing, so I will do to you: ²⁹‘The carcasses of you who have complained against Me shall fall in this wilderness, ^lall of you who were numbered, according to your entire number, from twenty years old and above.

^{30m}‘Except for Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun, you shall by no means enter the land which I ⁷swore I would make you dwell in.

³¹ⁿ‘But your little ones, whom you said would be victims, I will bring in, and they shall ⁸know the land which ^oyou have despised.

³²‘But as for you, ^pyour⁹ carcasses shall fall in this wilderness.

³³‘And your sons shall ^qbe ¹⁰shepherds in the wilderness ^rforty years, and ^sbear the brunt of your infidelity, until your carcasses are consumed in the wilderness.

^{34t}‘According to the number of the days in which you spied out the land, ^uforty days, for each day you shall bear your ¹¹guilt one year, namely forty years, ^vand you shall know My ¹²rejection.

^{35w}‘I the LORD have spoken this. I will surely do so to all ^xthis evil congregation who are gathered together against Me. In this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.’ ”

³⁶Now the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land, who returned and made all the congregation complain against him by bringing a bad report of the land, ³⁷those very men who brought the evil report about the land, ^ydied by the plague before the LORD.

^{38z}But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh remained alive, of the men who went to spy out the land.

A Futile Invasion Attempt (Deut. 1:41–45) ³⁹Then Moses told these words to all the children of Israel, ^aand the people mourned greatly.

⁴⁰And they rose early in the morning and went up to the top of the mountain, saying, ^b“Here we are, and we will go up to the place which the LORD has promised, for we have sinned!”

⁴¹And Moses said, “Now why do you ¹³transgress the command of the LORD? For this will not succeed.

^{42c}“Do not go up, lest you be defeated by your enemies, for the LORD is not among you.

⁴³“For the Amalekites and the Canaanites are there before you, and you shall fall by the sword; ^dbecause you have turned away from the LORD, the LORD will not be with you.”

^{44e}But they presumed to go up to the mountaintop. Nevertheless, neither the ark of the covenant of the LORD nor Moses departed from the camp.

⁴⁵Then the Amalekites and the Canaanites who dwelt in that mountain came down and attacked them, and drove them back as far as ^fHormah.

Numbers 15

Laws of Grain and Drink Offerings ¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ^{2a}“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ‘When you have come into the land you are to inhabit, which I am giving to you, ³‘and you ^bmake an offering by fire to the LORD, a burnt offering or a sacrifice, ^cto fulfill a vow or as a freewill offering or ^din your appointed feasts, to make a ^esweet¹ aroma to the LORD, from the herd or the flock, ⁴‘then ^fhe who presents his offering to the LORD shall bring ^ga grain offering of one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour mixed ^hwith one-fourth of a hin of oil; ⁵ⁱ‘and one-fourth of a hin of wine as a drink offering you shall prepare with the burnt offering or the sacrifice, for each ^jlamb.

^{6k}‘Or for a ram you shall prepare as a grain offering two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with one-third of a hin of oil; ⁷‘and as a drink offering you shall offer one-third of a hin of wine as a sweet aroma to the LORD.

⁸‘And when you prepare a young bull as a burnt offering, or as a sacrifice to fulfill a vow, or as a ^lpeace offering to the LORD, ⁹‘then shall be offered ^mwith the young bull a grain offering of three-tenths of an ephah of fine flour mixed with half a hin of oil; ¹⁰‘and you shall bring as the drink offering half a hin of wine as an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

¹¹ⁿ‘Thus it shall be done for each young bull, for each ram, or for each lamb or young goat.

¹²‘According to the number that you prepare, so you shall do with everyone according to their number.

¹³‘All who are native-born shall do these things in this manner, in presenting an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD.

¹⁴‘And if a stranger ²dwells with you, or whoever is among you throughout your generations, and would present an offering made by fire, a sweet aroma to the LORD, just as you do, so shall he do.

^{15o}‘One ³ordinance shall be for you of the assembly and for the stranger who dwells with you, an ordinance forever throughout your generations; as you are, so shall the stranger be before the LORD.

¹⁶‘One law and one custom shall be for you and for the stranger who dwells with you.’ ”

¹⁷Again the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ^{18p}“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ‘When you come into the land to which I bring you, ¹⁹‘then it will be, when you eat of ^qthe bread of the land, that you shall offer up a heave offering to the LORD.

^{20r}‘You shall offer up a cake of the first of your ground meal as a heave offering; as ^sa heave offering of the threshing floor, so shall you offer it up.

²¹‘Of the first of your ground meal you shall give to the LORD a heave offering throughout your generations.

Laws Concerning Unintentional Sin ^{22t}‘If you sin unintentionally, and do not observe all these commandments which the LORD has spoken to Moses — ²³‘all that the LORD has commanded you by the hand of Moses, from the day the LORD gave commandment and onward throughout your generations— ²⁴‘then it will be, ^uif it is unintentionally committed, ⁴without the knowledge of the congregation, that the whole congregation shall offer one young bull as a burnt offering, as a sweet aroma to the LORD, ^vwith its grain offering and its drink offering, according to the ordinance, and ^wone kid of the goats as a sin offering.

^{25x}‘So the priest shall make atonement for the whole congregation of the children of Israel, and it shall be forgiven them, for it was unintentional; they shall bring their offering, an offering made by fire to the LORD, and their sin offering before the LORD, for their unintended sin.

²⁶‘It shall be forgiven the whole congregation of the children of Israel and the stranger who dwells among them, because all the people did it unintentionally.

²⁷‘And ^yif a person sins unintentionally, then he shall bring a female goat in its first year as a sin offering.

^{28z}‘So the priest shall make atonement for the person who sins unintentionally, when he sins unintentionally before the LORD, to make atonement for him; and it shall be forgiven him.

^{29a}‘You shall have one law for him who sins unintentionally, for him who is native-born among the children of Israel and for the stranger who dwells among them.

Law Concerning Presumptuous Sin ^{30b}‘But the person who does anything ⁵presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one ⁶brings reproach on the LORD, and he shall be ⁷cut off from among his people.

³¹‘Because he has ^cdespised the word of the LORD, and has broken His commandment, that person shall be completely cut off; his ⁸guilt shall be upon him.’ ”

Penalty for Violating the Sabbath (Ex. 31:12–17) ³²Now while the children of Israel were in the wilderness, ^dthey found a man gathering sticks on the Sabbath day.

³³And those who found him gathering sticks brought him to Moses and Aaron, and to all the congregation.

³⁴They put him ^eunder guard, because it had not been explained what should be done to him.

³⁵Then the LORD said to Moses, ^f“The man must surely be put to death; all the congregation shall ⁸stone him with stones outside the camp.”

³⁶So, as the LORD commanded Moses, all the congregation brought him outside the camp and stoned him with stones, and he died.

Tassels on Garments ³⁷Again the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ³⁸“Speak to the children of Israel: Tell ^hthem to make tassels on the corners of their garments throughout their generations, and to put a blue thread in the tassels of the corners.

³⁹“And you shall have the tassel, that you may look upon it and ⁱremember all the commandments of the LORD and do them, and that you ^jmay not ^kfollow the harlotry to which your own heart and your own eyes are inclined, ⁴⁰“and that you may remember and do all My commandments, and be ^lholy for your God.

⁴¹“I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to be your God: I am the LORD your God.”

Numbers 16

Rebellion Against Moses and Aaron ¹Now ^aKorah the son of Izhar, the son of Kohath, the son of Levi, with ^bDathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, and On the son of Peleth, sons of Reuben, took men;

²and they rose up before Moses with some of the children of Israel, two hundred and fifty leaders of the congregation, ^crepresentatives of the congregation, men of renown.

^{3d}They gathered together against Moses and Aaron, and said to them, “¹*You take* too much upon yourselves, for ^eall the congregation is holy, every one of them, ^fand the LORD is among them. Why then do you exalt yourselves above the assembly of the LORD?”

⁴So when Moses heard it, he ^gfell on his face; ⁵and he spoke to Korah and all his company, saying, “Tomorrow morning the LORD will show who is ^hHis and who is ⁱholy,² and will cause him to come near to Him. That one whom He chooses He will cause to ^jcome near to Him.

⁶“Do this: Take censers, Korah and all your company; ⁷“put fire in them and put incense in them before the LORD tomorrow, and it shall be that the man whom the LORD chooses is the holy one. You take too much upon yourselves, you sons of Levi!”

⁸Then Moses said to Korah, “Hear now, you sons of Levi: ⁹“Is it ^ka small thing to you that the God of Israel has ^lseparated you from the congregation of Israel, to bring you near to Himself, to do the work of the tabernacle of the LORD, and to stand before the congregation to serve them; ¹⁰“and that He has brought you near to Himself, you and all your brethren, the sons of Levi, with you? And are you seeking the priesthood also?

¹¹“Therefore you and all your company are gathered together against the LORD. ^mAnd what is Aaron that you complain against him?”

¹²And Moses sent to call Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, but they said, “We will not come up!

¹³“Is it a small thing that you have brought us up out of ⁿa land flowing with milk and honey, to kill us in the wilderness, that you should ^okeep acting like a prince over us?

¹⁴“Moreover ^pyou have not brought us into ^qa land flowing with milk and honey, nor given us inheritance of fields and vineyards. Will you put out the eyes of these men? We will not come up!”

¹⁵Then Moses was very angry, and said to the LORD, ^r“Do not ³respect their offering. ^sI have not taken one donkey from them, nor have I hurt one of them.”

¹⁶And Moses said to Korah, “Tomorrow, you and all your company be present ^tbefore the LORD—you and they, as well as Aaron.

¹⁷“Let each take his censer and put incense in it, and each of you bring his censer before the LORD, two hundred and fifty censers; both you and Aaron, each with his censer.”

¹⁸So every man took his censer, put fire in it, laid incense on it, and stood at the door of the tabernacle of meeting with Moses and Aaron.

¹⁹And Korah gathered all the congregation against them at the door of the tabernacle of meeting. Then ^uthe glory of the LORD appeared to all the congregation.

²⁰And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, ^{21v}“Separate yourselves from among this congregation, that I may ^wconsume them in a moment.”

²²Then they ^xfell⁴ on their faces, and said, “O God, ^ythe God of the spirits of all flesh, shall one man sin, and You be angry with all the ^zcongregation?”

²³So the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ²⁴“Speak to the congregation, saying, ‘Get away from the tents of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram.’ ” ²⁵Then Moses rose and went to Dathan and Abiram, and the elders of Israel followed him.

²⁶And he spoke to the congregation, saying, ^a“Depart now from the tents of these wicked men! Touch nothing of theirs, lest you be consumed in all their sins.”

²⁷So they got away from around the tents of Korah, Dathan, and Abiram; and Dathan and Abiram came out and stood at the door of their tents, with their wives, their sons, and their little ^bchildren.

²⁸And Moses said: ^c“By this you shall know that the LORD has sent me to do all these works, for I have not done them ^dof my own will.

²⁹“If these men die naturally like all men, or if they are ^evisited by the common fate of all men, then the LORD has not sent me.

³⁰“But if the LORD creates ^fa new thing, and the earth opens its mouth and swallows them up with all that belongs to them, and they ^ggo down alive into the pit, then you will understand that these men have rejected the LORD.”

^{31h}Now it came to pass, as he finished speaking all these words, that the ground split apart under them, ³²and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up, with their households and ⁱall the men with Korah, with all their goods.

³³So they and all those with them went down alive into the pit; the earth closed over them, and they perished from among the assembly.

³⁴Then all Israel who were around them fled at their cry, for they said, “Lest the earth swallow us up also!”

³⁵And ^ja fire came out from the LORD and consumed the two hundred and fifty men who were offering incense.

³⁶Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ³⁷“Tell Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, to pick up the censers out of the blaze, for ^kthey are holy, and scatter the fire some distance away.

³⁸“The censers of ^lthese men who sinned ⁵against their own souls, let them be made into hammered plates as a covering for the altar. Because they presented them before the LORD, therefore they are holy; ^mand they shall be a sign to the children of Israel.”

³⁹So Eleazar the priest took the bronze censers, which those who were burned up had presented, and they were hammered out as a covering on the altar, ⁴⁰*to be* a ⁶memorial to the children of Israel ⁿthat no outsider, who is not a descendant of Aaron, should come near to offer incense before the LORD, that he might not become like Korah and his companions, just as the LORD had said to him through Moses.

Complaints of the People ⁴¹On the next day ^oall the congregation of the children of Israel complained against Moses and Aaron, saying, “You have killed the people of the LORD.”

⁴²Now it happened, when the congregation had gathered against Moses and Aaron, that they turned toward the tabernacle of meeting; and suddenly ^pthe cloud covered it, and the glory of the LORD appeared.

⁴³Then Moses and Aaron came before the tabernacle of meeting.

⁴⁴And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ⁴⁵“Get away from among this congregation, that I may consume them in a moment.” And they fell on their faces.

⁴⁶So Moses said to Aaron, “Take a censer and put fire in it from the altar, put incense on it, and take it quickly to the congregation and make ⁷atonement for them; ^qfor wrath has gone out from the LORD. The plague has begun.”

⁴⁷Then Aaron took it as Moses commanded, and ran into the midst of the assembly; and already the plague had begun among the people. So he put in the incense and made atonement for the people.

⁴⁸And he stood between the dead and the living; so ^rthe plague was stopped.

⁴⁹Now those who died in the plague were fourteen thousand seven hundred, besides those who died in the Korah incident.

⁵⁰So Aaron returned to Moses at the door of the tabernacle of meeting, for the plague had stopped.

Numbers 17

The Budding of Aaron's Rod ¹And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:

²“Speak to the children of Israel, and get from them a rod from each father's house, all their leaders according to their fathers' houses—twelve rods. Write each man's name on his rod.

³“And you shall write Aaron's name on the rod of Levi. For there shall be one rod for the head of each father's house.

⁴“Then you shall place them in the tabernacle of meeting before ^athe Testimony, ^bwhere I meet with you.

⁵“And it shall be that the rod of the man ^cwhom I choose will blossom; thus I will rid Myself of the complaints of the children of Israel, ^dwhich they make against you.”

⁶So Moses spoke to the children of Israel, and each of their leaders gave him a rod apiece, for each leader according to their fathers' houses, twelve rods; and the rod of Aaron was among their rods.

⁷And Moses placed the rods before the LORD in ^ethe tabernacle of witness.

⁸Now it came to pass on the next day that Moses went into the tabernacle of witness, and behold, the ^frod of Aaron, of the house of Levi, had sprouted and put forth buds, had produced blossoms and yielded ripe almonds.

⁹Then Moses brought out all the rods from before the LORD to all the children of Israel; and they looked, and each man took his rod.

¹⁰And the LORD said to Moses, “Bring ^gAaron's rod back before the Testimony, to be kept ^has a sign against the rebels, ⁱthat you may put their complaints away from Me, lest they die.”

¹¹Thus did Moses; just as the LORD had commanded him, so he did.

¹²So the children of Israel spoke to Moses, saying, “Surely we die, we perish, we all perish!

^{13j}“Whoever even comes near the tabernacle of the LORD must die. Shall we all utterly die?”

Numbers 18

Duties of Priests and Levites ¹*Then the LORD said to Aaron: ^a“You and your sons and your father’s house with you shall ^bbear the ¹iniquity related to the sanctuary, and you and your sons with you shall bear the iniquity associated with your priesthood.*

²*“Also bring with you your brethren of the ^ctribe of Levi, the tribe of your father, that they may be ^djoined with you and serve you while you and your sons are with you before the tabernacle of ²witness.*

³*“They shall attend to your ³needs and ^eall the needs of the tabernacle; ^fbut they shall not come near the articles of the sanctuary and the altar, ^glest they die—they and you also.*

⁴*“They shall be joined with you and attend to the needs of the tabernacle of meeting, for all the work of the tabernacle; ^hbut an outsider shall not come near you.*

⁵*“And you shall attend to ⁱthe duties of the sanctuary and the duties of the altar, ^jthat there may be no more wrath on the children of Israel.*

⁶*“Behold, I Myself have ^ktaken your brethren the Levites from among the children of Israel; ^lthey are a gift to you, given by the LORD, to do the work of the tabernacle of meeting.*

⁷*“Therefore ^myou and your sons with you shall attend to your priesthood for everything at the altar and ⁿbehind the veil; and you shall serve. I give your priesthood to you as a ^ogift for service, but the outsider who comes near shall be put to death.”*

Offerings for Support of the Priests ⁸*And the LORD spoke to Aaron: “Here, ^pI Myself have also given you ⁴charge of My heave offerings, all the holy gifts of the children of Israel; I have given them ^qas a portion to you and your sons, as an ordinance forever.*

⁹*“This shall be yours of the most holy things reserved from the fire: every offering of theirs, every ^rgrain offering and every ^ssin offering and every ^ttrespass offering which they render to Me, shall be most holy for you and your sons.*

^{10u}“In a most holy place you shall eat it; every male shall eat it. It shall be holy to you.

^{12x}“All the ⁶best of the oil, all the best of the new wine and the grain, ^ytheir firstfruits which they offer to the LORD, I have given them to you.

¹³“Whatever first ripe fruit is in their land, ^zwhich they bring to the LORD, shall be yours. Everyone who is clean in your house may eat it.

^{14a}“Every ⁷devoted thing in Israel shall be yours.

¹⁵“Everything that first opens ^bthe womb of all flesh, which they bring to the LORD, whether man or beast, shall be yours; nevertheless ^cthe firstborn of man you shall surely redeem, and the firstborn of unclean animals you shall redeem.

¹⁶“And those redeemed of the devoted things you shall redeem when one month old, ^daccording to your valuation, for five shekels of silver, according to the shekel of the sanctuary, which is ^etwenty gerahs.

^{17f}“But the firstborn of a cow, the firstborn of a sheep, or the firstborn of a goat you shall not redeem; they are holy. ^gYou shall sprinkle their blood on the altar, and burn their fat as an offering made by fire for a sweet aroma to the LORD.

¹⁸“And their flesh shall be yours, just as the ^hwave⁸ breast and the right thigh are yours.

¹⁹“All the heave offerings of the holy things, which the children of Israel offer to the LORD, I have given to you and your sons and daughters with you as an ordinance forever; ⁱit is a covenant of salt forever before the LORD with you and your descendants with you.”

²⁰Then the LORD said to Aaron: “You shall have ^jno inheritance in their land, nor shall you have any portion among them; ^kI am your portion and your inheritance among the children of Israel.

Tithes for Support of the Levites ²¹“Behold, ^lI have given the children of Levi all the tithes in Israel as ⁹an inheritance in return for the work which they perform, ^mthe work of the tabernacle of meeting.

²²ⁿ“Hereafter the children of Israel shall not come near the tabernacle of meeting, ^olest they bear sin and die.

²³“But the Levites shall perform the work of the tabernacle of meeting, and they shall bear their iniquity; it shall be a statute forever, throughout your generations, that among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.

²⁴“For the tithes of the children of Israel, which they offer up as a heave offering to the LORD, I have given to the Levites ¹⁰as an inheritance; therefore I have said to them, ‘Among the children of Israel they shall have no inheritance.’ ”

The Tithe of the Levites ²⁵Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,
²⁶“Speak thus to the Levites, and say to them: ‘When you take from the children of Israel the tithes which I have given you from them as your inheritance, then you shall offer up a heave offering of it to the LORD, ^aa tenth of the tithe.

²⁷‘And your heave offering shall be reckoned to you as though it were the grain of the ⁹threshing floor and as the fullness of the winepress.

²⁹‘Of all your gifts you shall offer up every heave offering due to the LORD, from all the ¹¹best of them, the consecrated part of them.’

³⁰“Therefore you shall say to them: ‘When you have lifted up the best of it, then the rest shall be accounted to the Levites as the produce of the threshing floor and as the produce of the winepress.

³¹‘You may eat it in any place, you and your households, for it is ^ryour ¹²reward for your work in the tabernacle of meeting.

³²‘And you shall ^sbear no sin because of it, when you have lifted up the best of it. But you shall not ^tprofane the holy gifts of the children of Israel, lest you die.’ ”

Numbers 19

Laws of Purification ¹*Now the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying,*
²*“This is the ¹ordinance of the law which the LORD has commanded, saying: ‘Speak to the children of Israel, that they bring you a red heifer without ²blemish, in which there is no ^adefect ^band on which a yoke has never come.*

⁵*‘Then the heifer shall be burned in his sight: ^eits hide, its flesh, its blood, and its offal shall be burned.*

⁶*‘And the priest shall take ^fcedar wood and ^ghyssop and scarlet, and cast them into the midst of the fire burning the heifer.*

⁷*‘Then the priest shall wash his clothes, he shall bathe in water, and afterward he shall come into the camp; the priest shall be unclean until evening.* Word Studies: wash

⁸*‘And the one who burns it shall wash his clothes in water, bathe in water, and shall be unclean until evening.*

⁹*‘Then a man who is clean shall gather up ⁱthe ashes of the heifer, and store them outside the camp in a clean place; and they shall be kept for the congregation of the children of Israel ^jfor the water of ³purification; it is for purifying from sin.*

¹⁰*‘And the one who gathers the ashes of the heifer shall wash his clothes, and be unclean until evening. It shall be a statute forever to the children of Israel and to the stranger who dwells among them.*

¹¹*‘He who touches the dead ⁴body of anyone shall be unclean seven days.*

¹²*‘He shall purify himself with the water on the third day and on the seventh day; then he will be clean. But if he does not purify himself on the third day and on the seventh day, he will not be clean.*

¹⁴‘This is the law when a man dies in a tent: All who come into the tent and all who are in the tent shall be unclean seven days; ¹⁵‘and every ^qopen vessel, which has no cover fastened on it, is unclean.

¹⁶_r‘Whoever in the open field touches one who is slain by a sword or who has died, or a bone of a man, or a grave, shall be unclean seven days.

¹⁷‘And for an unclean person they shall take some of the ^sashes of the heifer burnt for purification from sin, and ⁵running water shall be put on them in a vessel.

¹⁸‘A clean person shall take ^thyssop and dip it in the water, sprinkle it on the tent, on all the vessels, on the persons who were there, or on the one who touched a bone, the slain, the dead, or a grave.

²⁰‘But the man who is unclean and does not purify himself, that person shall be cut off from among the assembly, because he has ^vdefiled the sanctuary of the LORD. The water of purification has not been sprinkled on him; he is unclean.

²²_w‘Whatever the unclean person touches shall be unclean; and ^xthe person who touches it shall be unclean until evening.’ ”

Numbers 20

Moses' Error at Kadesh (Ex. 17:1–7) ¹Then^a the children of Israel, the whole congregation, came into the Wilderness of Zin in the first month, and the people stayed in ^bKadesh; and ^cMiriam died there and was buried there.

^{2d}Now there was no water for the congregation; ^eso they gathered together against Moses and Aaron.

³And the people ^fcontended with Moses and spoke, saying: “If only we had died ^gwhen our brethren died before the LORD!

^{4h}“Why have you brought up the assembly of the LORD into this wilderness, that we and our animals should die here?

⁵“And why have you made us come up out of Egypt, to bring us to this evil place? It is not a place of grain or figs or vines or pomegranates; nor is there any water to drink.”

⁶So Moses and Aaron went from the presence of the assembly to the door of the tabernacle of meeting, and ⁱthey ¹fell on their faces. And ^jthe glory of the LORD appeared to them.

⁷Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ^{8k}“Take the rod; you and your brother Aaron gather the congregation together. Speak to the rock before their eyes, and it will yield its water; thus ^lyou shall bring water for them out of the rock, and give drink to the congregation and their animals.”

⁹So Moses took the rod ^mfrom before the LORD as He commanded him.

¹⁰And Moses and Aaron gathered the assembly together before the rock; and he said to them, ⁿ“Hear now, you rebels! Must we bring water for you out of this rock?”

¹¹Then Moses lifted his hand and struck the rock twice with his rod; ^oand water came out abundantly, and the congregation and their animals drank.

¹²Then the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, “Because ^pyou did not believe Me, to ^qhallow Me in the eyes of the children of Israel, therefore you shall not bring this assembly into the land which I have given them.”

^{13r}This was the water of ²Meribah, because the children of Israel contended with the LORD, and He was hallowed among them.

Passage Through Edom Refused ^{14s}Now Moses sent messengers from Kadesh to the king of ^tEdom. ^u“Thus says your brother Israel: ‘You know all the hardship that has befallen us, ^{15v}how our fathers went down to Egypt, ^wand we dwelt in Egypt a long time, ^xand the Egyptians ³afflicted us and our fathers.

^{16y}“When we cried out to the LORD, He heard our voice and ^zsent the Angel and brought us up out of Egypt; now here we are in Kadesh, a city on the edge of your border.

¹⁷“Please ^alet us pass through your country. We will not pass through fields or vineyards, nor will we drink water from wells; we will go along the King’s Highway; we will not turn aside to the right hand or to the left until we have passed through your territory.’ ” Bible Times & Culture Notes: The King’s Highway

¹⁸Then ^bEdom said to him, “You shall not pass through my land, lest I come out against you with the sword.”

¹⁹So the children of Israel said to him, “We will go by the Highway, and if I or my livestock drink any of your water, ^cthen I will pay for it; let me only pass through on foot, nothing more.”

²⁰Then he said, ^d“You shall not pass through.” So Edom came out against them with many men and with a strong hand.

²¹Thus Edom ^erefused to give Israel passage through his territory; so Israel ^fturned away from him.

Death of Aaron ²²Now the children of Israel, the whole congregation, journeyed from ^gKadesh ^hand came to Mount Hor.

²³And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron in Mount Hor by the border of the land of Edom, saying: ²⁴“Aaron shall ^{4b}be ⁱgathered to his people, for he shall not enter the land which I have given to the children of Israel, because you rebelled against My word at the water of Meribah.

^{25j}“Take Aaron and Eleazar his son, and bring them up to Mount Hor; ²⁶“and strip Aaron of his garments and put them on Eleazar his son; for Aaron shall be gathered to his people and die there.”

²⁷So Moses did just as the LORD commanded, and they went up to Mount Hor in the sight of all the congregation.

^{28k}Moses stripped Aaron of his garments and put them on Eleazar his son; and ¹Aaron died there on the top of the mountain. Then Moses and Eleazar came down from the mountain.

²⁹Now when all the congregation saw that Aaron was dead, all the house of Israel mourned for Aaron ^mthirty days.

Numbers 21

Canaanites Defeated at Hormah ¹*The ^aking of Arad, the Canaanite, who dwelt in the South, heard that Israel was coming on the road to Atharim. Then he fought against Israel and took some of them prisoners.*

^{2b}So Israel made a vow to the LORD, and said, “If You will indeed deliver this people into my hand, then ^cI will utterly destroy their cities.”

³And the LORD listened to the voice of Israel and delivered up the Canaanites, and they utterly destroyed them and their cities. So the name of that place was called ¹Hormah.

The Bronze Serpent ⁴*Then they journeyed from Mount Hor by the Way of the Red Sea, to ^dgo around the land of Edom; and the soul of the people became very ²discouraged on the way.*

⁵And the people ^espoke against God and against Moses: “Why have you brought us up out of Egypt to die in the wilderness? For there is no food and no water, and our soul ³loathes this worthless bread.”

⁶So ^fthe LORD sent ^gfiery serpents among the people, and they bit the people; and many of the people of Israel died.

^{7h}Therefore the people came to Moses, and said, “We have ⁱsinned, for we have spoken against the LORD and against you; ^jpray to the LORD that He take away the serpents from us.” So Moses prayed for the people.

⁸Then the LORD said to Moses, ^k“Make a ¹fiery serpent, and set it on a pole; and it shall be that everyone who is bitten, when he looks at it, shall live.”

⁹So ^mMoses made a bronze serpent, and put it on a pole; and so it was, if a serpent had bitten anyone, when he looked at the bronze serpent, he lived.

From Mount Hor to Moab ¹⁰*Now the children of Israel moved on and ⁿcamped in Oboth.* In-Text Map: Wilderness Wanderings

¹¹And they journeyed from Oboth and camped at ⁴Ije Abarim, in the wilderness which is east of Moab, toward the sunrise.

^{12o}From there they moved and camped in the Valley of Zered.

¹³From there they moved and camped on the other side of the Arnon, which is in the wilderness that extends from the border of the Amorites; for ^pthe Arnon is the border of Moab, between Moab and the Amorites.

¹⁴Therefore it is said in the Book of the Wars of the LORD:

⁵“Waheb in Suphah, The brooks of the Arnon, ¹⁵And the slope of the brooks That reaches to the dwelling of ^qAr, And lies on the border of Moab.”

¹⁶From there they went ^rto Beer, which is the well where the LORD said to Moses, “Gather the people together, and I will give them water.”

^{17s}Then Israel sang this song:

“Spring up, O well!

All of you sing to it— ¹⁸The well the leaders sank, Dug by the nation’s nobles, By the ^tlawgiver, with their staves.”

And from the wilderness they went to Mattanah, ^{19f}from Mattanah to Nahaliel, from Nahaliel to Bamoth, ²⁰and from Bamoth, in the valley that is in the ⁶country of Moab, to the top of Pisgah which looks ^udown on the ⁷wasteland.

King Sihon Defeated (Deut. 2:26–37) ²¹Then ^vIsrael sent messengers to Sihon king of the Amorites, saying, ^{22w}“Let me pass through your land. We will not turn aside into fields or vineyards; we will not drink water from wells. We will go by the King’s Highway until we have passed through your territory.”

^{23x}But Sihon would not allow Israel to pass through his territory. So Sihon gathered all his people together and ⁸went out against Israel in the wilderness, ^yand he came to Jahaz and fought against Israel.

²⁴Then ^zIsrael defeated him with the edge of the sword, and took possession of his land from the Arnon to the Jabbok, as far as the people of Ammon; for the border of the people of Ammon was fortified.

²⁵So Israel took all these cities, and Israel ^adwelt in all the cities of the Amorites, in Heshbon and in all its villages.

²⁶For Heshbon was the city of Sihon king of the Amorites, who had fought against the former king of Moab, and had taken all his land from his hand as far as the Arnon.

²⁷Therefore those who speak in ⁹proverbs say:

“Come to Heshbon, let it be built; Let the city of Sihon be repaired.

²⁸“For ^bfire went out from Heshbon, A flame from the city of Sihon; It consumed ^cAr of Moab, The lords of the ^dheights of the Arnon.

²⁹Woe to you, ^eMoab!

You have perished, O people of ^fChemosh!

He has given his ^gsons as fugitives, And his ^hdaughters into captivity,
To Sihon king of the Amorites.

³⁰“But we have shot at them; Heshbon has perished ⁱas far as Dibon.

Then we laid waste as far as Nophah, Which reaches to ^jMedeba.”

³¹Thus Israel dwelt in the land of the Amorites.

³²Then Moses sent to ¹⁰spy out ^kJazer; and they took its villages and drove out the Amorites who were there.

King Og Defeated (Deut. 3:1–22) ^{33l}And they turned and went up by the way to ^mBashan. So Og king of Bashan went out against them, he and all his people, to battle ⁿat Edrei.

³⁴Then the LORD said to Moses, ^o“Do not fear him, for I have ¹¹delivered him into your hand, with all his people and his land; and ^pyou shall do to him as you did to Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon.”

^{35q}So they defeated him, his sons, and all his people, until there was no survivor left him; and they took possession of his land.

Numbers 22

Balak Sends for Balaam ¹Then ^a*the children of Israel moved, and camped in the plains of Moab on the side of the Jordan across from Jericho.*

²Now ^bBalak the son of Zippor saw all that Israel had done to the Amorites.

³And ^cMoab was exceedingly afraid of the people because they were many, and Moab was sick with dread because of the children of Israel.

⁴So Moab said to ^dthe elders of Midian, “Now this company will ¹lick up everything around us, as an ox licks up the grass of the field.” And Balak the son of Zippor was king of the Moabites at that time.

⁵Then ^ehe sent messengers to Balaam the son of Beor at ^fPethor, which is near ²the River in the land of ³the sons of his people, to call him, saying: “Look, a people has come from Egypt. See, they cover the face of the earth, and are settling next to me!

^{6g}“Therefore please come at once, ^hcurse this people for me, for they are too mighty for me. Perhaps I shall be able to defeat them and drive them out of the land, for I know that he whom you bless is blessed, and he whom you curse is cursed.”

⁷So the elders of Moab and the elders of Midian departed with ⁱthe diviner’s fee in their hand, and they came to Balaam and spoke to him the words of Balak.

⁸And he said to them, ^j“Lodge here tonight, and I will bring back word to you, as the LORD speaks to me.” So the princes of Moab stayed with Balaam.

^{9k}Then God came to Balaam and said, “Who are these men with you?”

¹⁰So Balaam said to God, “Balak the son of Zippor, king of Moab, has sent to me, saying,

¹¹‘Look, a people has come out of Egypt, and they cover the face of the earth. Come now, curse them for me; perhaps I shall be able to overpower them and drive them out.’ ”

¹²And God said to Balaam, “You shall not go with them; you shall not curse the people, for ¹they are blessed.”

¹³So Balaam rose in the morning and said to the princes of Balak, “Go back to your land, for the LORD has refused to give me permission to go with you.”

¹⁴And the princes of Moab rose and went to Balak, and said, “Balaam refuses to come with us.”

¹⁵Then Balak again sent princes, more numerous and more ⁴honorable than they.

¹⁶And they came to Balaam and said to him, “Thus says Balak the son of Zippor: ‘Please let nothing hinder you from coming to me; ¹⁷‘for I will certainly ^mhonor you greatly, and I will do whatever you say to me. ⁿTherefore please come, curse this people for me.’ ”

¹⁸Then Balaam answered and said to the servants of Balak, ^o“Though Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, ^pI could not go beyond the word of the LORD my God, to do less or more.

¹⁹“Now therefore, please, you also ^qstay here tonight, that I may know what more the LORD will say to me.”

^{20r}And God came to Balaam at night and said to him, “If the men come to call you, rise and go with them; but ^sonly the word which I speak to you—that you shall do.”

²¹So Balaam rose in the morning, saddled his donkey, and went with the princes of Moab.

Balaam, the Donkey, and the Angel ²²Then God’s anger was aroused because he went, ^tand the Angel of the LORD took His stand in the way as an adversary against him. And he was riding on his donkey, and his two servants were with him.

²³Now ^uthe donkey saw the Angel of the LORD standing in the way with His drawn sword in His hand, and the donkey turned aside out of the way and went into the field. So Balaam struck the donkey to turn her back onto the road.

²⁴Then the Angel of the LORD stood in a narrow path between the vineyards, with a wall on this side and a wall on that side.

²⁵And when the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD, she pushed herself against the wall and crushed Balaam’s foot against the wall; so he struck her again.

²⁶Then the Angel of the LORD went further, and stood in a narrow place where there was no way to turn either to the right hand or to the left.

²⁷And when the donkey saw the Angel of the LORD, she lay down under Balaam; so Balaam’s anger was aroused, and he struck the donkey with his staff.

²⁸Then the LORD ^vopened the mouth of the donkey, and she said to Balaam, “What have I done to you, that you have struck me these three times?”

²⁹And Balaam said to the donkey, “Because you have ⁵abused me. I wish there were a sword in my hand, ^wfor now I would kill you!”

^{30x}So the donkey said to Balaam, “Am I not your donkey on which you have ridden, ever since I became yours, to this day? Was I ever ⁶disposed to do this to you?” And he said, “No.”

³¹Then the LORD ^yopened Balaam’s eyes, and he saw the Angel of the LORD standing in the way with His drawn sword in His hand; and he bowed his head and fell flat on his face.

³²And the Angel of the LORD said to him, “Why have you struck your donkey these three times? Behold, I have come out ⁷to stand against you, because your way is ^zperverse⁸ before Me.

³³“The donkey saw Me and turned aside from Me these three times. If she had not turned aside from Me, surely I would also have killed you by now, and let her live.”

³⁴And Balaam said to the Angel of the LORD, ^a“I have sinned, for I did not know You stood in the way against me. Now therefore, if it ⁹displeases You, I will turn back.”

³⁵Then the Angel of the LORD said to Balaam, “Go with the men, ^bbut only the word that I speak to you, that you shall speak.” So Balaam went with the princes of Balak.

³⁶Now when Balak heard that Balaam was coming, ^che went out to meet him at the city of Moab, ^dwhich is on the border at the Arnon, the boundary of the territory.

³⁷Then Balak said to Balaam, “Did I not earnestly send to you, calling for you? Why did you not come to me? Am I not able ^eto honor you?”

³⁸And Balaam said to Balak, “Look, I have come to you! Now, have I any power at all to say anything? ^fThe word that God puts in my mouth, that I must speak.”

³⁹So Balaam went with Balak, and they came to Kirjath Huzoth.

⁴⁰Then Balak offered oxen and sheep, and he sent some to Balaam and to the princes who were with him.

Balaam’s First Prophecy ⁴¹So it was, the next day, that Balak took Balaam and brought him up to the ⁹high places of Baal, that from there he might observe ¹⁰the extent of the people.

Numbers 23

¹Then Balaam said to Balak, ^a“Build seven altars for me here, and prepare for me here seven bulls and seven rams.”

²And Balak did just as Balaam had spoken, and Balak and Balaam ^boffered a bull and a ram on each altar.

³Then Balaam said to Balak, ^c“Stand by your burnt offering, and I will go; perhaps the LORD will come ^dto meet me, and whatever He shows me I will tell you.” So he went to a desolate height.

^{4e}And God met Balaam, and he said to Him, “I have prepared the seven altars, and I have offered on each altar a bull and a ram.”

⁵Then the LORD ^fput a word in Balaam’s mouth, and said, “Return to Balak, and thus you shall speak.”

⁶So he returned to him, and there he was, standing by his burnt offering, he and all the princes of Moab.

⁷And he ^gtook up his ¹oracle and said:

“Balak the king of Moab has brought me from Aram, From the mountains of the east.

^h“Come, curse Jacob for me, And come, ⁱdenounce Israel!”

⁸“How^j shall I curse whom God has not cursed?

And how shall I denounce whom the LORD has not denounced?

⁹For from the top of the rocks I see him, And from the hills I behold him; There! ^kA people dwelling alone, ^lNot reckoning itself among the nations.

¹⁰“Who^m can count the ²dust of Jacob, Or number one-fourth of Israel? Let me die ⁿthe death of the righteous, And let my end be like his!”

¹¹Then Balak said to Balaam, “What have you done to me? ^oI took you to curse my enemies, and look, you have blessed them bountifully!”

¹²So he answered and said, ^p“Must I not take heed to speak what the LORD has put in my mouth?”

Balaam’s Second Prophecy ¹³Then Balak said to him, “Please come with me to another place from which you may see them; you shall see only the outer part of them, and shall not see them all; curse them for me from there.”

¹⁴So he brought him to the field of Zophim, to the top of Pisgah, ^qand built seven altars, and offered a bull and a ram on each altar.

¹⁵And he said to Balak, “Stand here by your burnt offering while I ³meet the LORD over there.”

¹⁶Then the LORD met Balaam, and ^rput a word in his mouth, and said, “Go back to Balak, and thus you shall speak.”

¹⁷So he came to him, and there he was, standing by his burnt offering, and the princes of Moab were with him. And Balak said to him, “What has the LORD spoken?”

¹⁸Then he took up his oracle and said:

^s“Rise up, Balak, and hear!
Listen to me, son of Zippor!

¹⁹“God^t is not a man, that He should lie, Nor a son of man, that He should repent.

Has He ^usaid, and will He not do?

Or has He spoken, and will He not make it good?

²⁰Behold, I have received a command to bless; ^vHe has blessed, and I cannot reverse it.

²¹“He^w has not observed iniquity in Jacob, Nor has He seen ⁴wickedness in Israel.

The LORD his God is with him, ^xAnd the shout of a King is among them.

^{22y}God brings them out of Egypt; He has ^zstrength like a wild ox.

²³“For there is no ⁵sorcery against Jacob, Nor any ⁶divination against Israel.

It now must be said of Jacob And of Israel, ‘Oh, ^awhat God has done!’

²⁴Look, a people rises ^blike a lioness, And lifts itself up like a lion; ^cIt shall not lie down until it devours the prey, And drinks the blood of the slain.”

²⁵Then Balak said to Balaam, “Neither curse them at all, nor bless them at all!”

²⁶So Balaam answered and said to Balak, “Did I not tell you, saying, ^d‘All that the LORD speaks, that I must do’?”

Balaam’s Third Prophecy ²⁷Then Balak said to Balaam, “Please come, I will take you to another place; perhaps it will please God that you may curse them for me from there.”

²⁸So Balak took Balaam to the top of Peor, that ^eoverlooks the ⁷wasteland.

²⁹Then Balaam said to Balak, “Build for me here seven altars, and prepare for me here seven bulls and seven rams.”

³⁰And Balak did as Balaam had said, and offered a bull and a ram on every altar.

Numbers 24

¹Now when Balaam saw that it pleased the LORD to bless Israel, he did not go as at ^aother times, to seek to use ¹sorcery, but he set his face toward the wilderness.

²And Balaam raised his eyes, and saw Israel ^bencamped according to their tribes; and ^cthe Spirit of God came upon him.

^{3d}Then he took up his oracle and said:

“The utterance of Balaam the son of Beor, The utterance of the man whose eyes are opened, ⁴The utterance of him who hears the words of God, Who sees the vision of the Almighty, Who ^efalls down, with eyes wide open: ⁵“How lovely are your tents, O Jacob!

Your dwellings, O Israel!

⁶Like valleys that stretch out, Like gardens by the riverside, ^fLike aloes ^gplanted by the LORD, Like cedars beside the waters.

⁷He shall pour water from his buckets, And his seed shall be ^hin many waters.

“His king shall be higher than ⁱAgag, And his ^jkingdom shall be exalted.

⁸“God^k brings him out of Egypt; He has strength like a wild ox; He shall ^lconsume the nations, his enemies; He shall ^mbreak their bones And ⁿpierce them with his arrows.

⁹‘He^o bows down, he lies down as a lion; And as a lion, who shall rouse him?’

^p“Blessed is he who blesses you, And cursed is he who curses you.”

¹⁰Then Balak’s anger was aroused against Balaam, and he ^qstruck his hands together; and Balak said to Balaam, ^r“I called you to curse my enemies, and look, you have bountifully blessed them these three times!

¹¹“Now therefore, flee to your place. ^sI said I would greatly honor you, but in fact, the LORD has kept you back from honor.”

¹²So Balaam said to Balak, “Did I not also speak to your messengers whom you sent to me, saying, ¹³‘If Balak were to give me his house full of silver and gold, I could not go beyond the word of the LORD, to do good or bad of my own will. What the LORD says, that I must speak’?

¹⁴“And now, indeed, I am going to my people. Come, ^tI will advise you what this people will do to your people in the ^ulatter days.”

Balaam’s Fourth Prophecy ¹⁵*So he took up his oracle and said:*

“The utterance of Balaam the son of Beor, And the utterance of the man whose eyes are opened; ¹⁶The utterance of him who hears the words of God, And has the knowledge of the Most High, Who sees the vision of the Almighty, Who falls down, with eyes wide open: ¹⁷“^vI see Him, but not now; I behold Him, but not near; ^wA Star shall come out of Jacob; ^xA Scepter shall rise out of Israel, And ²batter the brow of Moab, And destroy all the sons of ³tumult. Word Studies: Scepter

¹⁸“And ^yEdom shall be a possession; Seir also, his enemies, shall be a possession, While Israel does ⁴valiantly.

^{19z}Out of Jacob One ⁵shall have dominion, And destroy the remains of the city.”

²⁰Then he looked on Amalek, and he took up his oracle and said:

“Amalek was first among the nations, But shall be last until he perishes.”

²¹Then he looked on the Kenites, and he took up his oracle and said:

“Firm is your dwelling place, And your nest is set in the rock;

²²Nevertheless Kain shall be burned.

How long until Asshur carries you away captive?”

²³Then he took up his oracle and said:

“Alas! Who shall live when God does this?

²⁴But ships shall come from the coasts of ^aCyprus,⁶

And they shall afflict Asshur and afflict ^bEber, And so shall ⁷Amalek, until he perishes.”

²⁵So Balaam rose and departed and ^creturned to his place; Balak also went his way.

Numbers 25

Israel's Harlotry in Moab ¹Now Israel remained in ^aAcacia Grove,¹ and the ^bpeople began to commit harlotry with the women of Moab.

^{2c}They invited the people to ^dthe sacrifices of their gods, and the people ate and ^ebowed down to their gods.

³So Israel was joined to Baal of Peor, and ^fthe anger of the LORD was aroused against Israel.

⁴Then the LORD said to Moses, ^g“Take all the leaders of the people and hang the offenders before the LORD, out in the sun, ^hthat the fierce anger of the LORD may turn away from Israel.”

⁵So Moses said to ⁱthe judges of Israel, ^j“Every one of you kill his men who were joined to Baal of Peor.”

⁶And indeed, one of the children of Israel came and presented to his brethren a Midianite woman in the sight of Moses and in the sight of all the congregation of the children of Israel, ^kwho were weeping at the door of the tabernacle of meeting.

⁷Now ^lwhen Phinehas ^mthe son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, saw it, he rose from among the congregation and took a javelin in his hand; ⁸and he went after the man of Israel into the tent and thrust both of them through, the man of Israel, and the woman through her body. So ⁿthe plague was ^ostopped among the children of Israel.

⁹And ^pthose who died in the plague were twenty-four thousand.

¹⁰Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ^{11q}“Phinehas the son of Eleazar, the son of Aaron the priest, has turned back My wrath from the children of Israel, because he was zealous with My zeal among them, so that I did not consume the children of Israel in ^rMy zeal.

¹⁴Now the name of the Israelite who was killed, who was killed with the Midianite woman, was Zimri the son of Salu, a leader of a father's house among the Simeonites.

¹⁵And the name of the Midianite woman who was killed was Cozbi the daughter of ^yZur; he was head of the people of a father's house in Midian.

¹⁶Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ^{17z}“Harass the Midianites, and ³attack them; ¹⁸“for they harassed you with their ^aschemes⁴ by which they seduced you in the matter of Peor and in the matter of Cozbi, the daughter of a leader of Midian, their sister, who was killed in the day of the plague because of Peor.”

Numbers 26

The Second Census of Israel ¹*And it came to pass, after the ^aplague, that the LORD spoke to Moses and Eleazar the son of Aaron the priest, saying:*
^{2b}“Take a census of all the congregation of the children of Israel ^cfrom twenty years old and above, by their fathers’ houses, all who are able to go to war in Israel.”

³So Moses and Eleazar the priest spoke with them ^din the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho, saying: ⁴*“Take a census of the people from twenty years old and above, just as the LORD ^ecommanded Moses and the children of Israel who came out of the land of Egypt.”*

^{5f}Reuben was the firstborn of Israel. The children of Reuben were: of Hanoch, the family of the Hanochites; of Pallu, the family of the Palluites; ⁶of Hezron, the family of the Hezronites; of Carmi, the family of the Carmites.

⁷*These are* the families of the Reubenites: those who were numbered of them were forty-three thousand seven hundred and thirty.

⁸And the son of Pallu was Eliab.

⁹The sons of Eliab were Nemuel, Dathan, and Abiram. These are the Dathan and Abiram, ^grepresentatives of the congregation, who contended against Moses and Aaron in the company of Korah, when they contended against the LORD; ^{10h}and the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up together with Korah when that company died, when the fire devoured two hundred and fifty men; ⁱand they became a sign.

¹¹Nevertheless ^jthe children of Korah did not die.

¹²The sons of Simeon according to their families were: of ¹Nemuel, the family of the Nemuelites; of Jamin, the family of the Jaminites; of ²Jachin, the family of the Jachinites; ¹³of ³Zerah, the family of the Zarhites; of Shaul, the family of the Shaulites.

¹⁴*These are* the families of the Simeonites: twenty-two thousand two hundred.

¹⁵The sons of Gad according to their families were: of ⁴Zephon, the family of the Zephonites; of Haggi, the family of the Haggites; of Shuni, the family of the Shunites; ¹⁶of ⁵Ozni, the family of the Oznites; of Eri, the family of the Erites; ¹⁷of ⁶Arod, the family of the Arodites; of Areli, the family of the Arelites.

¹⁸These are the families of the sons of Gad according to those who were numbered of them: forty thousand five hundred.

¹⁹^kThe sons of Judah were Er and Onan; and Er and Onan died in the land of Canaan.

²⁰And ^lthe sons of Judah according to their families were: of Shelah, the family of the Shelanites; of Perez, the family of the Parzites; of Zerah, the family of the Zarhites.

²¹And the sons of Perez were: of Hezron, the family of the Hezronites; of Hamul, the family of the Hamulites.

²²These are the families of Judah according to those who were numbered of them: seventy-six thousand five hundred.

²³The sons of Issachar according to their families were: of Tola, the family of the Tolaite; of ⁷Puah, the family of the ⁸Punites; ²⁴of ⁹Jashub, the family of the Jashubites; of Shimron, the family of the Shimronites.

²⁵These are the families of Issachar according to those who were numbered of them: sixty-four thousand three hundred.

²⁶^mThe sons of Zebulun according to their families were: of Sered, the family of the Sardites; of Elon, the family of the Elonites; of Jahleel, the family of the Jahleelites.

²⁷These are the families of the Zebulunites according to those who were numbered of them: sixty thousand five hundred.

²⁸ⁿThe sons of Joseph according to their families, by Manasseh and Ephraim, were:

²⁹The sons of ^oManasseh: of ^pMachir, the family of the Machirites; and Machir begot Gilead; of Gilead, the family of the Gileadites.

³⁰These are the sons of Gilead: of ¹⁰Jeezer, the family of the Jeezerites; of Helek, the family of the Helekites; ³¹of Asriel, the family of the Asrielites; of Shechem, the family of the Shechemites; ³²of Shemida, the family of the Shemidaite; of Hephher, the family of the Hephherites.

³³Now ^qZelophehad the son of Hephher had no sons, but daughters; and the names of the daughters of Zelophehad were Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.

³⁴These are the families of Manasseh; and those who were numbered of them were fifty-two thousand seven hundred.

³⁵These are the sons of Ephraim according to their families: of Shuthelah, the family of the Shuthalhites; of ¹¹Becher, the family of the Bachrites; of Tahan, the family of the Tahanites.

³⁶And these are the sons of Shuthelah: of Eran, the family of the Eranites.

³⁷These are the families of the sons of Ephraim according to those who were numbered of them: thirty-two thousand five hundred. These are the sons of Joseph according to their families.

³⁸The sons of Benjamin according to their families were: of Bela, the family of the Belaites; of Ashbel, the family of the Ashbelites; of ^sAhram, the family of the Ahiramites; ³⁹of ^tShupham, ¹² the family of the Shuphamites; of ¹³Hupham, the family of the Huphamites.

⁴⁰And the sons of Bela were ¹⁴Ard and Naaman: ^uof Ard, the family of the Ardites; of Naaman, the family of the Naamites.

⁴¹These are the sons of Benjamin according to their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand six hundred.

⁴²These are the sons of Dan according to their families: of ¹⁵Shuham, the family of the Shuhamites. These are the families of Dan according to their families.

⁴³All the families of the Shuhamites, according to those who were numbered of them, were sixty-four thousand four hundred.

⁴⁴^vThe sons of Asher according to their families were: of Jimna, the family of the Jimnites; of Jesui, the family of the Jesuites; of Beriah, the family of the Beriites.

⁴⁵Of the sons of Beriah: of Heber, the family of the Heberites; of Malchiel, the family of the Malchielites.

⁴⁶And the name of the daughter of Asher was Serah.

⁴⁷These are the families of the sons of Asher according to those who were numbered of them: fifty-three thousand four hundred.

⁵⁰These are the families of Naphtali according to their families; and those who were numbered of them were forty-five thousand four hundred.

⁵¹^yThese are those who were numbered of the children of Israel: six hundred and one thousand seven hundred and thirty.

⁵²Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ⁵³^z“To these the land shall be ^adivided as an inheritance, according to the number of names.

^{54b}“To a large tribe you shall give a larger inheritance, and to a small tribe you shall give a smaller inheritance. Each shall be given its inheritance according to those who were numbered of them.

⁵⁵“But the land shall be ^cdivided by lot; they shall inherit according to the names of the tribes of their fathers.

⁵⁶“According to the lot their inheritance shall be divided between the larger and the smaller.”

^{57a}And these are those who were numbered of the Levites according to their families: of Gershon, the family of the Gershonites; of Kohath, the family of the Kohathites; of Merari, the family of the Merarites.

⁵⁸These are the families of the Levites: the family of the Libnites, the family of the Hebronites, the family of the Mahlites, the family of the Mushites, and the family of the Korathites. And Kohath begot Amram.

⁵⁹The name of Amram’s wife was ^eJochebed the daughter of Levi, who was born to Levi in Egypt; and to Amram she bore Aaron and Moses and their sister Miriam.

^{60f}To Aaron were born Nadab and Abihu, Eleazar and Ithamar.

⁶¹And ^gNadab and Abihu died when they offered profane fire before the LORD.

^{62h}Now those who were numbered of them were twenty-three thousand, every male from a month old and above; ⁱfor they were not numbered among the other children of Israel, because there was ^jno inheritance given to them among the children of Israel.

⁶³These are those who were numbered by Moses and Eleazar the priest, who numbered the children of Israel ^kin the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho.

^{64l}But among these there was not a man of those who were numbered by Moses and Aaron the priest when they numbered the children of Israel in the ^mWilderness of Sinai.

⁶⁵For the LORD had said of them, “They ⁿshall surely die in the wilderness.” So there was not left a man of them, ^oexcept Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun.

Numbers 27

Inheritance Laws ¹*Then came the daughters of ^aZelophehad the son of Hepher, the son of Gilead, the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, from the families of Manasseh the son of Joseph; and these were the names of his daughters: Mahlah, Noah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Tirzah.*

²And they stood before Moses, before Eleazar the priest, and before the leaders and all the congregation, by the doorway of the tabernacle of meeting, saying: ³“Our father ^bdied in the wilderness; but he was not in the company of those who gathered together against the LORD, ^cin company with Korah, but he died in his own sin; and he had no sons.

⁴“Why should the name of our father be ^dremoved¹ from among his family because he had no son? ^eGive us a ²possession among our father’s brothers.”

⁵So Moses ^fbrought their case before the LORD.

⁶And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ⁷“The daughters of Zelophehad speak what is right; ⁸you shall surely give them a possession of inheritance among their father’s brothers, and cause the inheritance of their father to pass to them.

⁸“And you shall speak to the children of Israel, saying: ‘If a man dies and has no son, then you shall cause his inheritance to pass to his daughter.

⁹‘If he has no daughter, then you shall give his inheritance to his brothers.

¹⁰‘If he has no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to his father’s brothers.

¹¹‘And if his father has no brothers, then you shall give his inheritance to the relative closest to him in his family, and he shall possess it.’ ” And it shall be to the children of Israel ^ha statute of judgment, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

Joshua the Next Leader of Israel (Deut. 31:1–8) ¹²*Now the LORD said to Moses: ⁱ“Go up into this Mount Abarim, and see the land which I have given to the children of Israel.*

¹³“And when you have seen it, you also ^jshall ³be gathered to your people, as Aaron your brother was gathered.

¹⁴“For in the Wilderness of Zin, during the strife of the congregation, you ^krebelled against My command to hallow Me at the waters before their eyes.”

(These are the ^lwaters of Meribah, at Kadesh in the Wilderness of Zin.)

¹⁵Then Moses spoke to the LORD, saying: Article: Learning to Pray like Moses

¹⁶“Let the LORD, ^mthe God of the spirits of all flesh, set a man over the congregation, ¹⁷ⁿ“who may go out before them and go in before them, who may lead them out and bring them in, that the congregation of the LORD may not be ^olike sheep which have no shepherd.”

¹⁸And the LORD said to Moses: “Take Joshua the son of Nun with you, a man ^pin whom is the Spirit, and ^qlay your hand on him; ¹⁹“set him before Eleazar the priest and before all the congregation, and ^rinaugurate⁴ him in their sight.

²⁰“And ^syou shall give some of your authority to him, that all the congregation of the children of Israel ^tmay be obedient.

^{21u}“He shall stand before Eleazar the priest, who shall inquire before the LORD for him ^vby the judgment of the Urim. ^wAt his word they shall go out, and at his word they shall come in, he and all the children of Israel with him—all the congregation.”

²²So Moses did as the LORD commanded him. He took Joshua and set him before Eleazar the priest and before all the congregation.

²³And he laid his hands on him ^xand ⁵inaugurated him, just as the LORD commanded by the hand of Moses.

Numbers 28

Daily Offerings (Ex. 29:38–46) ¹*Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,*
²*“Command the children of Israel, and say to them, ‘My offering, ^aMy food for My offerings made by fire as a sweet aroma to Me, you shall be careful to offer to Me at their appointed time.’*

⁶*It is ^ea regular burnt offering which was ordained at Mount Sinai for a sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD.*

⁷*And its drink offering shall be one-fourth of a hin for each lamb; ^fin a holy place you shall pour out the drink to the LORD as an offering.*

⁸*The other lamb you shall offer in the evening; as the morning grain offering and its drink offering, you shall offer it as an offering made by fire, a ¹sweet aroma to the LORD.*

Sabbath Offerings ⁹*And on the Sabbath day two lambs in their first year, without blemish, and two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, with its drink offering—* Word Studies: Sabbath

¹⁰*this is ^gthe burnt offering for every Sabbath, besides the regular burnt offering with its drink offering.*

Monthly Offerings ^{11h}At the beginnings of your months you shall present a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year, without blemish; ¹²ⁱthree-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, for each bull; two-tenths of an ephah of fine flour as a grain offering, mixed with oil, for the one ram; ¹³and one-tenth of an ephah of fine flour, mixed with oil, as a grain offering for each lamb, as a burnt offering of sweet aroma, an offering made by fire to the LORD.

¹⁴‘Their drink offering shall be half a hin of wine for a bull, one-third of a hin for a ram, and one-fourth of a hin for a lamb; this is the burnt offering for each month throughout the months of the year.

¹⁵‘Also ^jone kid of the goats as a sin offering to the LORD shall be offered, besides the regular burnt offering and its drink offering.

Offerings at Passover (Lev. 23:5–14) ^{16k}‘On the fourteenth day of the first month is the Passover of the LORD.

^{17l}‘And on the fifteenth day of this month is the feast; unleavened bread shall be eaten for seven days.

¹⁸‘On the ^mfirst day you shall have a holy ²convocation. You shall do no ³customary work.

¹⁹‘And you shall present an offering made by fire as a burnt offering to the LORD: two young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year. ⁿBe sure they are without blemish.

²⁰‘Their grain offering shall be of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah you shall offer for a bull, and two-tenths for a ram; ²¹‘you shall offer one-tenth of an ephah for each of the seven lambs; ²²‘also ^oone goat as a sin offering, to make ⁴atonement for you.

²³‘You shall offer these besides the burnt offering of the morning, which is for a regular burnt offering.

²⁵‘And ^pon the seventh day you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work.

Offerings at the Feast of Weeks (Lev. 23:15–22) ²⁶‘Also ^qon the day of the firstfruits, when you bring a new grain offering to the LORD at your Feast of Weeks, you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work.

²⁷‘You shall present a burnt offering as a sweet aroma to the LORD: ^rtwo young bulls, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year, ²⁸‘with their grain offering of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah for each bull, two-tenths for the one ram, ²⁹‘and one-tenth for each of the seven lambs; ³⁰‘also one kid of the goats, to make ⁵atonement for you.

³¹s⁶Be sure they are without ⁶blemish. You shall present them with their drink offerings, besides the regular burnt offering with its grain offering.

Numbers 29

Offerings at the Feast of Trumpets (Lev. 23:23–25) ¹‘And in the seventh month, on the first day of the month, you shall have a holy convocation.

You shall do no customary work. For you ^ait is a day of blowing the trumpets.

²‘You shall offer a burnt offering as a sweet aroma to the LORD: one young bull, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year, without blemish.

Offerings on the Day of Atonement (Lev. 23:26–32) ^{7e}‘On the tenth day of this seventh month you shall have a holy convocation. You shall ^fafflict your souls; you shall not do any work.

⁸‘You shall present a burnt offering to the LORD as a sweet aroma: one young bull, one ram, and seven lambs in their first year. ⁸Be sure they are without blemish.

Offerings at the Feast of Tabernacles (Lev. 23:33–44) ¹²ⁱ‘On the fifteenth day of the seventh month you shall have a holy convocation. You shall do no customary work, and you shall keep a feast to the LORD seven days.

^{13j}‘You shall present a burnt offering, an offering made by fire as a sweet aroma to the LORD: thirteen young bulls, two rams, and fourteen lambs in their first year. They shall be without blemish.

¹⁴‘Their grain offering shall be of fine flour mixed with oil: three-tenths of an ephah for each of the thirteen bulls, two-tenths for each of the two rams, ¹⁵‘and one-tenth for each of the fourteen lambs; ¹⁶‘also one kid of the goats as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering, its grain offering, and its drink offering.

²⁰‘On the third day present eleven bulls, two rams, fourteen lambs in their first year without blemish, ²¹‘and their grain offering and their drink offerings for the bulls, for the rams, and for the lambs, by their number, ^m‘according to the ordinance; ²²‘also one goat as a sin offering, besides the regular burnt offering, its grain offering, and its drink offering.

³⁵‘On the eighth day you shall have a ⁿsacred¹ assembly. You shall do no customary work.

³⁹‘These you shall present to the LORD at your ^oappointed feasts (besides your ^pvowed offerings and your freewill offerings) as your burnt offerings and your grain offerings, as your drink offerings and your peace offerings.’ ”

⁴⁰So Moses told the children of Israel everything, just as the LORD commanded Moses.

Numbers 30

The Law Concerning Vows ¹*Then Moses spoke to ^athe heads of the tribes concerning the children of Israel, saying, “This is the thing which the LORD has commanded: ^{2b}“If a man makes a vow to the LORD, or ^cswears an oath to bind himself by some agreement, he shall not break his word; he shall ^ddo according to all that proceeds out of his mouth.*

³*“Or if a woman makes a vow to the LORD, and binds herself by some agreement while in her father’s house in her youth, ⁴“and her father hears her vow and the agreement by which she has bound herself, and her father ¹holds his peace, then all her vows shall stand, and every agreement with which she has bound herself shall stand.*

⁶*“If indeed she takes a husband, while bound by her vows or by a rash utterance from her lips by which she bound herself, ⁷“and her husband hears it, and makes no response to her on the day that he hears, then her vows shall stand, and her agreements by which she bound herself shall stand.*

⁹*“Also any vow of a widow or a divorced woman, by which she has bound herself, shall stand against her.*

¹³*“Every vow and every binding oath to afflict her soul, her husband may confirm it, or her husband may make it void.*

¹⁴*“Now if her husband makes no response whatever to her from day to* day, then he confirms all her vows or all the agreements that bind her; he confirms them, because he made no response to her on the day that he heard them.

¹⁵“But if he does make them void after he has heard them, then he shall bear her guilt.”

¹⁶These are the statutes which the LORD commanded Moses, between a man and his wife, and between a father and his daughter in her youth in her father’s house.

Numbers 31

Vengeance on the Midianites ¹*And the LORD spoke to Moses, saying:*

^{2a}“Take vengeance on the Midianites for the children of Israel. Afterward you shall ^bbe gathered to your people.” Word Studies: vengeance

³So Moses spoke to the people, saying, “Arm some of yourselves for war, and let them go against the Midianites to take vengeance for the LORD on ^cMidian.

⁴“A thousand from each tribe of all the tribes of Israel you shall send to the war.”

⁵So there were recruited from the divisions of Israel one thousand from each tribe, twelve thousand armed for war.

⁶Then Moses sent them to the war, one thousand from each tribe; he sent them to the war with Phinehas the son of Eleazar the priest, with the holy articles and ^dthe signal trumpets in his hand.

⁷And they warred against the Midianites, just as the LORD commanded Moses, and ^ethey killed all the ^fmales.

⁸They killed the kings of Midian with the rest of those who were killed —^gEvi, Rekem, ^hZur, Hur, and Reba, the five kings of Midian. ⁱBalaam the son of Beor they also killed with the sword.

⁹And the children of Israel took the women of Midian captive, with their little ones, and took as spoil all their cattle, all their flocks, and all their goods.

¹⁰They also burned with fire all the cities where they dwelt, and all their forts.

¹¹And ^jthey took all the spoil and all the booty—of man and beast.

Return from the War ¹²*Then they brought the captives, the booty, and the spoil to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the congregation of the children of Israel, to the camp in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho.*

¹³And Moses, Eleazar the priest, and all the leaders of the congregation, went to meet them outside the camp.

¹⁴But Moses was angry with the officers of the army, with the captains over thousands and captains over hundreds, who had come from the battle.

¹⁵And Moses said to them: “Have you kept ^kall the women alive? In-Text Map: Cities of Refuge

¹⁶“Look, ^lthese women caused the children of Israel, through the ^mcounsel of Balaam, to trespass against the LORD in the incident of Peor, and ⁿthere was a plague among the congregation of the LORD.

¹⁷“Now therefore, ^okill every male among the little ones, and kill every woman who has known a man intimately.

¹⁸“But keep alive ^pfor yourselves all the young girls who have not known a man intimately.

¹⁹“And as for you, ^qremain outside the camp seven days; whoever has killed any person, and ^rwhoever has touched any slain, purify yourselves and your captives on the third day and on the seventh day.

²⁰“Purify every garment, everything made of leather, everything woven of goats’ hair, and everything made of wood.”

²¹Then Eleazar the priest said to the men of war who had gone to the battle, “This is the ¹ordinance of the law which the LORD commanded Moses: ²²“Only the gold, the silver, the bronze, the iron, the tin, and the lead, ²³“everything that can endure fire, you shall put through the fire, and it shall be clean; and it shall be purified ^swith the water of purification. But all that cannot endure fire you shall put through water.

²⁴“And you shall wash your clothes on the seventh day and be clean, and afterward you may come into the camp.”

Division of the Plunder ²⁵Now the LORD spoke to Moses, saying: ²⁶“Count up the plunder that was ²taken—of man and beast—you and Eleazar the priest and the chief fathers of the congregation; ²⁷“and ^udivide the plunder into two parts, between those who took part in the war, who went out to battle, and all the congregation.

²⁸“And levy a ³tribute for the LORD on the men of war who went out to battle: ^vone of every five hundred of the persons, the cattle, the donkeys, and the sheep; ²⁹“take it from their half, and ^wgive it to Eleazar the priest as a heave offering to the LORD.

³⁰“And from the children of Israel’s half you shall take ^xone of every fifty, drawn from the persons, the cattle, the donkeys, and the sheep, from all the livestock, and give them to the Levites ^ywho ⁴keep charge of the tabernacle of the LORD.”

³¹So Moses and Eleazar the priest did as the LORD commanded Moses.

³²The booty remaining from the plunder, which the men of war had taken, was six hundred and seventy-five thousand sheep, ³³seventy-two thousand cattle, ³⁴sixty-one thousand donkeys, ³⁵and thirty-two thousand persons in all, of women who had not known a man intimately.

³⁶And the half, the portion for those who had gone out to war, was in number three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep; ³⁷and the LORD's ⁵tribute of the sheep was six hundred and seventy-five.

³⁸The cattle were thirty-six thousand, of which the LORD's tribute was seventy-two.

³⁹The donkeys were thirty thousand five hundred, of which the LORD's tribute was sixty-one.

⁴⁰The persons were sixteen thousand, of which the LORD's tribute was thirty-two persons.

⁴¹So Moses gave the tribute which was the LORD's heave offering to Eleazar the priest, ^zas the LORD commanded Moses.

⁴²And from the children of Israel's half, which Moses separated from the men who fought— ⁴³now the half belonging to the congregation was three hundred and thirty-seven thousand five hundred sheep, ⁴⁴thirty-six thousand cattle, ⁴⁵thirty thousand five hundred donkeys, ⁴⁶and sixteen thousand persons— ⁴⁷and ^afrom the children of Israel's half Moses took one of every fifty, drawn from man and beast, and gave them to the Levites, who kept charge of the tabernacle of the LORD, as the LORD commanded Moses.

⁴⁸Then the officers who were over thousands of the army, the captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, came near to Moses; ⁴⁹and they said to Moses, "Your servants have taken a count of the men of war who are under our command, and not a man of us is missing.

⁵⁰"Therefore we have brought an offering for the LORD, what every man found of ornaments of gold: armlets and bracelets and signet rings and earrings and necklaces, ^bto make ⁶atonement for ourselves before the LORD."

Bible Times & Culture Notes: Gold

⁵¹So Moses and Eleazar the priest received the gold from them, all the fashioned ornaments.

⁵²And all the gold of the offering that they offered to the LORD, from the captains of thousands and captains of hundreds, was sixteen thousand seven hundred and fifty shekels.

Numbers 32

The Tribes Settling East of the Jordan (Deut. 3:12–22) ¹Now the children of Reuben and the children of Gad had a very great multitude of livestock; and when they saw the land of ^aJazer and the land of ^bGilead, that indeed the region was a place for livestock, ²the children of Gad and the children of Reuben came and spoke to Moses, to Eleazar the priest, and to the leaders of the congregation, saying, ³“Ataroth, Dibon, Jazer, ^cNimrah, ^dHeshbon, Elealeh, ^eShebam, Nebo, and ^fBeon, ⁴“the country ^gwhich the LORD defeated before the congregation of Israel, is a land for livestock, and your servants have livestock.”

⁵Therefore they said, “If we have found favor in your sight, let this land be given to your servants as a possession. Do not take us over the Jordan.”

⁶And Moses said to the children of Gad and to the children of Reuben: “Shall your brethren go to war while you sit here?

⁷“Now why will you ^hdiscourage the heart of the children of Israel from going over into the land which the LORD has given them?

⁸“Thus your fathers did ⁱwhen I sent them away from Kadesh Barnea ^jto see the land.

⁹“For ^kwhen they went up to the Valley of Eshcol and saw the land, they discouraged the heart of the children of Israel, so that they did not go into the land which the LORD had given them.

¹⁰“So the LORD’s anger was aroused on that day, and He swore an oath, saying, ¹¹‘Surely none of the men who came up from Egypt, ^mfrom twenty years old and above, shall see the land of which I swore to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, because ⁿthey have not wholly followed Me, ¹²‘except Caleb the son of Jephunneh, the Kenizzite, and Joshua the son of Nun, ^ofor they have wholly followed the LORD.’

¹³“So the LORD’s anger was aroused against Israel, and He made them ^pwander in the wilderness forty years, until ^qall the generation that had done evil in the sight of the LORD was gone.

¹⁴“And look! You have risen in your fathers’ place, a brood of sinful men, to increase still more the ^rfierce anger of the LORD against Israel.

¹⁵“For if you ^sturn away from following Him, He will once again leave them in the wilderness, and you will destroy all these people.”

¹⁶Then they came near to him and said: “We will build sheepfolds here for our livestock, and cities for our little ones, ¹⁷“but ^twe ourselves will be armed, ready to go before the children of Israel until we have brought them to their place; and our little ones will dwell in the fortified cities because of the inhabitants of the land.

^{18u}“We will not return to our homes until every one of the children of Israel has ¹received his inheritance.

¹⁹“For we will not inherit with them on the other side of the Jordan and beyond, ^vbecause our inheritance has fallen to us on this eastern side of the Jordan.”

²⁰Then ^wMoses said to them: “If you do this thing, if you arm yourselves before the LORD for the war, ²¹“and all your armed men cross over the Jordan before the LORD until He has driven out His enemies from before Him, ²²“and ^xthe land is subdued before the LORD, then afterward ^yyou may return and be blameless before the LORD and before Israel; and ^zthis land shall be your possession before the LORD.

²³“But if you do not do so, then take note, you have sinned against the LORD; and be sure ^ayour sin will find you out.

^{24b}“Build cities for your little ones and folds for your sheep, and do ²what has proceeded out of your mouth.”

²⁵And the children of Gad and the children of Reuben spoke to Moses, saying: “Your servants will do as my lord commands.

^{26c}“Our little ones, our wives, our flocks, and all our livestock will be there in the cities of Gilead; ^{27d}“but your servants will cross over, every man armed for war, before the LORD to battle, just as my lord says.”

²⁸So Moses gave command ^econcerning them to Eleazar the priest, to Joshua the son of Nun, and to the chief fathers of the tribes of the children of Israel.

²⁹And Moses said to them: “If the children of Gad and the children of Reuben cross over the Jordan with you, every man armed for battle before the LORD, and the land is subdued before you, then you shall give them the land of Gilead as a possession.

³⁰“But if they do not cross over armed with you, they shall have possessions among you in the land of Canaan.”

³¹Then the children of Gad and the children of Reuben answered, saying: “As the LORD has said to your servants, so we will do.

³²“We will cross over armed before the LORD into the land of Canaan, but the possession of our inheritance shall remain with us on this side of the Jordan.”

³³So ^fMoses gave to the children of Gad, to the children of Reuben, and to half the tribe of Manasseh the son of Joseph, ^gthe kingdom of Sihon king of the Amorites and the kingdom of Og king of Bashan, the land with its cities within the borders, the cities of the surrounding country.

³⁴And the children of Gad built ^hDibon and Ataroth and ⁱAroer, ³⁵Atroth and Shophan and ^jJazer and Jogbehah, ^{36k}Beth Nimrah and Beth Haran, ^lfortified cities, and folds for sheep.

³⁷And the children of Reuben built ^mHeshbon and Elealeh and Kirjathaim, ³⁸ⁿNebo and ^oBaal Meon ^p(their names being changed) and Shibmah; and they gave other names to the cities which they built.

³⁹And the children of ^qMachir the son of Manasseh went to Gilead and took it, and ³dispossessed the Amorites who were in it.

⁴⁰So Moses ^rgave Gilead to Machir the son of Manasseh, and he dwelt in it.

⁴¹Also ^sJair the son of Manasseh went and took its small towns, and called them ^tHavoth Jair.⁴

⁴²Then Nobah went and took Kenath and its villages, and he called it Nobah, after his own name.

Numbers 33

Israel's Journey from Egypt Reviewed ¹*These are the journeys of the children of Israel, who went out of the land of Egypt by their armies under the ^ahand of Moses and Aaron.*

²Now Moses wrote down the starting points of their journeys at the command of the LORD. And these are their journeys according to their starting points: ³They ^bdeparted from Rameses in ^cthe first month, on the fifteenth day of the first month; on the day after the Passover the children of Israel went out ^dwith boldness in the sight of all the Egyptians.

⁴For the Egyptians were burying all their firstborn, ^ewhom the LORD had killed among them. Also ^fon their gods the LORD had executed judgments.

⁵^gThen the children of Israel moved from Rameses and camped at Succoth.

⁶They departed from ^hSuccoth and camped at Etham, which is on the edge of the wilderness.

⁷ⁱThey moved from Etham and turned back to Pi Hahiroth, which is east of Baal Zephon; and they camped near Migdol.

⁸They departed ¹from before Hahiroth and ^jpassed through the midst of the sea into the wilderness, went three days' journey in the Wilderness of Etham, and camped at Marah.

⁹They moved from Marah and ^kcame to Elim. At Elim were twelve springs of water and seventy palm trees; so they camped there.

¹⁰They moved from Elim and camped by the Red Sea.

¹¹They moved from the Red Sea and camped in the ^lWilderness of Sin.

¹²They journeyed from the Wilderness of Sin and camped at Dophkah.

¹³They departed from Dophkah and camped at Alush.

¹⁴They moved from Alush and camped at ^mRephidim, where there was no water for the people to drink.

¹⁵They departed from Rephidim and camped in the ⁿWilderness of Sinai.

¹⁶They moved from the Wilderness of Sinai and camped ^oat ²Kibroth Hattaavah.

¹⁷They departed from Kibroth Hattaavah and ^pcamped at Hazeroth.

¹⁸They departed from Hazeroth and camped at ^qRithmah.

¹⁹They departed from Rithmah and camped at Rimmon Perez.

²⁰They departed from Rimmon Perez and camped at Libnah.
²¹They moved from Libnah and camped at Rissah.
²²They journeyed from Rissah and camped at Kehelathah.
²³They went from Kehelathah and camped at Mount Shepher.
²⁴They moved from Mount Shepher and camped at Haradah.
²⁵They moved from Haradah and camped at Makheloth.
²⁶They moved from Makheloth and camped at Tahath.
²⁷They departed from Tahath and camped at Terah.
²⁸They moved from Terah and camped at Mithkah.
²⁹They went from Mithkah and camped at Hashmonah.
³⁰They departed from Hashmonah and ^rcamped at Moseroth.
³¹They departed from Moseroth and camped at Bene Jaakan.
³²They moved from ^sBene Jaakan and ^tcamped at Hor Hagidgad.
³³They went from Hor Hagidgad and camped at Jotbathah.
³⁴They moved from Jotbathah and camped at Abronah.
³⁵They departed from Abronah ^uand camped at Ezion Geber.
³⁶They moved from Ezion Geber and camped in the ^vWilderness of Zin, which is Kadesh.
³⁷They moved from ^wKadesh and camped at Mount Hor, on the boundary of the land of Edom.
³⁸Then ^xAaron the priest went up to Mount Hor at the command of the LORD, and died there in the fortieth year after the children of Israel had come out of the land of Egypt, on the first day of the fifth month.
³⁹Aaron was one hundred and twenty-three years old when he died on Mount Hor.
⁴⁰Now ^ythe king of Arad, the Canaanite, who dwelt in the South in the land of Canaan, heard of the coming of the children of Israel.
⁴¹So they departed from Mount Hor and camped at Zalmonah.
⁴²They departed from Zalmonah and camped at Punon.
⁴³They departed from Punon and ^zcamped at Oboth.
^{44a}They departed from Oboth and camped at Ije Abarim, at the border of Moab.
⁴⁵They departed from ³Ijim and camped ^bat Dibon Gad.
⁴⁶They moved from Dibon Gad and camped at ^cAlmon Diblathaim.
⁴⁷They moved from Almon Diblathaim ^dand camped in the mountains of Abarim, before Nebo.

⁴⁸They departed from the mountains of Abarim and ^ecamped in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho.

⁴⁹They camped by the Jordan, from Beth Jesimoth as far as the ^fAbel Acacia Grove⁴ in the plains of Moab.

Instructions for the Conquest of Canaan ⁵⁰Now the LORD spoke to Moses in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho, saying, ⁵¹“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ⁹‘When you have crossed the Jordan into the land of Canaan, ^{52h}‘then you shall drive out all the inhabitants of the land from before you, destroy all their engraved stones, destroy all their molded images, and demolish all their ⁵high places; ⁵³‘you shall dispossess the inhabitants of the land and dwell in it, for I have given you the land to ⁱpossess.*”

⁵⁴‘And ^jyou shall divide the land by lot as an inheritance among your families; to the larger you shall give a larger inheritance, and to the smaller you shall give a smaller inheritance; there everyone’s inheritance shall be whatever falls to him by lot. You shall inherit according to the tribes of your fathers.

⁵⁵‘But if you do not drive out the inhabitants of the land from before you, then it shall be that those whom you let remain shall be ^kirritants in your eyes and thorns in your sides, and they shall harass you in the land where you dwell.

⁵⁶‘Moreover it shall be that I will do to you as I thought to do to them.’ ”

Numbers 34

The Appointed Boundaries of Canaan ¹*Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ²“Command the children of Israel, and say to them: ‘When you come into ^athe land of Canaan, this is the land that shall fall to you as an inheritance—the land of Canaan to its boundaries.*

^{3b}‘Your southern border shall be from the Wilderness of Zin along the border of Edom; then your southern border shall extend eastward to the end of ^cthe Salt Sea; ⁴‘your border shall turn from the southern side of ^dthe Ascent of Akrabbim, continue to Zin, and be on the south of ^eKadesh Barnea; then it shall go on to ^fHazar Addar, and continue to Azmon; ⁵‘the border shall turn from Azmon ^gto the Brook of Egypt, and it shall end at the Sea.

⁶‘As for the ^hwestern border, you shall have the Great Sea for a border; this shall be your western border.

¹³Then Moses commanded the children of Israel, saying: ^p“This is the land which you shall inherit by lot, which the LORD has commanded to give to the nine tribes and to the half-tribe.

^{14q}“For the tribe of the children of Reuben according to the house of their fathers, and the tribe of the children of Gad according to the house of their fathers, have received their inheritance; and the half-tribe of Manasseh has received its inheritance.

¹⁵“The two tribes and the half-tribe have received their inheritance on this side of the Jordan, across from Jericho eastward, toward the sunrise.”

The Leaders Appointed to Divide the Land ¹⁶*And the LORD spoke to* Moses, saying, ¹⁷“These are the names of the men who shall divide the land among you as an inheritance: ^rEleazar the priest and Joshua the son of Nun.

¹⁸“And you shall take one ^sleader of every tribe to divide the land for the inheritance.

¹⁹“These are the names of the men: from the tribe of Judah, Caleb the son of Jephunneh; ²⁰“from the tribe of the children of Simeon, Shemuel the son of Ammihud; ²¹“from the tribe of Benjamin, Elidad the son of Chislon; ²²“a leader from the tribe of the children of Dan, Bukki the son of Jogli; ²³“from the sons of Joseph: a leader from the tribe of the children of Manasseh, Hanniel the son of Ephod, ²⁴“and a leader from the tribe of the children of Ephraim, Kemuel the son of Shiphtan; ²⁵“a leader from the tribe of the children of Zebulun, Elizaphan the son of Parnach; ²⁶“a leader from the tribe of the children of Issachar, Paltiel the son of Azzan; ²⁷“a leader from the tribe of the children of Asher, Ahihud the son of Shelomi; ²⁸“and a leader from the tribe of the children of Naphtali, Pedahel the son of Ammihud.”

²⁹These are the ones the LORD commanded to ²divide the inheritance among the children of Israel in the land of Canaan.

Numbers 35

Cities for the Levites ¹*And the LORD spoke to Moses in ^athe plains of Moab by the Jordan across from Jericho, saying: ^{2b}“Command the children of Israel that they give the Levites cities to dwell in from the inheritance of their possession, and you shall also give the Levites ^ccommon-land around the cities.*

³“They shall have the cities to dwell in; and their common-land shall be for their cattle, for their herds, and for all their animals.

⁴“The common-land of the cities which you will give the Levites shall extend from the wall of the city outward a thousand cubits all around.

⁶“Now among the cities which you will give to the Levites you shall appoint ^dsix cities of refuge, to which a manslayer may flee. And to these you shall add forty-two cities.

⁷“So all the cities you will give to the Levites shall be ^eforty-eight; these you shall give with their common-land.

Cities of Refuge (Deut. 19:1–13; Josh. 20:1–9) ⁹*Then the LORD spoke to Moses, saying,* Bible Times & Culture Notes: Cities of Refuge

¹⁰“Speak to the children of Israel, and say to them: ^h“When you cross the Jordan into the land of Canaan, ¹¹“then ⁱyou shall appoint cities to be cities of refuge for you, that the manslayer who kills any person accidentally may flee there.

^{12j}“They shall be cities of refuge for you from the avenger, that the manslayer may not die until he stands before the congregation in judgment.

¹³“And of the cities which you give, you shall have ^ksix cities of refuge.

¹⁴‘You shall appoint three cities on this side of the Jordan, and three cities you shall appoint in the land of Canaan, which will be cities of refuge.

¹⁵‘These six cities shall be for refuge for the children of Israel, ^mfor the stranger, and for the sojourner among them, that anyone who kills a person accidentally may flee there.

¹⁶ⁿ‘But if he strikes him with an iron implement, so that he dies, he is a murderer; the murderer shall surely be put to death.

¹⁷‘And if he strikes him with a stone in the hand, by which one could die, and he does die, he is a murderer; the murderer shall surely be put to death.

¹⁹^o‘The¹ avenger of blood himself shall put the murderer to death; when he meets him, he shall put him to death.

²⁰^p‘If he pushes him out of hatred or, ^qwhile lying in wait, hurls something at him so that he dies, ²¹‘or in enmity he strikes him with his hand so that he dies, the one who struck him shall surely be put to death. He is a murderer. The avenger of blood shall put the murderer to death when he meets him.

²²‘However, if he pushes him suddenly ^rwithout enmity, or throws anything at him without lying in wait, ²³‘or uses a stone, by which a man could die, throwing it at him without seeing him, so that he dies, while he was not his enemy or seeking his harm, ²⁴‘then ^sthe congregation shall judge between the manslayer and the avenger of blood according to these judgments.

²⁵‘So the congregation shall deliver the manslayer from the hand of the avenger of blood, and the congregation shall return him to the city of refuge where he had fled, and ^the shall remain there until the death of the high priest ^uwho was anointed with the holy oil.

²⁶‘But if the manslayer at any time goes outside the limits of the city of refuge where he fled, ²⁷‘and the avenger of blood finds him outside the limits of his city of refuge, and the avenger of blood kills the manslayer, he shall not be guilty of ²blood, ²⁸‘because he should have remained in his city of refuge until the death of the high priest. But after the death of the high priest the manslayer may return to the land of his possession.

²⁹‘And these things shall be ^va statute of judgment to you throughout your generations in all your dwellings.

³⁰‘Whoever kills a person, the murderer shall be put to death on the ^wtestimony of witnesses; but one witness is not sufficient testimony against a person for the death penalty.

³¹‘Moreover you shall take no ransom for the life of a murderer who is guilty of death, but he shall surely be put to death.

³²‘And you shall take no ransom for him who has fled to his city of refuge, that he may return to dwell in the land before the death of the priest.

³⁴‘Therefore ^zdo not defile the land which you inhabit, in the midst of which I dwell; for ^aI the LORD dwell among the children of Israel.’ ”

Numbers 36

Marriage of Female Heirs ¹Now the chief fathers of the families of the ^achildren of Gilead the son of Machir, the son of Manasseh, of the families of the sons of Joseph, came near and ^bspoke before Moses and before the leaders, the chief fathers of the children of Israel.

²And they said: ^c“The LORD commanded my lord Moses to give the land as an inheritance by lot to the children of Israel, and ^dmy lord was commanded by the LORD to give the inheritance of our brother Zelophehad to his daughters.

³“Now if they are married to any of the sons of the other tribes of the children of Israel, then their inheritance will be ^etaken from the inheritance of our fathers, and it will be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which they marry; so it will be taken from the lot of our inheritance.

⁴“And when ^fthe Jubilee of the children of Israel comes, then their inheritance will be added to the inheritance of the tribe into which they marry; so their inheritance will be taken away from the inheritance of the tribe of our fathers.”

⁵Then Moses commanded the children of Israel according to the word of the LORD, saying: ^g“What the tribe of the sons of Joseph speaks is right.

⁶“This is what the LORD commands concerning the daughters of Zelophehad, saying, ‘Let them ¹marry whom they think best, ^hbut they may marry only within the family of their father’s tribe.’

⁷“So the inheritance of the children of Israel shall not change hands from tribe to tribe, for every one of the children of Israel shall ⁱkeep the inheritance of the tribe of his fathers.

⁸“And ^jevery daughter who possesses an inheritance in any tribe of the children of Israel shall be the wife of one of the family of her father’s tribe, so that the children of Israel each may possess the inheritance of his fathers.

⁹“Thus no inheritance shall change hands from one tribe to another, but every tribe of the children of Israel shall keep its own inheritance.”

¹⁰Just as the LORD commanded Moses, so did the daughters of Zelophehad; ^{11k}for Mahlah, Tirzah, Hoglah, Milcah, and Noah, the daughters of Zelophehad, were married to the sons of their father’s brothers.

¹²They were married into the families of the children of Manasseh the son of Joseph, and their inheritance remained in the tribe of their father's family.

¹³These are the commandments and the judgments which the LORD commanded the children of Israel by the hand of Moses ¹in the plains of Moab by the Jordan, across from Jericho.

Annotations for Numbers

1:1 The phrase now the LORD spoke to Moses sets the tone for the book. God's act of revelation to His servant Moses is mentioned over 150 times in Numbers. Wilderness of Sinai: The geographical setting of Numbers is the wilderness and serves as a powerful spiritual metaphor: Not only did the Israelites live in the wilderness, but they as a nation were in a spiritual wasteland. God had already delivered them from slavery, but He hadn't yet brought them to the Promised Land. They had to endure physical hardships and other experiences that tested their faith (see 21:4–9). The place of revelation was the tabernacle of meeting, also called "the tabernacle of the Testimony" (vv. 50, 53). The time reference, on the first day of the second month, in the second year, is dated from the pivotal event in Israel's history, the deliverance of the people from slavery in Egypt. The Exodus constituted the birth of the nation of Israel. The second month corresponds roughly to April, a time that would be known later in Canaan as the month of the general harvest between Firstfruits and Pentecost. The census of Numbers is, in a sense, "God's harvest" of His people. The events of Numbers cover a period of 38 years, most likely in the second half of the fifteenth century B.C.

1:2, 3 The stated purpose of this census was to be a military roster. It was not a census for social, political, or taxation purposes. Instead, the census would help Israel to prepare its armies for the war of conquest against the peoples of Canaan. Therefore, those who were numbered were able-bodied males over the age of twenty. Just as He promised Abraham long ago (see Gen. 15:16–21), God was preparing the Israelites to occupy Canaan. Furthermore, the census demonstrated to the Israelites God's faithfulness in fulfilling another promise to Abraham, the multiplication of his descendants (see Gen. 12:2; 15:5; 17:4–6; 22:17). See ch. 26 for the second census.

1:4 A man from every tribe would aid Moses and Aaron in the immense task of numbering the nation. The participation of one person from each tribe would ensure that the numbering was done fairly and that each tribe was represented accurately.

1:16 leaders: The leaders were "lifted up" or "selected" for their positions of leadership.

1:19 As the LORD commanded: The tone in chs. 1–10 is one of compliance on the part of Moses and the people to the revealed will of God. When God commanded, Moses and his agents responded.

Sinai

Shaped like a triangle, the peninsula of Sinai is an area of great contrasts. It appears to hang from the southeast corner of the Mediterranean Sea with its base serving as the land bridge between Egypt and Israel. The peninsula is bounded on the west by the Gulf of Suez and on the east by the Gulf of Aqaba.

The Sinai peninsula is about 150 miles wide at the northern end and about 250 miles long. Its land area is desert and a tableland rising to about 2,500 feet. On the north the Sinai plateau slopes away to the Mediterranean Sea. Near the south end of the peninsula, a series of granite mountains rise 4,000–9,000 feet high, in striking contrast to the surrounding wastelands.

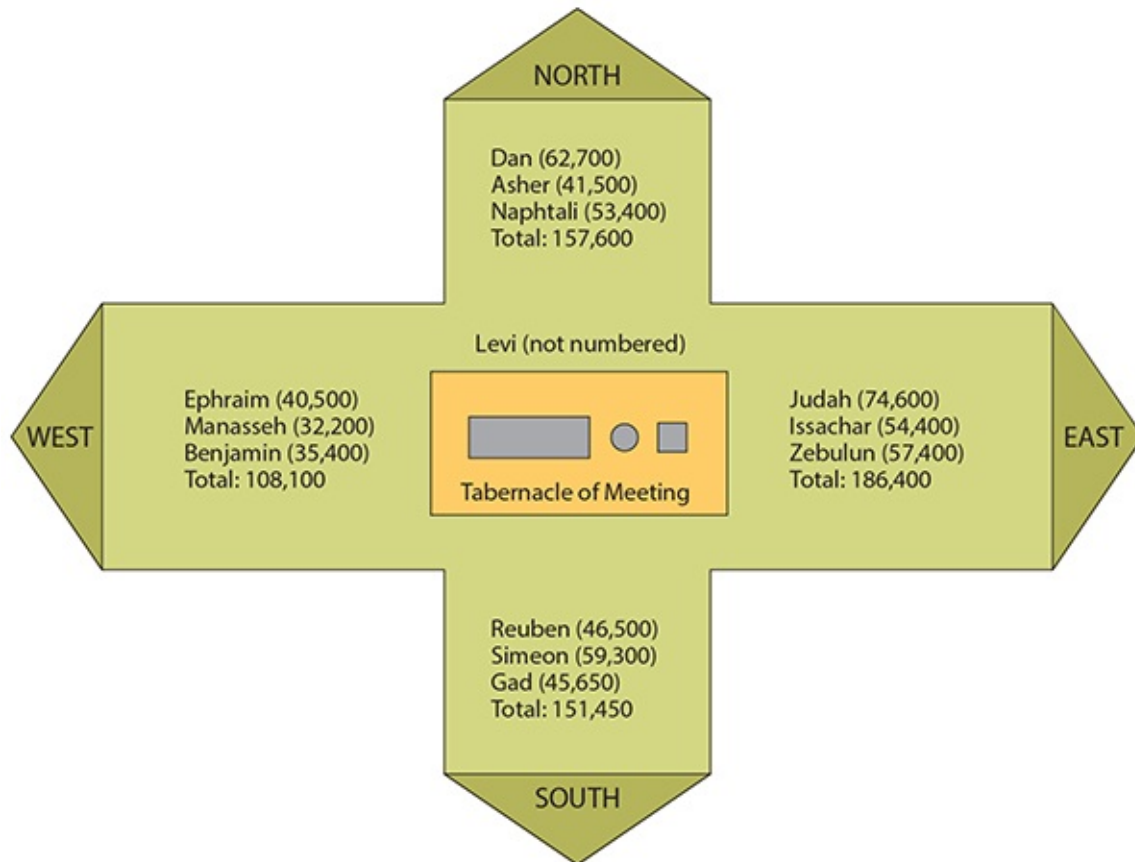

The Sinai Peninsula from space

- 1:20, 21 Now the children of Reuben: Each of the 12 mini-paragraphs in vv. 20–43 follows the same pattern, giving the name of the tribe, the particulars of the family houses, the stipulation that the ones numbered were able-bodied males over the age of 20, the name of the tribe again, and then the number in that tribe. The only variation is in vv. 32–35, where it is explained that Ephraim and Manasseh are sons of Joseph (as in v. 10). This notice reminds the reader that Joseph received a double share among the tribes of Israel. His two sons had equal shares with their uncles in Israel’s posterity. See vv. 47–50 regarding the tribe of Levi. The details may appear repetitive and tedious to us, but they would stir the passions of the respective tribal units: “This is our family! Here are our numbers among the thousands of Israel.”
- 1:44–46 These are the ones who were numbered: The total number of able-bodied men (who were at least 20 years old) was 603,550. The likely number of women, children, and older or infirm men not counted in this census would indicate a total population between two and five million.
- 1:47, 48 The Levites were not to be included among the “lay” tribes. The tribe of Levi was sacred. It belonged to the Lord alone. (Chapter 3 records the families, numbers, and duties of the Levites.) In order to maintain the twelve separate tribes even though the Levites were not counted as a tribe, the tribe of Joseph was given two portions—one to each of Joseph’s sons, Ephraim and Manasseh (1:10, 32–35). In this way, the tribe of Joseph received a double share (see Gen. 49:22–26).
- 1:50 The tabernacle of the Testimony is called “the tabernacle of meeting” in v. 1 and “the tabernacle” in v. 51. The term tabernacle by itself points to the temporary and portable nature of the tent; it was a movable shrine, specially designed for the worship of God by a people on the march. Testimony suggests the covenantal significance of the tent. Within that tent were the symbols of the presence of God among His people, His signs of a continuing relationship with the Israelites.
- 1:51–53 The outsider refers not to a person of foreign birth, but to a non-Levite (see Ex. 12:43). The punishment of death is reiterated in 3:10, 38; 18:7 and was imposed in 16:31–33 (see also 1 Sam. 6:19). God’s presence was both a blessing and a curse in the camp—a blessing for those who had a proper sense of awe and respect and a curse for those who did not.
- 1:54 So they did sets the tone of obedience for the first part of the Book of Numbers. The later rebellion (ch. 11) surprises the reader after phrases such as this.
- 2:1, 2 The chapter begins, as do most of the chapters in Numbers, with the notice of revelation from God to Moses. by his own standard: This chapter is one of consummate design and order; it speaks of the joy of knowing one’s place in relation to the living and holy God. God Himself placed each tribe in a specific place around His tabernacle. A person’s identity was not only derived from his or her tribe, but also from his or her place in relation to the tabernacle. This is an OT portrait of God’s dwelling among His people. The beauty and order of this chapter points ultimately to the beauty of being in the presence of the risen King. some distance: None dared draw too close to the tabernacle, so that God’s holiness might be maintained (see Is. 6:1–5). In contrast, a person may come very close to Jesus. This is not because Jesus as God is any less holy, but because He has come so very near to us in order to save us.

Placement of Tribes in the Israelite Encampment

Go to the List of Charts and Diagrams

2:3–9 The three tribes on the east side had pride of place. The ancient people of Israel were not seafaring; in effect they turned their backs to the sea, so the word for back could mean “west” or “the sea.” The west was the place of the setting sun. On the other hand, the east faced the rising sun, a picture of promise and power (see Ps. 19:4–6). In the line of march, Judah, with its allied tribes Issachar and Zebulun, set out first. The names of the worthies of each tribe and the numbers of the men of war are the same as in ch. 1.

2:10–16 Positioned on the south side were the tribe of Reuben and its allied tribes Simeon and Gad. The subtotal of the men of war in these three tribes was 151,450. They set out second, after the tribes allied with Judah.

2:17 Levites in the middle: Only the consecrated people were allowed to move with the tabernacle of meeting. In the line of march, the tabernacle was in the central position—a symbol of not only Israel’s protection of the holy objects, but also of the presence of God among His people.

2:18–24 Positioned on the west side were the tribe of Ephraim and its allied tribes Manasseh and Benjamin. The subtotal of the men of war in these three tribes was 108,100. In the line of march, they were the third group to move out from their encampments.

2:25–31 The tribe of Dan and its allied tribes Asher and Naphtali were positioned on the north side. The subtotal of the men of war in these three tribes was 157,600. In the line of march, they were the last group to move out of the camp.

2:32–34 These verses summarize this stately chapter. The four sets of triads yielded the same total as the sum of the 12 individual units: 603,550 (see 1:46). There is a studied consistency in the use of these numbers. Chapter 2 presents an almost idealized picture of the tribes of Israel as they are prepared for their triumphal march toward the land of promise. The greater sorrow of their subsequent rebellion is a warning to us all.

3:1 the records of Aaron: The focus of ch. 3 is on the priests and the families of the tribes of Levi.

3:2–4 the sons of Aaron: When we read Nadab, the firstborn, it must be with a sense of parental grief. Aaron's expected heir would prove to be such a disappointment. With his brother Abihu, Nadab offered profane fire before God, an offense that cost them their lives (Lev. 10:1, 2). Two of Aaron's other sons were still living. Eleazar and Ithamar continued to minister as priests before God. However, the supervision of their father was even more necessary, given the errors of their older, deceased brothers. The words of 2:2, "some distance," became more poignant in the context of the punishment of Nadab and Abihu. If priests who were given permission to draw near the holiest places were subject to violent judgment because of an improper approach, what would be the fate of the intrusive layperson?

3:5–10 Twice the narrator distinguished the tribe of Levi from the "lay" tribes (1:47–50; 2:33). Here the Levites were given their sphere of work in the care of the tabernacle. The Levites, however, were not the priests; only Aaron and his sons could be priests. The Levites, who assisted in the care of the holy things, drew near to the Divine Presence. Yet the priests, who ministered in the tabernacle, drew even nearer. But only the high priest, on whose ministry the hope of the community was based, entered the Most Holy Place where the Divine Presence resided. Only the high priest, separated from the community for this holy purpose, could approach a holy God in order to intercede for the people before Him.

3:11–13 I Myself points to God's direct involvement in redemption. When God redeemed and saved His people, it was by His own person (see Ex. 12:29; 13:3, 17, 21; 14:19, 30, 31). Similarly, when God selected the Levites to be a special tribe in the ministry of His presence, it was His personal work, not something He delegated to a created being. Likewise, God would later select Jesus to be a perfect High Priest for all those who would believe in Him (see Ps. 110:4; Heb. 6:20–8:6). The firstborn are Mine: When God passed over the homes of the Hebrew families who had obeyed His commands in the Passover (see Ex. 12:29–51), He declared the surviving firstborn Hebrew children—and also the firstborn of animals—to be His own (Ex. 13:1, 2). Now the firstborn children needed to be redeemed. An exchange was made. God took the entire tribe of Levi as His special possession, instead of the firstborn child of each family (3:40–51). I am the LORD emphasizes the authority of the speaker and the importance of His words.

3:14–20 the children of Levi: The three families of the Levites were Gershon, Kohath, and Merari. The Levites were distinguished from the other, non-priestly tribes in several ways: (1) They were numbered separately from those numbered for war; (2) they were appointed as ministers in the worship of God, rather than as soldiers in His army; (3) they were given certain restrictions for the conduct of their life; (4) they represented the gift of the firstborn of each family to the Lord (3:40–51); and (5) they would live in cities amidst the various tribes instead of living together in a single region (35:1–8).

3:21–37 In the listing of the tribes' placement around the central sanctuary, there is a movement from the most favored tribe, Judah, to the lesser tribes (2:3–31). In the listing of the placement of the Levitical families, there is a different movement, from west to east. The Levitical families that were assigned the most important tasks were the families of Kohath in the south. The families of Gershon and Merari were assigned subsidiary tasks. The priests in the east were in leadership positions. The order was: Gershon to the west; Kohath to the south; Merari to the north; Moses, Aaron, and Aaron's sons to the east.

3:22–26 The family of Gershon cared for and handled the elements of the tabernacle. Males over the age of one month in this family numbered 7,500. screen: There were three curtains, coverings, or screens for the tabernacle: one at the gate of the court (4:26), a second at the entrance of the tent (v. 31; 4:25), and a third separating the Most Holy Place within the tent (4:5).

3:27–32 The work of the family of Kohath concerned the sacred implements and furnishings within the tabernacle. Aaron's son Eleazar supervised their work as the chief over the leaders, likely because the holy furnishings could only be carried in certain prescribed ways. The Amramites were the family of Moses, Aaron, and Miriam (see Ex. 6:20). Males over the age of one month in Kohath's family numbered 8,600.

3:33–37 The work of the family of Merari concerned the structural elements of the tabernacle along with its utensils. In this family, males over the age of one month numbered 6,200.

3:38, 39 The placement of Moses, Aaron, and Aaron's sons on the east indicated a most-favored status. Their responsibility was to guard against improper approach to God's holy tabernacle. The total of the families of the Levites is given as 22,000.

3:40–42 Number all the firstborn: The firstborn of the families of the Exodus belonged to the Lord because He saved them. The firstborn of the Israelites' animals were to be offered as a sacrifice to the Lord. But the firstborn sons of the Israelites were not to be killed (as were the firstborn sons of the Egyptians, see Ex. 13). The Israelites' firstborn sons were redeemed by the dedication of the Levites to the Lord's service. Now, in the wilderness in the second year of their deliverance, the actual exchange of the Levites for the firstborn was made. The phrase instead of strongly emphasizes the substitution of the Levites for the firstborn. This ancient substitution reminds us of the substitution of Jesus for sinners. We all deserved death because of our sins; but He died on the Cross in our place.

3:43–48 The number of the firstborn, 22,273, seems small for a population of two million. Some argue that this figure suggests that the strength of the Israelites was a quarter of a million people. Others suggest that the number reflects the number of Israelite firstborn at the time of the first Passover. The payment of five shekels was as much a lesson to the Israelites on the importance of the individual as it was an act of substitution for those involved. Each individual's redemption had to be covered. The payment of the shekels to Aaron and his sons was appropriate. Just as the Levites were given to the Lord in order to assist Aaron in his duties at the holy tabernacle, the redemption money was also given to Aaron to further this same holy work.

3:49–51 The weight of the collected money (1,365 shekels) indicates the impressive nature of the transaction. The number is 5 times 273, since there was one Levite for each firstborn and five shekels for each firstborn beyond the number of Levites. In this way, each of the firstborn was accounted for in God's plan of redemption.

4:1, 2 The Book of Numbers moves in an orderly, planned manner, following the pattern of Hebrew thought which moves from the general to the specific, from the whole to the parts. The numbering of the tribes in ch. 1 is followed by the order of the camps in ch. 2. The general explanation of the duties of the priests and the Levitical families, and the issue of the redemption of the firstborn are the subjects of ch. 3. Now ch. 4 deals more specifically with the functions of the Levitical families. The fact that Kohath took precedence over Gershon, who was probably his older brother (see the order in 3:17), was one of the recurring marks of God's sovereignty in elevating younger brothers over their seniors (see Cain and Abel, Ishmael and Isaac, Esau and Jacob, Joseph among his brothers, David among his brothers, and so on). This census was distinct from the one in ch. 3. This census numbered those between the ages of 30 and 50, those who were specifically able to work in the service of the Lord in the holy things of worship.

- 4:3 According to 8:24, the Levites were to be 25 years old, which seems to contradict the thirty years here. The work of the Levites and that of the priests whom they served was complex and demanding. It is possible that the extra five years of 8:24 includes a period of apprenticeship to prepare these servants of the Lord for the tasks that lay before them.
- 4:4 The care and preservation of the most holy things were given to the Kohathites (3:29–31). The details are spelled out in vv. 4–20. The Kohathites were not to touch the holy items nor even look casually on them, lest they die. Holy means “separate,” “removed,” or “distinct.” Holy things are items and utensils that have been taken out of common use and given over to the service of the Lord. At the same time, describing God as holy draws attention to His transcendence, the fact that He is altogether separate from His creation, not bound to it, and never to be confused with it.
- 4:6 The various materials used in the tabernacle and its furnishings may have had symbolic meanings to the ancients which have not been preserved for us. We do get a sense that the materials were costly and dear.
- 4:7–13 Colors—including blue, scarlet, and purple—played a significant role in Israel’s worship.
- 4:15 The means of transporting the holy things of the tabernacle was to carry them by poles on foot. The sad story of Uzzah, who attempted to steady the ark as it was being carried on a cart (see 2 Sam. 6:6, 7), is a vivid reminder of the seriousness of obeying God’s commands.
- 4:16 duty of Eleazar: The priest had functions that were reserved only for him. Any other approach to God would result in death. This was both a gracious gift and a warning. On one hand, God mercifully granted that a priest could serve Him and approach Him. On the other hand, if the priest were faithless, no person could substitute for him. The Israelites had to approach God in the way He prescribed.
- 4:21–28 In wording that is similar to the description of the Kohathites’ responsibilities (vv. 4–15), the men of Gershon were given their responsibilities in more detail than the instructions found in 3:21–26. The men of Gershon were responsible for the curtains and for numerous parts of the tabernacle worship system. These men were allowed to touch the holy things they dealt with, but they could not be casual in their work. Ithamar, the other surviving son of Aaron, was made their chief.
- 4:29–33 The tasks of Merari first mentioned in 3:33–37 are reiterated here. The men of Merari cared for tabernacle posts and pegs, boards and sockets, and so on. There was no unimportant work in the care and maintenance of the tabernacle. Each individual son of Merari was given by name the items he had to carry. Ithamar was given the responsibility to oversee the work of Merari as well as the work of Gershon.
- 4:34–49 According to the commandment of the LORD: According to Hebrew prose style, a summary of Moses’ compliance with God’s commands is given.
- 5:1–10:10 The principal issue in this section is the development of purity within the camp and preparations for the triumphal entry of the Israelites into the land of Canaan.
- 5:3 defile: Ritual purity was an outward sign of an inward reality. God’s principal concern was the purity of the heart of an individual (Deut. 10:12–20) and not just skin problems (Lev. 15:2, 25). The observable signs of disease and decay were opportunities to implement rules of purity within the camp. With these rules, the Israelites could maintain a camp free from disease and learn about the importance of purity—moral as well as physical. Contact with a dead body was included because of the clearly visible process of decomposition (6:6). However, the central issue in these restrictions was not disease; it was the fact of God’s presence in the camp. God was holy, and hence the people had to maintain their purity and holiness.
- 5:5–10 This section moves from the physical signs of uncleanness (vv. 1–4) to those that are no less severe but harder to detect. To keep the camp pure and holy, no one could mistreat another.
- 5:7, 8 restitution: As in Lev. 6:1–7, it was not sufficient merely to confess a wrongdoing. One had to repay in full and add a penalty of one-fifth of the value to the one wronged (Lev. 22:14; 27:11–13, 31). Such rules emphasize the seriousness with which God held the people of the camp responsible to one another. If the one who was defrauded was no longer alive and had no relative surviving either, then the debt had to be paid to the priest.

5:11–31 Infidelity is a third class of actions that brought defilement to the camp. Two considerations factor in the focus of this text on the woman: (1) A wife was regarded as a possession of her husband. Therefore, her infidelity was an offense against her husband. (2) Paternity is harder to establish than maternity. Hence, there was a somewhat greater burden on the woman to be faithful to her husband so that reliable family lines would be maintained. This text can be read as an exceptionally harsh judgment on an unfaithful wife. But there is a sense in which this law ameliorated the harsh realities for a woman in this time period. A woman could be divorced in the ancient world on the mere suspicion of unfaithfulness. Without the limitation of laws such as this, a woman might even have been murdered by a jealous husband just on the suspicion of unfaithfulness. Here at least there was an opportunity for the woman to prove her innocence before an enraged husband.

5:15 Determining impurity in marital relations (when not detected “in the act”) was more difficult than noting skin disorders—but the issue was similar. God was in the camp (v. 3). Therefore, the issue had to be resolved by the priest in the presence of God.

5:18 Bitter water that brings a curse was not a “magic potion,” nor was there some hidden ingredient in the water. The addition of dust from the floor of the tabernacle to a vessel of holy water and the scrapings from the bill of indictment (v. 23) were signs of a spiritual reality. Holy water and dust from the holy place symbolized that God was the One who determined the innocence or guilt of the woman who had come before the priest.

5:21 Your thigh rot and your belly swell symbolically speaks of a miscarriage (of an illicit child) if the woman was pregnant, and an inability to conceive subsequently (v. 28). In the biblical world, a woman who was unable to bear children was regarded as being under a curse; in this case it would have been true.

5:22 Amen is the woman’s strong agreement to the terms of the ritual. If she were innocent, this ritual was the means of her protection. If she were guilty, she would be bringing judgment upon herself.

5:31 her guilt: The gravity of the ritual demonstrates that marital infidelity was regarded as a serious matter in Israel. However, the burden was largely on the woman, probably due to the possible conception of an illegitimate child. Yet the very provision of this law was a means of limiting unjust accusations made against a faithful wife.

6:2–8 Not to be confused with Nazarene (one from Nazareth, see Matt. 2:23), the Nazirite was one who made a special vow to the Lord for a time of unusual devotion to God. Ordinarily this public vow was for a limited time (v. 13). There were three prohibitions: (1) total abstinence from everything associated with wine; (2) no trimming of the hair; and (3) no contact with a dead body. In all of this, the Nazirite was to regard himself or herself as holy to the LORD. After the vow was complete, the Nazirite would return to normal daily life (v. 20).

6:3, 4 wine and similar drink: The term translated drink is now understood to be “beer” (see Prov. 31:6). Wine is made from fermented fruit, usually grapes; beer is produced from fermented grains. The Nazirite, for the period of the vow, renounced this part of ordinary life as a mark of his or her special devotion to God.

6:5 no razor: The male Nazirite over a period of time would have had unusually long hair, a sign of his special vow of devotion to the Lord (see Judg. 16:17). It is more difficult to understand how this provision might have applied to a female Nazirite, who—presumably—would have been expected to have longer hair than her male counterpart. Perhaps in the case of a female Nazirite, as well as not cutting her hair she would not take ordinary care of it—a visible sign of her special vow of devotion to the Lord.

6:7 The extent of the prohibition concerning contact with a dead body is profoundly moving when it extends to the unexpected death of a father, mother, brother, or sister. In such a case, the Nazirite could not even fulfill the normal obligations that would be expected of a grieving relative. Such was the nature of the Nazirite vow of separation to God.

- 6:9 So important was the concept of separation from contact with a dead body that the law included a provision for unexpected contact with the body of a person who dies very suddenly in one's proximity. In this case, the hair of the Nazirite was to be shaved, certain offerings presented, and the provisions of the vow continued, with allowance for the time inadvertently lost.
- 6:13 days of his separation are fulfilled: A vow as serious as the Nazirite's needed to have not only a process for initiation, but a solemn ritual for its culmination. The focus is on the hair, a visible symbol of the temporary vow. Therefore, in addition to presenting the required sacrifices (vv. 14–17), the man or woman who completed a Nazirite vow had to shave his or her head and burn the hair along with the peace offering (v. 18).
- 6:21 law of the Nazirite: The summary in this verse not only adds detail, but also serves to solemnize the nature of the Nazirite vow. There is no indication in the NT that Jesus took the vow of a Nazirite. Yet it is likely that John the Baptist, who presumably did practice abstinence, was a Nazirite from birth.
- 6:23 you shall bless: This famous Aaronic benediction is a blessing on all of the people. This blessing follows the section describing the special blessing that would result in the life of the man or woman who took on the Nazirite vow. God's blessing on the people was not gained by outstanding acts of devotion on their part. Rather, God freely blessed His people as a mark of His outstanding grace and mercy.
- 6:25 The idea of the phrase make His face shine is that of pleasure in the presence of God, of an intimate experience that is not unlike that experienced by Moses when he talked with God on Mt. Sinai (see Ex. 34:29–35). The people as a whole would have some sense of God's glorious presence in their lives.
- 6:26 The idea of the phrase lift up His countenance is that of sensing God's smile. When a person was given an audience in an ancient Middle Eastern court, the monarch might not even look in that person's direction. The monarch might look at the claimant, but with an expression of wrath. How pleasant it was, however, when the monarch looked with pleasure on the one who had come before his throne. How wondrous when that smiling monarch is the King of kings and Lord of lords, and when He grants His peace!
- 6:27 Perhaps the most impressive element of the passage is this conclusion. God intended to place His name on the people. They would bear the benediction of His name as a spiritual brand, a mark of identification that they were a people peculiarly related to God Himself.
- 7:1 when Moses had finished: This phrasing places the events of this chapter before the taking of the census in chs. 1–4. The tabernacle was completed on the first day of the first month of the second year (see Ex. 40:2). The census began on the first day of the second month of that year (1:1). Moses anointed and consecrated the tabernacle, its furnishings, the altar, and its utensils.

anointed

(Heb. mashach) (7:1; Ex. 30:26) Strong's #4886

This verb means to wet or daub a person with olive oil. This ritual designated a person or object as set apart for God's special purposes. Kings, priests, and prophets were anointed at the beginning of their service (Lev. 8:12; 16:32; 2 Sam. 2:4; 5:3; 1 Kin. 19:15, 16). During the Exodus, many holy things were anointed—including the tabernacle itself. In 7:1, the olive oil is an exquisite and expensive blend of oil and spices. This special oil symbolized the significance of the consecration of the tabernacle and its furnishings to God. In the NT, all who are Christ's disciples are said to be anointed; they are God's very own, set apart and commissioned for service (2 Cor. 1:21).

7:3–9 Covered carts would have been especially appropriate for the transportation of the elements of the tabernacle. The carts were distributed according to their use: two to the sons of Gershon for the transportation of the curtains (4:24–28) and four to the sons of Merari for the transportation of the heavier frames and support elements (4:29–33). None of the carts went to the Kohathites, for they had to carry the most holy things on poles on their shoulders (4:1–20).

7:10 Each of the leaders of the twelve tribes brought a special gift from his tribe to the Lord for the altar.

7:11–83 The paragraph for each tribe is almost exactly the same as for the other tribes, with the exception of the day of the presentation, the name of the leader, and the name of the tribe. The passage was designed to be read aloud in a slow and stately manner. As each tribal leader and his tribe was mentioned, members of that tribe would take special pleasure. Each would sense, "These were our gifts. This was our moment to give to the Lord." Chapter 7 presents a scene of pageantry, pomp, ceremony, and ritual.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Silver

In ancient times silver was valued next to gold. Silver was harder than gold, but not as hard as copper. It was usually extracted from lead ore, although it was also found in its native state. Silver never tarnishes when exposed to air, unless sulfur is present.

The main sources of silver were Asia Minor, Arabia, Mesopotamia, Armenia, and Persia. Palestine imported most of its silver from these countries, especially during Solomon's time (about 970–931 B.C.), when "the king made silver as common in Jerusalem as stones" (1 Kin. 10:27). Silver was refined and then cast into molds by silversmiths.

Abraham's wealth included silver, which he used as a medium of exchange. Other uses for silver were cups, idols, various kinds of jewelry, and containers. Many articles for the tabernacle were made of silver, including trumpets, lampstands, and sockets.

(Heb. zebach) (7:17; Ex. 10:25; Zeph. 1:7) Strong's #2077

The Hebrew word comes from a verb meaning “to slaughter for an offering.” In accordance with the Law of Moses, a priest would offer sacrifices on behalf of a worshiper by burning them on the altar (Ex. 20:24). Sacrifices could either be grain offerings (the firstfruits of the harvest) or animal sacrifices. Which animals could be sacrificed at the tabernacle (and later the temple) was clearly stipulated by the Law; they had to be the best one had—with “no defect” (Lev. 22:21). Animal sacrifices under the Law served one primary function, to cover or atone for sin (Heb. 9:22). The sin of an individual was symbolically transferred to the animal to be sacrificed, thereby providing a substitutionary atonement. The sacrifices had to be repeated each year because they only partially dealt with sin (Heb. 10:4). Ultimately, all sacrifices in the OT point forward to and are types of the final, all-sufficient sacrifice made by Christ (Is. 53; 1 Cor. 5:7; Heb. 9:10).

7:84 This was the dedication offering: The totals of the 12 gifts are enumerated, demonstrating again the sense of order and control in the Book of Numbers.

Word Studies

dedication

(Heb. chanukkah) (7:10, 11, 84, 88; Neh. 12:27; Ps. 30:1) Strong's #2598

Dedication is a religious ceremony in which a person or a thing is set aside or consecrated to God's service. In Bible times, many different things were included in such services: the temple (2 Chr. 2:4), a field (Lev. 27:16), a house (Lev. 27:14), articles of precious metal (2 Sam. 8:10), even spoils won in battle (1 Chr. 26:27). In one of the most beautiful passages in the Bible, Hannah presented her young son Samuel to God in an act of child dedication (1 Sam. 1:19–28). Hannah's prayer of thanksgiving to God (1 Sam. 2:1–10) is a model of praise and dedication for all who seek to honor God through their lives.

7:89 More stunning than the gifts and their totals is this last verse of the chapter. When all was done, Moses heard the voice of God speaking from the innermost sanctuary. This was a mark of God's approval. The Israelites' gifts had been received with pleasure.

8:2 The seven lamps must have been exquisite, the finest work possible by artisans of the day. But the placement of these oil lamps was as important as their craftsmanship.

8:5–19 This section concerns the cleansing of the Levites in order to make them fit for their special service of the Lord in His holy worship. The Levites belonged to the Lord in exchange for the firstborn of Israel whom He spared during the tenth plague in Egypt (3:40, 41; 8:16–19).

8:7 To shave the entire body of the Levites was, in a sense, a physical symbol of a return to innocence. This act of devotion initiated the Levites into the service of the Lord. In addition to shaving their bodies, the Levites were also sprinkled with the water of purification and their clothing was washed.

8:10–12 lay their hands on: This ancient symbol of dedication (1) specified with a physical gesture the ones being dedicated, (2) expressed identification with the ones on whom the hands were placed, and (3) called for a divine sanction of this public and physical act. Aaron then presented the Levites to the Lord, perhaps with his hands swaying back and forth as though they were being waved before the Lord. Then those on whom hands had been placed reached out their own hands to the sacrificial bulls as a mark of identification.

8:16 The Hebrew words for wholly given to Me are an emphatic doubling: “given, given.” The story of the Exodus—in this case, the Passover—was always just under the surface of the theology of the OT, for this saving event shaped the nation of Israel.

8:19 no plague: With their service in the tabernacle, the Levites functioned as a protective hedge between the people and the symbols of the Divine Presence. Here God's mercy complements His holiness. His holiness would not bear an improper approach. But in His mercy, He provided a protective hedge in the Levites. They both warned others not to draw too close and instructed them on how to approach the living God appropriately.

8:20–26 This concluding paragraph serves to summarize the material of the chapter as well as to report on the actions of the priests and the people in obedience to the word of the Lord. Throughout the first ten chapters, there is a regular pattern: (1) an announcement of the coming of the word of the Lord, (2) the details of that word, and (3) a report of compliance. With this pattern, we are conditioned to expect that obedience will regularly follow God's commands as the people make their way in triumphal procession to the Promised Land.

8:24 From twenty-five years old seems to disagree with the lower limit of 30 years given in 4:3. The difference is not easily resolved, but there is the possibility that the five years in dispute may have served as some sort of apprenticeship. Later in Israel's history, David reduced the lower age for the Levites to 20 (see 1 Chr. 23:24, 27).

9:1 The first month of the second year indicates that the material of this chapter precedes the command to take a census in 1:1. With the tabernacle completed, the camp ritually purified, the religious functionaries cleansed and in place, the hovering symbols of God being experienced in the camp, and the Passover celebrated anew—all was ready for the triumphal march of God's citizen army to the Promised Land.

9:2 When the first Passover was celebrated in Egypt, the command was given to commemorate it throughout Israel's generations (see Ex. 12:14). It was time now at the base of Mt. Sinai to celebrate the Passover anew before the people began their march to Canaan.

9:6 Because of their defilement from touching the body of a dead person (5:2), there were some who could not keep the Passover at its appointed time. These people came willingly to ask Moses what they might do. God's intent was that the Passover would be celebrated by all of His people. Reasons of ritual impurity should not prevent a person from enjoying the night. Neither should one think that the celebration was unnecessary. Thus the ritually impure would celebrate the Passover a month later.

9:11 The specification of bitter herbs indicates that those who celebrated the Passover a month later would celebrate the exact details of it. They were not to rush through the ceremony, but were to take part in it fully, eating the lamb, the unleavened bread, and the bitter herbs.

9:12 nor break one of its bones: The Passover was not an ordinary meal. The food commemorated the great saving event of God in Israel's history. The meal was to be eaten with extraordinary attention to the lamb itself. It is fitting to remember that when the Savior was crucified as our "Passover Lamb," none of His bones was broken (John 19:36)—a fulfillment of the typology of this verse (see Ex. 12:46; Ps. 34:20).

9:13 ceases to keep the Passover: Some people would simply refuse to celebrate the Passover, not for legitimate reasons, but because of ingratitude and insolence. Such persons would be cut off from among the people and would bear the responsibility for their sins.

9:14 Those who lived with the Hebrew people could be included in the celebration of Passover, but they first had to be circumcised (see Ex. 12:48). This was a rite that applied to the citizen as well as to the alien. As a stranger heard the story of God's gracious, powerful actions in the salvation of His people, that person would naturally question the Israelites on how he or she could participate in Israel's blessing.

9:15–23 The cloud (see Ex. 13:21) was a dramatic symbol of the active presence of God with His people, hovering over them in protection, moving ahead of them for direction, coming near at night as fire for comfort in the darkness. The rest of this paragraph serves as a summary of the activities of the cloud and the fire throughout Israel's experience in the wilderness.

9:23 at the command of the LORD: The cloud and the fire were manifestations of God's will. When the cloud rose, the people were to set out. When the cloud settled, the people were to encamp. There was nothing predictable in the movement or settling of the cloud; all was dependent on God's sovereignty. The people saw the glory and the will of God in the cloud's actions.

10:2 The two silver trumpets were different from the curved ram's horn trumpets (see Lev. 25:9; Ps. 81:3). Made of hammered silver, these instruments were straight with a flaring bell, like the post horns of medieval Europe. Since they did not have valves, they were played like a bugle. The pattern was as follows: The cloud would begin to move, the trumpets would sound, and the people would begin to break camp and move out within their ordered ranks. When the ark, the symbol of the Divine Presence, was moved, Moses recited the words of the song of triumph (v. 35).

10:4 But if they blow only one: The number of trumpets that sounded and the notes they played were signals for various groups within the encampments as well as for the people as a whole.

10:5 begin their journey: Even when the trumpets sounded, there was never to be a pell-mell rush of the people. The tone throughout this section is one of discipline and order. God is a God of order, and this would be reflected in the conduct of the Israelites' camp (see 1 Cor. 14:40; Eph. 4).

10:9 The trumpets were not signals for the movement of the camp in the wilderness; later they functioned as signals for the army in Canaan. The sounding of the trumpets would be a part of Israel's war against the inhabitants of the land. In addition to functioning as signals at certain occasions, trumpet-blowing also became a symbol of calling on the Lord and a reminder that God was at work among the Israelites.

enemies

(Heb. tsarim) (10:9; Gen. 14:20; Ezra 4:1; Ps. 44:5, 7) Strong's #6862

Before Israel could serve as the channel of God's grace to the world, its existence as a nation had to be securely established. The enemies of the Hebrew people were thus regarded as God's enemies, and the reverse was also true (Ps. 139:20–22). In the NT, by contrast, the enemies to be overcome are primarily spiritual in nature. While the OT refers to charity toward one's enemy (Ex. 23:4, 5; Prov. 24:17), the NT goes further by commanding love for one's enemy (Matt. 5:44; Rom. 12:20). The NT looks toward a day when all enemies of good and righteousness will be overcome because of the redemptive work of Christ (1 Cor. 15:25).

10:10 day of your gladness: The trumpets were also played in the context of worship, particularly on days of feasting and the celebrations of the beginning of the month. I am the LORD your God indicates that the preceding was a divine revelation of the will of God. Furthermore, these words serve as a benediction on the people at the beginning of their march.

10:11 At long last, the time had come for the people to set out on the triumphal journey for which God had been preparing them. When the cloud was taken up by the Lord Himself, the Israelites packed up their camp and left. The cloud was a symbol of God's presence, His protection, and His guidance. The people could fearlessly march into the unknown.

A Chronology of the Second Year of the Exodus

10:12 This verse is a summary statement of the initial march. The Wilderness of Paran was not actually reached until 12:16. The Wilderness of Paran is in the northeastern Sinai peninsula, south of the Negev, the desert area below Judah. Paran was a good staging area for the conquest of the land, away from the more fortified cities toward Egypt in the west.

10:14–28 This section, like so many others in Numbers, conveys a sense of pageantry, drama, and ordered design. The section was designed to be read aloud as a narrative of God's faithfulness to all of His people and of their proper response to His guidance. The repetition of the names from each tribe (see chs. 1; 7) must have been an eloquent statement at the time. One would expect these names to be memorialized as the leaders of the first generation who led their tribes into Canaan. Because of the events that follow (chs. 11-14), however, these names take on a certain sadness. These people did not achieve their destiny in the land. Rather, they were buried in the desert.

10:29–32 Reuel (perhaps to be identified with Jethro) is mentioned in Ex. 2:18–21 as the priest of Midian who befriended Moses and gave his daughter Zipporah to him as his wife. Moses invited Hobab the son of Reuel to join Israel on their triumphal journey. At first Hobab declined. But at Moses' insistence, Hobab continued with the Israelites (see Judg. 1:16), serving as the eyes of the people in the wilderness. In this example of OT evangelism, Hobab joined in the destiny of Israel just as Ruth the Moabitess would later (see Ruth 2). Joining Israel was not just a change of location; it involved a radical transformation of one's life and purpose so that it was centered around the living God.

10:35, 36 Rise up, O LORD and Return, O LORD are words of a triumphant song. These are not magical incantations, but poetic affirmations of God's presence among His people and prayers that His presence would have its effect in the lives and destiny of the people. The expression many thousands means the same as "untold thousands" or "teeming millions."

11:1–3 Now when the people complained: After the Israelites had traveled just three days following their deliverance from Egypt, they murmured against the Lord because of a lack of water (see Ex. 15:22–24). Here again, after a journey of only three days, they murmured against the Lord for unspecified reasons. Murmuring demonstrated unfaithfulness and was an act of rebellion that demanded God's judgment. The fire of the LORD seems to have come both as a warning and as a purifying agent, since it hit only the outskirts of the camps. In the midst of wrath, the Lord remained merciful. He had long-standing patience with a people who continuously rebelled.

- 11:4 The mixed multitude indicates the presence of others who had escaped from slavery or poverty in Egypt, but were not Israelites (Ex. 12:38). These people were an encouragement to the continual murmuring that characterized the Israelites in the wilderness. It was understandable that those who did not share Israel's faith in God would make every discomfort an excuse to agitate rebellion against Him and His appointed leadership in Moses.
- 11:5, 6 The tone of the words this manna is one of contempt (an attitude that would peak years later; see 21:5). The foods of Egypt were plentiful and varied, even for slaves and the poor. The provision of manna was regarded by the Israelites as monotonous, something that caused the inner being to be dried up.
- 11:7–9 The clear implication of these verses is that the provision of manna was something that later generations would not know about or understand without an explanation. Its daily appearance, with a double measure on the day before the Sabbath and none at all on the Sabbath, is clearly miraculous. One pot of manna was kept in the ark of the covenant for generations (Ex. 16:33). God provided manna throughout the 40-year experience in the wilderness. Then it ceased to appear as mysteriously as it had begun (Ex. 16:35). Jesus described Himself as the bread of life, better than the manna in the wilderness (John 6:48–58).
- 11:10 In this instance, the fact that Moses also was displeased caused him to pray for help in dealing with the complaints of the people and their many needs (vv. 12–15). On another occasion, Moses' displeasure would lead to his own sin and would cost him the opportunity to enter the land of Canaan (20:1–13).
- 11:12–15 Did I conceive all these people? God was the “mother” of the Israelites; Moses was their “wet nurse.” The people were like whining children who cannot be satisfied. In a flourish of rhetoric, Moses asked the Lord to kill him (see 1 Kin. 19:4) rather than force him to continue in this sorry situation.
- 11:16, 17 Moses' provocation led to the appointment of seventy men to assist him in the administration of the camp. These men would have been in addition to the leaders of each tribe. Presumably they formed a body of administrative assistants for Moses to reduce the burden he felt in attempting to meet the needs of the vast population by himself. These elders were Spirit-empowered (v. 25).
- 11:18–20 you shall eat meat: The complaint of the people had so angered the Lord that He determined to cause them to have an overabundance of meat. The Israelites had rejected the manna, describing it as something that dried their being (v. 6). God was going to give them so much meat that it would become sickening to them, causing them to realize what a great gift manna really was. The issue here was not really meat and manna, but whether the people would serve God as their God. To reject the provision was, in essence, to reject the Provider.

11:21–23 The idea of such plentiful meat in the wilderness was something even Moses balked at, wondering how even God could provide food for a company so large. God's response to Moses, has the LORD's arm been shortened? is a challenge to all people of faith. There is simply no limiting the power of God. Jesus' feedings of the multitudes are NT examples of God's continuing ability to provide food for thousands (Matt. 14:13–21; 15:32–39).

11:25 The Spirit rested upon them (see Acts 2) is a divine empowerment of the 70 elders who would aid Moses in the administration of the camp.

11:25–30 For reasons that were not recorded, Eldad and Medad did not join the other elders at the tabernacle of meeting (v. 16). Nonetheless, the Spirit of God came upon them and empowered them in their own camp. When the word came to Moses that these men were prophesying even though they were not where they were supposed to be, Joshua was afraid that their possible influence in the community would detract from the authority of Moses. Here Joshua showed his loyalty to Moses by deferring to Moses' leadership and authority. Moses responded by wishing that all of God's people were Spirit-empowered. (This is the first time Joshua is mentioned.)

11:31–33 True to His promise (vv. 18–20), the Lord provided meat in the form of quail from the sea. He sent a strong wind that brought vast numbers of quail fluttering about three feet off the ground. The people fell into a frenzy, killing the birds and gathering them all through the night and on into the next day.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Quail

In Israel, the quail is a migrating bird that arrives in droves along the shores of the Mediterranean Sea. With their strong flying muscles, these birds can fly rapidly for a short time. When migrating, however, they stretch their wings and allow the wind to bear them along. Sometimes they reach land so exhausted after their long flight that they can be caught by hand. Most of the time quail remain on the ground, scratching for food and helping farmers by eating insects. Their brown-speckled bodies are inconspicuous, but they often give away their presence by a shrill whistle.

The Hebrew people probably ate dried, salted quail while they were enslaved by the Egyptians. When they longed for meat in the Wilderness of Sinai, God promised He would provide enough meat for a month. Then He directed thousands of quail to their camp, where the birds dropped in exhaustion.

11:34 Kibroth Hattaavah (“Graves of Craving”) was a vast graveyard of needlessly craving, ungrateful people.

11:35 Hazeroth (“Enclosures”) allowed the people a respite from the journey and its judgments.

12:1 The order of the names Miriam and Aaron suggests that Miriam was the instigator of the attack against Moses. Note also that the principal punishment falls on Miriam (v. 10). Pointing at the Ethiopian woman whom Moses married seems to have been merely a pretext for attacking Moses. Miriam and Aaron might have had a disagreement with Zipporah, Moses’ wife (see Ex. 2:21), or they might have been referring to a second wife who Moses married without their approval. In any event, the real issue dividing Miriam and Aaron from their brother was the special relationship Moses had with God.

12:2 only through Moses: The prophetess Miriam (see Ex. 15:20) had very high status in the camp. Certainly Aaron, through whom God also spoke and who ministered before God as the high priest (2:1; 3:1; 4:1), was also in a most privileged position. Nonetheless, neither Miriam nor Aaron had the same proximity to God that Moses had. This must have galled Miriam and her brother. The verse ends ominously with the words And the LORD heard it. God was going to act on what He had heard.

12:3 Some people argue that a very humble man would hardly write about his unparalleled humility. Others contend that a humble man who was writing through God’s inspiration might speak of his own humility. Still others have suggested that the verse comes from a later period and is a comment inserted to place the challenge against Moses in perspective. Another possibility is that the Hebrew word translated as humble may mean “miserable” in this context. The events described in ch. 11 may have taken an enormous toll on Moses. This verse may be a description of Moses’ utter sense of brokenness as he experienced his brother and sister’s betrayal.

12:5 Then the LORD came down: Suddenly God spoke to Moses, Aaron, and Miriam, and then descended dramatically in the midst of the cloud. This theophany (appearance of God) was ominous. The language of this verse is more directly physical than usual. God came down, stood, and then called Aaron and Miriam forward.

- 12:6–8 The framework of this section is poetry, making the pronouncement of the Lord more vivid and memorable. The language conveys that God was in control. He spoke to whomever He wished and in the manner of His choosing. God is Spirit (John 4:24). Language about His “face” is a concession to our way of thinking of a person. Hence, face to face speaks of the most intimate relationship that God had with Moses.
- 12:10 The singling out of Miriam suggests that she was the instigator in this challenge to Moses (v. 1). Leprous refers to a serious skin disorder that made her unclean (5:1–4).
- 12:11 Aaron’s words of confession—we have done foolishly—on behalf of his sister and himself are touching, and a sure sign of his deference to the leadership of his brother.
- 12:14 Moses’ appeal to God on behalf of his sister was met with stern words from God that speak of a public humiliation. We are not told what might provoke a father to spit in the face of his daughter, but it would have had to be something quite shameful. The incident at hand was not trivial, but God’s grace was abundant.
- 12:15 The delay in moving the camp for the seven days of Miriam’s isolation indicates the high regard that Moses and the people held for Miriam. It is sad that, as in the case of Eve, the thing that Miriam is most noted for is her sin. Nevertheless, biblical writers continued to hold her in high esteem (see Mic. 6:4).
- 12:16 The Wilderness of Paran had been the destination of the people since they set out from Mt. Sinai (10:12). Sadly, the character of the people had changed en route. The people had murmured and rebelled against God and Moses, God’s anointed.
- 13:2 According to Deut. 1:21–23, the sending of men to spy was the idea of the people. They might have urged Moses to send spies to the land to discover the best approach for conquest. Moses was then instructed by the Lord to proceed with the plan. The staging position in the Wilderness of Paran (12:16), southeast of the land of Canaan, was ideal for a northward sweep of the spies and then of the armies of Israel.
- 13:4–15 The list of names of the men from each of the twelve tribes was not a mere duplicate of earlier lists (ch. 1). Presumably, these men were regarded not only as leaders in their tribal units, but also as men who were physically and spiritually capable of great exploits.
- 13:16 Changing Hoshea’s name to Joshua probably indicated great esteem on Moses’ part. As God often changed the names of people who had a special relationship with Him, so Moses changed the name of the one who would eventually become his spiritual heir. This was an act of ritual adoption. Hoshea means “Salvation”; Joshua means “the Lord Saves.” Joshua and Jesus are two forms of the same name.
- 13:17–20 Moses’ commands to the spies were broad but definite. They were to spy out the land, determine what they could about the people and their cities, and observe the produce and forests. Then they were to bring back some of the fruit of the land, because it was the season of the first grape harvest.
- 13:21–25 Although the spies went all the way north to the region of Syria—near the entrance of Hamath—few details are recorded of their journey. Emphasis is given to Hebron, where descendants of Anak were found (v. 28), and to the Valley of Eshcol, where an enormous cluster of grapes was discovered.
- 13:26 The report of the spies came as a grievous surprise. The spies went to the people at Kadesh in the Wilderness of Paran. The name Kadesh is associated with the Hebrew word that means “holy.” Had the story turned out differently, this name would have been associated with positive memories. It would have been here that they would have sanctified themselves for their campaign of conquest of the land.
- 13:27 The phrase flows with milk and honey is a slogan of redemption, a slogan expressing God’s goodness in His promise of the land of Canaan (see 14:8; 16:13, 14; Ex. 3:8, 17; 13:5; 33:3; Lev. 20:24; Deut. 6:3; 11:9; 26:9, 15; 27:3; 31:20). Milk probably refers to goats’ milk; honey refers to bees, which were especially associated with the propagation of fruitful pastures and fields in Canaan. The phrase evoked visions of pleasure and plenty for the Israelites. Canaan was a good land, and enjoyment of the land would follow faithfulness to God.

13:28 The spies quickly focused on the troubles of the land—the strength of its inhabitants, the fortification of its cities, and the immense size of the descendants of Anak in Hebron (v. 22). Apparently, this was a family whose hereditary stature was legendary in the ancient Middle East (v. 33).

13:29 The spies listed the Amalekites and the other peoples to support their claim that the land was not empty, that people had settled throughout its borders (see Gen. 15:18–21). God did not promise Israel virgin territory, but a place that was inhabited by those whom God wished to displace because of their iniquity.

13:30 Only Caleb spoke out against the flow of negative reports. He urged immediate attack based on his confidence in the armies of Israel, and, we may presume, on his underlying faith in God, who would fight for His people (10:35, 36).

13:31–33 The other spies were steadfast in their bad report, which included their exaggerations. They described the land as evil and its inhabitants as giants. Their contentious description was ultimately an attack on God, the giver of the land. Such scandalous language could not be tolerated (14:36, 37).

14:1 Following the scandalous report of the spies, the people wept that night. They wept not because of the sinful attitude of the spies, but because of their own loss of dream, their own sense that they had made a mistake in leaving Egypt.

14:2–4 Following the night of weeping, the people conspired together in despair. They complained against Moses and Aaron. They speculated that they would have been better off dying in Egypt or in the desert. They plotted to select a leader to take them back to Egypt. But they did a worse thing by slandering God, in saying that He would bring them to a place where they would die along with their wives and children.

14:5–10 The response of Moses, Aaron, Joshua, and Caleb contrasted remarkably with the foolish terror of the people. They also wept, but for the sins of the people against the Lord and His mercy. The two faithful spies, Caleb and Joshua, gave a good report of the land in the context of robust faith in God. They knew that the living and faithful God would give it to His people. They repeated the slogan of redemption concerning the land: a land which flows with milk and honey (13:27). They reasoned, if the LORD delights in us, then He will bring us into this land. These words of encouragement were followed by words of strong warning. To speak as the people had done was an act of rebellion and cowardice. The people were not trusting God. They are our bread was a boastful manner of speaking of the victory envisioned by the good spies, approximating the exaggerated language of the rebellious spies (13:33).

Word Studies

rebel

(Heb. marad) (14:9; Josh. 22:18, 19; Dan. 9:5) Strong's #4775

The word translated rebel means to “revolt” or “flagrantly disobey a recognized authority.” God regards rebellion as a serious matter. He does not take it lightly when His people, whom He loves, reject His words. The OT compares rebellion with the terrible sins of witchcraft and sorcery (1 Sam. 15:23). Israel, who had seen the Lord deliver them from bondage in Egypt, often rebelled despite God's frequent warnings against doing so (Deut. 1:26, 43; 9:23, 24). The one who rebels against God departs from His precepts and refuses to heed His warnings (Dan. 9:5, 6). Scripture gives many examples of rebellion that illustrate its consequences—divine chastisement (Is. 1:20). These should serve as warnings to the believer (1 Cor. 10:1–12).

Go to the List of Word Studies

- 14:10 The bold words of the good spies elicited two responses: rejection by the congregation, who attempted to stone them, and the sudden appearance of the glory of God to save the lives of His faithful servants.
- 14:11, 12 Not unlike the leaders of Israel in Jesus' day, the people rejected God's miraculous signs. God's preliminary judgment was to utterly reject the nation. They clearly had rejected Him, dismissing the signs that He had done among them. In response, God again offered to use Moses to begin a new people.
- 14:13–19 As Gen. 22 records the divine testing of Abraham, this chapter records the divine testing of Moses. Moses might have accepted the Lord's offer and stood aside while the Lord swept the desert clean of this rebellious people. Instead, Moses protested that this drastic act of judgment would taint the reputation of God among the nations. Moses argued that the Egyptians would hear it, and that the great victory of God over their gods would be dismissed by their reinterpretation of events, if God were not able to bring His people into their new home. Then Moses quoted the Lord concerning His great mercy (v. 18 cites Ex. 34:6, 7) and begged Him to pardon the iniquity of the people.
- 14:20–25 Moses' dramatic recitation led to God's pardon of the rebels. The passion of God was seen in the exclamation of the words as I live, all the earth shall be filled with the glory of the LORD. God scolded the people who had ignored the many evidences of His glory in their midst, and who had put Him to the test now these ten times. God's judgment was that the people who rejected Him would not see the land. Everyone was included except Caleb, whom God called My servant, and Joshua (v. 38). God then warned the people to bypass the region of the Amalekites. This was no longer a time for war, but for retreating into the wilderness.
- 14:26–38 This section forms what seems to be God's second response to the prayer of Moses (vv. 13–19). This second response contains some new elements. First, the little ones would be the only survivors of the wilderness wanderings. All over the age of 20 would die in the wilderness over the period of the next forty years. The 40 days of the spies' journey would correspond to 40 years of aimless wandering in the wilderness. For 40 days the people had the opportunity to move with purpose; now for 40 years there would be no purpose in their wandering. Finally, a distinction was made between the cowardly spies and the two faithful ones. Only Joshua and Caleb lived. The others died immediately by a plague from the Lord. In the preservation of Joshua and Caleb from the fate of the others, we sense again the justice of the Lord.

14:39–45 An abortive attempt at an invasion of the land by a still-rebellious people concludes this sad narrative. The people shouted their acknowledgment that they had sinned, but they had not taken to heart the seriousness of God's judgment on them. Heedless of Moses' warning that the LORD was not among them, the people went into battle. The result was disastrous. The name Hormah means "Utter Destruction." At this point, the focus of the Book of Numbers shifts to the younger generation, who would enter the land.

15:2 The words when you have come into the land may seem inappropriate following the events of chs. 13; 14. Yet God had not rejected the Israelites entirely. Their children would enter the land that their parents had rejected. Chapter 15, which concentrates on offerings and sacrifices, not only instructs the people about the worship of God, it is also a sign of God's continuing promise: the people would eventually enter the land.

15:4 a grain offering: The use of grain was as important in the sacrificial system of ancient Israel as was the offering of animals. Fine flour was luxurious, rather than ordinary. The mixing of certain proportions of fine flour with olive oil indicated that only the very best could be used in the celebratory worship of God.

15:5 a drink offering: Wine was used in drink offerings (vv. 7, 10) as an accompaniment to the burnt offerings of the goat, lamb, ram, and bull. In the pouring out of this wine on the altar, the worshiper poured out something of great value. As was the case with most of the other offerings, this represented the self-deprivation of the worshipers before God.

15:13, 14 The words all who are native-born seem to point to a time after the wilderness experience—when the Israelites had already entered the land. As in the celebration of the Passover, the presentation of these offerings was to be done in the same way, whether the worshiper was born in the land or a stranger.

15:17–21 The heave offering is also known as the wave offering. Right at the beginning of the harvest, the harvester had to acknowledge that his produce was a gift from God. By holding up the very first produce from a harvest or of the first cake made from the first grain of the season, the worshiper thanked God as the giver of all good gifts.

15:22 If you sin unintentionally: Some sacrifices were offered on behalf of the nation as a whole, for there was always the possibility of an unintentional or unknown sin in the life of the people. Such sins may have been committed by the people as a whole (vv. 24–26) or by an individual (vv. 27, 28).

15:30, 31 The Hebrew phrase translated presumptuously means "with a high hand," with open disdain for the will and work of God. This is a sin that is done, as it were, while looking God in the eye and shaking one's fist at Him.

15:32–36 It is quite possible that gathering sticks on the Sabbath day is a specific example of the kind of thing mentioned in vv. 30, 31. One who flagrantly went out gathering sticks on the Sabbath was clearly in breach of the command to honor the Sabbath day (see Ex. 20:8–11). This individual was caught and then brought to Moses for judgment.

15:37–41 The wearing of tassels on the corners of garments was a beautiful sign of great significance. The tassels were memory devices to keep the wearer focused on the commandments of God. To which your own heart and your own eyes are inclined speaks vividly of the believer's old sin nature. The tendency to sin is always present, as the psalmist observes (Ps. 119:11). Harlotry of the heart is unfaithfulness to God. Each of us needs to have reminders to keep us thinking rightly about God and ourselves.

15:41 I am the LORD your God: God identified Himself as the One who gave these commands. He declared that He had a relationship with the Israelites. He was their God, and He had saved them from slavery. The Israelites had every reason to obey His directives, for He was their Lord and their Savior.

16:1 Yet another rebellion against Moses was led by Korah, a Kohathite (see 1 Chr. 6:22, 23). Korah and his allies challenged Aaron and Moses in much the same way that Miriam and Aaron had challenged Moses earlier (ch. 12). Korah and his allies were not satisfied with the role God had given them in the service of the tabernacle, so they decided to press for the priesthood (v. 10). This rebellion, then, was against Aaron as well as Moses (v. 11).

16:2, 3 Korah and the 250 leaders argued that the entire nation was holy to the Lord (see Ex. 6:7) and that Moses and Aaron had presumptuously taken leadership positions. The root of their complaint was that God had not elevated them sufficiently.

16:4–7 Moses' response was complex. First, he submitted to the will of God, as seen in his action of falling on his face. Then he issued a challenge based on an expectation of an overt display of the will of God. He instructed each of the dissenters to take a censer, a metal holder for incense used in worship, and place incense on it as a sign of approach to God. Then each would await God's decision.

16:9–11 The men who were seeking a higher position were in fact being contemptuous of the place to which God had appointed them. Moses' response was condescending and scathing: Is it a small thing to you? The dissenters should have realized how gracious God had been in giving them the life work He had provided. They were not unlike people who complain about the gifts God has given them.

16:12–14 Dathan and Abiram, two allies of Korah, were so arrogant that they would not even come to stand before Moses. They attacked Moses, claiming he acted like a prince. These two approached absurdity when they charged Moses with leading them away from the land that flows with milk and honey. Possibly they were blaming Moses for the fact that the people had to turn away from the land after the rebellion at Kadesh (chs. 13; 14). In addition, they charged Moses with brutality: Will you put out the eyes of these men? Nothing in the story of the Exodus leads us to think that Moses might have done such a thing.

16:15 Moses was very angry: He prayed that the men's offering would be rejected, and he asserted that he had done nothing to deserve their hatred.

16:18, 19 The next day, each man lit incense in his censer. Korah brought the people near because he wanted witnesses to the events. Then the glory of the LORD appeared is a somber reminder of the words of 12:5, a similar setting of impending judgment.

16:20–22 The announcement of judgment begins with God's warning to Moses and Aaron that they should back away so that He might destroy the entire congregation. The very leaders who were under assault intervened for the people, asking God to spare them even if He had to judge the guilty. The expression the God of the spirits of all flesh suggests the comprehensive rule of God. He is sovereign over all.

16:23–27 God demanded that the people back away from the tents of the rebels, and the people withdrew. Korah, Dathan, and Abiram were isolated at their tents with their families. It appears that Korah had left the 250 other rebels and was now standing beside Dathan and Abiram in wicked solidarity.

16:28–30 Moses called for a sign from God because he did not want anyone to think that what was about to happen was merely coincidence.

16:31–35 In answer to Moses' prayer, God's judgment was sudden, dramatic, and memorable. He caused the earth to swallow the rebels alive. The words the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up suggest a sudden action, like that of a sinkhole that opens with great speed. The families of Dathan and Abiram died with those two men. But the family of Korah was spared (26:11). In fact, Korah's descendants contributed a considerable number of psalms for temple worship (see Ps. 42)—yet another example of God displaying His mercy even as He justly punished rebels. The judgment was so sudden and severe that the people rushed back in fear, thinking that they might suffer the same fate. The 250 would-be priests were destroyed by fire from the LORD.

16:36–40 the censers . . . are holy: An amazing thing about this chapter is the Lord's concern that the censers be reused. Since these elements had been presented to Him, they were holy—despite the wickedness of those who presented them to God. The censers were gathered and hammered together for a covering for the altar. Henceforth, anyone who saw the altar would see its covering. This would be a warning not to wander too near for any reason. Only the true priests of the line of Aaron had that privilege.

16:41–45 Israel complained: Unbelievably, the people attacked Moses and Aaron as being the ones who caused the deaths of the popular leaders, the people of the LORD. In calling them this, the people asserted that they recognized Korah and the rest as spiritual leaders. Their affection for Korah and his associates had caused them to miss the greater reality, the leadership roles God had given to Moses and Aaron and God's judgment on those rebellious men. Again, there was a sudden appearance of the glory of the LORD—a symbol of further judgment. Again the Lord threatened to destroy the congregation, and again Moses and Aaron fell on their faces, interceding for the people's wickedness.

16:46–50 Moses' command to Aaron to take a censer is a fitting end to this chapter. Aaron and his sons were the divinely appointed priests. Only they could minister at the altar of God. Aaron rushed to the sacred tasks to make atonement for the sinning congregation because a plague had fallen on them. The picture of this aged priest running to save the people who had spoken against him is quite remarkable. The words of v. 48 are quite dramatic. Aaron stood between the living and the dead to stop the plague—a symbol of the Savior, who takes a similar stand in the gap between life and death.

17:2–5 The rebellion of Korah and its aftermath (ch. 16) left a level of uncertainty among the people concerning the divine appointment of Aaron and his sons as the true priests of God. The point of Aaron's rod budding was to eliminate the continuing complaint of the people against Moses and Aaron by another divine sign. One rod was presented from each tribe with the name of the tribal leader inscribed on it. Then the twelve rods were placed in the Most Holy Place. God would signal His choice of priestly leadership by causing the rod of one tribe and its leader to blossom—life from a dead stick.

17:6, 7 The text focuses on the rod of Aaron among the twelve. Aaron was near the end of his life. He and his wife, Elisheba, had four sons. Two, Nadab and Abihu, had died because of their own improper approach to God (3:2–4). Two, Eleazar and Ithamar, lived. On the impending death of Aaron, there had to be no question as to which family was divinely ordered to continue in the priestly office.

17:8, 9 When the rods were examined the next day, not only had the rod of Aaron sprouted, it had even yielded ripe almonds. This was a complete vindication of Aaron as the true priest of God. Each of the other rods was still a dead stick. But the rod of Aaron had sent forth such a sprout of life that the entire process of almond production had occurred in a single evening—and all from a dead stick! Moses made each of the other tribal representatives take his own rod back—a physical symbol of agreement to the divine will.

17:10, 11 as a sign: Just as the stone tablets of the law (Ex. 25:16) and a pot of manna were placed in the ark as signs of the enduring testimony of God's mercy to His people (Ex. 16:34), so now the rod of Aaron that budded and produced ripe almonds was placed there as well. Since the ark was in the Most Holy Place, only God would ordinarily look at this rod. Hence, Aaron's rod was a sign to God of His mercy. He had chosen the Levites to minister before Him. There would be one other besides God who would see these sacred items—the high priest of God's own choosing.

17:12, 13 Surely we die: Finally, the people realized that God had revealed His will through His miraculous actions among them. None of them except the one whom God had designated could approach God in His Holy Place. Any person who approached without heeding God's clear instructions could only expect death. The fact that God allowed anyone to approach Him demonstrated His mercy. Indeed, He not only allowed the high priest to approach, but He instructed him how he could atone for the sins of the people. Today, the same merciful God provides a more perfect way to find His forgiveness—through Jesus' death. With Jesus acting as our High Priest, we can boldly approach the Holy One and not fear death (see Heb. 4:14–16).

18:1 Chapters 18 and 19 deal with the duties of priests and Levites, matters that flow quite naturally from the vindication of the true priesthood in ch. 17 and the crisis concerning the priesthood in ch. 16. The expression bear the iniquity speaks of the formidable work that was demanded of the priests of God. The word iniquity relates to the whole sphere of sin, guilt, and responsibility for an offense. If the people had no advocate before the Lord, they would die in their offenses. The priests stood as the intermediaries between God and man. Ultimately, all such priestly work points forward to the work of Jesus, our High Priest.

18:2, 3 The Levites were the servants of the priests, but were limited in what they were able to do. This was what had bothered Korah (ch. 16); he was a Levite who wanted to function as a priest.

18:5–7 Only the priests were allowed to attend to the duties of the sanctuary and the altar. The outsider was not a foreigner, but a non-authorized Israelite. When one who was not authorized approached the holy places, that person was inviting punishment.

18:8–20 The priests earned their livelihood in their work of the ministry of God (see Lev. 6:14–7:36). Offerings that were not burned on the altars, although made to the Lord, became the food for the priests. I am your portion: The priests had no inheritance in the land itself. They lived off the produce of the land as God provided for them through the gifts of His people. Hence, the priests had a special relationship with God. He was their inheritance. Like the priests, believers today have no promise of an inheritance in this world. Nevertheless, believers are promised an inheritance in the future kingdom (see Rom. 8:17).

18:21–24 all the tithes in Israel: The Levites also were the beneficiaries of the Lord's service. Like the priests, the Levites would not inherit land inheritances, but would be provided for in a manner suitable for their service to God.

18:25–32 The Levites who lived from the tithes of the people were themselves under obligation to make offerings to the Lord, a tenth of the tithe. Those who lived from the tithes were to give tithes so that they also might thank God for what He had given them.

19:2 The red heifer was to be sacrificed in a special ritual outside the camp. Everything about this sacrifice was unusual. Ordinarily, the sacrificial animal was male; this one was female. The mention of the color of the animal is also unusual; in no other animal sacrifice was the color of the animal specified.

19:3 The naming of Eleazar the priest was a logical sequel to the test of the true priestly family in ch. 17. Before his father Aaron died, Eleazar had to start functioning in a prominent position before the congregation to ensure a smooth transition to his leadership. Ordinarily animals were sacrificed on or near the altar; in this case the animal was slaughtered outside the camp.

19:4–8 The total burning of the animal was also unusual, particularly since this animal was burned away from the altar. Symbolic items associated with cleansing—cedar wood and hyssop and scarlet (see Lev. 14:4)—were then added to the fire. All were burned to ashes. The ritual made both the priest and those who helped him unclean.

wash

(Heb. rachats) (19:7, 8, 19; Gen. 18:4; Lev. 16:4, 24, 26, 28; Is. 1:16; 4:4)

Strong's #7364

Water was scarce, but laws of ritual demanded much washing. The Israelites washed their hands after returning from the market, before meals, and at many other times; and they immersed their bodies before entering the synagogue or temple courts. Bathing for the purpose of physical cleansing or hygiene is seldom mentioned in the Bible (Ex. 2:5; 2 Sam. 11:2), but foot washing was a normal part of hospitality. A servant met visitors at the entry, removed their sandals, and washed their feet. Jesus taught the lesson of becoming a servant by washing the disciples' feet (John 13:3–17). Jesus' sacrificial death brought about the spiritual purification for believers that the ritual washing of the law was unable to achieve (Eph. 5:25–27; Titus 3:5; Heb. 9:9–14).

19:9, 10 The ashes of the heifer were used in sacrificial rituals. The ashes were added to water, and the resultant mixture was used in certain rites of purification. for purifying from sin: What might be regarded as magical in a pagan context is here a visible symbol of God's inner work of purifying a person or object from sin.

19:11–13 The ashes and water had particular meaning for a person who had touched a dead body. Again, the sprinkling of the water of purification was more than a physical cleansing; it signified a submission to spiritual cleansing as well.

19:14–19 Various instances of death and uncleanness are listed in these verses. This passage may have been a response to practical questions posed by the people. For example, if a man died in a tent, the people would certainly want to know what was required of them and how far the uncleanness extended. And what would happen if a person touched the body of a dead man in the field or in a grave?

19:20–22 One who did not purify himself rejected God's grace and consequently incurred His wrath. The issues were so serious that the one who applied the waters of purification to another became unclean also. These rituals were not given to make the lives of the people difficult. They were given to graciously instruct the people about the nature of true holiness.

20:1 The expression the first month lacks the notice of a year. Most likely, this was the fortieth year, the end of the sojourn in the wilderness.

20:2 The words no water convey a sense of déjà vu. Having no water was the subject of the first crisis that the Israelites had in their journey out of Egypt (Ex. 17). Here, in the fortieth year since the Exodus, the same problem arose, provoking the same ingratitude and anger from the people.

20:8 Moses was to take his rod, but was only to speak to the rock. A generation earlier, God's words were equally specific. At that time, Moses was told to take his rod and "strike the rock" (Ex. 17:6). On the first occasion, Moses did exactly what God had commanded; on the second occasion, he did not.

20:10 The words of Moses are shocking: Hear now, you rebels! These words are understandable to be sure. But they are the words of one who had crossed the line, whose patience had been tried to the breaking point.

20:11 In his rage, Moses did not speak to the rock as God had commanded. Instead he raised his rod and struck the rock twice. When he disobeyed, Moses violated all that he had stood for over the last 40 years! God was not displaying anger, but Moses fell into deliberate, unrighteous anger. And in his anger, Moses lost his own stake in the Promised Land. What a huge loss for just a moment of disobedience!

20:12 God's judgment comes in expected severity, given the nature of Moses' offense. Moses is charged with the double sin of not believing in God and not hallowing Him before the people. Hallow means to "treat as holy." God saw Moses' action as a lack of respect and awe for His holiness. God's instructions were not honored. Moses, who for so long had been concerned with the reputation of God (14:13–19), slighted the Lord by not following His clear instructions in the presence of the congregation. Aaron also was indicted and sentenced by the Lord. For both brothers, the sentence was to join the death march of the older generation. Neither of them would enter Canaan.

20:13 Meribah, or "Contention," is the name given to the place of Moses' sin. This is the same name that was given 40 years earlier to the location of the first water crisis (Ex. 17:7).

20:14–21 Moses used diplomacy in his appeal to the king of Edom, testifying to the saving work of the Lord in delivering the people of Israel from Egypt. He also made what appears to be a most reasonable request: let us pass through your country. When Edom refused passage, Moses countered with an even more gentle request and reassured the Edomites that the Israelites had not come to conquer. This request was refused with a show of force.

The King's Highway

The King's Highway was a major north-south road of Palestine. A mountainous road between Saudi Arabia and Damascus, it ran close to the desert east of the Jordan River. The King's Highway crossed lands that were controlled by Edomites, Moabites, Ammonites, and Israelites. In places it was not at all a "king's highway," for it followed wadis (Zered, Arnon, and Jabbok) that were too steep and rough for armies or caravans to travel.

Another road ran part of the way alongside the King's Highway. This road connected Edom to Rabbath-bene-ammon across flat wilderness land. Although this road helped travelers escape the steep wadis, the lack of water along the way often caused problems.

The northern part of the land on the eastern side of the Jordan River enjoyed many contacts with Palestine; several roads ran down the mountains into the Jordan valley. At shallow places—fords—travelers could cross the Jordan and then continue on the road to the cities of Beth Shean, Shechem, and Jericho.

20:22–29 Mount Hor is possibly Jebel Madurah, a mountain about 15 miles northeast of Kadesh, on the northwest border of Edom. The mountain is on the direct route from Kadesh to Moab. It was here that the sad news came that Aaron was going to die. Eleazar received the duties of Aaron's priesthood. Soon the body of Moses would be left on another mountain, and Joshua would join Eleazar as a spiritual leader of the new generation. The thirty days of mourning for Aaron indicates the high esteem in which he was held by his brother and the people.

21:1–3 The first of Israel's military victories against the Canaanites came as the result of an attack by the king of Arad. The text emphasizes that the attackers were Canaanites and that the attack was unprovoked. The Israelites fought valiantly and God fought for them. The Israelites triumphed over the army of Arad and destroyed its cities. This victory was the beginning of Israel's triumphant march into the Promised Land.

21:4, 5 The long journey around the land of Edom was necessary because the king of Edom refused to grant Moses' request for passage through his territory (20:14–21). After the first flush of victory (21:1–3), this circuitous route was particularly unpleasant to the people of Israel. Once again, they started complaining against Moses and God. The people again (see 11:6) protested God's provision of manna, calling it this worthless bread. As the psalmist later observed: "How often they provoked Him in the wilderness, and grieved Him in the desert!" (Ps. 78:40). In their contempt of the "bread of heaven" (see Ps. 78:23, 24), the people were actually spurning God, who had given them this miraculous food.

21:6 God's discipline came upon the people in the form of fiery serpents. Snakes with poisonous venom for which there was no antidote caused raging fevers and agonizing deaths.

21:7–9 The pain of the venomous bites drove the people to repent, and they begged Moses to intervene on their behalf. God instructed Moses to make an image of one of the serpents and to set it on a pole. Anyone who had been bitten and looked at the image lived. The raising of such a contemptible symbol on a pole ordinarily would have caused the people to shrink away in revulsion. But in this case the Israelites had to look at the serpent's image in order to live. Jesus pointed to this stunning image in His dialogue with Nicodemus (see John 3:14, 15) as an analogy to His own execution. To the Jews, crucifixion was a sign of a curse. Therefore, just as the Israelites had to look on the repugnant, uplifted image of a serpent to be saved, we today have to look at the uplifted image of Jesus on a cross in order to be saved from our sins.

21:10–13 The Israelites went around the region of Edom and entered the territory of Moab, which was just east of Jericho. It became the new staging area for the conquest of the land.

Wilderness Wanderings

21:14, 15 The Book of the Wars of the LORD refers to an early collection of songs and writings known today only from this citation. The fact that Numbers draws upon other early Hebrew writings shows that the ancient Hebrew peoples had other literature in addition to Scripture. The song is difficult to translate today.

21:16–20 Beer means “Well.” At last the people had come to a place where they could dig a well and find adequate water. God had graciously provided for them and had given them a taste of the Promised Land that they would soon occupy. The song of vv. 17, 18 may be called “The Song of the Well.” Mattanah, Nahaliel, Bamoth, and the tableland of Pisgah are not known to us today; they were merely stopping places of the nation along the route to the land of promise.

21:21–26 The defeat of Sihon king of the Amorites began with his rejection of a request for safe passage, not unlike a similar rejection from the king of Edom (20:14–21). In the case of Edom, Israel was not permitted by God to engage in a war of conquest. The territory of Edom was protected by the Lord in an ancient covenant (see Gen. 36; Deut. 2:4, 5). No such protection was given to the Amorites, however; they were among the peoples whom Israel was commissioned to destroy (see Ex. 33:2; 34:11). Sihon not only rejected the request of Israel, but gathered for war against Israel at Jahaz. Israel completely defeated Sihon. This was the first of her victories east of the Jordan River. Israel conquered all of the cities that had belonged to the Amorites. This was part of the plan of God: Israel would live in the cities of her vanquished foes (Deut. 2:26–37).

21:27–32 Those who speak in proverbs refers not to wisdom sayings as in the Book of Proverbs, but to taunt songs as seen elsewhere in this chapter. The song begins with a recital of the earlier victory of the Amorites over the people of Moab and their god Chemosh. After defeating Sihon and the Amorites, Israel became a formidable threat to Moab (22:3). Verses 31, 32 refer to further encroachments of Israel in the land of the Amorites.

21:33–35 The defeat of Og king of Bashan immediately followed the defeat of the Amorites. The people of Israel had gained the control of all the land east of the Jordan River and north of the Arnon River. These early victories were part of the holy war of God and were celebrated by Israel as a part of her worship tradition (see Deut. 3:1–11; Ps. 135:8–12; 136:17–22). God righteously and faithfully fulfilled His promise to Abraham (Gen. 15:7–21) that one day the sins of the Amorites would be judged and the people of promise would inherit their land.

22:1 the plains of Moab: With these words we come to the end of the travels of Israel described in the Book of Numbers. Not until the Book of Joshua does the story line of travel and conquest resume. On the side of the Jordan across from Jericho refers to the area they had conquered so far, territory that would be settled by two and a half tribes (ch. 32). However, the heart of the land was west of the Jordan River. The first city there that the Israelites would need to conquer was the oldest walled city in the world, ancient Jericho.

22:2–5 Chapters 22–24 focus on Balak, the king of Moab, and Balaam, whom Balak hired to destroy Israel by spiritual means. Moab was not yet facing Israel’s threatening armies. But Balak knew that his enemy Sihon of Heshbon had been defeated by Israel (21:21–32), and he had reason to fear that he and his kingdom would be next. He and the people of Moab were exceedingly afraid and sick with dread. Balak believed that he could not fight Israel on the field of battle and win. So he decided to fight them on another level—that of spiritual warfare. The elders of Midian with whom Balak consulted were the leaders of a mobile people with whom Balak may have had a mutual agreement of protection.

22:5 Balak sought out a pagan prophet who might engage Israel in spiritual warfare by causing her “gods,” as they thought, to cease protecting them. Only then would Balak and Moab be safe from this formidable foe. The Moabites believed that blessings and cursings from the gods could be manipulated by skilled agents, who presumed to be able to traffic with the gods. At the time, the most famous of these agents was Balaam of Mesopotamia. In 1967, a discovery was made in Jordan of an eighth-century B.C. inscription of prophecies of Balaam. This discovery in what was ancient Moab is stunning evidence of the renown of this prophet even hundreds of years after his death. Yet the Balaam of Scripture is thoroughly reprehensible. In Scripture he becomes a paradigm of evil, a nearly satanic figure (see 31:8, 16; Deut. 23:4, 5; Josh. 13:22; 24:9, 10; Neh. 13:2; Mic. 6:5; 2 Pet. 2:15; Jude 11; Rev. 2:14). Balaam was a prophet who specialized in animal divination. It was thought that such prophets could in some mysterious manner influence the gods by various rites. Yet Balaam became an unwilling agent of some of the most sublime prophecies of the glorious future of Israel (chs. 23; 24).

22:6–8 The strong reputation of Balaam, who was believed to be able to influence the gods, is indicated in the phrasing he whom you bless is blessed, and he whom you curse is cursed. Behind all of this, of course, is the reality of God’s irrevocable blessing on Israel and His standing curse on all who attempted to curse them (see Gen. 12:2, 3). In v. 8, Balaam speaks of the LORD as though he were intimate with Him. Because he was an internationally known soothsayer, it’s likely that he had heard enough about Israel from emissaries of Moab and Midian to have learned the name of the God of Israel. Indeed, the story of God’s deliverance of Israel from Egypt would have been widely known throughout the Middle East (see Deut. 2:25).

22:9–14 The first encounter of the servants of Moab and Midian with Balaam ended in failure. God mercifully instructed Balaam, in what may have been a night vision, that he was not to go with the men to curse Israel, because they were blessed. Since Israel was under the blessing of God, any attempt to curse that nation would have been an attack on the word of God that would have brought the one who cursed Israel under God's curse (see Gen. 12:3).

22:15–21 The second encounter of the emissaries of Moab and Midian with Balaam seemed to reverse things. The emissaries came with more noble persons and with grander gifts, bribes, and promises. Again, Balaam spoke of God in a familiar manner: the word of the LORD my God. This was not a confession of faith in God. Rather, it was a sly manipulation on the part of Balaam, a bold and false claim to be a medium of Israel's "god" just as he was the agent for many other gods. The duplicity of Balaam is seen in the way that God came to him the second time, reversing the clear orders He had given before (v. 12). Had Balaam been a true prophet, the words of God in v. 12 would have been definitive. But motivated by greed (2 Pet. 2:15; Jude 11), Balaam went to get a "new" word from God.

22:22–30 God's anger was aroused against Balaam, apparently because Balaam intended to do what Balak had hired him to do, to curse Israel. God could not have been angry at his going, for He had given Balaam permission (v. 20). But He had also given Balaam orders to speak "only the word which I speak to you" (v. 20). Apparently, Balaam planned to say whatever brought the highest amount of money. The Angel of the LORD refers to the presence of God (see Gen. 22:11, 15). God was an adversary to Balaam. The donkey saw the Angel of the LORD: Balaam was supposed to have been able to communicate with the gods through animals. However, in this situation, the "seer" was blind to the presence of the true God. It was the animal who was the seer, perceiving the true will of God in the angel that blocked the path.

22:31–35 Then the LORD opened Balaam's eyes: The spiritually blind seer finally saw the majesty of the One whom the donkey saw all along. Now the pagan prophet was brought to his knees. His sin was the sin of willfulness: he had wanted to curse those whom God had blessed. In the strongest manner, the Angel of the Lord instructed Balaam to speak only what God spoke to him.

22:36–40 Balaam's statement, the word that God puts in my mouth, that I must speak, must have been puzzling to Balak (see 23:11, 25; 24:10, 25). The sacrifices of v. 40 were not to God, of course. These were pagan sacrifices to idols. That which Balak sent to Balaam included the livers, which Balaam used in divination (24:1).

22:41 The high places of Baal were selected not only because of the view they afforded. They were places of pagan worship.

23:1–6 The use of seven altars and the offering of a bull and a ram on each one was a part of Balaam's pagan ritual. Afterward, God in His mercy gave Balaam a true message to speak. The expression the LORD put a word in Balaam's mouth is the same type of language used of true prophets (see Jer. 1:9). God used this pagan to bless His people.

23:7–10 The first oracle of Balaam set the pace for the rest. There were seven oracles in all. Each is introduced with the words he took up his oracle and said (23:7, 18; 24:3, 15, 20, 21, 23). The word translated oracle is the word usually translated proverb. In this case, it means "prophetic speeches." In the first oracle, Balaam described the purpose for which he was called, to curse Israel. However, he was unable to curse Israel because God would not allow it. From the worship site of pagan idolatry (see 22:41), he viewed Israel from a distance and saw that they were a people distinct from all other nations. Who can count the dust of Jacob suggests his attempt at ascertaining their number by divination. The numbers were vast, and he had no handle on them. my end: This is a reference to Balaam's destiny. He would not share Israel's glorious life in heaven.

23:11, 12 The response of Balak was one of stunned horror. He had brought Balaam to curse Israel, but Balaam had blesed them bountifully!

23:13–17 Balak foolishly thought that going to another place would influence God to allow a curse to be placed on His people. Then the LORD met Balaam: The language implies that Balaam was still attempting to be the channel for a curse. Perhaps he was looking for a stronger force that would override the power of God that had made him bless Israel. But it was not to be. Again Balaam's words came from the only living God.

23:18–24 The second oracle was addressed to Balak, an unwilling listener. Balaam confessed a wondrous truth about the God of Israel: He is unable to change; He cannot lie. Because God had blessed Israel, Balaam was powerless to change this to a curse. God had seen many examples of evil in His people during the wilderness years. Nevertheless, there simply was no means of sorcery or divination that Balaam could use to destroy their blessing. We who live in Christ can be encouraged by these words today. God cannot lie, nor can He renege on His promise of life for His people (see Rom. 8:31–39).

23:25–28 Neither curse them at all, nor bless them at all! Balak nearly said, “I will pay you just to be quiet!” But again he thought all that was needed was a better location.

24:1, 2 it pleased the LORD to bless Israel: God was determined to bless His own people. The words the Spirit of God came upon him refer to the empowerment that gave Balaam his message and its direction. Dramatically, God controlled Balaam and spoke clearly through a person who was His enemy.

24:3–9 The third oracle is marked by a lengthy introduction that speaks of the powerful things that had taken place within Balaam. The heart of the third oracle is a blessing on the tribes of Israel as they were about to enter the land of Canaan. Their tents were beautiful in their placement, but soon they would fill the land in great prosperity. Their king would be prodigious, for God would empower them to destroy all enemies. Israel is pictured as a lion, not to be trifled with. Finally in v. 9, Balaam quoted Gen. 12:3. Those who bless Israel will be blessed. Those who curse Israel will be cursed.

24:10–14 In the aftermath of the third oracle, Balak wanted to dismiss Balaam entirely. But Balaam was not to be stopped.

24:15–19 The fourth oracle has the longest introduction, which builds on the introduction to the third oracle (vv. 3, 4). I see Him, but not now . . . A Star shall come out of Jacob: This poetic language clearly refers to the Messiah. The pagan Balaam had a vision of the coming of the Hebrew Messiah, the Lord Jesus Christ! He was visible from afar. He was like a Star, radiant and beautiful. He was like a Scepter, majestic and powerful. And He is the victor over His enemies, including Moab—the nation that hired Balaam to curse Israel! All nations who resisted Israel and God’s work would come under the curse they unwittingly embraced. Among them was Edom, who rejected the request of Moses for safe passage (20:14–21). The One out of Jacob, the Messiah, will be victor over all His foes (see Ps. 2; 110; Rev. 19:11–21).

Scepter

(Heb. shebet) (24:17; Gen. 49:28; Lev. 27:32) Strong's #7626

The word can vary in meaning depending upon its context. Potential meanings include “tribe” (Gen. 49:28), “staff” (1 Chr. 11:23), and “rod” (Ps. 23:4). Because a king would often hold a scepter, it became a symbol of a king, especially the kingship of the Messiah: He would rule God’s people (24:17; Gen. 49:10; 1 Cor. 15:24–28). Yet when this Hebrew word is translated staff, it symbolizes the concern and care of a shepherd for his sheep, the kind of care the Lord has for His people (Mic. 7:14). When the word is translated rod it symbolizes judgment (Ps 2:9).

24:20 The fifth oracle is brief, coming without a pause. It is a curse on Amalek, the first people to fight with Israel in their wilderness experience, and the first to bring defeat upon themselves (see Ex. 17:8–16). A requital was coming.

24:21, 22 The Kenites were a Midianite tribe (see 10:29; Judg. 1:16). This oracle makes a wordplay between the word Kenite and the similar Hebrew word for nest. Asshur is Assyria.

24:23, 24 In this last oracle the identification of the nations is difficult, but the general sense is clear enough: One nation would rise against another, only to face its own doom. The Hebrew word translated Cyprus was used later in reference to Rome (Dan. 11:30).

25:1 Acacia Grove is another name for the staging area of Israel across the Jordan from Jericho. With these words, the focus of Numbers returns to the camp of Israel. At the end of their long wilderness wanderings, the Israelites had their first encounter with the false religion of Canaan. The phrase the women of Moab is the connecting link between this chapter and chs. 22–24. What the men of Moab could not do, the women were able to accomplish. They trapped the Israelite men in sexual immorality and false worship. For this God punished them. In 31:16, we learn that the principal instigator of this sorry affair was none other than Balaam.

25:3 Baal of Peor: Balaam had taken his stance at this high place for pagan worship (23:28) in preparation for his last set of oracles. It is grimly fitting that the near destruction of the people of Israel should be associated with the debased sexual and idolatrous practices of this site.

25:4, 5 God’s anger flashed yet again toward His errant people. But this was not just another time of trouble; this was the most serious challenge yet. The people had been seduced into joining the worship of Baal. And it was Baal worship that they had been sent to Canaan to eliminate!

25:6–9 Zimri (v. 14), a Hebrew man, became involved with a Midianite woman named Cozbi (v. 15), who may have been a priestess of Baal. Although the nature of the offense isn’t made clear in the text, it could be that their sinful actions were performed at the door of the tabernacle, in full view of the congregation. Phinehas the son of Eleazar, zealous for God’s honor, killed both Zimri and Cozbi with a javelin, thus ending the plague that resulted from this offense.

25:10–15 zealous with My zeal: God’s response is one of praise for Phinehas. The Hebrew word translated zealous can also be translated jealous. Phinehas did not want the Israelite camp to be defiled with immorality connected to Baal worship. God honored Phinehas for his zeal with what He called My covenant of peace.

25:16–18 Harass the Midianites: God commanded Moses to institute a holy war against Midian in retaliation for the unholy and immoral war waged against Israel by that nation. The war was engaged in shortly, but this is not reported until ch. 31. The repetition of the names and the place of the debacle in v. 18 serves to memorialize the event.

26:1 after the plague: These words are a turning point in Numbers. The plague was the end of the first generation. Under God's grace, their sons and daughters were ready to begin anew. They would inherit the Promised Land.

26:2 The words take a census remind us of the beginning of the Book of Numbers (1:2). This is a new beginning and a new census. The numbers compare favorably with the numbers of the first generation. Despite all the people who had died in the wilderness, the total population was not markedly different. Again, this was a sign of God's blessing on the Israelites.

26:5 The children of Reuben: This chapter focuses specifically on the tribal units, with considerable attention paid to the family groupings and the notable persons. It is fitting that this census is considerably more complete than the one in ch. 1: These were the people who would actually enter and inherit the Promised Land.

26:51 who were numbered: The totals of the twelve tribes are very similar in the two census listings. Reuben decreased from 46,500 to 43,730; Simeon decreased from 59,300 to 22,200; Gad decreased from 45,650 to 40,500; Judah increased from 74,600 to 76,500; Issachar increased from 54,400 to 64,300; Zebulun increased from 57,400 to 60,500; Manasseh increased from 32,200 to 52,700; Ephraim decreased from 40,500 to 32,500; Benjamin increased from 35,400 to 45,600; Dan increased from 62,700 to 64,400; Asher increased from 41,500 to 53,400; Naphtali decreased from 53,400 to 45,400. The total decreased slightly, from 603,550 to 601,730.

26:52–56 The land of Canaan was the inheritance of the people from the Lord. It was His gift to them, prompted by His love. Two principles were to be used in dividing the land: large tribes were to get large portions, but the determinations were to be made by lot.

26:57–62 The numbering of the Levites follows that of the other tribes, just as in the first census. In this case more names and families are given, for this was the list that would be used once the people were in the land. The total number of Levite males had increased to 23,000, which was quite close to the earlier total of 22,000 (3:39).

26:63–65 not a man of those: The persons numbered in the second census did not include any who were numbered in the first census. Of the survivors, only Caleb and Joshua had been over the age of 20 at the time of the debacle at Kadesh (chs. 13; 14).

27:1–5 Five sisters—the daughters of Zelophehad—approached Moses and Eleazar to make a claim for their inheritance in the land. Their father had died in the wilderness, as had his entire generation. Since he had no sons, there was no inheritance for him. On the basis of their father's memory, the daughters asked Moses for a possession among our father's brothers. In doing this, they were cutting across the social mores of the day. In ancient Israel, women did not inherit land. Yet because their case made sense, Moses took the issue to the Lord. This situation gives us some insight as to how the law worked in Israel. Decisions were made on the basis of need and request. If a decision was difficult, the leaders would go to the Lord for direction.

27:6–11 speak what is right: God's decision was that the daughters of Zelophehad had presented a just cause. They would inherit land in the name of their father. The case would become a precedent for other families in which there were no sons, only daughters. If there were no daughters, the inheritance would go to the nearest surviving relative. This was a significant departure from the custom of the day. See ch. 36 for complications that arose from this issue.

27:12–14 The time for the beginning of the conquest was near, which meant that the end of Moses' life was also near. Although God would not allow Moses to enter the land, He would, by His grace, allow Moses to see the land from afar.

27:15–17 set a man over the congregation: Moses' concern was for the well-being of the community, not for himself. Who would lead Israel after his death?

Learning to Pray like Moses

Prayer is a scary, awkward proposition for many people. It's the kind of activity that they would just as soon leave to the religious "professionals." But Scripture encourages us with numerous examples of people who demonstrate that prayer is an everyday activity for everyday people. Moses, who asked God for a successor (27:15–17), is a case in point.

Moses was a hard-working man. He went through at least three different careers—privileged ruler in Egypt, forgotten shepherd in Midian, and national liberator and leader of the Israelites. Throughout these pursuits, Moses regularly turned to God in prayer. Consider the following conversations that he had with God:

- He debated with God about his fitness to lead Israel out of Egypt (Ex. 3:11—4:17; 6:28—7:7).
- He interceded on behalf of the Egyptians (Ex. 8:9–13).
- He asked for water for his thirsty nation of refugee people (Ex. 15:24, 25).
- He pleaded with God about the sinful Hebrews and what God would do to them (Ex. 32:11–13, 31–34).
- He interceded with God concerning his sister's leprosy, after she exhibited prejudice against Moses' foreign-born spouse (Num. 12:4–15).
- He prayed for the transition of leadership to Joshua (Num. 27:15–17).
- He appealed to God to allow him to join his people in their entrance to the Promised Land (Deut. 3:23–25; 34:1–4).

Moses demonstrated the often forgotten truth that God is more than ready to hear our complaints, appeals, and frustrations. Are you willing to approach God in prayer about the problems that vex you? Why not pause to do so right now?

27:18–23 It appears that there were two candidates to succeed Moses: Caleb and Joshua, the two spies who had honored the Lord when the entire nation would not (ch. 14). God's choice was Joshua. One of the qualifications for the job was the presence of the Holy Spirit, a mark not unlike the qualification for spiritual leadership in the NT (see Acts 6:3). The Lord instructed Moses to present Joshua to the congregation so that there would not be a power struggle after his death. Further, Moses began to delegate work to Joshua so that the transition would begin while Moses was still alive. Moses laid his hands on Joshua, a symbol of the transfer of power. He invested Joshua with the authority to lead Israel (see Acts 13:1–3).

28:2 My offerings made by fire: The Book of Numbers frequently inserts various materials into the flow of the narrative. Among such materials are the sections on sacrifice in chs. 28; 29. The following chapters focus on the nature of the offerings God required on a seasonal and festival basis.

28:7 In this case, the drink offering was beer; usually it was wine. Beer is made from fermented grains; wine is made from fruit, usually grapes. Both were used in the worship of God, to be poured on the altar in required measure.

28:9, 10 The offerings on the Sabbath day were in addition to the offerings made every day.

Sabbath

(Heb. shabbath) (28:9; Ex. 20:8; Lev. 19:3; 23:3; Deut. 5:12; Jer. 17:22)

Strong's #7676

The word derives from the verb meaning “to cease” or “to rest” (Gen. 2:3; Ex. 31:17). The Sabbath is the seventh day in the Hebrew calendar, or Saturday (Ex. 16:26; 20:10). God established this day as a time to rest because He had created all things in six days and had rested on the seventh day (Ex. 20:11). The Sabbath not only mirrored His own actions at creation, but it also was designed as a day to remember God, specifically His covenant with Israel (Ex. 31:12–18). In addition to this special day, the principle of a sabbath rest was also applied to the land every seventh year (Lev. 25:1–7). Sabbath rest holds promise of the ultimate salvation that God will accomplish for His people. As certainly as He delivered them from Egypt through Moses, so will He deliver His people from sin at the end of the age through the Great Redeemer (Gen. 3:15; Heb. 4).

28:11–15 The offerings at the beginnings of your months were in addition to daily and weekly offerings.

28:16–25 The celebration of Passover (9:1–14) included special sacrifices at the altar. On the first and seventh day of the period, no work was done. The entire period was marked by the eating of unleavened bread.

28:26–31 The Feast of Weeks occurred 50 days after Passover and the Feast of Unleavened Bread.

29:1–6 The celebration of the Feast of Trumpets involved blowing ram's horns (contrast the silver trumpets in 10:2). Later, this festival became identified with the new year festival.

29:7–11 The Day of Atonement, or Yom Kippur, was regarded as the most holy day of all. Lev. 16 describes this as a day of fasting rather than feasting, of solemnity rather than rejoicing.

29:12–38 The celebration of the Feast of Tabernacles or Succoth was complex. There was an order to be followed over a period of eight days, and the eighth day had its own distinct ceremony. As in ch. 7, the mini-paragraphs for the days of the festival make use of deliberate repetition in order to evoke the pageantry and solemn ritual of these occasions.

29:39, 40 These verses conclude the summary of sacrifices of chs. 28; 29. The sacrifices and offerings listed in these two chapters are the bare minimum the people had to present to the Lord throughout the year.

Sacrifices of Joy

God's commands concerning sacrifices and offerings were given to people who were already in relationship with Him, who were already part of the covenant community, and who were already His people. Sacrifices and offerings to God were never to be understood as a means of salvation. Instead, God designed the sacrificial system in order to cultivate a consciousness of Himself among His people. First of all, the sacrifices provided a catalyst, an occasion for dealing with a person's sin and for restoring a person before God. Furthermore, these sacrifices cultivated the person's sense of perspective. The cleansing rituals of the priests who sacrificed the offerings pointed to God's holiness. God was infinitely greater than any one person, and He certainly deserved everyone's gratitude and praise. A worshiper could physically express that praise to God through a fellowship offering. Of course, this sacrificial system was by no means cheap; all of the offerings were costly. But this fact impressed on the worshiper that only one's best could be given to God.

Sacrifices were not ends in themselves. God was primarily interested in the person. The mandatory sacrifices served to remind a worshiper of his or her relationship to God. A person who brought the right sacrifices, but whose heart was far from God, would never please Him. The Old Testament writers stated again and again that God is more concerned with a person's heart (Gen. 4:1–8; Ps. 40:6–8; Is. 1:10–18; Mic. 6:6–8). Hosea recorded God's statement, "I desire mercy and not sacrifice" (Hos. 6:6; see Matt. 9:13; 12:7). The animals and the grain, the oil and the wine, the incense and the ash—all were ultimately accompaniments to the presentation of oneself as a living sacrifice to God (Rom. 12:1, 2).

The sacrifices and offerings in the Old Testament pointed forward to the death of the Savior, Jesus (Heb. 9:26). The blood of bulls and goats, the outpouring of wine, and the burning of oil had no power to overcome sin. Yet because Jesus is perfect and is God's only Son, His death atones for sin (Heb. 10:1–10). Because of His death, we can approach the holy God. The complex sacrificial system shows how all of life, with its different spheres and rhythms, belongs to God and can be lived with a sense of restoration and gratitude toward Him.

30:1, 2 The key issue is clear: one who makes a vow shall not break his word. Vows that are made to the Lord must be carried out (see Deut. 23:21–23; Eccl. 5:1–7).

30:3–5 if a woman makes a vow to the LORD: In Israelite culture, an unmarried young woman was under the protection of her father. If she entered into a vow, that vow might have brought her father into an obligation he did not want to fulfill or could not fulfill. For that reason, the father could overrule the vow. If he did not, then all her vows would stand, including any complications that they might bring.

30:6–8 The preexisting vows of a newly married woman could have brought her husband under some obligation. Therefore, the husband had the opportunity to overrule vows his wife may have made before she came under his protection. In such a case, God would release the woman from her vow. If the husband heard the vow but did not overrule it, then the vow with all its possible complications would stand.

30:9 The vow of a widow or a divorced woman would stand, because it did not complicate the obligations of either father or husband.

30:10–15 In the case of a woman who entered into a vow to the Lord after marriage, the husband could overrule the vow. His silence would allow it to remain in force. Many of these situations may have been decided in much the same manner as the case of the daughters of Zelophehad (ch. 27)—that is, on the basis of particular cases that were brought before God for a decision.

31:2 Chapter 31 refers back to ch. 25, the debacle of Israel's sin at Baal Peor and the role that the Midianites played in orchestrating the event.

vengeance

(Heb. naqam) (31:2; 1 Sam. 24:12; Is. 1:24) Strong's #5358

The Hebrew verb translated take vengeance can have a negative or a positive connotation. On the one hand, the Israelites were forbidden to take revenge because such actions were ultimately self-serving (Lev. 19:18). On the other hand, the Scriptures speak of a righteous vengeance that involves the pursuit of justice, virtue, and the defense of God's majesty. God declared that only He can seek this type of vengeance: "Vengeance is Mine" (Deut. 32:35). But He often uses people, as in 31:2, to carry out His revenge.

Go to the List of Word Studies

31:3–6 The preparations for battle included setting apart a thousand from each tribe, a way of ensuring the sense of participation of the whole people in the war. Phinehas, the heroic figure who stemmed a plague with his bold action (25:7, 8), was commander in the field. As a priest, he led the armies of Israel with holy articles and the signal trumpets. This was not an ordinary conflict; it was a holy war, done in the name and power of God.

31:7–11 Victory was assured, given the blessing of God on the armies of Israel. The Israelites killed all the males and the kings, and took the women and their little ones as captives.

31:12–24 When the victors made their way back to the encampments of Israel, they found not praise but anger. Have you kept all the women alive: The key to Moses' anger is the sinfulness of the women. These women had caused Israel to sin, as they had been counseled by Balaam. Balaam had been slain, along with the kings and notables of the people (v. 8). Now the women and their male children needed to be killed as well. Only the young girls who were still virgins were to be kept alive, for only they were provably innocent of the sexual sins of their mothers. Since this was a holy war, the soldiers and their possessions needed to go through extraordinary purification rites. This purification demanded both cleansing fire and water.

Cities of Refuge

The idea of providing cities of refuge (see also Josh. 20:1–9) for capital offenses is rooted in the tension between customary tribal law (retaliation or revenge, in which the blood relative is obligated to execute vengeance) and civil law (carried out less personally by an assembly according to a standard code of justice).

Blood feuds are usually associated with nomadic groups; legal procedures, with villages and towns. Israel, a society in the process of settling down, found it necessary to adopt an intermediate step regulating manslaughter, so that an innocent person would not be killed before standing trial. Absolution was possible only by being cleared by the assembly and by the eventual death of the high priest (when there would be general amnesty).

31:25–47 The balance of the chapter details the division of the plunder. The numbers are huge, suggesting a great victory. The division among those who had gone to war and those who had not set a standard for future battles. The portion that was to be regarded as the Lord's also became a standard.

31:48–54 While the record of the destruction of the people of Midian is distressing, the report from the officers of Israel that not a man of us is missing is awe-inspiring. None of their soldiers was lost in the battle. In praise and gratitude to God, the officers made a special offering, which Moses brought into the tabernacle as a memorial. The size of the officers' gift was extraordinary: a total of over 400 pounds of gold!

Bible Times & Culture Notes

Gold

Gold was the heaviest metal known to the Israelites, and the easiest to shape into intricate artistic designs. The Bible says the Israelites bought gold from Ophir and Parvaim (which may have been in India—1 Chr. 29:4; 2 Chr. 3:6), as well as from Sheba and Raamah, which were probably on the southern coast of Arabia (Ezek. 27:22). Despite being scarce, gold was widely used in building Solomon's temple, in decorating the homes of the kings, and in making jewelry. Gold displayed its owner's prestige or royal power.

Gold ore usually has impurities of other metals, which lend their characteristic color (e.g., copper impurities make yellow gold). Metalworkers in biblical times did not know how to remove these impurities, so they tested gold by rubbing it across a black stone called a touchstone and observing the color of its mark. Zechariah suggests this when he describes how God will test His people (Zech. 13:9).

32:1–5 The tribes of Reuben and Gad wanted the land east of the Jordan which Israel had taken from Sihon and Og (ch. 21). The flocks and herds of Reuben and Gad were large, and the people of these tribes believed that the conquered area east of the Jordan would be good for them. Therefore, they came to Moses to request this land as their tribal inheritance.

32:6–15 And Moses said: Moses' initial response was one of outrage and dismay. It appears that he was concerned that these tribes were going to shirk their duty to help the other tribes conquer the territory west of the Jordan. Moses was afraid they were going to drop out of the battle before it was fully joined. The encounter with these men gave Moses an opportunity to rehearse the story of God's redemption of Israel and Israel's subsequent history and to use that story as a warning for these people.

32:16–19 The men of Reuben and Gad attempted to reassure Moses that they were not opting out of the battle at all. They simply wanted to build some provision for their wives and families while they were gone, and then they would join Israel's army until the entire Promised Land was secured. We will not return: Their promise of faithfulness to the Israelite army is couched in strong words. They would return to their wives only when every tribe had received its inheritance.

32:20–27 Moses and the men of Reuben and Gad negotiated. Plans were made for the fighting men of these tribes to join the armies of Israel for the period of the conquest.

32:28–32 Finally the deal is struck between Moses and the leaders of Reuben and Gad. If the people would do as they had promised, if they would fight alongside the others until the conquest was complete, they could certainly live in the land they chose—the land east of the Jordan. If not, they would lose all choice in the land at all.

32:33–42 It is not until the end of the narrative that we learn that one half of the tribe of Manasseh had joined Reuben and Gad in their proposal. Moses agreed to their plan and led them in the distribution of the land east of the Jordan. The villages and cities are listed, praising God for victory over them. Naming them shows how God had led His people to the Promised Land and enabled them to build cities and villages.

33:1 These are the journeys: Chapter 33 records the journey of the people of Israel from Rameses in Egypt (v. 3) to the plains of Moab (v. 49). The chapter is marked by significant difficulties. Most of the places cited are not known today. This is because for the most part they were not cities but merely encampments in the Wilderness of Sinai.

33:2 Moses wrote down: These remarkable words indicate that Moses himself wrote down the following passage.

33:3 Rameses is usually identified with Tanis (see Gen. 47:11; Ex. 1:11). There is a certain structural symmetry to the listing of these place names in this chapter. In essence, this list of place names is a song of praise to God's faithfulness. With every step and with every encampment, God led them triumphally to the Promised Land. Significantly, there are 40 places mentioned between Rameses and the plains of Moab. Some of the sites recorded here (including many of the ones in vv. 5–18) are mentioned elsewhere in Exodus and Numbers; some are recorded only here (including most of those listed in vv. 19–29). In addition, some of the places mentioned in Exodus and Numbers are not recorded here (including Taberah, in 11:3).

33:6–8 Succoth, Etham, and Pi Hahiroth were west of the Red Sea. The rest of the sites were in the Wilderness of Sinai.

33:38 Mount Hor: With the mention of this place, a quick memorial is given of Aaron, the high priest. fortieth year: The journey from Rameses to Mt. Hor completed the 40-year cycle. Aaron died on the last year of the Israelites' wanderings in the wilderness.

33:50–56 On the staging area for the invasion of the Promised Land, God gave Moses instructions for the people about the conquest of Canaan. Israel was to exterminate the Canaanites and take full possession of their land. For over 400 years, from the time of God's covenant with Abram in Gen. 15:17–21, God had warned that a time would come when He would punish the sinfulness of the Canaanites. The Canaanites, by their continual wicked acts, had no right to live in the land of Canaan. God, whose land it really was, transferred the right of possession to Israel. Therefore, the words come as a legal transfer: for I have given you the land to possess. It was to be divided by lot, with the larger tracts going to the larger tribes, as already described in 26:52–56.

33:55, 56 if you do not drive out the inhabitants of the land: God's commands to Israel to eradicate the Canaanites from the land were ultimately expressions of His mercy to Israel. If the idolatrous Canaanites were allowed to live among God's people, they would have been a constant source of trouble for the Israelites. Sadly, the experience of Israel in the land led to this very result. This chapter serves as the emotional and logical conclusion of Numbers. The recital of places and the commission for conquest provide the reader a sense of closure for this phase of Israel's life, as well as an anticipation of the future. The last three chapters serve as appendices.

34:1–12 the land of Canaan to its boundaries: Chapter 34 serves as a detailed display of the grandeur of the land that God was about to give to His people (33:53).

34:13–15 To the nine tribes and to the half-tribe is a reminder that Reuben, Gad, and the half-tribe of Manasseh would have their settlements east of the Jordan (32:33). The land of Canaan proper would be inhabited by the remaining nine tribes and the other half-tribe of Manasseh.

34:16–29 The listing of the names of the men serves several purposes: (1) to give authenticity to the record; (2) to memorialize these individuals in the history of Israel; (3) to serve as a legal arrangement so that the transfer of the land to the tribes would be done in order.

34:29 There is a sense in the words these are the ones that the second generation was now the fully accredited substitute for the rebellious first generation.

35:2 give the Levites cities: The Levites were separated from the rest of the population for the holy service of God (1:47–53). They were not to have an allotment of land along with the other tribes (18:24). Nonetheless, the Levites needed places to live and to manage their herds and flocks. The decision of the Lord was that they would be distributed throughout the land in 48 cities. In this way, the Levites were distributed among the people as a symbol of the holy service of God. (see Josh. 20; 21).

Cities of Refuge

In the ancient Middle East, custom dictated that the taking of a life, even by accident, had to be avenged by a member of the victim's family. In response to this ancient practice, God ordered six Levitical cities to be stationed in the land as cities of refuge. A person guilty of unintentional manslaughter could escape blood revenge by fleeing to one of these cities (Josh. 20). No matter where a person lived, there would be a city of refuge within a reasonable distance, because these cities were strategically spread all over the land—three to the east of the Jordan River and three to the west. The Hebrew term translated “refuge” or “asylum” designates a place of escape from the avenger, who was the protector of the family’s rights, the one who made things right.

35:30–34 Whoever kills a person: The people were not to confuse accidental manslaughter with premeditated murder. One who had committed homicide was not permitted to flee to a city of refuge. His crime was to be punished by death.

36:1–4 Chapter 36 presents the interest of the relatives of Zelophehad, who were worried about possible complications of the decision to allow Zelophehad’s daughters to inherit their father’s possession in the land (ch. 27). If the daughters were to marry outside their tribe and family, then the tribal allowances would be hopelessly confused and perhaps even lost.

36:5–13 they may marry only within the family: Moses decided that the family’s concern was legitimate. He did not overrule the earlier decision to allow the women to inherit the portion that would have gone to their father, but He regulated their marriage choices to maintain the integrity of the tribal allotments. In this account, we see the way case law worked in ancient Israel. Specific instances that were not covered clearly in the general legislation would be brought to Moses for disposition. He would seek the word of the Lord on that specific issue and then would pronounce the decision.

Introduction

With the nation of Israel poised at the entrance of Canaan, Moses seized one last opportunity to prepare the people for their new life in the land of their inheritance. Since Moses would not be entering the land with the people, he wanted to make sure that the nation did not forget its covenant with God. Moses' careful review of the laws of God is recorded in the Book of Deuteronomy.

Author and Title The English title of the fifth book of the Pentateuch is derived from the Septuagint, the ancient Greek translation of the Old Testament, which interprets the words in 17:18, “a copy of this law,” as “the second law.” The name Deuteronomy means “the second law.” The name is somewhat of a misnomer because Deuteronomy does not contain a second law. However, it does explain God’s law revealed at Mount Sinai to a second generation of Israelites.

Throughout the centuries, Jews and Christians have believed that Moses wrote Deuteronomy. But during the last two hundred years, some have challenged this position. They have argued that the theology of the book is too advanced for the primitive Israelites at this early stage in their history. But others have maintained that Moses compiled Deuteronomy and wrote most of it. They argue that Mosaic authorship is supported by the book’s consistent covenantal theology, its claims of Mosaic authorship, and the witness of New Testament writers.

Deuteronomy is basically the last will of Moses. In this will, he challenged Israel to remain faithful to the covenant, reminded them of their past history, and pointed to their future of blessings or cursings in the land of Canaan, depending upon their belief and behavior. Moses’ speeches (31:24), the recitation of the Song of Moses (31:30—32:43), and Moses’ blessing on the tribes (33:1–29) largely constitute the Book of Deuteronomy. To this, another author was led by the Spirit of God to add the account of the death of Moses and the tribute to his legacy (34:1–12). Some have argued that Moses himself might have written the account of his death and succession, having foreseen them by divine inspiration. This is certainly possible, but it is not a necessary conclusion for those who hold to Mosaic authorship of the Pentateuch as a whole.

Historical Background The speeches in this book are set against the historical background of all the events of Israel’s history until the time they were spoken, including the Exodus from Egypt, the revelation of God at Mount Sinai, the rebellious responses of Israel to the Lord’s goodness, and God’s constant protection of them. Yet there are a few pivotal events that the book particularly addresses.

The idolatry at Baal Peor was one of those significant moments in Israel’s history (Num. 25). It was there that Israel first experienced the attraction of Baal worship, a factor that would plague its existence for centuries. The people whom Moses addressed in Deuteronomy were those who had survived the plague that the Lord brought in punishment for the sins of the people (4:3). In light of this experience, Moses pleaded with this new generation to be faithful to God's laws. He frequently used the word today in order to emphasize that this new generation could start anew (for example, 1:10, 39; 4:4, 40; 5:1, 3; 6:6; 7:11); they did not have to focus on their rebellious past.

Moses concluded his exhortations to the Israelites with a description of the covenant renewal ceremony that would take place between Mount Ebal and Mount Gerizim. He instructed the Levites to recite on the barren mountaintop of Ebal the curses for those who rejected God's Law. On the lush slopes of Gerizim, the rich blessings for those who obeyed God's law would be recited. With these instructions, Moses anticipated the renewal of the covenant on the other side of the Jordan River. There, the people would gather for the grand moment when they would renew the covenant once again, but this time as inhabitants of the Promised Land (11:29, 30; 27:1–8, 12, 13; Josh. 8:30–35). After describing this future covenantal renewal, Moses himself challenged the people to renew their commitment to God (30:11–20).

Finally, the expectation of Moses' imminent death explains why he gave the book as a testimony to God's law. The Lord had commanded him to leave the words of the law as a testimony to Israel. In response, Moses wrote the words down, gave them to the priests for safekeeping, and commanded the priests to read the word of God every seven years. In this way, Moses not only prepared the new generation for the coming conquest of the land, but also insured that every generation after that would hear God's laws (31:9–13).

Theme and Structure Moses' emphasis on the covenant throughout Deuteronomy is remarkable. He testified to its importance by repeatedly calling the new generation of Israelites to follow its provisions (30:11–20).

In fact, Deuteronomy as a whole reflects the pattern of an ancient Middle Eastern treaty between a lord and a servant. The typical pattern of such a treaty with its approximate corresponding sections in Deuteronomy is as follows: (1) A preamble or introduction (1:1–5)

(2) A review of the past relationship between the parties (1:6—4:49) (3) Basic stipulations that ensured fidelity to the treaty (5:1—26:19) (4) Sanctions in the form of blessings and curses (27:1—30:20) (5) Witnesses to the treaty (32:1)

(6) A provision for the storage and reading of the treaty (31:1—34:12)

While these similarities exist, the Book of Deuteronomy does not slavishly follow the typical treaty structure, but we can conclude that it was written with a basic treaty pattern in mind. Moses impressed on his readers the importance of the covenant not only with his repeated exhortations but also with the structure of the book itself. With Moses' warnings and their renewed commitment to God's covenant, the people were finally ready to enter the Promised Land.

Christ in the Scriptures

The most obvious reference to Christ in Deuteronomy is found in 18:15: "The LORD your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your midst, from your brethren. Him you shall hear." (See also 18:16–19; Acts 7:37.) Moses spoke these words in his final address to the children of Israel.

How was Moses a type of Christ? Again, he was the only biblical figure other than Christ to fill the three offices of prophet (34:10–12), priest (Ex. 32:31–35), and king (as ruler; see 33:4, 5). Both Moses and Christ were in danger of death during childhood. Both were saviors and intercessors. Both were rejected by their brethren.

Deuteronomy 1

The Previous Command to Enter Canaan

¹These are the words which Moses spoke to all Israel ^aon this side of the Jordan in the wilderness, in the ¹plain opposite ²Suph, between Paran, Tophel, Laban, Hazeroth, and Dizahab. In-Text Map: The Five Major Longitudinal Zones of Israel

²*It is* eleven days' journey from Horeb by way of Mount Seir ^bto Kadesh Barnea.

³Now it came to pass ^cin the fortieth year, in the eleventh month, on the first day of the month, that Moses spoke to the children of Israel according to all that the LORD had given him as commandments to them, ^{4d}after he had killed Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt in Heshbon, and Og king of Bashan, who dwelt at Ashtaroth ^ein ³Edrei.

⁵On this side of the Jordan in the land of Moab, Moses began to explain this law, saying, ⁶“The LORD our God spoke to us ^fin Horeb, saying: ‘You have dwelt long ^genough at this mountain.

⁷‘Turn and take your journey, and go to the mountains of the Amorites, to all the neighboring places in the ⁴plain, in the mountains and in the lowland, in the South and on the seacoast, to the land of the Canaanites and to Lebanon, as far as the great river, the River Euphrates.

⁸‘See, I have set the land before you; go in and possess the land which the LORD ⁵swore to your fathers—to ^hAbraham, Isaac, and Jacob—to give to them and their descendants after them.’ Word Studies: swore

Tribal Leaders Appointed

(Ex. 18:13–27)

⁹“And ⁱI spoke to you at that time, saying: ‘I ⁶alone am not able to bear you.

¹⁰‘The LORD your God has multiplied you, ^jand here you are today, as the stars of heaven in multitude.

^{11k}‘May the LORD God of your fathers make you a thousand times more numerous than you are, and bless you ^las He has promised you!

^{12m}‘How can I alone bear your problems and your burdens and your complaints?

¹³‘Choose wise, understanding, and knowledgeable men from among your tribes, and I will make them ⁷heads over you.’

¹⁴“And you answered me and said, ‘The thing which you have told us to do is good.’

¹⁵“So I took ⁿthe heads of your tribes, wise and knowledgeable men, and ⁸made them heads over you, leaders of thousands, leaders of hundreds, leaders of fifties, leaders of tens, and officers for your tribes.

¹⁶“Then I commanded your judges at that time, saying, ‘Hear the cases between your brethren, and ^ojudge righteously between a man and his ^pbrother or the stranger who is with him.

^{17q}‘You shall not show partiality in judgment; you shall hear the small as well as the great; you shall not be afraid in any man’s presence, for ^rthe judgment is God’s. The case that is too hard for you, ^sbring to me, and I will hear it.’

¹⁸“And I commanded you at that time all the things which you should do.

Israel’s Refusal to Enter the Land

(Num. 13:1–33)

¹⁹“So we departed from Horeb, ^tand went through all that great and terrible wilderness which you saw on the way to the mountains of the Amorites, as the LORD our God had commanded us. Then ^uwe came to Kadesh Barnea.

²⁰“And I said to you, ‘You have come to the mountains of the Amorites, which the LORD our God is giving us.

²¹‘Look, the LORD your God has set the land before you; go up and possess it, as the LORD God of your fathers has spoken to you; ^vdo not fear or be discouraged.’

²²“And every one of you came near to me and said, ‘Let us send men before us, and let them search out the land for us, and bring back word to us of the way by which we should go up, and of the cities into which we shall come.’

²³“The plan pleased me well; so ^wI took twelve of your men, one man from each tribe.

^{24x}“And they departed and went up into the mountains, and came to the Valley of Eshcol, and spied it out.

²⁵“They also took some of the fruit of the land in their hands and brought it down to us; and they brought back word to us, saying, ‘It is a ^ygood land which the LORD our God is giving us.’

^{26z}“Nevertheless you would not go up, but rebelled against the command of the LORD your God; ²⁷“and you ^acomplained in your tents, and said, ‘Because the LORD ^bhates us, He has brought us out of the land of Egypt to deliver us into the hand of the Amorites, to destroy us.

²⁸“Where can we go up? Our brethren have ⁹discouraged our hearts, saying, ^c“The people are greater and taller than we; the cities are great and fortified up to heaven; moreover we have seen the sons of the ^dAnakim there.” ’

²⁹“Then I said to you, ‘Do not be terrified, ^eor afraid of them.

^{30f}“The LORD your God, who goes before you, He will fight for you, according to all He did for you in Egypt before your eyes,

³¹“and in the wilderness where you saw how the LORD your God carried you, as a ^gman carries his son, in all the way that you went until you came to this place.’

³²“Yet, for all that, ^hyou did not believe the LORD your God, ³³ⁱ“who went in the way before you ^jto search out a place for you to pitch your tents, to show you the way you should go, in the fire by night and in the cloud by day.

The Penalty for Israel's Rebellion

(Num. 14:20–45)

³⁴“And the LORD heard the sound of your words, and was angry, ^kand took an oath, saying,

^{35l}“Surely not one of these men of this evil generation shall see that good land of which I ¹⁰swore to give to your fathers,

^{36m}‘except Caleb the son of Jephunneh; he shall see it, and to him and his children I am giving the land on which he walked, because ⁿhe ¹¹wholly followed the LORD.’

^{37o}“The LORD was also angry with me for your sakes, saying, ‘Even you shall not go in there.

^{38p}Joshua the son of Nun, ^qwho stands before you, he shall go in there. ^rEncourage him, for he shall cause Israel to inherit it.

^{39s}Moreover your little ones and your children, who ^tyou say will be victims, who today ^uhave no knowledge of good and evil, they shall go in there; to them I will give it, and they shall possess it.

^{40v}‘But as for you, turn and take your journey into the wilderness by the Way of the Red Sea.’

⁴¹“Then you answered and said to me, ^w‘We have sinned against the LORD; we will go up and fight, just as the LORD our God commanded us.’ And when everyone of you had girded on his weapons of war, you were ready to go up into the mountain.

⁴²“And the LORD said to me, ‘Tell them, ^x“Do not go up nor fight, for I am not among you; lest you be defeated before your enemies.” ’

⁴³“So I spoke to you; yet you would not listen, but ^yrebelled against the command of the LORD, and ^zpresumptuously¹² went up into the mountain.

⁴⁴“And the Amorites who dwelt in that mountain came out against you and chased you ^aas bees do, and drove you back from Seir to Hormah.

⁴⁵“Then you returned and wept before the LORD, but the LORD would not listen to your voice nor give ear to you.

^{46b}“So you remained in Kadesh many days, according to the days that you spent there.

Deuteronomy 2

The Desert Years

¹“Then we turned and ^ajourneyed into the wilderness of the Way of the Red Sea, ^bas the LORD spoke to me, and we ¹skirted Mount Seir for many days.

²“And the LORD spoke to me, saying:

³‘You have skirted this mountain ^clong enough; turn northward.

⁴‘And command the people, saying, ^d“You are about to pass through the territory of ^eyour brethren, the descendants of Esau, who live in Seir; and they will be afraid of you. Therefore watch yourselves carefully.

⁵“Do not meddle with them, for I will not give you any of their land, no, not so much as one footstep, ^fbecause I have given Mount Seir to Esau as a possession.

⁶“You shall buy food from them with money, that you may eat; and you shall also buy water from them with money, that you may drink.

⁷“For the LORD your God has blessed you in all the work of your hand. He knows your ²trudging through this great wilderness. ⁸These forty years the LORD your God has been with you; you have lacked nothing.” ’

⁹“Then the LORD said to me, ‘Do not harass Moab, nor contend with them in battle, for I will not give you any of their land as a possession, because I have given ^jAr to ^kthe descendants of Lot as a possession.’ ”

¹⁰^l(The Emim had dwelt there in times past, a people as great and numerous and tall as ^mthe Anakim.

¹¹They were also regarded as ³giants, like the Anakim, but the Moabites call them Emim.

¹²ⁿThe Horites formerly dwelt in Seir, but the descendants of Esau dispossessed them and destroyed them from before them, and dwelt in their ⁴place, just as Israel did to the land of their possession which the LORD gave them.)

¹³“ ‘Now rise and cross over ^othe ⁵Valley of the Zered.’ So we crossed over the Valley of the Zered.

¹⁴“And the time we took to come ^pfrom Kadesh Barnea until we crossed over the Valley of the Zered was thirty-eight years, ^quntil all the generation of the men of war ⁶was consumed from the midst of the camp, ^rjust as the LORD had sworn to them.

¹⁵“For indeed the hand of the LORD was against them, to destroy them from the midst of the camp until they ⁷were consumed.

¹⁶“So it was, when all the men of war had finally perished from among the people,

¹⁷“that the LORD spoke to me, saying:

¹⁸“This day you are to cross over at Ar, the boundary of Moab.

¹⁹“And when you come near the people of Ammon, do not harass them or meddle with them, for I will not give you any of the land of the people of Ammon as a possession, because I have given it to ^sthe descendants of Lot as a possession.’ ”

²⁰(That was also regarded as a land of ⁸giants; giants formerly dwelt there. But the Ammonites call them ^tZamzummim, ^{21u}a people as great and numerous and tall as the Anakim. But the LORD destroyed them before them, and they dispossessed them and dwelt in their place, ²²just as He had done for the descendants of Esau, ^vwho dwelt in Seir, when He destroyed ^wthe Horites from before them. They dispossessed them and dwelt in their place, even to this day.

²³And ^xthe Avim, who dwelt in villages as far as Gaza—^ythe Caphtorim, who came from Caphtor, destroyed them and dwelt in their place.)

²⁴“ ‘Rise, take your journey, and ^zcross over the River Arnon. Look, I have given into your hand ^aSihon the Amorite, king of Heshbon, and his land. Begin ⁹to possess it, and engage him in battle.

^{25b}“This day I will begin to put the dread and fear of you upon the nations ¹⁰under the whole heaven, who shall hear the report of you, and shall ^ctremble and be in anguish because of you.’

King Sihon Defeated

(Num. 21:21–32)

²⁶“And I ^dsent messengers from the Wilderness of Kedemoth to Sihon king of Heshbon, ^ewith words of peace, saying,

^{27f}‘Let me pass through your land; I will keep strictly to the road, and I will turn neither to the right nor to the left.

²⁸‘You shall sell me food for money, that I may eat, and give me water for money, that I may drink; ^gonly let me pass through on foot,

^{29h}‘just as the descendants of Esau who dwell in Seir and the Moabites who dwell in Ar did for me, until I cross the Jordan to the land which the LORD our God is giving us.’

³⁰ⁱ“But Sihon king of Heshbon would not let us pass through, for ^jthe LORD your God ^khardened his spirit and made his heart obstinate, that He might deliver him into your hand, as it is this day.

³¹“And the LORD said to me, ‘See, I have begun to ^lgive Sihon and his land over to you. Begin to possess it, that you may inherit his land.’

^{32m}“Then Sihon and all his people came out against us to fight at Jahaz.

³³“And ⁿthe LORD our God delivered him ¹¹over to us; so ^owe defeated him, his sons, and all his people.

³⁴“We took all his cities at that time, and we ^putterly destroyed the men, women, and little ones of every city; we left none remaining.

³⁵“We took only the livestock as plunder for ourselves, with the spoil of the cities which we took.

^{36q}“From Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, and from ^rthe city that is in the ravine, as far as Gilead, there was not one city too strong for us; ^sthe LORD our God delivered all to us.

³⁷“Only you did not go near the land of the people of Ammon—anywhere along the River ^tJabbok, or to the cities of the mountains, or ^uwherever the LORD our God had forbidden us.

Deuteronomy 3

King Og Defeated

(Num. 21:33–35)

¹“Then we turned and went up the road to Bashan; and ^aOg king of Bashan came out against us, he and all his people, to battle ^bat Edrei.

²“And the LORD said to me, ‘Do not fear him, for I have delivered him and all his people and his land into your hand; you shall do to him as you did to ^cSihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon.’

³“So the LORD our God also delivered into our hands Og king of Bashan, with all his people, and we ¹attacked him until he had no survivors remaining.

⁴“And we took all his cities at that time; there was not a city which we did not take from them: sixty cities, ^dall the region of Argob, the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

⁵“All these cities were fortified with high walls, gates, and bars, besides a great many rural towns.

⁶“And we utterly destroyed them, as we did to Sihon king ^eof Heshbon, utterly destroying the men, women, and children of every city.

⁷“But all the livestock and the spoil of the cities we took as booty for ourselves.

⁸“And at that time we took the ^fland from the hand of the two kings of the Amorites who were on this side of the Jordan, from the River Arnon to Mount ^gHermon ⁹“(the Sidonians call ^hHermon Sirion, and the Amorites call it Senir), ¹⁰ⁱ“all the cities of the plain, all Gilead, and ^jall Bashan, as far as Salcah and Edrei, cities of the kingdom of Og in Bashan.

^{11k}“For only Og king of Bashan remained of the remnant of ^lthe ²giants. Indeed his bedstead was an iron bedstead. (Is it not in ^mRabbah of the people of Ammon?) Nine cubits is its length and four cubits its width, according to the standard cubit.

The Land East of the Jordan Divided

¹²“And this ⁿland, which we possessed at that time, ^ofrom Aroer, which is by the River Arnon, and half the mountains of Gilead and ^pits cities, I gave to the Reubenites and the Gadites.

^{13q}“The rest of Gilead, and all Bashan, the kingdom of Og, I gave to half the tribe of Manasseh. (All the region of Argob, with all Bashan, was called the land of the ³giants.

¹⁴“Jair the son of Manasseh took all the region of Argob, ^sas far as the border of the Geshurites and the Maachathites, and ^tcalled Bashan after his own name, ⁴Havoth Jair, to this day.)

¹⁵“Also I gave ^uGilead to Machir.

¹⁷“the plain also, with the Jordan as the border, from Chinnereth ^xas far as the east side of the Sea of the Arabah ^y(the Salt Sea), below the slopes of Pisgah.

¹⁸“Then I commanded you at that time, saying: ‘The LORD your God has given you this land to possess. ^zAll you men of valor shall cross over armed before your brethren, the children of Israel.

¹⁹‘But your wives, your little ones, and your livestock (I know that you have much livestock) shall stay in your cities which I have given you,

²⁰‘until the LORD has given ^arest to your brethren as to you, and they also possess the land which the LORD your God is giving them beyond the Jordan. Then each of you may ^breturn to his possession which I have given you.’

²¹“And ^cI commanded Joshua at that time, saying, ‘Your eyes have seen all that the LORD your God has done to these two kings; so will the LORD do to all the kingdoms through which you pass.

²²‘You must not fear them, for ^dthe LORD your God Himself fights for you.’

Moses Forbidden to Enter the Land

²³“Then ^eI pleaded with the LORD at that time, saying:

²⁴‘O Lord GOD, You have begun to show Your servant ^fYour greatness and Your ⁵mighty hand, for ^gwhat god is there in heaven or on earth who can do anything like Your works and Your mighty deeds?

²⁵‘I pray, let me cross over and see ^hthe good land beyond the Jordan, those pleasant mountains, and Lebanon.’

²⁶“But the LORD ⁱwas angry with me on your account, and would not listen to me. So the LORD said to me: ‘Enough of that! Speak no more to Me of this matter.

^{27j}‘Go up to the top of Pisgah, and lift your eyes toward the west, the north, the south, and the east; behold it with your eyes, for you shall not cross over this Jordan.

²⁸‘But ^kcommand⁶ Joshua, and encourage him and strengthen him; for he shall go over before this people, and he shall cause them to inherit the land which you will see.’

²⁹“So we stayed in ^lthe valley opposite Beth Peor.

Deuteronomy 4

Moses Commands Obedience

¹“Now, O Israel, listen to ^athe statutes and the judgments which I teach you to observe, that you may live, and go in and ¹possess the land which the LORD God of your fathers is giving you. Charts and Diagrams: Important Commands in Deuteronomy

^{2b}“You shall not add to the word which I command you, nor take from it, that you may keep the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you.

³“Your eyes have seen what the LORD did at ^cBaal Peor; for the LORD your God has destroyed from among you all the men who followed Baal of Peor.

⁴“But you who held fast to the LORD your God are alive today, every one of you.

⁵“Surely I have taught you statutes and judgments, just as the LORD my God commanded me, that you should act according to them in the land which you go to possess.

⁶“Therefore be careful to observe them; for this is ^dyour wisdom and your understanding in the sight of the peoples who will hear all these statutes, and say, ‘Surely this great nation is a wise and understanding people.’

⁷“For ^ewhat great nation is there that has ^fGod² so near to it, as the LORD our God is to us, for whatever reason we may call upon Him?

⁸“And what great nation is there that has such statutes and righteous judgments as are in all this law which I set before you this day?

⁹“Only take heed to yourself, and diligently ^gkeep yourself, lest you ^hforget the things your eyes have seen, and lest they depart from your heart all the days of your life. And ⁱteach them to your children and your grandchildren,

¹⁰“especially concerning ^jthe day you stood before the LORD your God in Horeb, when the LORD said to me, ‘Gather the people to Me, and I will let them hear My words, that they may learn to fear Me all the days they live on the earth, and that they may teach their children.’

¹¹“Then you came near and stood at the foot of the mountain, and the mountain burned with fire to the midst of heaven, with darkness, cloud, and thick darkness.

^{12k}“And the LORD spoke to you out of the midst of the fire. You heard the sound of the words, but saw no ³form; ^l*you only heard* a voice.

^{13m}“So He declared to you His covenant which He commanded you to perform, ⁿthe Ten Commandments; and ^oHe wrote them on two tablets of stone.

¹⁴“And ^pthe LORD commanded me at that time to teach you statutes and judgments, that you might ⁴observe them in the land which you cross over to possess.

Beware of Idolatry

¹⁵^q“Take careful heed to yourselves, for you saw no ^rform when the LORD spoke to you at Horeb out of the midst of the fire,

¹⁶“lest you ^sact corruptly and ^tmake for yourselves a carved image in the ⁵form of any figure: ^uthe likeness of male or female,

¹⁷“the likeness of any animal that is on the earth or the likeness of any winged bird that flies in the air, ¹⁸“the likeness of anything that creeps on the ground or the likeness of any fish that is in the water beneath the earth.

¹⁹“And take heed, lest you ^vlift your eyes to heaven, and when you see the sun, the moon, and the stars, ^wall the host of heaven, you feel driven to ^xworship them and serve them, which the LORD your God has ⁶given to all the peoples under the whole heaven as a heritage.

²⁰“But the LORD has taken you and ^ybrought you out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to be ^zHis people, an inheritance, as you are this day.

²¹“Furthermore ^athe LORD was angry with me for your sakes, and swore that ^bI would not cross over the Jordan, and that I would not enter the good land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance.

²²“But ^cI must die in this land, ^dI must not cross over the Jordan; but you shall cross over and ⁷possess ^ethat good land.

²³“Take heed to yourselves, lest you forget the covenant of the LORD your God which He made with you, ^fand make for yourselves a carved image in the form of anything which the LORD your God has forbidden you.

²⁴“For ^gthe LORD your God is a consuming fire, ^ha jealous God.

²⁶^j“I call heaven and earth to witness against you this day, that you will soon utterly perish from the land which you cross over the Jordan to possess; you will not ⁸prolong your days in it, but will be utterly destroyed.

²⁷“And the LORD ^kwill scatter you among the peoples, and you will be left few in number among the nations where the LORD will drive you.

²⁸“And ^lthere you will serve gods, the work of men’s hands, wood and stone, ^mwhich neither see nor hear nor eat nor smell.

²⁹ⁿ“But from there you will seek the LORD your God, and you will find Him if you seek Him with all your heart and with all your soul.

³⁰“When you are in ⁹distress, and all these things come upon you in the ^olatter days, when you ^pturn to the LORD your God and obey His voice ³¹“(for the LORD your God is a merciful God), He will not forsake you nor ^qdestroy you, nor forget the covenant of your fathers which He swore to them.

³²“For ^rask now concerning the days that are past, which were before you, since the day that God created man on the earth, and ask ^sfrom one end of heaven to the other, whether any great thing like this has happened, or anything like it has been heard.

³³“Did any people ever hear the voice of God speaking out of the midst of the fire, as you have heard, and live?

³⁴“Or did God ever try to go and take for Himself a nation from the midst of another nation, ^uby trials, ^vby signs, by wonders, by war, ^wby a mighty hand and ^xan outstretched arm, ^yand by great ¹⁰terrors, according to all that the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?

³⁵“To you it was shown, that you might know that the LORD Himself is God; ^z*there is* none other besides Him.

^{36a}“Out of heaven He let you hear His voice, that He might instruct you; on earth He showed you His great fire, and you heard His words out of the midst of the fire.

³⁷“And because ^bHe loved your fathers, therefore He chose their ¹¹descendants after them; and ^cHe brought you out of Egypt with His Presence, with His mighty power, ^{38d}“driving out from before you nations greater and mightier than you, to bring you in, to give you their land as an inheritance, as it is this day.

³⁹“Therefore know this day, and consider it in your heart, that ^ethe LORD Himself is God in heaven above and on the earth beneath; there is no other.

^{40f}“You shall therefore keep His statutes and His commandments which I command you today, that ¹²it may go well with you and with your children after you, and that you may ¹³prolong your days in the land which the LORD your God is giving you for all time.”

Cities of Refuge East of the Jordan

⁴¹Then Moses ^gset apart three cities on this side of the Jordan, toward the rising of the sun,

^{42h}that the manslayer might flee there, who kills his neighbor unintentionally, without having hated him in time past, and that by fleeing to one of these cities he might live:

⁴³_iBezer in the wilderness on the plateau for the Reubenites, Ramoth in Gilead for the Gadites, and Golan in Bashan for the Manassites.

Introduction to God's Law

⁴⁴Now this is the law which Moses set before the children of Israel.

⁴⁵These are the testimonies, the statutes, and the judgments which Moses spoke to the children of Israel after they came out of Egypt, ⁴⁶on this side of the Jordan, ^jin the valley opposite Beth Peor, in the land of Sihon king of the Amorites, who dwelt at Heshbon, whom Moses and the children of Israel ^kdefeated¹⁴ after they came out of Egypt.

⁴⁷And they took possession of his land and the land ^lof Og king of Bashan, two kings of the Amorites, who were on this side of the Jordan, toward the ¹⁵rising of the sun,

⁴⁸_mfrom Aroer, which is on the bank of the River Arnon, even to Mount ¹⁶Sion (that is, ⁿHermon), ⁴⁹and all the plain on the east side of the Jordan as far as the Sea of the Arabah, below the ^oslopes of Pisgah.

Deuteronomy 5

The Ten Commandments Reviewed

(Ex. 20:1–17)

¹And Moses called all Israel, and said to them: “Hear, O Israel, the statutes and judgments which I speak in your hearing today, that you may learn them and be careful to observe them. Word Studies: statutes

^{2a}“The LORD our God made a covenant with us in Horeb.

³“The LORD ^bdid not make this covenant with our fathers, but with us, those who are here today, all of us who are alive.

^{4c}“The LORD talked with you face to face on the mountain from the midst of the fire.

^{5d}“I stood between the LORD and you at that time, to declare to you the word of the LORD; for ^eyou were afraid because of the fire, and you did not go up the mountain. He said:

^{6f}“I am the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, out of the house of ¹bondage.

^{7g}“You shall have no other gods ²before Me.

^{8h}“You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth;

⁹you shall not ⁱbow³ down to them nor serve them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, ⁴visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, ^{10j}but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and ⁵keep My commandments.

^{11k}“You shall not take the name of the LORD your God in vain, for the LORD will not hold him ⁶guiltless who takes His name in vain.

^{12l}“Observe the Sabbath day, to ⁷keep it holy, as the LORD your God commanded you. Article: A Day of Rest

^{13m}Six days you shall labor and do all your work,

¹⁴but the seventh day is the ⁿSabbath of the LORD your God. In it you shall do no work: you, nor your son, nor your daughter, nor your male servant, nor your female servant, nor your ox, nor your donkey, nor any of your cattle, nor your stranger who is within your gates, that your male servant and your female servant may rest as well as you.

^{15o}And remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt, and the LORD your God brought you out from there ^pby a mighty hand and by an outstretched arm; therefore the LORD your God commanded you to keep the Sabbath day.

^{16q}‘Honor your father and your mother, as the LORD your God has commanded you, ^rthat your days may be long, and that it may be well with ^syou in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

^{17t}‘You shall not murder.

^{18u}‘You shall not commit adultery.

^{19v}‘You shall not steal.

^{20w}‘You shall not bear false witness against your neighbor.

^{21x}‘You shall not covet your neighbor’s wife; and you shall not desire your neighbor’s house, his field, his male servant, his female servant, his ox, his donkey, or anything that is your neighbor’s.’

²²“These words the LORD spoke to all your assembly, in the mountain from the midst of the fire, the cloud, and the thick darkness, with a loud voice; and He added no more. And ^yHe wrote them on two tablets of stone and gave them to me.

The People Afraid of God’s Presence

(Ex. 20:18–21)

^{23z}“So it was, when you heard the voice from the midst of the darkness, while the mountain was burning with fire, that you came near to me, all the heads of your tribes and your elders.

²⁵‘Now therefore, why should we die? For this great fire will consume us; ^cif we hear the voice of the LORD our God anymore, then we shall die.

^{26d}‘For who is there of all flesh who has heard the voice of the living God speaking from the midst of the fire, as we have, and lived?

²⁷‘You go near and hear all that the LORD our God may say, and ^etell us all that the LORD our God says to you, and we will hear and do it.’

²⁸“Then the LORD heard the voice of your words when you spoke to me, and the LORD said to me: ‘I have heard the voice of the words of this people which they have spoken to you. ^fThey are right in all that they have spoken.

^{29g}‘Oh, that they had such a heart in them that they would fear Me and ^halways keep all My commandments, ⁱthat it might be well with them and with their children forever!

³⁰“Go and say to them, “Return to your tents.”

³¹“But as for you, stand here by Me, ^jand I will speak to you all the commandments, the statutes, and the judgments which you shall teach them, that they may observe them in the land which I am giving them to possess.’

³²“Therefore you shall ⁸be careful to do as the LORD your God has commanded you; ^kyou shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left.

³³“You shall walk in ^lall the ways which the LORD your God has commanded you, that you may live ^mand that it may be well with you, and that you may prolong your days in the land which you shall possess.

Deuteronomy 6

The Greatest Commandment

¹“Now this is ^athe commandment, and these are the statutes and judgments which the LORD your God has commanded to teach you, that you may observe them in the land which you are crossing over to possess, ^{2b}“that you may fear the LORD your God, to keep all His statutes and His commandments which I command you, you and your son and your grandson, all the days of your life, ^cand that your days may be prolonged.

³“Therefore hear, O Israel, and ¹be careful to observe it, that it may be well with you, and that you may ^dmultiply greatly ^eas the LORD God of your fathers has promised you—^fa land flowing with milk and honey.’

^{4g}“Hear, O Israel: ²The LORD our God, the LORD is one! Bible Times & Culture
Notes: The Mezuzah

^{5h}“You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, ⁱwith all your soul, and with all your strength.

⁶“And ^jthese words which I command you today shall be in your heart.

^{7k}“You shall teach them diligently to your children, and shall talk of them when you sit in your house, when you walk by the way, when you lie down, and when you rise up.

^{8l}“You shall bind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes.

^{9m}“You shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates.

Caution Against Disobedience

¹⁰“So it shall be, when the LORD your God brings you into the land of which He ³swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give you large and beautiful cities ⁿwhich you did not build,

¹¹“houses full of all good things, which you did not fill, hewn-out wells which you did not dig, vineyards and olive trees which you did not plant —^owhen you have eaten and are full—

¹²“then beware, lest you forget the ^pLORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage.

¹³“You shall ^qfear the LORD your God and serve Him, and ^rshall take oaths in His name.

¹⁴“You shall not go after other gods, ^sthe gods of the peoples who are all around you ¹⁵“(for ^tthe LORD your God is a jealous God ^uamong you), lest the anger of the LORD your God be aroused against you and destroy you from the face of the earth.

^{16v}“You shall not ⁴tempt the LORD your God ^was you ⁵tempted Him in Massah.

¹⁷“You shall ^xdiligently keep the commandments of the LORD your God, His testimonies, and His statutes which He has commanded you.

¹⁸“And you ^yshall do what is right and good in the sight of the LORD, that it may be well with you, and that you may go in and possess the good land of which the LORD swore to your fathers, ^{19z}“to cast out all your enemies from before you, as the LORD has spoken.

^{20a}“When your son asks you in time to come, saying, ‘What is the meaning of the testimonies, the statutes, and the judgments which the LORD our God has commanded you?’

²¹“then you shall say to your son: ‘We were slaves of Pharaoh in Egypt, and the LORD brought us out of Egypt ^bwith a mighty hand;

²²‘and the LORD showed signs and wonders before our eyes, great and severe, against Egypt, Pharaoh, and all his household.

²³‘Then He brought us out from there, that He might bring us in, to give us the land of which He ⁶swore to our fathers.

²⁴‘And the LORD commanded us to ⁷observe all these ⁸statutes, ^cto fear the LORD our God, ^dfor our good always, that ^eHe might preserve us alive, as it is ⁹this day.

²⁵‘Then ^fit will be righteousness for us, if we are careful to observe all these commandments before the LORD our God, as He has commanded us.’

Deuteronomy 7

A Chosen People

(Ex. 34:10–16)

¹“When the LORD your God brings you into the land which you go to ^apossess, and has cast out many ^bnations before you, ^cthe Hittites and the Girgashites and the Amorites and the Canaanites and the Perizzites and the Hivites and the Jebusites, seven nations greater and mightier than you, ²“and when the LORD your God delivers ^dthem over to you, you shall conquer them and utterly destroy them. ^eYou shall make no covenant with them nor show mercy to them.

³“Nor shall you make marriages with them. You shall not give your daughter to their son, nor take their daughter for your son.

⁴“For they will turn your sons away from following Me, to serve other gods; ^gso the anger of the LORD will be aroused against you and destroy you suddenly.

⁵“But thus you shall deal with them: you shall ^hdestroy their altars, and break down their sacred pillars, and cut down their ¹wooden images, and burn their carved images with fire.

⁷“The LORD did not set His ^jlove on you nor choose you because you were more in number than any other people, for you were ^kthe least of all peoples;

⁸“but ^lbecause the LORD loves you, and because He would keep ^mthe oath which He swore to your fathers, ⁿthe LORD has brought you out with a mighty hand, and redeemed you from the house of ³bondage, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

⁹“Therefore know that the LORD your God, He is God, ^othe faithful God ^pwho keeps covenant and mercy for a thousand generations with those who love Him and keep His commandments; ¹⁰“and He repays those who hate Him to their face, to destroy them. He will not ⁴be ^qslack with him who hates Him; He will repay him to his face.

¹¹“Therefore you shall keep the commandment, the statutes, and the judgments which I command you today, to observe them.

Blessings of Obedience

(Lev. 26:1–13; Deut. 28:1–14)

¹²“Then it shall come to pass, because you listen to these judgments, and keep and do them, that the LORD your God will keep with you the covenant and the mercy which He swore to your fathers.

¹³“And He will ^rlove you and bless you and ⁵multiply you; ^sHe will also bless the fruit of your womb and the fruit of your land, your grain and your new wine and your oil, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flock, in the land of which He ⁶swore to your fathers to give you.

¹⁴“You shall be blessed above all peoples; there shall not be a male or female ^tbarren among you or among your livestock.

¹⁵“And the LORD will take away from you all sickness, and will afflict you with none of the ^uterrible diseases of Egypt which you have known, but will lay them on all those who hate you.

¹⁶“Also you shall ⁷destroy all the peoples whom the LORD your God delivers over to you; your eye shall have no pity on them; nor shall you serve their gods, for that will ^vbe a snare to you.

¹⁷“If you should say in your heart, ‘These nations are greater than I; how can I dispossess them?’—

¹⁸“you shall not be afraid of them, but you shall ^wremember well what the LORD your God did to Pharaoh and to all Egypt:

^{19x}“the great trials which your eyes saw, the signs and the wonders, the mighty hand and the outstretched arm, by which the LORD your God brought you out. So shall the LORD your God do to all the peoples of whom you are afraid.

^{20y}“Moreover the LORD your God will send the hornet among them until those who are left, who hide themselves from you, are destroyed.

²¹“You shall not be terrified of them; for the LORD your God, the great and awesome God, is among you.

²²“And the LORD your God will drive out those nations before you ^zlittle by little; you will be unable to ⁸destroy them at once, lest the beasts of the field become too numerous for you.

²³“But the LORD your God will deliver them over to you, and will inflict defeat upon them until they are destroyed.

²⁴“And ^aHe will deliver their kings into your hand, and you will destroy their name from under heaven; ^bno one shall be able to stand ⁹against you until you have destroyed them.

²⁵“You shall burn the carved images of their gods with fire; you shall not ^ccovet¹⁰ the silver or gold that is on them, nor take it for yourselves, lest you be snared by it; for it is an abomination to the LORD your God.

²⁶“Nor shall you bring an abomination into your house, lest you be doomed to destruction like it. You shall utterly detest it and utterly abhor it, ^dfor it is an ¹¹accursed thing.

Deuteronomy 8

Remember the Lord Your God

¹“Every commandment which I command you today ^ayou must ¹be careful to observe, that you may live and ^bmultiply,² and go in and possess the land of which the LORD ³swore to your fathers.

²“And you shall remember that the LORD your God ^cled you all the way these forty years in the wilderness, to humble you and ^dtest you, ^eto know what was in your heart, whether you would keep His commandments or not.

³“So He humbled you, ^fallowed you to hunger, and ^gfed you with manna which you did not know nor did your fathers know, that He might make you know that man shall ^hnot live by bread alone; but man lives by every word that proceeds from the mouth of the LORD.

⁴ⁱ“Your garments did not wear out on you, nor did your foot swell these forty years.

^{5j}“You should ⁴know in your heart that as a man chastens his son, so the LORD your God chastens you.

⁶“Therefore you shall keep the commandments of the LORD your God, ^kto walk in His ways and to fear Him.

⁸“a land of wheat and barley, of vines and fig trees and pomegranates, a land of olive oil and honey; In-Text Map: Agriculture in the Holy Land

⁹“a land in which you will eat bread without scarcity, in which you will lack nothing; a land whose stones are iron and out of whose hills you can dig copper.

^{10m}“When you have eaten and are full, then you shall bless the LORD your God for the good land which He has given you.

¹¹“Beware that you do not forget the LORD your God by not keeping His commandments, His judgments, and His statutes which I command you today, ¹²ⁿ“lest—when you have eaten and are ⁵full, and have built beautiful houses and dwell in them;

¹³“and when your herds and your flocks multiply, and your silver and your gold are ⁶multiplied, and all that you have is multiplied;

^{14o}“when your heart ⁷is lifted up, and you ^pforget the LORD your God who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage;

¹⁵“who ^qled you through that great and terrible wilderness, ^r*in which were* fiery serpents and scorpions and thirsty land where there was no water; ^swho brought water for you out of the flinty rock;

¹⁶“who fed you in the wilderness with ^tmanna, which your fathers did not know, that He might humble you and that He might test you, ^uto do you good in the end—

¹⁷“then you say in your heart, ‘My power and the might of my hand have gained me this wealth.’

¹⁸“And you shall remember the LORD your God, ^vfor it is He who gives you power to get wealth, ^wthat He may ⁸establish His covenant which He swore to your fathers, as it is this day.

¹⁹“Then it shall be, if you by any means forget the LORD your God, and follow other gods, and serve them and worship them, ^xI testify against you this day that you shall surely perish.

²⁰“As the nations which the LORD destroys before you, ^yso you shall perish, because you would not be obedient to the voice of the LORD your God.

Deuteronomy 9

Israel's Rebellions Reviewed

(Ex. 32:1–35)

¹“Hear, O Israel: You are to cross over the Jordan today, and go in to dispossess nations greater and mightier than yourself, cities great and fortified up to heaven,

²“a people great and tall, the ^adescendants of the Anakim, whom you know, and of whom you heard it said, ‘Who can stand before the descendants of Anak?’

³“Therefore understand today that the LORD your God is He who ^bgoes over before you as a ^cconsuming fire. ^dHe will destroy them and bring them down before you; ^eso you shall drive them out and destroy them quickly, as the LORD has said to you.

^{4f}“Do not think in your heart, after the LORD your God has cast them out before you, saying, ‘Because of my righteousness the LORD has brought me in to possess this land’; but it is ^gbecause of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD is driving them out from before you.

^{5h}“It is not because of your righteousness or the uprightness of your heart that you go in to possess their land, but because of the wickedness of these nations that the LORD your God drives them out from before you, and that He may ⁱfulfill the ⁱword which the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

⁶“Therefore understand that the LORD your God is not giving you this good land to possess because of your righteousness, for you are a ^jstiff-necked² people.

⁷“Remember! Do not forget how you ^kprovoked the LORD your God to wrath in the wilderness. ¹From the day that you departed from the land of Egypt until you came to this place, you have been rebellious against the LORD.

⁸“Also ^min Horeb you provoked the LORD to wrath, so that the LORD was angry enough with you to have destroyed you.

⁹ⁿ“When I went up into the mountain to receive the tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant which the LORD made with you, then I stayed on the mountain forty days and ^oforty nights. I neither ate bread nor drank water.

^{10p}“Then the LORD delivered to me two tablets of stone written with the finger of God, and on them were all the words which the LORD had spoken to you on the mountain from the midst of the fire ^qin³ the day of the assembly.

¹¹“And it came to pass, at the end of forty days and forty nights, that the LORD gave me the two tablets of stone, the tablets of the covenant.

¹²“Then the LORD said to me, ^r‘Arise, go down quickly from here, for your people whom you brought out of Egypt have acted corruptly; they have ^squickly turned aside from the way which I commanded them; they have made themselves a molded image.’

¹³“Furthermore ^tthe LORD spoke to me, saying, ‘I have seen this people, and indeed ^uthey are a ⁴stiff-necked people.

^{14v}‘Let Me alone, that I may destroy them and ^wblot out their name from under heaven; ^xand I will make of you a nation mightier and greater than they.’

^{15y}“So I turned and came down from the mountain, and ^zthe mountain burned with fire; and the two tablets of the covenant were in my two hands.

¹⁶“And ^aI looked, and behold, you had sinned against the LORD your God —had made for yourselves a molded calf! You had turned aside quickly from the way which the LORD had commanded you.

¹⁷“Then I took the two tablets and threw them out of my two hands and ^bbroke them before your eyes.

¹⁸“And I ^cfell⁵ down before the LORD, as at the first, forty days and forty nights; I neither ate bread nor drank water, because of all your sin which you committed in doing wickedly in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger.

^{19d}“For I was afraid of the anger and hot displeasure with which the LORD was angry with you, to destroy you. ^eBut the LORD listened to me at that time also.

²⁰“And the LORD was very angry with Aaron and would have destroyed him; so I prayed for Aaron also at the same time.

²¹“Then I took your sin, the calf which you had made, and burned it with fire and crushed it and ground it very small, until it was as fine as dust; and I ^fthrew its dust into the brook that descended from the mountain.

²²“Also at ^gTaberah and ^hMassah and ⁱKibroth Hattaavah you ⁶provoked the LORD to wrath.

²³“Likewise, ^jwhen the LORD sent you from Kadesh Barnea, saying, ‘Go up and possess the land which I have given you,’ then you rebelled against the commandment of the LORD your God, and ^kyou did not believe Him nor obey His voice.

²⁴ⁱ“You have been rebellious against the LORD from the day that I knew you.

²⁵^m“Thus I ⁷prostrated myself before the LORD; forty days and forty nights I kept prostrating myself, because the LORD had said He would destroy you.

²⁶“Therefore I prayed to the LORD, and said: ‘O Lord GOD, do not destroy Your people and ⁿYour inheritance whom You have redeemed through Your greatness, whom You have brought out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

²⁷‘Remember Your servants, Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob; do not look on the stubbornness of this people, or on their wickedness or their sin,

²⁸‘lest the land from which You brought us should say, “Because the LORD was not able to bring them to the land which He promised them, and because He hated them, He has brought them out to kill them in the wilderness.”

²⁹‘Yet they are Your people and Your inheritance, whom You brought out by Your mighty power and by Your outstretched arm.’

Deuteronomy 10

The Second Pair of Tablets

(Ex. 34:1–9)

¹“At that time the LORD said to me, ¹‘Hew for yourself two tablets of stone like the first, and come up to Me on the mountain and make yourself an ^aark of wood.

²‘And I will write on the tablets the words that were on the first tablets, which you broke; and ^byou shall put them in the ark.’

³“So I made an ark of acacia wood, hewed two tablets of stone like the first, and went up the mountain, having the two tablets in my hand.

⁴“And He wrote on the tablets according to the first writing, the Ten ²Commandments, ^cwhich the LORD had spoken to you in the mountain from the midst of the fire in the day of the assembly; and the LORD gave them to me.

⁵“Then I turned and ^dcame down from the mountain, and ^eput the tablets in the ark which I had made; ^fand there they are, just as the LORD commanded me.”

⁶(Now the children of Israel journeyed from the wells of Bene Jaakan to Moserah, where Aaron ^gdied, and where he was buried; and Eleazar his son ministered as priest in his ³stead.

^{7h}From there they journeyed to Gudgodah, and from Gudgodah to Jotbathah, a land of ⁴rivers of water.

⁸At that time ⁱthe LORD ⁵separated the tribe of Levi ^jto bear the ark of the covenant of the LORD, ^kto stand before the LORD to minister to Him and ^lto bless in His name, to this day.

^{9m}Therefore Levi has no portion nor inheritance with his brethren; the LORD is his inheritance, just as the LORD your God promised him.)

¹⁰“As at the first time, ⁿI stayed in the mountain forty days and forty nights; ^othe LORD also heard me at that time, and the LORD chose not to destroy you.

^{11p}“Then the LORD said to me, ‘Arise, begin your journey before the people, that they may go in and possess the land which I swore to their fathers to give them.’

The Essence of the Law

¹²“And now, Israel, ^qwhat does the LORD your God require of you, but to fear the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways and to ^rlove Him, to serve the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, ¹³“and to keep the commandments of the LORD and His statutes which I command you today ^sfor your ⁶good?

¹⁴“Indeed heaven and the highest heavens belong to the ^tLORD your God, also the earth with all that is in it.

¹⁵“The LORD delighted only in your fathers, to love them; and He chose their ⁷descendants after them, you above all peoples, as it is this day.

¹⁶“Therefore circumcise the foreskin of your ^uheart, and be ^vstiff-necked⁸ no longer.

¹⁷“For the LORD your God is ^wGod of gods and ^xLord of lords, the great God, ^ymighty and awesome, who ^zshows no partiality nor takes a bribe.

^{18a}“He administers justice for the fatherless and the widow, and loves the stranger, giving him food and clothing.

¹⁹“Therefore love the stranger, for you were strangers in the land of Egypt.

^{20b}“You shall fear the LORD your God; you shall serve Him, and to Him you shall hold fast, and take oaths in His name.

²¹“He is your praise, and He is your God, who has done for you these great and awesome things which your eyes have seen.

²²“Your fathers went down to Egypt with seventy persons, and now the LORD your God has made you as the stars of heaven in multitude.

Deuteronomy 11

Love and Obedience Rewarded

¹“Therefore you shall love the LORD your God, and keep His charge, His statutes, His judgments, and His commandments always.

²“Know today that I do not speak with your children, who have not known and who have not seen the ¹chastening of the LORD your God, His greatness and His mighty hand and His outstretched arm—

³“His signs and His acts which He did in the midst of Egypt, to Pharaoh king of Egypt, and to all his land;

⁴“what He did to the army of Egypt, to their horses and their chariots: ^ahow He made the waters of the Red Sea overflow them as they pursued you, and how the LORD has destroyed them to this day;

⁵“what He did for you in the wilderness until you came to this place;

⁶“and ^bwhat He did to Dathan and Abiram the sons of Eliab, the son of Reuben: how the earth opened its mouth and swallowed them up, their households, their tents, and all the substance that was ²in their possession, in the midst of all Israel—

⁷“but your eyes have ^cseen every great ³act of the LORD which He did.

⁸“Therefore you shall keep every commandment which I command you today, that you may ^dbe strong, and go in and possess the land which you cross over to possess,

⁹“and ^ethat you may prolong your days in the land ^fwhich the LORD ⁴swore to give your fathers, to them and their descendants, ^g‘a land flowing with milk and honey.’

¹⁰“For the land which you go to possess is not like the land of Egypt from which you have come, where you sowed your seed and watered it by foot, as a vegetable garden; ^{11h}“but the land which you cross over to possess is a land of hills and valleys, which drinks water from the rain of heaven,

¹²“a land for which the LORD your God cares; ⁱthe eyes of the LORD your God are always on it, from the beginning of the year to the very end of the year.

¹³“And it shall be that if you earnestly ⁵obey My commandments which I command you today, to love the LORD your God and serve Him with all your heart and with all your soul,

¹⁴“then ^jI⁶ will give you the rain for your land in its season, ^kthe early rain and the latter rain, that you may gather in your grain, your new wine, and your oil. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Rainfall Patterns

¹⁵‘And I will send grass in your fields for your livestock, that you may ^meat and be ⁷filled.’

¹⁶“Take heed to yourselves, ⁿlest your heart be deceived, and you turn aside and ^oserve other gods and worship them, ¹⁷“lest ^pthe LORD’s anger be aroused against you, and He ^qshut up the heavens so that there be no rain, and the land yield no produce, and ^ryou perish quickly from the good land which the LORD is giving you.

¹⁸“Therefore ^syou shall ⁸lay up these words of mine in your heart and in your ^tsoul, and ^ubind them as a sign on your hand, and they shall be as frontlets between your eyes.

¹⁹^v“You shall teach them to your children, speaking of them when you sit in your house, when you walk by the way, when you lie down, and when you rise up.

²⁰^w“And you shall write them on the doorposts of your house and on your gates, ²¹“that ^xyour days and the days of your children may be multiplied in the land of which the LORD swore to your fathers to give them, like ^ythe days of the heavens above the earth.

²²“For if ^zyou carefully keep all these commandments which I command you to do—to love the LORD your God, to walk in all His ways, and ^ato hold fast to Him—

²³“then the LORD will ^bdrive out all these nations from before you, and you will ^cdispossess greater and mightier nations than yourselves.

²⁴^d“Every place on which the sole of your foot treads shall be yours: ^efrom the wilderness and Lebanon, from the river, the River Euphrates, even to the ⁹Western Sea, shall be your territory.

²⁵“No man shall be able to ^fstand ¹⁰against you; the LORD your God will put the ^gdread of you and the fear of you upon all the land where you tread, just as He has said to you.

²⁶^h“Behold, I set before you today a blessing and a curse:

²⁷ⁱ“the blessing, if you obey the commandments of the LORD your God which I command you today;

²⁸“and the ^jcurse, if you do not obey the commandments of the LORD your God, but turn aside from the way which I command you today, to go after other gods which you have not known.

²⁹“Now it shall be, when the LORD your God has brought you into the land which you go to possess, that you shall put the ^kblessing on Mount Gerizim and the ^lcurse on Mount Ebal.

³⁰“Are they not on the other side of the Jordan, toward the setting sun, in the land of the Canaanites who dwell in the plain opposite Gilgal, ^mbeside the terebinth trees of Moreh?

³¹“For you will cross over the Jordan and go in to possess the land which the LORD your God is giving you, and you will possess it and dwell in it.

³²“And you shall be careful to observe all the statutes and judgments which I set before you today.

Deuteronomy 12

A Prescribed Place of Worship

^{2c}“You shall utterly destroy all the places where the nations which you shall dispossess served their gods, ^don the high mountains and on the hills and under every green tree.

⁴“You shall not ^fworship the LORD your God with such things.

⁵“But you shall seek the ^gplace where the LORD your God chooses, out of all your tribes, to put His name for His ^hdwelling³ place; and there you shall go.

⁶ⁱ“There you shall take your burnt offerings, your sacrifices, your tithes, the heave offerings of your hand, your vowed offerings, your freewill offerings, and the ^jfirstborn of your herds and flocks.

⁷“And ^kthere you shall eat before the LORD your God, and ^lyou shall rejoice in ⁴all to which you have put your hand, you and your households, in which the LORD your God has blessed you.

⁸“You shall not at all do as we are doing here today—^mevery man doing whatever is right in his own eyes—

⁹“for as yet you have not come to the ⁿrest⁵ and the inheritance which the LORD your God is giving you.

¹⁰“But when you cross over the Jordan and dwell in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, and He gives you ^orest from all your enemies round about, so that you dwell in safety, ¹¹“then there will be the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide. There you shall bring all that I command you: your burnt offerings, your sacrifices, your tithes, the heave offerings of your hand, and all your choice offerings which you vow to the LORD.

¹²“And ^pyou shall rejoice before the LORD your God, you and your sons and your daughters, your male and female servants, and the ^qLevite who is within your gates, since he has no portion nor inheritance with you.

¹³“Take heed to yourself that you do not offer your burnt offerings in every place that you see;

¹⁴“but in the place which the LORD chooses, in one of your tribes, there you shall offer your burnt offerings, and there you shall do all that I command you.

¹⁵“However, ^ryou may slaughter and eat meat within all your gates, whatever your heart desires, according to the blessing of the LORD your God which He has given you; ^sthe unclean and the clean may eat of it, ^tof the gazelle and the deer alike.

^{16u}“Only you shall not eat the blood; you shall pour it on the earth like water.

¹⁷“You may not eat within your gates the tithe of your grain or your new wine or your oil, of the firstborn of your herd or your flock, of any of your offerings which you vow, of your freewill offerings, or of the ⁶heave offering of your hand.

¹⁸“But you must eat them before the LORD your God in the place which the LORD your God chooses, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant, and the Levite who is within your gates; and you shall rejoice before the LORD your God in ⁷all to which you put your hands.

¹⁹⁸“Take heed to yourself that you do not forsake the Levite as long as you live in your land.

²⁰“When the LORD your God ^venlarges your border as He has promised you, and you say, ‘Let me eat meat,’ because you long to eat meat, you may eat as much meat as your heart desires.

²¹“If the place where the LORD your God chooses to put His name is too far from ^wyou, then you may slaughter from your herd and from your flock which the LORD has given you, just as I have commanded you, and you may eat within your gates as much as your heart desires.

²²“Just as the gazelle and the deer are eaten, so you may eat them; the unclean and the clean alike may eat them.

²³“Only be sure that you do not eat the blood, ^xfor the blood is the life; you may not eat the life with the meat.

²⁴“You shall not eat it; you shall pour it on the earth like water.

²⁵“You shall not eat it, ^ythat it may go well with you and your children after you, ^zwhen you do what is right in the sight of the LORD.

²⁶“Only the ^aholy things which you have, and your vowed offerings, you shall take and go to the place which the LORD chooses.

²⁷“And ^byou shall offer your burnt offerings, the meat and the blood, on the altar of the LORD your God; and the blood of your sacrifices shall be poured out on the altar of the LORD your God, and you shall eat the meat.

²⁸“Observe and obey all these words which I command you, ^cthat it may go well with you and your children after you forever, when you do what is good and right in the sight of the LORD your God.

Beware of False Gods

²⁹“When ^dthe LORD your God cuts off from before you the nations which you go to dispossess, and you displace them and dwell in their land, Article: A New Culture

³⁰“take heed to yourself that you are not ensnared to follow them, after they are destroyed from before you, and that you do not inquire after their gods, saying, ‘How did these nations serve their gods? I also will do likewise.’

^{31e}“You shall not worship the LORD your God in that way; for every ⁹abomination to the LORD which He hates they have done to their gods; for ^fthey burn even their sons and daughters in the fire to their gods.

³²“Whatever I command you, be careful to observe it; ^gyou shall not add to it nor take away from it.

Deuteronomy 13

Punishment of Apostates

¹“If there arises among you a prophet or a ^adreamer of dreams, ^band he gives you a sign or a wonder,

²“and ^cthe sign or the wonder comes to pass, of which he spoke to you, saying, ‘Let us go after other gods’—which you have not known—‘and let us serve them,’

³“you shall not listen to the words of that prophet or that dreamer of dreams, for the LORD your God ^dis testing you to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

⁴“You shall ^ewalk¹ after the LORD your God and fear Him, and keep His commandments and obey His voice; you shall serve Him and ^fhold fast to Him.

⁵“But ^gthat prophet or that dreamer of dreams shall be put to death, because he has spoken in order to turn you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of bondage, to entice you from the way in which the LORD your God commanded you to walk. ^hSo you shall ²put away the evil from your midst.

⁶“If your brother, the son of your mother, your son or your daughter, ^jthe wife ³of your bosom, or your friend ^kwho is as your own soul, secretly entices you, saying, ‘Let us go and serve other gods,’ which you have not known, neither you nor your fathers,

⁷“of the gods of the people which are all around you, near to you or far off from you, from one end of the earth to the other end of the earth,

⁸“you shall ^lnot ⁴consent to him or listen to him, nor shall your eye pity him, nor shall you spare him or conceal him;

⁹“but you shall surely kill him; your hand shall be first against him to put him to ^mdeath, and afterward the hand of all the people.

¹⁰“And you shall stone him with stones until he dies, because he sought to entice you away from the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage.

¹¹“So all Israel shall hear and ⁿfear, and not again do such wickedness as this among you.

^{12o}“If you hear someone in one of your cities, which the LORD your God gives you to dwell in, saying,

¹³⁵‘Corrupt men have gone out from among you and enticed the inhabitants of their city, saying, “Let us go and serve other gods” ’—which you have not known—

¹⁴“then you shall inquire, search out, and ask diligently. And if it is indeed true and certain that such an ⁶abomination was committed among you,

¹⁵“you shall surely strike the inhabitants of that city with the edge of the sword, utterly destroying it, all that is in it and its livestock—with the edge of the sword.

¹⁶“And you shall gather all its plunder into the middle of the street, and ⁷completely ^pburn with fire the city and all its plunder, for the LORD your God. It shall be ^qa ⁸heap forever; it shall not be built again.

¹⁷“So none of the accursed things shall remain in your hand, that the LORD may ^sturn from the fierceness of His anger and show you mercy, have compassion on you and ⁹multiply you, just as He swore to your fathers, ¹⁸“because you have listened to the voice of the LORD your God, ^tto keep all His commandments which I command you today, to do what is right in the eyes of the LORD your God.

Deuteronomy 14

Improper Mourning

¹“You are ^athe children of the LORD your God; ^byou shall not cut yourselves nor ¹shave the front of your head for the dead.

Clean and Unclean Meat

(Lev. 11:1–47)

^{3d}“You shall not eat any ²detestable thing.

^{4e}“These are the animals which you may eat: the ox, the sheep, the goat, ⁵“the deer, the gazelle, the roe deer, the wild goat, the ³mountain goat, the antelope, and the mountain sheep.

⁶“And you may eat every animal with cloven hooves, having the hoof split into two parts, and that chews the cud, among the animals.

⁷“Nevertheless, of those that chew the cud or have cloven hooves, you shall not eat, such as these: the camel, the hare, and the rock hyrax; for they chew the cud but do not have cloven hooves; they are unclean for you.

⁸“Also the swine is unclean for you, because it has cloven hooves, yet does not chew the cud; you shall not eat their flesh ^for touch their dead carcasses.

^{9g}“These you may eat of all that are in the waters: you may eat all that have fins and scales.

¹⁰“And whatever does not have fins and scales you shall not eat; it is unclean for you.

¹¹“All clean birds you may eat.

^{12h}“But these you shall not eat: the eagle, the vulture, the buzzard, ¹³“the red kite, the falcon, and the kite after their kinds;

¹⁴“every raven after its kind;

¹⁵“the ostrich, the short-eared owl, the sea gull, and the hawk after their kinds;

¹⁶“the little owl, the screech owl, the white owl,

¹⁷“the jackdaw, the carrion vulture, the fisher owl,

¹⁸“the stork, the heron after its kind, and the hoopoe and the bat.

¹⁹“Also ⁱevery ⁴creeping thing that flies is unclean for you; ^jthey shall not be eaten.

²⁰“You may eat all clean birds.

^{21k}“You shall not eat anything that dies of itself; you may give it to the alien who is within your gates, that he may eat it, or you may sell it to a foreigner; ^lfor you are a holy people to the LORD your God. ^mYou shall not boil a young goat in its mother’s milk.

Tithing Principles

²²ⁿ“You shall truly tithe all the increase of your grain that the field produces year by year.

^{23o}“And you shall eat before the LORD your God, in the place where He chooses to make His name abide, the tithe of your grain and your new wine and your oil, of ^pthe firstborn of your herds and your flocks, that you may learn to fear the LORD your God always.

²⁴“But if the journey is too long for you, so that you are not able to carry the tithe, or ^qif the place where the LORD your God chooses to put His name is too far from you, when the LORD your God has blessed you, ²⁵“then you shall exchange it for money, take the money in your hand, and go to the place which the LORD your God chooses.

²⁶“And you shall spend that money for whatever your heart desires: for oxen or sheep, for wine or similar drink, for whatever your heart desires; you shall eat there before the LORD your God, and you shall ^rrejoice, you and your household.

²⁷“You shall not ⁵forsake the ^sLevite who is within your gates, for he has no part nor inheritance with you.

^{28t}“At the end of every third year you shall bring out the ^utithe of your produce of that year and store it up within your gates.

²⁹“And the Levite, because he has no portion nor inheritance with you, and the stranger and the fatherless and the widow who are within your gates, may come and eat and be satisfied, that the LORD your God may bless you in all the work of your hand which you do.

Deuteronomy 15

Debts Canceled Every Seven Years

(Ex. 21:1–11; Lev. 25:1–7)

¹“At the end of ^aevery seven years you shall grant a ¹release of debts.

²“And this is the form of the release: Every creditor who has lent anything to his neighbor shall ²release it; he shall not ³require it of his neighbor or his brother, because it is called the LORD’s release.

³“Of a foreigner you may require it; but you shall give up your claim to what is owed by your brother,

⁴“except when there may be no poor among you; for the LORD will greatly ^bbless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess as an inheritance—

⁵“only if you carefully obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe with care all these commandments which I command you today.

⁶“For the LORD your God will bless you just as He promised you; ^cyou shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow; you shall reign over many nations, but they shall not reign over you.

Generosity to the Poor

⁷“If there is among you a poor man of your brethren, within any of the ⁴gates in your land which the LORD your God is giving you, ^dyou shall not harden your heart nor shut your hand from your poor brother, ⁸“but ^eyou shall ⁵open your hand wide to him and willingly lend him sufficient for his need, whatever he needs.

⁹“Beware lest there be a wicked thought in your heart, saying, ‘The seventh year, the year of release, is at hand,’ and your ^feye be evil against your poor brother and you give him nothing, and ^ghe cry out to the LORD against you, and ^hit become sin among you.

¹⁰“You shall surely give to him, and ⁱyour heart should not be grieved when you give to him, because ^jfor this thing the LORD your God will bless you in all your works and in all to which you put your hand.

¹¹“For ^kthe poor will never cease from the land; therefore I command you, saying, ‘You shall ⁶open your hand wide to your brother, to your poor and your needy, in your land.’

The Law Concerning Bondservants

¹²“If your brother, a Hebrew man, or a Hebrew woman, is ^msold to you and serves you six years, then in the seventh year you shall let him go free from you.

¹³“And when you ⁷send him away free from you, you shall not let him go away empty-handed;

¹⁴“you shall supply him liberally from your flock, from your threshing floor, and from your winepress. From what the LORD has ⁿblessed you with, you shall give to him.

^{15o}“You shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt, and the LORD your God redeemed you; therefore I command you this thing today.

¹⁶“And ^pif it happens that he says to you, ‘I will not go away from you,’ because he loves you and your house, since he prospers with you, ¹⁷“then you shall take an awl and thrust it through his ear to the door, and he shall be your servant forever. Also to your female servant you shall do likewise.

¹⁸“It shall not seem hard to you when you send him away free from you; for he has been worth ^qa double hired servant in serving you six years. Then the LORD your God will bless you in all that you do.

The Law Concerning Firstborn Animals

¹⁹^r“All the firstborn males that come from your herd and your flock you shall ⁸sanctify to the LORD your God; you shall do no work with the firstborn of your herd, nor shear the firstborn of your flock.

²⁰^s“You and your household shall eat it before the LORD your God year by year in the place which the LORD chooses.

²¹“But if there is a defect in it, if it is lame or blind or has any serious defect, you shall not sacrifice it to the LORD your God.

²²“You may eat it within your gates; ^uthe unclean and the clean person alike may eat it, as if it were a gazelle or a deer.

²³“Only you shall not eat its blood; you shall pour it on the ground like water.

Deuteronomy 16

The Passover Reviewed
(Ex. 12:1–20; 23:14–19; 34:18–26)

¹“Observe the ^amonth of Abib, and keep the Passover to the LORD your God, for ^bin the month of Abib the LORD your God brought you out of Egypt by night. Charts and Diagrams: The Jewish Calendar

²“Therefore you shall sacrifice the Passover to the LORD your God, from the flock and ^cthe herd, in the ^dplace where the LORD chooses to put His name.

³“You shall eat no leavened bread with it; ^eseven days you shall eat unleavened bread with it, that is, the bread of affliction (for you came out of the land of Egypt in haste), that you may ^fremember the day in which you came out of the land of Egypt all the days of your life.

^{4g}“And no leaven shall be seen among you in all your territory for seven days, nor shall any of the meat which you sacrifice the first day at twilight remain overnight until ^hmorning.

⁵“You may not sacrifice the Passover within any of your gates which the LORD your God gives you;

⁷“And you shall roast and eat it ^jin the place which the LORD your God chooses, and in the morning you shall turn and go to your tents.

⁸“Six days you shall eat unleavened bread, and ^kon the seventh day there shall be a ^lsacred assembly to the LORD your God. You shall do no work on it.

The Feast of Weeks Reviewed

(Ex. 34:22; Lev. 23:15–21; Num. 28:26–31)

⁹“You shall count seven weeks for yourself; begin to count the seven weeks from the time you begin to put the sickle to the grain.

¹⁰“Then you shall keep the ¹Feast of Weeks to the LORD your God with the tribute of a freewill offering from your hand, which you shall give ^mas the LORD your God blesses you.

¹¹ⁿ“You shall rejoice before the LORD your God, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant, the Levite who is within your gates, the stranger and the fatherless and the widow who are among you, at the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide.

^{12o}“And you shall remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and you shall be careful to observe these statutes.

The Feast of Tabernacles Reviewed

(Lev. 23:33–43; Num. 29:12–40)

¹³_p“You shall observe the Feast of Tabernacles seven days, when you have gathered from your threshing floor and from your winepress.

¹⁴“And ^qyou shall rejoice in your feast, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant and the Levite, the stranger and the fatherless and the widow, who are within your ²gates.

¹⁵_r“Seven days you shall keep a sacred feast to the LORD your God in the place which the LORD chooses, because the LORD your God will bless you in all your produce and in all the work of your hands, so that you surely rejoice.

¹⁷“Every man shall give as he is able, ^uaccording to the blessing of the LORD your God which He has given you.

Justice Must Be Administered

¹⁸“You shall appoint ^vjudges and officers in all your ³gates, which the LORD your God gives you, according to your tribes, and they shall judge the people with just judgment.

^{19w}“You shall not pervert justice; ^xyou shall not ⁴show partiality, ^ynor take a bribe, for a bribe blinds the eyes of the wise and ⁵twists the words of the righteous.

²⁰“You shall follow what is altogether just, that you may ^zlive and inherit the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

^{21a}“You shall not plant for yourself any tree, as a ⁶wooden image, near the altar which you build for yourself to the LORD your God.

^{22b}“You shall not set up a sacred pillar, which the LORD your God hates.

Deuteronomy 17

¹“You ^ashall not sacrifice to the LORD your God a bull or sheep which has any ¹blemish or defect, for that is an ²abomination to the LORD your God.

^{2b}“If there is found among you, within any of your ³gates which the LORD your God gives you, a man or a woman who has been wicked in the sight of the LORD your God, ^cin transgressing His covenant,

³“who has gone and served other gods and worshiped them, either ^dthe sun or moon or any of the host of heaven, ^ewhich I have not commanded,

^{4f}“and it is told you, and you hear of it, then you shall inquire diligently. And if it is indeed true and certain that such an ⁴abomination has been committed in Israel, ⁵“then you shall bring out to your gates that man or woman who has committed that wicked thing, and ^gshall stone ^hto death that man or woman with stones.

⁶“Whoever is deserving of death shall be put to death on the testimony of two or three ⁱwitnesses; he shall not be put to death on the testimony of one witness.

⁷“The hands of the witnesses shall be the first against him to put him to death, and afterward the hands of all the people. So you shall put away the evil from among ^jyou.

^{8k}“If a matter arises which is too hard for you to judge, between degrees of guilt for bloodshed, between one judgment or another, or between one punishment or another, matters of controversy within your gates, then you shall arise and go up to the ^lplace which the LORD your God chooses.

⁹“And ^myou shall come to the priests, the Levites, and ⁿto the judge there in those days, and inquire of them; ^othey shall pronounce upon you the sentence of judgment.

¹⁰“You shall do according to the sentence which they pronounce upon you in that place which the LORD chooses. And you shall be careful to do according to all that they order you.

¹¹“According to the sentence of the law in which they instruct you, according to the judgment which they tell you, you shall do; you shall not turn aside to the right hand or to the left from the sentence which they pronounce upon you.

¹²“Now ^pthe man who acts presumptuously and will not heed the priest who stands to minister there before the LORD your God, or the judge, that man shall die. So you shall put away the evil from Israel.

^{13q}“And all the people shall hear and fear, and no longer act presumptuously.

Principles Governing Kings

¹⁴“When you come to the land which the LORD your God is giving you, and possess it and dwell in it, and say, ^r‘I will set a king over me like all the nations that are around me,’ ¹⁵“you shall surely set a king over you ^swhom the LORD your God chooses; one ^tfrom among your brethren you shall set as king over you; you may not set a foreigner over you, who is not your brother.

¹⁶“But he shall not multiply ^uhorses for himself, nor cause the people ^vto return to Egypt to multiply horses, for ^wthe LORD has said to you, ^x‘You shall not return that way again.’ Bible Times & Culture Notes: Horses

¹⁷“Neither shall he multiply wives for himself, lest his heart turn away; nor shall he greatly multiply silver and ^ygold for himself.

¹⁹“And ^ait shall be with him, and he shall read it all the days of his life, that he may learn to fear the LORD his God and be careful to observe all the words of this law and these statutes, ²⁰“that his heart may not ⁵be lifted above his brethren, that he ^bmay not turn aside from the commandment to the right hand or to the left, and that he may ⁶prolong his days in his kingdom, he and his children in the midst of Israel.

Deuteronomy 18

The Portion of the Priests and Levites

¹“The priests, the Levites—all the tribe of Levi—shall have ¹no part nor ^ainheritance with Israel; they shall eat the offerings of the LORD made by fire, and His portion.

²“Therefore they shall have no inheritance among their brethren; the LORD is their inheritance, as He said to them.

³“And this shall be the priest’s ^bdue² from the people, from those who offer a sacrifice, whether it is bull or sheep: they shall give to the priest the shoulder, the cheeks, and the stomach.

^{4c}“The firstfruits of your grain and your new wine and your oil, and the first of the fleece of your sheep, you shall give him.

⁵“For ^dthe LORD your God has chosen him out of all your tribes ^eto stand to minister in the name of the LORD, him and his sons forever.

⁶“So if a Levite comes from any of your ³gates, from where he ^fdwells among all Israel, and comes with all the desire of his mind ^gto the place which the LORD chooses, ⁷“then he may serve in the name of the LORD his God ^has all his brethren the Levites do, who stand there before the LORD.

⁸“They shall have equal ⁱportions to eat, besides what comes from the sale of his inheritance.

Avoid Wicked Customs

⁹“When you come into the land which the LORD your God is giving you, ^jyou shall not learn to follow the ⁴abominations of those nations.

¹⁰“There shall not be found among you anyone who makes his son or his daughter ^kpass⁵ through the fire, ¹or one who practices witchcraft, or a soothsayer, or one who interprets omens, or a sorcerer, ^{11m}“or one who conjures spells, or a medium, or a spiritist, or ⁿone who calls up the dead.

¹²“For all who do these things are ⁶an abomination to the LORD, and ^obecause of these abominations the LORD your God drives them out from before you.

¹³“You shall be ⁷blameless before the LORD your God.

¹⁴“For these nations which you will dispossess listened to soothsayers and diviners; but as for you, the LORD your God has not ⁸appointed such for you.

A New Prophet Like Moses

^{15p}“The LORD your God will raise up for you a Prophet like me from your midst, from your brethren. Him you shall hear,

¹⁶“according to all you desired of the LORD your God in Horeb ^qin the day of the assembly, saying, ^r‘Let me not hear again the voice of the LORD my God, nor let me see this great fire anymore, lest I die.’

¹⁷“And the LORD said to me: ^s‘What they have spoken is good.

^{18t}‘I will raise up for them a Prophet like you from among their brethren, and ^uwill put My words in His mouth, ^vand He shall speak to them all that I command Him.

^{19w}‘And it shall be that whoever will not hear My words, which He speaks in My name, I will require it of him.

²⁰‘But ^xthe prophet who presumes to speak a word in My name, which I have not commanded him to speak, or ^ywho speaks in the name of other gods, that prophet shall die.’

²¹“And if you say in your heart, ‘How shall we know the word which the LORD has not spoken?’—

^{22z}“when a prophet speaks in the name of the LORD, ^aif the thing does not happen or come to pass, that is the thing which the LORD has not spoken; the prophet has spoken it ^bpresumptuously; you shall not be afraid of him.

Deuteronomy 19

Three Cities of Refuge

(Num. 35:9–28; Josh. 20:1–9)

¹“When the LORD your God ^ahas cut off the nations whose land the LORD your God is giving you, and you dispossess them and dwell in their cities and in their houses, ^{2b}“you shall separate three cities for yourself in the midst of your land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess.

³“You shall prepare roads for yourself, and divide into three parts the territory of your land which the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, that any manslayer may flee there.

^{6d}“lest the avenger of blood, while his anger is hot, pursue the manslayer and overtake him, because the way is long, and kill him, though he was not deserving of death, since he had not hated the victim in time past.

⁷“Therefore I command you, saying, ‘You shall separate three cities for yourself.’

⁸“Now if the LORD your God ^eenlarges your territory, as He swore to ^fyour fathers, and gives you the land which He promised to give to your fathers,

⁹“and if you keep all these commandments and do them, which I command you today, to love the LORD your God and to walk always in His ways, ^gthen you shall add three more cities for yourself besides these three, ^{10h}“lest innocent blood be shed in the midst of your land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and thus guilt of bloodshed be upon you.

¹¹“But ⁱif anyone hates his neighbor, lies in wait for him, rises against him and strikes him mortally, so that he dies, and he flees to one of these cities, ¹²“then the elders of his city shall send and bring him from there, and deliver him over to the hand of the avenger of blood, that he may die.

^{13j}“Your eye shall not pity him, ^kbut you shall ²put away the guilt of innocent blood from Israel, that it may go well with you.

Property Boundaries

14“You shall not remove your neighbor’s landmark, which the men of old have set, in your inheritance which you will inherit in the land that the LORD your God is giving you to possess.

The Law Concerning Witnesses

^{15m}“One witness shall not rise against a man concerning any iniquity or any sin that he commits; by the mouth of two or three witnesses the matter shall be established.

¹⁶“If a false witness ⁿrisⁿes against any man to testify against him of wrongdoing, ¹⁷“then both men in the controversy shall stand before the LORD, ^obefore the priests and the judges who serve in those days.

¹⁸“And the judges shall make careful inquiry, and indeed, if the witness is a false witness, who has testified falsely against his brother, ^{19p}“then you shall do to him as he thought to have done to his brother; so ^qyou shall put away the evil from among you.

^{20r}“And those who remain shall hear and fear, and hereafter they shall not again commit such evil among you.

^{21s}“Your eye shall not pity: ^tlife shall be for life, eye for eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, foot for foot.

Deuteronomy 20

Principles Governing Warfare

²“So it shall be, when you are on the verge of battle, that the priest shall approach and speak to the people.

³“And he shall say to them, ‘Hear, O Israel: Today you are on the verge of battle with your enemies. Do not let your heart faint, do not be afraid, and do not tremble or be terrified because of them;

⁴‘for the LORD your God is He who goes with you, ^dto fight for you against your enemies, to save you.’

⁵“Then the officers shall speak to the people, saying: ‘What man is there who has built a new house and has not ^ededicated it? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man dedicate it.

⁶‘Also what man is there who has planted a vineyard and has not eaten of it? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man eat of it.

⁷‘And what man is there who is betrothed to a woman and has not married her? Let him go and return to his house, lest he die in the battle and another man marry her.’

⁸“The officers shall speak further to the people, and say, ^g‘What man is there who is fearful and fainthearted? Let him go and return to his house, ¹lest the heart of his brethren faint like his heart.’

⁹“And so it shall be, when the officers have finished speaking to the people, that they shall make captains of the armies to lead the people.

¹⁰“When you go near a city to fight against it, ^hthen proclaim an offer of peace to it.

¹¹“And it shall be that if they accept your offer of peace, and open to you, then all the people who are found in it shall be placed under tribute to you, and serve you.

¹²“Now if the city will not make peace with you, but makes war against you, then you shall besiege it.

¹³“And when the LORD your God delivers it into your hands, ⁱyou shall strike every male in it with the edge of the sword.

¹⁴“But the women, the little ones, ^jthe livestock, and all that is in the city, all its spoil, you shall plunder for yourself; and ^kyou shall eat the enemies' plunder which the LORD your God gives you.

¹⁵“Thus you shall do to all the cities which are very far from you, which are not of the cities of these nations.

¹⁶“But ^lof the cities of these peoples which the LORD your God gives you as an inheritance, you shall let nothing that breathes remain alive, ¹⁷“but you shall utterly destroy them: the Hittite and the Amorite and the Canaanite and the Perizzite and the Hivite and the Jebusite, just as the LORD your God has commanded you, ¹⁸“lest ^mthey teach you to do according to all their ²abominations which they have done for their gods, and you ⁿsin against the LORD your God.

²⁰“Only the trees which you know are not trees for food you may destroy and cut down, to build siegeworks against the city that makes war with you, until it is subdued.

Deuteronomy 21

The Law Concerning Unsolved Murder

²“then your elders and your judges shall go out and measure the distance from the slain man to the surrounding cities.

³“And it shall be that the elders of the city nearest to the slain man will take a heifer which has not been worked and which has not pulled with a ^ayoke.

⁴“The elders of that city shall bring the heifer down to a valley with flowing water, which is neither plowed nor sown, and they shall break the heifer’s neck there in the valley.

⁵“Then the priests, the sons of Levi, shall come near, for ^bthe LORD your God has chosen them to minister to Him and to bless in the name of the LORD; ^cby their word every controversy and every ¹assault shall be settled.

⁶“And all the elders of that city nearest to the slain man ^dshall wash their hands over the heifer whose neck was broken in the valley.

⁷“Then they shall answer and say, ‘Our hands have not shed this blood, nor have our eyes seen it.

⁹“So ^fyou shall put away the guilt of innocent blood from among you when you do what is right in the sight of the LORD.

Female Captives

¹⁰“When you go out to war against your enemies, and the LORD your God delivers them into your hand, and you take them captive,

¹¹“and you see among the captives a beautiful woman, and desire her and would take her for your ^gwife, ¹²“then you shall bring her home to your house, and she shall ^hshave her head and trim her nails.

¹⁴“And it shall be, if you have no delight in her, then you shall set her free, but you certainly shall not sell her for money; you shall not treat her brutally, because you have ^jhumbled her.

Firstborn Inheritance Rights

¹⁵“If a man has two wives, one loved ^kand the other unloved, and they have borne him children, both the loved and the unloved, and if the firstborn son is of her who is unloved,

¹⁷“But he shall acknowledge the son of the unloved wife as the firstborn ^mby giving him a double portion of all that he has, for he ⁿis the beginning of his strength; ^othe right of the firstborn is his.

The Rebellious Son

¹⁸“If a man has a stubborn and rebellious son who will not obey the voice of his father or the voice of his mother, and who, when they have chastened him, will not heed them, ¹⁹“then his father and his mother shall take hold of him and bring him out to the elders of his city, to the gate of his city.

²⁰“And they shall say to the elders of his city, ‘This son of ours is stubborn and rebellious; he will not obey our voice; he is a glutton and a drunkard.’

²¹“Then all the men of his city shall stone him to death with stones; ^pso you shall put away the evil from among you, ^qand all Israel shall hear and fear.

Miscellaneous Laws

²²“If a man has committed a sin ^rdeserving of death, and he is put to death, and you hang him on a tree, Word Studies: hang

Deuteronomy 22

¹“You ^ashall not see your brother’s ox or his sheep going astray, and ¹hide yourself from them; you shall certainly bring them back to your brother.

²“And if your brother is not near you, or if you do not know him, then you shall bring it to your own house, and it shall remain with you until your brother seeks it; then you shall restore it to him.

^{4b}“You shall not see your brother’s donkey or his ox fall down along the road, and hide yourself from them; you shall surely help him lift them up again.

⁵“A woman shall not wear anything that pertains to a man, nor shall a man put on a woman’s garment, for all who do so are ³an abomination to the LORD your God.

⁶“If a bird’s nest happens to be before you along the way, in any tree or on the ground, with young ones or eggs, with the mother sitting on the young or on the eggs, ^cyou shall not take the mother with the young;

⁷“you shall surely let the mother go, and take the young for yourself, ^dthat it may be well with you and that you may prolong your days.

⁸“When you build a new house, then you shall make a parapet for your roof, that you may not bring guilt of bloodshed on your household if anyone falls from it.

^{9e}“You shall not sow your vineyard with different kinds of seed, lest the yield of the seed which you have sown and the fruit of your vineyard be defiled.

^{10f}“You shall not plow with an ox and a donkey together.

^{11g}“You shall not wear a garment of different sorts, such as wool and linen mixed together.

¹²“You shall make ^htassels on the four corners of the clothing with which you cover yourself.

Laws of Sexual Morality

¹³“If any man takes a wife, and goes in to her, and ⁱdetests her,

¹⁴“and charges her with shameful conduct, and brings a bad name on her, and says, ‘I took this woman, and when I came to her I found she was not a virgin,’ ¹⁵“then the father and mother of the young woman shall take and bring out the evidence of the young woman’s virginity to the elders of the city at the gate.

¹⁶“And the young woman’s father shall say to the elders, ‘I gave my daughter to this man as wife, and he detests her.

¹⁷“Now he has charged her with shameful conduct, saying, “I found your daughter was not a virgin,” and yet these are the evidences of my daughter’s virginity.’ And they shall spread the cloth before the elders of the city.

¹⁸“Then the elders of that city shall take that man and punish him;

¹⁹“and they shall fine him one hundred shekels of silver and give them to the father of the young woman, because he has brought a bad name on a virgin of Israel. And she shall be his wife; he cannot divorce her all his days.

²⁰“But if the thing is true, and evidences of virginity are not found for the young woman, ²¹“then they shall bring out the young woman to the door of her father’s house, and the men of her city shall stone her to death with ⁱstones, because she has ^kdone a disgraceful thing in Israel, to play the harlot in her father’s house. ^lSo you shall ⁴put away the evil from among you.

^{22m}“If a man is found lying with a woman married to a husband, then both of them shall die—the man that lay with the woman, and the woman; so you shall put away the evil from Israel.

²³“If a young woman who is a virgin is ⁿbetrothed to a husband, and a man finds her in the city and lies with her,

²⁵“But if a man finds a betrothed young woman in the countryside, and the man forces her and lies with her, then only the man who lay with her shall die.

²⁶“But you shall do nothing to the young woman; there is in the young woman no sin deserving of death, for just as when a man rises against his neighbor and kills him, even so is this matter.

²⁷“For he found her in the countryside, and the betrothed young woman cried out, but there was no one to save her.

^{28q}“If a man finds a young woman who is a virgin, who is not betrothed, and he seizes her and lies with her, and they are found out,

³⁰“A man shall not take his father’s wife, nor ^uuncover his father’s bed.

Deuteronomy 23

Those Excluded from the Congregation

¹“He who is emasculated by crushing or mutilation shall ^anot enter the assembly of the LORD.

²“One of illegitimate birth shall not enter the assembly of the LORD; even to the tenth generation none of his descendants shall enter the assembly of the LORD.

^{3b}“An Ammonite or Moabite shall not enter the assembly of the LORD; even to the tenth generation none of his descendants shall enter the assembly of the LORD forever, ^{4c}“because they did not meet you with bread and water on the road when you came out of Egypt, and ^dbecause they hired against you Balaam the son of Beor from Pethor of ¹Mesopotamia, to curse you.

⁵“Nevertheless the LORD your God would not listen to Balaam, but the LORD your God turned the curse into a blessing for you, because the LORD your God ^eloves you.

^{6f}“You shall not seek their peace nor their prosperity all your days forever.

⁷“You shall not abhor an Edomite, ^gfor he is your brother. You shall not abhor an Egyptian, because ^hyou were an alien in his land.

⁸“The children of the third generation born to them may enter the assembly of the LORD.

Cleanliness of the Camp Site

⁹“When the army goes out against your enemies, then keep yourself from every wicked thing.

¹⁰“If there is any man among you who becomes unclean by some occurrence in the night, then he shall go outside the camp; he shall not come inside the camp.

¹¹“But it shall be, when evening comes, that ^jhe shall wash with water; and when the sun sets, he may come into the camp.

¹²“Also you shall have a place outside the camp, where you may go out;

¹³“and you shall have an implement among your equipment, and when you sit down outside, you shall dig with it and turn and cover your refuse.

¹⁴“For the LORD your God ^kwalks in the midst of your camp, to deliver you and give your enemies over to you; therefore your camp shall be holy, that He may see no unclean thing among you, and turn away from you.

Miscellaneous Laws

¹⁵“You shall not give back to his master the slave who has escaped from his master to you.

¹⁶“He may dwell with you in your midst, in the place which he chooses within one of your gates, where it ²seems best to him; ^myou shall not oppress him.

¹⁷“There shall be no ritual ³harlot ⁿof the daughters of Israel, or a ^operverted⁴ one of the sons of Israel.

¹⁸“You shall not bring the wages of a harlot or the price of a dog to the house of the LORD your God for any vowed offering, for both of these are ⁵an abomination to the LORD your God.

¹⁹^p“You shall not charge interest to your brother—interest on money or food or anything that is lent out at interest.

²⁰^q“To a foreigner you may charge interest, but to your brother you shall not charge interest, ^rthat the LORD your God may bless you in all to which you set your hand in the land which you are entering to possess.

²¹^s“When you make a vow to the LORD your God, you shall not delay to pay it; for the LORD your God will surely require it of you, and it would be sin to you.

²²“But if you abstain from vowing, it shall not be sin to you.

²³^t“That which has gone from your lips you shall keep and perform, for you voluntarily vowed to the LORD your God what you have promised with your mouth.

²⁴“When you come into your neighbor’s vineyard, you may eat your fill of grapes at your pleasure, but you shall not put any in your container.

²⁵“When you come into your neighbor’s standing grain, ^uyou may pluck the heads with your hand, but you shall not use a sickle on your neighbor’s standing grain.

Deuteronomy 24

Law Concerning Divorce

¹“When a ^aman takes a wife and marries her, and it happens that she finds no favor in his eyes because he has found some ¹uncleanness in her, and he writes her a ^bcertificate of divorce, puts it in her hand, and sends her out of his house,

²“when she has departed from his house, and goes and becomes another man’s wife,

³“if the latter husband detests her and writes her a certificate of divorce, puts it in her hand, and sends her out of his house, or if the latter husband dies who took her as his wife, ^{4c}“then her former husband who divorced her must not take her back to be his wife after she has been defiled; for that is ²an abomination before the LORD, and you shall not bring sin on the land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance.

Miscellaneous Laws

^{5d}“When a man has taken a new wife, he shall not go out to war or be charged with any business; he shall be free at home one year, and ^ebring happiness to his wife whom he has taken.

⁶“No man shall take the lower or the upper millstone in pledge, for he takes ³one’s living in pledge.

⁷“If a man is ^ffound ⁴kidnapping any of his brethren of the children of Israel, and mistreats him or sells him, then that kidnapper shall die; ^gand you shall put away the evil from among you.

⁸“Take heed in ^han outbreak of leprosy, that you carefully observe and do according to all that the priests, the Levites, shall teach you; just as I commanded them, so you shall be careful to do.

⁹ⁱ“Remember what the LORD your God did ^jto Miriam on the way when you came out of Egypt!

¹⁰“When you ^klend your brother anything, you shall not go into his house to get his pledge.

¹¹“You shall stand outside, and the man to whom you lend shall bring the pledge out to you.

¹²“And if the man is poor, you shall not ⁵keep his pledge overnight.

^{13l}“You shall in any case return the pledge to him again when the sun goes down, that he may sleep in his own garment and ^mbless you; and ⁿit shall be righteousness to you before the LORD your God.

¹⁴“You shall not ^ooppress a hired servant who is poor and needy, whether one of your brethren or one of the aliens who is in your land within your gates.

¹⁵“Each day ^pyou shall give him his wages, and not let the sun go down on it, for he is poor and has set his heart on it; ^qlest he cry out against you to the LORD, and it be sin to you.

^{16r}“Fathers shall not be put to death for their children, nor shall children be put to death for their fathers; a person shall be put to death for his own sin.

^{17s}“You shall not pervert justice due the stranger or the fatherless, ^tnor take a widow’s garment as a pledge.

¹⁸“But ^uyou shall remember that you were a slave in Egypt, and the LORD your God redeemed you from there; therefore I command you to do this thing.

^{19v}“When you reap your harvest in your field, and forget a sheaf in the field, you shall not go back to get it; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, that the LORD your God may ^wbless you in all the work of your hands. Bible Times & Culture Notes: Farming

²⁰“When you beat your olive trees, you shall not go over the boughs again; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow.

²¹“When you gather the grapes of your vineyard, you shall not glean it afterward; it shall be for the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow.

²²“And you shall remember that you were a slave in the land of Egypt; therefore I command you to do this thing.

Deuteronomy 25

¹“If there is a ^adispute between men, and they come to ¹court, that the judges may judge them, and they ^bjustify the righteous and condemn the wicked,

²“then it shall be, if the wicked man ^cdeserves to be beaten, that the judge will cause him to lie down ^dand be beaten in his presence, according to his guilt, with a certain number of blows.

^{3e}“Forty blows he may give him and no more, lest he should exceed this and beat him with many blows above these, and your brother ^fbe humiliated in your sight.

^{4g}“You shall not muzzle an ox while it ²treads out the grain.

Marriage Duty of the Surviving Brother

^{5h}“If brothers dwell together, and one of them dies and has no son, the widow of the dead man shall not be married to a stranger outside the family; her husband’s brother shall go in to her, take her as his wife, and perform the duty of a husband’s brother to her.

⁶“And it shall be that the firstborn son which she bears ⁱwill succeed to the name of his dead brother, that ^jhis name may not be blotted out of Israel.

⁷“But if the man does not want to take his brother’s wife, then let his brother’s wife go up to the ^kgate to the elders, and say, ‘My husband’s brother refuses to raise up a name to his brother in Israel; he will not perform the duty of my husband’s brother.’

⁸“Then the elders of his city shall call him and speak to him. But if he stands firm and says, ^l‘I do not want to take her,’

⁹“then his brother’s wife shall come to him in the presence of the elders, ^mremove his sandal from his foot, spit in his face, and answer and say, ‘So shall it be done to the man who will not ⁿbuild up his brother’s house.’

¹⁰“And his name shall be called in Israel, ‘The house of him who had his sandal removed.’

Miscellaneous Laws

¹¹“If two men fight together, and the wife of one draws near to rescue her husband from the hand of the one attacking him, and puts out her hand and seizes him by the genitals, ¹²“then you shall cut off her hand; ^oyour eye shall not pity her.

^{13p}“You shall not have in your bag differing weights, a heavy and a light.

¹⁴“You shall not have in your house differing measures, a large and a small.

¹⁵“You shall have a perfect and just weight, a perfect and just measure, ^qthat your days may be lengthened in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

¹⁶“For ^rall who do such things, all who behave unrighteously, are ³an abomination to the LORD your God.

Destroy the Amalekites

¹⁷^s“Remember what Amalek did to you on the way as you were coming out of Egypt, ¹⁸“how he met you on the way and attacked your rear ranks, all the stragglers at your rear, when you were tired and weary; and he ^tdid not fear God.

¹⁹“Therefore it shall be, ^uwhen the LORD your God has given you rest from your enemies all around, in the land which the LORD your God is giving you to possess as an inheritance, that you will ^vblot out the remembrance of Amalek from under heaven. You shall not forget.

Deuteronomy 26

Offerings of Firstfruits and Tithes

¹“And it shall be, when you come into the land which the LORD your God is giving you as an inheritance, and you possess it and dwell in it, ^{2a}“that you shall take some of the first of all the produce of the ground, which you shall bring from your land that the LORD your God is giving you, and put it in a basket and ^bgo to the place where the LORD your God chooses to make His name abide.

³“And you shall go to the one who is priest in those days, and say to him, ‘I declare today to the LORD ¹your God that I have come to the country which the LORD swore to our fathers to give us.’

⁴“Then the priest shall take the basket out of your hand and set it down before the altar of the LORD your God.

⁵“And you shall answer and say before the LORD your God: ‘My father was ^ca ²Syrian, ^dabout to perish, and ^ehe went down to Egypt and ³dwelt there, ^ffew in number; and there he became a nation, ^ggreat, mighty, and populous.

⁶“But the ^hEgyptians mistreated us, afflicted us, and laid hard bondage on us.

⁷ⁱ“Then we cried out to the LORD God of our fathers, and the LORD heard our voice and looked on our affliction and our labor and our oppression.

⁸“So ^jthe LORD brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand and with an outstretched arm, ^kwith great terror and with signs and wonders.

⁹“He has brought us to this place and has given us this land, ^l“a land flowing with milk and honey”;

¹⁰“and now, behold, I have brought the firstfruits of the land which you, O LORD, have given me.’ Then you shall set it before the LORD your God, and worship before the LORD your God. Word Studies: worship

¹¹“So ^myou shall rejoice in every good thing which the LORD your God has given to you and your house, you and the Levite and the stranger who is among you.

¹²“When you have finished laying aside all the ⁿtithe of your increase in the third year—^othe year of tithing—and have given it to the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, so that they may eat within your gates and be filled,

¹³“then you shall say before the LORD your God: ‘I have removed the ⁴holy tithe from my house, and also have given them to the Levite, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow, according to all Your commandments which You have commanded me; I have not transgressed Your commandments, ^pnor have I forgotten them.

^{14q}I have not eaten any of it ⁵when in mourning, nor have I removed any of it ⁶for an unclean use, nor given any of it for the dead. I have obeyed the voice of the LORD my God, and have done according to all that You have commanded me.

^{15r}‘Look down from Your holy ⁷habitation, from heaven, and bless Your people Israel and the land which You have given us, just as You swore to our fathers, ^s“a land flowing with milk and honey.” ’

A Special People of God

¹⁶“This day the LORD your God commands you to observe these statutes and judgments; therefore you shall be careful to observe them with all your heart and with all your soul.

¹⁷“Today you have ^tproclaimed the LORD to be your God, and that you will walk in His ways and keep His statutes, His commandments, and His judgments, and that you will ^uobey His voice.

¹⁸“Also today ^vthe LORD has proclaimed you to be His special people, just as He promised you, that you should keep all His commandments,

¹⁹“and that He will set you ^whigh above all nations which He has made, in praise, in name, and in honor, and that you may be ^xa ⁸holy people to the LORD your God, just as He has spoken.”

Deuteronomy 27

The Law Inscribed on Stones

¹Now Moses, with the elders of Israel, commanded the people, saying: “Keep all the commandments which I command you today.

²“And it shall be, on the day ^awhen you cross over the Jordan to the land which the LORD your God is giving you, that ^byou shall set up for yourselves large stones, and whitewash them with lime.

³“You shall write on them all the words of this law, when you have crossed over, that you may enter the land which the LORD your God is giving you, ^c‘a land flowing with milk and honey,’ just as the LORD God of your fathers promised you.

⁴“Therefore it shall be, when you have crossed over the Jordan, that ^don Mount Ebal you shall set up these stones, which I command you today, and you shall whitewash them with lime.

⁵“And there you shall build an altar to the LORD your God, an altar of stones; ^eyou shall not use an iron tool on them.

⁶“You shall build with ¹whole stones the altar of the LORD your God, and offer burnt offerings on it to the LORD your God. Word Studies: burnt offering

⁷“You shall offer peace offerings, and shall eat there, and ^frejoice before the LORD your God.

⁸“And you shall ^gwrite very plainly on the stones all the words of this law.”

⁹Then Moses and the priests, the Levites, spoke to all Israel, saying, “Take heed and listen, O Israel: ^hThis day you have become the people of the LORD your God.

¹⁰“Therefore you shall obey the voice of the LORD your God, and observe His commandments and His statutes which I command you today.”

Curses Pronounced from Mount Ebal

11 And Moses commanded the people on the same day, saying, Article: Covenant Renewal

12 “These shall stand ⁱ on Mount Gerizim to bless the people, when you have crossed over the Jordan: Simeon, Levi, Judah, Issachar, Joseph, and Benjamin;

13 “and ^j these shall stand on Mount Ebal to curse: Reuben, Gad, Asher, Zebulun, Dan, and Naphtali.

14 “And ^k the Levites shall speak with a loud voice and say to all the men of Israel:

15 ^l “Cursed is the one who makes a carved or molded image, ² an abomination to the LORD, the work of the hands of the craftsman, and sets it up in secret.’

^m “And all the people shall answer and say, ‘Amen!’

16 ⁿ “Cursed is the one who treats his father or his mother with contempt.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

17 ^o “Cursed is the one who moves his neighbor’s landmark.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

18 ^p “Cursed is the one who makes the blind to wander off the road.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

19 ^q “Cursed is the one who perverts the justice due the stranger, the fatherless, and widow.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

20 ^r “Cursed is the one who lies with his father’s wife, because he has uncovered his father’s bed.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

21 ^s “Cursed is the one who lies with any kind of animal.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

22 ^t “Cursed is the one who lies with his sister, the daughter of his father or the daughter of his mother.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

23 ^u “Cursed is the one who lies with his mother-in-law.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

24 ^v “Cursed is the one who attacks his neighbor secretly.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

25 ^w “Cursed is the one who takes a bribe to slay an innocent person.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

^{26x}“Cursed is the one who does not confirm all the words of this law.’

“And all the people shall say, ‘Amen!’

Deuteronomy 28

Blessings on Obedience

(Lev. 26:1–13; Deut. 7:12–24)

²“And all these blessings shall come upon you and ^covertake you, because you obey the voice of the LORD your God:

^{3d}“Blessed shall you be in the city, and blessed shall you be ^ein the country.

⁴“Blessed shall be ^fthe ¹fruit of your body, the produce of your ground and the increase of your herds, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flocks.

⁵“Blessed shall be your basket and your kneading bowl.

^{6g}“Blessed shall you be when you come in, and blessed shall you be when you go out.

⁷“The LORD ^hwill cause your enemies who rise against you to be defeated before your face; they shall come out against you one way and flee before you seven ways.

⁸“The LORD will ⁱcommand the blessing on you in your storehouses and in all to which you ^jset your hand, and He will bless you in the land which the LORD your God is giving you.

^{9k}“The LORD will establish you as a holy people to Himself, just as He has sworn to you, if you keep the commandments of the LORD your God and walk in His ways.

¹⁰“Then all peoples of the earth shall see that you are ^lcalled by the name of the LORD, and they shall be ^mafraid of you.

¹¹“And ⁿthe LORD will grant you plenty of goods, in the fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your ground, in the land of which the LORD ²swore to your fathers to give you.

¹²“The LORD will open to you His good ³treasure, the heavens, ^oto give the rain to your land in its season, and ^pto bless all the work of your hand.

^qYou shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow.

¹³“And the LORD will make ^ryou the head and not the tail; you shall be above only, and not be beneath, if you ⁴heed the commandments of the LORD your God, which I command you today, and are careful to observe them.

^{14s}“So you shall not turn aside from any of the words which I command you this day, to the right or the left, to go after other gods to serve them.

Curses on Disobedience

(Lev. 26:14–46)

¹⁵“But it shall come to pass, ^tif you do not obey the voice of the LORD your God, to observe carefully all His commandments and His statutes which I command you today, that all these curses will come upon you and overtake you:

¹⁶“Cursed shall you be in the city, and cursed shall you be in the country.

Word Studies: cursed

¹⁷“Cursed shall be your basket and your kneading bowl.

¹⁸“Cursed shall be the ⁵fruit of your body and the produce of your land, the increase of your cattle and the offspring of your flocks.

¹⁹“Cursed shall you be when you come in, and cursed shall you be when you go out.

²⁰“The LORD will send on you ^ucursing, ^vconfusion, and ^wrebuke in all that you set your hand to do, until you are destroyed and until you perish quickly, because of the wickedness of your doings in which you have forsaken Me.

²¹“The LORD will make the ⁶plague cling to you until He has consumed you from the land which you are going to possess.

^{22x}“The LORD will strike you with consumption, with fever, with inflammation, with severe burning fever, with the sword, with ^yscorching,⁷ and with mildew; they shall pursue you until you perish.

²³“And ^zyour heavens which are over your head shall be bronze, and the earth which is under you shall be iron.

²⁴“The LORD will change the rain of your land to powder and dust; from the heaven it shall come down on you until you are destroyed.

^{25a}“The LORD will cause you to be defeated before your enemies; you shall go out one way against them and flee seven ways before them; and you shall become ⁸troublesome to all the kingdoms of the earth.

^{26b}“Your carcasses shall be food for all the birds of the air and the beasts of the earth, and no one shall frighten them away.

²⁷“The LORD will strike you with ^cthe boils of Egypt, with ^dtumors, with the scab, and with the itch, from which you cannot be healed.

²⁸“The LORD will strike you with madness and blindness and ^econfusion of heart.

²⁹“And you shall ^fgrope at noonday, as a blind man gropes in darkness; you shall not prosper in your ways; you shall be only oppressed and plundered continually, and no one shall save you.

^{30g}“You shall betroth a wife, but another man shall lie with her; ^hyou shall build a house, but you shall not dwell in it; ⁱyou shall plant a vineyard, but shall not gather its grapes.

³²“Your sons and your daughters shall be given to ^janother people, and your eyes shall look and ^kfail with longing for them all day long; and there shall be ⁹no strength in your ^lhand.

³³“A nation whom you have not known shall eat ^mthe fruit of your land and the produce of your labor, and you shall be only oppressed and crushed continually.

³⁴“So you shall be driven mad because of the sight which your eyes see.

³⁵“The LORD will strike you in the knees and on the legs with severe boils which cannot be healed, and from the sole of your foot to the top of your head.

³⁶“The LORD will ⁿbring you and the king whom you set over you to a nation which neither you nor your fathers have known, and ^othere you shall serve other gods—wood and stone.

³⁷“And you shall become ^pan¹⁰ astonishment, a proverb, ^qand a byword among all nations where the LORD will drive you.

^{38r}“You shall carry much seed out to the field but gather little in, for ^sthe locust shall ¹¹consume it.

³⁹“You shall plant vineyards and tend them, but you shall neither drink of the ^twine nor gather the grapes; for the worms shall eat them.

⁴⁰“You shall have olive trees throughout all your territory, but you shall not anoint yourself with the oil; for your olives shall drop off.

⁴¹“You shall beget sons and daughters, but they shall not be yours; for ^uthey shall go into captivity.

⁴²“Locusts shall ¹²consume all your trees and the produce of your land.

⁴³“The alien who is among you shall rise higher and higher above you, and you shall come down lower and lower.

⁴⁴“He shall lend to you, but you shall not lend to him; he shall be the head, and you shall be the tail.

⁴⁵“Moreover all these curses shall come upon you and pursue and overtake you, until you are destroyed, because you ¹³did not obey the voice of the LORD your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which He commanded you.

⁴⁶“And they shall be upon ^vyou for a sign and a wonder, and on your descendants forever.

⁴⁷“Because you did not serve the LORD your God with joy and gladness of heart, ^xfor the abundance of everything, ⁴⁸“therefore you shall serve your enemies, whom the LORD will send against you, in ^yhunger, in thirst, in nakedness, and in need of everything; and He ^zwill put a yoke of iron on your neck until He has destroyed you.

^{49a}“The LORD will bring a nation against you from afar, from the end of the earth, ^bas swift as the eagle flies, a nation whose language you will not understand, ⁵⁰“a nation of fierce countenance, ^cwhich does not respect the elderly nor show favor to the young.

⁵¹“And they shall eat the increase of your livestock and the produce of your land, until you are destroyed; they shall not leave you grain or new wine or oil, or the increase of your cattle or the offspring of your flocks, until they have destroyed you.

⁵²“They shall ^dbesiege you at all your gates until your high and fortified walls, in which you trust, come down throughout all your land; and they shall besiege you at all your gates throughout all your land which the LORD your God has given you.

^{53e}“You shall eat the ¹⁴fruit of your own body, the flesh of your sons and your daughters whom the LORD your God has given you, in the siege and desperate straits in which your enemy shall distress you.

⁵⁴“The ¹⁵sensitive and very refined man among you ^fwill¹⁶ be hostile toward his brother, toward ^gthe wife of his bosom, and toward the rest of his children whom he leaves behind,

⁵⁶“The ¹⁷tender and ¹⁸delicate woman among you, who would not venture to set the sole of her foot on the ground because of her delicateness and sensitivity, ¹⁹will refuse to the husband of her bosom, and to her son and her daughter, 57“her ²⁰placenta which comes out ^hfrom between her feet and her children whom she bears; for she will eat them secretly for lack of everything in the siege and desperate straits in which your enemy shall distress you at all your gates.

58“If you do not carefully observe all the words of this law that are written in this book, that you may fear ⁱthis glorious and awesome name, THE LORD YOUR GOD, 59“then the LORD will bring upon you and your descendants ^jextraordinary plagues—great and prolonged plagues—and serious and prolonged sicknesses.

60“Moreover He will bring back on you all ^kthe diseases of Egypt, of which you were afraid, and they shall cling to you.

61“Also every sickness and every plague, which is not written in this Book of the Law, will the LORD bring upon you until you are destroyed.

62“^lYou shall be left few in number, whereas you were ^mas the stars of heaven in multitude, because you would not obey the voice of the LORD your God.

63“And it shall be, that just as the LORD ⁿrejoiced over you to do you good and multiply you, so the LORD ^owill rejoice over you to destroy you and bring you to nothing; and you shall be ^pplucked²¹ from off the land which you go to possess.

64“Then the LORD ^qwill scatter you among all peoples, from one end of the earth to the other, and ^rthere you shall serve other gods, which neither you nor your fathers have known—wood and stone.

65“^sAmong those nations you shall find no rest, nor shall the sole of your foot have a resting place; ^tbut there the LORD will give you a ²²trembling heart, failing eyes, and ^uanguish of soul.

66“Your life shall hang in doubt before you; you shall fear day and night, and have no assurance of life.

67^v“In the morning you shall say, ‘Oh, that it were evening!’ And at evening you shall say, ‘Oh, that it were morning!’ because of the fear which terrifies your heart, and ^wbecause of the sight which your eyes see.

68“^xAnd the LORD will take you back to Egypt in ships, by the way of which I said to you, ^y‘You shall never see it again.’ And there you shall be offered for sale to your enemies as male and female slaves, but no one will buy you.”

Deuteronomy 29

The Covenant Renewed in Moab

¹These are the words of the covenant which the LORD commanded Moses to make with the children of Israel in the land of Moab, besides the ^acovenant which He made with them in Horeb.

²Now Moses called all Israel and said to them: ^b“You have seen all that the LORD did before your eyes in the land of Egypt, to Pharaoh and to all his servants and to all his land—^{3c}“the great trials which your eyes have seen, the signs, and those great wonders.

⁴“Yet ^dthe LORD has not given you a heart to ¹perceive and eyes to see and ears to hear, to this very day.

^{5e}“And I have led you forty years in the wilderness. ^fYour clothes have not worn out on you, and your sandals have not worn out on your feet.

^{6g}“You have not eaten bread, nor have you drunk wine or similar drink, that you may know that I am the LORD your God.

⁷“And when you came to this place, ^hSihon king of Heshbon and Og king of Bashan came out against us to battle, and we conquered them.

⁸“We took their land and ⁱgave it as an inheritance to the Reubenites, to the Gadites, and to half the tribe of Manasseh.

⁹“Therefore ^jkeep the words of this covenant, and do them, that you may ^kprosper in all that you do.

¹⁰“All of you stand today before the LORD your God: your leaders and your tribes and your elders and your officers, all the men of Israel,

¹¹“your little ones and your wives—also the stranger who is in your camp, from ^lthe one who cuts your wood to the one who draws your water—

¹²“that you may enter into covenant with the LORD your God, and ^minto His oath, which the LORD your God makes with you today, ¹³“that He may ⁿestablish you today as a people for Himself, and that He may be God to you, ^ojust as He has spoken to you, and ^pjust as He has sworn to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

¹⁴“I make this covenant and this oath, ^qnot with you alone,

¹⁵“but with him who stands here with us today before the LORD our God, ^ras well as with him who is not here with us today

¹⁶(for you know that we dwelt in the land of Egypt and that we came through the nations which you passed by, ¹⁷and you saw their ²abominations and their idols which were among them—wood and stone and silver and gold);

¹⁸“so that there may not be among you man or woman or family or tribe, ^swhose heart turns away today from the LORD our God, to go and serve the gods of these nations, ^tand that there may not be among you a root bearing ^ubitterness or wormwood;

¹⁹“and so it may not happen, when he hears the words of this curse, that he blesses himself in his heart, saying, ‘I shall have peace, even though I ³follow the ^vdictates of my heart’—^was though the drunkard could be included with the sober.

^{20x}“The LORD would not spare him; for then ^ythe anger of the LORD and ^zHis jealousy would burn against that man, and every curse that is written in this book would settle on him, and the LORD ^awould blot out his name from under heaven.

²¹“And the LORD ^bwould separate him from all the tribes of Israel for adversity, according to all the curses of the covenant that are written in this Book of the ^cLaw,

²²“so that the coming generation of your children who rise up after you, and the foreigner who comes from a far land, would say, when they ^dsee the plagues of that land and the sicknesses which the LORD has laid on it:

²⁴“All nations would say, ^g‘Why has the LORD done so to this land? What does the heat of this great anger mean?’

²⁵“Then people would say: ‘Because they have forsaken the covenant of the LORD God of their fathers, which He made with them when He brought them out of the land of Egypt;

²⁶‘for they went and served other gods and worshiped them, gods that they did not know and that He had not given to them.

²⁷‘Then the anger of the LORD was aroused against this land, ^hto bring on it every curse that is written in this book.

²⁸‘And the LORD ⁱuprooted them from their land in anger, in wrath, and in great indignation, and cast them into another land, as it is this day.’

²⁹“The secret things belong to the LORD our God, but those things which are revealed belong to us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law.

Deuteronomy 30

The Blessing of Returning to God

¹“Now ^ait shall come to pass, when ^ball these things come upon you, the blessing and the ^ccurse which I have set before you, and ^dyou ¹call them to mind among all the nations where the LORD your God drives you,

²“and you ^ereturn to the LORD your God and obey His voice, according to all that I command you today, you and your children, with all your heart and with all your soul, ^{3f}“that the LORD your God will bring you back from captivity, and have compassion on you, and ^ggather you again from all the nations where the LORD your God has scattered you.

^{4h}“If any of you are driven out to the farthest parts under heaven, from there the LORD your God will gather you, and from there He will bring you.

⁵“Then the LORD your God will bring you to the land which your fathers possessed, and you shall possess it. He will prosper you and multiply you more than your fathers.

⁶“And ⁱthe LORD your God will circumcise your heart and the heart of your descendants, to love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, that you may live.

⁷“Also the LORD your God will put all these ^jcurses on your enemies and on those who hate you, who persecuted you.

⁸“And you will ^kagain obey the voice of the LORD and do all His commandments which I command you today.

^{9l}“The LORD your God will make you abound in all the work of your hand, in the ²fruit of your body, in the increase of your livestock, and in the produce of your land for good. For the LORD will again ^mrejoice over you for good as He rejoiced over your fathers, ¹⁰“if you obey the voice of the LORD your God, to keep His commandments and His statutes which are written in this Book of the Law, and if you turn to the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul.

The Choice of Life or Death

¹¹“For this commandment which I command you today ⁿis ³not too mysterious for you, nor is it far off.

^{12o}“It is not in heaven, that you should say, ‘Who will ascend into heaven for us and bring it to us, that we may hear it and do it?’

¹³“Nor is it beyond the sea, that you should say, ‘Who will go over the sea for us and bring it to us, that we may hear it and do it?’

¹⁴“But the word is very near you, ^pin your mouth and in your heart, that you may do it.

¹⁵“See, ^qI have set before you today life and good, death and evil, ¹⁶“in that I command you today to love the LORD your God, to walk in His ways, and to keep His commandments, His statutes, and His judgments, that you may live and multiply; and the LORD your God will bless you in the land which you go to possess.

¹⁷“But if your heart turns away so that you do not hear, and are drawn away, and worship other gods and serve them, ^{18r}“I announce to you today that you shall surely perish; you shall not prolong your days in the land which you cross over the Jordan to go in and possess.

^{19s}“I call heaven and earth as witnesses today against you, that ^tI have set before you life and death, blessing and cursing; therefore choose life, that both you and your descendants may live;

²⁰“that you may love the LORD your God, that you may obey His voice, and that you may cling to Him, for He is your ^ulife and the length of your days; and that you may dwell in the land which the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, to give them.”

Deuteronomy 31

Joshua the New Leader of Israel

(Num. 27:12–23)

¹Then Moses went and spoke these words to all Israel.

²And he said to them: “I ^aam one hundred and twenty years old today. I can no longer ^bgo out and come in. Also the LORD has said to me, ^c“You shall not cross over this Jordan.”

³“The LORD your God ^dHimself crosses over before you; He will destroy these nations from before you, and you shall dispossess them. ^eJoshua himself crosses over before you, just ^fas the LORD has said.

^{4g}“And the LORD will do to them ^has He did to Sihon and Og, the kings of the Amorites and their land, when He destroyed them.

⁵ⁱ“The LORD will give them over to you, that you may do to them according to every commandment which I have commanded you.

^{6j}“Be strong and of good courage, ^kdo not fear nor be afraid of them; for the LORD your God, ^lHe is the One who goes with you. ^mHe will not leave you nor forsake you.”

⁷Then Moses called Joshua and said to him in the sight of all Israel, ⁿ“Be strong and of good courage, for you must go with this people to the land which the LORD has sworn to their fathers to give them, and you shall cause them to inherit it.

⁸“And the LORD, ^oHe is the One who goes before you. ^pHe will be with you, He will not leave you nor forsake you; do not fear nor be dismayed.”

The Law to Be Read Every Seven Years

⁹So Moses wrote this law ^qand delivered it to the priests, the sons of Levi, ^rwho bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, and to all the elders of Israel.

Bible Times & Culture Notes: Biblical Law—Public Law

¹⁰And Moses commanded them, saying: “At the end of every seven years, at the appointed time in the ^syear of release, ^tat the Feast of Tabernacles, Word Studies: feast

¹¹“when all Israel comes to ^uappear before the LORD your God in the ^vplace which He chooses, ^wyou shall read this law before all Israel in their hearing.

^{12x}“Gather the people together, men and women and little ones, and the stranger who is within your gates, that they may hear and that they may learn to fear the LORD your God and carefully observe all the words of this law,

¹³“and that their children, ^ywho have not known it, ^zmay hear and learn to fear the LORD your God as long as you live in the land which you cross the Jordan to possess.”

Prediction of Israel's Rebellion

¹⁴Then the LORD said to Moses, ^a“Behold, the days approach when you must die; call Joshua, and present yourselves in the tabernacle of meeting, that ^bI may ¹inaugurate him.” So Moses and Joshua went and presented themselves in the tabernacle of meeting.

¹⁵Now ^cthe LORD appeared at the tabernacle in a pillar of cloud, and the pillar of cloud stood above the door of the tabernacle.

¹⁶And the LORD said to Moses: “Behold, you will ²rest with your fathers; and this people will ^drise and ^eplay the harlot with the gods of the foreigners of the land, where they go to be among them, and they will ^fforsake Me and ^gbreak My covenant which I have made with them.

¹⁷“Then My anger shall be ^haroused against them in that day, and ⁱI will forsake them, and I will ^jhide My face from them, and they shall be ³devoured. And many evils and troubles shall befall them, so that they will say in that day, ^k“Have not these evils come upon us because our God is ^lnot among us?”

¹⁸“And ^mI will surely hide My face in that day because of all the evil which they have done, in that they have turned to other gods.

²⁰“When I have brought them to the land flowing with milk and honey, of which I swore to their fathers, and they have eaten and filled themselves ^oand grown fat, ^pthen they will turn to other gods and serve them; and they will provoke Me and break My covenant.

²¹“Then it shall be, ^qwhen many evils and troubles have come upon them, that this song will testify against them as a witness; for it will not be forgotten in the mouths of their descendants, for ^rI know the inclination ^sof their behavior today, even before I have brought them to the land of which I swore to give them.”

²²Therefore Moses wrote this song the same day, and taught it to the children of Israel.

²³Then He inaugurated Joshua the son of Nun, and said, ^u“Be strong and of good courage; for you shall bring the children of Israel into the land of which I swore to them, and I will be with you.”

²⁴So it was, when Moses had completed writing the words of this law in a book, when they were finished,

²⁵that Moses commanded the Levites, who bore the ark of the covenant of the LORD, saying:

²⁶“Take this Book of the Law, ^vand put it beside the ark of the covenant of the LORD your God, that it may be there ^was a witness against you;

^{27x}“for I know your rebellion and your ^ystiff neck. If today, while I am yet alive with you, you have been rebellious against the LORD, then how much more after my death?

²⁸“Gather to me all the elders of your tribes, and your officers, that I may speak these words in their hearing ^zand call heaven and earth to witness against them.

²⁹“For I know that after my death you will ^abecome utterly corrupt, and turn aside from the way which I have commanded you. And ^bevil will befall you ^cin the latter days, because you will do evil in the sight of the LORD, to provoke Him to anger through the work of your hands.”

The Song of Moses

³⁰Then Moses spoke in the hearing of all the assembly of Israel the words of this song until they were ended:

Deuteronomy 32

¹“Give ^aear, O heavens, and I will speak;
And hear, O ^bearth, the words of my mouth.

²Let ^cmy ¹teaching drop as the rain,
My speech distill as the dew,
^dAs raindrops on the tender herb,
And as showers on the grass.

³For I proclaim the ^ename of the LORD:
^fAscribe greatness to our God.

⁴*He is* ^gthe Rock, ^hHis work is perfect;
For all His ways are justice,
ⁱA God of truth and ^jwithout injustice;
Righteous and upright is He.

⁵“They^k have corrupted themselves;
They are not His children,
Because of their blemish:
A ^lperverse and crooked generation.

⁶Do you thus ^mdeal² with the LORD,
O foolish and unwise people?
Is He not ⁿyour Father, who ^obought you?
Has He not ^pmade you and established you?

⁷“Remember^q the days of old,
Consider the years of many generations.

^rAsk your father, and he will show you;
Your elders, and they will tell you:

⁸When the Most High ^sdivided their inheritance to the nations,
When He ^tseparated the sons of Adam,
He set the boundaries of the peoples
According to the number of the ³children of Israel.

⁹For ^uthe LORD’s portion is His people;
Jacob is the place of His inheritance.

¹⁰“He found him ^vin a desert land

And in the wasteland, a howling wilderness;
He encircled him, He instructed him,
He ^wkept him as the ⁴apple of His eye.

^{11x}As an eagle stirs up its nest,
Hovers over its young,
Spreading out its wings, taking them up,
Carrying them on its wings,
¹²So the LORD alone led him,
And there was no foreign god with him.

¹³“He^y made him ride in the heights of the earth,
That he might eat the produce of the fields;
He made him draw honey from the rock,
And oil from the flinty rock;
¹⁴Curds from the cattle, and milk of the flock,
^zWith fat of lambs;
And rams of the breed of Bashan, and goats,
With the choicest wheat;
And you drank wine, the ^ablood of the grapes.

¹⁵“But Jeshurun grew fat and kicked;
^bYou grew fat, you grew thick,
You are obese!
Then he ^cforsook God who ^dmade him,
And scornfully esteemed the ^eRock of his salvation.
^{16f}They provoked Him to jealousy with foreign gods;
With ⁵abominations they provoked Him to anger.
^{17g}They sacrificed to demons, not to God,
To gods they did not know,
To new gods, new arrivals
That your fathers did not fear.
^{18h}Of the Rock who begot you, you are unmindful,
And have ⁱforgotten the God who fathered you.

¹⁹“And^j when the LORD saw it, He spurned them,
Because of the provocation of His sons and His daughters.
²⁰And He said: ‘I will hide My face from them,
I will see what their end will be,

For they are a perverse generation,

^kChildren in whom is no faith.

^{21l}They have provoked Me to jealousy by what is not God;

They have moved Me to anger ^mby their ⁶foolish idols.

But ⁿI will provoke them to jealousy by those who are not a nation;

I will move them to anger by a foolish nation.

²²For ^oa fire is kindled in My anger,

And shall burn to the ⁷lowest ⁸hell;

It shall consume the earth with her increase,

And set on fire the foundations of the mountains.

²³I will ^pheap disasters on them;

^qI will spend My arrows on them.

²⁴*They shall be* wasted with hunger,

Devoured by pestilence and bitter destruction;

I will also send against them the ^rteeth of beasts,

With the poison of serpents of the dust.

²⁵The sword shall destroy outside;

There shall be terror within

For the young man and virgin,

The nursing child with the man of gray hairs.

^{26s}I would have said, "I will dash them in pieces,

I will make the memory of them to cease from among men,"

²⁷Had I not feared the wrath of the enemy,

Lest their adversaries should misunderstand,

Lest they should say, ^t"Our hand is high;

And it is not the LORD who has done all this." '

²⁸"For they are a nation void of counsel,

Nor is there any understanding in them.

^{29u}Oh, that they were wise, that they understood this,

That they would consider their ^vlatter end!

³⁰How could one chase a thousand,

And two put ten thousand to flight,

Unless their Rock ^whad sold them,

And the LORD had surrendered them?

³¹For their rock is not like our Rock,
^xEven our enemies themselves being judges.

³²For ^ytheir vine is of the vine of Sodom
And of the fields of Gomorrah;
Their grapes are grapes of gall,
Their clusters are bitter.

³³Their wine is ^zthe poison of serpents,
And the cruel ^avenom of cobras.

³⁴‘Is this not ^blaid up in store with Me,
Sealed up among My treasures?
^{35c}Vengeance is Mine, and recompense;
Their foot shall slip in due time;
^dFor the day of their calamity is at hand,
And the things to come hasten upon them.’

³⁶‘For^e the LORD will judge His people
^fAnd have compassion on His servants,
When He sees that their power is gone,
And ^g*there is* no one remaining, bond or free.

³⁷He will say: ^h‘Where are their gods,
The rock in which they sought refuge?

³⁸Who ate the fat of their sacrifices,
And drank the wine of their drink offering?
Let them rise and help you,
And be your refuge.

³⁹‘Now see that ⁱI, even I, am He,
And ^j*there is* no God besides Me;
^kI kill and I make alive;
I wound and I heal;
Nor is there any who can deliver from My hand.

⁴⁰For I raise My hand to heaven,
And say, “As I live forever,

^{41l}If I ⁹whet My glittering sword,
And My hand takes hold on judgment,
I will render vengeance to My enemies,
And repay those who hate Me.

⁴²I will make My arrows drunk with blood,
And My sword shall devour flesh,
With the blood of the slain and the captives,
From the heads of the leaders of the enemy.” ’

⁴³“Rejoice, ^mO Gentiles, with His ¹⁰people;
For He will ⁿavenge the blood of His servants,
And render vengeance to His adversaries;
He ^owill provide atonement for His land and His people.”

⁴⁴So Moses came with ¹¹Joshua the son of Nun and spoke all the words of this song in the hearing of the people.

⁴⁵Moses finished speaking all these words to all Israel,

⁴⁶and he said to them: ^p“Set your hearts on all the words which I testify among you today, which you shall command your ^qchildren to be careful to observe—all the words of this law.

⁴⁷“For it is not a ¹²futile thing for you, because it is your ^rlife, and by this word you shall prolong your days in the land which you cross over the Jordan to possess.”

Moses to Die on Mount Nebo

⁴⁸Then the LORD spoke to Moses that very same day, saying:

^{49s}“Go up this mountain of the Abarim, Mount Nebo, which is in the land of Moab, across from Jericho; view the land of Canaan, which I give to the children of Israel as a possession;

⁵⁰“and die on the mountain which you ascend, and be ¹³gathered to your people, just as ^tAaron your brother died on Mount Hor and was gathered to his people;

⁵¹“because ^uyou trespassed against Me among the children of Israel at the waters of ¹⁴Meribah Kadesh, in the Wilderness of Zin, because you ^vdid not hallow Me in the midst of the children of Israel.

^{52w}“Yet you shall see the land before you, though you shall not go there, into the land which I am giving to the children of Israel.”

Deuteronomy 33

Moses' Final Blessing on Israel

¹Now this is ^athe blessing with which Moses ^bthe man of God blessed the children of Israel before his death.

²And he said:

^c“The LORD came from Sinai,
And dawned on them from ^dSeir;
He shone forth from ^eMount Paran,
And He came with ^ften thousands of saints;

From His right hand
Came a fiery law for them.
³Yes, ^gHe loves the people;
^hAll His saints are in Your hand;
They ⁱsit down at Your feet;
Everyone ^jreceives Your words.
^{4k}Moses ¹commanded a law for us,
^lA heritage of the congregation of Jacob.
⁵And He was ^mKing in ⁿJeshurun,
When the leaders of the people were gathered,
All the tribes of Israel together.

⁶“Let ^oReuben live, and not die,
Nor let his men be few.”

⁷And this he said of ^pJudah:

“Hear, LORD, the voice of Judah,
And bring him to his people;
^qLet his hands be sufficient for him,
And may You be ^ra help against his enemies.”

⁸And of ^sLevi he said:

^t“Let Your ²Thummim and Your Urim be with Your holy one,
^uWhom You tested at Massah,
And with whom You contended at the waters of Meribah, ^{9v}Who says of his father and mother,
‘I have not ^wseen them’;
^xNor did he acknowledge his brothers,
Or know his own children;
For ^ythey have observed Your word
And kept Your covenant.
^{10z}They shall teach Jacob Your judgments,
And Israel Your law.
They shall put incense before You,
^aAnd a whole burnt sacrifice on Your altar.
¹¹Bless his substance, LORD,

And ^baccept the work of his hands;
Strike the loins of those who rise against him,
And of those who hate him, that they rise not again.”

¹²Of Benjamin he said:

“The beloved of the LORD shall dwell in safety by Him,
Who shelters him all the day long;
And he shall dwell between His shoulders.”

¹³And of Joseph he said:

^c“Blessed of the LORD is his land,
With the precious things of heaven, with the ^ddew,
And the deep lying beneath,
¹⁴With the precious fruits of the sun,
With the precious produce of the months,
¹⁵With the best things of ^ethe ancient mountains,
With the precious things ^fof the everlasting hills,
¹⁶With the precious things of the earth and its fullness,
And the favor of ^gHim who dwelt in the bush.
Let the blessing come ^h“on the head of Joseph,
And on the crown of the head of him who was separate from his brothers.’

¹⁷His glory is like a ⁱfirstborn bull,
And his horns like the ^jhorns of the wild ox;

Together with them
^kHe shall push the peoples
To the ends of the earth;
^lThey are the ten thousands of Ephraim,
And they are the thousands of Manasseh.”

¹⁸And of Zebulun he said:

^m“Rejoice, Zebulun, in your going out,
And Issachar in your tents!
¹⁹They shall ⁿcall the peoples to the mountain;
There ^othey shall offer sacrifices of righteousness;
For they shall partake of the abundance of the seas
And of treasures hidden in the sand.”

²⁰And of Gad he said:

“Blessed is he who ^penlarges Gad;
He dwells as a lion,
And tears the arm and the crown of his head.
²¹^qHe provided the first part for himself,
Because a lawgiver’s portion was reserved there.
^rHe came with the heads of the people;
He administered the justice of the LORD,
And His judgments with Israel.”

²²And of Dan he said:

“Dan is a lion’s whelp;
^sHe shall leap from Bashan.”

²³And of Naphtali he said:

“O Naphtali, ^tsatisfied with favor,
And full of the blessing of the LORD,
^uPossess the west and the south.”

²⁴And of Asher he said:

^v“Asher is most blessed of sons;
Let him be favored by his brothers,
And let him ^wdip his foot in oil.
²⁵Your sandals shall be ^xiron and bronze;
As your days, so shall your strength be.

²⁶“There is ^yno one like the God of ^zJeshurun,
^aWho rides the heavens to help you,
And in His excellency on the clouds.
²⁷The eternal God is your ^brefuge,
And underneath are the everlasting arms;
^cHe will thrust out the enemy from before you,
And will say, ‘Destroy!’
²⁸Then ^dIsrael shall dwell in safety,
^eThe fountain of Jacob ^falone,
In a land of grain and new wine;
His ^gheavens shall also drop dew.
^{29h}Happy are you, O Israel!
ⁱWho is like you, a people saved by the LORD,
^jThe shield of your help
And the sword of your majesty!
Your enemies ^kshall submit to you,
And ^lyou shall tread down their ³high places.”

Deuteronomy 34

Moses Dies on Mount Nebo

¹Then Moses went up from the plains of Moab ^ato Mount Nebo, to the top of Pisgah, which is across from Jericho. And the LORD showed him all the land of Gilead as far as Dan,

²all Naphtali and the land of Ephraim and Manasseh, all the land of Judah as far as the ¹Western Sea, ³the South, and the plain of the Valley of Jericho, ^bthe city of palm trees, as far as Zoar.

⁴Then the LORD said to him, ^c“This is the land of which I swore to give Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, saying, ‘I will give it to your descendants.’ ^dI have caused you to see it with your eyes, but you shall not cross over there.”

^{5e}So Moses the servant of the LORD died there in the land of Moab, according to the word of the LORD.

⁶And He buried him in a valley in the land of Moab, opposite Beth Peor; but ^fno one knows his grave to this day.

^{7g}Moses was one hundred and twenty years old when he died. ^hHis ²eyes were not dim nor his natural vigor ³diminished.

⁸And the children of Israel wept for Moses in the plains of Moab ⁱthirty days. So the days of weeping and mourning for Moses ended.

⁹Now Joshua the son of Nun was full of the ^jspirit of wisdom, for ^kMoses had laid his hands on him; so the children of Israel heeded him, and did as the LORD had commanded Moses.

¹⁰But since then there ^lhas not arisen in Israel a prophet like Moses, ^mwhom the LORD knew face to face,

¹¹in all ⁿthe signs and wonders which the LORD sent him to do in the land of Egypt, before Pharaoh, before all his servants, and in all his land, ¹²and by all that mighty power and all the great terror which Moses performed in the sight of all Israel.

Annotations for Deuteronomy

1:1–5 These preliminary verses connect Deuteronomy with Numbers (Num. 36:13) and give the setting.

1:1 words which Moses spoke: Most of Deuteronomy consists of Moses' explanation of God's law and His exhortation to follow it. The reference to Moses and to all Israel is repeated in the final verse (34:12). This side of the Jordan is literally "across the Jordan." This is the land east of the Jordan, or across it from the perspective of the land of Canaan (3:8, 20, 25; 4:41; 11:30). The plain is probably the region north of Moab.

The Five Major Longitudinal Zones of Israel

Go to the List of In-Text Maps

1:2 eleven days: A journey that might have taken Israel less than two weeks to complete lasted 40 years because of unbelief and disobedience (Num. 13; 14). Horeb is a name for Mt. Sinai (4:10, 15;

Ex. 3:1), where the Lord revealed His glory, gave His law, and made a covenant with Israel. Kadesh Barnea, an oasis in the Negev, 50 miles southwest of Beersheba, figured prominently in the story of the wilderness wandering (Num. 13; 14).

1:3 fortieth year: In early Israel, dates were given with reference to the Exodus from Egypt. Hence, this is 40 years after the Exodus. It had taken Israel about a year to arrive at Kadesh Barnea from Mt. Horeb and another year to reach the place where Moses was addressing them in this passage. The 38 years between had been spent wandering in the desert—God’s punishment for their disobedience. The eleventh month would correspond to January-February. Moses spoke . . . commandments: The Law (Torah) of God was mediated through His servant Moses.

1:4 These victories under Moses’ leadership (2:26–37; Num. 21:21–35) opened up the conquest of the land from the east. They were a foretaste of the victories God would give the Israelites under Joshua’s leadership. The Israelites celebrated these initial victories as having great significance in the history of redemption (see 2:26–36; 3:1–11; 4:46–49; Josh. 2:10; 9:10; 12:2–6; 13:10–12; Ps. 135:11; 136:19, 20).

1:5 The Hebrew word translated law basically means “instruction.” It is God’s gracious teaching to the Israelites on the right way for them to live (see 6:1–3; Ps. 19). Deuteronomy is the exposition and application of the Law of God revealed at Mt. Sinai.

1:6 The LORD our God is an emphatic reference to the divine revelation at Mt. Sinai. Moses reminded Israel that God had revealed His glory, made His covenant with them, and assured them of His presence.

1:7, 8 Turn . . . and go refers to the departure for the Promised Land. The extent of God’s gift was enormous, even as the people were numerous. Moses emphasized God’s faithfulness to His promises. The Promised Land extended from the Negev, the South (Gen. 12:9) to the River Euphrates (Gen. 15:18–21). swore to your fathers: God had promised this land to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob long ago (Gen. 15:18–21; 26:2–4; 35:10–12).

Word Studies

swore

(Heb. shaba') (1:8; Gen. 24:7; Ex. 13:5; 1 Sam. 20:3; Ps. 95:11) Strong's #7650

In Hebrew, the verb translated swore is related to the word used for the number seven. In effect, the verb means “to bind oneself fully,”—that is, “seven times.” In ancient times, oaths were considered sacred. People who made oaths to God or to others were accepting the greatest accountability. They were promising to be faithful to their word no matter what the personal cost. The OT describes God as taking an oath (Gen. 24:7; Ex. 13:5). He was not forced to do this; He did not have to swear in order to insure His own compliance with His word. Instead, He made an oath so that His people would be assured that His promises were completely trustworthy.

1:9 I alone: Moses felt inadequate to take care of all aspects of leadership himself because the people were so numerous (Ex. 18:13–26).

1:10, 11 multiplied . . . stars of heaven Moses' rhetoric celebrates God's faithfulness in fulfilling His word to Abraham (Gen. 15:5; 22:17). your God . . . the LORD God of your fathers: God is the God of the patriarchs, but also the God of their descendants. This language indicates that the patriarchs still live; it is not that He was their God, but that He is their God! bless you: Moses prayed that God's promises would be even more dramatically fulfilled. a thousand times: The Lord had greatly blessed Israel in numbers (Ex. 1:1–7); His blessing in their past was to be a measure of His blessing in their future.

1:13 wise . . . knowledgeable: The qualities of the leaders reflect attributes of God. Wisdom refers to the ability to bring harmony even when great differences exist. Understanding refers to the ability to penetrate the realities of life from God's perspective and to deal fairly with all parties in a dispute. Knowledge is the broad experience gained by living life, by watching people, and by making correct choices based on God's word.

1:14–16 Agreement with the counsel of the Lord is truly a good thing! heads: A number of men were charged with the administrative, judicial, and military tasks of creating unity among the people. Some of them were also called judges.

1:17, 18 not show partiality: God demanded absolute fairness regardless of age or social status. all the things: God's instruction was comprehensive. It covered all aspects of life.

1:19 Great and terrible wilderness describes the Israelites' journey by using two words for one idea, that of “a truly horrible wilderness.”

1:20 The Amorites were one of the groups Israel encountered in their approach to the Promised Land. The term is often a general designation for the Canaanites, particularly those who lived in mountainous regions (Num. 13:29).

1:21 do not fear or be discouraged: Even though the future seemed uncertain, Moses exhorted the Israelites to have faith that God would take care of their needs (1:29; 3:22; 20:1, 3; 31:6, 8).

1:22 every one of you: The initiative for sending the spies out came from the people, but it was something the Lord agreed to as well (Num. 13:2).

1:24, 25 The Valley of Eshcol was a region near Hebron (Num. 13:23); it is remembered for the huge clusters of grapes the spies found there.

1:26 you would not go up, but rebelled: The present generation was not directly involved in this rebellion, but as the descendants of the rebellious generation they shared in the guilt of the disobedience of their forebears (see Ps. 78:5–8). On the other hand, they were also the inheritors of God's promises to those who had gone before.

1:27 hates us . . . to destroy us: The rebels refused to acknowledge God's clear expressions of saving love to them. They did not trust the God who had saved them from slavery and provided for their needs on numerous occasions. Instead, they charged Him with hating them.

1:28 The Anakim were an ancient people known for their great size (Num. 13:28).

1:30 goes before you . . . fight for you: The Lord would fight for His people and give them victory. in Egypt: Moses especially seems to have had the victory over the Egyptians at the Red Sea in mind (Ex. 14:1–15:19).

1:31 carried: God cared for His people and loved them as an adoring parent cares for a child (Ex. 19:4). his son: The Israelites were God's children by covenant (Is. 63:16; 64:8, 9). This image was well known in the OT period, but only rarely was God actually called "Father."

1:32 you did not believe: The people did not walk by faith, despite all that God had done in their lives. The language indicates that God could hardly believe the ingratitude and lack of obedience on the part of those to whom He had demonstrated such lavish love.

1:33 to search out: The Lord had always explored the next step for the Israelites, since He was leading them Himself. The cloud over the Most Holy Place symbolized God's presence. Whenever the cloud moved, Israel had followed the Lord (Num. 10:33–36).

1:34, 35 one . . . of this evil generation: Because of their rebellion, God excluded adults age 20 and older at that time from the blessing of the land (Num. 14:29).

1:36 Caleb was faithful (Num. 13:30–14:28). God permitted him to enter the land and receive the area of Hebron as his family estate (Josh. 15:13). He wholly followed the LORD by not wavering in his faith.

1:37 also angry with me: Even Moses, the leader of the people, was the object of God's wrath. He could not enter the land because he disobeyed God by striking the rock at Meribah (see Num. 20:10–13).

1:38 God allowed Joshua to lead the Israelites into the land because of his trust in God (Num. 13:30–14:28). Before his death, Moses exhorted Joshua, encouraged him, and transferred to him the authority to lead the people into the Promised Land (3:28; 31:1–29; 34:9).

1:39 your little ones and your children: The most outrageous of Israel's complaints against God was that He had wanted their children to die (Num. 14:31). But the Lord demonstrated His love and faithfulness to His people by protecting those younger than 20 so that they could inherit the land. you say will be victims: This phrase reminds the people of the false accusations of the previous generation. no knowledge of good and evil: At that time, children less than a few years old were considered to be not yet fully responsible (Is. 7:15). By extending the age limit to 20, the Lord again showed His compassion (see Num. 14:18).

1:40 The Way of the Red Sea probably means the way toward Elath by the Red Sea (the Gulf of Aqaba).

1:41 In their statement, we have sinned, the Israelites showed regret but not true repentance. we will go up and fight: Their confidence was in themselves. They still would not follow God's commands.

1:42, 43 I am not among you: The Lord would not protect them. Therefore, victory was out of the question. presumptuously: The people were arrogant. They did not submit to the Lord.

1:44, 45 As bees do is an expression that signifies alarming pursuit by a swarm of menacing enemies (Ex. 23:28; Ps. 118:12; Is. 7:18). Hormah, a name meaning "Destruction," probably refers to a site south of the Amorite hill country by Kadesh Barnea that came to be called subsequently by that name. wept: The tears were of regret, not repentance.

2:2 the LORD spoke to me: We see regularly in Genesis through Deuteronomy that Moses reported God's very words to him.

2:4 The descendants of Esau are the Edomites (Gen. 36:1–8).

2:5 I have given . . . to Esau: God had extended His blessing to the Edomites by giving them land, just as He was about to give Israel the Promised Land. All lands are His to give and to take (Ex. 19:5; Ps. 50:12).

2:6 The Israelites could not take food or water by force, beg for it, or steal it. God demanded that they pay the expenses of their journey through Edom. The term money indicates not coinage but silver that was weighed out.

2:8 Away from Elath and Ezion Geber refers to turning away from the way of the Red Sea, on which these cities were located. The Wilderness of Moab was the area east of Moab (Num. 33:44).

2:9 The Moabites were related to the Israelites through Lot (see Gen. 19:37). Ar is a synonym for the region of Moab. The Lord had given land to both Edom and Moab. However, His principal gift of land was to Israel. (God had also made provision for the people of Ammon, v. 19.)

2:13 The Valley of the Zered was east of the Dead Sea at the border between Edom and Moab.

2:15 When God saved His people, it was by His hand (Ex. 15:6). Sadly, it was by His hand that He brought judgment on them as well. The term hand suggests God's personal involvement in both acts of deliverance and chastening. until they were consumed: The Lord is a consuming fire (Heb. 12:29), by whom the generation perished (Jude 5).

2:20 The Zamzummim were a people who lived in the Ammonite territory, possibly the Zuzim (Gen. 14:5).

2:23 The Avim lived in villages between the Jordan and the Mediterranean coast. Gaza was a Philistine city on the Mediterranean coast. The Caphtorim were a group of the tribes that came by sea to the coasts of Canaan and Egypt. Caphtor is possibly the same as Crete (see Gen. 10:14).

2:24 The River Arnon was the traditional border between Moab and Ammon. Heshbon refers both to the city and the territory ruled by Sihon.

2:25 The mighty acts of God through Israel would fill the nations with dread and fear (Ex. 15:14–16; Josh. 2:9). The deliverance of Israel from Egypt and God's subsequent acts of protection were known abroad. The fear of the nations would soften them for the time of conquest. But the dissemination of knowledge about God's works would glorify Him (4:6).

2:26 The Wilderness of Kedemoth was a desert within the territory of Sihon, located on its eastern border, east of the Dead Sea. words of peace: Israel made an offer of peaceful passage (vv. 27–29).

2:31, 32 Jahaz was located north of Kedemoth (Is. 15:4).

2:33 our God delivered . . . we defeated him: God gave Israel the victory, but the Israelites still had to fight courageously.

2:34, 35 By the law of the ban, every living thing, human and animal, was to be utterly destroyed—that is, put to death (7:1, 2; 20:17). Exceptions could be made, but only when permitted by the Lord. In this case, the Israelites took livestock and property as spoil. The ban included fighting men and civilians, males and females, adults and children. God used the people of Israel to punish the Canaanites for their continual wickedness through the generations. Further, the destruction of the Canaanites was designed to protect Israel from following the Canaanites' evil practices. Israel's failure to destroy all of the Canaanites in the subsequent conquests led finally to their own undoing.

2:36, 37 Aroer was a city on the northern bank of the River Arnon at the border between Sihon's territory and the Moabite kingdom. Gilead was the northern boundary of Sihon's kingdom. Jabbok was the river Jacob crossed on his way back to Canaan (Gen. 32:22).

3:1–3 Bashan was the region east of the Sea of Galilee. Og: The territory of Og may have extended south of the River Yarmuk into Gilead. The account of the victory over Og is similar to that of Sihon (2:26–37), but significantly shorter.

- 3:8 The territory of Sihon and Og extended from the River Arnon to Mount Hermon (2:24–3:7). Mount Hermon is the mountain range in the north between Canaan and Lebanon.
- 3:9–11 The Sidonians were the Phoenicians. Salcah was a city located at the eastern border of Bashan. Bedstead could also be translated “sarcophagus,” that is, stone coffin. Rabbah was on the site of the capital of modern Jordan, Amman. Nine cubits is about 13 feet, and four cubits is about 6 feet, according to the standard cubit (about 18 inches).
- 3:14 Jair had captured these settlements (Num. 32:41). The Geshurites lived east of the Sea of Galilee and south of Mt. Hermon. The Maachathites were descended from Abraham’s brother Nahor (Gen. 22:24) and lived north of the Geshurites.
- 3:15–17 The northernmost section of Gilead was given to Machir (Num. 32:39), son of Manasseh (Gen. 50:23). The southern section was given to Reuben and Gad. Chinnereth is another name for the Sea of Galilee.
- 3:18, 19 The Lord . . . has given: The text regularly emphasizes that the land was God’s gift (1:39). men of valor: Women, children, and animals were not to be put in danger during the conquest. The battle would be fought by armed men under the command of God (Ex. 15:3).
- 3:21 Joshua, as one of the original spies (Num. 13; 14), had a great advantage. Along with Caleb, he had seen the land, had spied it out, and would be able to use his knowledge to prepare his military strategy. Joshua also had witnessed the victories the Lord had given east of the Jordan. Those experiences encouraged him when he led the Israelites across the river.
- 3:22 your God Himself fights: The Lord is the Divine Warrior who delivers and fights for His faithful people (Ex. 15:3).
- 3:23 Moses pleaded with God. But God refused to answer Moses’ prayer, not because Moses lacked faith, but because Moses had disobeyed God and had not treated Him as holy (Num. 20:12).
- 3:24 O Lord GOD: The Hebrew has the word for “Lord” or “Master” followed by the personal name of God, Yahweh. This phrase indicates the depth of Moses’ relationship with the Lord (9:26). what god is there . . . mighty deeds: Moses began his prayer with praise for God’s holiness and power (Ex. 15:11). God is incomparable; there is none like Him (Is. 40:25, 26).
- 3:25 let me cross over: The verb is charged with energy expressing Moses’ deep emotion. Moses did not ask that Joshua be removed as leader of the nation. He merely requested to see the land that God had promised. The good land is a lovely expression for the land that God had promised His people (4:21).
- 3:26–28 Enough: God ordered Moses not to ask Him about it again. But God showed His mercy to Moses by showing him the land from a distance (34:1–3). Moses was not to wallow in self-pity, but was to encourage Joshua as his replacement in leading the Israelites.
- 3:29 Beth Peor was a pagan site dedicated to Baal of Peor (Num. 25:3, 5) and was the scene of Israel’s first disastrous encounter with the sexually-centered worship of Baal (4:3).
- 4:1 The exhortation to listen includes an encouragement to obey (5:1; 6:3, 4; 9:1; 20:3; 27:9). you may live: In contrast, Moses could not enter the land (v. 22). But for the people, God’s gift of His Law was designed for their good. By obeying the Law, the people could experience a fruitful life (6:1–3).

Important Commands in Deuteronomy

The Book of Deuteronomy actually consists of three sermons preached by Moses to the Israelites on the plains of Moab just prior to their conquest of Canaan. The chart that follows examines some of the important commands in Moses' sermons.

Hebrew Verb: ra'ah

Meaning: See; observe; consider; give attention to; behold

Number of Occurrences: 10

Key Verse: "Behold, I set before you today a blessing and a curse" (11:26)

Hebrew Verb: zakar

Meaning: Remember; recall; keep in mind; think of; call to mind

Number of Occurrences: 15

Key Verse: "Remember the days of old, consider the years of many generations" (32:7)

Hebrew Verb: shamar

Meaning: Diligently keep; be on one's guard; be careful

Number of Occurrences: 15

Key Verse: "Only take heed to yourself, and diligently keep yourself, lest you forget the things your eyes have seen" (4:9)

Hebrew Verb: dabaq

Meaning: Hold fast; cling; cleave to; remain with or close to; stay near

Number of Occurrences: 7

Key Verse: "You shall fear the LORD your God; you shall serve Him, and to Him you shall hold fast, and take oaths in His name" (10:20)

Hebrew Verb: ahab'

Meaning: Love; be devoted; be committed

Number of Occurrences: 10

Key Verse: "You shall love the LORD your God with all your heart, with all your soul, and with all your strength" (6:5)

Hebrew Verb: yare'

Meaning: Fear; treat with reverence or honor; stand in awe of

Number of Occurrences: 18

Key Verse: "Oh, that they had such a heart in them that they would fear Me and always keep all My commandments" (5:29)

Hebrew Verb: abad

Meaning: Serve; work for; perform acts for as a subject

Number of Occurrences: 7

Key Verse: "You shall fear the LORD your God and serve Him, and shall take oaths in His name" (6:13)

4:2 not add . . . nor take from it: The Israelites had to learn to live by God's word without trying to justify their disobedience or explaining away God's clear commands (Rev. 22:18, 19).

4:3 Baal Peor: See 3:29. Twenty-four thousand were executed there by plague (Num. 25:9). That name reminded the Israelites of the terror of God's judgment.

4:5 Moses was the mediator of God's word, not its originator (compare 2 Pet. 1:20, 21). my God commanded me: Throughout Deuteronomy, Moses always deferred to the Lord as the source of his message.

4:6–8 in the sight of the peoples: By living in obedience to God, Israel would become a countercultural force by its manner of life, government, and society (see Rom. 12:2). God's blessings on Israel would cause the nations to seek to learn about Him. Since God was so near and had promised to respond to their prayers, the Israelites could approach the Lord with all kinds of requests. statutes . . . judgments: Living so close to God meant that the Israelites were especially obligated to live for Him, in the way revealed in His covenant with them.

4:9 Moses warned against the sin of presumption. your eyes have seen: The people had witnessed God's redemption, His revelation, and the giving of His gracious covenant. Now, they had to adhere to the covenantal regulations and teach their children the story of God's saving acts and His promises to Israel. Heart refers to the center of one's being, the source of direction for one's thoughts, actions, and speech (Matt. 12:34; 15:18, 19).

4:10 My words are the Ten Commandments (v. 13).

4:11 The appearance of God is often described as accompanied by darkness and fire (Ex. 19:18). The fire speaks of His holiness, majesty, and transcendence, but also of His judgment against evil (v. 24). The darkness speaks of His unapproachable nature, of our sin, and of the possibility of impending judgment.

4:12 heard . . . but saw no form: The Lord revealed His glory to the Israelites, but they saw no visual image other than darkness and fire. They did hear God's voice, however (v. 15). This verse reminds us that God is Spirit (John 4:24).

4:13 Obedience to God's commandments was an expression of loyalty to and love for the Lord who had initiated a covenant with Israel. The Ten Commandments were given in the form of two tablets of stone (Ex. 31:18), each containing a full and complete copy of the commandments.

4:14 teach: Moses mediated God's revelation to the people. As their teacher, he applied the Law (Ex. 20:19).

4:15, 16 There was no way of describing or of giving shape with any image to the experience of God's presence at Sinai (Ex. 20:18). Since Israel had not seen the form of God, they could not represent Him in any way. likeness of male or female: Although people were created in the likeness of God, no image created in human likeness could represent God (Gen. 1:26, 27).

4:17–19 likeness of any animal: Animals were created by God (Gen. 1:20–25). They cannot serve as a medium for spiritual awareness or as a representation for God. sun . . . host of heaven: Furthermore, heavenly bodies were created by God. They could not serve as representation of the Creator (Gen. 1:14–19; Ps. 19:1).

4:20 This verse forms a "slogan of redemption." taken you and brought you: God chose Israel to be His people and to have a covenant with Him. Iron furnace refers to the period of affliction in Egypt (Is. 48:10; Jer. 11:4). inheritance: The people redeemed by the Lord belonged to Him and had a glorious future with Him.

4:21, 22 I must die: How hard these words must have been for Moses! He had to encourage the people to enter the same land which he himself would not enter.

4:24 God is a consuming fire. He is free to destroy disobedient and rebellious people. Israel had witnessed His righteous anger during the wilderness journey as well as in Canaan (Heb. 12:29). Jealous may also be translated as "zealous." God is zealous for His holiness. Both in His wrath and in His love, the Lord remains holy.

4:25 Children and grandchildren is a reference to a future rebellion, when a generation would disobey the Lord.

evil

(Heb. ra') (4:25; Gen. 2:9; Job 1:1; Ps. 141:4; Jer. 3:5; 4:14) Strong's #7451

Evil is primarily a force that opposes God and His work of righteousness in the world (Rom. 7:8–19). The word is also used for any disturbance to the harmonious order of the universe, such as disease (Ps. 41:8). But the Bible makes it plain that even these so-called “physical evils” are the result of a far more serious moral and spiritual evil that began with the Fall of Adam and Eve in the Garden of Eden (Gen. 3). Evil comes from the hearts of people (Mark 7:20–23), but the ultimate source of evil in the world is Satan (Matt. 13:19; Luke 8:12). The Christian believer can rest assured that Jesus will triumph at the end of time, when Satan will be cast into a lake of fire and brimstone and evil will be overcome (Rev. 20:10).

4:26 Heaven and earth signifies all creation. witness against you: Creation would act as God's witness against a rebellious and obstinate people (30:19; Is. 1:2). utterly perish . . . be utterly destroyed: The curses of the covenant would overtake the Israelites (Ps. 1:6). The Lord would discipline them and exile them from the land.

4:27 Scatter you among the peoples is a prophetic warning of the exiles that would take place in 722 and 586 B.C.

4:28, 29 Moses warned against the folly of idolatry. Neither see . . . nor smell declares the impotence of idols (see Ps. 115:6; Is. 40:19, 20; 41:7, 22–24). These “gods” were not merely lesser gods. They did not exist at all; they were dead. Hence turning from the living God to false, nonexistent “gods” was in effect moving from life to death (1 Thess. 1:9, 10). But seeking the living God and Him alone brought life.

4:30 All these things refers to the curses of the covenant. The latter days simply means “in the future.” But the prophets developed this phrase into a more technical designation for a new era characterized by God's blessings, the age of Messiah. turn to the LORD: God would bless the nation when they returned to Him.

4:31 merciful God: The future of God's people depends on God's love. The emphasis on God's mercy in this verse is a necessary balance to the emphasis that Moses placed on God's refining wrath (v. 24). not forsake . . . nor forget: The Lord was free to scatter His people. But after His discipline, He would regather them and show them His favor. God was and is faithful to His promises. The covenant of your fathers is God's solemn commitment to fulfill the promises He made to the patriarchs (Gen. 17:6–8; 22:16, 17; Ex. 3:15–17).

4:32–34 The Creator of all the earth is the same God who spoke to the Israelites at Mt. Sinai. By trials . . . and by great terrors, the Creator had demonstrated His power in Egypt and had used it to save the Israelites.

4:35 there is none other besides Him: Moses emphasizes the theme that the living God is the only one there is (see 4:39; 5:7; 6:4; 32:39).

4:36 God's revelation to the Israelites was intended to graciously instruct, guide, and discipline the Israelites in the way of righteousness (compare 2 Tim. 3:16, 17).

4:38 nations greater and mightier: The Scriptures have two different ways of regarding the size of the nation of Israel at the time of the Exodus. God is praised for the miraculous growth of Israel's family during their sojourn in Egypt (Ex. 1:7, 9, 10). On the other hand, the nation of Israel is described as small in number compared to the other nations around her. Hence, God deserves the glory for Israel's victories.

4:39 God in heaven . . . there is no other: Since no other God was Creator, Lord of history, Teacher, and the Lover of His people, Israel had to respond to God alone.

4:40 The promise of blessing in the land was conditional—it required obedience (5:29; 6:24; 14:23; 19:9; 28:29, 33).

4:41–43 The regulations concerning the cities to which a person guilty of manslaughter could flee are further developed in 19:1–13. The narrative concerning the division of the land (3:12–20) resumes with the appointment of the three cities of refuge east of the Jordan (Num. 35:9–28; Josh. 20). Ramoth was located between the Yarmuk and the Jabbok in Gilead. The locations of Bezer and Golan are uncertain.

4:44 The law refers to the commandments detailed in chs. 5–26. Law basically means “instruction.” God points out the path of righteousness for His covenant people.

4:45 These are . . . the judgments: This law is the same as that given to the previous generation at Mt. Sinai. Deuteronomy is a second delivery of the Law to those who would occupy the land.

4:46–49 in the land of Sihon . . . of Og: Israel had recently acquired this land east of the Jordan and was now preparing to cross the river and enter Canaan.

Word Studies

statutes

(Heb. choq) (5:1; Ex. 18:16) Strong's #2706

The word conveys a variety of meanings in the OT, including: a “portion” or “ration” of food (Gen. 47:22); the “boundary” or “limit” of the sea (Prov. 8:29); and an “allotment” of the sacrifices for the priests (Lev. 10:13). This term is derived from a verb that means “to decree,” or “to inscribe” (Prov. 8:15; Is. 10:1; 49:16). The term often refers to commands, civil enactments, legal prescriptions, and ritual laws decreed by someone in authority—whether by humans (Mic. 6:16) or by God Himself (6:1). The Law of Moses includes commandments (miswah), judgments (mispah), and statutes (choq) (4:1, 2). Israel was charged to obey God’s statutes, and they had pledged to do so (26:16, 17). Accordingly, God’s judgment was meted out against the Israelites when they disobeyed them (Amos 2:4; Ezek. 11:12; Mal. 3:7).

5:3, 4 Did not make this covenant with our fathers, but with us emphasizes the privileged position of the present generation as they were preparing to enter Canaan. Face to face indicates intimacy. Moses stressed the special relationship the people had with the living God.

5:5 I stood between the Lord and you reflects Moses’ role as mediator of the covenant (Ex. 20:18–21).

5:7 no other gods: Many ancient Middle Eastern cultures absorbed other gods into their own belief systems, modifying and using these new gods for their own purposes. But the Israelites were unique: They served only one God, who would not allow any rivals.

5:8–10 Even when an image functioned as a symbol for deity, it led worshipers away from the true worship of the living God. visiting the iniquity: God would discipline the sinner. to the third and fourth generations: Even as God would bless generation upon generation for their true worship of Him, He would also punish generation upon generation for faithlessness to Him. Mercy to thousands refers to thousands of generations in contrast to the three and four generations that would be punished. The comparison between four and thousands is a proportional measurement of God’s mercy. His grace is far more expansive than His wrath.

5:11 Take . . . in vain refers to the abuse, misuse, blasphemy, cursing, or manipulation of the Lord’s name. No wonder the ancient Israelites developed the practice of not pronouncing the sacred name aloud. Yet God delights in those who love and respect His name.

5:12–15 These verses contain the positive command to regard the Sabbath as holy—separated for God’s purposes. as . . . commanded you: The Lord did so at Mt. Sinai (Ex. 20:8–11). the Sabbath of the LORD: The primary significance of the Sabbath was that it belonged to the Lord. you shall do no work . . . rest: On this Lord’s day, the Israelites were to rest from work and celebrate God’s good gifts. remember that you were a slave: The Israelites were to remember Israel’s past oppression and celebrate their current freedom. Christians differ as to how this commandment relates to believers in Jesus Christ. The Sabbath was Saturday, the seventh day of the week. Christians generally worship God on Sunday, the first day of the week, because it was on a Sunday that the Lord rose from the dead. Even so, Christians follow the principle of this command.

A Day of Rest

When God “rested on the seventh day from all His work which He had done” (Gen. 2:2), He was modeling for humanity His intention for a weekly day of rest. Clearly He did this for the sake of Adam and Eve (and for us), because God Himself does not tire or need to “rest,” as people do. In what sense, then, did He “rest” from His labors, and in what sense should we “rest” from ours?

The term Sabbath has the root meaning of “cessation.” On the seventh day God ceased His work of creating the world (Ex. 20:8–11). However, He did not cease His work of sustaining and maintaining the world (Ps. 145:15, 16; Col. 1:17). This distinction helps to clarify the significance of the Sabbath, a day which God set aside (or sanctified) and blessed. His clear intention was that people would emulate Him by pausing from their labors—the exercise of their dominion over the creation (Gen. 1:28–31)—for one day out of seven.

Was this day of “rest” given merely as a day off? No, one of the most important purposes of the Sabbath was to provide a day for believers to worship and focus on God, as individuals and communities (Is. 58:13, 14). It is not that we are free to ignore God on the other six days; every day belongs to Him. But by designating one day as a special opportunity to come before the Lord, we demonstrate our dependence on Him as Creator and our obedience to Him as Lord.

This means that the Sabbath—or in NT times, the Lord’s Day—was not intended simply as a “day off” to catch up on chores or pursue leisure activities. Not that these are wrong, but the point of the day is to “stir up love and good works, not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together, as is the manner of some, but exhorting one another” (Heb. 10:24, 25).

There is an obvious tension here regarding how we should treat the Lord’s Day as a Christian Sabbath. In deciding the issue, it is worth remembering that Jesus pointed out that God established a day of rest for the sake of people, not the other way around (Mark 2:27). Sabbath observance is not to become a legalistic obligation. In fact, conditions occasionally require work on the Sabbath: an ox can get stuck in a ditch, and must be gotten out (Luke 14:5). Likewise, human beings have basic needs even on Sundays. Of course, the spirit of Sabbath observance implies that we should take steps to prevent finding ourselves routinely stuck in the ditch with the ox on the Sabbath, and that we use our abilities on the other six days to meet the needs of people.

When God rested on the seventh day and set it aside, He did not intend to turn Sabbath-keeping into a strangling rule. The Sabbath was meant to provide true freedom—freedom from turning work into tyranny, and freedom to enjoy fellowship with God, our neighbors, and our loved ones.

5:16 Honor your father and your mother: Respect for parents would build strong families. Strong, godly families, in turn, would teach children the ways of God, and the covenant community dedicated to serving and worshiping God would remain intact. The benefits of respecting one’s parents would be long life and success.

5:17 Premeditated murder was the concern of this law. For commands concerning other forms of homicide, see chs. 19–21. The basis of respect for life lay in God’s act of creating humans in His image (Gen. 9:6).

5:18 Adultery was a betrayal not only of a commitment, but of a relationship. Anyone who treated marriage lightly would also treat his or her relationship with God lightly.

5:19 not steal: Stealing could take many forms: illegitimate removal of property, kidnapping, manipulation of a person and his property to one’s advantage, and so on.

5:20 not bear false witness: This included any testimony that falsely incriminated someone or negatively affected someone’s reputation, such as gossip and slander.

5:21 You shall not covet: The only command that specifically prohibited an attitude. Desiring what someone else possessed was self-interestedness. This attitude was the opposite of a concern for the other person’s welfare. The Law can be summed up in the last and first commandments: A person must truly love God and truly be concerned for his or her neighbor (compare Mark 12:28–31).

5:22 He wrote them on two tablets: The two tablets were two complete copies of the Law. Usually, two copies were made of ancient Middle Eastern treaties. One was retained by each of the two contracting parties as a witness to the agreement. But with the Ten Commandments, both copies were placed before God. Not only did the Lord covenant with the Israelites, He also witnessed the agreement.

5:23–31 Because of their rebellious and sinful nature, the Israelites feared God’s holy presence and were unprepared to face Him. Subsequently, they asked Moses to serve as their spokesman before the Lord, and God approved their request. Moses became the mediator of the covenant between God and His people. He not only communicated God’s ways to the people, but he begged God to show His mercy to them.

5:25, 26 why should we die . . . living God: The Israelites’ fear was necessary. The people needed to realize that the living God was powerful, great, and demanded perfection, so that they as sinners would recognize their need for His mercy.

5:27 we will hear and do it: God’s awe-inspiring revelation of Himself prompted the people to express their willingness to comply with the Lord’s commands. However, their steadfastness to their promise would be tested.

5:29 The people were impressed with what they saw and heard, but their heart was unchanged.

5:32, 33 in all the ways . . . God has commanded you: Out of all the nations, God had chosen Israel to be instructed in His law. But the real test of the distinctiveness of these people was their response to God’s revelation. and that it may be well with you, and that you may prolong your days: These promises, attached to the fifth commandment, were applicable to all of the commandments.

6:1 The commandment refers to the instruction to love the Lord (v. 5). commanded to teach you: Moses was God’s instrument in giving His law to Israel (5:22, 23). It was not really “the Law of Moses” but the Law of God.

6:2 The fear of the Lord includes awe for His greatness and holiness, love for Him, and submission to His will. Initially, the fear of God may involve fright. Yet it leads to a sense of wonder, a commitment to worship, and delight in knowing God. you . . . and your grandson: Since God promised to bless generation after generation (Gen. 17:7, 8), He expected His people to follow His ways from generation to generation as well.

6:3 that it may be well with you: God instructed His people so they might live good lives full of meaning and peace. They would live in His glorious presence. A land flowing with milk and honey indicates a fruitful and blessed land (11:9; 26:9, 15; 27:3; 31:20). The land promised to the Israelites was better than the land of Egypt to which they had wanted to return (Num. 16:12–14).

6:4 This verse is the celebrated Shema, the basic confession of faith in Judaism (see Matt. 22:37, 38; Mark 12:29, 30; Luke 10:27). Hear: The Hebrew word is shemà. The verse starts with a command for the people to respond properly to God. They must listen and obey. The LORD our God indicates the people’s relationship with the living God. He had come into the lives of His people; it was not that they had ascended to Him. He had saved them from slavery in Egypt, guided them through the wilderness, and given them His instructions. Further, He was about to give them His land. The LORD is one means “the Lord alone.” There is only one God.

Bible Times & Culture Notes

The Mezuzah

The mezuzah is a small case containing a parchment which contains the text of 6:4–9 and 11:13–21. Even today each mezuzah parchment is carefully written by qualified scribes, using the same strict procedures they use in writing the laws. It is then tightly rolled and placed in its case so that the word shaddai (“Almighty”) appears through a small hole near the top. A special prayer is read when the mezuzah is attached near the top of the right-hand doorpost. Though the popularity of the mezuzah has diminished in recent years, many Jews still kiss the mezuzah by touching their lips with their fingers and raising the fingers to a mezuzah when entering or leaving the home. At the same time, they recite Ps. 121:8, “The LORD shall preserve your going out and your coming in from this time forth, and even forevermore.”

A mezuzah on a doorframe in Israel

- 6:5 Moses repeatedly exhorted the Israelites to respond to God's love with devotion. In this context, the word translated as love may mean "to make one's choice in." God commanded His people to choose Him with all their being, and in the process to deny all other supposed deities.
- 6:7 talk of them when you sit . . . and when you rise up: God's revelation should be so central to a godly family that they should naturally talk about Him while they perform other activities.
- 6:8, 9 a sign . . . frontlets: In later years the Jews interpreted these instructions in a physical way. They instructed men to wear phylacteries, boxes containing passages of Scripture, when they prayed (Matt. 23:5). In any case the idea is that God's laws should be close to the mind and hands of His people at all times (compare Ex. 13:9, 16; Prov. 3:3; 6:21). write them on the doorposts: Jewish custom is to attach a small vessel called a mezuzah to the doorpost. In it is placed a small scroll containing the text of Deut. 6:4–9; 11:13–21 and God's name Shaddai.
- 6:10–12 Moses warned the people not to forget that their possessions were God's gifts. God had not only saved their ancestors from slavery, but He had also given them a good land. The Israelites needed continually to praise and thank God for His mercy toward them.
- 6:13–15 serve: The Lord demanded absolute commitment to Himself. Out of gratitude, the people were to do this willingly. oaths in His name: The fact that God had revealed His name assures the people of God's goodness to them. He wanted them to look to Him alone for refuge and sustenance. Jesus quoted this text when Satan was tempting Him (Matt. 4:10).
- 6:16–19 God may test His children, but they may never test or tempt Him by their rebelliousness or sin (see Matt. 4:7; Luke 4:12). For the incident at Massah, see Ex. 17:1–7. keep . . . do what is right and good: Moses applied a lesson from the past and exhorted the new generation to be faithful to God (4:1, 5; 5:29; 6:1). to cast out all your enemies: Canaan's false worship and its immorality could no longer influence the Israelites if the Canaanites were entirely thrown out of the land.
- 6:20–24 your son asks: Moses commanded the Israelites to teach their children the significance of their ritual. In the same way, Christians should make sure their children know the meaning of their practices. The answer to the Israelite child's question would include four components: (1) We were slaves . . . in Egypt; (2) the LORD brought us out . . . with a mighty hand; (3) to give us the land; and (4) we have a challenge to responsible action.
- 6:25 Moses did not offer the people a works righteousness by keeping the law. Righteousness is a right relationship with God. God initiates this relationship, and His children respond to it as an expression of love.
- 7:1 The Hittites came originally from Asia Minor (see Gen. 23:10). The Gergashites are an unknown people mentioned also in Gen. 10:16 and 1 Chr. 1:14. The Amorites were the native population of Canaan that had settled in the mountains. The Canaanites were the native population that had settled in the coastlands. The Perizzites were the native population that had settled in the hill country. The Hivites were the native population settled south of the Lebanon mountains. The Jebusites (perhaps an offshoot of the Hittites) were the native population settled near what later became Jerusalem.
- 7:2 Covenant refers to any treaty with the Canaanite nations that might undermine God's covenant with Israel.

- 7:3 Intermarriage with the Canaanite population would have tempted the Israelites to adopt Canaanite culture. This would have threatened Israel's ability to be a countercultural force. They were not to "blend in." Similarly, the Christian church is called to demonstrate God's love to the world like sheep in the midst of wolves (Matt. 10:6; Rom. 12:2; Phil. 2:14–16; 1 Pet. 2:9).
- 7:5 destroy . . . break down: The destruction of idolatrous sites was meant to keep the Israelites from imitating and borrowing false pagan practices (12:2; 16:21, 22).
- 7:7 The Israelites had no reason for pride, for they were the least of all peoples. Whatever privileges or possessions they enjoyed were due to God's grace.
- 7:8 The biblical authors verbally paint a wonderful picture of God: the powerful God extending His mighty hand to save His people.
- 7:9, 10 faithful God . . . for a thousand generations: Throughout all time, God has remained true to His commitment made to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob. He is a faithful God (Ex. 20:6; Heb. 13:5). love Him and keep His commandments: Loving God always finds expression in doing His will. The Lord is a God of justice. He will repay those who rebel against Him.
- 7:13–16 bless the fruit . . . increase: God's blessings extended to the quality of life, with the assurance of children, health, food, drink, and peace.
- 7:16 The people's immediate responsibility was to destroy the Canaanites' wicked presence and influence in the land (2:34).
- 7:17–19 you shall remember: The past saving acts of God demonstrated His nature and power. The people were to remember the details of His actions so that they could face the present moment in the light of eternity.
- 7:20, 21 The hornet (Ex. 23:28; Josh. 24:12) may refer to a dramatic act of God, such as a violent storm or a plague of insects. It may refer to campaigns by other armies that weakened the Canaanites before the Israelites arrived. Since the great and awesome God made the nations fear, why then should His own people be terrified (Ex. 15:14; Josh. 2:10, 11)? God was on their side and was even among them!
- 7:22 little by little: The conquest of the land was in two stages: (1) a rapid, broad conquest under Joshua; (2) a gradual, area-by-area, city-by-city conquest that followed. God's plan was that not all of the Promised Land would fall to Israel at once. Indeed, much of the land remained to be conquered after Joshua (Josh. 13:1–6).
- 8:1 Live, in this context, has the same meaning as saving one's soul in James 1:21; 5:20.
- 8:2 remember: Reflecting on the past acts of God encouraged loyalty and devotion to Him. forty years . . . to humble you and test: The Lord taught Israel to rely on Him alone during the wilderness journey. know what was in your heart: The response to God's testings helped determine the people's inner nature.
- 8:3 God supplied His people with food in the wilderness (see Ex. 16) so that they would learn that man shall not live by bread alone. Humans have a spiritual nature that can be satisfied only by the spiritual nutrients of God's Word. man lives by every word . . . from the mouth of the LORD: Jesus affirmed this truth by using these words to resist Satan (Matt. 4:4; Luke 4:1–4).
- 8:4 In addition to providing manna and water, the Lord made the clothing and shoes of the people last for 40 years!
- 8:7–9 The land had everything necessary to sustain life and develop an economy: water, crops, and metals for industry (11:8–12). The various water sources contrasted with the Nile, the only source of water the people knew in Egypt (11:10). The varied forms of plant life were surprising to the people who came from the wilderness.

8:10–14 bless the LORD: The proper response to plenty is thanksgiving and worship. It is Jewish custom to pray after certain festive meals because of the phrase when you have eaten and are full. In the absence of proper worship, people would forget, become complacent and greedy, and even deny that God provided for them (v. 17). your heart is lifted up: In the enjoyment of God's blessings, the people to their own detriment might think that they were self-sufficient.

8:14–16 God who brought . . . who led you . . . who brought water . . . who fed: These four historical allusions recall (1) the redemption from Egypt, (2) the presence of God in the wilderness,

- (3) the provision of water, and (4) the provision of manna. humble . . . test: Through the whole experience in Egypt and the wilderness, the Lord was leading His children into decisions that would bring out their true nature. to do you good in the end: Difficult as the tests were, the Lord was a good teacher because He had the future of His people in mind.
- 8:17 Moses warned the people that prosperity and wealth often leads to an exaltation of self and a rejection of God.
- 8:18 God's power is different from human manipulation, power politics, competition, and other ways of getting ahead. God gives grace.
- 8:19, 20 The threat was that the people would perish in the same manner as the nations whom they had come to drive out.
- 9:1–3 Hear, O Israel: Moses called on the people to see the future occupation of the land as a gift of divine grace, not the result of any righteousness of their own. The future was open to them if only they could learn from the past. understand today: wisdom from above begins with a confession of dependence on the Lord.
- 9:4–6 possess their land: The reasons for the conquest of the Promised Land were (1) the immorality of its inhabitants and (2) the promises God made to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob (Gen. 15:18–21). stiff-necked people: Israel's history demonstrated how often the people grumbled, complained, and disobeyed. Moses hoped they would not forget their unworthiness before God, or think that they deserved His gracious gifts (vv. 7–14).
- 9:7 In addition to remembering the grace of God, the people also had to remember how vulnerable they were to apostasy (1:6–3:29). rebellious: The people were characteristically stubborn. They continued to test the Lord (v. 27).
- 9:9 A person cannot go more than about three days without water and survive. God supernaturally preserved Moses during the forty days.
- 9:10 the Lord delivered to me . . . finger of God: God initiated the covenant with His people and gave Moses His laws. With God's approval, Moses taught the Law to the people.
- 9:19 the Lord listened to me: For Moses' prayer, see vv. 26–29. Daniel's prayer for the nation resembles Moses' intercession (Dan. 9:3–23).
- 9:22, 23 See Num. 11; 13.
- 9:25–29 Moses took God's judgment seriously. Nevertheless, he did not resign himself to God's justice, but appealed to God's faithfulness, mercy, and honor. He reminded God of (1) His redemption of the Israelites from slavery, (2) His promises, (3) His reputation among all the nations, and (4) His election of Israel.
- 10:2 I will write: The condescension of the Lord is almost beyond belief. He prepared the tablets a second time, even after the first set was broken.
- 10:3 The acacia tree is still found in the Sinai Peninsula, but in smaller numbers than when the Israelites passed through.
- 10:4 He wrote . . . according to the first writing: The Lord did not add to or take away from the commandments.
- 10:6–9 Levi: The responsibilities of the Levites included: (1) care for the ark (Num. 3); (2) service in offering, worship, teaching, and legal matters (18:1–8); and (3) blessing Israel (Num. 6:22–27). The phrase to this day suggests that this explanation was written after Moses' death.
- 10:14, 15 heaven and the highest heavens: The sky and the whole universe belong to God. love . . . chose: The Creator sovereignly and graciously involved Himself with Abraham and his descendants.
- 10:16 circumcise the foreskin of your heart: Circumcision was a physical sign of the covenant; faith and repentance were spiritual signs. Since the Canaanite worship system involved sexual excess, the distinctive sign on the body of the male Hebrew would be a significant reminder not to participate in the rituals of the Canaanites. But circumcision was to be done within as well as without. Marking the body as a sign of dedication to the Lord is unimportant unless there is a change of heart. The covenant administered by Moses required a spiritual change (30:6).

10:17, 18 Moses proclaims that the God of Israel alone is God, the sovereign Lord, the just and great King of all. The proper response to this God is awe, love, and service. fatherless . . . stranger: God uses His power to uphold justice—especially for those who have no powerful ally (1:16; 24:17–22). food and clothing: God freely gives to all who are needy—even as He did to Israel in the wilderness (8:3, 4).

10:19 God’s good provision for their own needs should have motivated the Israelites to love the stranger among them. To love and provide for the disadvantaged was in fact following God’s example.

10:21 He is your praise: Reflecting on the Creator-Redeemer—whose love, justice, and power extended beyond the covenant people—leads to worship, love, and obedience.

10:22 stars of heaven: God faithfully fulfilled His promise to Abraham (Gen. 15:5, 6).

11:2–7 Moses traced the mighty acts of God in order to encourage his hearers to respond to God’s revelation. Acts and words go together, as do obedience and love.

11:6 Dathan and Abiram rebelled against Aaron’s priesthood and lost their lives (Num. 16).
